SOUTH GOWER MAN DIES HIT BY MOTOR CAR

John Bower, aged 72, a well-known farmer of South Gower Township, about six miles east of Kemptville, died Monday as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident that morning. About 11 o'clock in the morning Mr. Bower visited a neighboring farm. While returning to his home he was struck by an automobile driven by John Moffitt, of Winchester. Mr. Bower was partially blind and it is believed that he did not see the approaching car and stepped in front of it. No police action is being taken against the driver of the car, as the fatality is generally considered by the coroner and police as an accident. No

OBITUARY

It is our sad duty to chronicle the death of Mrs. James Kane which occurred at her home in Connaught, in her 74th year. She was thought to be regaining her health, but in spite of all medical care and loving hands could do, the dreadful disease proved fatal, and her kind and loving spirit, wholly unexpectedly took its flight Oct. 17th, 1924.

She leaves to mourn, a husband, five daughters and two sons. Teresa Hannah, Agnes, Bridget and Ellen, Patrick and Edward. She also leaves to mourn one sister and two brothers—Mrs. Patrick Manly, Chesterville, David of Berwick and John of Connaught.

The funeral ceremony was conducted by Rev. Father Secord P. P. at the R. C. church, Crysler, Monday at 10 o'clock. Interment was afterwards made at Crysler cemetery.

A wreath—The family.

BAND CONCERT AND DANCE

Keep in mind the Concert and Dance under the auspices of the Citizens Band in the Music Hall to-morrow (Friday) night. A good programme has been provided which will commence sharp at eight o'clock to be followed by an Old Time Dance, providing an apportunity for those who are not expert at the newest dances to enjoy the old reels, cotillions and marches of a few years ago. A good orchestra will supply the music.

CARKNER—MERKLEY

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at 81 Hague Avenue, Detroit, Mich., on Tuesday evening at 7.30, when Mr. Herald C. Carkner, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Carkner, Winchester, was united in marriage to Miss Dorothy A. Merkley daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Merkley, Nation Valley. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Dr. Hoag of the Woodward Ave, Baptist Church, Detroit.

The groom had as his assistant, his brother Mr. Roy Carkner of Detroit, while the bride was ably assisted by Miss Harriette Smith of New York City. After the ceremony the happy couple with their friends motored to their home at 1034 W. High St. which the groom had furnished and attractively decorated for the occasion, and where they will reside. Here they found a dinner which was much enjoyed by all, after which a pleasant evening was spent. When the evening broke up all wished the newly weds every success and happiness through their new adventure and parted by singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Mr. and Mrs. Carkner are planning on a trip to Los Angeles, California and other points of interest.

The bride was dressed in a navy blue tailored suit with a small tailored hat to match and held a corsage of lilies of the the valley and white roses with fine ferns, while the groom wore a herrmgbone navy blue suit and sand colored hat. The bride's maid was dressed in a brown tailored suit and tailored hat to match and held a corsage of pink roses while the groomsman wore a herringbone navy blue suit with a grey hat.

The groom's gift to the bride was a leather upholstered mahogany living room suit, and to the bridesmaid an onyx white gold finger ring, while the groomsman received a gold fountain pen.

INSTRUCTIVE HORTICULTURAL LECTURE

Notwithstanding that the date as advertised for the lecture by Mr. Moore under the auspices of the Horticultural society had to be changed to last night, instead of tonight, a goodly number turned out and were very much interested in what the speaker had to say. Mr. Moore's talk was more constructive than the average lecture on the subject and was profusely illustrated with slides showing work that was carried out to the slogan "Beauty Brings Business" did in reality pay the individuals who worked to it as well as the community fortunate enough to be the home of those who loved beauty for beauty's sake only.

Object lessons were shown of the correct and incorrect ways of starting and maintaining perennial borders which were a delight to the eye at all seasons of the year, not only by the bloom in themselves but by their ability to cover unavoidable unsightly surroundings of your own or your neighbor's. Mass planting of the different varieties in perennial borders was emphasised again and again with interplanting of different varieties of the same height in the different graduations from rear to front of a border or from the centre of a bed to the sides, allowing all blooms to be seen at their best and to develope without interference from more robust or taller growing varieties close to them.

Mr. Moore's talk was of a particularly practical nature and the subject was handled with more benefit to those who were fortunate enough to be present that any simiiar talk ever given in Chesterville.

SUCCESSFUL TEA BY C.T. GIRLS

A very successful and well attended Food Sale, was given on Friday afternoon last, by the C. T. Girls of Trinity Methodist church, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith.

A profusion of Autumn leaves and bitter-sweet were used most effectively, while the Hallowe'en decorations added charm to the spacious rooms where tea was served. Mrs. Melvin Durant presided at the tea-table, while two young ladies, members of the class, assisted in serving. The other class-members served most efficiently in their various capacities. Proceeds of sale $32.47.

MISS HELEN ARMSTRONG OF SUNNDSIDE HONOURED

The members of St. John's church, Crysler, remained a few minutes after service on Sunday evening when they presented Miss Armstrong with a fountain pen, and an eversharp pencil in a leather case, when the following address was read by Mr. Meldrum.

Dear Helen:—

On the eve of your departure for college, we, the members of St. John's Church congregation, wish to express to you our deep appreciation for your faithful services as organist, and ask you to accept this small gift which will remind you day by day in its use, the place you have in our hearts. We wish you every success in the work you undertake and at the completion of same, hope to welcome you back to your accustomed place.

Signed on behalf of the Congregation.—Arnold Meldrum, Rector's Warden.

Miss Armstrong although taken by surprise thanked the congregation in a few well chosen words and promised to take up her duties as organist on her return.

PERJURY CHARGED AGAINST HYDRO OFFICIAL

Flatly accusing Chief Hydro Engineer F. A. Gaby of the Ontario Hydro Commission, of deception and perjury in his evidence, Clarence Settell furnished an interesting conclusion Monday for the first session at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, under Judge Snider, of the commission appointed to investigate the charges which Settell had levelled in a letter sent to Sir Adam Beck upon the occasion of the former's absconding with the proceeds of a $29,000 Hydro cheque. It was a climax that was all the more notable because unexpected, Settell having previously at a whole morning's sitting rigidly refused to testify at the probe which he had himself occasioned.

The main charges centred largely about the person of P. W. Sothman, appointed chief engineer for the commission in 1906, that he had, while Hydro engineer, taken the contract for the Robert Simpson Company's heating plant and also several Hamilton contracts, executing them in the time of the commission, with the assistance of Mr. Gaby, and with the knowledge of Sir Adam Beck. It was further alleged that Mr. Sothman's recommendation of acceptance for the F. H. McGuigan Company's tender for the construction of the Niagara Power Company's transmission line had been forced by Sir Adam, the tender of the Murault Company having been lower but withdrawn one day before the contract was awarded. It was finally charged that Mr. Sothman had padded his expense account and that the expenses of "Machlett & Company," a firm in which he had been a principal, had been paid by the Hydro, with Mr. Gaby's knowledge.

These allegations were the only sections of the now celebrated Settell letter to Sir Adam Beck which became public at the probe Monday. The intention of the commission is to publish at one time only the charges relative to a single individual, and to have them closed before advancing further into the the contents of the document. Today's matter, however, was left unconcluded, due to the fact that, after Mr. Gaby had made categorical denial of knowledge or participation in any irregularities. Settell challenged the truth of his evidence and stated that if access were given to the Hydro records he would produce W. S. Webster, K. C., commission vouchers that would substantiate his statements. Judge Snider and counsel, promised that arrangements for such access would be made.

Only in one particular did Setell modify his charges. He had stated that upon the Robert Simpson Company's heating plant the Hydro staff had been employed for from one-half to two-thirds of its time. He withdrew this statement declaring: "I am not going to get any man in wrong." Such course was consistent with his refusal at the morning session to call any Hydro employe to corroborate anything in his letter, because, "under the autocratic rule of that man (Sir Adam Beck) any person coming here to corroborate anything in my letter would be a marked man from then on. He would be marked for dismissal or he would never get an increase as long as he lived."

It was only after hearing his charges denied absolutely by Mr. Gaby that Settell abandoned his expressed determination to give no testimony or to answer no questions relative to the letter which he had written. He had been in the room during the whole of the afternoon, however, attending to the evidence, and after it was closed by W. G. Pierdon, Hydro Commission accountant, he was asked if he still refused to testify or if he would care to make any statement. He replied in the affirmative stating that hearing the evidence had refreshed his memory, and advancing to the witness chair, he trenchantly challenged the truth of Mr. Gaby's testimony.

Settell declared that the firm of Machlett and Company, in which Sothman was interested in 1908, had occupied a room in the office of the Hydro Commission and that rent had been charged to the Hydro.

Settell further accused F. A. Gaby, the chief engineer of the commission, of perjuring himself when he stated that he did not know what Sothman's relations with the Machlett Company were. Sothman, the witness stated, was a German, hardly able to speak English, and Mr. Gaby, who was his assistant, had attended to his correspondence for him. He decleared that a Hydro employe had at Gaby's instructions spent two weeks at the Exhibition, looking after the affairs of Machlett and Company.

Settell dramatically protested against the use of his letter to Beck, which, he insisted, had been a "personal and confidential" letter and the publication of which he characterized as "not British justice."

Settell took the position that any statement which he might make at the present time, without further reference to his papers, might also tend to prejudice his trial.

In his statement to the commissioner Mr. Gaby denied absolutely the charges made by Settell. He was aware that Sothman, then chief engineer of the commission, and supervised work for the Robert Simpson Company, but he believed that Sothman had that privilege because of the small salary paid him by the Hydro.

Concerning the McGuigan tender, which Settell charged had been forced, Mr. Gaby said that the tender of Muralt and Company had been irregular, it had been submitted for only part, and not all of the work; it had been on a unit basis—different than that of McGuigan's—and, in any event, had been withdrawn before tenders were let. "I have no knowledge," he said, "of the acceptance of the McGuigan tender (for the Niagara Power lines) being forced."

Mr. Gaby said that the charge that all the expenses of Machlett & Co. were paid by the Hydro Commission was "not true." I believe that Sothman was interested in that company. Their head office was in the Continental Life Building. They handled X-ray equipment."

As regards the charge that Sothman had padded his expense accounts Mr. Gaby said that he had no knowledge of it, and he did not know how Settell was in a position to know if he did.

SPECIAL SESSION COUNTIES COUNCIL

A special session of the Counties' Council of the United Counties was called for Tuesday, Oct. 28th, at 1 p. m., but as an insufficient number of members had arrived at that hour, an adjournment was made until 7 p. m., when all were in their places excepting Mr. R. T. Nicholson, Reeve of Lancaster Village, who was prevented from attending by illness.

The Warden, Mr. George Smyth, Reeve of Matilda Township, briefly welcomed the members, and impressed upon them the desirability of disposing of the business as expeditiously as possible, so that an adjournment might be made by Thursday morning.

The Warden's remarks were applauded.

The Clerk, Mr. J. R. Simpson, read the communications, nine in number, received since the June session, which were referred to the various committees to which they belong, on motion of Messrs. W. Hamilton and A. McInnis.

Mr. Wm. Pollock gave notice of his intention to introduce a by-law during the present session to grant the sum of $17,200.00 to the town of Cornwall for road construction.

Mr. M. Fitzgerald gave notice of a similar by-law with regard to a grant of $1,150.00 to the town of Alexandria.

Mr. Allan McInnis gave notice of a by-law for the payment of orders and accounts to be passed by the Finance Committee at present session.

On motion of Messrs. J. E. Chevrier and Allan Campbell, the Warden and Clerk were authorized to enter into an agreement with the town of Cornwall providing for the payment to the town (subject to the approval by Minister ofa by-law to be passed authorizing such agreement) of the sum of $17,200.00 as a grant or contribution towards the cost of building certain roads or streets which form connecting links and extensions of County Road System.

Messrs. M. Fitzgerald and N. W. Beach made a similar motion in connection with the grant of $1,150.00 to the town of Alexandria for work of improving Main Street in that town.

Both motions were carried.

A resolution of condolence with the family of the late Alexander A. McKinnon, of Lochiel Township, a former member of Council, was moved by Messrs. Allan Campbell and E. J. Macdonald. The resolution, which was carried by a standing vote, was ordered to be embodied in the minutes and a copy thereof forwarded to the relatives of deceased.

The Council then adjourned until 2 p.m. on Wednesday to allow the Roads and Bridges and Finance Committees to meet.

Council resumed at 2 p.m. on Wednesday.

By-Law No. 2114, authorizing a grant of $1,150 to the town of Alexandria to assist in road work, was also passed.

On motion of Messrs. W. Hamilton and Thos. Sutherland, a resolution of condolence was passed to Dr. Will Brown, on the death of his father, the late Dr. Miles Brown, of Chesterville, a former member of Council, who represented Chesterville as Reeve in 1890. The resolution was carried by a standing vote and was ordered inscribed in the minutes and a copy forwarded to Dr. Will Brown

The Council then adjourned until 7 p.m. to allow the Finance Committee to meet and complete their business.

On Council resuming on Wednesday evening the report of the Finance Committee was presented by the chairman, Mr. Allen McInnis and was adopted in Council without amendment.

The committee reported having passed general accounts of $64,269.23; House of Refuge accounts of $5,441.03; and County Road System accounts of $282,317.97.

The Clerk was authorized to renew the insurance on the Gaol, County Buildings and outbuildings, with same agent and for amounts as formerly.

An account from J. F. Aitchison, Assistant Comptroller, Toronto, for maintenance of C. N. R. crossing gates at Cornwall and Morrisburg, was considered by the committee, and the Treasurer was instructed to oppose a charge of 10 per cent. for supervision of wages and gatemen until a competent tribunial declares the Counties liable.

By-Law No. 2115, for the payment of orders and accounts, was passed.

The Council then adjourned until 10 a.m. on Thursday.

Mr. H. M. Grant, chairman, asked members of the roads and Bridges Committee to meet right after adjournment in order to conclude their business.

On Council resuming this morning the report of the Roads and Bridges Committee was presented by the chairman, Mr. H. M. Grant, and was adopted in Council after motion by Messrs. Fulton and Bogart to delete clause one, with reference to work, on what is known as "Moore's Lane" through the second concession of Winchester Township, had been defeated by 23 to 4.

There was nothing very contentious, for the committee to report on, but objection was raised to the unwarranted attack of the Ottawa Valley Journal during the summer on the Warden and County Road Superintendent, in connection with tarring roads, and the committee considered the attack as "wholy unworthy of the traditions of a great family journal and deserves the condemnation of this Council. We desire to place ourselves on record as completely exonerating these gentlemen from any and all blame in this matter and desire that due publicity be given our attitude."

This concluded the business of the Council.

The Warden was asked to vacate the chair, which was taken by Mr. Wm. Pollock, Reeve of Cornwall.

Mr. D. A. McNaughton, Reeve of Finch, read a flattering address to the Warden, and Mr. H. M Grant, Reeve of Charlottenburgh, presented Mr. Smyth with a gold headed cane bearing the following inscription:—"George Smyth, Warden S.D. & G., 1924." The address was signed on behalf of the members by Messrs. McNaughton, Grant and George Cooper.

Warden Smyth made a fitting reply, thanking the members for their kind remarks and good wishes and the handsome gift which accompanied them.

The Warden was greeted with hearty applause.

Messrs. N. W. Beach and Geo. D. Pollock moved a vote of thanks to the county officials.

Mr. J.R. Simpson, Clerk and Treasurer, and Mr. J. G. Cameron, Road Superintendent, replied, thanking Council for the expression of confidence.

FOUR MEET DEATH AS ENGINE CRASHES INTO MOTOR CAR NEAR KINGSTON

Joseph Roberts, well known farmer of Findlay, Ont., his wife and two children, Lenwood aged 11 years, and Lavina aged 10 years, were instantly killed Sunday morning when their automobile was struck by a locomotive a short distance from their home, about 12 miles east of Kingston. Roberts and his family were on their way to church which nesessitated their crossing the railway tracks. When half way across the tracks Roberts noticed the engine and hesitated, then endeavored to proceed, but the automobile was struck with terriffic force and hurled 50 feet along the tracks, the occupants meeting instant death.

Mrs. Roberts was carried along on the cow catcher of the engine until it was brought to a standstill. The train crew picked her up immediately but she had breathed her last. Roberts was found among the wreckage of the car which was in matchwood. His head was badly crushed. The boy, Lenwood, was found just ahead of the wreckage, and the girl, Lavina, was thrown to the opposite side of the track. They received internal injuries.

The engine, which was en route from Brockville to Belleville, was not travelling very fast when it struck the automobile and the engineer stated that he had seen the car at a standstill when he was approaching and did not think that Roberts would attempt to cut across ahead of the locomotive. Roberts had stopped the car near the tracks to allow his son to close the gate behind him, and immediately the boy returned the automobile proceeded across the tracks and directly into the path of the engine.

Brockville Recorder Times.—Dr. Frederick G. Banting, noted discoverer of insulin, Nobel prize-winner and world's foremost authority on diabetes was a visitor in town today, the guest of Dr. Beaumont S. Cornell, coming for the purpose of ascertaining if it would be possible to establish here the nucleus of a research laboratory in Brockville where work could be done especially in connection with investigations on pernicious anaemia.

Dr. Banting was motored throughout the town and to the Brockville Golf and Country Club. He was so greatly pleased with Brockville and its beautiful surroundings that he expressed the intention of visiting here again at an early date.

This morning Dr. Banting visited the St. Vincent de Paul and General hospitals and expressed himself as favorably impressed with the conditions and appointments of the two institutions. He was greatly interested in diabetical cases seen at both hospitals.

At noon Dr. Banting was entertained to luncheon by the local members of the profession at the General hospital, and out-of-town guests were Dr. Clayton, of Chesterville, and Dr. Brown of Montreal.

In a brief but highly interesting after-luncheon talk the distinguished visitor spoke of the importance of medical research and expressed the opinion that medical research should not be confined to the large university centres, but should be carried out wherever any medical man has formulated a research problem and wished to work on it. The benefits and assistance of the research foundations should be extended him in whatever town he lived, was Dr. Banting's opinion.

Dr. Banting and his host, Dr. Cornell, were guests at afternoon tea at the residence of Mrs. George S. Buckman and her brother, M.D. Nicolson, and before returning to his laboratory to resume his research activities will spend a brief vacation at duck-hunting with Dr. B. S. Cornell.

GENEROUS GIFTS

The immense value offered by The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal this season is meeting with the success the publishers deserve. Their large calendar for 1925 with the beautiful picture—"The Sale of Old Dobbin" is proving a very popular premium, while the Ten Thousand Dollar Election Contest is a record breaker. For those who raise clubs of new subscribers, there is a catalogue of some very handsome and useful rewards. The Family Herald is securing thousands upon thousands of new subscribers by their generous gifts, added to the super excellence of the paper itself; in fact few homes will be found without that great weekly when Two Dollars will secure so much.

BOY KILLED GATHERING NUTS

Crushed by a huge beech tree, Henry Burgie, aged 12, was almost instantly killed, and his companion, Charles Horne, severely injured at Penetang last Saturday. The two lads were pulling on a bough to reach some beechnuts when the huge old tree, which was rotten at the heart, toppled over with a crash and pinned both boys to the ground. Other lads who were with them, unable to move the tree, ran for assistance, but before help came Burgie was dead. His back had been broken. Horne was removed to the hospital, where it was found he was suffering from a broken leg and other injuries.

SOUND BONES

Let Nature try her best, she cannot very well build a sturdy body or sound bones or normal dentition, unless given the right kind of encouragement in the form of vitamin-activated nourishment.

Scott's Emulsion

has encouraged thousands by nourishing them into strength and vigor. It abounds in vitamins and is the food-tonic that encourages normal growth.

Scott's Emulsion helps Nature do her best to help you and your child keep strong and healthful.

How Did Peter Bertelson Make Money?

Addressing the City Club of Minneapolis, Minn., Mr. T. K. Kelly of Kelly Sales System related the following, illustrating the power of newspaper advertising to bring trade :—

"I am going to relate a case to you about a retail merchant by the name of Peter Bertelson—one of the finest gentlemen who ever drew a breath. He passed on thru a terrible fatality that happened some years ago. In operating a gasoline tractor on his farm in North Dakota, something went wrong with the tractor and ended Mr. Bertelson's business career.

"For ten years previous to Mr. Bertelson's passing away he met as many disappointments as a business man could contend with as for nearly ten years there was no crop in his district, still tho he had a stock of only about $40,000 he sold in the neighborhood of $150,000 worth of merchandise a year because he was a firm believer in newspaper advertising.

"I addressed the North Dakota Retail Merchants Association convention not so long ago and I took as my theme, "Peter Bertelson of Kenmare, North Dakota." Every merchant in that state either knew him or knew of him and every merchant knew it to be the truth when I said that during those years of no crops, most of the stores in that state changed hands continually but Peter Bertelson continued conducting his store in Kenmare successfully.

"A great many merchants make a grave mistake in depending chiefly upon the trade from the territory tributary to their store. I know hundreds of merchants with whom I have talked during my visits in various cities thruout the country, who have told me, "We have a very small territory to draw from. East of us there's a little town about eight miles away; West, there's a good sized town, nine miles; North, there's an enterprising town about six miles; South of us the people in that territory have experienced crop failures for several years."

"Peter Bertelson experienced these same obstacles but he worked right into the other man's territories and towns and pulled in trade from all his competitors.

"Among the many instances regarding Mr. Bertelson's successful career with which I am familiar—

"One summer, it was in the month of October, if I recall it rightly, he bought two car loads of apples. He advertised in the weekly newspaper that he had purchased two car loads of apples which would be sold in front of his store on a certain day, quoting a very low price on these apples. In three hours' time the entire lot was sold. He believed in small profits and quick turnover.

"This phenomenal sale brought people from fifty miles around for the price he quoted on the apples was way below the market price. Incidentally, he sold $7,000 worth of merchandise that day plus what he secured from the sale of apples. Farmers bought them by the bushel and barrel. Mr. Bertelson knew the art of salesmanship—he placed the public under obligation. The profit he made on the apples was insignificant but what he pulled for was the merchandise these people would buy in his store—he merely used the apples as a drawing card. Thru allowing the people to purchase these apples at such a low price they were, of course, aware that it was a rare bargain and felt obligated to purchase needed merchandise from his store.

"Mr. Bertelson also repeated this experience with peaches and other kinds of fruit and every time it worked out to his decided advantage."

There is more trade within fifteen miles of Chesterville than Peter Bertleson had within fifty miles of his town, but it won't come here unless its invited.

You know how it is socially.

You meet an acquaintance on the street, in the train, or other place and you are mutually delighted to see each other, and on parting you say to each other "Now, be sure and come to see me."

You both say "Sure, I will." You never go.

Why? Because no definite time has been set.

Its the same in business.

Invite people to buy seasonable goods at seasonable times at your store and they will do it.

FORMER MORRISBURG PASTOR DIES IN PERTH

Members of the Ottawa South Methodist church mourn the death of their beloved pastor, Rev. A. J. H. Strike, who passed away Friday night at his son's residence at Perth. For over two years Rev. Mr. Strike had been pastor of the Ottawa South church and through his genial disposition made many friends, not only among his church members, but in all parts of the city.

The late Rev. Mr. Strike had been in failing health for some months and since early in the summer was unable to attend to the duties of his church. During his absence Rev. John Webster has been supplying in his place. A few weeks ago Mr. Strike underwent an operation at Toronto.

For many years he had been a member of the Montreal Methodist Conference. He served in a number of different pastorates, among which were Granby, Que.; Lindsay, Deseronto, Bowmanville, and Morrisburg. Before coming to Ottawa the late Mr. Strike was pastor of Ashbury Methodist church at Perth for two years. His death is mourned by the members of Ashbury church, among whom the deceased had made many warm and enduring friendships.

The Wisdom of Aquiring Good Bonds Now

Indications point to a heavy investment demand during the coming weeks, due to the redemption of $107,000,000 of Victory bonds on November 1st, to Victory bond interest payments totalling about $30,000,000 to other causes. Last year, under similar circumstances, a $200,000,000 Dominion Government Loan was issued. This year the Dominion Government public offering totalled only one-quarter of that figure. Furthermore, in 1923 the Dominion Loan was followed by a $40,000,000 Province of Ontario issue and by a $50,000,000 Canadian National Railway offering. This year not only the Province of Ontario, but every other Province, with the exception of Quebec, made necessary bond issues shortly prior to the Dominion issue.

Shrewd investors seek to maintain the most favourable interest possible from bonds of good quality. They purchase bonds which will assure them high rates for long periods regardless of any fluctuations in the money market that may occur. The advantage of maintaining a good income for a long period is interestingly exemplified by the following experience:

In November 1919, Canadian investors were offered a choice of 5-year or 15-year Victory Loan 5½ per cent. bonds—both at par. The 5-year bonds now fall due and will be redeemed at 100—their face value. Holders of the 15-year bonds (due 1934) will continue to receive 5½ per cent. for a further 10 years. These bonds are now quoted at about 104 and interest.

RHINO Rubber Footwear is Guaranteed Better Value

Every pair of RHINO Rubber Footwear is guaranteed to be free from defects in workmanship and material.

The guarantee tag which goes with every pair means that RHINO Rubber Footwear is better—in quality of rubber and linings, as well as in the way it is made. It stands the hardest kind of wear because there is extra strength wherever there is extra strain. This footwear is made from RHINO RUBBER — the toughest and most wear-resisting that Science has yet discovered—which will wear up to twice as long as ordinary rubber.

ONTARIO TO HAVE TAX ON GASOLINE NEXT YEAR

The commendatory allusions of the Provincial Treasurer, Hon. Col. Price, to the proposed "gas" tax in the course of recent speeches, in addition to what has been said on the subject by the Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Public Highways, would seem to indicate that the Government of Ontario has made up its mind to bring in a bill during the coming session of the Provincial Legislature that will enable it to impose a "gas" tax.

Much is to be said in favor of a "gas" impost provided it does not increase the already heavy incubus of taxation that the motorist is required to bear, as Officials of the Ontario Motor League have pointed out.

If the license tax is reduced on an average by the amount of the gas tax paid by the average motorist of this province, then the Government will derive a revenue considerably in excess of that secured from the present license system by reason of the enormous and rapidly augmenting annual incursions of motor tourists.

Last year a million United States motor cars entered this province. This year approximately two million will have done so by the end of December—a 100 per cent gain in a year. Approximately three million (a fifty per cent increase) is not an unreasonable estimate of the number of United Sates motor tourists' cars that will visit the province during the coming year. This much-to-be-desired invasion through a "gas" tax will very greatly increase the Government's revenue from motor vehicles without increasing the tax on local motorists one penny. On the basis of the consumption of gasoline in Ontario last year, a one-cent-per-gallon "gas tax" would yield a revenue of a million dollars per annum. The Government, of course, is in receipt of the increment from the ever increasing number of cars in the province.

The gas tax, if not imposed as a surtax on the present license tax, is an equitable means of assessing motor vehicle owners for the use of the roads in that, approximately, the weight of vehicle and its mileage determine the extent of its road as well as its "gas" consumption.

Speaking at a meeting of the Ontario Motor Truck Owners' Association a year ago, Hon. Henry stated that a "gas" tax with a lowered license fee appealed to him "as a fair proposition."

Needless to say, the motorists of the province would be a unit in resenting the imposition of a "gas" tax as a surtax on the present license impost, and that the Motor League and its seventy Affiliated Clubs would vigorously oppose it.

Forty of the states of the Union now impose a "gas" tax, as does also Quebec.

While a direct tourist tax would prove a very effective barrier to the entrance of United States motor tourists—our third greatest source of revenue from natural resources—a "gas" tax would not prove even a deterrent. The large revenue derived from the "gas" tax on the sale of gasoline to the United States motor tourists would be "found money."

HOW ARE WE BUILDING?

Every farm, every barn and the arrangement of the lesser buildings about it, every farm house and its dooryard, every herd of cows, the team, the tools, and the fences, all reflect the character of the man behind them. What a lot of farmers advertise to the world that they belong to the illkept, helter-skelter order of humanity! Everything about the farm tells that story. It has been said of many a man that "he buildeth better than he knew." If so, it was because he built in harmony with the central spirit and purpose of his life. If the man had no central spirit or purpose, save to hoard up a few dollars, then whatever he built was out of harmony and proportion, "thrown together" as we often see.

As farmers come to a larger measure of mind and understanding they will see that every farm is in reality a living centre of a spirit and purpose." It has an object and the best expression of that object, the most harmonious and most efficient, is after all the real business of the farmer.

SHIPPING MILK

How far can milk be shipped and have it arrive at its destination in good, wholesome condition? This question has not been answered, but we believe that milk properly produced and handled can be shipped across the continent and still be in first class condition for drinking, of uses of various kinds.

At this year's Dairy Show was a unique exhibit of a truck carrying 1,350 gallons of pasteurized milk from Pittsburg, Pa., to Milwaukee, Wis., a distance of nearly 600 miles. This truck left Pittsburg at 10.05 p. m. Saturday, September 27, and arrived at Milwaukee 4.30 a.m. September 30. The milk, when put in the well-insulated tank, was cooled to a temperature of 36 degrees F. and when it arrived in Milwaukee it was 41 degrees F. After it stood in the warm sun for three or four days its temperature was 41½ degrees F. The milk was served to National Dairy Show visitors throughout the entire week, and we can attest that on Thursday, October 2nd, it was still as sweet and palatable as any one could desire. This unique demonstration shows what can be done when milk is properly produced, cooled to a low temperature, and held there until its consumption. Cleanliness, pasteurization, and cooling, when properly applied, will permit milk to be shipped almost any distance and arrive at its destination as perfect food.—Hoard's Dairyman.

TAKINK IT OUT ON THE FAMILY

What person after bumping his head on account of carelessness or ill luck has not felt instantly with the pain an angry desire to blame some one for his suffering? Especially if a member of the family is present at the time is there likely to be the indignant outcry, "Why didn't you warn me?"

Displays of ill temper are usually reserved for the family circle. It is not politic to manifest grumpiness surliness or anger in the store or the factory or the office. The ill luck or the ill success that men encounter in their daily occupations is the most potent cause of the ill temper that they display at home. The do not really mean to make their wives or their children unhappy, but when they go home at the end of a far from perfect day they feel that they have a right to throw off restraint. It is a comfort, a relaxation, to sulk or to scold the children or to complain of the way the house is run. Often they give no one at home any clue to the reasons for their ill humor; they think that in being uncommunicative they are being considerate and kind. They feel that they are not like the men who take home their business cares and worries and distress their wives with them; they are men enough to keep such matters to themseves and bear their own grievances and burdens.

Waspish husbands and fathers may be just as affecionate as those who are habitually amiable. They are perhaps harder pressed by life than the others, or perhaps they are more high strung, less able to endure with equanimity; but their practice of "taking it out on the family" when things go wrong is damaging to the family and to themselves.

ASTHMA NEVER CAME BACK

Since Taking The Fruit Treatment in "Fruit-a-tives"

Read this letter from Mrs. J. M. Pennington of New Rockland, P.Q.

"In 1919, I was taken with Bronchial Asthma and no one knows what I suffered during the winter. I began having choking spells and would just gasp for breath and could not speak. The doctor said he could do nothing for me.

In the spring of 1920, I started taking "Fruit-a-tives" and soon the choking spells became easier and I have not had one since May 7th, 1920. It is such a relief to be able to go to bed and have no thought of having to get up in the night for an hour or more as I did all that winter, but never have to now, all because I take a "Fruit-a-tives" tablet every night.

HALLOWE'EN AT NATION VALLEY

An enjoyable Hallowe'en party was held on the School Grounds on Friday afternoon, Oct. 31st. Ghosts, goblins, clowns, tramps, witches and negroes produced an uncanny effect. Conversation was carried on in gestures, motions and pitched voices. Hallowe'en games were indulged in by all present. The judges impartially decided that Miss Olive Merkley dressed as the Wee Clown, and Mr. Burl Robinson dressed as a Tramp richly deserved the coveted prizes.

The pupils then took part in the numerous sports, of which there were races for every age.

About 3.30 every one assembled in the school where the prizes were distributed to the pupils. Miss Lenora Merkley, the teacher, then passed around a large Hallowe'en basket laden with good things to eat. Miss Norma Munroe and Miss Helen Barkley supplied the music. The guests included the pupils of the school, several ex-pupils, and Mr. Norman G. Moodie.

THAT HOME LETTER

"No letter from John tonight, mother?"

"No, father; but I wouldn't worry any more. John must be all right or we would hear.' So father goes back to his work a little comforted; and mother goes on—worrying.

Just why the average young man will not write good letters home is a mystery that no parents have ever solved. He pleads that he has not time to write the long, loving messages that his conscience demands of him. But his father and mother, who have sent him through college and should now be thinking of laying up something for their old age, have time to earn a few extra dollars each summer to send to their boy on his birthday. "I wonder what he will do with his present this year," the mother muses as she cans several baskets of fruit for market. "Think of it, father, our John is almost twenty-six!"

The chances are mother will never know how that ten dollars was spent. Parents know so little about their absent sons!

" 'I am well and getting along famously.' That ought to satisfy anyone," argues John to himself as he writes his weekly or monthly home letter. But his parents back there in the little village or on the farm, want to know how many men are working under him or with him, what salary he gets, where he goes to church and how he likes the minister, how his room or home is furnished, and what he has to eat. If he is married, his wife will probably supply the information, but it would mean so much more to the parents if it came in John's own hand-writing.

"It seems ridiculous to keep telling folks that our boy is well," said a mother, "but that is really all we know about him."

"Except his views about the political campaign," added her husband grimly. "I guess he's forgotten that we have a daily paper now. Didn't he say what he is getting in that new position of his? It would give me something definite to think about."

"Why, father, you don't spend all your time thinking about what John is doing and getting do you?" asked mother.

"He's the only boy we have, you know," the man apologized. Mother knows. For a month she has thought of little except the Thanksgiving box she is planning for him.

As it happens, this particular John is doing very well, but he does not consider a salary of a thousand anything to boast about. But to his parents out there on the farm a thousand dollars would seem a good deal of money, and so it would to the neighbors. Some day, of course, John will come home and show folks what a college education and a few years of hard work can do for a man. He may even give a library to the town. But until he "makes good" according to city standards, he cannot see that there is anything to write about.

Some men are incredibly careless. A salesman in a large department store was startled one day when a travelling man came to his counter and inquired for his health; he had been asked, he said, to look the young chap up the next time he came to the city.

"Wh-what?" stammered the young man. "I wrote home last week—or the week before—or—"

"Nine weeks ago, they told me," said the stranger with a smile, as he turned away.

"I can't understand why you worried about me," the son wrote home that night. "I've been very busy, and you know how I hate to write letters. I never can think of anything to say. I never wrote an interesting letter in my life."

But whatever the quantity or the quality of these letters from absent sons may be, mothers will keep on writing "just the same." Thousands of Johns are sure of at least fifty-two long, loving letters each year.

What would John do without his weekly letter from home?

CANADIAN APPLES KING OF THEM ALL

Canada has taken a foremost place in the apple-growing world. Awards made at the Imperial Fruit Show in London, England, and at every other Show at which exhibits have been made, prove this beyond a shadow of doubt. In flavor and palatabity the Canadian-grown apple has no superior. An interesting and attractively gotten-up booklet published by the Fruit Branch at Ottawa, and obtainable at the Publications Branch, in establishing these facts, outlines the produce of what is termed "the King of Fruits" in the country as a whole and in each of the apple growing provinces, gives details of the Fruit Act relative to the grading of apples, describes their food value, and supplies upwards of a hundred recipes for making sauces, butter, concoctions of various sorts, pies, puddings, relishes, salads, etc., in which the apple is the principal ingredient. Whether fresh, dried, evaporated, or canned, or used in any way, the apple, the booklet points out, is a wholesome food, easily prepared, attractive and palatable at all times. It furnishes mineral salts and organic acids; it possesses important nutritive value, and has medicinal virtue also, especially if eaten at the beginning of the meal or between meals. It is not difficult to agree with the remark that "no housewife should be without a box or barrel of Canadian-grown apples." To facilitate stocking up in this manner, a statement is furnished in the booklet of the proper season or period during which various varieties should be used, extending over the nine months from September in one year to May in the next, both inclusive.

IT'S WORTH TRYING

Should an egg have been boiled too long it can be softened again by lifting the saucepan off the fire, quickly placing it under the faucet, and allowing a good stream of cold water to run onto it. The sudden shock of changing fromho t to cold water has the curious effect of softening the egg.

THE PRINCE'S THOROUGHBRED SHEEP

...ter having enjoyed about as much privacy as the proverbial goldfish during the international ...o games near New York, the Prince of Wales re...ed to the quiet and seclusion of his Canadian "Lit...e Grey Home in the West," 25 miles from High ...iver, Alberta, a station on the Canadian Pacific, to ...t for a few days, recreate and work far from cu...us crowds, reporters, still photographers and ...ovie" men. It is very pleasant, no doubt, to be ...e most popular young man in the world, but about ...e a year the rolling hills and rich prairie land of ...e "E. P. Ranch" call the Prince of Wales, Baron ...infrew or "Davy Windsor," as they refer to H.R.H. ...n Alberta, back to the land.

The prince is a real farmer and rancher, and is honestly endeavoring to improve the breed of horses, sheep and cattle in Western Canada. His pure-bred, imported animals and their offspring have won many prizes in competition at live stock shows in Western Canada, not because they were from the royal ranch, but because they were the very best exhibited. Since he bought his 4,100 acre ranch in Alberta in 1919, the prince has been sending to it the best stock he could secure in Great Britain, and every year he sells at auction the surplus animals for the benefit of live stock breeders in the western provinces. The Earl of Minto, who has a big ranch near-by, does the same thing. Also, King George loans the prince some of his best animals for the stud.

"He's a neighborly kid," said one of the members of the Alberta Shorthorn Breeders' Association. "When he comes out here we don't chase him as they do in other places. We just let him ride, and next thing you know he has all of us neighbors in as his guests, and meets us just as a neighbor. He wants to meet all the ranchers who are his neighbors, and there isn't a thing about ranching he doesn't want to know. His ranch is no fad. He is running it for the benefit of Canada first, and second for the purpose of making the "E. P. Ranch" a business venture, just as any level-headed man would do. When he is on the ranch he wears a 'ten gallon hat,' the same as all of the cowboys, and he does his work daily like any other ranch hand. 'Regular feller,' that's what we call him, 'regular feller.'"

BULBS, TUBERS AND ROOTS PROPER WINTER STORAGE

Where ordinary care is exercised the majority of our bulbous and tuberous rooted plants can be brought safely through the winter in some place or other in the ordinary house—the cellar or an old disused cupboard, or even a few shelves in a room with the proper temperature. For the storage of vegetable roots a satisfactory bin or a few boxes in the cellar will suffice for the number or quantity that the average householder will require.

Conditions Necessary For Success.

For the successful storage of bulbs and tubers, and also of many of our vegetables, the temperature of the storage, whether room or cellar, should never be so high as to induce growth. Above 50 degrees Fahrenheit growth will generally take place. The temperature should never be so low as to incur the danger from frost. In a temperature ranging between forty and fifty degrees the bulk of flowering bulbs and vegetables roots will not be injured. There are, however, a few special kinds which are not very hardy and these should receive special consideration when they are being stored away.

Among the more tender kinds are Tuberous Begonias, Dahlias, Cannas, Gladioli and Elephant's Ears. and in order that full success should attend the efforts to store these successfully the preparation of the bulbs and tubers for the purpose should be outlined.

Tuberous Begonias.

When the stems of the Begonias begin to decay or when these are injured by frost, the tubers should be lifted with any foliage that is left and if possible with a quantity of soil adhering to them. They should then be packed in shallow boxes, stems upright, and be placed in a position to which light has access until the stem growth entirely decays. Any room free from frost will be satisfactory. When the stem should be removed to facilitate the drying of the tubers or these may also decay. Carefully remove all soil and spread the tubers on a shelf for a day or two, and finally store them in a layer in a box containing dry sand, two inches of sand or so below and above the tubers. Place the boxes away for the winter in a dry, frost-proof place where an average temperature of about 50 may be maintained. A lower temperature than 40 or higher than 60 will be harmful. The former will chill the bulbs and cause them to decay. The latter will influence growth at an unnatural and undesirable time.

Dahlias

When removing Dahlias from the garden it is best to leave about six inches of the stem adhering to the tubers. It is not necessary to shake off all the soil from the roots as any which remains will help to hold the moisture in the tubers over winter. In storage Dahlia tubers are especially susceptible to the attacks of fungi which cause them to rot; therefore the place chosen for storage should have a fairly dry though not an excessively dry, atmosphere. Like the tuberous Begonia, the Dahlia is of a tender nature having originated in a warm climate. Therefore, even when dormant in winter, the tubers should not be subjected to a low temperature. Where the temperature and humidity of the atmosphere is that recommended for the tuberous Begonia for the Dahlia it will also be ideal, the tubers need not be covered when stored away, but where the air is dry, it will be best to cover them with a little dry sand. A cellar is a better place for storage than an attic; in the latter they usually shrivel up, the air being too dry.

Dahlia tubers should never be placed on cold concrete floors or on damp earth but may be laid upon shelves or upon boards on the floor or be stored in boxes. They should not be crowded so closely together; otherwise, if one tuber commences to rot the whole number may be affected. Remember the story of the bad apple in the barrel. All tubers should be examined every week or so and any diseased one be removed and destroyed.

Gladioli.

The corms (bulbs) of Gladioli will always winter best when the plants have been allowed to remain outdoors until the maxium growth has been attained and until the stems are in an advanced state of decay. This will ensure that the food material in the stem has been transferred to the bulbs. The bulbs will thus be sound and plump and well able to withstand storage. The plants (stems and bulbs) should be removed by means of a fork, not pulled from the soil, and be laid in a dry place for a few days until the stems wither, the latter may then be removed about six inches above the bulbs, and later when thoroughly dry be removed at the top of the of the bulbs. The Gladiolus are not so particular as to storage as the Dahlias as its bulb is of a firmer texture and is not so watery. It may thus be stored in any frost-proof and fairly dry position even in a temperature as low as 40-50. Stored in boxes, on shelves or even in bags through which the air can pass and suspended from the roof of the cellar the bulbs will safely winter. In all very dry positions it will be best to cover the bulbs with a layer of sand or they will dry out considerably before spring.

Cannas.

The Canna and the Dahlia have much in common. The tubers of both are very tender and will not stand the slightest frost nor will they tolerate any moisture which may come in contact with them in a temperature lower than that required for growth. Moisture may be the cause of the decay and death of the tubers as during storage the temperature, if proper, should be lower than that which would cause growth. From these remarks it will be obvious that the canna tubers should be stored away in a dry position, the atmosphere of which should be at least so bouyant as to prevent the deposition of moisture in the form of dampness on the floors and walls. In any dry position with a temperature of about 50 degrees and covered with a few dry leaves or a little dry, strawy litter, the tubers should survive the winter in good condition for spring planting. The roots of Elephant's Ears may be stored away under the same conditions as advised for Cannas.

LOOK FOR RECORD GAME SEASON

The moose and deer-hunting season is now in full swing in the Province of Quebec and the indications are that game is more abundant than it has been for many years. This fact, together with the rainy weather of the summer, which caused many sportsmen to postpone their visit until the fall, may quite possibly lead to a record season.

The fish and game preservation policy of the provincial government, which has resulted in the phenomenal increase of wild life, is of interest to all sportsmen. Interviewed on the subject recently, Mr. J. A. Belleisle, superintendent of that branch of the government concerned in this policy, said: "For the past fifteen years we have concentrated on game preservation in this province. This has been most effectively accomplished by the establishment of small preserves which are leased to private fish and game clubs. We have now no less than 500 of these and are working steadily to establish more. As a condition of the lease we insist that each club provide at least two fully qualified game wardens whom we license as such. The result is that we have 1,000 game wardens more than our own corps of about 125, maintained at no expense to the government, a far larger number than we could possibly supply were we compelled to do so from public funds. Were it not for this policy, large tracts of country into which the fish and game overflow from these preserves would be utterly destitute of such life on account of the great numbers of sportsmen drawn into the province over whom we could exercise little or no effective control. As it is, the whole country teems with trophies awaiting the sportsman, whether he belongs to a club or not.

"As a proof of the increase of game," Mr. Belleisle continued, "I might say that moose, bear and deer have lately been seen even in the suburbs of our cities and towns. Of recent years, a moose was shot in the very heart of Quebec city, in the square between the Basilica and the city hall, and another near a large apartment house a stone's throw from the Parliament Buildings. On another occasion, a bear was shot in the suburb of St. Roch. All over the province, this increase is apparent. Lake Megantic, the Laurentians, the Gatineau Valley, Temiskaming, Kipawa, St. Maurice, Lake Edward, Maniwaki and other places on the Canadian Pacific lines, are packed."

And, to clinch Mr. Belleisle's case, the following comes to hand from Tem-kip Camp, on Lake Temiskaming: "Moose, deer and bear are very plentiful this season, especially moose. They are all over the place. I have been out for four days with a party from New York city who have never seen anything like the abundance of game we have here."

HUNTING TIME

It's coming up to hunting time,
But I will hunt no more,
My guns are hangin' in the rack,
Behind the cabin door,
My paddles and my bark canoe,
I'll sell 'em for a song!—
Or—maybe YOU could take 'em,
Though I'll not be goin' along.

YOU know the little trail between
The cedars by the lake,
That long ago I taught you was
The better trail to take?
Be careful how you follow up
The rocks along the shore,
You'll have to go alone, my lad,
For I can hunt no more.

And they'll be watchin' all the time,
They'll know you learn't from me
The marshy lands where mallards hide,
And where the best deer be.
And mind that little shoal that runs
A short piece by the shore—
I'll like to feel you know the trail,
When I can hunt no more.

And when you're campin' in the dark,
With just the fire for light—
You'll pity me, a-sleepin'
Indoors, night after night,
And I'll be home a-longin'
For a smell o' cedar smoke,
And they'll wonder if its cold I have,
That often makes me choke!

So—when it comes to hunting time—
Why—maybe you can go,
And I'll sit home and dream a bit,
Of days I used to know.
It's long since first I blazed that trail—
Nigh forty years and four,
'Twas my one love, and when you go,
My heart will beat no more.

A HINT

A priest was once annoyed by people talking and giggling in church. He paused and looked at the disturbers, and said: "I am always afraid to expose those who misbehave for this reason. Some years ago when I was preaching, a young man who sat before me was laughing, talking and making uncouth grimaces. I paused and administered a severe rebuke. After the services a gentleman said to me: 'Father, you have made a mistake. That young man whom you reproved is an idiot.' Since then I have always been afraid to reprove those who misbehave in church lest I should repeat the mistake and reprove another idiot." During the rest of the services, at least, there was good order.

CULLING SAVES FEED AND MONEY

Culling poultry results not only in immediate saving of feed, but aims at permanent flock improvement in the selection of better breeding stock. The recent rise in feed prices should prompt the poultry keepers to prosecute a culling program with unusual vigor.

Careful examination of every pullet on the range should follow closely on the culling of the poor layers. Pullets possessing obvious and harmful deformities should never be allowed to go into winter quarters. Such defects as twisted beaks and toes will hamper efficient egg production, while crooked breast bones, slipped wings, wry tails and roach backs often indicate lack of constitutional vigor and are equally undesirable. Under ordinary conditions, proper economy will eliminate these individuals as soon as they appear. In a year like this, however, when feed promises to be higher in price, the poultryman should cull his flock of pullets with unusual severity.

Only the good pullets can make money during the coming year, says the Department of Agriculture. The late-maturing, slow-growing pullets are not likely to lay many fall or winter eggs. The under-sized, thin pullet is lacking in constitution and is a future menace to the health of the flock. Among the late-hatched pullets only the most thrifty can prove at all profitable. Early-maturing, well-grown pullets of splendid health and vigor have used their feed economically during the growing season and should be found in good flesh. These promising pullets should lay well during the winter months and prove profitable. In the present period of increased feed costs, no other pullets should be kept.

If the present increase in cost of feed serves to induce more widespread and careful culling practice, much good will result to the poultry industry. The smaller, more efficient flock will produce more economically, raising the average production per bird. The rigid selection of breeders will permanently improve the productive qualities of the stock.

Mrs. Brown was able to reach Toronto in time to take in the full programme but Mr. Pounder on account of his lecture here on Monday evening could not be present at the first session held in the Metropolitan church.

FORMER CHESTERVILLE COUPLE ENJOY FIFTY YEARS WEDDED LIFE

Many Chesterville people will gladly join in the good wishes extended to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Elliott, of Calgary, on the completion of half a century of wedded life, of which occasion they are happily reminded in the following epistle by Calgary friends:—

My Dear Friends:—

Just at this oment I am reminded that you are still treading the pathway of life and continuing to make, or help to make all those people happy with whom you come in contact, and it is the wish and prayer of Mrs. Bull and myself that you may be spared to us for many years yet.

But there is another thing, too, and that is a very important one, although, with your usual lack of care for yourselves in your zeal to look after the welfare of others, you appear to be over looking it. And that is, that next Monday, if Mrs. Elliott and yourself are spared to see it, will mark the fiftieth milestone of your married life. Now, I feel almost sure that, if you had not received this reminder, you would have let the day slip past without ever giving any of your friends a chance to tell you and Mrs. Elliott how old you are and how well you are standing the passage of the years, but you cannot get away with that sort of thing with us, and, therefore, whether you like it or not, you are going to have some visitors next Monday, so, BEWARE.

Meanwhile and until we can see you, let me express beforehand the wish I have already uttered here and that is that you may long be spared to us, together with your tried and inseparable partner.

Ever yours sincerely,
J. E. Bull.

A Trick To Try

Raise each hat in turn, gravely eat the biscuit, and with appropriate patter and a suggestion of sleight of hand, replace the hat.

Now undertake that the three biscuits shall be under whichever hat the audience may select. The promise is easily fulfilled by placing the chosen hat upon your head.
