NEWSBRIEFS

Cut hand gives suspect away

WINCHESTER — Morrisburg OPP, investigating a broken window at Morrisburg's Liquor Control Board outlet August 8, found their suspect after noticing blood was left at the crime scene. The investigating officer contacted Winchester District Memorial Hospital, and was told a man was being treated for a cut to the hand. Gerald Chatter, of Morrisburg, has been charged with breaking and entering. Chatter underwent surgery to repair a damaged tendon in his hand.

Good samaritan returns loose cash

IROQUOIS — A Matilda Township woman did a good deed recently when she saw money blowing around in the wind while driving on Dundas Street in Iroquois, Morrisburg OPP said. Ivy Gill collected the money, which totalled more than $300, and returned it to its owner, who had notified the Royal Bank branch of the loss.

Star struck

MORRISBURG — Interested in the mysteries of the evening sky? The Royal Astronomical Society is hosting a Star Gazing program at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary August 27 at 7:30 p.m. Visitors, with the assistance of society members and telescopes, will be able to view the starry sky, as well as learn astronomy techniques. Admission is $2.35, and children four and under are admitted free.

Zoning meeting rescheduled

CHESTERVILLE — A special meeting of Chesterville council for a final review of the village's Official Plan and Zoning Bylaw updates has been bumped back a week to Wednesday, August 24, 7 p.m. in the council chambers. Members of the public are invited to attend and contribute any additional input or discussion before adoption by council.

No strike here

CHESTERVILLE — The big leaguers are off the job, but there's no shortage of baseball in Chesterville next week. The CJOH TV Special Effects are coming to the Chesterville ball diamond Monday August 22 at 7 p.m. The zany team will entertain against a team of Chesterville 'celebrities.' Proceeds from the game, organized by Chesterville's Carnival Committee, will go toward the playground equipment fund.

Berwick driver faces charges

MOUNTAIN TWP. — A Berwick man was charged with impaired driving August 13 after being stopped by officers from the Winchester OPP detachment at 9:20 p.m. on County Road 3 in Mountain Township. Jeremy Logtens, 20, of Berwick, has been charged with operating a motor vehicle with a blood alcohol level over the legal limit. He is scheduled to appear September 20 at the provincial courthouse in Morrisburg.

Special to the Record

Robert L. Harrop lived a life of firsts. He was the first station master at the Chesterville train station and the first Noble Grand of the village's Oddfellows Lodge.

But the American-born Harrop's most lasting contribution to the village — and the reason many will remember his name — is in your hands right now.

Harrop founded and published the first edition of The Chesterville Record 100 years ago. Well, almost 100 years ago. Volume 1, Number 1, hit the unpaved streets of the village on December 12, 1894. Today's banner welcomes the first edition of Volume 100. Confused? Perhaps a bit of explaining is in order here.

As the Record enters its second century, it also enters its 101st year. And, in a perfect world, the paper published during the second week of December, 1994, should be Vol. 101, No. 1. Somewhere along the way — and it's difficult to pinpoint exactly when — the numbering of issues took a turn toward imperfection.

During the 1930s, No. 1 of a given volume of The Record appears in October. Over the past decade or so, it appears in August. Seems we "lost" an entire volume somewhere over the last 100 years, which we'll attribute to human error.

Regardless of how you count it, nearly 5,200 issues of The Record and an entire century have come and gone since the station master watched the first copies roll off the presses. And what a century it's been.

Reviewing the first 100 years of The Record provides not only a history of Chesterville, but a history of 20th Century society. The paper has chronicled the life of the village against a backdrop of two world wars, 16 prime ministers, two queens, four kings, a trip to the moon, a scientific explosion, the fall of communism and the rise of the information superhighway.

But even in the context of these great changes, the events of the village and the people who lived here never seemed small on the pages of The Record.

As we celebrate a hundred years, we're really celebrating a hundred years of the people and events that helped shape The Record, the characters and stories that have given rise to millions of words and thousands of pictures.

Inside this week's paper is a special 40-page centennial edition that helps us do just that.

You may remember some of the stories, others you may have only heard about. Many of the faces and names will be familiar ones. It's a trip through the past with an eye on the future.

We only hope you have as much fun looking back as we did.

Water, sewer rates trickle up

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — Village residents and businesses will dig a little deeper into their pockets for water and sewer services.

The village is expected to pass a bylaw August 24 that applies a $1-across-the-board increase to both water and sewer rates, meaning an extra $2 per month for users, or an extra $4 per bi-monthly bill.

And despite the modest increases, Chesterville's water services are still a good deal, says Reeve Jim Cook, noting the village's water and sewer rates are 25 per cent below the provincial average.

Water rates for village residences will rise from $11.50 to $12.50 per month. Residences with swimming pools will pay $15.50 per month.

Stores, small offices, churches and barber shops will pay $15 per month. Hairdressers, restaurants and garages will pay $20 per month, hotels with beverage or dining rooms $26 per month and schools, establishments with laundy facilities or car washes $43 per month.

Sewage service rates also rise $1 across the board. Residences will pay $17.50, while stores, small offices, churches, barbershops and pool halls will pay $19.50 per month.

Garages, restaurants and cleaning establishments will pay $27.50 monthly, hotels $36.50 and schools, establishments with laundry facilities and or car washes $61.50 per month.

Residents of Winchester Township whose homes are connected to the village system are charged 1.5 times the rates set out for village residents.

Cook said the village has been gradually increasing water and sewer rates by about $1 a year to make up for shortfalls in the cost of providing the services.

"We're trying to make it so the water and sewer are self-supporting," Cook says.

"They are not self-supporting at the moment and we are trying to generate funds to cover the shortfall. We've been gradually bumping them up."

The long-awaited blue boxes for recycling finally hit the streets of Chesterville, Winchester and Winchester Township last week. Ivan Armstrong, holding the blue box and Doug Froats, picked up the environmentally friendly containers in Chesterville Thursday morning. Landfill manager Dave Sloane said participation in the program's inaugural run was excellent.

Dump site meeting scheduled

Plans for Roxborough peat moss plant to be discussed with province

Mike Aiken
Record Staff

MOOSE CREEK — A proposed 200-acre dump site in Roxborough Township will be the focus of talks between council members, Browning-Ferris Industries and the province's new Environmental Commissioner this week.

Roxborough Reeve Carson Payne says it could be an opportunity to expand the township's flourishing peat moss business, since some waste material can be used to make peat moss.

"We'd like to have that here, because there'll be lots of spinoffs, such as jobs and taxes," said Payne. The dump would be located close to the intersection of Hwy. 138 and 417, on an extension of the Allair Road.

The reeve said the Cornwall-area dump site currently used by Domtar is nearing capacity and the waste pulp material could be used to make peat.

Andre La Fleche of Moose Creek initially proposed the idea close to 10 years ago, but has since sold the property for the dump site to Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI), while retaining the rights to the peat.

Last year, he extracted about a half-million 35 litre bags from the area, Payne said.

BFI spokesman Harold Richardson says the company's main interest isn't the peat business, but operating a site that can handle 200,000 tonnes of garbage a year.

The site would include enough capacity to compost more than the 50,000 tonnes a year identified in a recent needs assessment study, Richardson says.

The company operates more than 100 sites in Canada and the US, the closest in Lachenaie near Montreal, he said, adding the Moose Creek site was not necessarily going to be developed.

As a part of the province's environmental assessment process, other sites fitting established criteria must be considered, but Richardson said no other sites had yet been identified.

Input from the public will be sought before the project is approved, Richardson added.

BFI is also talking with the Ministry of Natural Resources about restrictions imposed by the government's wetlands policy.

CNIB raises goal to $30,000

Dundas County responded to call for help with $29,000 in 1993

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — When it comes to helping the blind and visually impaired, Dundas County has always been ready to give.

And local campaign organizers and canvassers are hoping that trend continues, as they gear up for their door-to-door campaign for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind (CNIB) throughout September.

About 800 people in eastern Ontario use the CNIB's range of services, including 105 in Dundas County alone. As that number increases yearly so does the need for the public's help.

"There is a misconception out there that the CNIB is an agency that is (completely) government-funded," says district manager Terry Brouillet, who was in Chesterville Monday to meet with Dundas campaign chair Olive Cass.

"In fact, a very small portion of the funding we get is from the government."

About 12 per cent of the CNIB's funds come from the government. Service clubs and other groups make contributions, and the rest comes from the door-to-door campaign.

Last September, Dundas County residents gave about $29,000, including $6,310 in Chesterville. The goal for Dundas this year is $30,000.

Cass says that in the 20 years she has been involved the campaign, people have given more each year despite a poor economy of late.

Last year, 19 new clients in Dundas County asked the CNIB for help through services.

Across SD&G and Prescott-Russell, the CNIB helps about 800, a number that has almost doubled since 1989.

"With the increase in the number of people who are coming to us for services, it seems that the need for funds gets more critical," Brouillet says.

Brouillet says only about 10 per cent of those who seek the CNIB's help are without any sight. Most are senoirs whose vision has diminished with age.

There are eight campaign areas in Dundas County, each with a campaign chairman. Graham Barkley, who chairs Chesterville's effort, says the organization of the canvassers is crucial to a successful campaign.

Brouillet says that Dundas has one of the best door-to-door campaigns in the country.

"It has to do as much, I think, with the generosity of the people in Dundas as the organization of the volunteers in Dundas."

The CNIB offers various types of service to the blind or viually impaired, including rehabilitation, to help those affected learn to do the things they used to do in a new and slightly different way.

Also offered are orientation, or using a white cane effectively, and low-visibility services such as need assessment and reccommendation of technical aids.

If you would like information on the CNIB's services for the blind and visually impaired, call 936-2300. If you would like to volunteer as a canvasser for the Dundas campaign, call Olive Cass at 448-2674.

Bike path waiting for funding

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — Tourism in Osnabruck Township could get a boost if a government grant for a new bike path is approved.

The township is working in co-operation with the St. Lawrence Parks Commission to build a key link for the Five Counties Recreational Trail.

"We think bicycles are going to be a good source of recreation in the future," said the chairman of the Osnabruck's recreation committee, Councillor Oscar Ouderkirk.

More than 53,000 cyclists are expected to use the bike paths in the Five Counties trail system within five years of its completion, according to estimates prepared by McNeely-Tunnock consulting engineers.

An estimated return of $6.8 million is expected as a spinoff from tourism after an initial investment of $2 million.

No routes have been chosen, but an abandonned railway corridor has been considered, said Ouderkirk.

Osnabruck Township council approved the concept July 11 and expects a reply from grant proposal within a month.

When the trail was proposed in February, St. Lawrence Parks Commission chairman Gary Clarke had recommended a viable bike path along the St. Lawrence to compete with safer American routes.

Cook said the goal should be achieved in another year or two, but noted the timing would depend on the systems' annual operating costs.

The increases, if passed as expected, will show up on the July-August bills to be issued at the end of August.

Clerk Howard Smith said council has discussed introducing water meters for village buildings, and said it's something that is likely to occur in the future.

"At some point we're probably going to be forced to go that route, if not by choice, by the (Ministry of the Environment) or (Ontario Clean Water Agency)."

Corrections

The barbecue for CHEO featured the front page of last week's Record should have stated that the event was organized by Greg's Quality Meats owner Greg VanDellen, his wife Lorraine and their staff. And in a story about Osnabruck Township building fees, a quotation regarding welfare recipients and consultants was incorrectly attributed to Reeve Gordon Ross. The statement was in fact made by councillor Heine Bruining. The Record aplogizes for the errors and any inconvenience caused.

Area ambulance drivers praise rural numbering system

Mike Aiken
Record Staff

An ambulance with lights flashing speeds down the highway to a call.

But unsure of the exact location of the caller, the driver has to backtrack, wasting valuable time.

Before the system was introduced about a year ago, drivers were flying blind, says Brian Chisamore, supervisor of the Finch ambulance station.

"We were looking for names on mailboxes or people waving at us," he said.

On stormy nights in winter, it can be impossible to see names on the mailboxes from the road, so the drivers would have to drive into the laneway and brush away the snow to see if they had the right house, he said.

Address numbers are now posted at the road side in bright numbers, colored according to the township.

The Finch ambulance station answers about 125 calls a year and time is a factor.

"It may take us five minutes to find and that five minutes is very important if a person has stopped breathing or is bleeding heavily," says ambulance driver John Rathier.

He tells the story of a child who had to be rushed to CHEO by air ambulance. Fortunately the dispatcher had the rural address number and township to response was very quick.

People always think they'll be calm when they call, but that's not always true, he says.

"The biggest thing is for people to post the number on their phone," he says. "There are still a few people who call who don't know it."

Rathier remembers racing down the Grantley Road, which runs both east-west and north-south looking for a patient. The new address numbers will not only tell him if he's close by, but also if he's heading in the right direction, since they are categorized by direction.

> "The biggest thing is for people to post the number on their phone. There are still a few people who call who don't know it."
> Ambulance driver John Rathier
> On the importance of rural numbering

His partner, Claude Meloche, said it was very confusing trying to follow people's directions before rural addressing. New to the area, he wasn't familiar with people's homes or local landmarks.

Residents who haven't received a number yet should contact their township office so that one can be assigned.

"We can't do anything until we know where you are," says Chisamore. "That's why the rural numbers are so helpful."

He remembers getting several calls about a car accident on County Road 14 between Finch and Ingleside.

Fortunately a caller had given a house number close to the scene of the accident and the drivers were able to pin it down quickly.

The United Counties have supplied ambulance drivers and dispatchers with a master copy of address numbers by township. A caller only has to give the address number and township to assure a quick response by drivers. The rural address is a necessary first step towards the introduction of a basic 911 service in the United Counties. Bell Canada is also working with county officials to input all addresses on a 911 service that will provide access to all emergency services through a single number.

Ambulance services can be reached through a single toll-free number in Cornwall, 1-800-363-3015, but the new 911 could join the United Counties to the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton.

Chesterville area residents currently have separate numbers to dial for police, fire and amublance services, with the numbers changing depending on which township you live in.

Finch, Roxborough, Winchester and Williamsburg Townships currently operate their own fire departments, along with Ingleside, Newington, Morrisburg, Chesterville and Winchester.

These departments and their dispatching services will all have to be co-ordinated under the new system, but United Counties Warden Charles Sangster says it will be worth it.

"I think ratepayers and citizens of the United Counties want this and we want to do it as quickly as we can," he said.

The system will cost residents about 32 cents a month, but will also be a scaled-down version of the Ottawa-Carleton's enhanced service.

In Ottawa, if a person dials 911 the number is locked into the system, which provides a street address for the dispatcher even if the person can't talk.

It also helps screen crank calls, since the person's name and address appears along with a hard copy to identify the callers.

The basic service simply joins different emergency services on one phone number for dispatching. While rural numbering made it possible for emergency crews to find people once they call, 911 will make it easier to make the call.

Finch ambulance drivers Claude Meloche and John Rathier both agree that rural numbering has made their jobs a lot easier. Before they might have to drive up laneways during storms to read mailboxes.

A milestone, thanks to you

It's not often that a newspaper turns the proverbial spotlight 180 degrees and looks back at itself. But this week is special. We're celebrating our 100th anniversary; a century of keeping you informed.

Much has happened since 1894, when R.L. Harrop leaped headlong into the newspaper business here in Chesterville. The world has changed both locally and globally. The world is a much different place, and society has changed accordingly.

And while the business of publishing a newspaper has also changed, our primary purposes have remained much the same.

Each week, Record editors, reporters and support staff have strived to produce and deliver a varied package of information, from hard news to humor, agriculture to sports, birth notices and anniversaries to obituaries, and crime stories to stories and photographs about volunteers and donations.

Generally, our goal has been to inform and entertain you with a newspaper that is a snapshot of the week's events locally, and the names and faces of those who made a difference.

When the sum of the last 5,200 editions is added up, it's a living transcript of the area's history, a reflection of the people and voices that shaped the area's past.

For us, it's a good time to reflect on what the paper has achieved during the course of its history, the role it has played, what its reporters and editors have accomplished, what they have seen, and how they have interpreted it.

When we cut our birthday cake today, we stop and think of you; the reader, the advertiser, the local politician who was bothered for a quick quote on a frantic Tuesday, the farmer or artist who took an hour or two out of a busy day for an interview, the person who gave us a quick call to tell us something was happening outside their window.

Without all of you, and without the continued support you have shown us, there would be no Chesterville Record.

As we begin our second century, on behalf of Record staff past and present, here's to all of you. A 100th anniversary is a huge milestone for us, and we couldn't have done it without you.

OFF THE RECORD

Woodstuck back in the sixties

By Robin Morris
Rock Editor

Well, in 25 years I figure I'll be one of two or three people in North America over the age of 50 who wasn't at Woodstock '94. I figure that's an accurate prediction since I'm now one of only two or three in North America who, if you take any stock in bar conversations, wasn't at the original Three Days of Peace and Music. (Or, when in the U.S., a Green Beret up in the highlands of Nam with the Montagnards chasing Charlie back up the Ho Chi Minh Trail. But that's a story for another day.)

I think I had to work. Or I had a headache. Or I was washing my hair or something. But I do have the double record set, the cassette and the CD and the videos. All I'm missing is the eight-track, although one of my videotapes is a Beta, which is the video equivalent, so I guess in a way I've got the complete set.

What I do have from Woodstock '94 is a complete set of rules, a copy of which was given to me by an acquaintance who paid $135 to get inside the Woodstockade. (In 1969 it was six bucks a day or $18 for a three-day pass and they still had over 300,000 gate crashers.)

The following items were banned by the concert organizers:

Alcoholic beverages (No alcohol was sold onsite. "We would stock it if we could stock it but we can't, so this, Bud, isn't for you". Yeah sure. Sell 200,000 tickets for a three-day party in an 840-acre open field and expect no one to drink. I think not. Even Generation X can party if they're far enough away from home.)

Weapons, firearms, knives, axes and hatchets. Sounds reasonable. Remember, this was in the States and who wanted a replay of that other memorable 1969 concert, Altamont? Ponder this, too: Sharon Tate and the Lobiancas were murdered by the Manson Family in early August, 1969.

Pots and pans, lanterns, stoves and grills and perishable food items. There were supposed to be 900 food and drink stands and you can bet they didn't want anybody cutting into their profit. Remember the original Woodstock and those local goobers who tried to sell their over-priced hamburgers only to have their stand trashed and the slack taken up by Wavy Gravy - he of the goofy Tom Mix-style cowboy hat and missing front teeth - of the Hog Farm, who announced that peanut butter and jelly sandwiches would be delivered so that breakfast in bed could be served to 350,000?

Glass or metal containers. Sounds reasonable if you're trying to ban beer from the site.

No pets except seeing-eye dogs. Does this mean Charlie Brown would have to leave Woodstock at home?

Video cameras and tape recorders. The organizers are going to flog this one on CD, in the theatres and on videotape and they wouldn't have anyone cut into their take. Tickets also contained a waiver giving promoters permission to use the images of concert- goers in subsequent broadcasts.

Cash couldn't be used at any of the 900 food booths. It was to be exchanged for Woodstock Money, the only negotiable currency along with credit cards at the concession stands, although ATMs were located throughout the site for the convenience of concert-goers who could then purchase their own Wadstock of concert scrip for over-priced T-shirts and other Woodstock Notions from concessionaires who Wouldstick it to you if given half a chance.

Just like the original event on Max Yasgur's farm, the heavens opened up and turned the concert area into the world's largest mosh-pit but the Floodstock album won't contain a No Rain chant since the Coke cans providing percussive acompaniment in 1969 had been banned from the site. Can you imagine the sound of 700,000 drink boxes being slammed together? Perfect accompaniment for rap.

The rain turned many of the parking lots, located as much as 15 miles away, into quagmires and locals were more than willing to pull out vehicles that were Woodstuck for as much as $100. And talk about parking: the Yuppies were out in such force that the number of Volvos and Saabs made Saugerties look like Woodstockholm.

Although there were some bimbos running around topless political correctness seemed to be the order of the day, so that if a chick dumped her dude, the rejection was not accompanied by such inappropriate behavior as Woodstalking.

The concert line-up didn't include the Beach-boys, who didn't sing Two Girls for Every Guy thus depriving 1994 of the chance to give birth to a Woodstock Gender Ration. And 1976 Olympic decathlon gold-medallist Bruce Jenner wasn't there selling Wheaties, denying concert-goers the opportunity to dine out on a Woodstock Jenner Ration. (Okay, okay, I'll leave that one alone.)

But more than 150,000 managed to crash the gates - many smuggled in by locals, who had passes to use the roads around the festival site - re-kindling the spirit of 69 and carrying in beer in such quantities that concert organizers tried unsuccessfully to ban the sale of alcohol in stores in and around Saugerties.

So will I be there for the 50th? Chances are that in 2019 I'll be living in a retirement trailer camp in central Florida, dining out on stories about being there in 69 and flashing my copy of a Concert Goer's Guide to Woodstock 94 and greasing up the walker for a return to Bethel. And did I ever tell you about the time we chased Charlie back up the Ho Chi Minh Trail...

THE FARMER'S WIFE

By Wyn Thompson

Our love affair with dogs began the day we married. The Farmer had a dog named Tootsie, who after serious reflection following our wedding, finally accepted me. She, like all our dogs, lived to a ripe old age, and loved us well.

About twenty years ago, we lost a very special friend, a German Shepherd named Nipper. When Nipper died we had lost our youthful acceptance of loss and stated flatly, "No more dogs, it is simply too traumatic to lose them."

A week went by...a friend telephoned that a spoodle had wandered on to their town property. Their son was enamored of it, but having two cats they simply could not keep it.

I stated our position. Another week went by and the little six-year-old called, "Would you stop by on your way to the cottage and see how nice Lady (he named her) is?"

We did.

Glossy black, with brown soulful eyes, and the happiest grin, this wiggly morsel suddenly flew to the Farmer and looked up with extreme admiration as if to say, "You were a long time coming."

"It's out of the question," we said.

"My mother won't let me keep her," was the mournful reply, "she says tomorrow morning we will have to take her to the vet."

Well, we continued on to the cottage with a black spoodle sitting as close to the Farmer as was humanly possible. She never left his heels and she rode in front of him on the lawn mower while he cut the grass.

Monday morning, she went to the vet for a medical. "She is a female spayed spoodle, an unusual breed of spaniel and poodle mix, one to one and one-half years old, and in excellent condition."

"Why would a dog like that be wandering around?" I asked.

"May have escaped from a car, slipped her collar, any number of reasons, although it is unusual to find one who has been operated on, and no doubt vaccinated. At any rate, you have found yourself a beautifully groomed, well-tempered, non-shedding little animal. I'm going to vaccinate her again just to be on the safe side," he concluded.

Lady, and she did live up to her name, spent two nights in her bed in the garage until we were assured she was house-broken, then her bed was moved into the family room.

There she happily spent all her nights except when we travelled and, of course, she travelled with us. During the day she had the run of the house and the farm, never damaging or destroying a thing. The Farmer let her out for a last walk-a- bout at ten o'clock each evening, just before he retired.

Lady rode the tractor with the Farmer from early morning till late night, rode the snowmobile, delighted in the boat and canoe, the car and the camper. She was his constant companion and never came in unless he did.

Lady was a veteran traveller and could hardly contain herself when we started packing the trailer. She travelled up north, down east, and the Eastern seaboard of the USA to the tip of Florida.

We know that a dog will adjust to almost anything and we do not think everyone needs to make dog members of the family with equal privileges, as we do, but we feel dogs should have good food and water, and a little affection.

Lady had a lot of affection and in the end, any relationship we have in this short lifetime depends on what we give to it. On the whole, dogs will put up with more abuse than people. "To him who hath, shall be given" might mean to him who has kindness and love, shall be given back in good measure.

And what is given back, as far as dogs are concerned, and Lady in particular, is an undying devotion, an unassailable loyalty, a trust that nothing can destroy.

We have noticed that it is nearly impossible to make a dog disbelieve in you. And isn't this grand, for you know yourself you have many failings, but not to your dog. To your dog, you are perfect. Your cat may mean-mouth you, but never your dog.

Some of us don't require complete admiration, but most of us like the continuing admiration of the dog we belong to.

If on occasion Lady found us doing very silly things, such as leaving her behind when we kept a day-long appointment, she would watch us go down the lane then trot off to the barn, to return immediately when she heard our car entering the gate, to admire us no end for coming home. Oh, happy day, there you are back, you wonderful things.

After all, we all get enough criticism in our own little world, and the stresses of the frightening time we live in do not tend to make people noncritical. We have become jumpy, and even if we are not talking about the world situation, we are thinking about it.

Some dog experts say a dog lives entirely in the present. I don't believe this, but it is true a dog savors the moment with no fear that it might be his last. Would that we all could cultivate this.

Lady savored the moment and at any time stated in her own way, "My, I'm happy."

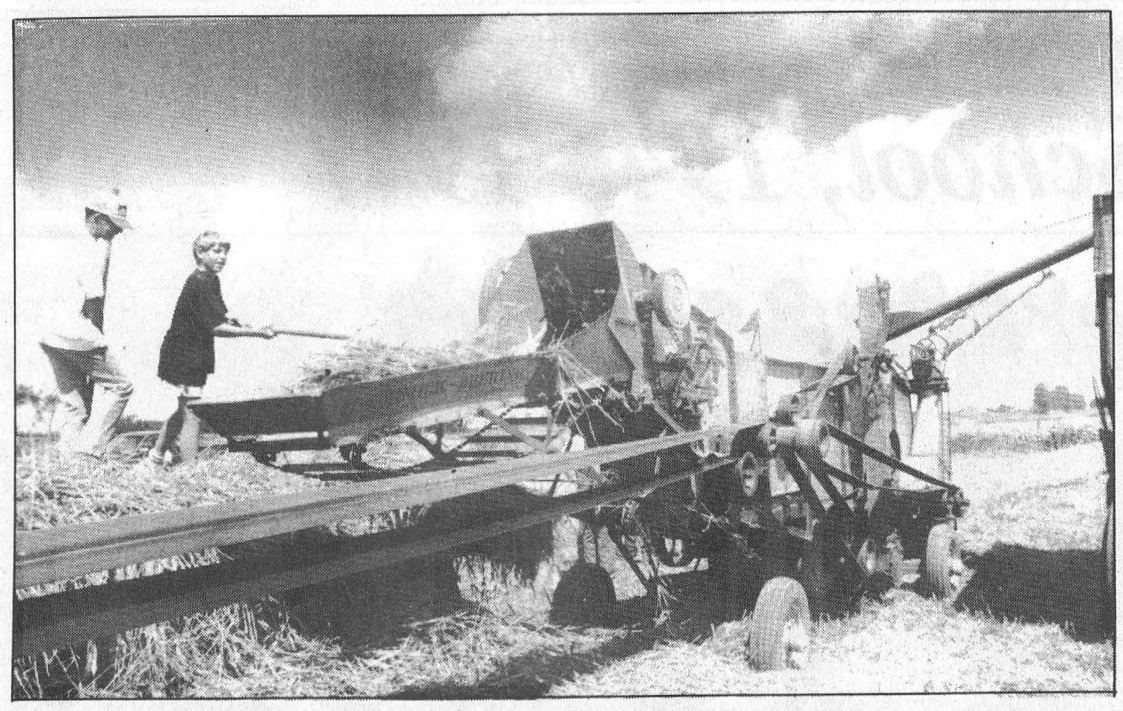
Then came a year of faltering health and much medication and many trips to the vet. We knew the time of parting with our friend of twenty years was close at hand, yet she still made her morning trip to the barn and to the gate for the newspaper.

One night her suffering was very evident, yet she attempted in the morning to go for the paper with the Farmer, as usual. He brought her back, laid her on her bed and called the vet who had always looked after her.

The Farmer and the grandkids buried her on July 18 under the butternut tree she passed each morning on her way to the barn. On a large stone from the farm gravel pit that has been there several years, we inscribed her name.

Friends sent us a card with the message, "On the passing of "A Lady"...who gave so much and received much in return." Indeed!

There is a presence missing in our home but no, there will not be another dog.



A good old-fashioned thrashing

This 1940s McCormick - Deering hay thrasher proved it's still in running condition last Thursday at the Winters farm on Hunters Road in Osnabruck Township. Cory and Peter Winters, in the photo, fed the machine its ration of hay, which was blown into a neat pile nearby. The thrasher is owned by Lyn Winters, who said he used it "just for fun."

Maintain bench, council decides

CHESTERVILLE — The infamous bench at Water and King streets should be repaired and returned "as quickly as possible" whenever damaged, council told operations manager Peter Shahen last week.

The so-called "Fulton bench," a popular hangout for local youths, was returned to the spot Friday after being in the village's shop for about two weeks with a broken board.

In his report to council last Wednesday, Shahen asked whether it is worthwhile to keep fixing the bench when it suffers damage.

Council responded that in the absence of that bench, youths congregated in other areas of the village, which has caused some problems.

"I suggest that it go back and go back as quickly as possible."

- Chesterville Reeve Jim Cook on damaged "Fulton" bench

In the absence of the Fulton bench, youths congregated at another bench on Main Street outside the Seaway Valley Pharmacy, disturbing tenants in a nearby residence owned by councillor Martin Derks. Also, a picnic table in the park was destroyed.

"I suggest that it go back and go back as quickly as possible," Reeve Jim Cook said, adding that the King Street bench is intended for the convenience of the entire village.

Councillor Roger Cole noted that not of all of the village's youths should be painted with the same brush, and Derks noted that vandalism has always happened in Chesterville, and likely always will.

Deputy-Reeve Shirley Coons added that newspapers from other centres in eastern Ontario also carry reports of vandalism.

Music echoes through streets of Upper Canada Village

MORRISBURG - It was like really being back in the 1860s.

Gravel roads, horse-drawn buggies, a one room school house and people playing their banjos and harmonicas on their front porch to pass the day away as well as entertain anyone that would stop and take a listen.

Upper Canada Village hosted its second annual Folkfest this past weekend. Despite the unfavourable weather conditions attendance was a little less than the organizers anticipated.

"The weather didn't detour from the concerts but it might have detoured people from coming down," explained marketing officer Kim McLennan.

Along with the regualr attractions of Upper Canada Village the Folkfest offered something extra for the music lover.

"With a growing interest and greater attention paid to music, the Folkfest, once a year, provides an enjoyable experience for our regular customers," said co-ordinator of Interpretation and Special Programs, Harry Pietersma.

Folk music is no longer strictly defined as was apparent by the different types of musical entertainment offered by the festival.

The big attraction at this year's festival was The McGarrigles.

"We (Upper Canada Village) define folk music very loosely. It's folk, traditional and celtic," Pietersma explained.

Folk music is music which is produced by original settlers but also by those who continue the tradition, Pietersma noted.

Folk music was already a popular regular feature in the village.

"It (Folkfest) evolved naturally from an attempt on our part to draw a significant number of people to this area," Pietersma said.

Folkfest turned quiet Upper Canada Village into a busy and melodious venue Saturday.

Sign maker to donate work to village

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — A sign of goodwill will soon grace Chesterville's park.

As a demonstration model for an upcoming trade fair in Chesterville, Crysler-area sign maker Sheldon Shane is building a Victorian-style, red cedar sign for the Park. And when the fair is over, Shane plans to donate the sign to the village.

Shane says he is going to try a new sandblasting technique on the sign, and said he thought the park was an ideal place for a new sign.

The cedar is being brought in from western Ontario, and the sign will be three-by-six feet, and two inches thick.

The sign will be made in an "Old Victorian style," Shane says. "It will be a nice sign when it's done. It'll be a fancy one."

The sign will be on display at the trade fair in Chesterville early next month.

Reeve Jim Cook called the donation a "good news item" when he told council of Shane's gift last week.

Council suggested that "Chesterville Community Park" was the most appropraite wording for the sign.

LETTERS

War Amps respond to "attack" letter

To the editor:

It seems necessary that I respond to the attack upon the War Amps and its employees, including myself, by Mr. Gordon Moat of July 27, 1994, concerning the "turban" issue.

To set the record straight, the comment concerning the "Jewish" lawyer was contained in a letter written by a former member of our staff who worked for several years under the direct suprevision of Mr. Moat's wife when she was employed at our National Headquarters. I had nothing to do with the letter!

In another area, Mr. Moat has presumably forgotten that our financial statement showed, for 1993, a surplus of $213,938 (not the "$3 million to $4 million" he implies in his letter).

If the Chesterville Record wishes to continue to participate in Mr. Moat's "vendetta," may I suggest that the editor come to our office where I will be pleased to show him the results of investigations launched by Mr. Moat with Revenue Canada, the Better Business Bureau and our own auditors. If Mr. Moat was looking for evidence of the slightest impropriety, he certainly did not find it in their reports.

In fairness to your readers, you deserve to have the full story and we shall certainly provide it.

Yours sincerely,
H. Clifford Chadderton, OC, O.Ont., DCL, LLD
CEO, War Amputations of Canada

Local landowners' groups discuss strategy before weekend conference

Mike Aiken
Record Staff

OSGOODE — Members of the Morewood Esker Landowners Association met with the Association of Rural Property owners last week to discuss common strategy before a provincial conference this weekend in Peterborough.

Last Wednesday night, about 90 residents in Moose Creek area joined with 500 in Ottawa-Carleton to protest the provincial government's wetlands policy statement. ARPO has about 3,000 members across the province.

"We see that it's going to fall under the same category of land-use planning," said Denis St. Pierre, a founding member of the Morewood Esker Landowners Association.

Since wetlands act as a recharge areas for eskers and other sources of underground water, it was only natural for the tow groups to join, said ARPO spokesman Leonard Perkins.

"I feel sorry for a young couple buying property these days," Perkins said. "They just don't know what they're getting into."

Both groups are protesting the re-zoning or reclassification of private land through the Planning Act, official plans or zoning by-laws without proper notification or proper compensation.

Changes to the Planning Act policy guidelines can be made by provincial cabinet ministers and are legally binding, even without the approval of the legislature.

Morewood-area residents are concerned well head protection schemes recommended by consultants for Winchester's new municipal well will mean restrictions to farming practices. They recently received the support of the Dundas Federation of Agriculture, while the Ontario Federation of Agriculture has committed itself to studying the issue of well water rights as they relate to farming practices.

About 15 homes could be affected by well head protection schemes near Morewood, but there could be more near Crysler's municipal well.

Winchester well proponents, meanwhile, claim there would be no ill-effects on neighboring properties.

No farming practices have been affected near the Crysler well and there have not been any water quality problems, said Paul Provost, who sold the land to the municipality.

Provost also owns the land where the Village of Winchester is drilling for its new well and says it will be the same situation for the new well.

IN MEMORIAMS

IN MEMORIAM

HEHIR - In loving memory of a dear grandson, Craig James who died accidentally three years ago August 20, 1991.
Deep in our hearts your memory is kept,
To love, to cherish and never forget.
Sadly missed by Grandma and Grandpa Raymond

IN MEMORIAM

HEASLEY - In memory of my dear husband Fred, who passed away 5 years ago August 21.
Though tears in my eyes do not glisten,
And my face is not always sad.
There is never a night or a morning,
But I think of the husband I had.
Not a day could I ever forget him,
In my heart he is always here.
For I loved him and how I miss him.
Your loving wife, Olive and family

IN MEMORIAM

BEEHLER - In loving memory of a dear friend Jeff Beehler, who passed away August 16, 1991.
We can't have the old days back.
There are only memories left behind.
But you are always there in our hearts and always being thought of in our minds.
Sadly missed, Kathy and Karen Edgerton

IN MEMORIAM

CASSELMAN - In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Orval who passed away August 22, 1992.
It's lonely here without you,
We miss you more each day.
For life is not the same for us,
Since you were called away.
It broke our heart to lose you,
But you did not go alone.
For a big part of us went with you,
The day God took you home.
Lovingly remembered, Sadly missed,by wife Audrey and family

IN MEMORIAM

LAFLAMME - In loving memory of our dear father Adrien who passed away on August 18, 1993.

Your loved ones would never forget.
Chris, Marque, Damian, Jason, Michelle and families

IN MEMORIAM

BEEHLER - In loving memory of a dear grandson, and nephew, Jeff who died August 16, 1991.
You had a smile for everyone,
You had a heart of gold,
You left the sweetest memories,
This world could ever hold.
To us you were so special,
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all our hearts,
That you were here today.
Sadly missed but always remembered, Grandma Sanders,Aunts, Uncles and Cousins

IN MEMORIAM

LAFLAMME - In loving memory of my dear and loving brother Adrien, who left us on August 18, 1993.
One year ago today,
A golden heart stopped beating
Hard working hands at rest
God broke our hearts to prove to us
He only takes the best.
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
His smiling face and loving ways
A pleasure to recall
He had a kind word for each
And died beloved by all.
Love - Sylvia and Family

IN MEMORIAM

LAFLAMME - In loving memory of our son, Adrien, who left us on August 18, 1993.
Loving and kind in all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days,
Sincere and kind in heart and mind.
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
Sincerely missed by Dad and Adele

IN MEMORIAM

LAFLAMME - In loving memory of my dear husband Adrien who passed away on August 18, 1993.
I walk alone with you beside me,
I feel your touch in every breeze that blows.
I see you in the mists of dawning,
And how my heart aches no one knows.
I walk alone with you beside me,
I feel your touch in every drop of rain.
I see you in the mists of twilight,
And know you'll not return again.
Always in my mind, heart and thoughts, Margaret

ZONING BY-LAW AMENDMENT

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Williamsburg will hold a public meeting on Tuesday, September 6th, 1994, at 8:30 p.m. at the Township Municipal Building to consider a proposed zoning by-law amendment under Section 34 of the Planning Act.

Williamsburg still undefeated

WILLIAMSBURG—Undefeated Williamsburg extended their perfect record two games into the play-off season.

The South Dundas Major "A" Little League pennant- winners romped to a 14-0-0 regular season and have since bounced fourth ranked Morrisburg (4-10-0) out of the picture posting 17-6 and 14-6 victories.

Williamsburg is now waiting for the winner of the Osnabruck Center (10-6-0) and Winchester White Sox (5-7-1) series.

Winchester won the opener 3-2. The winner will meet Williamsburg in a best of five championship final.

The series opened last Tuesday with Williamsburg posting a 17-6 victory. Bobby Paradise, Matt Collins, James Morrell and Brad Casselman combined for the win allowing six runs on six hits and walks. They fanned 10 Morrisburg batters.

John Moore, Bill Henderson, Shawn Hitsman, Brad Casselman, Scott Byvelds and Parker Locke each supplied a pair of runs for the winners. Scott Barkley, Bob Paradise, Nick Hall, Jason Denio and James Morrell accounted for the others.

Adam Bessell (2), Robert Annable, Mike McCann, Mike Kirkwood and Danny Postma scored Morrisburg's runs.

Williamsburg wrapped the series up with a 14-6 decision last Friday.

Brad Casselman, Jason Denio, James Morrell, Nick Hall, Matt Collins and Bobby Paradise combined for the win and allowed six runs on 14 hits and eight walks. The pitching staff also recorded seven stirke outs.

Bill Henderson paced the Williamsburg attack scoring three times. Nick Hall, Shawn Hitsman, Brad Casselman and Scott Barkley each touched home twice. John Moore, Trent Byvelds and Jason Denio also made the circuit.

Robert Annable, Adam Bessell and Adam Legue each had a pair of runs for Morrisburg.

Deep Purple closer to championship

Women's ball hockey pennant winners 2-0 after wins over Ladies, Crushers

CHESTERVILLE—They are perfect after two play- off games and poised to take the C/WBHL's "A" Pool championship.

Deep Purple finished the regular season with a record of 12-1-1 and have defeated the Pink Ladies 2-1 and the Orange Crushers 4-1 in their first two post-season tests.

They have one more roadblock to overcome; the second-place Green Hornets. The Hornets were 9-3-2 over the regular season and have three points on a win and a 2-2 tie with the Pink Ladies. A victory in the third and final round robin match this week and the Hornets would take the "A" title.

That championship match will be played tomorrow night (Aug. 18) at 9:00pm.

The "A" Pool scores were Deep Purple 4 - Orange Crushers 1 and Green Hornets 2 - Pink Ladies 2.

The "B" Pool picture isn't as well defined. This week Fraser's Flyers defeated the Grasshoppers 3-1 and the Aqua Sooners tied the Kookaberries 2-2 which left the standings tight with the Kookaberries and Sooners tied with three points and the Flyers right there with two which leaves only the Grasshoppers out of the race.

In this week's final games the Sooners meet the Flyers and the Berries tangle with the Grasshoppers.

"A" POOL

Three first-period goals by scoring champ Deanna Corbett-White staked Deep Purple to an early lead they would never relinquish.

Corbett-White scored her first goal on a feed from Kim Merkley at 14:11. Her next marker came on an unassisted breakaway at 5:26 and her third made it 3-0 at the 3:54 mark. Kim Lefebvre and Terry Boyd set up the play.

Debbie Shaver's unassisted marker at 13:42 ruined Jackie Boulanger's shutout and cut the Orange Crushers' deficit to 3-1. But Purple struck again in period three when Lefebvre scored from Kim Merkley with 8:42 left to make it a 4-1 final.

A pair of third-period goals gave the Pink Ladies a come-from-behind, last second tie with the Green Hornets.

Hornts took the lead at 5:06 of period one when captain Kathryn Houze scored from Catie Clapp. Clapp then made it a 2-0 contest scoring from Houze and Kim McDonald at 13:31 of period two.

The Pink Ladies cracked Diane Shane's goose egg at 5:42 of the final frame when Heather Graham got them on the boards with help from Kim Moran and Cathy Little.

Ellen Thompson came through with the dramatic tying goal with just one second left to play finishing off a play started for her by Valerie Shaver and Lori Marriner.

"B" POOL

Roseanna Boersma was the hero as the Kookaberries battled the Aqua Sooners to a 2-2 draw.

Boersma scored the tying goal on a play started by Linda Klein-Swormink and Martine Thurler with just 1:38 left on the clock.

Rebecca Kennedy had cut the Sooners' lead to 2-1 when she scored from Boersma and Monique Carr at 11:38 of period two.

The Sooners grabbed the early lead on a pair of first-period goals by Sandra Beggs. Rhonda Winter and Carrie Barkley drew assists on both goals which came at 14:29 and 7:21.

Roxanne Backes (Sooners) and Connie Lannin were the opposing goalies.

Flyers' captain Amy Fraser snapped in a pair of goals leading her team to a 3-1 win over the Grasshoppers.

All three goals came in period one as Fraser scored at 12:20 from Charlene Johnston and Jill Lecuyer. Marie Shelp made it 2-0 connecting from Coreen Skuce and Joanne Fawcett at 8:30 and Fraser increased the lead to 3-0 with assistance provided by Vicki Cinnamon at the 1:24 mark.

Joanne Bourbonnais lost her shutout at 4:38 of the final frame when Marilyn Collins beat her on a shot engineered by Leslie McMillan.

NEPEAN- There were tears of joy, happiness and pain shed at this year's Ontario Summer Games.

Approximately 1,900 ameteur athletes from all over Ontario descended upon the co-hosting cities of Nepean and Kingston to compete in 14 different sporting events over four days. Two such athletes were Kelly Casselman from Elma and Winchester's Murray Link. Both gave medal earning performances.

Casselman scored 999 to give her a gold medal in the Junior Olympic archery competition.

Murray Link of Winchester clocked in at 15:51.75, behind Kevin Lec of Nepean,to recieve a silver medal in the Men's 5,000 meter run. Link also left the games with a bronze medal from the Men's 1,500 meter. His time was 4:01.09.

Women's hockey league registration

WINCHESTER—Year one was such a success the Winchester and District Women's Hockey League is growing.

Founding president Marty Little reports that two new teams will be added for the 1994- 95 season, which gets underway at the end of September.

Registration is slated for the Winchester and District Community Center on Mon., Aug. 22 and Mon., Aug. 29 both at 7:00 pm.

Anyone unable to make these two sessions is urged to call Marty Little at 774-2131 and leave a message.

Little says that with two more teams comes the need for more coaches and goalies.

"We need coaches, referees and goalies. Anyone interested in playing net should tell us at registration," he explained.

This year a player's draft will take place with the returning players being selected first and the new players second.

"It's going to be another good year so get out and register and get those skates and that equipment out of the closet."

In front of the net...

With Sandra Dillich

The boys of summer have brought autum a few months sooner than the fans would have liked this year. When the last fan left the stands and the lights on the field were turned off and the front gates locked in Oakland on August 11, it also brought the 1994 major league baseball season to a close.

The important battle among the players is no longer who hits the most homeruns or who strikes the most players out or even who wins the World Series.

The players have come together to form one large team and the game they are hoping to win is in pie-cutting. The opposing team: The owners.

The playing field has now moved from the ball diamond to the negotiation table. But the lights have been turned off and the doors locked to that venue too.

It is no suprise what the issue at hand is money. Everybody wants more. The players want an increase in salaries while the owners want to implement a salary cap in order to increase their share of the money.

This is the eighth work stoppage since 1972, and this one looks as if it will wipe out the rest of the 1994 season, including the World Series, as well as some, if not all, of the 1995 season.

In 1980, the average salary for a player was $146,500 U.S. In 1994 that sky-rocketed to $1.2 million U.S. The owners are claiming continual salary increases of this magnitude can and will threaten the economic viability of most of the 28 major league ball clubs. The owners report 12-14 clubs are already losing money.

The owners' solution to this problem is a salary cap. A cap in salaries would eliminate salary arbitration as a way of settling contractual differences. Owners also want to reduce the eligibility requirement for free agency from six years to four years of major league service.

As well,the owners want to split revenues 50-50 with the players with a $1 billion U.S total guarenteed over seven years.

This proposed deal by the owners, however, differs greatly from what the players want.

The players do not want a salary cap implemented because they believe it will restrict potential salary increases. Salary caps will also allow a transfer of billions of dollars away from the players to the owners.

Another problem players have with the owners' proposal is that it will destroy free agency. The higher priced players will be too close to the salary cap, therefore, some clubs will not be able to afford them which could inevitably leave an excellent player teamless.

The players have proposed their own game plan and the owners are not very happy with their rules. Players want to reduce the salary arbitration threshold from its current three years to two years.

They also want to increase the minimun salary from $109,000 to $175,000-$200,000. As well, the players want to eliminate any restrictions on repeat free agency within a five year span, providing a club offers arbitration.

Both sides are so far apart on these issues that not even the threat of a strike brought these two sides together for a last minute negotiation meeting.

It's the same old story: Millionaires versus billionaires in the fight to get even richer.

When young boys dreamed about playing in the major leagues did their dream ever include a player's strike over money? Whatever happened to playing for the love of the game, not the biggest paycheque?

Flyers sweep series in two straight victories

Sandra Dillich
Record Staff

In the "A" round of C/WMBHL semi final play the Frog Flyers trounced first place Jug's Top Valu Gas Bar Jokers 7-3 in the second game of a best of three series.

In the first period of action the Flyers came out shooting and dominated the the Jokers by scoring three goals.

Jeff Holmes started the Flyers' scoring streak at 11:38, assisted by Jeff Hyndman and right winger Jason Kennedy.

The second Flyer goal came at 5:27 and was scored by Todd Marcellus with a nice pass by defenceman Mike Desormeaux.

Marcellus and Desmeaux teamed up once again in the last few seconds of the first period, this time assisted by capt. Clinton Holmes.The Flyers led the Jokers 3-0 at the end of the first period.

There was little to laugh about on the Jokers bench as the second period only got worse.

The Jokers were plagued with 24 minutes in penalties throughout the game. Defenceman Ben Henry; however, spent 10 minutes of the second period in the box for a misconduct, while another eight minutes of penalties were handed out to other players for roughing. This allowed the Flyers' Jeff Holmes to easily score his second goal of the night with assistance from Marcellus and right winger Jason Kennedy.

After having two scoreless periods, the Jokers got down to business with a serious attempt at a comeback with Will O'Connor scoring two goals. O'Connor scored at 16:23 of the third with assists from Pete Vankessel and defenceman Jerrold Boulanger and again at 6:24 with help from Derek Holmes and Boulanger.

Tony Holmes got the second Jokers point at 15:33 with some assistance from Boulanger and capt. Clayton Bowman.

However, the Flyers were on a roll and could not be stopped. Jeff Hyndman had a solo goal at 10:41 while Jason Kennedy scored his second goal of the night at 4:08 with help from Desormeaux and left winger Jaime Kennedy.

Legion ties series 1-1 with Legion Blues

In round two of the Chesterville/Winchester Men's Ball Hockey League finals, the DPT Red Wings lost 2-1 to the Legion 108 Blues in the second game in a best of three series last Wednesday night.

The first period of play was scoreless.

But early in the second the Blues' Rob Raistrick easily scored against the Wings on an assist from Ray Sherrer and Gene McInnis giving the secondplace Blues the lead.

Not until the third period did the Red Wings' Ken Byers answer with the team's only goal of the night. Byers was assisted by Dave Harper.

The Blues' Jaime Whittaker retaliated six minutes later with an unassisted goal which gave the Blues the win they needed in order to stay in the playoffs.

The series between the Red Wings and the Legion 108 Blues is now tied at 1-1. The next game decides series champs.

CORNWALL- What the fans want s what the fans get, when it comes) ticket prices for the Cornwall Aces me games.

Complaints about last year's ticket ices, as well as a desire to increase endance at their games, have mpted the Aces to drop prices for 1994-95 season.

verybody was comparing us with Royals of many years ago and the r 'B' league ticket prices which and) are about $5," said com- cations and events coordinator Cresswell.

is year the average ticket price '5," he explained. Adult tickets 4, seniors, 60 years and over, dents are $8 while children 13 der are $5.
