Central Canada Fair Deficit.

The Central Canada Fair ran $1,323 behind. The receipts this year totalled $40,668. about four thousand ahead of last year, but $6,200 more was expended in prizes and special attractions, which is accountable for the deficit.

Try This For Your Cough.

To relieve a cough or break up a cold in twenty four hours, the following simple formula, the ingredients of which can be obtained of any good prescription druggist at small cost, is all that will be required: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), one-half ounce; Glycerine, two ounces; good Whiskey, a half pint. Shake well and take in teaspoonful doses every four hours. The desired results cannot be obtained unless the ingredients are pure. It is therefore better to purchase the ingredients separately and prepare the mixture yourself. Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) should be purchased in the original half ounce vials, which druggists buy for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case which protects the oil from exposure to light. Around the wooden case is an engraved wrapper with the name—"Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)" plainly written thereon. There are many imitations and cheap productions of Pine, but these only create nausea, and never affect the desired results,

Another blast furnace will be added by the Nova Scotia Steel and Coal company, to their plant at Syduey, enabling them to produce 400 tons of pig iron a day.

Sacred Concert.

The sacred concert held in St. Mary's Church, in this place on Friday evening last, proved to be a very enjoyable event, although it was not as largely attended as might be expcted. The choir, presided over by Mrs. Shiels, was the main feature of the evening, being assisted by Messrs. A. M. Fetterly, F. Wood, and H. S Johnstone, who contributed solos to good effect,

Mrs. Shiels deserves great credit for the success of the concert, and it was evident that she has labored long and earnestly to make it such when the members of the choir were called upon to execute their parts in the program.

Rev. Father Fleming filled the position of chairman, which he did in a very pleasing manner, and before the last item on the program was called forth, he took occasion to add a few remarks, thanking the people of other denominations for their attendance, and also the members of his parish.

Death of Mrs. Patterson, of Brockville.

The death of Mrs. Thomas Patterson, of Brockville, occurred on Friday night last. For the past year Mrs. Patterson has been a helpless invalid but despite her pain and suffering was ever cheerful and bore it all with peaceful resignation, characteristic of her steadfast Christian life. Mrs. Patterson came of Scotch descent, her early life being spent at Williamstown, Glengarry, where she was born and lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McGregor. On her marriage to Mr. Patterson, thirty years ago, she settled in Brockville, residing here continuously till her death, To her husband she was an admirable helpmate and a most devoted and faithful wife, sharing his joys and sorrows. Their home life was particularly happy and the severance of these ties is keenly felt by the venerable husband, to whom general sympathy goes out Mrs. Patterson had no children, but is survived by an adopted son and daughter, Rev. Wm. Crawford and Mrs. J. G. Tate, both of Chesterville. Ont. To both of these she imparted motherly training and set an example of Christian living, which has borne fruit. Mrs. Patterson was a highly esteemed member of the First Church where her influence and work were highly prized.

The remains were taken to Williamstown for interment —Brockville Times.

The funeral took place on Monday, the remains being interred in St. Andrew's church, Williamstown. The service was conducted by Rev. W. Crawford, of Chesterville, assisted by the Rev. Messrs. McKenzie and Tanner of Lancaster. The pall bearers were Messrs. A. D. McGregor, A. P. Ross, Robt. Scott, Alpine Grant, A. D. McGregor and Alex. McDonald. Mrs. Patterson was a resident of Lancaster for some time before her marriage.

A bazaar was recently held in Napanee under the auspices of St. Patrick's church there, of which Rev. Father O'Connor, formerly of Kemptville is pastor, which realized the handsome sum of $1335,00.

Minot St Clair Francis, the desperado convict from Maine, has been seen in the woods near St. George, New Brunswick.

Death at Nation Valley.

The death of Mary Nesbitt, daughter of Mr. Jos. Nesbitt, of Nation Valley. occured on Monday, Nov. 26th, 1906, at the age of 33 years. The deceased had been a long sufferer, and for a number of years had been unable to leave the residence.

The funeral took place yesterday afternoon to Grey's school house, where services were conducted by the Rev. A. E. Hunnells, after which interment was made.

At the present Mr. Nesbitt is very ill with pneumonia, and slight hopes are held out for his recovery.

Large Sale of Cattle.

Mr. Bower Henry, a well known stockman of Bell's Corners, has lately sold to the government 28 head of Shorthorn cattle for experimental feeding at the Central experimental farm and 42 head for the Dominion experimental farm at Napanee, Nova Sootia. At the same time he sold 24 head to A. C. F. MacDonald of Alexandria. The latter, it is understood, are for commercial feeding for the market in the spring. Mr. Henry raises a large number of Shorthorns every year.

Death of Mrs. T. Fleming, of Crysler

The funeral of the late Mrs. Thos. Fleming, who died on Thursday, Nov. 15th, from pneumonia, took place at St. John's Church, Crysler, on the afternoon of Saturday, Nov. 17th. She was a woman highly esteemed by all who knew her and will be much missed in the neighbourhood. She was a member of the Church of England and received the blessed sacrament shortly before her departure. The Rev. Montague G. Poole, of Crysler, officiated at the funeral. He spoke kindly words of comfort to the mourners, taking for his text, "A Tale that is Told" and "For me to live is Christ, to die is gain." Mrs. Fleming was 72 years of age, her maiden name was Marjory MacMillan and she was the daughter of the late John MacMillan, of Finch. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband and an unmarried daughter.

The pall-bearers were Thomas Symonds, William Servage, George Servage, Robert Armstrong, John Doran and Jas. Stephenson.

Million Barrels Of Sand Needed.

It will take nearly one million barrels of sand for the concrete work in connection with the Michigan Central railroad tunnel under the Detroit river.

All of the sand will be secured at the mouth of the Black river at Port Huron.

It is estimated the steamer Desmond which has the contract for the transporiation will have to make three hundred and twenty trips. one-half of which will be during 1907 and the rest in 1908.

The terms are unknown, but the contract is worth at present figures from eighty to one hundred thousand dollars.

Edward Clint Dead.

The town of Brockville was shocked Saturday morning on learning of the sudden passing away during the night of Edward Clint, a retired furniture dealer and undertaker. He died in a few hours after being seized with acute indigestion. He was a merchant for nearly thirty years. Mrs. Clint and a family of two children, Mrs. Robbins and Frank Clint, of Toronto, survive. Mr. Clint was prominently identified with many fraternal societies, including the Oddfellows, Masons, Sons of England, Canadian Order of Forestrs, and Ancient Order of United Workmen. He was 67 years of age and was born at Arnprior.

Death of Mrs. Brondstetter.

On Monday evening, Nov. 19th, 1906, there died at her residence, Morewood, Mrs. Brondstetter, wife of Mr. Andrew Brondstetter. The deceased was born in Germany on March 6th, 1822, and with her husband came to Canada over fifty years ago, and settled in Winchester township, where they resided ever since.

Besides her husband, there remain three daughters to mourn her loss, Mrs. Joseph Provo of Alberta, Mrs. John T. Coulthart and Mrs. Ira Christie, now residing near Morewood.

Mrs. Brondstetter was of a quiet and unassuming disposition, a loving mother, a kind neighbor, an earnest Christian and one who will be greatly missed by her friends and neighbors.

The funeral took place on Wednesday, Nov. 21st, from the residence of Mr. J. T. Coulthart to the Presbyterian cemetery. The service was conducted in the church by Rev. Donald Stewart, who preached an appropriate sermon from II Timothy, 4th chapter and 6th verse.

PARLIAMENT IN SESSION

Large Gathering Attended the November Opening

A despatch from Ottawa says: The opening of Parliament without the usual adjuncts of winter is somewhat of a novelty. Thursday was almost as balmy as a morning in May. There was the usual crowd in front of the Parliament Buildings. The Governor-General arrived sharp at 3 o'clock, the cavalcade being preceded by a detachment of the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards. As soon as his Excellency's carriage drew up under the tower the band of the G.-G.F.G. played the National Anthem and the guard of honor presented arms.

The scene within the Senate Chamber was as beautiful as of yore. All the seats usually occupied by the Senators, and, in fact, every inch of the floor space of the chamber of the Upper House, was utilized to accommodate the wives and daughters of Senators and members and of prominent personages from all parts of the country. The general galleries were crowded, notwithstanding the fact that the Sergeant-at-Arms had restricted the issue of tickets of admission.

SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

After the Commons had been sent for and Speaker Sutherland and the members of the Lower House had taken their places below the bar, his Excellency opened Parliament with the following speech from the throne:

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate:

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

In opening the third session of the tenth Parliament of Canada I avail myself of the opportunity to offer you my congratulations on the unparalleled prosperity prevailing in all parts of the Dominion. The harvest has been abundant, and the trade with both British and foreign nations continues to expand in annually increasing volume, with every prospect of continued growth for many years to come.

The number of immigrants seeking homes in Canada continues yearly to increase, and it is very satisfactory to observe that a larger proportion than in any former year has in the past season come from the British Isles.

During the recess following the last session I visited the Western provinces and was much gratified to note the great advance that is being made in the development of the vast resources of those highly-favored sections of the Dominion. I found the people of the West rejoicing in their prosperity and full of hope and confidence in the future growth of its agricultural and industrial wealth.

ENTITLED TO MORE MEMBERS.

The quinquennial census recently taken in the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan shows that those provinces are now entitled to an increase in their representation in the House of Commons. A bill giving effect to that provision will be submitted for your approval. In accordance with the announcement made in a previous session, you will be asked to consider a bill for the revision of the Customs tariff.

The sanction of Parliament will be required to give legal effect to the treaty made with the Empire of Japan. A bill for that purpose will be submitted for your approval.

The products and manufactures of Canada shown at the recent international exhibition held in the City of Milan proved a great attraction, and as a result it is confidently believed our trade with Central and Southern Europe can be materially increased.

The naval authorities having relinquished the use of the dockyard at Halifax, a proposal was made to transfer it to the Government of Canada. This offer has been accepted and the dockyard will now be used by the Department of Marine and Fisheries as a base for its operations in connection with aids to navigation.

Many immigrants having in recent years been induced to come to Canada by false representations made in the United Kingdom, at the request of the Minister of Labor a clause has been added to the Merchants' Shipping Bill now before the Imperial Parliament for the punishment of any persons who may be found guilty of that offence.

EXPANSION IN REVENUE.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

The accounts of the past year will be laid before you. I am glad to say that the revenue has shown a large expansion, and has not only provided for ordinary expenditure, but has also to a great extent provided for the outlay on capital account.

The estimates for the coming year will be laid before you at an early date.

Honorable Gentlemen of the Senate:

Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

A united application having been received by my Ministers from the Governments of the several provinces asking for an increase in the provincial subsidies, a conference was recently held, when the reasons for granting additional aid were fully set forth and discussed. Resolutions based on the conclusions reached by my Government will be submitted for your consideration.

Bills will be laid before you amending the Election Acts, the Post-office Act, the Dominion Lands Act, a bill for the more effective supervision and inspection of Canadian canned food products, meats and fish, a bill relating to the sale and manufacture of patent medicines, and also a bill to make better provision for dealing with juvenile delinquents.

It is hoped that the report of the commission appointed to inquire into the working of insurance companies will shortly be completed, when it will be laid upon the table.

The subjects I have mentioned will, I hope, receive your best consideration, and the measures to be submitted for your approval will, I trust, tend to the well-being and good government of our fair Dominion.

ISLANDS ADDED TO CANADA

Captain Bernier Has Not Been Wasting His Time

A despatch from Ottawa says: Advices have been received from Capt. Bernier, in command of the Government steamer Arctic, that he has decided to Winter in Albert Harbor, Pond's Inlet, Baffin's Land.

Writing to a friend under date of Sept. 19th, Capt. Bernier says:—"We have had great luck since we left the old city, and have to date taken possession of eight islands for the Dominion, and have discovered 65 miles of new channel, and named several places and islands which were not named before. We have been as far as Melville Island, and have restored Sir John Franklin's monument and the graves of those we love for the work they did for science.

"We have been looking for whalers, and I am sorry that four of them have been caught in the ice in Melville Bay and will do nothing this Summer. We are Wintering here and will continue our work next Spring until the Fall."

STATISTICS OF THE CROPS

Agricultural Department Announces Extent of Yield

"Only in a few localities was the supply of farm labor equal to the demand," says the November crop report of the Department of Agriculture. It proceeds to say that the exodus to the Northwest has been the cause of this state of affairs. Some correspondents are inclined to belittle the English immigrant as a farm laborer, while, on the other hand, many aver that there has been a great improvement in the last few years. The general opinion is that wages will remain stationary for a time, as farmers cannot afford to pay more. The attractions of city life are stated to have caused a scarcity of domestic help in the rural districts. During the year there was more or less activity in the making of farm improvements in the province. The estimates of the 1906 crops are slightly below the forecast of August. The reports of the various crops include the following:—Fall wheat, 18,841,774 bushels from 787,287 acres, or 23.9 bushels per acre, as compared with 17,933,961 bushels in 1905; Spring wheat, 3,267,000 bushels from 171,745 acres, as against 3,582,627 bushels in 1905; barley, 756,163 acres, yielding 25,253,011 bushels; oats, 2,716,711 acres, yielding 105,563,572 bushels; potatoes, 136,064 acres, yielding 15,020,299 bushels; hay and clover, 3,069,917 acres, yielding 2,149,413 tons. The report also gives the figures for peas, beans, corn and roots of various kinds.

A SPECIAL ENQUIRY.

is being made by the Department of Agriculture into the condition of the sheep-raising industry. Sheep have been in great demand, and the business is growing in favor. One correspondent speaks of losses by bears, and several complain of sheep-killing by dogs. Live stock generally is in a healthy condition. Horses are commanding more attention from farmers, while cattle are in excellent condition for Wintering. Hogs are scarcer than usual. There is a smaller supply of hay than usual and as mill feed is high in price care will have to be exercised to carry stock through until Spring. This Winter, it is said, will afford practical tests of the value of corn silage in the feeding stock. Dairying has been a most profitable branch of agriculture on account of the high prices prevailing for butter and cheese. The honey crop has been a failure although the bees are in good condition. Poultry raising is becoming more popular as a source of revenue for the farmer.

The statistics obtained show 688,117 horses on hand as against 672,781 in 1905; 2,963,618 cattle as against 2,889,593 in the previous year; 1,304,809 sheep as against 1,324,153 in 1905; 1,819,778 swine as against 1,906,460 in 1905; 10,254,834 poultry as compared with 9,738,493 in 1905.

Considerable injury was done to orchards in October by an early snowfall, and in some districts the San Jose Scale and the borer have done damage. Plums were never scarcer, but all other fruits were equal to the demand.

MAN SWEPT OVER FALLS.

Seen Drifting in Boat to Cataract From Canadian Shore.

A despatch from Niagara Falls, Ont., says: Monday afternoon people along the Canadian shore of the upper river saw a boat drift down into the rapids and pass over the Horseshoe Falls, a man was standing up in the craft, waving his arms wildly, and that before the boat reached the Falls he lay prone in the bottom of the boat. Nothing was seen of man or boat after the plunge over the waterfall.

Two rowboats started down the Chippewa River toward the Niagara to attempt to rescue at the mouth of the smaller stream. The rescuers went far beyond what is considered the danger line, but a cross current carried the unfortunate man away from them toward Goat Island. The would-be rescuers were by this time in a perilous position, and it was with great difficulty that they succeeded in reaching shore.

Inquiry along both shores fails to reveal any person missing. The boat was green in color, and may have come from further up stream. It is possible that the occupant was a duck hunter.

MAXIM GUN SAVED THE CHIEF.

Revolutionists Attempt to Assassinate Police Official.

A despatch from Odessa says: The attempt to murder the chief commissary of the Odessa police on Wednesday was frustrated by the use of a Maxim gun. The aggressive band, said to have been composed of social revolutionists, suffered the death of three, and the wounding of three others. The remainder escaped.

Terrorists seized $2,000 in the Russian Navigation Company's office on Wednesday, after killing a police official.

Two thousand copies of the peaceful regenerationist party's appeal were seized.

BRUTAL MURDER IN MONTREAL.

Body of an Italian Found With Face Badly Gashed.

A despatch from Montreal says: The city detectives are actively engaged in attempting to clear up the mystery surrounding another tragedy. On Sunday three boys found the body of an Italian lying face downwards in a pool of water a short distance from the coal towers at Windmill Point, a section of the harbor west of McGill Street, which is part land and part water.

The man had evidently been murdered after a desperate struggle. The face and head bore wounds inflicted with a knife or other sharp instrument, and the skull had been crushed in by a heavy blow with a stone. A blood-stained stone of heavy proportions was lying on top of the man when the police found him, while about the body were found several smaller stones, each with a bloody clot of hair. The face of the deceased was covered with a piece of rough brown duck, similar to that used in overalls, and the police have drawn the conclusion that the man had been struck down elsewhere and carried to this spot, so that if any spark of life had been left in the body it would be extinguished by the water. A piece of an iron bat was also found near the body, but there was no evidence upon it to indicate that it had been used as a weapon.

The body was on Monday identified as that of Antonio Sartoria, an Italian workingman. No arrests have yet been made.

FIRE VISITS STURGEON FALLS.

Entire Business Portion of Town Was in Danger.

A despatch from Sturgeon Falls says: The progressive town of Sturgeon Falls was scourged by fire early on Sunday morning, and the principal business block of the town is now a mass of smouldering ruins. About 3 o'clock in the morning Electrician Wm. Young noticed a blaze in the rear of the McArthur Block, on King Street, and at once turned in an alarm. Although the fire department responded quickly the block was in flames and beyond saving when the water was turned on. Neil McArthur, owner of the block, occupied part of the upper portion of the building, and his family were rescued with difficulty in their nightrobes without time to save anything. The attention of the firemen was given to saving the surrounding buildings, and by hard work the Lillie and Parliament Blocks were saved, although damaged considerably by fire and water. The entire business portion of the town was in danger of being wiped out, but fortunately the wind was favorable, and the fire area was confined to the McArthur Block on King Street, and a building on William Street, besides sheds and stables. The fire is supposed to have started in Weightman's Bakery, but the clean sweep made by the flames renders the origin a matter of conjecture only. The loss will reach $40,000, with insurance of $13,000.

CANOE UPSET, ONE DROWNED.

Son of Chatham Fire Chief Meets Death While Stiling.

A despatch from Chatham says: Herbert Pritchard, 20 years old, the eldest son of Fire Chief Richard Pritchard, met his death by drowning in the Thames on Monday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, while out for a sail in a canoe with two companions. Wylie Braddon and George Sommerville. The boys made a tack across to the opposite shore, when a gust of wind upset the canoe. The young men were thrown into the water clear of the canoe, and only a few yards from the shore. Sommerville clung to a pile until he was rescued. Braddon tried to save Pritchard, but the water was too cold, and Pritchard hindered the rescue by clinging to Braddon. Both young men went down several times, and finally Braddon succeeded in freeing himself from the other's grasp, and managed to swim to the shore. Pritchard sank for the last time. The body was recovered in 45 minutes.

SIXTEEN MEN PERISH.

Loss of the Norwegian Barque Magda in the Lower St. Lawrence.

A despatch from Quebec says: The Government steamer Druid, Captain Koenig, master, arrived in port early on Sunday morning from Red Island, and gives out the fact that the Norwegian barque Magda, with her master, Captain Isaakensen, and her entire crew of fourteen men, and pilot, Charles Pelletier, were drowned during the terrible northeast gale and blinding snowstorm that prevailed in the lower St. Lawrence on the 16th instant, and caused the Magda to go on the Red Island reef, and break in two. Captain Koenig is also of the opinion that at least one schooner with all hands on board was lost, and other small craft, judging by the amount of wreckage seen after the storm and the quantity washed ashore. He is also convinced that the Magda crew jumped into the water with life belts around them, but could not live in such a furious sea. This is evidenced by two bodies that were washed ashore, one at St. Fabien and the other near Bic, with life belts on, who were proved to be Norwegians by articles and letters found on their bodies.

STEAM BARG...

Six Sailors Met ... Off T...

A despatch from Toronto says: During the terrific gale which raged over Lake Ontario on Thursday morning, the steam barge Resolute, belonging to Haney and Miller, contractors, went to pieces just outside the Western Gap and six lives out of the crew of twelve were lost in one of the lifeboats, which capsized in the heavy seas as it was leaving the wreck. A second lifeboat, in command of Capt. John Fahey, reached the land in safely after an hour's hard battle against the waves. Capt. John Sullivan, who stuck to the vessel until she broke up, was washed ashore through the gap, clinging for life to the top of the wrecked vessel's cabin. Thomas Topping, the second engineer, one of those capsized from the first lifeboat, clung to the cabin-top with Capt. Sullivan until he lost his hold and sank from exhaustion. The schooner P. B. Locke, which was in tow of the Resolute, withstood the force of the storm, and lies anchored a short distance from the spot where one mast and the top of a wheel-house mark all that is left of the wreck. The Locke's crew was taken off by a surf boat towed out by the tug Maggie Mitchell and in command of Capt. Ward. The crew of the schooner St. Louis, which had also sought shelter from the storm near the gap, was also taken off by the surf boat.

CHANCES WEIGHED HERE

3,000,000 TO ONE AGAINST YOUR BEING HANGED.

The Three Most Deadly Diseases, Bronchitis, Consumption and Heart Disease.

If you are a Scotsman, you stand a better chance of being killed by accident than if you are English, Welsh or Irish. Thirty-one out of every 1,000 Scotch people who die are killed by accident, and 30 English out of every 1,000. French people are much more careful, for only 15 out of every 1,000 French deaths are attributable to accident. As might be supposed, the risks of death by accident are greater in America than anywhere else. No fewer than 39 per 1,000 of Americans die from accidental causes, says London Answers.

How many of us ever stop to consider the chances that play so great a part in our daily lives? Very few do so, unless, perchance, they happen to be taking out an insurance policy. Insurance companies have, of course, to use a slang term, got risks of all kinds down to a fine point. Their statisticians have calculated chances so carefully that they can quote a premium on anything from the insurance of a house against fire to that of the disablement of a professional fiddler's forefinger. They will insure you against anything from catching measles to having twins, and this being so, they must, of course, make it their business to know exactly the risks the insured run.

RELIGIOUS WORK FOR LONG LIFE.

Their life tables tell you all sorts of curious things. For instance, that if you are a clergyman you have a better chance of living to man's full span of three score and ten than if your profession is that of a doctor. Yet, oddly enough, a doctor, in spite of the risks he runs from infection, has a better chance of life than an attorney, while the latter's life chances are better than those of a coachman's; 184 coachmen out of 10,000 die for every 168 attorneys. The life chances are worst of all for innkeepers and cabdrivers. If the deathrate for 10,000 Englishmen is 180 per 10,000, that of cabdrivers is 266, and of innkeppers 270.

Between the ages of 25 and 65, a woman's chances of life are distinctly better than those of a man. Roughly speaking, 19 men die between those ages for every 16 women.

While on the gloomy subject of death, it may be worth while to glance at the illness which is most likely to kill you. Statistics show that there are two diseases which are far more deadly than any others—at least to the inhabitants of these islands of ours.

THE MOST DEADLY DISEASES.

They are bronchitis and consumption. Out of every million English people nearly 3,000 succumb yearly to diseases of the throat, and fully 2,000 to consumption. Third in point of deadliness comes heart disease, which carries off about 1,400 yearly out of each million of the British people. Cancer and apoplexy send each about 500 to their graves, while the danger of smallpox is so slight as to be less than one-hundredth of that of consumption.

With all its fogs, London is not an unhealthy place to live in. Your chances of living to an old age in London are better than in either of the next two largest British towns. Out of every 1,000 London babies no fewer than 124 live to reach the good old age of seventy-five, while of 1,000 Glasgow children only 87 do so. In Manchester your chances of long life diminish still further. It is 100 to 6 against the resident of Manchester reaching the age of seventy-five. If you live at Brighton your chances are much more rosy than in any of the three great cities already mentioned. The betting is only 100 to 15 against the Brighton baby becoming a septuagenarian.

Tables giving expectation of life make interesting reading, for they exhibit most plainly the superiority in this respect of

THE SO-CALLED WEAKER SEX.

For instance, a ten-year-old boy can only expect to live just under 48 years, while a ten-year-old girl is justified in expecting to live another 51 years 6 months. This superiority holds good all the way through life, and even at 65 a woman's expectation of life is 11 years, against 9 years 9 months for a man of the same age.

To put the expectation of life in another, and perhaps clearer way it is 332 to 1 that an average boy between ten and fifteen will not die within the next twelve months. When you are twenty, the chances are 199 to 1 in your favor. At seventy-five it is still 8 to 1 that you survive for another year.

If you are between twenty and thirty, the chances are about 8 to 1 against your getting married during the next twelve months. Married people live longer by about two years than widowers. If the wife dies first, the man survives on an average 9½ years. But the average widow has a prospect of 11½ years more of life after her husband's death.

The lives of monarchs, always excepting that of our own rulers, are bad risks. The Tsar's life, for instance, is only worth five years' purchase. In other words, it is only 5 to 1 against his surviving for twelve months.

According to the census of 1901, the population of the United Kingdom was then 41,454,578. The number of executions in this country is, roughly, 15 a year, so that your chances of being hanged within twelve months are about 3,000,000 to 1, while your chances of being hanged in a life-time of fifty years are 60,000 to 1.

COAT AND VEST FOR HIM.

A man, accompanied by his wife, visited a merchant tailor to order a suit of clothes. The couple differed as to the material and manner of making, and the wife lost her temper. "Oh, well," she said, turning away, "please yourself; I suppose you are the one who will wear the clothes."

"Well," observed the husband, meekly, "I don't suppose you'd want to wear the coat and waistcoat."

A CRIPPLE CURED.

Helpless and Bent with Rheumatism—Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I was a helpless cripple. I was bent in form and could not straighten up. Crutches were my only means of moving about. I tried many medicines, but they all failed until I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills—they cured me." George Schaw, of Short Beach, N. S., made the above almost startling statement to a reporter a few days ago. Mr. Schaw is now a well built man, strong and broad shouldered. Like thousands of other Nova Scotians, he is a fisherman, and is consequently exposed to all kinds of weather, just the conditions to set the rheumatism poison in the blood at work. Mr. Schaw adds: "It is impossible to overrate the severity of the attack. The trouble was located in my back and right hip. I had to quit work and was mostly indoors. There was a time when I never expected to stand erect again, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills straightened me up again, not only that, but they made me the strong, hearty man you see me today. I can never describe the awful pain I suffered before I used these pills. I tried many medicines and had treatment from several doctors, but to no avail. My legs became so stiff that in order to move at all I had to use crutches. Finally the doctors decided that I was incurable, and told me they could render no further assistance. I continued to suffer day and night, and then came the turning point of my life. A friend from a distance came to see me and it was from him I learned that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were a great cure for rheumatism. At once I got a supply and began to use them. The first indication that they were helping me was when the pain grew less severe. In a few weeks more the swelling in my legs and hips began to leave, then my joints seemed to loosen up, and then it was not long until my crutches were thrown aside and I could straighten up. Then I began to go out doors and soon was able to resume my work as well as ever. Since that time I have never been troubled with rheumatism or lame back. I can tell you my neighbors were all astonished at my cure; they had all thought I would always be a cripple."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure rheumatism by going straight to the root of the trouble in the blood. They make new rich blood that sweeps out the poisonous acid and soothes the jangled nerves. That is how they cure all troubles rooted in the blood, such as anaemia, indigestion, neuralgia, St. Vitus dance, general weakness and the special ailments that only girls and women folk know. Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FALLING OUT OF THE HAIR.

Why Men Go Bald So Much Sooner Than Women.

A question that often arises and is seldom answered twice in the same way is as to why the hair falls out on the top of the head and not at the back or on the sides. The old-fashioned theory is that baldness occurs within the lines marked by a man's hat, and as nobody has ever offered conclusive proof to the contrary, that explanation may be the correct one.

The case was stated not so very long ago to two very intelligent barbers. One of them thought that the reason why baldness occurred at the top of the head was that the brain came closest to the surface there, and this being an age in which many brains are kept going at high tension, the abnormal amount of blood thus carried to the cranium produced a kind of fever in the upper scalp. Fevers, as is well known, often result in the falling out of the hair.

The second barber gave variety to the discussion by enlarging upon the notion that he had formed from the observation and reflection of many years.

"You will notice," said he, "that the first hair a baby has comes on the top of the head, and falls out before the child is many weeks old. The hair that comes to stay grows thicker and stronger on the sides and at the back, and I have an idea that the growth on the top of the head is always the weakest from infancy to old age."

"But how do you account for the fact that women do not grow bald as men do?"

"Account for it! I don't have to account for it," replied the ready-witted barber. "It isn't so. Why, I used to work in an establishment where they had nine chairs in the men's department and eleven in the women's, and, I want to tell you that I learnt some things there that the average man—and the average barber, too, for that matter—doesn't know. If you knew any women who have false hair so arranged that nobody can tell it from their own natural tresses, you wouldn't ask why men grow bald and women don't."

BABY'S HEALTH.

Every mother who uses Baby's Own Tablets for her little ones has a solemn guarantee that this medicine does not contain any of the poisonous opiates found in so-called "soothing" medicines and liquid preparations. These Tablets always do good—they cannot possibly do harm. They cure indigestion, colic, constipation, diarrhoea and simple fevers, break up colds, prevent croup, expel worms and make teething easy. Baby's Own Tablets have done more to bring health, happiness and contentment to little ones than any other medicine known. You can get Baby's Own Tablets from any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 25 cents a box by writing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOG'S HOLLOW.

An old lady living not far from Toronto retired early one Sunday evening, leaving her daughter to entertain two city men. From time to time she called down, "Are they gone yet?" The answer was always 'No," until finally one of the visitors suggested that they answer "Yes," and hear what she would say. It was:—

"Wasn't them boys hogs on the butter at supper?"

IN COURT.

An old sailor was being examined in an assault case by a cute lawyer, who questioned his veracity regarding a matter of time.

"You had no watch, and yet you are positive that the defendant was only ten minutes absent. I doubt if you are able to estimate ten minutes of time correctly," he said.

"Try me," said the old tar.

The lawyer drew his watch from his pocket, and said, "When I call out 'Now,' you allow ten minutes to pass, and when it is up call out 'Time's up.'"

The old salt nodded, and the lawyer called out "Now." Slowly the time passed, and the lawyer with watch in hand tried to wheedle him into an admission that time was up. The sailor paid no heed, and exactly at the end of the ten minutes shouted "Time's up." The bewildered lawyer turned round confused at the Court's loud laughter, and his eyes lighted on the court-room clock behind him, which had assisted the old sailor in his task.

Trial Proves its Excellence.—The best testimonial one can have of the virtue of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the treatment of bodily pains, coughs, colds and affections of the respiratory organs, is a trial of it. If not found the sovereign remedy it is reputed to be, then it may be rejected as useless, and all that has been said in its praise denounced as untruthful.

China and Japan are pre-eminently the seaweed-eating nations of the world. Among no other people are seaweeds so extensively eaten and relished as food substances.

Eyes and Nose ran Water.—C. G. Archer, of Brewer, Maine, says: "I have had Catarrh for several years. Water would run from my eyes and nose for days at a time. About four months ago I was induced to try Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and since using the wonderful remedy I have not had an attack. It relieves in ten minutes." 50 cents.—17

First Lawyer: "How did you come out in settling up old Gotrox's estate?" Second Lawyer: "It was a hard struggle." First Lawyer: "Really?" Second Lawyer: "Yes, I had to work hard to keep the heirs from getting part of the estate."

A Successful Medicine.—Everyone wishes to be successful in any undertaking in which he may merge. It is therefore, extremely gratifying to the proprietors of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills to know that their efforts to compound a medicine which would prove a blessing to mankind have been successful beyond their expectations. The endorsation of these Pills by the public is a guarantee that a pill has been produced which will fulfil everything claimed for it.

When Rheumatism doubles a man up physician and sufferer alike lose heart and often despair of a cure, but here's the exception. Wm. Pegg, of Norwood, Ont., says: "I was nearly doubled up with rheumatism. I got three bottles of South American Cure and they cured me. It's the quickest acting medicine I ever saw." —18

"You poor man," said the kind lady. "Can't you find anything to do?" "No, mum," replied Frayed Franklin. "But I got a promise of work yesterday." "How nice! What doing?" "Gatekeeper on a crossing fer de first airship line what starts, mum."

A Carefully Prepared Pill.—Much time and attention were expended in the experimenting with the ingredients that enter into the composition of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills before they were brought to the stale in which they were first offered to the public. Whatever other pills may be, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of much expert study, and all persons suffering from dyspepsia or disordered liver and kidneys may confidently accept them as being what they are represented to be.

PLUCKED BY MACHINERY.

Chickens are now plucked in a wholesale manner by the use of pneumatic machinery. There is a receptacle in which the fowl is placed after being killed, and into this are turned several cross currents of air from electrical fans revolving at the rate of 5,000 turns per minute. In the twinkling of an eye the bird is stripped of its feathers, even to the tiniest particles of down, and the machine is ready for another.

WIDOWS NOT SO POPULAR.

The British Registrar-General's return shows that in every 1,000 women led to the altar the proportion of widows has been decreasing during the past thirty years. The actual decrease has been from 21.1 in 1870 to 12.5 at the date of the last return.

THE "UPPER TEN" OF SERVANTS.

There is nothing at all to be ashamed of in being a domestic servant of any grade, while certain of the domestic servants in the most palatial houses hold positions which the average bank manager and his wife would envy. In many great households the head servants have servants of their own, and their quarters are as well arranged, and almost as handsomely furnished as those of their master and mistress. It is quite common, for instance, for the housekeeper in a millionaire's establishment to have a complete suite of rooms of her own, comprising reception-room, drawing-room, dining-room, three bedrooms, beautiful bath-room fitted in marble, and kitchen-scullery, and she can entertain friends, even for weeks together, just as though she were living in her own suburban villa. There is even a good stretch of well-kept gorden reserved for her use. To all the upper servants in such establishments the bare suggestion of preparing their own meals or doing any of the domestic work attaching to their own apartments would be quite horrifying. They take expensive seats at theatres, dress lavishly, and rarely condescend to walk in the streets or even to ride in a cheap public conveyance.

Whatever is saved by selfishness is lost to the true self.

He had lent her his stylographic pen and she commenced to write a letter. She—"Oh, it writes beautifully. I declare I'm in love with this pen." He—"I'm in love with the holder." She saw the point.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences of life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in most serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup, the recognized remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

"Have you any children, Jones?" "Oh, yes! You know Robinson?" "Which Robinson?" "Which Robinson — William?" "Yes." "Know him very well. What's that got to do with it?" "I'm going to tell you. He and I had fifty-one between us." "What are you talking about? You must be crazy! What do you mean?" "It's correct. He lives on one side of the orphan asylum and I on the other!"

Your Doctor

Can cure your Cough or Cold, no question about that, but—why go to all the trouble and inconvenience of looking him up, and then of having his prescription filled, when you can step into any drug store in Canada and obtain a bottle of SHILOH'S CURE for a quarter.

Why pay two to five dollars when a twenty-five cent bottle of SHILOH will cure you as quickly?

Why not do as hundreds of thousands of Canadians have done for the past thirty-four years: let SHILOH be your doctor whenever a Cough or Cold appears.

SHILOH will cure you, and all druggists back up this statement with a positive guarantee.

Holy Trinity Bazaar a Success.

The bazaar and concert given in the Town Hall yesterday afternoon and evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild proved to be a very interesting event. During the afternoon the ladies had tables ladened with useful articles, which they offered and which met a ready sale. Also their lunch tables were well supplied with all the necessaries for those who availed themselves of the opportunity. In the evening the concert took place, with Rev. R. H. Archer as chairman, who filled the position in a pleasing manner. Those taking pait in the program were Miss Hazel Franklin, in a solo; Masters Russell and Arthur Wood, a duett; Miss Ethel McCloskey, a solo; Mrs. Shiels, a solo; Miss Alice Bogart, recited; Messrs. F. Wood, W. G. Bolster and A. M. Fetterly, a trio; Mrs. T. T. Shaw, a solo; Misses Deeks and Kyle, instrumental; Mrs. Shiels and Ethel McCloskey, a duett. Mrs. H. P. Dunbar Evans and Miss Ella McCloskey acted as accompanists for those taking part, in excellent style.

The Ladies' Guild is to be congratulated on the success of the venture.

The Passion Play Good.

By invitation the members of the Oddfellows Lodge of this place, were invited to attend a social gathering in the Town Hall on Monday evening, the event being a moving picture show given by Mr. Wm. Neilson of Kingston, who travels in the interests of the order. Besides the grand views which were displayed on the curtain, a musical program was rendered, those taking part being Mr. W. G. Bolster and Mrs. T. T. Shaw, a duett; Miss Alice Bogart recited, Mrs. Shiels a solo, and Miss Ella McCloskey, presided at the piano, all of whom added to the pleasure of the evening.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. Neilson put on the Passion Play to a fair sized audience. which, though very solemn, was thoroughly appreciated.

The Oddfellows of this place are to be congratulated for putting on a show of this nature on at such a low price of admission, but it was not a money speculation on their part, and they did not realize enough to pay expenses, but are satisfied in that they had a chance of bringing their order prominently before the public. May they flourish, which is their just due.

Old Resident of Connaught Dead.

The death of an old resident of Connaught occurred on Sunday evening, Nov. 25th, 1906, when Ann Furney, wife of Mr. Thos. Moran, passed peacefully away to be with the silent majority The deceased had been ailing for about a year and the cause of her death was heart disease. She was 60 years of age. There is left to mourn her demise a kind husband, five daughtersand three boys, viz: Mrs. John Manley and Mrs. Thos. Grady of Connaught, Cecillia, Norah and Mary at home, James at home, Peter in Chicago, and Patrick away.

The funeral took place to-day in St. Mary's church, where Mass was celebrated, after which interment was made in the McMahon burying ground.

Death at Finch.

The death of Colin Hanes of Finch, occurred yesterday, Nov. 28th, 1906. The deceased had been ailing for about two years with that dread disease, consumption.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, (Friday) at 12 o'clock, where services will be conducted in the Methodist church, at Finch, by the Rev. W A. Hamilton, after which the remains will be interred in the Maple Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Hanes carried some insurance in the Independent Order of Foresters.

Mr. David Lagrove of Finch, is a brother-in-law of deceased, and Mr. F. W. Merkley of this place is a brother of Mrs. Hanes.

FIVE DROWNED.

Terrible Accident in Montreal While Boys Were Skating.

Montreal, Que. 24—Five boy scholars at St. Pauls' College, Varines, a few miles below Montreal on the St. Lawrence, were drowned while skating yesterday.

There were six in the party and only one of them escaped from going through the thin ice. The names of the drowned boys are: Edward Matepart, aged nine; his brother, Paul, aged six; Dieudonne Decelles, aged eleven; Camille Racicot, aged fourteen, and Raoul Marchland, aged ten. Alderice Prevost gave the alarm, but only the dead bodies were recovered.

Official Taken for Criminal.

Belleville, Ont., Nov. 25.—Great excitement prevails here since an assault by an unknown man on 8-year-old Myrtle McCune, while on her way home shortly before 6 o'clock on Thursday night. There has been a series of such attempts recently, the result being that women and girls are afraid to go out after dark.

Last night a well-known Government official from Ottawa, was walking down street with a policeman. Word spread that he was under arrest, charged with being the man wanted for assault. In a short time a mob of several hundred surrounded the constable and the stranger, and it was with difficulty they reached a hotel.

There were all kinds of threats made, and the mob did not disperse until Cheif Newton addressed them from an upstairs window, informing them they were accusing an innocent man.

Coal Famine in the West.

Winnipeg, November 24—The western coal famine is acute. The actual situation is best evidenced in an abstract forwarded from Regina based on returns sent in to Premier Scott. Fifty-four towns in Saskachewan, which give detailed returns as to the amount of coal on hand and the amount required, represent the total amount wanted at one hundred thousand tons, and the amount on hand is actually less than one thousand tons, while the supply in sight increases this total but slightly. The places represented in this list include all the large centres and towns. Numbers of people are positively in danger of being frozen unless relief is found at an early date.

The deputy minister of labour was busily occupied all day at Lethbridge yesterday, and a most hopeful view of the situation is the readiness with which both sides accepted the meditation of the labour department.

Canadian Horse Leader.

New York, November 26.—At the Old Glory horse sale, eighty horses were sold at the day session, aggregating a total of $16,675, or an average of $208 a head. The highest price realized was $900, for Larable Rose, seven years old B. M Alexander Maclaren, of Buckingham, Quebec, to M. Bruck, of New York. Larable Rose has a record of 2.14, made at Dover, N. H., last year.

Fire at Prescott.

Prescott, Ont. Nov. 25.—Last night the barns of Dr. J. D. Reid, who resides at the West End of the town, were destroyed by fire. There were eight valuable cows and one horse burned, also bout 1,000 bushels of oats and forty tons of hay. The fire is supposed to have been caused by tramps. Buildings stock and contents were insured.

A Cobalt Mining Suit.

John McMartin, of Cornwall, one of the owners of the LaRose mine at Cobalt, is the defendant in a suit brought by William H. Green, of Toronto, mining engineer, which is being heard in the non-jury assize, at Toronto, and by Mr, Justice Riddell. Green states that he was hired under a contract for one year by McMartin, to be manager of the Wright Mine, on the Quebec side of Lake Temiskaming. His salary was to be $2,000 per annum. After three months he was dismissed, and only paid for three months. He claims $2,500, alleging breach of contract. McMartin counter claims $2,000 damages, saying that Green disobeyed orders and bought machinery that was not required.

Freemasons at Harrow are considering the advisability of instituting a lodge.

It is estimated the water works revenue at Hamilton will amount to $225,000 next year, an increase of $15,000.

The Norfolk Fruit Growers' association has this season sold over $8,000 worth of apples, to be divided among its 17 members.

David McCutcheon received $851 for loads of mammoth clover seed he sold at Shelbourne. The price paid would buy the land the seed was grown on.

J. W. Martin, Dominion lands agent at Lethbridge, has been advanced to the position of Dominion lands inspecter. He will have his headquarters in Brandon.

The annual meeting of the Brockville General Hospital was held on Thursday evening. The reports showed tne institution to he in a most flourisaing condition. Five hundred and five patients were treated during the year. After all expenses were paid up there is a s... of $3,258,51.

CURED HER BOY OF PNEUMONIA

Newmarket Mother is loud in her Praises of the Great Consumption Preventative

"My son Laurence was taken down with Pneumonia," says Mrs. A. O. Fisher, of Newmarket, Ont. "Two doctors attended him. He lay for three months almost like a dead child. His lungs became so swollen, his heart was pressed over to the right side. Altogether I think we paid $140 to the doctors, and all the time he was getting worse. Then we commenced the Dr. Slocum treatment. The effect was wonderful. We saw a difference in two days. Our boy was soon strong and well."

Here is a positive proof that Psychine will cure Pneumonia. But why wait till Pneumonia comes. It always starts with a Cold. Cure the Cold and the Cold will never develop into Pneumonia, nor the Pneumonia into Consumption. The one sure way to clear out Cold, root and branch, and to build up the body so that the Cold won't come back is to use

OTTAWA VALLEY PEOPLE WIN MILLIONS IN COBALT.

Names of Many Who Have Cleared Up Large Amounts in silver Properties.

Ottawa, Nov. 26.—The Free Presssays: Cobalt has proven a bonanza for many residents of the Ottawa Valley, including a number of Ottawans and the amounts they have cleaned up, or stand to clean up, are in some cases almost fabulous. Ten million dollars is said to be a pretty conservative estimate of the winnings of those in the Ottawa Valley interested is the mines of the new Elorado.

At the head of the list of successful ones may be placed Mr. M. J. O'Brien, of Renfew, the owener of the O'Brien Mine, said to be worth millions. That fortunes have been made by Messrs. A. W. Fraser, E. Seybold,, J. P. Dickson, George Goodwin, T. A. Beament of Ottawa, J. G. Turriff, M. P., and others in the Right of Way can be easily understood when it is known that the investment of $1 in that company is worth $50 to-day on the market price of the stock. H. H. Lang of this city is credited with making $300,000 in the City of Cobalt and other mines; R. T. Shillington $200,000; W. Y. Soper, $250,000; J. G. Forgie, Pembroke, $200,000; Kobert Gorman, $200,000; W. F. Powell, $75,000 to $100,000, J. Lorne McDougall, $25,000; M. J. O'Conner, $25,000; P. Galbraith, Carleton Place, $100.000. Others who have made large winnings are Messrs. F. R. Latchford, Geo. Gordon, J. W. Smith, E. J. Chamberlain, T. W. McGarry M. L. A., Renfrew; F. M. Devine, Renfew; Dave and George Mulligan, William Anderson, R. W. Gorden, P. D. Ross of Ottawa; Thomas A. Low, Renfrew; W. G. Lawson, Eganville, and the Russells of Pembroke.

The members of the Holiness movement have purchased a property on Bank street, Ottawa, for $14,000 and will establish a college there next spring.

A by-law to raise by way of debenture $47,000 for the reconstruction of the intake pipe in connection with the waterworks system at Pembroke, will pe submitted to the ratepayers shortly.

A hydro-electric reduction works is being erected at Sturgeon Falls with a capacity of about 100 tons per day. The company intend testing copper and silver ores.

Foot Was Caught In Frog.

St. Thomas, Ont. Nov. 25—Frank Brown, Pere Marquette brakesman, of this city, while on duty at Port Stanley yesterday afternoon caught his foot in a frog at a switch before an engine which was backing towards him. He was run over and terribly injured, both legs and his right arm cut off. He was brought on a special train to St. Thomas, and taken to the Almasa Wood Hospital, dying an hour after being admitted. He was conscious until a few moments before he died, and told how ne struggled to throw himself free of the engine when it was bearing down on him. The deceased was 26 years of age, and leaves a widow and parents who reside in this city.

Morley Eckert, M. C. R. switchman. was killed at Montrose last night while working in the yards. He fell off while riding on a switch engine. The young man's home was in Victoria, Ont.

CHAPTER IV.

When Paul Annesley appeared at breakfast next morning he had a heavy look, and yawned a good deal, for which he apologized, observing, casually, that he had been called up at two in the morning, and only got home at six.

Mrs. Annesley's comment upon this was to say tranquilly that it usually occurred three nights running; but Edward, whose deep slumbers had been invaded once or twice by sounds which roused him sufficiently to make him wonder if he had fallen asleep in the guard-house, questioned his cousin, and learned that he had ridden five miles on the cob he had used the day before to a cottage in a dell, which could be approached only by a footpath; that he had tied the Admiral to a gate in a field, and left him while he visited the patient, who died.

In the meantime, the horse had broken loose, and, after a long and tantalizing chase round the field, Paul dropped and broke his lantern, and wandered knee-deep into a pool of water, and slipped down once or twice; after which he decided to walk home through the dark, drizzling morning, leaving the provoking steed to his fate. This proved to be nothing more dreadful than being captured at daylight by the patient's husband, and led back to Medington, whither the widower was bound for various sad necessities. He now stood, with the animal before the door, even while the cousins were talking, a picture of homely tragedy.

In spite of these nocturnal adventures, Paul was bent on going to the meet, which was at the Travellers' Rest on Arden Down that day; he was further bent on Edward's accompanying him, though a search through the livery stables at Medington resulted in the production of nothing better than an immense gaunt old chestnut, which had once seen good days, and which it required some moral courage to ride. Paul, with a truly heroic magnanimity, offered his cousin his own little thorough-bred Diana, whom he loved like a child; but Edward, with a heroism scarcely less, declined, and the cousins started off on their dissimilar steeds; Larry, the chestnut, charmed to find himself in such aristocratic company, and apparently depressed when his polite attentions were received by his elegant companion with the haughty indifference incident to a high-bred beauty.

As they trotted quietly along, Paul stopping occasionally to visit a patient, Edward thought a good deal about him and his mother. What a good fellow he was, how cheerfully he faced the hardships of his lot, and, above all, what an excellent son he was to that very trying mother! Few sons were so much loved as he, and his affection for his mother was deep and strong. He must have been very desperate when he smashed the tea-service; it was the sole passionate outbreak on his part of which he had heard.

He thought of his own kind and sweet-tempered mother, also a widow, and to whom his conscience told him he was not as dutiful as Paul to his wayward parent, and wondered how it would have fared with himself, had his father married Eleanor Mowbray, as family tradition, confirmed by gentle Mrs. Edward Annesley's severe strictures on Mrs. Walter, reported that he had wished to do.

Over the chimney-piece in his bedroom at Medington was a portrait of Eleanor Mowbray which haunted him. It was taken at the time of her marriage, and represented a lovely girl in the childish costume of early Victorian days, with arch blue eyes peeping out from between two bunches of curls in front of the cheeks. He had gazed fascinated upon it, vainly trying to detect the lurking demon behind the angel semblance.

He was on a visit to Medington when Nelly's death occurred. The child, then twelve years old, on being severely and unduly scolded for some slight fault by her mother, who was chasing her from place to place, harassed at last beyond endurance, had turned, seized a brush from the hall table, and thrown it at Mrs. Annesley. Edward was standing by.

"Undutiful child! You have killed me! You are unfit to live. Never let me see you again!" the mother burst out with fierce vehemence.

The child took her at her word, and ran out of the garden door; Edward never would forget her white face as she turned before disappearing.

Next morning he saw her slight body borne drowned into that hall. She had not been missed; being in disgrace, she was supposed to be hiding about the house somewhere, until she was found by the river-side, and thus tragically brought home.

Were there other demons lurking unseen behind other angel faces? he wondered. Did Eleanor Annesley in those innocent bridal days dream what she was capable of? Did she even now realize the horror of the thing which at times possessed her? Paul, though he had "sent the tea-service after" the Psyche, did not dream that the curse of the Mowbrays had fallen on himself. For not only is each human being an enigma to his fellows, a dark mystery fenced about on every side by impassable limits which obscure his nature almost as effectually as Sigfrid's Tarnkappe, or Cloak of Darkness, did the hero's bodily presence, but, what is still stranger, each is an insoluble mystery to himself. No one can tell how he will act in unforeseen circumstances, which may prove the touchstone to reveal unsuspected qualities; nay, even when the fierce discipline of life has brought many unexpected features to light, and a long record of good and ill is written on the memory, who can analyze the motives, mixed as they must be, which prompted those deeds?

We may well be humbled, not knowing but we may one day fall, and gentle in judging others, since we might have done as ill ourselves. Paul in the meantime was haunted by the vision of Alice, sitting in the carved oak chair beneath the armor, with the hound at her knee, in the fire-lighted hall, and considering if he could manage to get landed at Arden Manor before the end of the day; for the days on which he did not see her became more and more flat and unprofitable.

"Except I be by Sylvia in the night,
There is no music in the nightingale;
Except I be by Sylvia in the day,
There is no day for me to look upon."

Then he mused upon the news he had heard there, and thought how it would have been with him, had Reginald's baby not been born. His prospects were so dark, he could not help thinking of Edward's happier circumstances, his more agreeable life and comparative wealth.

And now the chestnut pricked up his ears and looked about him with a joyous excitement, which rivalled Diana's own youthful ardor, and they knew that the hounds were near, and Paul pressed on through the ever-growing stream of horses and carriages to see his patient, leaving his cousin to follow at leisure.

In spite of the leaden sky and thick moist air, which obscured all but near objects, the desolate spot on which the lonely inn was built looked gay and animated this morning. In front of the low stone wall of the court-yard moved the parti-colored mass of hounds, their sterns waving with half-suppressed enthusiasm; out of their midst rose the huntsman on his bright bay, his scarlet coat emphasized by the gray background of the inn. That awful personage, the master, splendidly mounted and brightly clad, with a world of care on his brow, was exchanging polite commonplaces with gentlemen, to some of whom his expressions later in the day would be less civil and more forcible. The mass of riders wore dark coats, but the proportion of red was enough to brighten the whole picture. Four or five farmers on good horses of their own breeding, two or three beautifully equipped county gentlemen, a few ladies, some half-dozen nodescript riders, including a clergyman, who said he was only looking on, a rabble of boys, with half a dozen officers from regiments stationed near, made up the field. A barouche, two landaus, three wagonettes, a few phaetons, gigs and dog-carts, an empty coal-wagon and a butcher's cart, were drawn up in the road, and Edward vainly scanned the ladies in these vehicles in search of the object of Paul's affection.

Then he glanced at the solitary inn, and thought of the suffering that a thin wall separated from the animated group of pleasure-seekers. Reuben Gale was walking Diana up and down, and exchanging pleasantries with the whip. His father was leaning on the low wall, with an empty pewter pot in his hand, enjoying the scene just as if his daughter were not dying and he had not all those graves down in Arden Churchyard. People were laughing, chatting and smoking; horses were champing their bits, and sidling and stamping with the exultation of the coming hunt. The warm, damp air was laden with the scent of opening buds, trampled turf and trodden earth; the luscious flute-notes of thrushes, and the tender coo-coo of wood-pigeons came from the copses below and mingled with the occasional neigh of a horse or whine of a hound. There was a joyous thrill of expectancy that made Edward forget his steed's shortcomings, and neither he nor any one else thought of the background of tragedy which shadowed every human being present.

Among the horses was a beautiful white Arab, easily distinguished by the characteristic spring of the tail from the haunches, and Edward observed the animal with such interest that he did not notice the rider. The latter, however, pressed his knees into the Arab, and sprung forward so suddenly that the excited Larry backed into an unpretending phaeton, containing an old gentleman and a young lady. He caught the flash of a pair of dark eyes as he turned after getting free, and apologized, and then found himself accosted by the Arab's rider, a Highland officer of his acquaintance, who bestowed some ironical praise upon the unlucky Larry.

Edward laughed and explained that it was Hobson's choice.

Captain McIlvray, the Honorable Kenneth of that great name, regretted that he had not known in time to offer him a mount. "But, my dear fellow," he added, in his affected drawl, "you said you were staying at Medington."

"Yes, I am staying with some friends who live there."

"Really," returned the Highlander, "do you mean to say that anybody lives in that beastly hole?"

"Some ten thousand people live there, I believe," replied Edward, tranquilly.

"Possibly," reflected the other, fixing his eyeglass so as to take a steadier survey of him. "Ah, you mean, Annesley, that they don't quite die there, eh?"

"I mean that they live lives a precious sight better than those you fellows live up in your barracks, with your dances and dinners and horses, and all your idleness and affectations."

"Stwange fellow, vewy stwange!" moralized the officer, shaking his head with affectionate gravity; "always thought you were a parson spoiled."

"Oh! stow that affectation; why can't you say what you think and be what you are, a genuine honest Scotchman instead of an imitation dishonest cockney?"

"A wough diamond, vewy wough," continued the Highlander, offering him a cigar. "And who are the virtuous fwiends who live the supewior lives in the stweets of Medington?"

"Paul Annesley, my cousin, a doctor. That brown mare with black points is his; he is visiting a patient in the inn there," replied Edward. "He doesn't pretend to hunt, but says he can't help it if the hounds will run in front of him."

"Vewy good weasoning, vewy clever mare. Ahl intwoduce me—worthy doctor."

"I'll be shot if I introduce you to anybody you speak of in that idiotic way," said Edward, laughing in spite of his words; and the Highlander laughed too, and worded his request differently, and then Paul came bounding up on Diana, and Edward introduced them.

"And now, Edward," said Paul, after a few words I must reintroduce you to some old friends."

And, turning, he led them up to the very phaeton into which the chestnut had just backed, and the owner of the dark eyes, who had unavoidably heard every word that had passed between the two officers, proved to be no other than Sibyl Rickman.

"I should never have known you for our old friend, Sibbie," he said, with unaffected admiration, and then the pack moved off to the copse below the inn, and the phaeton was drawn with the two horsemen into the moving stream which followed it, so that he had only time to observe a pretty voice and laugh, an animated face and an easily excited blush, as the charms which won Paul's heart.

But Sibyl, having overheard his conversation with the Highlander, formed an estimate of his character which she never altered. She mused on it while talking at the cover-side to Paul, with whom Edward purposely left her while renewing his acquaintance with Mr. Rickman. It seemed to the dreamy imaginative Sibyl that so fine a vision of young manhood had never before blessed her sight. His very gesture when he patted the neck of the despised old horse went to her heart, and remained there forever.

The air was now alive with expectation; the eager cry of a hound broke out and set the horses' ears quivering; the huntsman's horn was winded ever and anon; whips cracked like pistol-shots in the heart of the wood; the last cover hack was exchanged for a hunter, girths were tightened, bits examined, cigars thrown away and conversation became spasmodic. Again the passionate cry of a hound, another and another, then silence; more horn blowing, more pistol cracks, and demoniac yells from human lungs, finally the full triumphant chorus of the pack.

Then a strange jumple of sounds and excitement, a general stampede of saddle-horses, all kinds of misbehavior on the part of those in harness, a universal madness seizing man and beast, and the cover-side in a few moments is deserted, riders streaming across the fields, and carriages along the nearest high-road, because a small reddish-brown animal with a bushy tail has just whisked cautiously out of the far side of the coppice, looking behind him with a sagacious grin, and rejoicing that the nearest muzzle sniffing his trail is a good way behind.

Straight along the valley beneath the down flashed Reynard, and what he thought of the splendid canine chorus behind him, and whether he appreciated the melody of the fine pack and was soothed to find them "matched in mouth like bells," unfortunately nobody knows. Yet one can not help thinking that it must be a fine thing to dart away thus at full stretch, and by the exercise of all one's powers to strain and perhaps baffle all that tremendous following of instinct, strength and skill; to fight alone—one small, solitary animal—all those trained monsters in the chiming pack, those gigantic, high-mettled steeds, and that great army of thinking men. At all events this particular fox, rejoicing that his last meal had been opportunely timed to put him in trim for a run, laid his legs to the ground smartly, and gallantly resolved, if it came to the worst, to die hard.

On dashed the hounds, mad with exultation, uttering their wild music; on thundered the field, horses and men alike intoxicated with the chase, and neither thinking of Reynard's sensations. Now the master's face with wrath, and his denunci loud and pungent, as som rider blunders over the hounds; the huntsman and the alive in every nerve; the best restraining the eagerness steeds; field after field is swa hedge and ditch and brook a with every field the hunt is into a longer and thinner str riders are seen scrambling al rows in search of gates and is a horse, hoofs uppermost, him his rider with red coat all and once spotless br[illegible]es s mud. YUKON IN THE SIXTIES

VISITED THE INDIANS IN THE FROZEN NORTH.

Archdeacon McDonald Spent the Best Years of His Life Within the Arctic Circle.

One of the makers of history in North-Western Canada is now spending the evening of his days in Winnipeg, venerated by those who know him and his life's history. His active years were chiefly spent near and within the Arctic Circle, the Yukon, the Klondike, and other districts whose names gold has since made familiar to the world, which were traversed by him in the long ago.

He was ordained deacon in December, 1852, and priest in 1858. He was first stationed as Church Missionary Society missionary at Islington, Winnipeg River. In 1862 he was selected to establish a mission at Fort Aux Liards, Mackenzie River District, but he proceeded instead to Fort Yukon. In 1871 he removed to Porcupine River, and in the next year to Peel River, where he labored until 1904.

Proceeding in 1862 from what was then called the Red River Settlement to Fort Yukon, Archdeacon M[illegible] labored there who were composed of numerous tribes, and who annually assembled in the summer at that port for the purpose of fur-trading with the Hudson's Bay Company. During his stay there of eight years, the Indians in the surrounding country were visited, both in winter and in summer.

Thousands of miles were traversed annually, either in canoe or boat in summer, and on snowshoes in winter. In 1865 scarlet fever spread among the Indians, and many of them were carried off by the disease. At first only infants were baptized, but after four years the adults gave such evidences of their benef in and of their acceptance of the truths of the Gospel that it was considered advisable to examine them when they assembled at the fort for purposes of trade. Having found that they had an intelligent understanding of what they had been taught, the archdeacon administered baptism to them, not only at Fort Yukon, but along the line of travel from that fort to the fort of the H. B. C. on Bell River, a tributary of the Porcupine, and the Indians across the mountains at Peel River, when it was found that the number of baptized men, women and children amounted to about 700.

From Fort Yukon tribes of Indians were visited about 450 miles down the Yukon at the confluence of the Tanana, where gold was afterwards found. This river is not as large as the Yukon. It takes its name, as the word implies, from

THE GLACIER MOUNTAINS.

At first the natives held themselves aloof from the missionaries, but after three or four visits all gave in their adhesion; over one hundred of them received baptism and the following year about three hundred more. These tribes had to be addressed through an interpreter, one of themselves, who could speak the language of the Tukudh, the people among whom the missionary resided.

During these 42 years of residence in the frozen north, Archdeacon McDonald was accustomed to visit the different tribes of Indians on the Upper Yukon and below the confluence of the Porcupine River with the Yukon, all the way to the entrance of the Yukon into the Pacific, and as far as Norton Sound, where there was a depot of the Russian Fur Company, which passed in 1867 into the hands of the United States of America through purchase.

GETTING EVEN WITH LAWYERS.

Where the Overshrewd Have Fallen Into Traps of Their Own Making.

Overshrewd lawyers often furnish their adversaries with weapons. "Did you see this tree that has been mentioned by the roadside?" an advocate inquired.

"Yes, sir, I saw it very plainly."

"It was conspicuous, then?"

The witness seemed puzzled by the new word. He repeated his former assertion.

"What's the difference," sneered the lawyer, "between plain and conspicuous?"

But he was hoist with his own petard. The witness innocently answered: "I can see you plainly, sir, among the other lawyers, though you are not a bit conspicuous."

In another witness a blow directed against the character of a witness forcibly recoiled.

"You were in the company of thes people?" he was asked.

"Of two friends, sir."

"Friends; two thieves, I suppose you mean."

"That may be true," was the dry retort; "they are both lawyers."

The blow that destroys the effect of an adverse examination is occasionally more the result of accident than of conscious effort. In a trial not long ago a very simple witness was in the box, and after going through his ordeal was ready to retire. One question remained.

"Now, Mr. ——, has not an attempt been made to induce you to tell the Court a different story?"

"A different story to what I have told, sir."

"Yes. Is it not so?"

"Yes, sir."

"Upon your oath, I demand to know who the persons are who have attempted this."

"Well, sir, you've tried as hard as any of 'em," was the unexpected answer.

It ended the examination.

SOME MODERN HOLD-UPS

MAN WAVING AN UMBRELLA STOPPED AN EXPRESS TRAIN.

How Farmers, Cats, Dogs and Butterflies Have Stopped Railway Traffic.

The driver of a Scotch express noticed a man standing waving an umbrella in an excited manner, the express then being a few miles from Peterborough, England, says Pearson's Weekly. Steam was shut off, the brakes applied, and the train was brought to a standstill. The individual with the umbrella then coolly informed the guard that he wished to board the train. For reasons of his own he had alighted from the King's Cross train at Peterborough, and had proceeded on his journey on foot. After walking a couple of miles he tired of his task, so he stopped the express in order that he might have a lift up. He got one.

A more determined affair was one which took place in Kansas during the recent remarkable wheat yield. As the farmers at Burlingham found that it was not possible to obtain men willing to work as reapers, they lit upon the bold expedient of "holding up" a train carrying two hundred reapers bound further west. A party of farmers, armed to the very teeth with shot-guns, revolvers, and what not, brought the train to a halt. They forced the men out of the car, and marched them off into the fields.

THE MEN WERE WELL PAID;

but this was small satisfaction for the farmers from whom the two hundred reapers were commandeered.

A train on the South-Eastern Railway, while on its journey from Tunbridge Wells to Hastings, was brought to a sudden standstill owing to a very slight cause. A couple of bonny fox-terrier puppies were the cause of the stoppage of the great train. The engine-driver noticed the poor little animals fast asleep on the line. His humanity did him credit, for, sooner than run over the helpless couple, he stopped his train, and picked up the puppies.

A dog was responsible for holding up one hundred yards of electric tramcars in London. The dog was only a little one, but he caused a commotion out of all proportion to his size. He crept under one of the huge cars when it stopped in the Brixton Road. The driver hesitated to start, and tram after tram joined the waiting cars. Then quite an amusing scene was witnessed. Drivers, conductors, inspectors, passengers and pedestrians all joined in the endeavor to dislodge the barking terrier. Despite all entreaties and cajolery, whether of voice or of walking-stick, the dog remained under the car. It was remarkably agile and stupid. So, for a quarter of an hour, matters progressed, until an eight-foot pole was obtained.

A VIGOROUS PROD IN THE RIBS

caused the terrier to emerge suddenly, amidst wild cheers from the crowd, and the tramcars moved off.

A cat very successfully "held-up" several trains on the Lockport Electric Railway, although the result could scarcely be deemed satisfactory from its point of view. It climbed the trolley-pole of a standing motor, and attempted to walk along the overhead feed-wire. Owing to its tail coming into contact with the wire conducting the return current, the cat disorganized the whole railway system for several hours. It was a big yellow tom-cat before its tail completed the circuit; afterwards it was a cinder. The inquiring Thomas was electrocuted instantaneously, as it received a full charge of 24,000 volts. The flash was seen for miles, and not only was the traffic on the railway stopped, but a large number of neighboring factory plants were deprived of their power and light for some hours.

Stranger still, a train on the Central Argentine Railway was stopped by white butterflies some little time ago. This sounds extremely curious, but

IT IS PERFECTLY TRUE.

Myriads of the insects occupied miles of the track. It was their crunched bodies that brought the engine to a standstill.

A very remarkable sight was witnessed by passengers in one of the down trains of the Uganda Railway. While the train was proceeding from Lake Victoria to Mombasa, it ran into a perfect bank of locusts, which continued with more or less density for a distance of nearly forty miles. In some places the insects were between four and five inches deep. Very soon the engine stuck fast, owing to the greasy state of the rails, thus bringing the train to a standstill.

For a couple of hours a breakdown gang had to be employed in shovelling the locusts from the metals, which were then covered with sand, before the train could resume its journey.

"Goodness!"

"And at last I succeeded."

"She granted all that I asked, and by so doing made me the happiest man alive."

"Mercy——"

"I asked her to come up to the house with me at once, but she had some shopping to do, and cannot get here until evening."

LONG DISTANCE PIPING

ENGINEERING FEATS PLANNED FOR WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

Gold Mining Region of Coolgardie Supplied With Water at a Cost of $14,000,000.

It is expected that the next few years will witness the development of the most remarkable system of water carrying in western Australia that has ever been seen. The plan is to repeat, again and again, the successful engineering work that is now supplying the great gold mining region of Coolgardie, far out in the desert of the interior, with plenty of water brought from the coast mountains, 325 miles away.

This western Australian desert contains perhaps the largest waterless regions in the world. When David W. Carnegie made his second journey across it, several years ago, he travelled 800 miles without finding anything that suggested a permanent source of water.

For many days he saw nothing but prickly spinifex covering the sand ridges, which were forty to fifty feet in height and extended east and west parallel with one another. He wrote that he crossed more than eighty of these sand ridges in eight hours travel.

But under these repellant sands lie the great gold resources of western Australia that are now supplying more of the metal every year than all the rest of the commonwealth. When the rush of miners to this great thirst region began, the eager search and the frantic strife for water was

SOMETIMES TRAGICAL.

The Government sought for underground sources of supply, but most of this water was found to be so impregnated with salts that it was unfit for use. Engineers finally devised a plan of water delivery from the western coast mountains, about twenty miles to the south of Perth, which involved the largest pumping scheme that has yet been carried into operation in any part of the world.

The works were completed only two years ago and they are attracting all the more attention because the population that is using $14,000,000 for them is still quite small.

The amount of rainfall in the basin of the Helena River, which flows through the Canning Hills south of Perth, is about 30 inches a year. It was found that by impounding this river a supply of 5,000,000 gallons a day would be available for transportation into the interior.

The problem was to transport this water a distance of 350 miles, for it was proposed to extend the aqueduct to the Kalgoorlie diggings, east of Coolgardie, and this has been done. Mundaring, the place where the Helena River was dammed, is only about 300 feet above the sea, but the surface of the desert to which the water was to be carried is about and had to be lifted during the process about 1,300 feet.

The water which collects back of the dam in the Helena River forms a fine lake seven miles in length. The big delivery pipe that carries the water is not buried in the soil, but lies on the surface or in open trenches, for there is no danger of freezing.

There are eight pumping stations, a little more than forty miles apart, and the water is kept moving up the long, but very gentle, incline. It finally reaches a reservoir many miles west of Coolgardie, and from this point gravitation takes it to the 40,000 inhabitants of [illegible] mining camps and to Kalgoorlie region beyond.

This water is sold out there in the desert at a comparatively small price considering that interest must be paid on the money borrowed to develop the works. It sells for about 75 cents a thousand gallons, and it supplies not only those distant mining camps, but also some twenty of thirty settlements on the way to them and small pipes carry water to stockmen or villages miles away from the main line.

Up to this time the consumers have been able to obtain all the water desired of the very best quality and at all times of the year. Stockmen along the route who had supplied their animals from scanty wells that might run dry at any time have lost this fear, for the pipe line is an unfailing source of

GOOD FRESH WATER AT ALL TIMES.

There has been no interruption of the flow on account of accident to the pumps, because extra pumps are installed at every station for use in case of need.

It is to give the widest possible application to this great idea whose practicability has been so thoroughly demonstrated that the people of western Australia are now turning their attention. The rivers do not come from far in the interior, for the rainfall is too small for it to have much surface flow.

But nearer the coast the precipitation is quite large, and engineers are now working on plans for saving of this water that can be collected and sending it through pipes far into the interior, not only to supply mines, but also to give life to many thousands of acres of farm and grazing lands, so that the agricultural and grazing industries may be far more widely extended over the country than was formerly thought possible.

PLATED.

SUFFICIENT TEST.

Some visitors who were being shown over a pauper lunatic asylum inquired of their guide what method was employed to discover when the inmates were sufficiently recovered to leave.

"Well," replied he, "you see, it's this way. We have a big trough of water, and we turns on the tap. We leave it running, and tells 'em to bail out the water with pails until they've emptied the trough."

"How does that prove it?" asked one of the visitors.

"Well," said the guide, "them as ain't idiots turn off the tap."

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old fogy" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 25 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

EMPIRE ! EMPIRE !

The Empire Cream Separator outwears other Separators, lasts longer and requires fewer repairs, because—It's simple in construction and—It is more carefully built. That has been the Experience of thousands of farmers who have used the Empire Its easy to see why. Being so much simpler in construction it has fewer parts to get out of order. The bowl being so much lighter and there being so much less mechanism, there naturally is less friction and wear. It will pay you to consider these things.

Gentlemen:—I am using one of your EMPIRE Separators and am pleased to be able to recommend to all who intend to buy machines.

I can truly say that I have tried several methods of handling milk, and can recommend a seperator to be far in advance of all other methods.

I can also say that I have tried several other makes of separators and prefer the EMPIRE to any of the others on account of it being easily cleaned, a close skimmer, and the lightest to operate. I am

Senator Kerr Dead.

Toronto, Nov. 22.—Senator Wm. Kerr of Coburg, died at the general hospital at nine o'clock to-night. He underwent a severe surgical operation on Tuesday and did not recover from the shock.

The Hon. William Kerr, M. A., L L. D., K. C., was one of the newer generation of members of the Upper House having only been called to the senate in 1899 although he entered political life in the House of Commons in 1874. A Canadian by birth, he was born at Ameliasburg Prince Edward County, in 1836, and was educated at Victoria University, Coburg, and subsequently studied law with the late Chief Justice Armour at that place.

He was called to the Ontario bar in 1859, and since then practiced his profession at Coburg, where for many years he enjoyed the leading practice of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham. In 1862 he first entered public life as a member of the Coburg Town Council, where he sat for five years, after which he became mayor of the town, which office he held for six years, being invariably elected by acclamation. A life long Liberal, he took an active interest in the political life of the district, and was for many years president of the County Reform Association. He entered the Federal arena in 1874, when he defeated the Hon. James Cockburn, the Speaker of the House of Commons. He was unseated but re-elected. He was, however, defeated in the same riding in 1878, 1882 and 1885, and at several subsequent elections refused the nomination. In 1876 he was created a Q. C. by the Ontario Government, and in 1896 was elected a bencher of the Ontario Law Society.

He was for many years a member of the Board of Regents and a Senator of Victoria Untversity, and was Chancellor of that institution since 1885, when the office was first created.

Senator Kerr married Miss Myra Field, of Coburg, and is suvived by seven children, several of his sons now practicing law in Toronto and Peterborough.

Presentation.

Saturday evening a very pleasant time was spent on the R. & O. steamer Belleville, the important event being the presentation of a handsome gramophone and set of records to Capt. Jas. Stephenson, by his officers and crew, in grateful acknowledgement of his many acts of kindness towards all during the successful season just closing. Though taken completely by surprise the captain responded in a very able manner, thanking his men one and all for their prompt attention to their duties and complimenting them on their steadiness, sobriety and friendliness towards each other at all times. The balance of the evening was taken up by a concert with the new instrument.

Following is a copy of the address which accompanied the present:—

Capt. Jas. P. Stephenson,

Dear Captain,—We, the officers and crew of the Str. Belleville, take this opportunity of showing in a small way the esteem in which you are held by your crew. We have had a summer which has been marked by friendship unity and good fellowship, all due to your kindness, capability and mastership.

You have done your best and have succeeded beyond belief in keeping harmony and friendship between all. Always ready to offer a helping hand, you have guided us through all the difficult passes both on water and on land. Hoping that in future years this may recall to your memory many happy days spent among us, we remain yours in friendship

Signed on behalf of the officers and crew.

Dairy Convention at Kemptville.

An important dairy convention was held at Kemptville on Monday under the combined auspices of the Eastern Ontario Dairymens' Association, Kemptville Cheese Syndicate and Grenville County Dairy Associrtion. The town hall was well filled by farmers from the counties of Leeds, Grenville, Lancaster, Carleton and Dundas. The crowd was large, intelligent, attentive and enthusiastic. Mr. Daniel Ferbyshire, M. P., of Brockville, president of the Eastern Ontario Dairymens' Association, was unable to preside, his place being filled by Mr. M. K. Everetts, of Smith's Falls, one of the oldest and best known dairymen in Eastern Ontario. Mr. R. G. Murphy, secretary of Eastern Ontario Dairymens' Association, explained the work of the association, and the arrangement of divisions. An election was held, and Mr. Levi Patton, of Brockville, was elected to represent the local division on the board of directors of the E. O. D. A. Mr. G. G. Publow, of Kingston, superintendent of dairy instructors, gave a lengthy and educative address. Mr. D. M. Wilson, of Kemptville, instructor of the Kemptville syndicate, presented his report of the year's work. Mr. W. G. Gardiner, of Easton's Corners, president of the Grenville County Association, spoke of the work of that organization. Other prominent dairymen also addressed the meeting.

Constipation

Baked sweet apples, with some people, bring prompt relief for Constipation. With others, coarse all-wheat bread will have the same effect. Nature undoubtedly has a vegetable remedy to relieve every ailment known to man, if physicians can but find Nature's way to health. And this is strikingly true with regard to Constipation.

The bark of a certain tree in California—Cascara Sagrada—offers a most excellent aid to this end. But, combined with Egyptian Senna, Slippery Elm Bark, Solid Extract of Prunes, etc., this same Cascara bark is given its greatest possible power to correct constipation. A toothsome Candy Tablet, called Lax-ets, is now made at the Dr. Shoop Laboratories, from this ingenuous and most effective prescription. Its effect on Constipation, Biliousness, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Sallow Complexion, etc., is indeed prompt and satisfying.

No griping, no unpleasant after effects are experienced, and Lax-ets are put up in beautiful lithographed metal boxes at 5 cents and 25 cents per box.

Arrests at Buckingham.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—Mayor J. E. Vallilee, Coroner Rodrigue and six strikers were placed under arrest at Buckingham yesterday. Tremendous excitement reigned in the little town when the news spread. It was thought that matters had finally calmed down with regard to the strike, which brought so much disaster in its train, and this last sensation came like a thunderbolt.

The charge against the Mayor and coroner, both of whom are magistrates ex-officio, is that they neglected their duty and failed to use the proper methods for the repression of violence resulting from the strike. The strikers; arrested are: H. Hamlin, H. Charette, L Landry, J. B. Clement, C. Bestien and George Robinson. Kenneth P. McCaskill, chief of the Quebec Provincial Police made the arrests. The accused were immediately taken before Judge Choquet, who allowed bail. They will again come before him to-morrow.

The Lethbridge coal mines are producing 200 tons daily, compared with the regular output of 1,000 in normal times. If the strike is settled 250 of the regular miners are ready to go to work.

Dr. Alexander Beith is the choice of the West Durham section of the Durham county Liberal association executive for the office of postmaster of Bowmanville, made vacant by the death of James Fairbairn.

At Guelph presbytery Rev. William D. Lee, Toronto, graduate of Knox college, sustained the call to Waterloo congregation, Mr. Lee having accepted the call. The ordination and induction will take place on Friday, December 8.

The unpleasantness over the appointment of a rector to the Pavillion church at Balmy Beach has developed into an open attack upon the bishop of Toronto on the part of those who object to the chcice the bishop has made.

A big smelter is to be erected at Dead Lake by the Northern Ontario Consolidated Copper company. It will be the first in Canada and will handle ore which now goes to Illinois. Work will begin at once. Several new mines will ship ore there.
