Tainted wine

(Staff) - Local liquor store shelves have been cleaned of wines and sherries that contain an unacceptable amount of a cancer causing ingredient. Following publicity in the media last week Liquor Control Board of Ontario outlets have been hastily pulling from their shelves supplies of a dozen wines under the orders of Ontario consumer affairs minister Monte Kwinter.

In Chesterville LCBO workers have removed two brands from their shelves. The offending brands are Jordan Sippin' Sherry and Jordan Branvin Port.

Morrisburg's store removed three brands. They are Jordan Branvin Port, Jordan Milano Vermouth and Reider's Kirsch.

Legion meets

(Staff) - A general meeting of Chesterville branch of the Canadian Legion will be held November 18 at 8pm.

Still on strike

CORNWALL (Staff) - Unionized non-medical workers of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit remain on strike today after their contract negotiations broke down last week. The workers, who have been without a contract since Dec. 31, are protesting the right of the medical officer of health to dismiss an employee for such reasons as being drunk at work or stealing property of the health unit or of other employees.

Carnival

(Staff) - All interested community groups have been invited to an organizational meeting for the Chesterville Winter Carnival. The meeting commences at 8:30pm at Chesterville Community Hall. Individuals as well as businesses and clubs are invited to attend. Information can be obtained at 448-3285.

Cheque again

(Staff) - A 27-year-old Chesterville resident has been charged with a fifth count of false pretenses after B and E Toys in Chesterville accepted a bad $50 cheque.

Michel Edgar Leduc of Joseph Street is already facing four similar charges for cheques totalling more than $140 at the Morewood Country Store.

The latest charge dates back to Sept. 28, when the Chesterville store accepted a cheque for $50, $40 of which was for cash and $10 for the rental of a movie cassette.

Mr. Leduc appears in provincial criminal court in Winchester Nov. 22.

Court

MOREWOOD (Staff) - A Morewood merchant Essam Ahmad Deeb Abi, 32, who appeared in Provincial Criminal Court in Winchester last Friday, pleaded not guilty to sexual assault charges. Mr. Abi and another man, Payseer Abbelhamid Abdel Karim, 35, were charged but the latter has disappeared. Police speculate he has returned to his homeland, the West Bank, in Israel. The Intelligence Unit of the OPP is working with Inter Pol to locate him.

Remembrance Day at the museum

Remembrance takes many forms and Philip Darling, 7, a Chesterville village resident, appreciated the display held at the Heritage Centre immediately after last Sunday's Remembrance Day ceremonies. The exhibits drew a large crowd which was warmed by the coffee and donuts offered by Society members. Record Photo - Hanrahan

Carl Ward wins third term as voters ignore the weather

(Staff) - Incumbent Carl Ward, campaigning on his five-year record as Chesterville reeve, won his bid for a third term by defeating former deputy reeve Jim Cook with a 135-vote margin in municipal elections last night.

The 48-year-old North Dundas high school teacher received 457 votes. Mr. Cook, who campaigned on his ability to cut through government bureaucracy, took 322 votes.

Bert Van Kessel, 48, was acclaimed as deputy reeve.

Although the helmsmen of the village council are veterans the crew members are rookies. Leading the nine contenders for the three council seats was Shirley Coons, a village insurance broker, with 499 votes. Mike McMahon, a Nestle employee, was second with 424 votes. Taking the third council position was Roger Cole, a Winchester Cheese employee, with 369 votes.

Other poll results were Lorilea Erratt, 307; Joyce Simzer, 115; Hugh Morrison, 102; Peter Van Kessell, 99; Wayne Smirle 89; and Carmen Langabeer, 21.

Despite a cold, rainy election day, there were 2,804 votes cast in Chesterville for a hefty voter turnout of 70 per cent.

In an interview following the election results, Reeve Ward said he pledged his "utmost for the people of Chesterville" and promised to do his best for them as he had done in the past.

Commenting on the closeness of the race, the reeve credited challenger Jim Cook for running "a good campaign."

"Jim came over to see me and I'm very glad he did," he said. "I told him I would continue to act for the people. We had a good conversation."

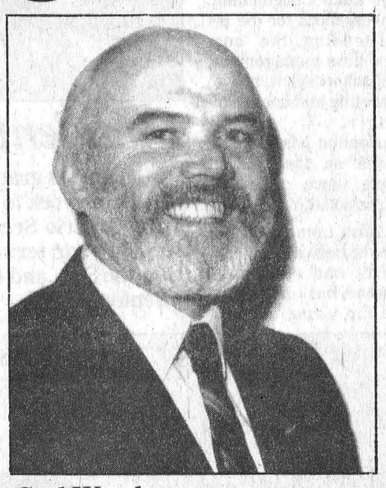
Mr. Cook, who was making his first run at the reeve's job, said his options were open for the next three years. "I'll probably miss it (public life)," he said, "but Vicki (his wife) has got a list of things for me to do this long."

Mr. Cook said he would not rule out another run in municipal politics in three years time.

In Finch Township incumbent reeve Ralph MacKenzie moved a step closer to becoming Warden of the United Counties next year by defeating challenger Harry Dusomos by more than 500 votes.

Mr. MacKenzie, a 64-year-old Jersey farmer, received 779 votes to begin his third term as reeve. Mr. Dusomos, a cash cropper, took 215 votes.

In a four-way race for three council seats, last term's members again got the nod.



Carl Ward

Jersey farmer Floyd Dingwall received the most votes with 673, followed by five-year veteran Archie Byers with 614. Armand Gibeault, a retired farmer who now drives a school bus, picked up 595 votes.

Irvine Rainey, a Finch area insurance agent, received 395 votes in his first bid for a council seat.

Incumbent deputy reeve Donald Shane, first elected nine years ago, was acclaimed.

Veteran Osnabruck Township reeve Stewart Hart is back in office today after narrowly defeating challenger Garnet Ezard by 53 votes. Mr. Hart polled 843 votes while Mr. Ezard, a former deputy reeve, picked up 790 votes.

Newcomers Jim Bancroft, 40, of Lunenburg, and Donald McElheran, 29, of Iroquois join veteran councillor Carson Elliott at the council table. Mr. Bancroft led the polls with 953 votes. Trailing were Wayne Summers, 380; George Hehir, 513; Sue Doucett, 249; Michael Dunne, 445.

With Reeve Gerald Holmes acclaimed, the major race in Winchester Township was between incumbent deputy reeve Claude Cousineau and former reeve Cecil McNabb. Mr. Cousineau, a 41-year-old Morewood businessman, defeated Mr. McNabb 727 to 468.

Newcomer Robert St. Pierre, a 39-year-old service station operator, and Jack Durant, a 46-year-old businessman, won council positions with 597 votes and 533 votes respectively. Incumbent councillor Dwayne Holmes was re-elected with 564 votes.

Veteran councillor Albert St. Pierre lost in his bid for re-election with 472 votes.

Other poll results were: Ken Stewart, 384; Norman Backes, 193; Douglas Warren, 169.

Slightly under half of the township's 2,404 voters turned out for the vote.

Councillor John McIntyre, a Jersey farmer from the Avonmore area, was elected Roxborough Township's reeve with 801 votes. Mr. McIntyre defeated his closest rival, deputy reeve George Crites, by 241 votes.

A third candidate, Edmond Saucier of Moose Creek, polled 38 votes in his second bid for the reeve's chair.

Incumbent councillor Ray Alquire was returned with 747 votes and will be joined by newcomer Laurent Souligny and Gilles Sabourin, who served on council from 1976 to 1980.

Mr. Souligny, a 41-year-old dairy farmer and egg producer, received 673 votes. Mr. Sabourin, a Maxville teacher, received 698 votes.

John Brabec, a sheep farmer, and Erwin Loewen, a Cornwall mechanical maintenance superintendent, were defeated in their first attempts for council seats. Mr. Brabec took 448 and Mr. Loewen 449.

Deputy reeve Donald Cumming was acclaimed when ill health forced Peter Mesman to withdraw from the race.

More than 80 per cent of Finch village's eligible voters cast ballots in Monday's polls which saw the election of two new councillors and the defeat of two incumbents.

Garry Ouderkirk, a 37-year-old lift-truck operator at Nestle, received 168 votes, the largest show of support in the village election.

Incumbent councillor Barry Brownlee was returned by a vote of 165.Newcomer Terry Ouderkirk won a council seat with 158 votes.

Don Volrath was returned as councillor with 157 votes.

Incumbents Dalton Ouderkirk and Robert Casselman lost their seats with votes of 90 and 99 respectively.

Lynden Hough, the village's reeve since 1963, won his seat by acclamation.

Chesterville is stop on march

by Alvah Hanrahan
and Carolyn Beckstead Record News Staff

It was snowing and the temperature had dropped when the first two walkers reached Chesterville. One of them leaned down near the gravel shoulder of the road and drew a smiling face in the loose stones. The signal meant they had found the village and another step in the long walk from Montreal to Ottawa was over.

Last Saturday four very tired people -- native people from Canada and Peru -- completed the route part way from Caughnawaga Mohawk Indian reservation just outside Montreal.

The 300 people who started out trickled down to just four by the time Chesterville was reached. The village was one step closer to Ottawa where the native peoples planned to picket the Guatemalan Embassy.

The group is protesting the treatment of native people in Guatemala by the government of that country. The group wants to "denounce and condemn the government of Guatemala for the violent repression and genocide against the native people of this country," according to a pamphlet distributed by the group called the Coalition of Indigenous People of the Americas.

It was the material in this pamphlet which led the board and minister of the Presbyterian Church in Chesterville to refuse them lodging overnight in the village. The group had earlier applied for overnight accommodation through the church and received a positive reply.

"When we received information that their purpose was to put political pressure on the government we didn't want anything to do with it," said Rev. Bert de Bruijn.

"As a church we don't believe that's the way to go."

"There's lots in the mainline churches that do but our local group felt that's not the way to go."

One of the marchers, Mary Anne Angeconeb, a native of north west Ontario, said of the local church's attitude, "maybe they don't want to get involved and it's understandable."

Rev. de Bruijn said "what Christians ought to do is be involved in the political arena and go about it in the proper channels."

Mary Anne's fellow walker, Theresa Kakekagumick, said the march, from her point of view, was aimed at alerting people in Canada about the genocide being systemically carried out against Indian tribes in Guatemala.

"We're doing this in solidarity with them, educating people, although we're just a little group."

"We're trying to raise money for refuge camps too," she explained.

The march, which boasted 300 supporters at the beginning, was filmed by the CBC in Montreal. Audrey Mitchell, a MicMac Indian from Restigouche, Quebec, said she expected much more media coverage than they saw on television. They waited around the television set on their first overnight stop in Beauharnois and Audrey said they couldn't believe the news clip lasted only 30 seconds.

Their route commenced at Caughnawaga and proceeded to Beauharnois. Their second night, last Thursday, was spent at St. Anicet. Friday night was scheduled for St. Regis on Cornwall Island. The Saturday night stop was planned for Chesterville but the group had to be transported back to St. Regis by car late Saturday afternoon after walking to the village. They were driven here again Sunday morning and proceeded to their next goal, Metcalfe. After another overnight stop there they reached Ottawa Monday night.

Yesterday, before press time, their aim was to present their views to the authorities at the Guatemalan Embassy.

The co-ordinator of the walk, Felix Atencio, a Quechua Indian from Peru, said "we're all brothers and we've got to do something." "We not protesting. We just want to inform the Canadian government" that Indians in Guatemala were suffering at the hands of their own government.

A very small band of marchers, four in all, entered the precincts of Chesterville village last Saturday on a cold and snowy day. Felix Atencio, left, and Audrey Mitchell, represented the indigenous peoples of the world as they continued their walk from Montreal to Ottawa to present a petition to the Embassy of Guatemala. The group was protesting the genocide of Indians in that country. Record Photo - Beckstead

Car bomb found planted in truck

MOREWOOD (Staff) - A Halloween prank could have become a tragedy here when a garage owner found a home-made bomb in his truck's engine.

Germain Baker, owner of Morewood Tire and Towing Service, found the makeshift explosive device in his truck last week after he noticed the truck was running poorly on only seven cylinders.

Sgt. Robert Lyon of the Winchester OPP detachment said Mr. Baker found the device behind the alternator.

An oil canister filled with an unknown fluid was lodged behind the alternator. One end of the canister was sealed with a type of cement and a spark plug was attached to the canister and also to the cylinder.

The district's bomb expert, Sgt. Earl Bowes of the Long Sault OPP detachment, has sent the fluid to the Centre of Forensic Sciences in Toronto for identification.

Sgt. Lyon said the device was certainly intended to explode. Probably only a fault in its design prevented a fire.

Mr. Baker said the bomb was planted some time last Friday night. "It was not there Friday morning," he said.

The truck is usually parked on the street but he moved it off the street Saturday, its windows covered with soap.

On Monday, he drove to Winchester and noticed the truck was running very roughly. He examined it later that day and found the device.

He said the truck, which is used as a spare vehicle in his business, could easily have been lent to a customer by chance with the bomb intact.

"If someone leaves his car there and he needs a ride home we lend him the truck," he explained.

Luckily, he said, the truck was sitting in the garage. He noted too that had the container of the bomb been a more appropriate choice then the bomb might have exploded. "They didn't use the right sort of container," he said. "If they had the truck might have been set on fire."

He said he had no idea who planted the bomb but did suggest the trick might have been a carryover from Halloween, coming as it did about 24 hours after Halloween.

Constable Howard Smith of the Winchester OPP detachment is investigating.

Young president

MOUNTAIN (Staff) - Two presidencies, basketball practices and homework leave Julie Lamb little time for watching television.

The grade 13 North Dundas District High School student is a regional president of the Ontario Secondary School Students Association (OSSSA) as well as head of her school's students council.

As president of a region stretching from Cornwall to Kingston, she said the council of about 17 tries to meet every three weeks "to compare notes and see how everyone else is doing."

"Besides our own regional council, I go down to Toronto four times a year," she said, to meet with the other 11 regional OSSSA presidents and the association's president, a girl from Guelph.

The provincial council discusses any problems with a company, such as fund-raising or yearbook publishing firms, that deals with student councils.

She said the OSSSA may also for the first time become involved with a political issue, a teachers' strike in the Guelph area.

"The OSSSA has never taken a political stand," she said, adding the association's reluctance is caused by its dependence on the provincial ministry of education for funding.

But if it becomes involved in this particular dispute, it would only voice concerns for the students. "We're not for the teachers' side and we're not for the board's side. We're for the students."

At the regional level, the council tries to plan the scheduling of individual schools' events to avoid conflicts and works to promote school spirit by encouraging rivalries between schools.

However, she said there's no need to promote competition between North Dundas and its rival, Seaway District High School in Iroquois. "That one kind of looks after itself," she said.

The region is now planning a conference for student leaders March 22 and 23 at Kingston.

She was elected to the OSSSA in September at a five-day conference of student council members at Lake Couchiching. Among the workshops for the 144 students attending the conference were time management, promotion of school spirit, how to conduct a meeting and communication skills.

Great attention has recently been focussed on the role of young people since 1985 was named International Year of the Youth. But Miss Lamb said her youth has never been a handicap.

"I haven't had a situation where someone has discounted me because I'm young."

Presidential poise

North Dundas grade 13 student Julie Lamb takes a break from homework to discuss her job as regional president of the Ontario Secondary School Students Association. Her one-year term as president of a region stretching from the S.D. and G. board to Frontenac County began in September. Record Photo-Johnston

Rotary

By C.A. Graham

A fine meal of roast lamb was followed by a spirited sing-song led by Rotarian Chuck with Elsie Graham at the piano.

It was club assembly night so we had no speaker. Rotarian Dave Robinson was appointed secretary of the club. Our previous secretary John Macaulay, was made an honorary member as he had resigned because of health reasons.

Rotarian Jim Cummings just returned from holidays having visited relatives in the New England States. He kept up his attendance by visiting Rotary Clubs in that area. Many of those clubs have breakfast meetings at 7 o'clock in the morning. Jim presented our club with several club banners of those he visited.

Weekend accidents

(Staff) - Three week-end accidents are being blamed on slippery roads during the area's first taste of winter.

The first of the trio occurred at 7:35pm Saturday. Julie Williams, 17, of RR1, Winchester was westbound on County Road 13 west of Morewood when she lost control of her car on the slush-covered road.

The car entered the south ditch and struck a mailbox. She was not injured and no charges were laid. Damage to her car, a 1972 Dodge, is estimated at $1,300.

Two hours later, Scott Johnston, 16, of Winchester was travelling west on Highway 43 near North Dundas District High School. He too lost control of his car on the slippery road, slid into the ditch and then struck a sign at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

There were no charges and he wasn't injured. His car, a 1983 Mustang, sustained an estimated $1,000 damage.

At about 10:35pm Saturday, John McElheran, 25, of Prince Edward Island escaped injury when his car skidded on slush-covered roads into a hydro pole, breaking it off.

He was driving on County Road 9 north of Chesterville when the accident occurred. No chages have been laid. His car, a 1980 Ford, received an estimated $2,800 damage.

Police called for an examination of a car by the Ministry of Transportation and Communications when its steering mechanism apparently failed, causing it to swerve into a ditch backward.

Paul Bjergso, 20, of Inkerman was driving south on County Road 8 south of Chesterville at about 8:45pm Saturday when the steering mechanism broke.

He wasn't injured and no charges have been laid. Damage to his car, a 1981 Ford, is estimated at $1,000.

A Gloucester woman has been charged with careless driving after police say she fell asleep while driving north of Winchester Friday.

Shirley Hayes, 60, of Kingsdale Avenue, Gloucester was driving south on Highway 31 at about 8:20am when her car left the road, entered the west ditch and rolled over.

She was taken to Winchester District Memorial Hospital with minor injuries.

CNIB collects record Dundas amount

(Special) - The fall meeting of the Dundas County Advisory Board of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind was held in the Women's Institute room at the Community Hall in Chesterville on Wednesday, November 6, at 8pm with 14 members attending.

Treasurer Dennis Rose reported on the money received from the annual canvas up to this date. Some areas in the County have still not completed their canvas. Mr. Rose reported that of the $13,230.00 he has received from the canvas to date, Dundas county presently registered with the CNIB but Mr. the Winchester and Mountain Lions Clubs have been responsible for collecting over 50 per cent of the above totla.

Administrator Douglas MacArthur gave an interesting talk and demonstration of various articles that could be used by those with partial vision. He said he wished that persons with partial vision would contact their doctor for an appointment with an eye specialist, to enable them to receive treatment from the low vision enhancement program the CNIB has recently found very helpful. There are 29 people in MacArthur thinks it is possible there is also a number of people in the county who could benefit from this low vision program.

New road signs to spruce up Chesterville

(Staff) - Chesterville wants to spruce up its road signs at the entrances to the village. In one of its last acts as council, the members have requested United Counties administrator Raymond LaPointe look into the matter. Council has asked for new signs for the highway 43 entrance as well as the road leading to county road 7.

Oil price

Town foreman Jack Smith has been looking into diesel prices for village vehicles. Since quotes from both the Co-Op and Texaco were the same the decision was made to buy from Texaco, the new business in town.

Town Hall

The door hinges on the community hall are in bad shape and security of the hall is at risk. Fred Lobb has been asked to rectify the situation. As well a new lock is needed for the Public Works Building. The fire hall needs a panic bar and an exit light.

Fire hydrants

All fire hydrants in the village area have been oiled and pumped. As yet the lines have not been flushed and chief Mike Fyke is looking after the situation.

Pitcher Drain

Reeve Carl Ward and foreman Jack Smith met with the reeve of Winchester township to discuss the Pitcher Drain. Mr. Ward suggested the village could pay for the cleaning and then collect costs from those ratepayers involved. Winchester township reeve Gerald Holmes will contact the South Nation Conservation Authority regarding the erosion control grant and cost-sharing between the village and SNRCA.

Survey underway

BERWICK (Staff) - Like many other area municipalities the township of Finch has requested that the Ontario housing ministry undertake an assisted housing survey in the township to determine the needs or demands for seniors' housing.

Severences

The following severences have been approved by council: Peter and Lynda Babcock to sever a lot to Lynda Babcock from a commercial property: Harmen Witteveen to sever a lot to Harmen Witteveen and Aartje Witteveen for a retirement lot; Johannes Bakker to sever a farm (97 acres) from a lot to be retained for a retirement lot; Clement Rushford to sever a lot on the sixth concession for sale to his daughter.

Street light

Council has decided to install a street light in the village of Crysler opposite the residence of Denis Raymond.

THE CHESTERVILLE Record Editorial / Opinion

Political morals

In recent years a discernible decline in public morality has come to characterize the tenor of our times.

Most symptomatic of this trend, in Canada at least, is the visible increase in the rate of patronage appointments. The last days of Mr. Trudeau's prime ministership were flawed by an almost unprecedented number of blatently political rewards. This unfortunate pattern has continued unabated under our new masters, the Progressive Conservatives.

Most recent of the events which offend the public's sense of the way things ought to be done, is the survival, so far at least, of Richard Hatfield. Last weekend New Brunswick's embattled premier hung on to political life by his fingernails. If he continues to stay alive politically he'll lead his party into the next provincial election. Meanwhile, his endorsement by the party was marred by the provincial party organizers' refusal to disclose the numbers of votes which kept Mr. Hatfield in the picture. One wonders what they have to hide.

On the federal scene Suzanne Blais-Grenier, formerly environment minister and now demoted to the post of junior transport minister, has to go. But not to Paris, Stockholm, Helsinki or Leningrad. She's been to those places already at great expense to the public purse. Around $60,000 or so.

That lady's haughty disregard of the proprieties sets her in a class of big spenders of public money all on her own. The self-indulgence displayed in her vacation wanderings, a huge freebie, reveals her to be completely unsuitable as a minister of the crown.

A further disregard for maintaining high moral standards was the prime minister's refusal to call for the resignation of a member of parliament who was recently convicted for wife-beating. Behaviors like this ill become the leaders of government.

Rural voting

Voting hours in this year's municipal election must have been dreamed up by some bureaucrat at the Ontario Municipal Board who was under the illusion he or she lived on another planet.

With voting hours from 11am until 8pm only those voters able to reach the polls after normal working hours were able to vote. This situation favored the urban ratepayers who emerge from their places of employment around 5pm. But many urban residents commute to larger centres and are unable to reach their homes until much later. Someone leaving home at 7am headed for the city may not arrive back until after the polls closed.

To prevent people from voting on their way to work seems to be an exercise in lunacy.

Many people turned up at the polls at the normal hour of 9am only to find out they had to return closer to lunchtime.

Another aspect of the municipal election this year is the day chosen for voting. With 220 weekly newspapers in the province of Ontario, all of them going to press Tuesday, the timing for reporting the election is difficult to understand.

The weekly newspapers wanting to report the election when it was happening had to scramble to make arrangements to include the last minute news long after normal deadline. Leaving the reporting for the next issue meant the story would be stone dead.

One can speculate someone responsible for organizing the election forgot the second Monday of November fell on a holiday this year.

The weeklies, of course, are flexible enough to make arrangements to hold their front pages open to report the election. But thousands of voters will have lost their chance to vote because of the peculiar voting hours this year.

by Wyn Thompson

On this November morning, the bush across the way was bereft, the trees stripped of beauty and life. But their black and bony branches did reach up into the prettiest sky I had seen in a long time.

The dull, dark clouds which had shrouded our area for a week had miraculously blown away. The sky was like a canopy of pale blue, lucent with light and silvery sunshine. And it was not raining. As I made breakfast, a conversation of the previous day came to mind.

I had asked a farmer friend how the farming business was going. "Well," he said, "I can only speak for myself and it seems that I am always robbing Peter to pay Paul." A gloomy expression dulled his fine intelligent eyes, and there was an unfamiliar droop to his mouth.

"I scrimp and save and economize in every conceivable way, and yet I am always beset by the most acute financial worries. Income from the farm operation is continually being swallowed up by general overhead, maintenance of the property and farming equipment. And that is only minor maintenance, at that!"

"New equipment is a luxury one simply cannot contemplate now; it has become a process of weld and repair again and again, meet frustrating in critical harvest periods. And one cannot afford a mechanic except for highly specialized repairs," he continued.

"Even with having introduced the greatest efficiency and improved my farming methods, my latest projections indicate that I will not be out of the red and into the black for another couple of years," he concluded.

Until then cash flow will continue to be an excruciating problem, and what he sorely needs is some ready cash to put things on an even keel, but there is scant possibility of getting that, he informed me.

"A farmer can always sell animals, other than those sold according to the annual culling process, but I am reluctantly to resort too strongly to this measure, since I do not want to deplete the herd. But I certainly may have to," he emphasized.

"And the alternatives to the farmer's dilemma are terrible to contemplate. Recently I heard a radio report say that it will take a war, massive floods, or severe drought in another area of the world to improve farm prices here," he shook his head.

"Then too, in a recent issue of 'Agrinews' Del O'Brien, chairman of the Ontario Agricultural Council, said that the plight of today's farmer has to be related to the urban community if the farming industry is to be understood and the futures of those working the land improved," he advised me.

"Mr. O'Brien also suggested that farmers today have not got the friends they've had historically. And he urges that the farm story he told soon before the movement toward ignoring farmers solidifies."

As we parted, he handed me a piece of paper assuring me that the following would provide me with food for thought:

-Today, is real dollars, farmers are only making two-thirds of what they earned in 1970.

Asset values are down to the point where lost equity was three times the total farm income in 1982 and 1983.

-The only way for Canadian farmers to survive is if they get together and set up a marketing system of their owned based on established practices that control production and prices.

In the day's mail was the Women for the Survival of Agriculture Newletter and I quote from it, in an attempt to end this column on a positive note.

It seems that a group of concerned women from Chesley, Ontario have developed a notice to be put in supermarkets.

YOU THINK IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE

You as a consumer should be aware that Canada is losing approximately 16 farmers a day because of low prices for their products and high interest rates.

By insisting that you buy Canadian food at the supermarket you ensure your own future. Every dollar created by Agriculture makes seven dollars in the economy.

We cannot compete with highly subsidized imports that should be sold at the same or higher prices than domestic products.

Do you want to live in a country that is completely food dependent on other countries?

Whoever controls the food controls the people. Third World countries are paying their national debt with food while their own people starve.

IF YOU EAT YOU ARE INVOLVED IN AGRICULTURE

The notice ends with the admonition BUY CANADIAN.

This past year I have got into the habit of checking everything I purchase for that sticker. Where I fall down badly is in my purchase and consumption of teas and coffees for, of course, they cannot be produced in Canada. But, Canada does produce fruits, vegetables, grains, dairy products, and wines in great abundance. And at a good price to the consumer.

The most postive note of all to end with is that the budget just announced by the Ontario Liberal government appears favorable to the agricultural community. The total amount of money allocated to agriculture has risen 21 per cent - certainly a commendable effort on the part of treasurer Robert Nixon. I hope every effort will be made to return the industry to a healthy state.

Chesterville's Past

05 From the Record, Thurs., Nov. 16, 1905

Owing to business relations Mr. W.B. Lawson informs us that it will be impossible for him to accept the reeveship for the ensuing term. The people of Chesterville will be sorry to hear this as there could be no more capable man for the position in our municipality. Also Mr. L.A. Zufelt who has been an efficient councillor during the past year finds it impossible to act in a like manner during the coming year.

Mr. W.O. Wert's cheese factory at Avonmore was broken into last Saturday night and seven boxes of cheese stolen. Mr. Wert offers $100 for the recovery of the goods.

On Wednesday the little village of Maxville passed a by-law to grant a bonus of $1,000 to Mr. McDougall, to help him rebuild his grist mill, which was recently destroyed by fire. The vote stood 103 for, 21 against.

There being some doubt as to whether the by-law had received a sufficient number of votes to carry it. Reeve McEwen came to Cornwall yesterday and consulted James Leitch, K.C., on the subject, who expressed opinion that it had not.

The first annual banquet of the Finch Cheese Board on Friday evening was a success in every sense of the word. Buyers, salesmen and manufacturers, makers and patrons turned out in large numbers while the people of the village of Finch extended generous patronage...

Mr. J.R. Simpson, president of the Finch cheese board, was master of ceremonies, and performed the duties involved upon him in an able manner.

25 From the Record, Thurs., Nov. 12, 1925

Sometime during the night of Thursday last burglars made raids on two of Chesterville's most prominent business places when the stores of Coyne and Allison and of Fulton Bros. were entered and a considerable amount of cash taken.

Entrance to Coyne and Allison's was made through the floor and feed warerooms of Melvin Durant where a door locked on the Durant side led into the former's storeroom. From this point entrance was made into the main store by smashing through a door at the foot of the heavy goods alley into the basement proper, from which place it was easy to gain the main floor of the store.

The thieves were apparently only after the cash as it is not known that anything else was taken.

It seems a difficult thing to bring all the people to recognize Armistice Day in the manner desired by two minutes of silence. We believe it would be observed with more meaning to most people if the celebration of it were to coincide with Thanksgiving Day each year.

When the condensary whistle was sounded at the appointed time yesterday morning our citizens could be seen scurrying in different directions looking for the fire of which the whistle was supposed to be the warning.

45 From the Record, Thurs., Nov. 15, 1945

A crowd of 500, with many more being unable to find room, attended the Remembrance Day Service in the Community Hall, Sunday afternoon which was sponsored by the War Veterans of Chesterville and District, and conducted by Rev. W.E. Wright and Rev. R.C. Crozier of town, and Rev. E.A. Martineau of Morewood.

Led by the Citizens' Band, the parade of veterans of both wars, Nursing Sisters, Red Cross and the High School Cadets formed up on the lawn of Trinity United Church at 1:30 to parade to the hall for the two-o'clock service. The Union Jack and Stars and Stripes were carried by veterans of World War I, and the parade was in charge of Major L.H. Doering.

The Life of Riley

by Wayne Riley

Whack. The hammer slammed into the side of the cement block and was immediately enveloped in a cloud of black soot.

Waving my hand at the dark, growing cloud, I took off my wife's sunglasses and pulled down the diaper I was using as a dust mask. Good grief, not even a crack in the block.

Angry and frustrated, I cursed myself for having bothered to repair this closet. If I had left it alone, had I not pretended to be a handyman, I would not have noticed that one section of the upper closet was closed off.

If I had not noticed that one section was closed off, I would not have been so curious to find what was behind the board. And not seeing the board, I would not have pried it open to find the remains of a chimney sitting on a shelf in a bedroom closet.

I mean, let's be serious. When a guy decides to fix a closet, he expects a few bent nails. Maybe some rotted wood. But a chimney in your closet. That's got to be some kind of sick joke.

So now, my hands black, my shirt black, my diaper dust mask black and my mood black, I was in no mood for games.

Where were the vacuum cleaner bags? I savagely tore through the rubble around the closet. Could my wife not put a simple thing like a vacuum cleaner bag in a place where her husband could find it. The fallout of soot was now coating the furniture, the rug, my hair. This was the final straw. I was going out to the living room and give my wife a piece of my mind.

"Heidi," I shouted as I tore open the bedroom door and stormed into the living room. "Where are the ....

"Arrgghh."

I fell backwards and grabbed my foot as I thrashed around on the floor.

"Wayne, what's wrong?," my wife asked.

"My toe, I stubbed my toe on that stupid playpen," I said as I cuffed the playpen with my hand. I hobbled to the sofa and examined the injured little toe. It was sort of reddy-pink and leaning to one side.

But the wound was more than physical. As I lay there on the sofa, contorted with pain, my wife laughed. I had come out in anger and she was now amused. Once again I had been the victim of lousy timing.

Timing can make or break you in this world. It's everything. The late comedian Jack Benny had great timing, knowing just when to pull the right face or make the right gesture to get himself out of a tight situation.

I am no Jack Benny.

No, my timing is the timing of a $2 watch, the kind of timing that let's you say and do the right things at the wrong time.

It's the kind of timing where, suddenly realizing how lucky a man I am, I tell my wife out of the blue how much I love her.

"Okay, what did you break?," she says.

"No, no, I didn't break anything. I just love you."

"You men think love is the answer to everything. You didn't take out the garbage. You didn't finish the dishes. Now you think everything will be all better by saying that you love me. Men think life is so easy. You think all you have to do....."

As the words continue to be flung at me, I realize that I have told my wife I love her while she is in a bad mood. A husband may tell his wife that he loves her while she's in both glad and sad moods. But not bad moods. That's just asking for trouble.

When you have bad timing the whole world is out of sync. On an early date with my wife we were standing by the door of my suite in university residence. I was leaning against the door, propped up on an out-stretched hand and deciding when I should dramatically kiss my wife-to-be, when my roommate opened the door from the other side.

When I was younger I believed that bad timing was all just part of being a youthful klutz. It was a time when I would suddenly lurch into the sides of buildings while walking downtown, a gangly stage when my limbs and my mind were two separate entities.

At home, no matter how much distance I put between myself and the wall phone, I would hear the stretch of coil and the crash of the receiver on the floor everytime I passed by it.

In the basment, where the lightbulbs were screwed in at the forehead level, I found myself cursing more than once in the darkness after hearing a muffled explosion and seeing a momentary cascade of glittering glass fragments in front of my face.

One year I smashed off four lightbulbs with my head. My parents told the neighbours that I was going through "that stage". The neighbours always nodded.

But that was years ago. I had matured now. I could walk without stumbling. I no longer considered it a poor investment to buy lightbulbs with five-year guarantees.

I soon realized that timing was a special knack and not part of the normal development package.

My mother and father had timing. Whenever my brothers and I were doing something wrong, they were there without fail. My mother called it a "Mother's intuition". My father called it "damn lucky I came in here before you destroyed the whole house".

My wife's timing is nothing to be sneezed at either. Once, while in an already black mood, she found a clay turtle that I had dropped seven months before and glued back together. Through seven months of good moods, when the turtle's fate could easily have been laughed away, it lay hidden. Now, when I most needed her to think about my finer attributes as a husband, the turtle had surfaced.

At any other time she would have praised me for the time and trouble in gluing her turtle back together so well that only the missing two-inch chunk- which I never did find -- gave away the fact that it had even been broken.

But now I was being blasted. I called a time-out before I got into worse trouble. She still hadn't found the broken planter.

Back on the sofa, I massaged my toe and decided to call it a night. We went to bed and I leaned over to set the electric alarm clock. The numbers were gone.

I suddenly realized that I had unplugged it when we went away for the weekend. I would have to leave the cozy warmth of the bed to find out what time it was.

Figures.

March of remembrance

Chesterville's annual Remembrance Day parade was attended by a crowd despite the cold, snowy weather. The parade was augmented by local groups of guides and scouts at all levels and the Legion branch led the way through chilly temperatures. A display at the Heritage Centre immediately after the ceremony exhibited local war artifacts lent for the occasion by veterans of the two world wars and the Korean conflict.

Five Ls secret to successful parenting Ottawa professor tells Maple Ridge parents

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - The secret to successful parenting, Ottawa University's Dr. Henry Coady told about 150 parents and educators here last Thursday, is a combination of five Ls.

Dr. Coady revealed the key to good relationships with children at the annual school committee seminar held here. This year's meeting was hosted by Maple Ridge Senior Public School.

The presentation called "Raising Responsible Children" by the Ottawa University professor preceded a panel discussion by board members and others on funding of education in the province.

Dr. Coady's advice to parents was first of all to show leadership within the family. "Parents have to show a stronger leadership role than in the past," he said. The child's whims and wants should not influence parental decisions, he said.

Dr. Henry Coady

Another "L" of importance is to set limits. "Parents give in to the child," he told the audience, "but you should say it, mean it and follow it through."

"Adolescents who cannot fit in are a result of the lack of limit setting."

A major ingredient is the third "L" -- love. "Most parents use love like a battering ram," he noted. "I will love you if..." "It's blackmail."

The fourth important key is to laugh. "We take ourselves too seriously; we're a society that continually seeks perfection. We need more laughter in the home

Finally the professor told members of the audience to "leave them alone." This fifth "L", he said, "means every time a young child is in difficulty we rush to his aid. We're afraid they're going to make one mistake and blow all the investment we've put in them."

St. Mary's CWL bridges generation gap

(Special) - St. Mary's CWL invited the youth of the parish to share an evening with them last Tuesday. Father Tom Riopelle, who has had many years experience working with young people in Mexico, the United States and presently Manotick, talked on bridging the so-called generation gap. He stressed that as simple a thing as a hug can mean so much to a young adult and the importance of children seeing parents being affectionate with each other.

Nicky Jean thanked the speaker and commented that teenagers should keep in mind that often we are just as green at being parents as they are at being young adults and that we should be patient with one another.

At the regular meeting which followed it was decided to give a donation to Block Parents. The members were requested to bring a wrapped gift for a shut-in to the December meeting. Father Appelman remarked on how much we all benefit from such evenings and closed the meeting with a prayer.

Finch euchre

FINCH (Staff) - At a Finch Senior Citizens euchre, Nov. 8, Lola Young, Nora MacRae and Annie Parker took the ladies games.

Phyllis Pichard, David Lamoureux and Clarence Grant won for the men.

Local Heart to Heart program planned

IROQUOIS (Staff) - Heart attack victims and those recovering from heart surgery will decide whether a special program of counselling and education designed for their needs will be launched in Dundas County.

The Heart to Heart program, a support system for victims and spouses of heart disease and surgery, could be in place as early as next spring if the demand is there.

According to Judy Baril, area co-ordinator of the Grenville-Dundas chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario, the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario, the Heart to Heart program has already been enthusiastically endorsed by area doctors.

She said a needs assessment conducted in the county during the summer also showed that there have been enough post-cardiac arrest and heart surgery patients in the last year to warrant the program.

Relying on statistics from the Victorian Order of Nurses and Winchester District Memorial Hospital, the chapter found 28 people had survived heart attacks in the last year and that another 29 had had heart-related problems.

"The numbers are there to warrant the program, we've talked to the medical staff and they're in favor of it and I would say, as far as we are concerned, we're ready to go ahead with it," said Baril.

"The question now is whether the people who could use the program want the program."

Under the Heart to Heart program, groups of up to 10 couples would take part in eight weekly sessions. The sessions would deal with stress, diet and concerns about the recovery process. As part of the sessions, specialists would take part in the group discussion.

A similar program currently operates in Brockville.

"It's unique in that they, both the patients and their spouses, have the opportunity to share their experiences, worries and concerns with others experiencing the same thing," said Buril.

Start-up costs for the program will be fully funded by the Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario. Couples would be charged a $25 fee for the set of sessions to cover materials.

Those interested in the program are asked to contact Kathy Fluke of Winchester (774-2648) or Dr. Henry Prins of Iroquois (652-4884).

WDMH may get 4% increase

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Winchester District Memorial Hospital could receive a provincial increase of 4 per cent, or $400,000, in its operating budget next year.

"Mind you, the 4 per cent may not be enough," said Bert Stel, the hospital's executive director, last week, but added it's helpful to know what the province is planning.

He said early notice of increase will give the hospital six months to plan how to spend the money and to set an appeal process in motion.

In the past, he said the province sometimes hasn't announced the increase until a couple of months into the fiscal year.

The increased funding is only for the hospital's operating budget, not capital projects.

A second $100,000 ultrasound machine, which the hospital hopes will be ready for use by March, must be purchased through depreciation grants on equipment and donations.

The hospital's smaller ultrasound machine is used in obstretrics. The larger machine could be used in cases of kidney or gall stones.

"It's a safer procedure than the x-ray," Mr. Stel said. An ultrasound machine produces images by sound waves rather than radiation.

The new machine could cost between $100,000 and $125,000 and Mr. Stel said the hospital may have to launch a special appeal to the public for donations.

The hospital is now facing an actual deficit of $65,695, down almost $10,000 from the debt at the end of August.

Mr. Stel said a refund of about $33,000 from the hospital's pension plan contributions has helped alleviate the deficit.

The hospital has approached the province for more money and hopes to be successful in its appeal.

"We've not had a deficit very often," he said. "This is only the second time, I think, that we're facing this problem."

In Memoriams

IN MEMORIAM

WINTERS — In loving memory of a dear husband, George Winters, who passed away Nov. 16, 1983.
Two years have passed since you were called away
I miss you very much each day.
When alone, I shed a tear
But I know you are happy with God in Heaven, free of pain and suffering.
Although your memory holds you near
I pray to God each night to hold you tight until we are together once more.
Then maybe my tears will end.
Sadly missed but always in my heart,
Your wife, Cecile
12-1

IN MEMORIAM

TUPPER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Dwight, who died on November 17, 1983.
Though his smile is gone forever,
And his hands we cannot touch
Still we have so many memories
Of the one we loved so much.
His memory is our keepsake,
With which we never part,
God has him in His keeping
We have him in our hearts.
Sadly missed and always remembered by
Wife Minnie,
Son Hubert
Daughers, Laurie and Carolyn and families.

IN MEMORIAM

WINTERS — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather George Winters who passed away Nov. 16, 1983.
If tears would build a stairway
And memories build a path
We would walk up to Heaven
To bring you back again.
So many times we've cried
If love alone could have saved you
You never would have died
We think of you in silence
And often speak your name
But all we have are memories
And your picture in a frame.
Sadly missed by,
Leoma and family

IN MEMORIAM

PAAUW—RABBE — In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Thereasa who died accidentally on Nov. 15, 1982.
Time may heal the broken hearted
Years may make the wound less sore
For the loved one gone before
Who shall say the grief is lessened
Though the smile may hide tears
Memories keep the wound still open
Despite the passing of the years.
Loved and remembered
Always by Dad and Mom and Family

THE NHA LOAN

An NHA mortgage is a home loan insured under the National Housing Act, which is administered by Canada Mortgage and Housing Corporation. CMHC ususally only insures the mortgage, available for an NHA-approved lending institution.

There is no maximum loan amount to qualify. Minimum mortgage term is one year and amortization period may be up to 40 years. Loan ratios are: 90% of the first $80,000 and 80% of the balance. A minimum downpayment of 10% of sale price is required.

The borrower must pay an insurance premium of 1% of loan if it is less than 75% of lending value; 1½% of it is 75% to 80% if it is 80% to 85%, and 2½% up to 90%. A processing fee ranging from $100 to $350 is charged by CHMC which may be asked to inspect and appraise the property by the lender. Interest rates are usually the same as those for conventional loans.

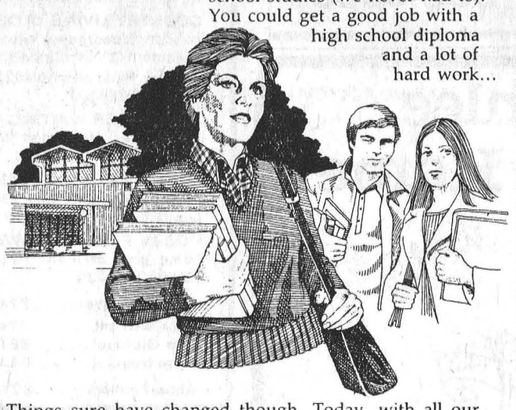
I REMEMBER

WHEN I FINISHED HIGH SCHOOL...

Times were different then.
Most people never went on past high school studies (we never had to). You could get a good job with a high school diploma and a lot of hard work...



Things sure have changed though. Today, with all our modern equipment and new techniques, kids sometimes need more than a good high school education to get started in their career.

That's why it's a good thing we have colleges. By giving young people and old an advanced, modern education, colleges are giving people a better chance at the kind of tomorrow they deserve.

Nowadays, continuing your education at a college just makes good sense.

This message has been brought to you by the people at ST. LAWRENCE COLLEGE SAINT-LAURENT because,

WE SUCCEED WHEN OUR STUDENTS SUCCEED

UCW recalls world wars

(Special) - Charlotte Craig and Lois Smith conducted the business period of the Evening Unit of Trinity UCW on Nov. 6.

The meeting opened with a poem 'For the Fallen' dedicated to the servicemen who gave their lives in the two world wars. Seventeen members answered the roll call and Ruby Miltimore gave the treasurers' report. Several items were brought in for the bazaar.

In keeping with the study for this term 'Dialogue with Canadian native people" the committee Charlotte Craig, Mildred Paul and Joyce Armstrong led the group with scripture, responsive reading, prayer and an Indian poem, "Language of the soul."

A film "As we see it" was shown depicting the acceptance of the United Church doctrine by the Indian people and a discussion followed.

Auction sale attracts 800

An estimated crowd of 800 were on hand for a public auction of 40 purebred Holsteins at Sunnylodge Farms in Chesterville Nov. 11. The animals, between two and six years old, sold for an average $7,000. Among the buyers were five from the Maritimes, one from the United States and one from England. The Top 40 Sale, which represented more than 10 years of breeding by Sunnylodge Farms, was held to reduce the size of the farm's Holstein herd.

$32,500 Holstein sets Eastern Ont. record

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - A sale of 40 purebred Holsteins here Monday set new records for both individual and group sales in Eastern Ontario.

Bidders among the estimated crowd of 800 set an average price of $7,000 for the two to six-year-olds home bred by Sunnylodge Farm of Chesterville.

The Top 40 Sale, held under a tent on the Chesterville farm, produced a top bid of $32,500 for three-year-old Sunnylodge Elevation Jan (188-226 BCA). The buyer was Terry Beaton of Cumberland. The contending bid was made by Gillette Farms of Embrun.

The price was the highest ever paid for a Holstein female at a public auction in Eastern Ontario.

A four-year-old, Sunny Lodge Magic Elevation "VG", produced the second highest price of the sale with a bid of $25,000.

Unimex Genetics of England gave the sale an international scope with a successful $19,500 bid for Glenstore Barbie ET "VG". Other sales included one to the United States and five to the Maritimes.

Sunnylodge Farms owner Carl Smith, who said the sale was held to cut down the size of his herd, called the sale "quite a success".

"We're pretty happy with the results," he said. "It's quite an average (sale price) when you consider what (Holsteins) have been selling at recently."

Mr. Smith said the animals sold at the auction represent "between 10 and 15 years" of breeding work.

"I don't think a fellow could go through a sale like this more than once in his lifetime," he said. "It's pretty nerve-wracking."

Farm women worth $922/week: study

(Staff) - The average Eastern Ontario farm woman is worth at least $922.80 per week, concludes a study released last week by Women for the Survival of Agriculture (WSA).

"What are you worth? A study of the economic contribution of Eastern Ontario Farm women to the family farm enterprise" was prepared by the WSA and author-researcher Susan Watkins and funded by the Women's Program, the Secretary of State.

The WSA, a farm woman's lobby group, mailed questionnaires to 1,025 randomly selected rural addresses in the counties of Dundas, Frontenac, Glengarry, Grenville, Lanark, Leeds, Lennox, Addington, Ottawa-Carleton, Prescott-Russell, Renfrew and Stormont last summer.

Two hundred and forty-eight woman responded to the survey. WSA founder Dianne Harkin of Winchester considered the 24 per cent response rate excellent. She said a return of 20 per cent from a rural area is usually considered good.

The figure of $922.80 was calculated by adding a daily salary of $115.35 and time and a half for Saturday and Sunday.

To replace the average farm woman's daily five hours of housework would cost $38.42; for eight hours looking after children, $12.50; for the maintenance of home and yard, $4.27; for farm accounting, $35.00; for 1.3 hours field work, $6.66; for two and a half hours work in the barn, $16.50, and one hour community volunteer work, free.

"Although respondents perceived themselves as doing only 22 per cent of the farm work, analysis shows that they actually are responsible for 47 per cent of the farm work and 97 per cent of the family care and household work," said the study.

Twenty per cent of the respondents worked off the farm full-time and another 10 per cent held seasonal or part-time jobs.

However, the study found women weren't receiving recognition for their financial contribution.

"Seventy-two per cent of the women feel their off-farm income is essential to the farm, but because it is usually funneled into farm management and 79 per cent said their husbands would agree.

But the study also found that 47 per cent of women are not paid for their labor.

"The mechanisms for paying women for their labour exist but the legal implications for forming partnerships, family corporations and paying wives a salry are not widely understood," the study said.

Although more than 80 per cent of respondents claimed to be partners with their husbands in the business, only 29 per cent of those partnerships are legally registered with the Ministry of consumer and Corporate Affairs.

"It was interesting to note that a further 13 per cent were not sure if the business was legally registered," the study added.

The report recommended the preparation of a blue-print of the steps necessary to establishing a fair and legal family farm partnership.

The study described the average Eastern Ontario farm woman as "A multi-faceted, multi-talented, busy person, who loves her life, her family and her farm."

However, the study also identified what farm women perceive as pressures on their business and lifestyle.

About one-fifth of the women felt they had no spare time nor private time. Almost 60 per cent said they had little of either.

Women attending a seminar sponsored by the WSA Thursday appeared to bear out these particular findings.

When asked by Ottawa lawyer Judy Hendin if they felt guilty about taking a day off to attend the seminar, the 70 women responded with laughter and a flurry of raised hands.

Twenty-nine per cent of the respondents reported their families were experiencing financial stress in coping with bank interest and debt loads. (Others cited overwork, lack of time together, family friction, marketing and prices, illness and age.)

Between 1978 and 1982, the report said farm expenses increased by 48 per cent but prices failed to keep pace -- the cost of farm products rose by only 32 per cent during the five years.

The study recommended that all cost of food production formulas include a 25 per cent return on investment to ensure "that all those who labour on the farm, could be paid."

The report concluded, "Only when the critical financial state of agriculture recovers, will there be an opportunity for farm women to achieve economic equality.

It recommended that the federal government pass the Parity Bill, a private member's bill sponsored by New Democrat MP Lorne Nystrom.

Bill C-215 would provide for an annually adjusted price formula for wheat, oats and barley for Canadian human consumption and a voluntary five-year national marketing commission for beef and pork.

The survey found respondents generally unconcerned about social services and attributed the lack of interest to the stability of dairy farmer, the predominant form of agriculture in Eastern Ontario.

Childcare and job training were ranked as the two most needed services, followed by mental health services, recreational facilities, marriage counselling and financial aid.

Artist Jean McCormick, who lives between Finch and Avonmore, held a showing of her most recent works last week at St. Luke's Church. Mrs. McCormick teaches students throughout the week as well as spending a nine-to-five day in her studio painting.
Record Photo - Hanrahan

Finch artist has spent the past 15 years interpreting local scenes

FINCH (Staff) - Jean McCormick lives for her art. This self-taught artist spends a nine-to-five day in her studio putting on canvas the scenes found near her home. Many art-lovers in the community have to come to appreciate those renderings of familiar landscape and are buying her paintings in great numbers.

Last Friday and Sunday the 1985 works were on display here at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church. The exhibition drew many members of the community. Some were interested in looking, others in buying and still others made enquiries about signing up for the lessons Mrs. McCormick conducts daily during the week and evenings.

Married, with five children, Mrs. McCormick comes from Niagara Falls but has lived in the area for the past 15 years. "This is my place," she said. She has been painting for about 20 years, making the transition from watercolors to acrylics and oils. "I do everything, people and things," she said, "but my love is that I am a landscape artist."

On view at the church last week were a variety of subjects from landscapes in every season to horses, portraits and several recognizable old barns and bridges from the local district.

The Apple Gallery, Cornwall and Simon Fraser Library, Cornwall, have been the scene for her exhibitions as well as a yearly display at Sherkston, near Niagara Falls. She is a member of Heritage Valley Crafts and exhibits at the Cornwall Civic Complex.

Many of her paintings reflect her appreciation of the nearby area (she lives on the boundary road between Finch and Avonmore). "I might change things," she explained, telling visitors to the exhibition why they might not recognize all the details in any one painting. "Nearly every idea is from the area but I might change things a little."

"I don't always ask their permission and people might not want me to paint their houses."

The only part of the process she does not really enjoy is stretching the canvases.

The frames are made for her in Montreal and sometimes she paints a scene to complement a particular frame.

Explaining a little about her philosophy of painting she said "if you paint you never again take anything for granted. I tell my students there's always pink in the sky. They look and then they see it too."

"I read everything I can about art and I watch TV. "Not only painting but sculpture too. I'm hungry to find out as much as I can."

North Dundas students shadow professionals

MAPLE RIDGE (Special) - This year marks the seventh year that the Ontario government has sponsored Career Week. This year's theme is "Take stock. Take aim. Take action".

The students at North Dundas are doing all of these this week. Taking action are 58 senior students who have signed up for career shadowing. This plan, first suggested last year by the Chesterville Rotary and the Winchester Lions, has met with enthusiastic support in our communities.

Jean Holmes at Winchester District Memorial Hospital has made arrangements for three future doctors, four nurses and three lab technicians. The offices at Ault's will see some clerical and accounting students, and Dave Barnhart, local lawyer, will be hosting an aspiring legal secretary.

Constable Al Luimiss and the OPP detachment are hosting seven students and will explain to them regular police procedures.

Reg Lyon C.A. and Brian Mann C.A. of Ward Mallette are making time available to two senior students who are going on to future careers as C.A.s. Ault's and Nestle's are also having students in to investigate accounting careers.

The local newspapers will be the scene for two students who want to know about journalism. The Winchester Press and the Chesterville Record have told them to roll up their sleeves and get to work.

Three other students are venturing farther afield to visit the Ottawa Citizen.

Our local veterinarian, Dr. Gray, will spend a day with two students interested in being veterinary assistants.

Dr. Wells will have a student observe the work of a dental hygienist in his Winchester office.

Earl's Meats in Chesterville will be assisted for a day by a student who is thinking of this as a career. Ian MacIntosh will explain welding and its career prospects, while Labelle's Hairdressing will be a busy place for yet another student.

Winchester Tours will unravel the mysteries of travel and bookings.

At school some aspiring teachers will be giving their first lessons to students in the Junior grades.

To round out the week other students will be involved in broadcasting, social work, armed forces, designers, couturiers. It is not possible for everyone to be accommodated during this week, but the guidance department does career shadowing placements during the whole year.

Students in grades 9, 10 and 11 will be taking stock of their own career interests as the members of the guidance department will be starting Career Interest Inventories with them.

The grades 11 to 13 students are using the computer program "CHOICES." Users can choose from 315 career areas listed on the "CHOICES" computer program. That is about 90 per cent of the occupations in Canada. The computer printout gives 15 job specifications including a job description, the education level required, the physical demands and the earnings.

The CHOICES program will be demonstrated on Parent Interview day, Nov. 14 for all interested parents. The demonstrating students will allow parents to use it and receive a printout.

The Student Guidance Information System (SGIS) is also in full swing producing computer printout of careers and university and college information. Over 700 requests have been filled by this system since January.

Visitors to the school will include John Rossetti from the Chartered Accountants Association, Peter Asquini from the Bank of Montreal and representatives from Herzing Institute who will discuss the "modern office" and careers in the computer industry.

All teachers will be highlighting careers in their own subject area.

St. Bernard's CWL meets

FINCH (Special) - The November meeting of St. Bernard's CWL was held at the home of Phyllis Burtenshaw with thirteen members present.

Christian family life convenor Olive Heasley read a poem entitled, "Grandma's Rocking Chair". Church life convenor Gertrude Morris gave a scripture reading and also read an article on prayer.

The hostess introduced the guest speaker, Diane Hupe, who is co-ordinator of the Palliative Care Services at the Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall.

A Palliative Care Service is designed to handle the varying problems of the dying patient. It attempts to recognize and relieve all aspects of the pain which may accompany the final stages of a person's illness. To achieve it's aim the service must work closely with the patient, the clergy and the family physician to help overcome the isolation, lonliness, fear, grief and pain.

UCW discusses country's native people

(Special) - Sixteen members of the Afternoon Unit of the United Church Women met in the dining hall of Trinity United Church on November 7 at 2pm.

Margaret Casselman welcomed the members and opened the meeting with a poem "For the Fallen" (Binyon) followed by the hymn "Rise up, O Men of God" with Doris Cross at the piano.

Irene Merkley called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. During the business portion the nominating committee was asked to bring its report of the new executive for 1986 to the annual meeting on Dec. 5.

An executive meeting of the Seaway Valley Presbyterial is to be held on Nov. 13 at Brinston United Church. Phyllis Noble will speak on her visit to Korea where she was on an exchange trip.

It was announced that a wreath on behalf of the Trinity UCW would be laid at the Cenotaph on Nov. 10 by Susie Cass.

A committee was formed to send gifts to sick and shut-ins of the congregation during the Christmas season.

The mission study for this year is a Dialogue with Canada's Native Peoples. Mrs. Casselman gave an interesting introduction with some historical background of the Canadian Indians. The film strip "As We See It" created by the Native Council of the United Church, was shown. At the close of the meeting entertainment was presented by a quartet from the junior choir of the church - Rhonda McMillan, Annette Monast, Stephanie MacLeod and Laurie Lannin, who sang two numbers, accompanied by Mrs. Casselman.

A fellowship hour followed with refreshments served by the committee.

New service club formed in Crysler

Working with the slogan "Friends of Youth" the Optimist Clubs manage a variety of organizations oriented towards youth and the community.

The Optimist International itinerant representative, Armand Martin, chaired the enthronement and conducted information sessions for the new executives and heads of the committees. The club was sponsored by the Rockland Optimist Club and delegates from Rockland attended the founding meeting.

Jean Stockli of Crysler was appointed secretary-treasurer. Appointed vice-president are Germain Lafleche and Raymond Landry of Crysler. The elected council are Claude Quesnel, Alphonse Lafrance, Yvon Laprise, Marcel Masse, Robert McLeod and Guy Saumure of Crysler.

The Crysler Optimist Club is part of the Optimist International District of Eastern Ontario. Paul Labelle from Hawkesbrugy is governor of the district.

The evening of receiving the Charter will be held on January 11, 1986. At that time, the 1984-85 governor Mr. Paul Labelle will present the official charter to the club's officers and proceed to their official installation.

Formal partnership agreements advocated for farm women

(Staff) - "As long as women are economically unequal they will be considered to be economically unimportant and as long as they are economically unimportant, they will continue to be economically unequal."

Judy Hendin, an Ottawa lawyer and member of the Ontario Women's Advisory Council, urged 70 women attending a Women for the Survival of Agriculture (WSA) seminar here Thursday to become economically equal by signing formal partnership agreements with their husbands.

"There are ways that you can be protected that are fair to your spouse, fair to you for a change, and in law, will benefit your farm," said Ms. Hendin, also a policy co-chairperson for the P.C. caucus of Ottawa, legal counsel for the WSA and a former advisor to the provincial ministry of Agriculture on women's issues.

Citing statistics from a WSA released last week, Ms. Hendin said women are responsible for 4 per cent of work on Eastern Ontario farms. They also do 97 per cent of housework and family care.

Sixty-one per cent of all farm women in Ontario also work full-time and may work a total of 101 hours a week, more than half of which are spent in farm-related chores.

Current family law, she said, has been "pretty unsatisfactory" in protecting the farm wife's interest in farming or when the marriage ends.

The courts have judged that family assets -- items used by the family daily such as the home, car or cottage -- should be split between the wife and husband when they separated.

But non-family or business assets -- the actual farm operation -- belong to the owner (usually the husband) unless his wife can prove that she participated in the acquisition, expansion or maintenance of the business.

Another revising is expected to become law in December and Ms. Hendin said it will be more fair to women.

However, a partnership agreement can overcome the shortcomings of family law, present and future, as well as offering tangible income tax savings for farmers.

Using the example of a farm with a net income of $30,000, she said a husband-wife partnership would save almost $900 in income tax over sole proprietorship of the farm.

A single owner would pay federal and provincial taxes of $6,233, when personal and spouse exemptions were deducted from the taxable income.

But if the husband held 60 per cent of the farm and the wife 40 per cent, the separate taxable incomes are lower and therefore subject to a reduced rate of taxation. The total bill would be $5,349, a savings of $884.

For a farm with a total income of $75,000, Ms. Hendin estimated a partnership would save the couple more than $4,000 in taxes.

It could also save capital gains taxes when the farm is sold.

WSA president Dorothy Middleton explained that under the most recent federal budget, a capital gains exemption of $500,000 is available immediately to farmers selling their operations.

Only land and buildings are exempt from capital gains provisions when the farm is owned solely. But under a partnership, all assets of that arrangement are exempt.

Mrs. Middleton said that a farm sold for $1 million would be exempt from capital gains if a husband and wife held equal shares.

The psychological toll of not being involved in farm business decisions can be high. A partnership agreement can provide "that feeling of control of one's own life".

But before the economic situation of women will improve, she said society's belief that the man's labor is "real work" must change. Women must stop discounting the value of their contribution to the farm.

Of the 248 women responding to the WSA survey, 80 per cent said they were partners with their husbands in the business. However, only 29 per cent of those partnerships are legally registered with the Ministry of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

The report continued: that they are 50-50 partners because they share the work and all money is pooled into one account. The ability to draw funds from this account to pay bills does not constitute proof of contribution. Informal partnerships have no legal status and therefore, farm women's contributions (can) be ignored by bankers, lawyers and policy makers."

A good partnership agreement, Ms. Hendin said, would detail the wife's contribution is money, labor and time. It should "reflect the true picture of what you do."

The agreement should also state it is intended only while the farm is on ongoing business; should the marriage end, the law on property division should apply.

Ms. Hendin said the new family law reform act would give the wife up to half the farm's value. The partnership agreement written to proect your interests today "will do a number on you tomorrow," she said, if the agreement entitles the wife to less than a 50 per cent share in the farm.

An agreement could also include specific buy-sell clauses to allow one partner to buy the other out.

It could also be written to permit the addition of new partners, such as a son and daughter-in-law. However, Ms. Hendin advised that a domestic contract be signed between the son and his wife to exclude any interest she might have in the son's portion of the farm should their marriage end.

"You're not going to lose anything that's yours to your son' wife," she said, but added that any loss could affect the farm in the long run.

Ms. Hendin conceded that one of the most difficult parts of reaching a partnership agreement is getting the husband's cooperation. She insisted it is in the best interests of the farm and the couple.

However, she said women and their daughters must face the realities of 1985, in which one in three marriages ends in divorce and the majority of Canadians living below the poverty line are women.

"The face of poverty in this country is a woman's," she said.

Second period spurt gives Newington 10-8 victory over Finch in NSIMHL

FINCH (Staff) - The only evenly matched game here this weekend in the North Stormont Intermediate Mens Hockey League was on Friday as Newington came back from a 7-1 deficit with nine goals in an 11-minute time span in the second period to beat Finch 10-8.

The other match on Friday night ended in a victory for Avonmore as they downed Lakeside Inn 11-2.

Sunday's game gave Avonmore another victory to keep the team in first place with 12 points as they defeated Crysler 8-3.

Newington's offence accounted for 11 goals on Sunday while their defence kept Lakeside off the board to win the match 11-0 over Lakeside.

Newington opened the scoring in Friday's game as Grant Simpson scored his first of five goals at 19:21 in the first period.

Finch came back to tie the match 1-1 three minutes later as Bill DeWitt scored unassisted.

Then Finch took the lead scoring four more goals in the first period as Kevin Wells scored the tie-breaker unassisted and Gordie MacDonnell, Bill DeWitt and Mike Kuhn collected on the points to give Finch a 5-1 first period lead.

Finch continued their offensive pace in the second period as Brian Seguin scored at 18:07 in the second and Ed DeWitt scored three minutes later to give Finch an even larger lead of 7-1.

Then at 13:31 the puck changed hands as Simpson scored Newington's first goal which led to seven other goals within 11 minutes.

Simpson topped the second period scoring splurge with three more goals and Pennock scored once more for a two-goal-effort and Terry Gove accounted for two goals, Don Simpson scored a single.

By 2:24 in the second period Newington had regained the lead 10-7.

Finch scored once more with one second left on the clock to end the match in a 10-8 victory for Newington over Finch.

In Friday's second match Avonmore hammered the leagues last place team, Lakeside 11-2.

Avonmore's Jeff Johnston opened the scoring with a goal at 15:42 in the first period.

The goal was answered by Lakeside's Randy Robertson one minute later in the same period to tie the game 1-1.

And again Lakeside replied as Dean Maxwell scored on a pass from Jim Locey at 10:39 in the first to tie the score to 2-2.

The remaining part of the game left Avonmore in control as they scored three more goals in the first period and six in the second.

Avonmore's goal scorers were Dave Rumer with a three-goal effort, Brent Theede and Jeff Johnston with two each and Kerry Rowe and Blair Henderson with singles.

Sunday's opener game was no contest as Newington downed Lakeside 11-0.

Jim Pennock led the offensive squad with five goals and four assists.

Grant Simpson collected two goals and six assists. Don Simpson scored two goals and assisted on four goals, Terry Gove and Brad Shaver accounted the remaining singles.

Avonmore's second win this weekend was in the second game on Sunday as they easily defeated the Crysler Chiefs 8-3.

Crysler's Albert Herfkens and David Mason accounted for the teams two first period goals but Avonmore's four-goal first period effort exceeded Crysler as Blair Henderson and Jeff Johnston accounted for two goals each.

Christien Brisson scored what proved to be Crysler's last goal as Avonmore continued their leading offensive effort with four more goals.

Rick Besner collected two goals and Blair Henderson and Rick Lalonde replied for the singles to give Avonmore their 8-3 win over Crysler.

Stick stretch

It was too late for Crysler's goalie Pat Brugmans and defenceman, Paul Provost (centre) to stop the puck as Avonmore's Rick Besner scored on net on Sunday in Finch in the North Stormont Intermediate Men's Hockey League. Avonmore defeated Crysler 8-3.
