Cash and Credit

A person without money or property usually has little credit, even if his integrity is well known.

Credit is based on capital, and capital is the result of saving. Credit is not a gift; it is a growth. It comes through earnest effort long continued. Some day you will need it.

Saving is the first step to good credit.

Mrs. M. S. O'Grady, Chesterville.

In the death of Mrs. M. S. O'Grady, which took place at her home Queen Street, Tuesday Jan. 23rd Chesterville lost one of its most respected residents. The deceased lady whose maiden name was Maria Flynn was born in Chicago and educated in the Convent Schools of that city, where she remained until her marriage in 1892 and has lived in the vicinity of Chesterville since.

The late Mrs. O'Grady was a lady of charming disposition; her friendship and kindness endeared her in the minds of everyone of her wide circles of friends. As a neighbor and citizen she will long be remembered, and her death will be mourned. She was noted for her fidelity in attending all church duties. Her charity and kindness were great, for her foremost thought was to be able to be of service to some one. Her devotion to the Rosary was wonderful. She has thus left to her children a lasting example of faith and piety.

Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Rose and Frances and two sisters, Mrs. P. Heveran and Mrs. S. McCormick, and one brother Michael Flynn all of Chicago. Two daughters Sarah and Julia predeceased her.

On Thursday morning 25th inst, her sorrowing friends and relatives gathered to pay their last tribute of respect at St. Marys Church, where High Mass of Requiem was chanted by Rev. Father L. E. Staley, after which the remains were placed in the vault.

A Spiritual Bouquet from Mrs. W. St. Laurent, Cornwall, and Spiritual offerings from Mrs. Rose Ann Kearns, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Kearns, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kearns, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Masterson, Mr. and Mrs. John Beehler, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Masterson, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. D. O'Grady, Ed. Flynn, Miss Mary Flynn, Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Lauletta, Ottawa; Mr. B. P. Coyne, Ottawa, Miss Katie Coyne. Ottawa; Mrs. Eugene McMillan, Mrs. Geo. Chambers, Bernard Coyne, Mr. and Mrs. Gagnon, J. P. Burns, Chas. Gannon, Mr. and Mrs. M. Walsh, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Coyne, Chas. and Anna B. Kearns, Mrs R. J. Blacklock and family, Mr. and Mrs Geo. McMahon.

Grandpa Sproul 90 Years Young

(Greene Iowa, News Jan. 17.)

Grandpa Wm. Sproul was 90 years young yesterday. He spent the day receiving callers, walking in the bright sunshine and reading his mail. He received a lovely bouquet of carnations, jonquils and greens from several of the neighbors, 35 post cards, 14 of which came from Long Beach, Calif., and several letters from relatives and friends.

In the evening, the relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Lockwood as a fitting climax to a perfect day and spent the time playing flinch, after which delicious refreshments were served. The special feature of the eats was a huge pink and white pyramid birthday cake, adorned with 90 candles, which was made by Mr. Sproul's only granddaughter, Mrs. Mont Clifton.

The relatives presented Grandpa Sproul with a book size reading glass, the daily use of which will ever remind him of the love and esteem of his kin.

Mr. Sproul who lived for a number of years west of Chesterville moved to Iowa about 38 years ago. Mrs. W. R. Allison is a sister of Mr. Sproul.

The King George, Cornwall, Suffers Heavy Loss

Damage to the extent of about $15,000 was done to the King George Hotel Cornwall, on Monday, by a fire, which was discovered between the main building and the annex to the east, by Arthur Belanger, an employee of the hotel who, after trying to reach the fire with a hand extinguisher, turned in a general alarm. The firemen first used the chemical engines, but finding the fire well imbedded in the walls, and extending to the third story, used four streams and did a great amount of chopping of woodwork before the flames were under control nearly two hours later.

All three floors, with the exception of the rear portion of the building, were badly damaged, the ceilings being completely ruined, while the office, rotunda, writing room and dining room were flooded. The cellar which contained between $4,000 and $5,000 worth of canned goods and other supplies was flooded. J. R. Duquette, the proprietor, lost heavily in rugs, carpets, bedding, etc., besides the supplies in the cellar. The office and dining room fixtures were all removed to the street and some of the contents of bedrooms in the front of the main building were also removed by citizens who worked hard with the firemen to prevent further damage to equipment.

Mr. Duquette's loss will be about $10,000. The building is owned by the Cline Estate and is well insured, as were also the contents owned by Mr. Duquette.

Trunks of commercial men were in the sample rooms on the lower floor of the annex, but these were removed without loss.

In Memoriam

In tender memory of our loved one, Wilburn Hess, who entered his eternal rest Jan. 29th, 1922.

What we'd give to clasp your hand,
Your cheery face to greet,
To hear your voice, to see your smile,
That was so serenely sweet.
Now only a memory of bygone days
and a sigh for your face unseen;
And a certainty that God alone
Knows best what might have been.
You shall never be forgotten;
Never can your memory fade,
Loving thoughts will ever linger
Round the grave where you are laid.

McPhaul vs. McPhaul

This is an action begun on the 1st day of October, 1918, by Catherine and Elizabeth McPhaul for a declaration that they were entitled to their support and maintenance on two farms east of Bonville, in the County of Stormont, at one time belonging to their father, John McPhaul. The defendants in the action took the position that the plaintiffs were not entitled to their support and maintenance under the will of their father, John McPhaul, but were only entitled to a life estate in the two farms under the will of the plaintiff's brother, Alexander McPhaul. The trial took place at Cornwall before His Lordship, the late Mr. Justice Clute, and he delivered judgment upholding the plaintiffs' contention and referring the matter to Judge O'Reilly at Cornwall to fix the amount of the allowances. Judge O'Reilly fixed the amount to be paid Catherine for the past maintenance, at $60 per month, and the amount to be paid Elizabeth at $45 per month. After Judge O'Reilly had made his report, the matter came before Judge Mowat of Toronto, and he allowed the plaintiffs' support and maintenance from the date of the issue of the writ—October 1, 1918, which would amount to over $3000. He, however, referred the matter back to Judge O'Reilly to find what, if anything, the plaintiffs had received from the estate of their late father. If they received anything it was to be deducted from the amount allowed.

A Weekly Paper of Bruce County Suspends Publication

With the New Year's issue, the Bruce Peninsular News printed at Lions Head, Ont., suspended publication, which is another in the growing list of papers that have suspended publication within the past four or five years. The Editor gives as the reason the following: Our reason for suspending is this: Although in practically every business in the Dominion the price of raw material has taken a considerable drop, if we renewed our contract for newspaper for 1923, it would cost us 2 cents a quire of 24 sheets more than for 1922 contract prices We have been selling our paper at $1.25 per annum and our cost of production in our 1922 audit is $1.63½. This leaves a deficit of 38½ cents above the selling price of every subscription. This deficit has been met partly by advertising but mostly by drawing from our profits on job printing and this has kept our bank balance pretty low. And there are people who still believe that a weekly newspaper should be sold for $1.50. It cannot be done, and make any profit whatever. The Peninsular News printed only two pages on its press and the vast majority of weeklies print from 4 to 8, so their expense will be a great deal higher. Whenever they can do so the different papers all over the country are taking up some side line as a means to make a decent living.

House Not Cleaned For Fifteen Years

Althoug Dan McKerragher, an aged man, owns a one hundred acre farm, has valuable cattle, and a tidy bank account, his home in Chatham Gore and the conditions therein were declared incredible by county police following an investigation Saturday. The county police are arranging for the home to undergo a thorough cleaning which, according to a statement made by the owner to the police it has needed for fifteen years. When High Constable Peters visited the farm dwelling Saturday he found Dan's brother Duncan helplessly sick in one room and Ray McKerragher, aged seventeen, Dan's son, seriously ill with influenza in another room, Duncan McKerragher has been removed to the hospital suffering, it is thought from a stroke. The police stated that he lay on his bed, fully clothed, even to his overcoat, for almost a week. The youth was also fully dressed and too ill to move very much. There was no fire in either of the rooms occupied by the sick men.

Commenting on the condition of the home, High Constable Peters stated it was deplorable. Some of the rooms were littered with rags which had remained there for fifteen years, the police were told. So thick was the dirt on the windows the rooms were almost pitch dark in the day time, police say.

DON'T DEPEND ON 'FATHER'.

The following article was clipped from a paper published in 1895, by a prominent Morewood farmer, which he has kept handy for perusal all these years Thinking it perhaps is more applicable to present conditions than ever before, he has passed it along for the Record to again bring it into circulation hoping that it will help others as much in these days as years gone by. You will notice the young man "cut a swell in father's buggy." Nowadays he cuts a bigger swell but in father's sedan.

"Stand up here, young man, and let me talk to you. You have trusted alone on the contents of your father's purse, or his fair fame, for business. Think you that "father" has attained eminence in his profession but by an unwearied industry so that he has amassed a fortune honestly, without energy or activity? You should know that the faculty requisite for acquiring fame is essential to, nay inseparable from the attaining of either of these. Suppose "father" has "rocks" in abundance, if you never earned anything for him, you have no more business with these "rocks" than a gosling has with a tortoise, and if he allows you to meddle with them, he perpetrates untold mischief. And if the old gentleman is lavish of his cash towards you, to while away your time, you'd better leave him; yes run away, rather than be imbecile, or something worse, through so corrupt an influence. Sooner or later, you must learn to rely on your own resources, or will never be anybody. If you have eaten "father's" bread and butter, and smoked "father's cigars; cut a swell in father's buggy, and tried to put on father's influence—you might far better have been a pig or canal boy, the son of a chimney sweep, or a boot black; and, indeed, we would not swap with you the situation of a poor half starved, motherless calf! Miserable objects you are, that depend entirely upon parents—playing gentleman (dandy loafers.) What in the name of common sense are you thinking of? Wake up here! Go to work either with your hands or brains, or both, and be something? Don't merely have it to boast of, that you have grown up in "father's" house, that you have vegetated as other green horns; but let folks know that you count one! Come, off with your coat, clinch the saw, the plow handle, the scythe, the axe, the pickaxe, the—any thing that will enable you to stir your blood! Fly around and tear your jacket rather than be the passive recipient of the old gentleman's bounty. Sooner than play the dandy at dad's expense, hire yourself to some potato patch, lend yourself to a bog hole, or watch the bars, and when you think yourself entitled to a resting spell do it on your own hook. If you have no other means of buying fun of your own, buy with your own earnings an empty barrel, and put your head in it, and roll down hill. Don't for pity-sake, make the old gentleman furnish every thing, and you live at ease.

Look about you, you well dressed, smooth faced, do nothing drone. Who are those who have worth and influence in society? Are they those who have depended on the old gentleman's purse? or are they those who have clinched their way to their positions by their own industry and energy? True, the old gentleman's funds, or personal influence may secure you the forms of respect; but let him lose his property or die, and where are you?—a miserable fledging—a bunch of bone and flesh, that needs to be taken care of.

Again we say wake up—get up in the morning—turn round at least twice before breakfast—help the old man—give him now and then a generous lift on business—learn how to take the lead, and not depend forever on being led, and you will have no idea how the discipline will benefit you. Do this and our word for it, you will seem to breathe a new atmosphere, possess a new frame, tread a new earth, wake a new destiny, and then you may aspire to manhood. Take off, then, that ring from your lily finger, brake your cane, shave your upper lip, wipe your nose, hold up your head, and, by all means never eat again the bread of idleness, nor depend on "father."
