Old Time Tea-Meeting

An old time tea-meeting will be held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening October 16th, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church, when following a dainty supper an excellent programme will be rendered. Admission 35c and 25c.

Berwick Women's Institute

The Berwick Branch of Women's Institute, held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Wm. Galvin. After the usual business an excellent programme was provided. A paper entitled, "Preparing Fowl for Table and Market." given by Mrs. W. Whittaker, proved to be very interesting as well as practical.

Mrs. S. Hutt and Miss P. Ouderkirk rendered solos in their usual pleasing manner.

Miss Clara McIntosh and Miss Elizabeth Ruddy were appointed delegates to the Womens' Institute to be held in Ottawa.

Merkley—Strader

An attractive wedding ceremony took place Tuesday morning at eight o'clock at the Methodist Parsonage, when Phylis Merkley, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chester Merkley was married to George Strader, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.C. Strader of Williamsburg.

A dantily designed gown of grey georgette and lace was worn by the bride who was attended by Miss Viola Armstrong of Ottawa. Mr. A. Casselman attended the groom.

A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents The couple ieft for a trip to Toronto Niagara, Buffalo and other western points. For travelling the bride wore a tailored suit of navy blue tricotine, black hat and oppossum fur, gift of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Strader will be at home after November 1st at Williamsburg.

William Ross Narrowly Escapes Death

Chesterville was the scene on Tuesday night about ten o'clock of a "didn't know it was loaded" accident which nearly cost William Ross his life, when he received a bullet from a 22 calibre rifle about three inches above the heart. The rifle was in the hands of James Riddell when it was accidently discharged as he was preparing to unload household effects from a wagon at the residence on College street which he was about to occupy. The bullet narrowly missed a main artery passing in a downward direction and lodging between the shoulder blade and a rib. Mr. Ross was able to walk with assistance to the surgery of Dr. Brown where an examination was made without locating the bullet and it was decided to send Ross to Smiths Falls hospital on the midnight train, where he was accompanied by Dr. Lyon. Under an X-ray the bullet was located but was not extracted and unless complications ensue it is likely it will be allowed to remain where it is.

Riddell and his family were moving from the "Fur Farm" north of Chesterville to the village and had sold a horse to Ross who was waiting for its arrival to take it to his own stable. When the wagon loaded with the effects came along Ross followed it into the yard and was standing close by when Riddel picked up the rifle and proceeded to take it from a coat which had been wrapped around it, remarking "Here is a gun" when almost instantly there was a flash and Ross reeled saying that he was done for. Before leaving the farm all the shells had been taken from the magazine of the gun but unknown to the party handling it a shell had been left in the chamber of the barrel and as an automatic catch locked the trigger it did not respond when an attempt was made to snap the gun to make sure it was empty. In the drive from the farm to the village the safety catch evidently was released and when Riddell picked up the gun in some manner unknown it was discharged.

Whittaker the Optician will be in Chesterville on October 10th Finch 11th.

Young People's League Convention at Winchester

The Methodist Young People's League of the Matilda District held a splendid convention in the Winchester Methodist church on Wednesday, Sept. 26th. The gathering was fairly large, delegates having attended from various points between Cornwall on the east and Cardinal and Mountain on the West There were two sessions, afternoon and evening, presided over respectively by Rev. Mr. Howe of Elma, President of the District League, and Rev. Mr. Waddell, pastor of the Convention church.

The Round Table conference at the afternoon session was conducted under the able leadership of Rev. G.G. Burton, B.A., B.D., of Shanly. Many helpful suggestions were brought out during the discussion of several very interesting and important questions.

The two addresses were given by Rev. Prof. E.M. Best of McGill University, Montreal. In the afternoon Dr. Best spoke on the subject "The Meaning of Life" and showed very clearly that our chief duty in life was to save our fellowmen and make real the great kingdom of God in all the relations of life. The evening address was of the same high quality and stressed more particularly "The call of service". He closed with an earnest challenge to the delegates to go home and make their respective Leagues all that they ought to be.

The convention was greatly delighted and helped by two splendid solos rendered by Miss Williamson of Cornwall, and a duet by Miss Williamson and Rev. Albert Henton of Mountain. As these beautiful renderings were listened to it was learned anew the magic power of music and all felt that because of the inspiration that came to them it could be easier to do the hard tasks which meet the hands in the days to come.

The address of welcome was given by Miss Erma Beach, President of the Winchester League, and was replied to in behalf of the delegates by the Rev. W. R. Johnston of Brinston, who spoke very appropriately of the deep appreciation of the delegates for the splendid entertainment provided by the good people of Winchester.

The following are the executive for the ensuing year:

Hon. Pres.—Rev. J. W. P. McFarlane.

President—Rev. J. B. Howe.

Dist. Secy. of Rel. Ed.—Rev. A. B. Ransom.

1st Vice Pres.—Mr. W.S.L. Merrell.

2nd Vice Pres.—Mrs. T. O. Keyes.

3rd Vice Pres.—Mr. Ernest Mills.

4th Vice Pres.—Miss Leitha Murdock.

5th Vice Pres.—Mrs. Essie Coons

Secy. Treas.—Rev. H.S. Cooke.

Finch Cemetery

Following the course which is being widely taken at the present of beautifying the rural cemeteries, the clergy of Finch together with strong committees of the representative men and others interested have got together in a determined effort to improve the "City of the Dead" adjacent to that village. An appeal has been made by means of a letter setting forth the object in view which has been sent to all plot holders, asking their interested co-operation and financial assistance, through whom it is hoped to accumulate a fund to go ahead with the needed renovation and to be in a position to assure all plot holders that the resting place of their dead will be taken care of in the future.

The matter has been placed in the hands of a Board of Directors of which J. W. Carr is Secretary-Treasurer and J. McQuaig, J. S. Merkley, A. McKinnon, A.A. McLean, and G.L. McLean are members, supplemented by a special Committee made up of Rev. J. O. Barron, J.S. Farrell, A. J. McDougall, Arthur McMillan, D. A. McIntosh with Rev. R. J. Wilson secretary. No doubt there will be many readers of The Record in distant parts who will be glad to send contributions to either the secretary treasurer or the secretary of the committee, knowing that such money will be used to make beautiful the earthly resting place of their loved ones who have passed on, as they would be prompted to do were they now citizens of the community.

Not That Bad

Woodstock Sentinel-Review—The president of the National Woman's party in the United States declares that because she believes marriage to be a sort of slavery, she cannot recommend any girl to marry. However, it is probable that a fair proportion of the girls, and the best of them, too, will continue to marry, even without any recommendation Some girls, perhaps, are better off without marrying; in some cases marriage may be a sort of slavery; but when all is said and done, a successful and happy marriage is a prize worth seeking by any girl. And the proportion of prizes to blanks is still sufficiently large to justify the risk. There is the element of chance, of course, but then in accepting life we must accept its chances.

Young Cigarette Smokers

It is not unusual to see boys in their early teens smoking cigarettes, though it is well known to be against the law to sell these "coffin nails" to minors. Dealers are not likely to sell to minors, as it may be taken for granted that someone else supplies them. Those who do so are equally guilty, for the law says that "no person shall either directly or indirectly sell, give or furnish to a minor under eighteen years of age cigarettes, cigars or tobacco in any form." Persons doing so are liable to be fined from $10 to $50. It might be well if the law went further and made any minor under eighteen found smoking cigarettes liable to punishment.

A Gloomy Outlook

Foster, the well known weather prophet whose weather predictions are now published weekly by many newspapers, gives this warning. He says:—I repeat the warnings: North America will not produce enough grain in 1925 to feed our own people and live stock. A great drought equal to that which nearly destroyed Russia, is almost as sure as sunrise. As middle and southern Russia will get good crops in 1925, that country will supply our wants, but North America will pay cash for Russia's 1925 grain. I earnestly and positively warn farmers to save parts of their 1923 and 1924 crops for the great disaster of 1925. All the crops of Northwestern Russia and the late crops of Australia and New Zealand for 1925 will be poor. My cropweather forecasts do not fail along these cropweather drough lines; were positive, clearly made and good for past seven crop seasons.

New "Road Hogs."

London Observer—The magistrate at North London Police Court, dealing with the driver of a horsed vehicle, who was accused of obstructing the passage of a motor-cycle, remarked that there was an outcry against motorists at the present time. No one could accuse him of having the slightest sympathy with reckless motorists, but his observation was that the pedestrians, the users of horse vehicles, and ordinary cyclists had now been transformed into "road hogs." The magistrate added: "I saw a case on Sunday last, when six or seven motor cars were held up by two bicycles ridden by a young man and a young woman. They rode abreast on the crown of the road, and this courting couple prevented any car from passing them between Staines and Windsor."

Driver Offers no Aid

Iroquois Post—An accident that might have had serious consequences happened about 9 o'clock on Saturday night when a horse and buggy, driven by Mr. Allison and also containing Mrs. Allison and son Dwight, was struck by a touring car occupied by a young man and a lady. The car ran to the right hand side of the buggy, striking the rear wheel and bending the axle badly, Mr. Allison and Dwight being thrown to the roadway. The car hit Mr. Allison as he fell, rendering him practically unconscious for a while. He sustained injuries which may lay him up for some time. The horse in the meantime ran away with Mrs. Allison still in the buggy. The reigns were dangling outside the buggy, but fortunately the horse managed to turn into the driveway without upsetting the rig.

After the collison the driver of the car jumped out, but as soon as he saw Mr. Allison could not get up, he jumped back into the car without offering any help, turned off the rear light and made a getaway as quickly as possible.

John Terry happened to be in a buggy about 100 feet ahead and upon hearing the crash turned and came back and got Mr. Allison up and took him home.

It appears there were two cars racing side by side, one slightly ahead of the other, the car that was slightly behind being the one that hit the buggy, and according to a witness the right hand side of the buggy was hit by the left hand side of the car. These same cars also went past the buggy being dragged along by the frightened horse with the reins dangling and Mrs. Allison clinging to the seat of the rig. John Terry who was also driving along the road was forced into the ditch.

A description of the car and its occupants have been turned over to the police department. A part of the license number was noted before the light was turned off, which may help to identify the car and bring its driver to justice. If the owner of the car does not turn up, or is not found by the police, a description of the car, its driver and the young lady will be published in next week's issue of The Post.

"Neither," said the child. "It's for ma's stomach. The doctor said she'd have to diet, and she wants it a pretty color."

McCormick and Deering CORN BINDERS

Cutting corn by hand is very hard work, as all men know who have tried it. In fact it is out of the question to fill a silo with hand cut corn. Yet corn stalks either green for the silo or stacked dry for fodder are the best food for cattle and horses.

The use of the McCormick or Deering Corn Binder will solve this problem You can cut and bind seven acres a day and do it much easier than by the hand method.
