Reports Progress C'ty Public Schools

M. N. Hutchison, Inspector of Public Schools for Dundas County, has compiled a detailed report on the progress that has been attained in the school year just ending, outlining present programs and future possibilities in the County.

"Progress is perhaps the outstanding factor on the educational scene for the school year just drawing to a close.

The new three-roomed school at Riverside Heights, built by Ontario Hydro, and the new three-roomed school at Inker-man, built by the Mountain Township School Area, were officially opened. It was particularly pleasing to have Mr. W. J. Stewart, the retired Public School Inspector, at both of these important events. Both Winchester Public School and S. S. No. 22 Mountain are benefiting greatly from the completion of extensive alterations to necessary facilities. Work has already started on the new additions and alterations to No. 12 School, Williamsburg T.S.A. It is expected that this project will be completed for the beginning of the school year 1959-60. Several school boards are planning improvements to their schools which will be carried out during the summer vacation.

The matter of proper and adequate accommodation is becoming a pressing problem in the villages in the northern part of the County, and in the rural areas of the southern part. The superiority, advantages and desirability of such schools as Stampville Public School, Riverside Heights Public School and Inkerman Public School are so obvious to the interested members of school boards and the general public that it is not surprising to find a large number of enquiries regarding the building of more such schools. The increase in the present school and pre-school population in our villages would suggest that steps should be taken to enlarge the public schools in Winchester and Chesterville.

Junior Red Cross Active
In the annual appeal for funds by the Junior Red Cross, the teachers and pupils of the public schools of Dundas County exceeded their generous contribution of last year by $155.00, when they forwarded $1,540.86 to the headquarters in Toronto. Mrs. O. C. Herrington, Director Ontario Junior Red Cross, has very fittingly expressed deep appreciation of such an outstanding response.

In-Service Training was continued in three different ways during this school year:

1. In an effort to assist the beginning teachers, special sessions were held on each of the Saturday mornings of the month of September in Winchester Public School. At these meetings, experienced, practising teachers gave demonstration lessons, displayed techniques and "do-it-yourself" equipment and led discussions covering reading, arithmetic, social studies, health and science for the primary grades. In all, 302 teacher hours were spent in observation and discussion. The comments of the beginning teachers and those of (See Page Two)

Rev. Ralph W. Smith Appointed Assistant At Ottawa Cathedral

Rev. Ralph W. Smith, rector of St. John the Baptist Anglican Church since July 1st, 1955, has been appointed assistant at Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa. He takes over duties there on August 15th. The announcement was made Sunday by Bishop Ernest S. Reed, Ottawa.

Rev. Smith was born and educated in Scotland, Alberta, and is a graduate of the Anglican Church Army Training College. Following graduation in 1952, he served as a church army officer in the suburban parish of St. Thomas the Apostle, Ottawa. In the same year he was ordained Deacon and appointed assistant at St. Peter's and St. Mark's, Ottawa. He was ordered priest on the Feast of the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, May, 1953.

Rev. Smith, in addition, to having St. John's Church in his parish, had Christ Church, Dixon's Corners, St. Paul's, Had-do, and since January of this year, St. Peter's, South Mountain.

In 1953 Rev. and Mrs. Smith (the former Ruth Cameron) were wed. They have one son, Philip Cameron, age 5 months.

Rev. Smith is an honorary member of Iroquois Lions Club, has been a member of the Iroquois Public School Board for several years and chairman since January, 1958.

On February 1st of this year Rev. Smith was appointed Rural Dean of Stormont.

The family's many friends in the community will wish them every happiness in their new community.

Mourn Elder Resident

Following a lengthy illness, Miss Emma Robertson, a long-time resident of Iroquois, passed away on June 15th, at Brockville General Hospital, where she had been a patient for over a year. She was 83 years of age.

Miss Robertson was the last member of her family, and was a daughter of the late George Robertson and his wife, the former Helen Stacey. She was born in Matilda Township, and had spent the greater part of her life in Iroquois.

She was a life-long member of the United Church, and a charter member of Morrisburg branch of the Women's Institute.

The funeral was held at the W. E. Fitzsimmons Funeral Home, Iroquois, on Wednesday afternoon, June 17th, at 2:30 o'clock, the service being conducted by her pastor, Rev. Gordon F. Dangerfield, minister of Iroquois United Church.

Interment took place in Fairview Cemetery, Morrisburg. Pallbearers were Messrs. L. J. Gibbons, Wilfred T. Gibbons, David Robertson, Donald Robertson, Everett Leizert and Lawrence Gallinger.

The many floral tributes and the large number who called to pay their last respects showed the high esteem in which Miss Robertson was held by her relatives and many friends.

ANNIVERSARY SOCIAL
An anniversary social will be held on the Hainsville United Church grounds on Monday evening, June 22nd, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. A good programme. Adults 50c, Children 35c.

Ayrshire Twilight Meeting

A very successful twilight meeting of the Grenville-Dundas Ayrshire Club was held Wednesday, June 17th, at the farm of Mr. Harry Williams, Mountain.

Mrs. Jean Casselman, M.P., was the guest speaker of the evening. Following a short address on conditions in Soviet Russia, Mrs. Casselman showed an excellent movie which she had taken while visiting that country.

Always a feature of Ayrshire Club meetings, are the spirited judging competitions and on this occasion 71 persons participated. The prize winners were as follows:

Ladies: Mrs. Gerald Kittle, Chesterville; Betty McRoberts, Winchester; Muriel Caul, Winchester.

Gentlemen: Allan McRoberts, Winchester; Orville Small, Brinston; Byron Ostrom, Mountain.

Juniors: Stella Robinson, Winchester; Dwayne Dawley, Winchester; Ronald Lewis, Mountain.

Official judges for the competition were Donald MacIntyre of Finch, Director of the Canadian Ayrshire Club, and Mr. Fraser Hanna, President of the Stormont Ayrshire Club.

Other speakers of the evening were Mr. Donald Rose, President, and Mr. Lou Roper, Fieldman of the Ontario Ayrshire Club.

Mr. Rose spoke enthusiastically of the work in breed improvement and promotion done by the Ontario Ayrshire Club and urged all breeders not to neglect their duty to this worthwhile organization.

The programme was under the direction of Grenville-Dundas President Gerald Kittle, of Chesterville, assisted by Donald Rose, Mountain, Secretary, and Ray Smith, Assistant Agricultural Representative for Stormont and Dundas.

Personal

Mahlon Zeron, noted Eastern Ontario auctioneer, and Matilda Township reeve, was taken to Hotel Dieu Hospital, Cornwall, on Saturday. He was conducting a sale at the United Church parsonage when he became weak to carry on. His many friends will wish him well in his recovery and return to his home in the township.

J. Orval Seeley, Matilda's former reeve, returned home from a Toronto Hospital and is expected to be presented to the Queen on Saturday. Mr. Seeley was reeve during most of the upheaval caused in the township by the Seaway and power developments.

Here & There

by Kay Kay

The announcement from the Eastern Ontario Development Association this week regarding industries locating around us, but not in our municipality, is something we should think about, wonder, and then turn on the TV set. No matter how hard you think about why we aren't getting industry, you'll come up with many a blank answer.

Maybe it's time we took a close look at our situation instead of gazing into the future with a slightly soiled pair of glasses.

On the surface we appear to have everything an industry might be looking for. To our local thinking, we have a modern community, public utilities second to none, room for expansion, good industrial sites, highway and rail facilities, water in abundance, fine schools and churches, low taxes (even though some are hootin'), take a drive to Prescott, Cardinal or Morrisburg; in addition, we have, we believe, a council willing to sit down and bargain if industries are interested. Yet, it seems to us no avail—we're protected, it seems—from the industrial 'bombs' dropping east and west.

Like everyone else, we've talked about our future, wondered if we were really in the 'promised' land—and came up still thinking we were.

One thing, though, we didn't mention out loud. Our labor pool—or the lack of it.

Many industries today find they have a high percentage of labor turnover and to constantly fill their needs there must be a ready supply.

To meet the demands of say a 400-employee industry with such a fast turnover, we would have to have many more people than we now have, either in the village or in the immediate area. Therefore, it would seem, all we have to do is get the people and industry will come.

Our thinking has always been—get the industry and people will come.

Next idea to strike us was, try to get smaller industries—those employing 25 to 100 persons. And we think this seems to be the only logical solution. As in any business, a steady progressive program is the only safe and sane way. We think it's time we spent time and there's no doubt, dollars, if we want to see our community grow.

Needless to say there are always a few who don't want to see changes and progress. They are satisfied to live as they have in the past. But the past has a way of catching up. Let's help it along with actions, not just idle conversation.

It might take years, but at least we could say we were doing something about it—not just sitting—

Leave Sunday

Rev. Gordon F. Dangerfield, Mrs. Dangerfield and family leave for Victoria, B.C., following Sunday morning service at Iroquois United Church. Rev. Dangerfield will take over duties as minister of Gordon United Church in that city.

PLANT OAK TREE

To commemorate the visit of Queen Elizabeth to Iroquois members of the Iroquois United Church Sunday School and their parents are invited to a tree planting ceremony at the church on Saturday morning at 10 a.m. Rev. G. F. Dangerfield will preside at the ceremony, one of his final acts while still in Iroquois.

Off To Jr Red Cross

Gertrude McGinn, a Grade 11 student at Iroquois High School, left Sunday evening by bus to attend the Ontario Junior Red Cross being held June 22-30 at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, as the representative of Iroquois High School Junior Red Cross.

Misses Jean and Gertrude McGinn, Dixon's Corners, have been advised by Miss Frances P. King, Secondary School Supervisor of the Ontario Junior Red Cross Society that they will be hostesses to Sally Harrison, of Louisville, Kentucky, during the first week of August. Sally is one of Kentucky's delegates to the International Junior Red Cross Study Centre being held at the University of Toronto, August 11-22.

Immediately prior to the study centre each visiting delegate will spend a week in a Canadian home with teenagers. The McGinn girls are greatly honored to have this opportunity to show off the Seaway Valley. They hope to introduce Sally to many of the district teenagers and take her to many of the interesting sights and events in Eastern Ontario.

Dist. W.I. President Speaks

Mrs. E. Norton was hostess for the June 18th meeting of the Iroquois Women's Institute. There were 17 members present.

Regular Institute business was taken up and included the minutes and correspondence by secretary, Mrs. D. Hare.

It was decided to continue serving the dinners to the Lions Club, also the Institute to buy 25 dinner plates, 25 cups and saucers, two butcher knives, two paring knives and a potato kettle. Two members offered to donate two pie servers.

Prices were given by Mrs. A. Banford from Colonial Coach Lines on chartering a bus to several places. It was decided to have a trip July 16th to Watertown, N.Y. Mrs. I. Seeley, Mrs. E. Norton and Mrs. D. Hare to be a committee to look after the tickets, etc. Members decided to take a potluck lunch and to leave at 8:30 a.m.

Mrs. Norton, district director, reported on the 54th district annual meeting that was held in Iroquois United Church, May 26th.

The new district president, Mrs. John Sutherland, of Chesterville, was introduced. Her topic was "Human Relations", good human relations beginning in the home. "Let us take time for all the little things in life," she said. "Canadians are well known as good neighbors, let us keep that in mind and invite New Canadians to our meetings." She concluded her address with a short poem "I'm House Weary".

Mrs. D. Hare and Mrs. I. Gilder were appointed to call on sick and shut-ins during July and August, from Charles S. east and Mrs. G. Clark and Mrs. M. Hyslop from Victoria St. to Elizabeth Drive.

The meeting closed with the Queen and a delicious lunch served by Mrs. Norton and her assistants, Mrs. D. Hare, Mrs. I. Seeley and Mrs. W. Robinson.

NEW PARKWAY OFFERS VIEW OF ROYALTY

Some of the best vantage points for viewing the Royal Party June 27, will be at the new Long-Sault Parkway. Motorists will find ample parking space and families can relax under shady trees in the provincial park development to await the motorcade following the Cornwall ceremonies.

The chain of islands forming the Parkway was created artificially with the flooding of the 100-square-mile floodplain for the St. Lawrence power development. Miles of sandy, man-made beaches and acres of attractive picnic grounds have been provided.

Vacation Bible School Planned For Iroquois

Mr. Peter Breedveld, a theological student from Westminster Theological Seminary, plans to start a community Vacation Bible School in Iroquois this summer. It promises to be a good community project.

Mr. Breedveld, who worked last summer in Port Arthur, Ont., started a similar school there, and the enthusiasm of the children was so great that there was hardly enough space to accommodate the 600 children who attended the school.

The children will receive two weeks of Bible instruction. There will be sing songs, story telling, handicraft work and many more interesting projects. The highlight of this school is the closing concert, during which the parents will have an opportunity to see the handwriting of their children.

All parents should give serious consideration to this Vacation Bible School. Mr. Breedveld said, since it is a God-given means we all should use to bring Christian Religious Education to our children.

Plaza Decorated For Big Event, Public Welcome

With flags and bunting flying from the shopping plaza, public buildings and many homes in the community, Iroquois is prepared for the arrival of Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip this Saturday afternoon. It is another of many "firsts" for this new village created along the banks of Lake St. Lawrence.

A hard-working committee burned the midnight oil for the past three weeks making certain that as many snags as possible have been eliminated so that the event will pass without a hitch. By last Wednesday night, the meetings were over; final plans had been formulated and a master plan evolved to show the tour route through the village and where everyone is to be located according to plan.

These master plans, along with instructions to the schools invited to Iroquois for the momentous occasion, were distributed and the committee sat back to await the final day.

B. J. Saver, heading the committee, said that the largest problem facing the committee, was making sure village and area children had ample room and that there was sufficient parking space available for the thousands of people anticipated Saturday afternoon, especially if the weatherman co-operates.

Parking Lot For Children

The entire parking lot at the shopping plaza has been reserved for children, some 3,000 of whom have been invited by the committee, and as well for the local color party and organizations forming a guard of honor on each side of the route leading to the platform at which local and area officials will be presented to the Royal Couple.

The receiving platform will be located in the corner of the plaza between IGA and S&F. It will only be a few inches high but sufficient to give the vast audience of youngsters an opportunity to see the short ceremony.

The presentation at the platform and the drive through the village will take only ten minutes.

It is not on the agenda for the Queen to speak to the crowd.

To Be Presented

Those having the privilege to be introduced to the Royal visitors are Reeve and Mrs. Lloyd C. Davis who will be introduced by Premier Leslie Frost; the Iroquois councillors and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Ellis, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fetterly, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Glimmer, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Saver. Also invited are Reeve and Mrs. Mahlon W. Zeron, Matilda Councillors, Mr. Dwight and Mrs. Merkley, Mr. Wilfred and Mrs. Wells and Mr. James Milligan; Mr. and Mrs. Mark Salmon, Prescott; Mr. and Mrs. George Brown; Mr. J. Orval Seeley.

Presentations

Miss Barbara Fetterly will present a gift to the Queen, a set of Caldwell towels, with a monogrammed Maple Leaf with the Royal Family's individual initials super-imposed on and Maple Leaf. They are a gift of the Village of Iroquois.

Miss Christine Davis will present a bouquet of flowers to the Queen.

The towels are on display in W. E. Fitzsimmons' furniture store where they will remain for villagers to see prior to the presentation on Saturday afternoon.

Ten Minute Visit

The royal party will arrive at the eastern extremities of the village at 4:45 p.m. The entourage will come from Morrisburg, along No. 2 Highway, and will enter Iroquois shopping plaza parking lot at its western entrance. They will drive south towards the Royal Bank corner of the plaza, turn east along the front of the stores to the platform in the corner. Once the official party has alighted from the cars, the vehicles will continue out of the corner, leaving the Queen and Prince Philip to be picked up on a given signal, after the presentation ceremony.

Lined up on both sides of this route will be children from all over the area, from Prescott on the west, Mountain Township on the north and from schools between Iroquois and Morrisburg. On completion of the ceremony, the cars will pick up the Royal Couple and other officials and the cars will retrace the route on which they entered. They will not, however, go all the way to the highway, but will turn east just before reaching the highway and follow along the north side of the parking lot, again between rows of children. They will pass in front of the Texaco Service Station to Elizabeth Drive. They will then follow Elizabeth Drive all the way to the Carman Road. Here, a new road just completed, will take the party to Point Iroquois, at which point the royal yacht will be waiting.

The "Britannia" will leave at 5 p.m. for the trip to Brockville. The entire proceedings will be finished at 4:55 p.m.

Stores in the plaza have been asked to close between 4 and 5 p.m. and no adults will be allowed on the sidewalk in front of stores. This also has been reserved for children.

June Beetle Havoc

June beetles are in the news again—that's the big, brown beetle that flies so clumsily, making so much noise—there are reports of great swarms of them from all over the province.

June beetles have become quite a nuisance, and they cause a lot of damage—particularly when they are in the larval or white grub stage. In no time at all these nasty little critters can turn your lawn from a nice lush carpet of green into a dull, lifeless brown mat.

But you don't have to endure white grubs—you can do something about them. In fact, you can control them for up to three years with just one treatment. That's because the June beetle has a three-year life cycle—first the adult lays the eggs, then two or three weeks later the eggs hatch into white grubs. The white grubs feed all the rest of that summer on decaying vegetable matter and the roots of living plants—namely your grass. The grubs spend the winter deep in the soil, then, in the spring they push their way up to just under the surface of the soil. Then they start their second season as grubs and this is when they do the most damage—feeding ravenously all summer long. The third year of the cycle, the white grubs feed as before, then turn into the adult beetles which stay in the soil till the next spring when they emerge and start the cycle all over again.

Now, if you can kill off all the grubs and adult June beetles in your lawn in one year, it follows that you have a pretty good chance to be relatively free of grubs for three years.

There are several good white grub controls on the market, but the best of them contain dieldrin, a high potency insecticide that kills all stages of June beetle development quickly and easily. You just spread the dieldrin insecticide evenly over the grass then wash it into the turf with a good soaking from the hose. That's all there is to it, and your lawn is protected from white grub damage for up to three years.

But here's something you should keep in mind. Most folks don't know that their lawns are infested with white grubs until the damage is done, then it's too late and they have to start their lawns all over again. To make sure you are not wasting your efforts this year, treat your lawn against white grubs now even though there may be no indication of white grub activity yet—as they say, it's better to be safe than sorry.

School

the many practicing teachers who attended, as well as the carry-over observed in the classroom work, left no doubt as to the value of the project.

Some similar form of assistance will have to be organized for the coming school year as it is expected that we shall again have about 12 to 15 percent of our teachers either beginners or with temporary certificates.

2. The Township Teachers' meetings carried on a variety of worthwhile projects in their regular monthly meetings. As was found last year, the interest, ability and co-operation of the teachers made every meeting a worthwhile experience. Great credit is due the executive officers and the program committees, and especially to the many teachers who did extra research and preparation in order that their colleagues might benefit from their unique abilities and experience. The executives of the various groups are already planning their programmes for the next school year.

3. It was most encouraging to find that so many of our interested teachers attended our own Seminar in Arts and Crafts last summer. The course, by the way, was such a success that it received mention at the meetings of the Teachers' Federation in Toronto, as well as encouraging comments from officials of the Department of Education.

Our Seminar is to be repeated, bigger and better than ever, this summer. It was encouraging, too, to learn that several of our teachers took part in another Seminar in English in Brockville, and still others travelled to Kemptonville each Tuesday evening throughout the winter to attend a Seminar in Arithmetic.

Such enthusiasm and interest in professional development warrants sincere praise for those teachers involved. The benefits accruing to the pupils are unmistakable and most evident in the classrooms. A few school boards in the county have recognized this fact and have rewarded their teachers with a small but encouraging increase in salary for these additional qualifications.

Testing Programme
The testing programme begun last year and designed to help establish standards and assist the teachers, was extended this year. One special set of attainment tests was administered to all Grade 7 and 8 pupils in March. From these, County norms were worked out so that each teacher had an indication of how the pupils in her school were progressing in comparison with all other Grade 7 and 8 pupils in the County. Later on, in May, County tests were administered to all pupils in Grades 5 to 8, inclusive. These tests were designed to show to the teachers and pupils any weaknesses in the basic subjects. Where weaknesses came to light the teachers and pupils had the remaining weeks of the school year in which to rectify them. The tests were compiled by committees of teachers. They were in no way promotion tests. The promotion of pupils is the responsibility of the individual principal and is based upon the work and performance over the whole school year.

Personnel Changes
Several changes in personnel will become effective this September. The services of two teachers of long and faithful service will be lost to us when Mr. Raymond Coligan and Miss Minnie Smith retire from their teaching positions in Morrisburg Public School. Mr. Coligan's position as Principal will be taken by Mr. Hosea Droppo of Chesterville. Mr. Robert Coleman will take over as principal at Chesterville, while Mrs. Ellen Reid will assume the duties of principal at North Mountain Consolidated School, Hallville.

It is regrettable that some other changes in personnel have been brought about by a breakdown in the salary negotiations between teachers and school boards. On the other hand where teachers' salaries and the positions offered have been sufficiently attractive, no difficulty has been encountered in retaining or procuring suitably qualified and experienced teachers. Several school boards have adopted the policy of accepting beginners for the school year 1959-60 who will be six years of age on or before December 31, 1959. The wisdom of this decision is borne out by the results of experience, experiment and research. It has been found that, generally speaking, an average age of six years is desirable when children are to be taught reading and the concept of simple number facts. A few have done it and will do it at an earlier age, but for the most part, much less difficulty is encountered by the pupils and great understanding is developed when they start school at six years of age.

The school boards referred to have taken steps to resolve this problem in the rural ungraded schools where perhaps the most difficulty is encountered since the teacher has to cope with all eight grades. The answer in the graded schools would seem to be the establishment of kindergarten classes for the five-year-olds. The success of the kindergarten in Morrisburg Public School is undisputed.

It would appear that there is some lack of understanding of the length of the legal school day. It is necessary for a pupil to be present in school for a minimum of five hours, inclusive of morning and afternoon recess, before he may be credited with a full day's attendance. A half-day's attendance may not be granted unless a pupil has spent a minimum of 2½ hours in school.

Since the average daily attendance is a most important factor in the calculation of the Provincial Grant to be received by the school board, it is felt that teachers, trustees and the parents will be most anxious that all pupils should earn the maximum attendance credit by spending the required number of hours in school each school day."

H.M.Y. BRITANNIA on which Queen Elizabeth II and the Prince Philip will visit the Seaway area and Ontario Lake ports

welcomes Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II and His Royal Highness the Prince Philip for the opening of the ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

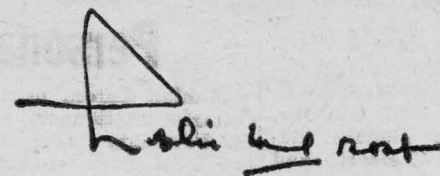

The Government and the people of Ontario welcome Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II, and His Royal Highness the Prince Philip, to our great Province.

With the official opening of The St. Lawrence Seaway by Her Gracious Majesty, the worthy dream of years becomes a reality. Now open to deep-water shipping of the world, our Lake Ports will provide access to the heartland of the Continent—and from them, as ocean ports, will go forward, into world trade channels, Canada's and Ontario's raw materials and manufactured goods.

Out of this Development has also come the great Provincial power project—in which Ontario has made a vast financial investment—providing additional power resources which can be used to increase our industrial, agricultural and economic strength.

Proud to be a partner in the British Commonwealth of Nations, our Canadian Nation rejoices in and looks forward to the Royal visit. It will be marked by many memorable events. They will be of great historic significance, providing opportunity as well to show to the Queen of Canada the unfailing loyalty, devotion and affection of her Canadian people.

May the visit to Ontario of our Gracious Sovereign be a pleasant one, as we pay her due homage.

Iroquois Lock Statistics

During the royal tour, H.M.Y.
"Britannia" will pass through the Iroquois Lock, the most westerly of seven new locks that have been built to replace 21
locks in the old canal system, between Montreal and Lake Ontario. It was the first to be completed.

Iroquois Lock by-passes the Iroquois Control Dam and provides the necessary lift from the level of the power pool, now known as Lake St. Lawrence, to that stretch of river leading upstream through the Thousand Islands region to Lake Ontario.

ture, 1200 feet; length between

CORNWALLIS PLANS ROYAL LUNCHEON

Now that he runs a hotel, how does an ex-busboy feel about arranging luncheon for the Royal Couple and 300 distinguished guests?

"It's great," Fred Barber smiled. "Naturally, it takes a great deal of preparation, but I'm confident everything will go smoothly."

Mr. Barber, general manager of the Cornwallis Hotel, will be presented with his wife to Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip June 27th, then conduct them to the Royal Suite before the City of Cornwall luncheon.
Behind his preparations lie 25 years in the hotel business and his experience serving King George VI and Queen Elizabeth, now the Queen Mother, as an Empress Hotel waiter in 1939.

The Royal Party will be greeted at the dining room and escorted to the head table by Miss Edith Frith, the dining room hostess, who has been with the Cornwallis 27 years. Among the public figures with whom she has had contact as a hotel employee are Governor-General
Vincent Massey, Prime Minister
John Diefenbaker, former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, former U. S. President Harry S.
Truman and Viscount and Lady Alexander.

Miss Frith will wear a plain black nylon sheath dress with bouffant overdress of nylon marquise. All waitresses will wear black nylon princess-line dresses with eyelet collars and cuffs, small white nylon aprons and matching coronet style caps and white shoes.

Mrs. Simone Primeau, who has worked for the hotel nine years, will wait on the Royal Couple. Serving other head table guests will be Mrs. Re-jeanne Cox, Mrs. Mary Thom and Miss Violet Moore.
Austrian-born Florient Nerhoff, chef at the Cornwallis for 30 years, will prepare the luncheon: celery and olives, can-taloop supreme, cold breast of chicken, tomatoes stuffed with jelled vegetable salad, potato salad. Thousand Island dressing, strawberry coupe, petit fours and coffee.

The hotel is undergoing extensive redecorating for the occasion.

After the Royal Visit, Mr.
Barber will take another step up in the career he launched as a busboy—managing his own hotel and motel in Cobourg.

there are four wire rope fend-ers to protect gates; the bascule bridge is 20 feet wide with electrical power of 600 horsepower required.

Altogether, 4,500,000 cubic yards of material was excavated for the lock and approaches and 660,000 tons of concrete poured in lock and approach walls.

Two control houses, one at each end of lock and an administration office house the seven-man crew on each shift.

The gates are 43 feet high and each leaf weighs 250 tons, each leaf having a radius of 49 feet.

DO YOU NEED MONEY

- ★ to consolidate debts
- ★ to meet insurance premiums
- ★ to pay doctor, dentist or hospital bills
- ★ for educational purposes
- ★ to meet unexpected obligations
- ★ to cover major purchases
- ★ for home improvements?

Personal loans for these and other reasonable purposes are available at any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada to any credit-worthy individual.

Obviously we do not encourage people to assume a debt they will be unable to repay. Such loans can be an embarrassment and a worry to the borrower as well as the bank.

BUT if you have a steady job and are in a position to pay back your loan without undue hardship, by regular monthly instalments, your logical course is to call at your nearest Royal Bank branch.
You will find the manager glad to discuss your needs with you and to explain to you the remarkably low rate of interest charged by this bank for personal loans.

Bid District Family Farewell

On Friday evening, June 12, a farewell was held in Hainsville United Church to bid farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Swerdfeger and daughters, Enid and Joyce, who have sold their business and are leaving this community.

A short program was given, consisting of several musical numbers by Rev. and Mrs. H. Poynter, also Sterling Murphy of Cardinal and readings by Mrs. John Thompson.

Rev. C. A. Adey spoke of the work and faithfulness of this family in the church and then called on Mr. and Mrs. Swerdfeger, Enid and Joyce, to come to the front of the church and the following address was read by Mrs. Stanley Barkley.

Dear Mildred, Milton and Girls:

It was with much regret we learned you were about to leave us and we could not let you go without spending another social evening in your presence.

You have always been ready to lend a helping hand, to give of your time, talent and effort to make a success of any enterprise in your new home, but you, Milton and Mildred, will not only be missed in our community but in all work of our church.

Mildred, we feel we are losing a faithful Sunday School teacher as well as an ardent worker in the Woman's Missionary Society.

Joyce and Enid we have watched you grow from childhood to womanhood and we regret we will not be seeing you so frequently now.

However, we do not wish our regret as losing you from our midst, to cast a gloom over you. We all rejoice in your happiness and wish for you many years of health, joy and happiness in your new home, but words alone do not seem to give adequate expressions of our feelings so we ask you to accept these gifts (coffee table and two end tables to match, to Joyce and Enid a bed lamp) not for their value but as a slight but tangible evidence of our love and appreciation of your helpful life among us.

Hoping the future will bring you much happiness and success and that you may have the pleasure of seeing you often and welcoming you to our homes, whenever opportunity affords

Honor Couple On 20th Anniversary

About 50 friends and relatives joined Wednesday evening, June 17th, in honoring Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Smyth, on the occasion of their 20th wedding anniversary.

The pleasure of visiting us 'Tis the being and doing for somebody else

On that, all life's splendour depends

And the joy of the whole, When you're summed it all up is found in the making of friends.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors of Hainsville and Glen Stewart.

Rev. Adey called on Margaret B. Fossitt, who read the following on behalf of the Intermediate Sunday School class.

Dear Mrs. Swerdfeger: We of the Intermediate Class now, are only a few of the many Sunday School pupils whom you have taught for many Sundays in the past 17 years.

Your teaching ability, your endearing ways and kindness to all of us is something we will not soon forget.

We felt we could not let you leave us without in some small way expressing our thanks to you.

We ask you to accept these gifts and hope as they are used you will find a memory of each of us.

Signed on behalf of the Intermediate Class. Mrs. Stanley Barkley.

Margaret Barkley presented Mrs. Swerdfeger with a table lamp and brooch from the class. The Young People's Class also presented Joyce and Enid with a beautiful cup and saucer.

The program was brought to a close after each member of the Swerdfeger family thanked everyone who helped make possible the beautiful gifts, by the singing of the hymn "Blest Be The Tie That Binds". Lunch was served by the ladies.

ANNE HIRST

Your Family Counselor

"Dear Anne Hirst: I need somebody to steady me before I do something foolish. I dated a boy I thought was perfect, until I learned he was dating my best friend too; he took her to new places so they wouldn't meet me. From then on I let them both very much alone. . . ."

"Now he has come back to me and calls or sees me every night as he used to — but whenever we make a real date to go out he doesn't show up! He says he loves me, but do you call that love?"

"If he were dependable I'd marry him tomorrow. He is even spreading the news that we're engaged — when he hasn't even proposed! What can you do with a boy like that? If I didn't think I'd see him tomorrow I don't know what I should do!"

UNHAPPY

COUNT HIM OUT

* The first trait demanded of any friend is honesty — and how can you call this man honest? He double-crossed you with your best friend; she was as guilty, but that does not lessen his deceit. He swears his love, then when he plans to take you anywhere he doesn't show up. He spreads the story of your coming marriage, and he hasn't even asked you.

* The emotions you arouse in him are superficial, or he would see you every chance he had, taking you out, showing you off, building up that confidence which every girl needs to feel for the boy she loves. He has no regard for the deeper qualities, no thought for anything but today's pleasure when he can enjoy your friendship and your * love. You couldn't live with him for long, you know; you certainly could not expect him to cherish and protect you as a good husband should. Within a year you probably would be so disillusioned you would wish you had never met him.

* Your only escape from this painful situation is to send him away for good. You deserve a man finer than he is. If you will list all the qualities that make a good husband, you will see that he lacks almost every one.

* Wake up, before you waste any more time and step off the deep end.

SUMMER PROBLEM

"Dear Anne Hirst: Our summers are lovely out here, and I love to garden. We have been married nearly a year, and my husband will not allow me to wear shorts — yet he can't pass a girl who does without turning his head for a second look."

"I shouldn't let this little habit infuriate me, but I can hardly keep still about it. Of course, he just laughs! ANGRY NOW"

* Men are just about as inconsistent as they say women are. Some prohibit their wives from using make-up, cutting their hair or wearing revealing clothes, but the same men can't keep eyes front when other women makes the most of their charms.

* Why? Because they don't like their wives to attract other males.

* Why dignify the subject by comment? Let your husband stare.

You may be in love, but if your boy friend is not keeping you happy there is something wrong. Remake your rules before you assume the doormat role that spells disillusion. In time of confusion, write to Anne Hirst at Box 1, 123 Eighteenth St., New Toronto, Ont.

Human Touch

Many special performances of the music of Joseph Haydn, the great Austrian composer who died 150 years ago, are being played by famous orchestras all over the world in honour of his memory.

When late in life he visited the little village of Rohrau where his father had been a wheelwright living in a cottage, Haydn was so overcome with emotion that he kissed the ground he had known in childhood. His last days were darkened by the French invasion of Austria, and Vienna was bombarded a short time before his death at the age of seventy-seven.

It has been said by critics that everybody enjoys Haydn's compositions because he was a "human composer" and wrote what everybody could understand. "I never put a note on paper until I have quite made up my mind about it," he once said.

The great artist Sir Joshua Reynolds painted his portrait of Mrs. Sheridan in the character of St. Cecilia, the patroness of music, who, legend says, was a lady of ancient Rome and capable of playing every instrument with wonderful skill.

When Haydn saw the portrait, he said to the artist: "What have you done? You have made her listening to the angels, whereas you should have represented the angels as listening to her."

The little girl was sitting in church watching fascinatedly as a couple were married. Suddenly she turned to her mother and asked: "Mother, has the bride changed her mind?"

"What do you mean?" asked the mother.

"Well, the bride went up the aisle with one man and came back with another."

Doctor's Work In The Frozen North

Up to just four years ago, Dr. William A. Paddon could make house calls to his patients — 4,000 Eskimos, Indians, and white settlers scattered along Labrador's northern coast — only by dog sled and snowshoes. Then the Grenfell Mission supplied him with an airplane and a bush pilot, and a plodding world gave way to amazing speed for Dr. Paddon.

In Chicago recently to tell the annual meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association the details of his dramatic, ten-year fight to stamp out TB (and other diseases) in his district, the husky, 44-year-old Dr. Paddon said the longest regular flights on his rounds is about 350 miles — a matter of two hours' flying time. "I made the same rounds for ten years on snowshoes, with a dog sled," he smiled wryly. "Putting one foot in front of another, it measures 800 miles, and it used to take me five weeks."

But, with a shrug of his broad shoulders, Dr. Paddon dismissed the hazards and hardships of the life of a Labrador doctor. He was raised in Labrador and is now director of the Grenfell Mission Hospital at North West River. His father had been a director of this same hospital; his mother, now 71, was awarded the Order of the British Empire for running it singlehanded during the second world war. When the young Dr. Paddon, after serving in the Canadian Navy, returned to Labrador in 1945, he found the health of the natives bad and getting worse. The U.S. Air Force had set up a base at Goose Bay, and it had brought in measles and influenza. These viruses, rare in Labrador, "lighted up the old TB infections and left a trail of new ones" among the weakened natives.

Dr. Paddon's job was to diagnose and isolate the TB cases that were infecting the rest of the population. In the summer of 1948, a hospital boat, newly fitted with X-ray equipment, began docking alongside northern villages, and chest X-rays soon became "a social event." Persuading the natives to accept hospitalization was another matter: Experience had taught them that only a lonely death far from home awaited them in the hospitals to the south.

Dr. Paddon's solution: He left the badly infected but recalcitrant patients in their homes and concentrated instead on younger, less advanced cases. "Psychologically, we needed a few successful results to exhibit," he explained.

In Chicago, Dr. Paddon took stock of the results: In ten years he said, the TB death rate has dropped from between 408 and 900 per 100,000 deaths, to 30 per 100,000.

After being involved in a car accident, Casimir Rosinski, of West Hartford was summoned because he smelled strongly of drink.

When he appeared in court the charge was dismissed. Rosinski proved that he always went about in an aroma of strong drink — he worked six days a week at a brewery!

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

by Gwendoline P. Clarke

Of course everybody knows the bluebird is an omen of happiness, and last week, you may remember, we had a bluebird on our acre lot. Well, that little bird must surely have got his signals crossed because last week wasn't exactly the happiest we've known. And all on account of blackflies. When we were up at Ginger Farm three weeks ago Partner got a few bites on his forehead. They were itchy but no worse than bites usually are. Two weeks later a big hard lump came up in front of one ear. The swelling spread into Partner's neck and up to one eye. The other side of his face was also getting stiff and numb. A visit to the doctor was definitely indicated. Diagnosis . . . secondary infection from the bites. Treatment . . . daily injections of penicillin and various drugs by mouth. I'm telling you, Partner looked a mess. However, the treatment soon began to take effect and as the swelling subsided the infection became localized to the two original bites and they began to look something like a boil. However, there is still enough swelling to give Partner's nose a queer looking slant. The nose starts out running north and south but the tip is pointing east or west, according to which way he's looking. While Partner was having his little bout with infection I developed a rotten cold — tonsillitis and summer colds seem to be quite prevalent just now.

Other events last week were of a happier nature. One day we had callers — neighbours when we were at Ginger Farm. They came to warn us we were going to be neighbours again. "Neighbours", I exclaimed, "what do you mean?" "Just what I said. We have sold our farm and have bought a house in that subdivision just across the road from you."

Well, that was a surprise. Of course we had to go and see the house — in the much publicized Credit Woodlands. It is a wonderful house, but not quite finished. Split level, four-piece main bathroom, two-piece wash-room: off the master bedroom, shower and washroom in the basement and a sink in the recreation room. Time was when we were glad to have a bathroom at all. Now a one-bathroom house is completely out of date. Of course this lovely house was on the usual small lot and when we all came back here I thought I detected a look of envy in our neighbours' eyes as we walked around our spacious lot. However, it all depends on what a person wants. I guess we would rather be a small toad in a big puddle than a big toad in a small puddle. Our friends may have quite a different reason for looking wistful there have. Incidentally the fact that our former "neighbours" have sold their farm means that our faithful old Rusty must be adopted by yet another family. There are several farmers who want him so I guess he will always be sure of a good home.

Another event this week was a sign of better things to come for this district. Trucks and a township crane came along the road unloading pipes in preparation for the installation of a township water system sometime this year. It won't be too soon for some of our neighbours as quite a number of wells went dry last year. Our well lasted out all right but we shall put the water in just the same — might as well when we shall be taxed a certain amount for it anyway. However, we hope to work out some kind of a scheme so we can keep our well-water for the garden. Won't it be a thrill to throw water around should water restrictions be imposed by the township!

We certainly need to think about water for the garden as we seem to be in a dry belt around here. Often when there is rain everywhere else we are left sitting high and dry. That was particularly true last week — rain lots of places but not enough to go around so we got just a sprinkle. However, the garden is growing in spite of it. Yesterday Partner put in tomato plants and next week he will likely put in a second sowing of everything. The shrubs we bought are doing fine. I am particularly pleased with my "Persian Lilac". Leaves much smaller than the common lilac with flower spikes a lovely deep, rich mauve. We also put in a cherry tree and a harvest apple. But oh dear, what a long time it takes to get a tree established and really start growing. Trees we put in last year seem hardly to have moved at all. But still in the long run we shall likely be farther ahead than one of our neighbours and his wife. Anxious for quick results they dig up and bring home — from dear knows where — trees and shrubs much bigger than any we have got. They have the poor things planted inside of five minutes and in about two weeks they are dead. Last fall they moved six healthy evergreens from one side of the garden to the other. They all died. Even if a tree survives it seems to me every time it is moved a year's growth is lost. Perhaps that does not apply if the tree-moving job is done by experts. As we are not experts we transplant trees when they are small and then wait for them to grow. A slow process, it's true, but it's less heartbreaking than seeing them wither and die. "Only God can make a tree," but mankind can certainly do a thorough job of killing them off upon occasion.

The wart hog has the peculiar but practical habit of entering its burrow home backwards. It is thus able to rout out with its tusks any enemy that attempts to follow it.

HE WANTED THE WHOLE TOWN TO KNOW — No one in Wethersfield had any doubts about why Mrs. Matthew Rini went to the hospital. Not if they happened to be skygazing. Mile-tall letters told the story. The Rinis have three daughters, too.

Child's Kiss Saves Her Father's Life

Picking up an axe, the furious farm worker crept stealthily towards the middle-aged steward of the estate where he was temporarily employed.

He hated the steward. Twice within a few hours the man had reprimanded him for slackness.

These rebukes had enraged him so much that he determined to kill the steward at the first opportunity.

His chance came when he found him during the midday break sitting with his 13-year-old daughter, little knowing that a young man with murder in his heart was creeping up behind him.

When the young man got within striking distance, he glanced round to make sure he was unobserved, then aimed a blow at the steward's head.

But exactly at that moment the steward's little daughter lifted up her face for a kiss. Her father bent forward to kiss her — and the axe missed his head by inches.

A child's kiss had saved a man's life.

Dumfounded, the would-be killer fled. He was arrested an hour later.

There are scores of strange and sensational stories connected with kissing. For example, a Connecticut husband was granted a divorce because his wife had been "cruel" in kissing him after she had been kissing her pet mice!

Marie, a beauty born of noble Russian parents, enjoyed kissing and encouraged men who attracted her to kiss her profusely. As she grew to womanhood, she acquired more and more lovers, but quickly tired of them.

Then she met a young man who told her, passionately, that her kisses were "like rare wine and much more intoxicating." She eloped with him, only to begin an intrigue shortly afterwards with his brother, who soon ended his own life in despair when he found her failing to respond to his kisses.

Next, unknown to her husband, who had persuaded her to return to him, she bewitched with her kisses a handsome guards officer. A week later she began tiring of him and conceived a subtle plan to rid herself of him.

A carefully timed note informed her husband where she was dining with this latest lover and as she heard him approach them, she pressed her lips passionately to her lover's mouth. That kiss had the effect she desired. Her husband drew his revolver and killed her lover.

Even then this kiss-crazy woman was not content. For the sake of her kisses, an amorous lawyer embezzled his client's money, only to be discarded in favour of a prince and a count who both found her lips irresistible.

The count was persuaded to insure his life in her favour for $80,000. That insurance sealed his fate. The heartless Marie begged the prince to shoot the count whom, she alleged, had ill-treated her. The bargain with the prince was sealed with a lingering kiss and one more tragedy stood to the account of this "modern vampire," as she was called last century.

One July day in 1923, Nathan Kessler — if that really was his name — lay dead in Moyamensing Prison, Philadelphia, the victim of a poisoned kiss.

A tall, beautifully dressed but heavily veiled young woman wearing many diamonds had driven earlier to the prison, saying she was a relative of "Kessler." She was permitted to talk to him through the bars of his cell.

"What words passed between the couple may never be known," wrote a reporter. "The prison turnkey, though watchful, stood out of earshot."

"On taking leave of the convict, who had been convicted of a theft of jewellery, the woman slowly lifted her veil and imprinted on the prisoner's lips a long, ardent kiss."

"He turned, staggered to his bed and collapsed upon it, his face buried in his arms. Covering her face once more, the mysterious visitor walked away, sobbing. The sympathetic warden went with her to the gate and she drove off."

"Later, 'Kessler' was found dead. Between his lips was a screw of discoloured cigarette paper. The prison doctor found this impregnated with a deadly poison. Its effect had been practically instantaneous. His visitor's identity is a mystery."

It remained that way . . . Kisses has been known to cause accidents. Returning home one evening, a lovestruck Atlanta business man saw his wife sitting in an armchair and impetuously sat down on her lap and kissed her rapturously. The result was disastrous. He found he had broken her right leg.

In Budapest a pretty, fair-haired girl brought an action against her young man for what she called "negligent kissing." The girl alleged that he kissed her so violently when they met after dark in a local park that her jaw was fractured.

And a young man who took his girl friend to a Californian cinema and put his arm round her suddenly yelled in agony when the lights went up. He had dislocated his shoulder.

In Scotland there's a charming young woman who will never forget what happened when her sweetheart, a hefty six-footer, kissed her good night after they had been to a dance. She fainted. The young man called a doctor, who discovered that the girl's nose was broken.

Modern Etiquette

by Roberta Lee

Q. When the folded napkin is laid on the left side of the plate, should the open edge be toward the plate or away from it?

A. Toward the plate.

Q. Is there any excuse at all for a girl's appearing on the street or in public with her hair done up in pin curls?

A. I think this is in very poor taste. If she absolutely must appear this way, she can try concealing her lack of preparation with a scarf of some kind over the pin curls — but even then, she can hardly be classed as a "well-groomed girl."

Q. Is the bride obligated to give gifts to her attendants?

A. This is not so much a question of "obligation." It is a long-standing custom, and therefore accepted as good form.

Q. What is the proper manner of holding the coffee or tea cup?

A. The handle of the cup should be held firmly between your thumb and fingers — not hooked through with your index finger. And, when you are holding your cup, watch your little finger that it doesn't get crooked out in an affected pose. Keep it in close with the other fingers.

Obey the traffic signs — they are placed there for YOUR SAFETY

Big Ben Nearly Sank A Ship

One hundred years ago on Sunday, May 31st, London's Big Ben boomed out for the first time. The centenary was to be marked by an exhibition in the Westminster Jewel Tower and by other celebrations, including a ceremony in New Palace Yard.

Big Ben's voice is known to most of the world, but probably few people are aware of the unique circumstances in which the famous bell got its name.

One day in 1856 there was a spirited debate in the House of Commons over the naming of the bell that had been cast for the clock tower in the recently rebuilt Houses of Parliament.

Sir Benjamin Hall, M.P., the Chief Commissioner of Works, an immense figure of a man with a deep booming voice, made a long speech extolling the virtues of the bell, which he described as the noblest and finest in the world.

When at last his oration was over he sat down, mopping his brow and a waggish member called out loudly: "Why not name the bell Big Ben and have done with it?"

Amid roars of laughter the House adopted this suggestion, and Big Ben has kept that name ever since.

Before its original, weighing 15½ tons, was cast, in 1856, the largest bell in England was the one at York Minster weighing 10½ tons.

People expressed amazement when they learnt that the "king of bells" for the "Great Clock of Westminster" was to be five tons heavier.

Having been cast at a foundry in Norton, near Stockton-on-Tees, the bell was shipped as deck cargo aboard a small coaster. But a heavy gale was encountered off Flamborough Head, and for three days the little vessel tumbled and tossed in heavy seas, while all hands prayed that the great bell would not break adrift from its lashings and sink the ship. When at last the Nore lightship was reached, everyone breathed a sigh of relief.

But after a few months of use in the belfry at Westminster the bell cracked. A second one was therefore ordered from Messrs. George Mears, of Whitechapel, who had been making bells since the middle of the sixteenth century.

On October 8th, 1858, the task of hoisting it and the four smaller bells which chime the quarters was begun. This took several days. When eventually hoisted in position, the second Big Ben was slung to an oak beam, two feet square and reinforced by iron plates, to prevent damage.

The bell was not quite out of its troubles yet, however, for on the day it was due to ring out over London for the first time the clock refused to work. The waiting throng below roared its derision, and a week later "Punch" came out with a cartoon depicting the incident.

However, the mechanical defect was put right and on May 31st, 1859, the new Big Ben, which weighs thirteen-and-a-half tons, and cost $200,000, began its long and faithful service.

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I get rid of chiggers on the lawn and bushes?
A. Chiggers on the bushes can be destroyed by the liberal use of sulphur, applied with a dust gun. On the lawn, of course, the chiggers will disappear if the grass is kept cut.

Q. How can I prevent having moss on the lawn?

A. If you detect any moss on the lawn, it is a bad sign. It indicates either a sour or impoverished soil. For sour soil, apply some hydrated lime and for impoverished soil, use a good quality of fertilizer. Practically any soil, however, is benefited by an application of lime followed a week or two later by fertilizer. Do not apply both of these too close together.

BOY WITH CHEEKS — This beaming, freckle-faced fellow could well be the very personification of boyhood and summer-time. He's eight-year-old Donnie Atkinson, not at all sad that school's out.

Fight Was Short But Furious!

It was a mistake to christen the Firpo baby Luis Angel, for he grew up to be anything but angelic — in the professional sense anyway. Luis became a boxer, and a very good one. But angelic? Even in his native Argentina, where they are not noted for angelic dispositions, Luis became known as the "Wild Bull of the Pampas," and this was a much better title.

He was bull-like in nearly every sense: a giant of a man weighing 215 pounds, thick-necked, with massive shoulders and forearms powerful enough to fell an ox.

Though he had only a fleeting glimpse of world fame, Firpo is still remembered as the man who knocked Jack Dempsey out of the ring in a world heavy-weight title fight. It has to be added that if only he had not behaved so much like a wild bull he would have become champion himself.

His brief clutch at the title happened in September, 1923, after he had beaten Jess Willard, a former champion.

Dempsey had just been taken the fifteen rounds by Tommy Gibbons — the first time for five years any of his fights had gone the distance — and the question was whether he was slipping. The arrival of Firpo, hailed as champion of his country, gave promoter Tex Rickard the chance to show whether Dempsey was on the slide.

Firpo had tremendous strength and the ability to throw wicked right hooks and swings. If Dempsey, strong as he was, should get in the way of one of these blows he could very easily meet the same fate as Willard.

Dempsey's own strength, of course, was well known, but much was made of the ferociousness of the "Wild Bull" in the pre-fight publicity. Probably not even Rickard, its instigator, knew what he was stirring up.

But he was perfectly satisfied when over 85,000 people poured into the stadium where the fight was to take place. The takings reached one and a quarter million dollars. And in three minutes, fifty-one seconds of actual fighting it was all over. The Wild Bull of the Pampas had been thrown and felled.

Yet none of the fans grudged a cent of the money. They had witnessed more action and sensation and ups and downs — in every sense — than they could normally expect to see in half a dozen fights.

Reporters counted no fewer than eleven knockdowns, though some were so short that the timekeeper was unable to begin counting. Dempsey himself went down twice; the first time was one of the most spectacular and most famous knock-downs that the sport has recorded.

Just how seriously Dempsey took all the wild publicity stories about his opponent is hard to judge, but ringers noticed that he seemed unusually nervous and excited during the preliminaries.

Firpo had a weight advantage of about 25 pounds, which, allied to his great strength and quite a turn of speed, was enough to give even so tough a warrior as Dempsey something to think about.

And the Argentinian certainly meant business. With almost the first blow of the fight, a terrific pile-driving right, he showed that the stories of his strength had not been exaggerated.

But Dempsey was in superb condition and never flinched. Indeed, the blows his opponent landed only roused him to anger. The "Manassa Mauler," famed for his scientific fighting, threw science to the winds and tore into his opponent. Firpo could not take punishment as well as he could hand it out, and he sank to the floor.

He beat the count easily enough. But scarcely had the timekeeper ceased calling that he was down once more. Then again he was felled, and again. Twice he went to his knees, but regained a fighting posture, before the count could begin. The end seemed near, and Dempsey, scorching defence, gave him no respite as he advanced throwing punches with both hands.

Firpo had been down seven times in that first round before the real sensation happened. Dempsey, rushing in for the kill, made no effort to get out of the way of a tremendous right swing which his challenger aimed at his chin.

The blow crashed home with sickening force. Dempsey, stopped in his tracks, overbalanced, and plunged straight through the ropes on to the Press table. Relentlessly, the timekeeper tolled off the seconds as the champion, dazed and hurt, paved at the ropes in an effort to pull himself back into the fight.

Somehow, he got back, but he looked a pathetic sight, bleeding from a number of cuts, his arms hanging down and jaw unprotected. Firpo lunged in. One solid punch on that open jaw, and it would all be over.

Firpo advanced on his helpless opponent. Blow after blow ripped into Dempsey's body, and he sagged to his knees, but regained his balance before the count could start. He could scarcely push out a glove in an attempt to stop his opponent, and the question was whether he could survive till the end of the round.

It was here that the Wild Bull of the Pampas lived up to his name — tragically so from his point of view. He punched away with almost maniacal frenzy at Dempsey's body, a target which might have been a hunk of steel for all the effect the blows had. That unprotected chin, on which a chance blow had landed to cause so much damage, he left alone. This mistake cost Firpo the championship.

Dempsey somehow managed to stay on his feet till the end of the first round, and when he came out for the second round, Dempsey noticed the change in him. Now his eyes gleamed with determination to end the contest as quickly as possible.

The finish was not long in coming. Dempsey landed quickly with two powerful left hooks. Then came a right uppercut, and another left to the body. Firpo went down, and no one expected him to get up again. Yet at "five" he was on his feet once more.

Now was seen the difference in the two men. A crushing left to the stomach had Firpo gasping, and as he stepped back the champion brought over a right hook to the jaw. Firpo collapsed, motionless, and he did not regain his feet until the count was over.

Dempsey collected half a million dollars for his four minutes' work. Tex Rickard, the promoter, who had also done very nicely, declared that he was going to match the two men again as he considered the result "indecisive."

But this time he had overdone the ballyhoo. No one believed him. Least of all Luis Angel Firpo.

ONE FOR THE ROAD?

Carrying out the wishes of her publican husband, his widow, who lived in Sandbridge, had a stone beer mug set up on his grave.

FACIAL BAROMETER — Casey Stengel's mobile mug mirrors the misery that went with the proud Yankees' recent coal-chute descent to the cellar of the American League. Worse. It was the first time that the Yanks hit bottom during the years of Casey's tutelage.

Ill Omens

There's always a special interest in the small omens that precede a great disaster. Shortly before the cruiser Hampshire sailed from Scapa Flow on June 6th, 1916, with Lord Kitchener aboard on a secret mission to Russia, a ship's blacksmith got his leg jammed by the cable ring and was rushed to hospital ship for an amputation. That accident probably saved his life.

A leading signalman, seeing the C-in-C's pinnace approaching with Kitchener and his staff, muttered: "God help us all! A shower of periscope brasshats. That means trouble!"

"Rubbish," commented Leading Seaman Rogerson. "We're as lucky as any ship afloat. So far we've dodged every torpedo fired at us, and we didn't have a single casualty at Jutland."

"Stop moaning," muttered another signalman. "Can't you see who it is coming aboard?"

"Well, if it isn't Kitchener himself! We're as safe as if we were in barracks," added another.

Only three hours out of harbour, one and a half miles from shore, the Hampshire was mined in a gale off Marwick Head and Kitchener and most of the crew perished. Donald McCormick gives a graphic account of the sinking and probes the latest evidence in "The Mystery Of Lord Kitchener's Death".

In Hatboro, Pa., Ralph Kufen returned from a trip to an electrical repairmen's convention after hearing that his house had caught fire because of faulty wiring.

In Cologne, Germany, arrested for sitting in a tree in the rain and peering at a girl through her window, a man explained that he intended to propose to someone but wanted to be sure she was a good housekeeper.

In Pueblo, Colo., fined $50 for his second traffic violation. In a year, Ferd Innes Jr. asked, "How can a man be a good driver if the police are always watching him?"
