Celebrating 80 years of 4-H accomplishment

DIXONS CORNERS — When local 4-H enthusiasts lit candles and sang "Happy Birthday" to their club at an awards night earlier this month, it was like celebrating the birthday of a family member.

In 80 years of the 4-H movement in Ontario, the youth club has formed strong connections with the community.

Mac Graham was an early member in this area, joining what was then the South Mountain Calf Club in 1946. He was also a leader for 25 years and took an almost parental satisfaction in seeing how the club transformed its young members.

"A little shy kid would start in the spring and a couple or three years later they were one of the leading lights," says Graham. "They developed into a person with confidence, a real leader in the club."

While he is no longer a leader, Graham says his involvement with 4-H has never really ended. He still gets calls about history of the club.

Basil Dawley, who joined in 1929, has a lot of history to share as well.

"I guess I'm the oldest living 4-H member in Dundas County," he says.

Boys and girls clubs were first formed in Dundas County in 1930. By 1955 they had evolved into 4-H agriculture and homemaking clubs.

Over the years club activities have come to include a broad range of skill development sessions. There is still a heavy emphasis on agricultural skills such as animal and crop management and homemaking projects such as baking, but 4-H members are also learning life skills in areas of safety awareness, leadership and money management. There are even projects that explore a member's creative side, including drama and photography workshops.

Dawley sees a lot of value in the direct experience these projects offer, and he made sure his own children got involved.

"You just can't replace the hands-on education you get working with 4-H."

In all of these activities, there is a strong emphasis on self-reliance.

Dawley recalls how this training served club members well during his days in the organization. On one trip to the Ottawa Winter Fair, the truck he was traveling in swerved on slippery roads to avoid a car, throwing competitors and their animals in a ditch. Despite this setback they made it to the fair.

"Things happen and you have to take control. You can't depend on anyone else to do it for you," says Dawley, who believes the club is very good at teaching young people to think for themselves and adapt to situations.

Adaptability is an important quality for a club serving the broad age range of 10 to 21.

Joanne Toonen, who has been a 4-H lifeskills leader for 19 years, says in every project she tries to find something to appeal to each member.

Toonen notes the organization itself is constantly evolving to include a broader range of interests and has been rising in popularity as schools offer less and less home economics instruction. She finds parents still want their children to learn these basic skills.

"They're realizing what they're missing by not having it in school," she says.

Another appealing factor is cost. Members buy some materials but there is no charge for the instruction offered by volunteers.

"It's affordable for everyone and that hasn't changed," says Toonen.

Gwynneth Shaver supervised 4-H activities for girls in the Brinston area for 30 years, starting in the 1950s. She hosted many of the project sessions at her own home and she fondly recalls Saturday afternoons with 14 or 15 girls working away at her big kitchen table.

"They were learning to do by doing, that's really what it's all about."

She says she would have enjoyed something like 4-H when she was young, but there wasn't such a thing then. Still, she was able to take part later as a leader. She says she had as much fun as the girls did.

"I'd turn around and do it all over again. I thoroughly enjoyed every bit of it."

Student's work to add pizazz to Palladium

MAPLE RIDGE — Most kids would be excited by a trip to the Palladium in Kanata, but Jack Ault will get a special thrill when he visits the new home of the Ottawa Senators in the coming year.

Earlier this week, the Grade 8 student was applying his artistic skill to one of the banners that will line Palladium Drive when the new arena opens Jan. 15. He is among 50 students in primary and secondary schools throughout the region who have been selected to paint the decorations.

Fran Farquhar, who is co-ordinating the project, sees it as an effective way of getting residents of outlying communities involved with the Palladium, particularly young people.

"They're the ones who will be going to the Palladium in the future," said Farquhar when she visited Maple Ridge Senior Public School on Monday to supervise the work.

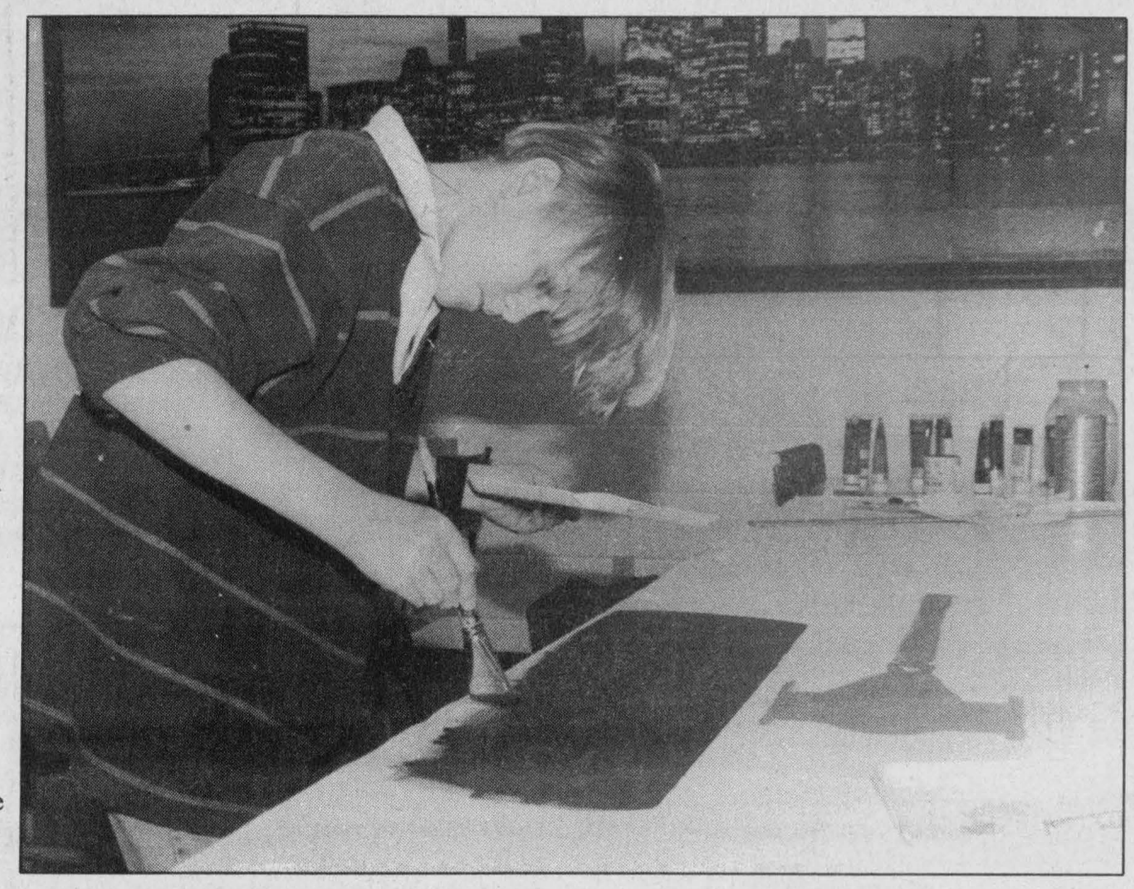

Farquhar pointed out that professional hockey isn't the only attraction that will bring visitors to the Palladium and the variety of scenes depicted in the banners reflects this.

"I have this little passion for monster trucks," confessed Jack, looking up from the 2 1/2' by 7' vinyl sheet he was working on.

As he painted on bold blocks of metal grey and teal color with broad brush strokes, one of these motorized monsters began to emerge.

The young artist also likes hockey and may take in his handiwork on his way to a game in the future.

He will have plenty of time to see his art. The durable, acrylic paintings will be hanging from lampposts along Palladium Drive for at least a year.

Fire fighting info goes down the tube

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

MOUNTAIN — Mountain Township Volunteer firefighters and the Ontario Soil and Crop Association are hoping a new pilot project will help emergency response units quickly locate detailed information about individual farms.

Mountain's fire department is one of only five township fire departments across the province taking part in the project— initiated as part of the Environmental Farm Plan program.

Under the project, volunteer firefighters are handing out reflective emergency tubes to area farmers to mount on the main hydro pole entering the farm. The tubes contain a list of instructions for farmers to make a contingency plan and map of the farm to be used in case of fire or a medical emergency.

The forms record detailed information such as location of all farm buildings, gas tanks, storage buildings and electrical breakers.

Other information on the forms includes a list of people living on the farm, livestock, location of fire extinguishers, well and water lines, as well as any potentially hazardous materials such as compressed gases, propane tanks or pesticides.

The tubes are made from a length of weather resistant PVC plastic pipe and are to be hung about eight to 10 feet off the ground.

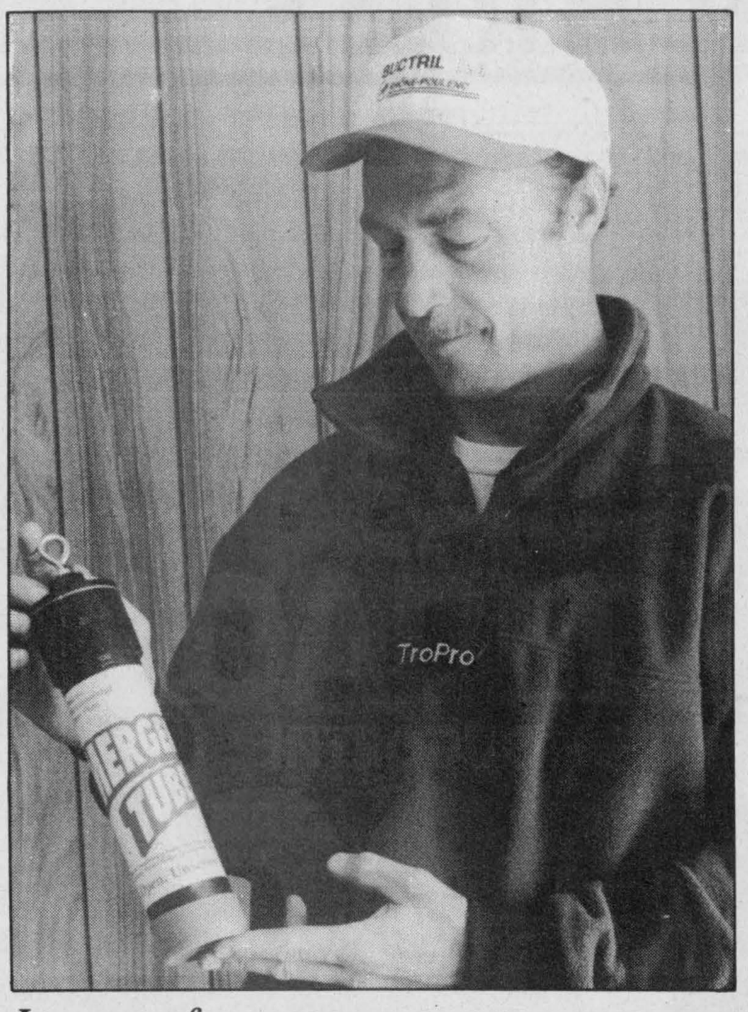

Dundas County's program representative, Dean Williams, who recruits farmers to participate in the Environmental Farm Plan says the emergency tubes have been well received by farmers. Out of all the farms visited by firefighters only one chose not to participate in the project. Insurance companies are also in favor of the project, he said.

Williams will be doing a project follow-up in about a month. In the meantime, anyone needing help to fill out the forms or mount the tubes can contact him. The Junior Farmers and 4-H groups have also offered to help with these tasks.

Mountain Township Fire Chief, Claude Brisbois says the department thinks the tubes are a great idea.

"If we have to respond to a fire, (the tube) will provide us with pertinent information... Sometimes when we go to a situation we never know what we're walking into," he said.

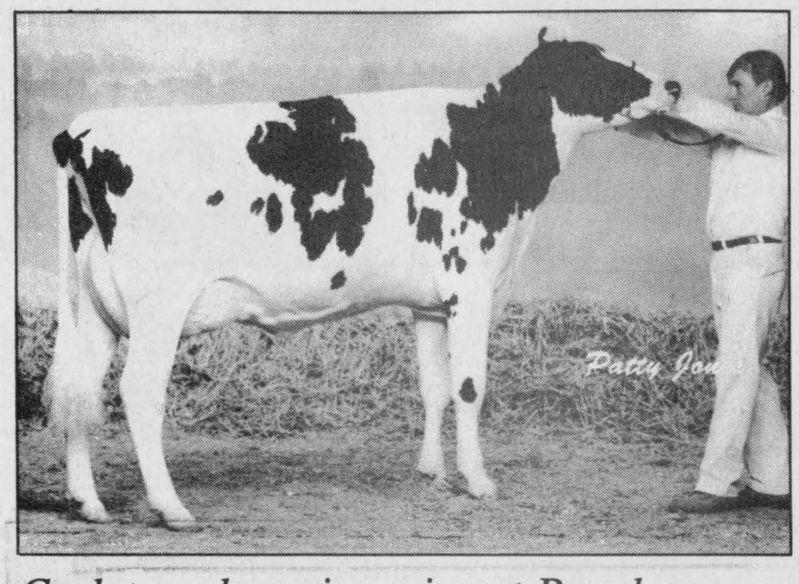

Brisbois adds that while firefighters started delivering the tubes to township farms a couple of weeks ago, response so far has been very positive.

OTTAWA — A cow consigned by Cherry Crest Holsteins of Martintown topped this year's Eastern Reflections Sale held Nov. 13 at the Aberdeen Pavilion in Ottawa.

Cherry Crest Caribbean was the sale's top seller, going for $40,000 to Three Valley Farms of Japan.

The second top selling animal was Seelby Jed Chanya, which sold for $35,000 to a British buyer. She was consigned by Gryphon Genetics and O'Connor Holsteins of Ajax.

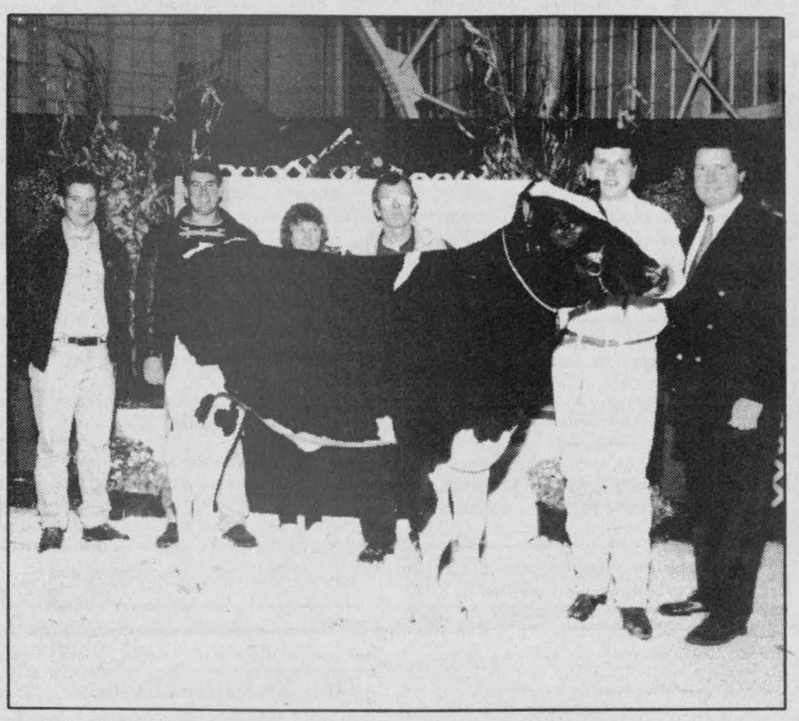

Granduc Ida Milestone, consigned by Granduc Holsteins rounded out the top three sellers. She was purchased by Tailor Made Genes of Campbellford for $25,000.

Sponsored by Eastern Breeder's Inc., the sale averaged $7,365 per head. It attracted 1,300 - 1,400 visitors from 15 countries around the world.

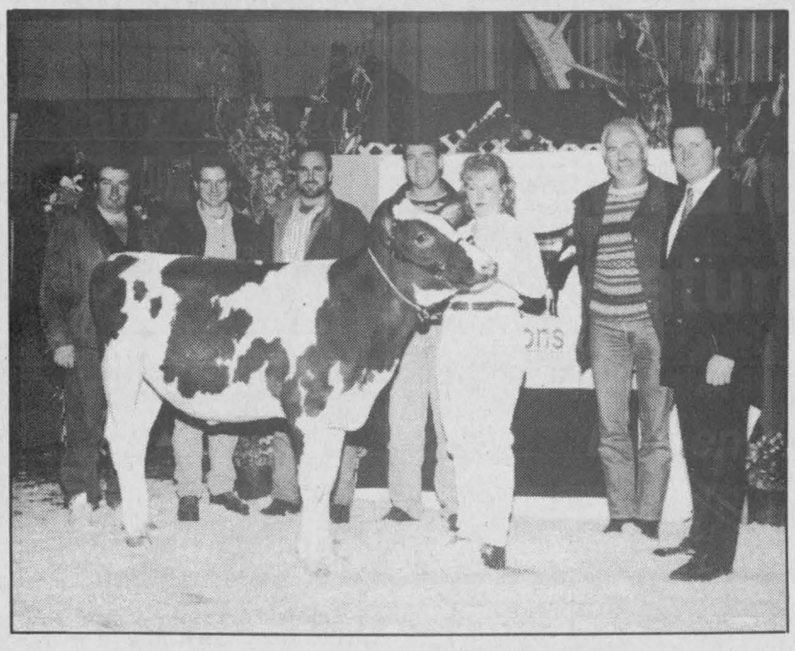

Approximately 100 animals were sold by auctioneers Hugh Fawcett of Winchester and John Copithorne of Alberta.

Test plot corn yields analysed

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

WINCHESTER — Cliff Metcalfe Agricultural Consulting Services has released results of this year's corn yield trials following the corn's harvest Nov. 8.

Trials for a number of corn varieties were carried out in both no-till and conventional tillage conditions at the North Gower clay plot located on Hwy 43. west of Winchester, across from Weagant Farm Supplies.

Corn on conventional tillage was planted May 8, while no-till was planted May 14. It was planted in 30-inch rows at a population of 29,900.

Conventional tillage corn was fertilized at a rate of 137-70-16-4.3 zinc. No-till was fertilized at 107-44-10-2.7 zinc.

A pre-plant application of Primextra Lite and Roundup followed by Banvel (early post) was applied to the no-till; and a pre-plant mix of Primextra Lite/Banvel was applied to the conventional tillage corn.

However, Metcalfe notes that yield losses on the three lowest ranking varieties (conventional tillage) were probably due to a late weed infestation in that area of the plot. He also notes that the no-till plot experienced extremely dry conditions at tasseling time.

The following tables show the results of this year's trials for both conventional and no-till.

Fruit Freaks make falafels

By Paula Weagant

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — The second meeting of the Dundas County 4-H club, "Fruit Freaks" was held on Nov. 11 at 1 pm, at the home of Sandra Weagant.

After everyone arrived we split into four groups and had to answer a series of questions "nutrition nuggets and eating disorders". Then each group made one of the following: no-fry falafels, Tex-Mex brocco dip, warm vegetable and tomato salad, and mushroom soup. Then we all had a taste of the finished project.

The meeting was adjourned at 3:30 pm by Leslie Weagant.

Carleton competes well at Classic

TORONTO — Carleton County's 4-H team attending this year's Scotiabank Hays Classic placed fifth in the premier club class of the show. The club also placed seventh in the group-of-three class out of over 50 clubs competing.

In Memoriam

FREELAND — In memory of Donelda Freeland, who passed away Nov. 23, 1994.
The world changes year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one I loved
From memory pass away.
— Love Harry
34

In Memoriam

FREELAND — In memory of a friend, Donelda, who passed away Nov. 23, 1994.
Gone are the days we use to share,
But in my heart you're always there.
— Miss you, Gladys Crerar
34

FREELAND, Donelda (Doddie) — In loving memory of a cherished sister, sister-in-law and aunt, who passed away Nov. 23, 1994.
A golden heart stopped beating.
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the best,
Even though we have each other,
We all still miss you so;
The hardest part of losing you
Was learning to let go.
We miss your smile, we miss your laugh,
But mostly we miss you.
We share so many memories,
Of which you had a part,
And we will keep them always,
Treasured in our hearts,
But you left us to remember,
None on earth can take your place.
— Sadly missed, always remembered, Roy, Maralene, Hilton, Roma, Hubert, Marg, Laura-Lee, Leo and families
34

COUGHLER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Lawrence Coughler, who passed away Nov. 22, 1988.
Little did we know,
When we awoke that morning,
The sorrow that day would bring.
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with the one we loved so dear,
Only those who have lost,
Are able to tell,
The pain in our hearts
At not saying "farewell".
— Remembered always, Freida and William
