Miller Brothers honoured on birthday

Messrs. Hugh and Harold Miller, lifelong members of the Iroquois community, were surprised at their home, R. R. # 1, on Wed. evening, Sept. 26th, on the occasion of celebrating their 74th birthday, with a visit from their Minister, the Rev. John Hibbs and members of the Kirk Session visitation committee, Mr. Arie den Hartogh, Mrs. Marie Mearns, Misses Anne Yee and Dacie MacKenzie, with Mrs. den Hartogh and Mrs. Arlie English also participating in the occasion.

A specially decorated cake was presented, complete with the ceremony of 'blowing out the candles' which the two hosts participated in, and the gift of an engraved and framed picture of Knox Church, plus baking and other personal gifts.

A good visit was enjoyed, with many reminiscences by the brothers being shared with their visitors. Early afternoon callers also helped to make this anniversary occasion very enjoyable, and much appreciated by the hosts. The Post extends its best wishes also.

St. Andrew's celebration at South Mountain

The 93rd Anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Mountain, was celebrated Sunday evening, Sept. 30th with a capacity congregation filling the sanctuary to share in the observance. The Service was conducted by the Minister, the Rev. John Hibbs, with the Rev. Earl Moore of the South Mountain-Hallville Pastoral Charge of the United Church of Canada, assisting in the reading of the Scriptures, and the Rev. Philip Schissler, guest speaker from St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Kemptville, bringing the Anniversary Sermon, entitled "Faith Leads to Celebration". Mrs. Beatrice Shaver was organist for the Service, and convened the Senior Choir reception for the guests at the conclusion of the Service in the Fellowship Hall.

The guest ministry of music was the popular "Share Singers" from Heckston and the surrounding community, under the leadership of Mrs. Lillian Williams and Mr. Preston Gilmer. The repertoire of music offered by these twelve young people was both exciting and inspirational to all those in attendance. Three original selections, composed from within the group, were sung, in a presentation of nine selections, the group often using modern lyrics that speak of the Christian message. The harmony of the group was only excelled by their vibrancy in singing and personality. The host Minister commended their ministry throughout the

Fire prevention week

Fire Prevention Week seldom stirs up much interest in a community and the event can easily pass by without notice. October 8 to 13 is the week set aside in Iroquois this year to mark the event and firemen will be making calls on local business and industry to check for fire hazards and offer any advice necessary, under the direction of Chief Mac Anderson.

Any resident who wishes to have his home checked may have it done by calling any member of the fire department.

It is unfortunate that the only time we think of the fire department is when we are in dire need of them.... let's all take time to assist them in doing an even better job.

This coming Saturday, the firemen of the area are holding a parade in Cardinal, followed by a dance. The public is welcomed at both events.

Lions Club Trade Show Space Going Fast

Space in the 1973 annual Lions Club Trade Show is going fast and representatives of the committee in charge say that this year's event appears ready to top any previous trade fair in the village.

The event will be held Friday and Saturday, October 19 & 20 in the auditorium at Seaway District High School.

A good number of prizes have been collected from local business and industry and will be given away as door prizes during the two night event.

In addition to the trade show, the Lions will also sponsor a Pub Night on Friday night in the Civic Centre to coincide with the trade fair. These pub nights have been attracting large attendances and the 10 o'clock opening of the pub night will allow visitors to the trade show time to take in all of the show and then have the rest of the evening free for the entertainment in the Civic Centre.

Businessmen who have not yet entered the trade show and who wish space should contact Peter Swank, Frank Rooney or George Jackson as soon as possible so that final details of the show can be worked out by the Lions Committee.

Further information will be made available as the time of the trade show draws nearer.

Thanksgiving Sunday at Knox Church

A Service of Thanksgiving praise will be the keynote of the Thanksgiving Sunday Service of Knox Presbyterian Church, this Sunday, Oct. 7th, with the Junior Choir giving leadership in the ministry of music, under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Bell, organist, assisted by Mrs. Lorraine Norton. Service time is 11 a.m. and members of the congregation are encouraged to bring weekend guests with them. The theme of the sermon address will be: "Do you give thanks? Why?", and special selections of thanksgiving hymns will be sung. The Choir will offer three anthem selections: "Thank You Lord" by Nelson; "How Great Thou Art" by Hine; and "For the Fruit of Thy Creation" a welsh hymn

The Knox Church School will celebrate Thanksgiving Sunday with a special Assembly in the church-hall at 9:45 - 10:45 a.m. Two film showings "Seedtime and Harvest" and "Thanks be to God" will be shown, and a special reading on the origin of true thanksgiving. Junior congregation will share in the Service of Worship at 11 a.m. with teachers and/or families.

Special appreciation is extended to the Knox P.Y.P.S. for decoring the sanctuary for this Service in a harvest-tnanksgiving setting. Weekend visitors of the community are most cordially invited to share in this Service of thanksgiving praise.

Fall has a magic

For those whose blood turns to sludge this time of year we have sympathy but for those others who enjoy these cool brisk mornings we can join with delight.

Maybe those who have a starting problem in the cool of the morning need an STP treatment. It seems to work wonders on television!

The rest of us perhaps need only to get out of bed a bit earlier to enjoy those quiet hours before the traffic starts to stir. It is a time to sit and watch the world awake, to watch the morning mist fade before the rising sun, and to await the slow process of frost being melted from the car windows before we venture outside.

Any day now we can expect to see the leaves taking on a different coloring and a gradual shedding of their summer coats.

The grass stays green, looks a bit shaggy at times, and the eaves trough probably could use a cleaning out. Not to mention that those outside windows will soon have to be put on and all the windows washed. The garage always needs cleaning, the garden cleaned up, the carrots, turnips and potatoes dug and stored; even a few apples put away to keep as long as possible. A crisp apple off the tree can never be beaten and a visit to an orchard this time of year is a pleasure in itself.

Pumpkin time isn't far off in this part of the country and those steaming hot pies of an autumn crop are delicious.

Sure you need a sweater or jacket this time of year if you want to be comfortable outside but that bit of warmth provided also brings you a different feeling.

We miss a great deal of the small pleasures of live by not taking the time to enjoy them. There's no better time than the Fall for getting around outside and taking a good close look at Nature.

It's the cheapest yet more expansive and best entertainment we'll ever find on this good earth. Why not get a piece of it yourself?

THE END TO RIGGS

Mrs. King polished off Bobbie Riggs in their battle of the sexes tennis game. It was a money-maker for the winner and we doubt if Riggs lost a heck of a lot by all the publicity.

If one could stand to listen to his gibberish for 20 minutes he might earn the money back by being an after-dinner speaker.

However, we'd prefer to hear him before dinner, if it became absolutely necessary, because we have doubts that our stomach could hold still that long when full.

We're neither pro nor anti the women's liberationists. We just happen to like the way Mrs. King plays her tennis ball.

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Herb Gray, proposed regulations under the Consumer Packaging and Labelling Act. The new regulations will help consumers in their selection of prepackaged goods by providing more factual information on labels and protecting against fraud and deception in packaging and labelling. OPP Report

Of all the equipment that is used for sport and pleasure in the outdoors, a gun is the most deadly as it is manufactured specifically for one purpose. To Kill. The necessity of strict gun handling rules as taught in the Hunter Safety Training Programme for the safe use of firearms cannot be over-emphasized. These rules must become a habit and used at all times; one mistake could be a fatal one.

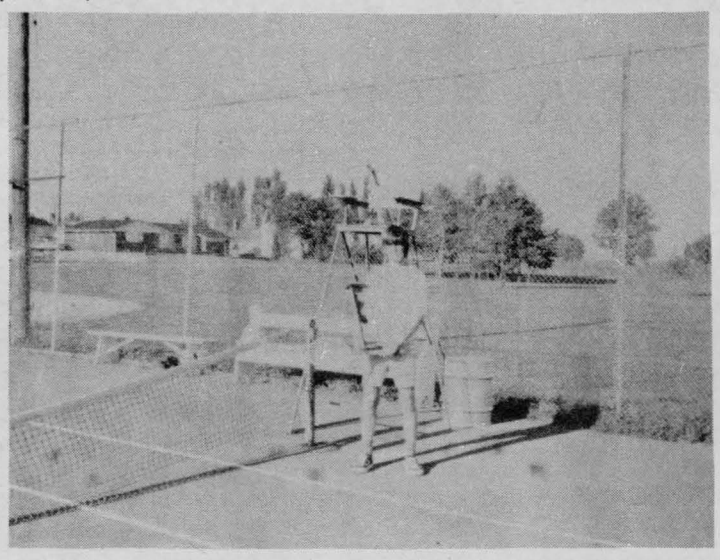

The following rules may be of some assistance in checking to see whether you have developed any bad habits.

-Treat every gun as if it were loaded. It is the "unloaded" gun that frequently causes a fatality.

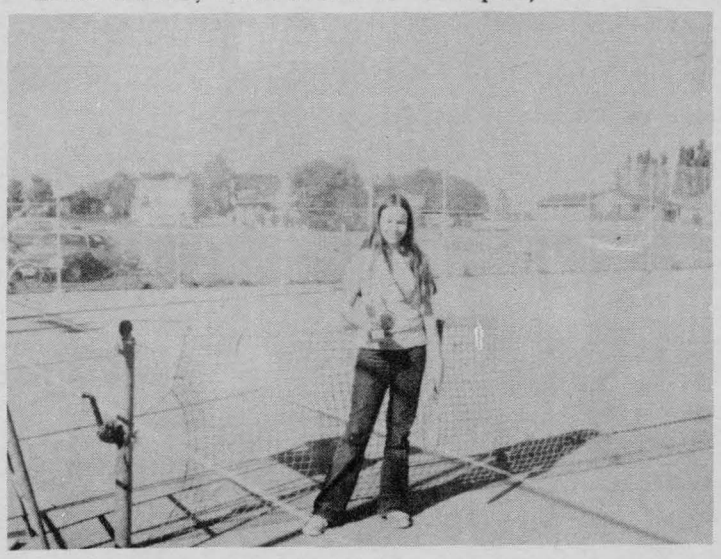

- Guns taken into a camp or a home or transported in a car or boat must be unloaded. They should be taken down or have the actions open and carried in cases to shooting areas.
- Make sure barrel and action are clear of obstructions. Any obstruction in a barrel could cause the weapon to become lethal to the shooter.
- Use approved carries. Always be able to control the direction of the muzzle even if you stumble. Keep the safety on until you are ready to shoot.
- Be sure of your target before you squeeze the trigger. Identify the game you are shooting beyond any doubt.
- Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to shoot.
- Do not use alcoholic beverages or drugs while handling firearms. Be alert. Do not hunt or handle a gun unless you are physically and mentally in good condition.
- Ammunition must be the right size for the gun. The stock and forearm should be in perfect condition while all parts of the gun must be tight for safe use.

Many so-called hunting accidents could have been prevented by adhering to safety rules and using common sense. No doubt we hunters in Ontario are being scrutinized carefully by those in places of authority. If hunting accidents and the indiscriminate shooting of some do not decrease, we can expect more stringent controls over the use of firearms.

All the members of the club wish to express thanks to the merchants of the area for their donations which made this season a great success. This past season saw more tennis played in Iroquois than ever before. The total membership speaks for itself as to the interest, with 114 Seaway Tennis Club members and 20 seasonal ticket holders. Tennis is one of the fastest growing sports in the world today. With the organizing of the Seaway Tennis Club, tennis has been re-established and is a growing concern in Iroquois.

This weekend established the 1st Seaway Tennis Club Champions. The trophies were donated by Iroquois merchants supporting the Tennis cause in Iroquois. Special thanks must go to them all. The following are winners for the 1973 season:

Greater Protection For Lake Trout

Lake trout have not been holding their own in South Eastern Ontario's lake trout waters. Since the coming of the power toboggan coupled with open seasons during the winter and heavy fishing pressure, lake trout populations of natural origin have decreased

It would not be fair to omit the fact that Southern Ontario's lake trout environments are deteriorating steadily, partially due to development along their shorelines, and stepped up eutrophication.

Studies carried out in the old Tweed and Kemptville Districts show where at certain times during the open season, especially in winter, up to 85% of the lake trout caught from one lake were hatchery marked fish. Other lakes ranged in hatchery marked fish to non-marked natural stock, anywhere from 6% to 85% with a considerable number of lakes giving up to over 60% marked hatchery stocked lake trout.

The high rec overy of marked hatchry stocked lake trout is indicative of possibly two main dificiencies. First a deterioration in the environment and secondly the inability of the lake trout to reproduce themselves under natural conditions.

Various studies in the Province of Ontario have shown that the cool clear lake trout lakes lying within the granitic rock of the Canadian shield are only capable of supporting from one quarter to about one half pound of lake trout per surface acre per year because of the low fertility of the lake environment.

In Southern Ontario lake trout lakes lying on the southern tip of the rocky shield country and south of it are more fertile than the northern lakes, and carrying capacities for fish life in general including lake trout is considered higher. High fertility rates are favourable to lake trout up to a point, and it appears that we have for a considerable number of years now, passed that point. Presently, many of the shoals where lake trout previously were known to spawn are heavily silted, and the lake trout no longer use them.

Over the years, other fish species such as pickerel, pike and bass, plus many other species have found their way into our lake trout lakes either by hatchery introductions or other means. Other fish sharing the lake environment along with lake trout tend to compete in varying degrees with the latter for food and space. This, however, is not always a serious problem.

Silt and fertilizer run-off in Agricultural areas are known to hasten eutrophication, and contribute insome instances to silting conditions on spawning shoals, which is not complementary to lake trout reproduction. This, coupled with heavy nutrient discharges from cottages along shorelines all tend to hasten the end to a lake trout environment.

Because of the conditions stated, there are two major changes required if we are to retain the lake trout for future angling. First we need to slow down or prohibit any further linear development of shorelines for cottaging on known important lake trout lakes.

Secondly, a shorter season is required to slow down the present overharvesting of lake trout, as low natural reproduction coupled with present level hatchery stocking is not keeping up to angling harvest levels.

The new season recommended for fishing divisions 9 and 10 would commence the second Saturday in March and remain open to the second Sunday in September, with the creel limit in Division 9 reduced from 5 lake trout in one day to 3 lake trout in one day.

Hopefully winter anglers will turn their attention to the speckled (brook) trout waters for at least the early part of the winter since most of these lakes are put - and - take fisheries kept up by hatchery stocking.

Joining The Pedestrian Generation

Do you believe that where it is "at" is "in the Pepsi generation", or that "things go better with Coke"? If you are unsure about what really turns you on, step out and drink in the out-of-doors sometime. There are two thoughts here - stepping out and drinking in! This describes the experience of rambling out-of-doors on foot and becoming aware of the environment around you. It is good for you and good for the environment.

In this age of the internal combustion engine many people look upon walking, bicycling, jogging, cross-country skiing, snowshoeing and the like as efforts to be avoided if not scoffed at. Yet man was made to be self-propelled. He has moving parts and a source of energy. He was also made as a part of nature and not outside it. He is an important cog in Mother Earth's ecological mix. Afoot, you are in touch with nature and you are moving at a speed at which you were designed to move, to see, to think and to feel alive. Aching muscles and hurting feet are living experiences that are part of the magic of having life.

Since very few of us expect to do something for nothing these days, you may be about to ask, "what can I get out of joining the pedestrian generation?" The answer is improved health and greater awareness of life. An outing afoot provides the opportunity forexercise, recreation and education. These are some of the ingredients of "total health" which adds to quality life. Outdoor activity can enhance physical, mental, emotional and spiritual health. It can also make one conscious of his surroundings. Knowledge, appreciation, perception and action in the out-of-doors will foster a land ethic giving greater regard for the protection, preservation and conservation of our natural resources.

Welcome an opportunity to be in the pedestrian generation. Look for ways you can walk, jog or even skip a few blocks rather than ways to avoid physical locomotion. Step out smartly, breathe deeply, look about you and see!

Duck Hunters ... Stay Away From The Golden

No, we're not referring to the brew, but Goldeneye ducks.

Early regulations concerning waterfowl seasons this year have now been changed and Goldeneye are off the "bonus" list of fair game for hunters.

Indeed, Goldeneyes are not allowed as bonus birds in the hunter's bag this year after October 13, because surveys indicate their population is declining due to heavy hunting pressure and deteriorating habitat conditions. The ducks tended to take up residence in the old nests of Pileated Woodpeckers. Because the Pileated Woodpecker populations have declined drastically all over the continent, the ducks were left without protected nesting sites.

Regulations regarding daily bag and possession limits should now be revised to read "except that on and after October 13 two additional scaup may be taken daily" and "except that after Oct. 13 four additional scaup may be possessed". Goldeneyes will not be allowed as an addition to the bag this year as they were during the 1972 season.

Iroquois Women's Institute meet

Mr. S. Morrell, Seaway High School Science Dept. Head, was the guest speaker at the September meeting of the Iroquois Womens Institute, held in the Civic Centre.

Mrs. Helen Smith introduced Mr. Morrell who spoke on the "Metric System of Measurement", now being introduced in Canada. Mr. Morrell presented his subject with slides and then continued to explain why Canada has 2 basic reasons for adopting metric.

First, the system is a simpler and superior one to our strange diversity of units, inherited from the middle ages and earlier.

Canada,as an exporting nation, can ill afford to be out of step with measuring and packaging practices of present and potential customers. All "emerging nations" have, and are using, metric standards.

The Modern Metric system is based on a system of units introduced in France in 1795.

Mrs. Lloyd Davis thanked Mr. Morrell and presented him with a gift.

Mrs. Donald Hare presided and welcomed the members back following a recess of summer months.

Minutes of the previous meeting and correspondance, which included an invitation from the Morrisburg W. I. to attend their October meeting, was read by the Secretary Mrs. D. Sisty.

Mrs. W. Moffat gave the financial report.

The Lions dinner for Sept. 24 was convened by Mrs. Lloyd Davis and Mrs. W. Moffat.

The Ottawa Area Convention will be held in Cornwall at the Parkway Motel on October 18th and 19th.

Mrs. Davis, convener of the Programme, read several resolutions to be submitted at the Convention.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem followed by refreshments served by Mrs. W. Moffat and Mrs. Davis.

Fire Prevention Week October 8 - 13

Every day of every week, wasteful Canadians run up a fire bill of $3,000,000.00 In a year the IOU of fire is $1,095,000,000 – one billion and ninety-five millions of dollars. This is a staggering debt that all Canadians must chip in and help to pay – either through insurance premiums or else by straining the economy of lost production and unemployment. Either way, we take it on the chin. An obligation not so easily squared is the human toll of fire – deaths of men, women, and children, old and young. Fire is a horrible way to die. And it's terribly expensive.

area in song and recordings.

Addressing the congregation in terms of "the gospel of celebration" the Rev. Schissler developed the theme of "faith leading to commitment, which is the meaning of Christian celebration", a message which both stirred the listeners and gave inspired meaning to everyday responsibilities as "the Church in the world".

The sanctuary was beautifully decored for the Service by the Ladies' Guild of the congregation, under the leadership of Miss Lou Hunter, and an excellent reception was held for the visitors in the Fellowship Hall, convened by members of the Senior Choir. Mrs. B. Shaver thanked the "Share Singers" for their ministry, responded to by Mr. Preston Gilmer; and the Rev. Hibbs thanked the guest Ministers who shared in this occasion, who responded themselves in turn.

Ushers and offering officers assisting in the Service were Wayne and Jim Scott, Ted Robinson and Arnold Shaver, with Mr. Gordon Cumming assisting in the arrangements.

A newly painted church exterior greeted Anniversary visitors, a recently completed project of the congregation. Visitors from local and neighbouring congregations were noted, in particular from Heckston, South Mountain, Mountain, Winchester, Kemptville and members of Knox Church, Iroquois.

Lions Club Donation

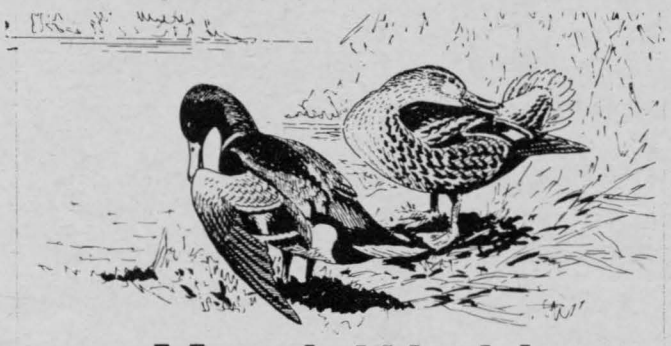

This past year, the Lions Clubs of District A-4, which include 44 individual clubs throughout Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, donated $28,000.00 to purchase an Argon Laser Photocoagulator for the Ottawa Civic Hospital. This machine first became available to use in treatment of eye diseases in 1970 and already medical researchers are lauding its usefulness in conserving sight.

The machine makes use of an old principal that light can burn. As children, most of us can remember burning a hole in a piece of paper with the light from the sun properly focused through a magnifying glass. This machine contains a very bright green light within its works and through a set of mirrors, shutters and lenses, the light is directed at disease in the eye under microscopic control by the Eye Surgeon. As the surgeon directs the light from the machine, burns of microscopic size take place in the retina of the patient's eye at the back. The retina is like the film in a camera. One might shudder to hear of burns being placed in an eye, but these are of such miniscule size that there is no awareness by the patient of any discomfort during the treatment in which as many as five or six hundred such burns may have been placed.

The Argon Laser Photocoagulator is best adapted to use in the treatment of blood vessel deseases in the retina as so often occur in patients with diabetes, high blood pressure and atherosclerosis. These diseases can, in some patients, lead to blindness when the abnormal blood vessels break causing hemorrhages or crack allowing an ooze of plasma outside their walls. The Argon Laser light is then employed to either completely destroy the abnormal vessels or merely cauterize the oozing segments, thereby preventing or correcting these complications. The same machine has been of some value in improving vision in patients who have degenerative disease of the macula or central retina which is the minute part of the eye we use for reading vision and other fine detail.

The Surgeons (Ophthalmologists) who use this machine are quick to report that it is not a panacea. Many patients unfortunately are seen so late in their disease that little can be done and the doctors point to the continued importance of early detection of these problems by regular eye examinations. One words it this way: "It is easy to put out a fire when it is first detected, but much more difficult after it has burned out of control. The same is true of many eye diseases."

Since the Lions Clubs first installed the Argon Laser in August of 1972, several hundred treatments have been performed on patients who live in the District it serves. Many of these have been saved from blindness and its accompanying miseries. One such patient in a letter of thatks to the Lions Clubs, says: "I am now able to read quite readily without glasses, and have hopes that my eyesight will improve still further. Therefore, I express to you, on behalf of my doctor and myself, a profound and thankful realization of what your hard work and generosity have allowed him to accomplish for me."

WATERPROOF — Like water off a duck's back! Without its waterproofing, a duck's ability to float would be lost and it would perish from exposure. To achieve their waterproofing, waterfowl are equipped with an oil gland called the preen or uropygial gland located on the rump. A preening duck passes its bill over its rump to squeeze out the oil and then wipes its bill over its feathers. The preening process also maintains feather structure providing for heat-insulation and a well-groomed appearance.

Report by Walter Baker, M.P.

Walter Baker, Progressive Conservative Member of Parliament for Grenville-Carleton said that Trudeau's cost-of-living speech on Sept. 4, 1973, was the result of the failure of Turner's Feb. 19th Budget to come to grips with rising prices and the desire of the NDP to keep the Government in power despite its inept handling of the escalating cost-of-living crisis. The response by Trudeau on Sept. 4th was a series of contradictions and compromises that are dedicated to ensure the continued survival of the minority government without coming to grips with rising food prices and inflation.

No other industrialized country in the world has ever proposed such meaningless measures as those adopted by Trudeau to contain inflation and to alleviate escalating prices. "Patchwork policies" and "fire fighting" do not adequately describe the Government's commitment to an "urgent national economic necessity".

As to the measures themselves, it is evident that they not only lack internal consistency but that many of them are beyond federal powers, requiring either new legislation or provincial support and approval. As to matters under federal jurisdiction, the subsidy programs announced made a mockery of the February budget. Finance Minister Turner failed and must be made to account for his failures. His budget is "a sick Joke".

Only swelling Government coffers have allowed the Government to pay back the money it collected as higher taxes.

In January, the Liberals rejected proposals for a Montreal oil pipeline. In June, when the Government energy "non-policy" was tabled, it did not foresee such a pipeline in the "mid-term", yet on Sept. 4 it is an urgent necessity to alleviate high prices. Even so, it is by no means evident that such a pipeline will do anything to protect Canadians from the vagrancies of escalating world oil prices.

Trudeau's continued compromise to NDP demands starkly illustrates the "bankruptcy" of Government policies. They don't dare bring forth their own innovative programs for fear that these will be in conflict with the continuing "huffery and puffery" of David Lewis.

Yet, despite this marriage of convenience, the Government's failures will come to haunt them soon. On Sept. 13, 1973, Statistics Canada will release the latest C.P.I., the figures will contain some of the most damaging evidence of the failures of the "New Liberal Democrats" to come to grips with rising prices. It is time they were made to account for this failure.

Autumn Showcase

Despite rain, more than 2,500 turned out for Autumn Showcase at Kemptville College, Sunday, September 23.

Billed as something for everyone, the Autumn Showcase was designed to illustrate the technological progress made in agriculture. Area farmers witnessed some of the more recent research done in faba beans and rapeseed, as well as in livestock feeding and nutrition. Technical information - including costs - of a farm management munure system was dramatized by the Agricultural Engineering Section.

For the children, the most popular displays were the baby ducks and pheasants, a simulated maple syrup operation ;and the maple candy making demonstration. The "Enjoy Ontario Foods" display by Judy Jones and Paula Turner, students in the home economics course, featured a flaming crepe suzette specialty, a wrap-around dessert flavoured with orange juice and a liqueur.

ANNOUNCEMENT

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS:

As of October 1st, 1973, the yearly subscription rate for The Iroquois Post will be $6.00 per year in Canada, $7.00 per year in the United States and 15c per copy over the counter in stores selling this newspaper.

Increased costs of newsprint and wages, as well as related printing materials amounting to about 40% since our last rate increase, coupled with increased postal costs have forced us to take this price increase.

These costs have been mounting steadily in the past few years and increases are forecast for the immediate future as well. We find it impossible to keep producing at the same subscription rate under these circumstances.

By making changes in our processes in printing over the years we have tried to keep these costs in line but some costs, such as materials, are far beyond our control.

Subscriptions will be taken at the old rate until September 30th, 1973.

Thanking you for your support over the years and looking forward to a continuance of that support in the years to come.

Yours sincerely

THE IROQUOIS POST

Watch Where You Sit Down Near Kaladar

The Eastern Ontario countryside does not call forth visions of cowboys, dry gulches, mavericks, longhorns and sheriff's posses. But would you believe cactus? There's a pleasant spot not for from Kaladar where a sharp projection piercing the seat of a picnickers trousers could come from a small, prostrate form of cactus.

Back in 1934 a Queen's University biologist sent a cactus fragment from "scanty soil in crevices of granite rock" from Lennox and Addington County to the Gray Herbarium of Harvard University. He grew a specimen in the Queen's University greenhouse for several years. The cactus remained in relative obscurity until 1967 when the late Dr. R. E. Beschel of Queen's led a field trip of the Canadian Botanical Association to the site in 1967.

Ontario has one cactus occurrence on Point Pelee, a nearly spineless variety. The Kaladar cactus is distinctly spined. The nearest known occurrence of the same species is in Wisconsin and Illinois, at least 600 miles further west. Whence came the Kaladar cactus?

The plant could have immigrated thousands of years ago during a warm and dry period which followed the retreat of the continental glaciers, and become isolated together with a group of southern plants which grow with it. It could also have been brought in the blanket of an Indian or a voyageur during the last century or two. This species of cactus breaks up very easily, and its spine joints will adhere to clothing and even leather boots. Each single joint can grow readily into a new plant if it falls in a suitable place.

The Kaladar cactus grows on rounded coarse granite knob, rich in feldspar and poor in quartz. Most of the surrounding rock has a higher quartz composition. The knob has cactus growing in numerous places among mosses and lichens. Similar rock outcroppings, which have had no forest cover for centuries, are common in that area.

So if you should sit on something sharp on an outing in the Kaladar area, or elsewhere in the great south east, take a careful look. If its a cactus, your nearest office of the Ministry of Natural Resources would like to hear about it.

Trojan ducks and other hunting oddities

At the heart of every great sporting event is at least one small grain of lunacy. Hunting is no exception.

From the files of the Ottawa-Carleton district of the Ministry of Natural Resources comes a letter from conservation officer Eric Johnson who was reporting on Canada Goose kills last year.

The last paragraph reads: "I also heard of one interesting development. A hunter read that oversized decoys were better than life size when trying to attract geese. With this in mind, he constructed a couple large enough to hide behind, requiring one man to carry each decoy into the field. No one knows if these oversized decoys were a success or not, but it was suggested that a slightly larger decoy would enable the hunter to hide inside it. When working in the field, you have to be prepared for anything.

Apparently the hunter hadn't thought of the simplest solution: dressing up as a Canada Goose and waddling out into the field, shotgun under wing.

Hunting also has its difficulties for some on religious grounds.

Before slaughtering an animal for eating, a moslem must first pray over the beast. Recently the Ottawa-Carleton office received a call from a devout moslem who very much wanted to taste venison without breaking a dietary law. Since in most hunting situations the hunter scarcely has time to draw a bead on a deer, let alone say a prayer, the caller wondered if it would be possible for the Ministry to supply him with a deer in captivity thus allowing him time for the proper ceremony.

Unfortunately, the staff was unable to help him.

OPEN HOUSE

Waterfowl at close range. That's the sight you might possibly experience during Open House at the Shirley's Bay migratory bird and waterfowl sanctuary operated by the Ottawa Duck Club on Oct. 28. The Club will sponsor guided tours of the preserve where they have constructed dykes and ponds and provided food for the birds who are protected during their stay on this corner of the 4,000 acre Shirley's Bay Crown Land Game Preserve.
