CASSELMAN AND HICKS STAGE CRISIS FOR U.F.O. GOVERNMENT

The Ontario Legislature will be dissolved within two weeks from la t night. This announcement is made on the strength of a statement from a member of the Cabinet.

Although Premier Drury refused to make a positive declaration that the Legislature would dissolve, members of Parliament last night stated that the House will be dissolved within a few weeks and Ontario will have a general election. What the Prime Minister did say in his budget speech was: "I am inclined to take the position now that we will tell His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor that the House be dissolved and that we go to the country." Such a statement was accepted as a definite declaration by the Opposition members and was cheered by the Government supporters.

Perhaps never before in the history of the province did political events occur with the rapidity that marked their course in the Ontario Parliament Buildings yesterday. In the morning everything was serene on the surface and a session of some weeks more was expected. At noon members were rushing about in a feverish state. Some one had discovered the bomb which Andrew Hicks, U.F.O. member for South Huron, set off on the floor of the House shortly after three o'clock. He resigned as U.F.O. whip, read himself out as a follower of Mr. Drury and made a bitter attack on the Prime Minister. This was immediately followed by a want of confidence amendment to the budget moved by W.H. Casselman, elected as a farmer member from Dundas County, seconded by Milton Fox, U.F.O., South Essex Even at that time few members knew what was going to happen. All parties were astounded. The Conservatives wanted to adjourn that a grave crisis could be considered. The Prime Minister after some pressure consented. All parties went into caucus. The Government forces were in caucus until eight o'clock last night and apparently agreed with the Prime Minister that dissolution would be the best course. Mr. Fox having thought the matter over asked the House at the opening of the evening session for unanimous consent to withdraw his name from the want of confidence amendment. Colonel J.A. Currie objected and his name remained on the motion.

Premier Drury made his speech on the budget after denying the charges made by Mr. Hicks that he was deserting the U. F. O. and dickering for a fusion with the liberals. At the latter part of his address after setting out the benefits of the single transferable vote and proportional representation he said "After what has happened this afternoon and as this Government has no majority it might be said that it cannot be trusted to bring about a re-distribution. As a constitutional matter it might be well if we passed the estimates and asked for a dissolution and go immediately to the country. That is the situation now I think."

Real Estate Changes Hands

Real estate changes are numerous in town this spring. Mr. Geo. Merkley has purchased the residence on College street, owned by his father in Calgary. Dr. S. H. Hutt has bought from D. H. Jackson the latter's property on Albert street, while G. J. Hunt has purchased the adjoining residence on Albert street from Mrs. W.G. Bolster. Houses to rent are at a premium.

Nestles Food Co. Place Contract

This week a contract has been given by the Nestles Food Co. for the construction of a warehouse 60x120 feet, one storey high. The building will be of brick, in appearance in keeping with that of the main building. A.F. Byers Ltd. of Montreal were the successful tenders, their contract calling for the completion of the building in four weeks, a start on which will be made the first of next week. Local labor will be employed as far as available.

Midnight Blaze on King Street

Last night about midnight the fire brigade was called (or at least would have been if we had one) to a fierce blaze in the paint shop belonging to Wm. Smith on King Street adjoining the station grounds. The building was not what might have been termed of fire resisting construction, and in about ten minutes the sheeting of paper had been burnt off of it leaving the frame standing with patches of fire endeavouring to take hold. Strange to say, of the crowd gathered all seemed willing to wait and make sure that it was surely going to burn or otherwise, before a couple of willing-workers appeared with fire-fighting equipment consisting of two pails of water and a dipper, in lieu of a water supply and line of hose. A few dipperfuls saved the frame from further destruction. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Martins Return

Many signs of Spring have failed this vear. Monday morning Wilford Saucier announced with pleasure that the only really to goodness true sign had appeared that morning at his place, when his annual summer visitors had taken possession of their summer home. The martins had arrived. As a lover of bird life—wild ducks, partridges etc—Mr. Saucier had a bird house constructed and placed in a suitable place at his residence, which has been tenanted by martins each summer. The first one to arrive is always a large male bird, coming three or four days ahead of the other members of the colony. On arrival it has every appearance of great weariness after a long flight but after a short rest and partaking of food it goes away to return with its mate and take up housekeeping.

Mrs. Alex. Shannette Sr., Williamsburg

After an illness of only a few days Mrs. Alexander Shannette passed into Eternal rest at 2. 30 p. m. on Tuesday April 3rd. Her death came as a great shock to her family as she had been about the house, and in her usual bright and cheerful manner had been taking a mother's part in the family circle until the evening of March 29th, when she was seized with violent pains from which the most faithful, anxious care could not relieve her. And just when the earth was breaking forth into life reminding us of the glorious resurrection of the dead "who die in the Lord," Mother fell asleep on earth to awaken beyond the vale where there is no more pain, or suffering, or death.

Through the words of his text, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord—they rest from their labours; and their works do follow them," her pastor, Rev. J. B. Howe, brought solace to the frail and heart broken husband and the grief-striken sons and daughters who mourn the loss of a devoted wife and the tenderest of mothers.

The funeral service was held at the family residence, Williamsburg. The pall-bearers were her six grandsons.

Escaped Lunatic Startled Folk at Auction in Oxford

Things can go wrong even at an auction sale. A story came to light from an Oxford county rural district where a well-known auctioneer was holding a sale of farm stock and implements. A stranger wearing a mackinaw coat was observed in the crowd. No one knew him, nor did anyone pay much attention to him until the auctioneer commenced to offer the cows. The stranger bought the first one, the second one and so on up until he had secured the first six put up. Then he turned around and bought five calves in succession.

The curiosity of the crowd became manifest. Some questioned him. He told a strange story as to his intentions with the cattle and then the truth came to light. He had escaped from a mental institution. The sale had to be started all over again.

Collie Dog in Role of Practical Joker

Fort William street car motormen have sworn revenge on a collie dog which has developed a mania for practical joking. Like some "bad boys" he imitates, the animal hangs around the street corners with just the tip of his nose showing until a Belt Line car has passed in the east end of the city. Then he dashes out and jumps, catching the trolley cord in his teeth and pulling the traveller off the overhead wire. Just as soon as his work is accomplished the collie speeds away as fast as his four legs will carry him, but not before looking back to make sure that the car was stalled. Half a dozen times in the last week the trolley trick has been pulled by this scamp.

Seeding New Meadows

(Experimental Farms Note).

One of the interesting and successful features of the Illustration Station work is the comparison between heavy and light seeding of timothy and clovers. When making surveys of many farms in each county where Illustration Stations are located it was found that most farmers were not sowing sufficient seed to give best results. To illustrate the advantage of heavier seeding, particularly with clover, on each station a small portion of the field is sown to the usual amount used in the neighbourhood which is from two to four pounds of clover and eight to ten pounds of timothy, and the larger portion of the field sown with a mixture of clover and timothy amounting to twenty pounds per acre. Every illustration showed the heavier seeding to give the heaviest crops of hay. The difference in growth is so noticeable that farmers passing can see the line between the two lots to a foot. On several stations the clovers on the light seeded portions were winter killed, while the heavy growth formed a protection to the roots and usually withstood the severest winter and spring frosts. Several operators report one quarter to one third more hay on the heavier seeding and have a much better chance for a second crop of hay or seed the same season.

When seeding sandy or clay loams sow eight pounds of Common Red clover; two pounds alsike and ten pounds of timothy per acre. In some cases it is advisable to sow two pounds of alfalfa in addition.

On heavy clay that is liable to be damp or on light, acidy sand sow eight pounds of alsike; two of Red clover and ten of timothy per acre.

On black muck or peaty soil sow eight pounds of alsike; two pounds of Red clover; eight pounds of timothy and two pounds of Red Top per acre. For a nurse crop on peaty soil, always sow barley.

Entrance to Normal on Principals' Report

The Minister of Education has issued a circular respecting the lower school examinations to be held in June. In the case of the lower school examinations, the Minister has made a very important change which will reduce materially the pressure of examinations. He has decided that pupils in attendance at any collegiate institute, high school or continuation school, will be granted lower school standing for entrance into the normal schools on the reports of their principals. In order to be entitled to credit in any subject, a pupil in a collegiate institute, high school or continuation school shall have completed the prescribed course of study in that subject and shall have passed comprehensive tests conducted by the teacher of the subject with a standing of at least 50 per cent. of the aggregate marks assigned to the subject in all the tests of the school year. One of these tests shall be held towards the close of the school year and shall cover the whole course of study.

Cow Tries a Goat's Diet Puts End Her Life

All uncertainty regarding the cause of death of a cow belonging to Urban Warren, Lansdowne, was removed when a post mortem examination revealed the presence of two three-inch nails, several shingle nails, a quantity of wire and glass, and some small stones, which closed completely the passage from the stomach.

Feeding Sheep Profitable

R. C. Harvey, Alberta sheep breeder who fed 10,000 of his animals at the head of the lakes last Winter, has returned to Alberta, after selling all of the fattened stock to the eastern markets at a good figure. Mr. Harvey also tried the experiment of feeding a number of cattle, also with good success and intimates he will bring about 5,000 more sheep and cattle next Fall than last. W. G. Smith, another Alberta sheep grower, who brought 2,500 animals last Fall, had a similiar experience and will bring more next year.

The Helpful Hen

The importance of poultry on the farm is frequently underestimated," writes the editor of Successful Farming, Des Moines, Iowa, to a friend in Toronto. "You will recall there was a great deal of publicity given to Iowa because we owed the Federal Reserve Bank at Chicago $98,000,000. There was even some talk at that time to the effect that Iowa was bankrupt, but the little old Iowa hen that very year stayed on the job and laid something like $76,000,000 worth of eggs, leaving only $21,000,000 for cows and hogs and wheat and oats and corn, and many other things we think of when we are discussing Iowa farm products before we think of the hen."

Shot A Valuable Dog

Vankleek Hill Review—On February 23 last Mr. Jno A. McKinnon, of honey fame, lost a valuable fox hound, for which he advertised for extensively, and eventually found out that the same had been wilfully shot by Mr. Fred Piche, of Hawkesbury. Immediately Mr. McKinnon took criminal action against Mr. Piche for the value of the dog and the case came before Magistrate H. W. Lawlor who after hearing the evidence in the case, assessed Mr. Piche with $85 as value for dog, besides a $10 fine and costs, or three months in jail.

Believe That Jupiter Will Fall on Russia

The rumor that Jupiter, which is out of its course, is about to fall on Russia is so widespread throughout Petrograd, that the Academy of Science had announced a series of lectures by the foremost professors to counteract the report.

Among religious fanatics the story that Russia is to be destroyed because the Government Courts tried and sentenced priests in general, and on street corners, is homes and trolley cars there is a buzzing discussion as to how soon the world is coming to an end.

Not only the workers, but also the old middle classes are taking the rumor at its face value. One group argues that America also is doomed because it is too rich.

April "Rod and Gun"

The April issue of Rod and Gun in Canada contains several features which should instantly recommend it to lovers of the out of doors everywhere. There are a number of articles and narratives portraying experiences and opinions of hunters and sportsmen, among these being "What Are You Going To Do About It?", by W. C. Motley, "Seal Hunting in the Northern Atlantic", by Bonnycastle Dale, "Point Pelee—A Public Shooting Ground," and a host of others. There is an account of the annual meeting of the Ontario Hunters Game and Fish Protective Association, dealing with all the matters taken up at the recent convention in Toronto. The departments contain some particularly interesting material, and on the whole, the magazine is one of the best numbers yet published.

Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ontario, by W. J. Taylor, Limited.

Wolves Not Man-killing

The "big" stories of ferocious man-eating wolves that have come out of the north country during the past winter make good fiction, but are far from the truth and are harmful in creating a false impression of the northland to newly arrived settlers. The phantom wolf stories are having a terrifying effect upon the wives and children of newly arrived settlers, according to Rev. F. G Stevens, a veteran missionary, who has lived among the Indians for 30 years, and stationed for the past 15 years at the Fisher River, Manitoba, Indian reserve.

The thrilling tales of people being pursued by wolves make good reading, said Mr. Stevens, a recent visitor to Winnipeg, but they have no place in fact, for no person in the north country, white or red, ever has heard of a timber wolf attacking or killing a man. They are the most cowardly of beasts, more fearful of man than the lowest bred mongrel. The wolf is a very inquisitive animal, Mr. Stevens says, and often will follow a human being for several miles out of sheer curiosity, but turn on him, and he flees with his tail curled between his legs. Although these wolves are as large as a St. Bernard dog, they frequently are taken out of traps by the Indians, hitched in with a dog team and made to work on the first day of their capture, he asserts. Once in the power of man, they are utterly bereft of courage. Single-handed and armed only with a stick Indians have often chased and clubbed them to death.

During his three decades in the north he has travelled thousands of miles, mushing it alone with dog teams, and Mr. Stevens has never given a thought to the possibility of being attacked by wolves. He has observed wolves following him, like many others who have come back and told thrilling tales, but he knew they were after his dogs. A timber wolf likes nothing better than dog meat, and pains must be taken to protect the teams against the night prowlers. He may howl hideously on the outskirts of a camp-fire, but the object of his interest invariably will be found to be a joint of moose meat or a team of dogs.

IMPOSSIBLE TO GET RELIEF

Until She Started To Take "Fruit-a-tives"

The Medicine Made From Fruit

R.R. No. 1, Everett, Ont.

"I had been troubled for years with Dyspepsia, Liver and Kidney Trouble, and could not get relief until I started taking "Fruit-a-tives". Thanks to their beneficial action, I am in normal health again".

Mrs. THOMAS EVANS

"Fruit-a-tives" alone can give such happy and successful results because "Fruit-a-tives" is the famous medicine made from fruit juices and tonics.

"Fruit-a-tives" is pleasant to take and will always restore the health when taken regularly as directed.

Presbyteries Solid In Church Union Vote

More than half of the Presbyteries of the Presbyterian Church in Canada have voted on the question of the immediate consummation of union with the Methodist and Congregational Church, and reports to date show that only two Presbyteries have voted against it, the two dissenters being Hamilton and Red Deer. Reports have been received from 36 Presbyteries voting on the question and the majority for union stands at 34 to 2. Many of the Presbyteries passed the overture for action unanimously and the most of the remainder gave large majorities in favor.

Some of the votes given in favor of the immediate consummation of Church Union were as follows: Truno, N.S., unanimous; London, Ont., nearly two to one; Montreal, over three to one; Brockville, only three dissenting votes; Glengarry, unanimious; Algoma, nine to one, Toronto, more than three to one; Chatham, four to one; Owen Sound, twenty-three to one; Saugeen, unanimous, and Sarnia, unanimous. It is held to be a significant fact that none of these are Western Presbyteries. Even Victoria, B. C., which had been antiunion every year, this year lined up for union. The foregoing shows that the movement for church union is not a prairie matter, but nationwide. It is estimated that when North Bay, Timiskaming, Sudbury and Superior Presbyteries vote shortly on the matter, that the antivotes in all four bodies combined will not exceed six.

Perth Presbyterian Church Is Destroyed

In spite of heroic efforts of the firemen who for six hours fought the flames, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Perth, was early Sunday morning burned to the ground and now only the square stone tower and four blackened walls enclosing a mass of charred debris remain of the oldest church in the town.

St. Andrew's Church was built in 1832, rebuilt in 1898 and only last year extensive improvements were effected and a new organ installed at a cost of some $10,000. On the organ which is now but a twisted mass of metal insurance of $6,000 was carried, on the church $15,000, and on the piano $300, but the loss is many thousands above this. A Sunday School hall adjoining the church was also gutted by the flames, while the county court house within twenty feet of the church was saved by its tin roof and the snow which covered most of the ontside wood work. The fire was discovered shortly before three o'clock Sunday morning by a passerby who at once notified the caretaker and sounded the alarm.

The cause of the fire is as yet unknown. Staggering as was the blow the congregation held morning service in the church hall four blocks away when the pastor Rev. Dr. A. H. Scott and his flock celebrated communion. Sunday School was also held in the hall as was the evening service although the clergymen of town kindly offered the use of their churches until other accommodation be found.

Oh, Listen To This!

"Overcoats should be seen and not heard," runs an ad, probably hitting at some of the loud ones now on sale. Reminds us that the other day we heard a man say to his friend:

"So that's your new overcoat, eh? Isn't it rather loud?"

"It's all right when I put on a muffler," said the other man.

He hollered and screamed and yelled with pain. Then his wife bought a jar, of Williams' Camphorated Mustard Cream and rubbed on his aching back. Now, he's "right as rain." 35c a jar—at your druggist's.

Jams and Jellies in Winter

When the thrifty housewife finds her supply of jams and jellies getting low at this season of the year, she no longer has to deprive her family of these necessities.

Bottled fruit juices prove an excellent source of supply in the winter time when used in combination with concentrated fruit pectin, which is put up in bottled form and sold by all grocers.

For Grape Jelly, measure four cupfuls of bottled Grape Juice and put into large saucepan. Add seven and one-half cupfuls of granulated sugar. Mix thoroughly and place over the heat and bring to a vigorous boil, stirring constantly. Boil hard for one minute. Then remove from the fire and stir in one scant cupful of the concentrated fruit pectin. Skim and pour quickly into sterilized glasses

There are many other delightful jams and jellies to be made at this time of the year, all of which are quickly and easily made with the aid of the liquid pectin. The housewife who has not tried this interesting method has a treat in store for herself and her family.

If you cannot obtain this excellent remedy at a nearby store, we will gladly send you a jar, postpaid, and securely wrapped, on receipt of the regular retail price, 35c.

Teeth Freeze As He Naps

A factory worker in Connecticut, when he arrived late for work the other morning, explained he had been delayed by his false teeth. Pressed for details, he said he placed his teeth in a cup of water, as usual Monday night and next morning found the water frozen and his teeth embedded in ice. Breakfast had to wait until the ice in the cup had melted.

Grape Jelly

Measure 7½ level cups (3¼ lbs.) sugar and 4 cups bottled Grape Juice into saucepan, stir and bring to a boil. Stir in 1 bottle (scant cup) Certo and bring again to a full boil for 1 minute. Remove from fire, let stand 1 minute, skim and pour quickly.

Pineapple Jam

Use sliced or grated pineapple. If sliced pineapple is used, put slices through food chopper or chop fine. Mix the juice and chopped pineapple and measure 4 level cups into large pan. If necessary add water to fill 4th cup. Add 7½ level cups (3¼ lbs.) sugar, mix and bring to a vigorous boil, stirring constantly. Boil hard one minute. Remove from fire and stir in 1 bottle (scant cup) Certo. Skim and pour quickly.

The Certo method is the easy and most economical way to make jams and jellies from any fruit; no uncertainty as to results; the quality and flavor will be a revelation to you.

More Loss to The Unwary

The collapse of the L. R. Steel Company and its numerous associates will cause losses to thousands of shareholders in Toronto and other communities in Ontario. Until the affairs of the company are adjusted by the receivers and assignee, it cannot be known how much the loss will be. But the savings of hard-working citizens will disappear or diminish, and they will have acquired bitter experience of investing in "stock peddling" schemes such as so many others have had.

One of the greatest boons to the public under present conditions would be a thorough schooling to guard them against the traps of financial promotions. The average citizen, taught how to save and accumulate a surplus, is not taught how to invest. In this comparatively new country, many new ventures that appeared to be gambles have been successful. The lure of big profits as occasionally made supports the schemers, who let their dupes put up the money and take the risk, while they get profits only. Really good investments, giving assurance of large pr fits with only ordinary risk, do not go travelling from door to door hunting for small sums. If a door-to-door canvass is resorted to, for stock selling, in nine cases out of ten, the object is to unload a promotion on a public that is not sufficiently informed, or wary, to protect i self.

Billions of dollars are fleeced out of the people on this continent in promotions that have about one chance in fifty of being successful Ontario's thrifty citizens are a good mark for promoters. The Government has before the Legislature now a bill governing the sale of promotion securities, appointing a Commissioner to regulate it, and providing for prosecutions. But this cannot be any final protection to the investing public.

Good Roads Waste

The recent calls on the provinces and the Dominion for greater expenditures on good roads are not meeting the universal approval that once cheered the highway improvement enthusiasts. The outlays on roads, as on other costly services, are being associated in the public mind with the increase in taxes. The St. John, N. B., Journal, dealing with the matter in connection with certain resolutions passed at Toronto, says:

"Nine-tenths of the people who demand or prate about good roads, have no idea of what they cost, no idea of how the money is provided and care less. The work of construction must be paid for and will be paid for. The necessary heavy borrowings for the purpose of good roads mean tremendous additions to already large public debts. We are not likely to be bothered with the payment of such obligations, but we are sure to be mightily troubled in order to get the money for the interest. The Dominion of Canada itself is paying between one hundred and thirty and one hundred and forty millions in interest every year. This is three or four times as much as the total revenue of Canada was in the days of Sir John A. MacDonald and Hon. Alexander Mackenzie. We have gone along without thinking adding to, piling up large public obligations.

The Journal stated a few days ago that i might be well if we took a rest in the matter of expenditures on permanent roads and permanent bridges and suggested that we patch and repair, rather than construct for a time anyway. The Government that does this will meet the approval of the people in spite of the generally accepted belief that in order to be popular a Government must spend a lot of money. The time has come, in our opinion, when popularity will not depend upon expenditure, but will be with those who are economical and prudent."

Investigator Reports The Public Honest

Are people as a rule honest, or are they merely as honest as they have to be? An investigator for the New York Herald comes to the conclusion that they are honest, and if this is true of New York we presume other communities have no reason to worry. On the other hand the old saying that every man has his price is not to be swept into the discard. Many a man would not steal a copper if he had the chance, but the same man could not be trusted if he had the same opportunity with a hundred dollar bill The fact that newsboys can go away and leave their papers and that people will take papers and drop their pennies or make their own change is not conclusive, nor is the kindred fact that blind newsvendors are hardly ever cheated. The point is that such pilferings are not worth the while of the average man whether he is honest or not. One might suspect that the average of honesty decreases in direct ratio to the value of the thing to be stolen. We read frequently of conscience money being returned to the Customs Department, the sums in all cases being small. We never read of anyone refunding $1,000.

The New York investigator related the fact that not long ago a baker wagon went astray for several hours. When the driver found it again not a single loaf had been taken or even bitten into. That proves the people honest. But suppose the wagon had contained 500 bottles of liquor how many would have been recovered? Five hundred? Or perhaps not quite 500? Again, opportunity often makes criminals or reveals innate dishonesty. When the interborough subway did its business by means of tickets, no one, so far as is known, printed bogus tickets. The Interborough got all the fares it was entitled to. But last year it substituted a coin box, and immediately it began to discover worthless foreign coins and lead slugs the size of an American nickel which would slip through the slot and start the electric mechanism which lets the stile revolve. The number of these slugs and depreciated coins was so large that magnifying glasses which make a nickle look bigger than a silver dollar, were installed to help the inspectors detect the free ride grabbers. Nevertheless, compared with the gross returns of the company the dishonest riders figgered out as about two in a thousand, though they cost the company about $50,000 a year.

Inquiries made of the New York Telephone revealed the fact that losses through dishonesty are small. The loss on substitutes for coins in pay telephone booths is about one-sixth of one per cent. A spokesman of the company said that people were generally honest, as was proved by investigations relating to toll charges and refunds, but he remarked that the public was aware that the company had its own methods of detecting fraud which are ingenious, because a telephone is so constructed that information can be got from its workings. Swindling a telephone company or any other that operates a coin machine is much more severely punished in New York than small thefts in other circumstances, since the penalty may be six months imprisonment or a fine of $250 or both. A large restaurant company, whose stores are all operated by slot machines, reported that its loss through imitation nickels was so small that it had never been figgered out. Thousands of meals are sold without the discovery of a single slug. The case of one man was mentioned who robbed the company of two meals a day for three or four weeks before he was detected.

At the gas company it was learned that out of 224,000 pre-payment meters in Manhattan and the Bronx the loss was $6,500 a year on bad coins and money boxes broken open The company's revenue from these meters is $3,600,000 a year. This however, is manifestly not a fair test of public honesty because the man who uses a plugged nickel knows that he will be caught the next time an inspector comes around, since the meter is in the home of the crook, and on this account it is rarely that a slug of lead is used unless the tenant is about to move away. On the whole, though, the verdict of the gas company official is that the proportion of deliberate dishonesty is exceedingly small In the cases mentioned it should be borne in mind that only people who had in their possession bogus coins were in a position to cheat, and their work therefore suggested deliberation since men do not by chance have lead slugs the size and weight of coins in their pockets. A better test was supplied by a large restaurant corporation operated wholly on the honor system.

In these restaurants the patrons eat what they want at counter or self service shelves. All the dishes of food are labelled with the price, and when the dinner finishes he stops at a desk on his way out and tells a checker the amount of his bill, or what he ate if he cannot remember. He is given a check and pays a cashier. There is nothing to prevent a dishonest patron minimizing the size of his appetite, but this firm reports that the losses are negligible, and it has been found that people who understate the amount of their check do so because they have forgotten rather than because they want to cheat. The company does not find it necessary to make any additional charge on any dish to cover dishonesty and we might suppose that its losses from broken crockery are greater than its losses from pilfering customers.

Champion Brand

Many a farmer doesn't raise sheep because he can't control them. It takes a heavy strong fence, built to 100 per cent. service, to enclose a field for pasturing sheep. Sheep are good money makers—and keep a farm clean. Would YOUR farm fences keep sheep in ?

Champion Brand "CANADIAN" Fence erected on American Galvanized Steel Posts will not only corral sheep but efficiently take care of any stock large or small.

We confidently recommend Champion Brand "CANADIAN" Fence, built for Strength, Durability and Service.

BONDS
Are Mortgages on Fixed Assets

When a township issues debentures (or bonds) it gives a mortgage on the whole township for security to the buyers of the bonds for the loan of their money for a definite uumber of years at a satisfactory rate of interest.

If the amount required is large it is divided into small mortgages, (that is, bonds or debentures) of $500 or $1,000 each, with the same security behind each, so that investors with small sums may take advantage it.

Bonds or debentures are rated the safest kind of an investment.

McCormick-Deering Self-Dump Rake

Is of steel construction throughout. It is so strongly built that it will stand up successfully under the roughest usage. The best angle steel is used in the construction of the frame. It is just as important to have a reliable rake as it is to have a good mower. The McCormick-Deering rake leaves a clean field. The operation is simple. It can be dumped by hand if desired or can be made to dump automatically by pressing the foot lever.

JOHNNY SORRELL, SPEED BOY OF ROSETOWN HOCKEY TEAM

(From Rosetown Paper)

On Monday night last the Nationals, of Saskatoon, invaded our town to return home with a score of 5 to 2 against them. The game was placed under protest on account of Edge and Mills, our two new stars, not having yet received their amateur cards from headquarters. A little thing like that cannot diminish the feeling of victory attained, for we are informed that these cards are on their way and that the two players are genuine and qualified amateurs, Oscar Sabourin, of the Saskatoon Pro s, officiated as referee and threw down the puck for the start of the real hockey battle at 8.37 and from then until the finish excitement was coming in gusts and squalls of the fiercest kind.

Aggressive poke and back checking was a big factor in the result of the score and combined with the great improvement in combination play and efficient stick handling on the part of Rosetown the aggregation of puck chasers that faced the Nationals, and stayed with them too, are destined to be heard from in the win column a good many times.

From the appearance of the Nationals as they started to play it would seem that they thought they could nose out a win by doing nothing, but when Hansen took the disc out of our own goal mouth and dodged the whole railroad crew and with one of his "real wicked.' shots sent tearing a hole through the atmosphere to beat Danis, they started to change their minds. Hansen made his goal by shooting a hot one from near the blue line on right wing. The "Roses" took tho visitors right off their feet for the whole period and not for one minute did they cease their terrific onslaught on the railroaders, battle ground. Swifty Sorrell played a most scintillating game the whole time and, with Denny Edge as a partner on a forward rush, the two make a pretty pair. Denny and Swifty must have been using the art of mental telepathy when they got their goal together. Denny swiped the rubber fr m Hayes on the Rosetown defence line and sent it over to the opposite side to Swifty to carry awhile. Swifty returned the play and beat the forward line of the Nationals and let Edge edge around the defence and received from him the pass that was the means of the second goal for Rosetown. The two boys gave the fans the best combination play of the evening. Hansen again tried for the net shortly afrer the face off from the last score, but failed to hit the spot, but, as always, our ever watchful Sorrell was right there with the goods and before any one could recover he caught the rebound and slammed it home between the pipes. All through the period s Eosetown showed great form and took every chance offered them.

Right from the start of the second spasm the railroaders started in on their "dirty work" and as a result the first part of the period lagged at times as far as real hockey is concerned. Much dissatisfaction was voiced on all sides on the officials leniency to offending Nationa ls and some of the Rosetown crew received some bad bruises and cuts. "Stonewall" Kunkel showed splendid form at defence and in broad rushes and his effective work in keeping the puck out of Rosetown's territory was a big feature. The chief ambition of Hayes, of the Nationals could plainly be seen to be to "get" John Hansen and Kunkel. His desire came near to realization in the case of the latter when he made a deliberate cut with his stick which was stopped by the underpart of Kunkel's jaw resulting in a nasty gash. When questioned as to the allowing of such tactics, Sabourin stated that he didn't consider that as dirty. Nuff sed—we're not the referee. Offenses equally as bad as this marked the whole period and some people appeared to be on the verge of a miniature war. Hansen made many hard fought rushes and came very close to scoring, but rather unsportmanlike tactics were used to hold him back. Montgomery showed some dashing bursts of speed and with Bernard as helper the two made numerous end rushes, but failed to get past Danis. Capt Cameron showed up well in this period and his clever stick handling was responsible for many scares(?) and despite inquiries in all quarters we haven't been able to find the reason for his two minute penalty.

Mills made some spectacular saves of what seemed to be sure goals and his ability to get the low ones was a great feature of the last part of the period.

At the commencement of the last period the referee warned all players against a continuation of the rough play as a result things were cleaned up to some extent. The Nationals tried hard to make a come-back and for a while the best end of the play was theirs, but Kunkel with his insistent defence playing, and Hansen, Sorrell and Montgomery putting up a finished exhibition of forward work, they had work in getting much past centre ice. The visitors netted their first count when Hayden shot for goal and missed, but on the rebound Johnston shoved the rubber around and into the corner of the net. It was impossible for Mills to have saved it, as the goal mouth was crowded and the play made from behind. Again the railroaders tried to beat Mills by crowding him at the net, but his work was quick and accurate and not a score was made in the four minutes the visitors peppered him with hot ones, Edge and Hansen tried hard to make up for the last goal, but found the railroaders on the defensive and impossible to beat. One minute before the final gong Kennedy secured a pass that was all of fifteen feet off-side and slammed the puck past Mills for the Nationals last count. The referee had not been keeping up with the play and the goal had to be allowed.

HELP HELPLESS BLIND BABIES

A Dominion Charter, without stock subscription, was recently obtained for the establishment in the city of Ottawa of a Home Nursery, Hospital and Kindergarten, for the blind under six years of age, free to all from any Province in the Dominion. So far nothing has been done for the poor unfortunates. According to reports received from the various Provincial authorities, there are at present nearly 250 in the Dominion. The late Sir Arthur Pearson, before his death, claimed that, "Sunshine Home," at Chorley Wood, England, was "the only home in the Empire for blind babies." It is hoped shortly to have the SECOND in Canada. To this end and money is urgently required. Help us with your generous gift. "Lest we forget; Do it now!" Cheques should be made payable to the Canadian Blind Babies Home Association. Remittances will be promptly acknowledged.

In Memoriam

Weegar—In sad and loving memory of our darling baby, who departed this life February 7th, 1922.

Peaceful be thy sleep dear Gerald,
It is sweet to breathe thy name.
In life we loved thee dearly;
In death we do the same.

Oft we think of our dear Gerald,
And our hearts are sad with pain.
Oh, this would be heaven
Could we see your face again.

You are gone but not forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger,
Around the grave where you are laid.

Getting Most Heat From Substitute Fuels

Many a householder who has experienced great difficulty in trying to burn the substitute fuels thrust upon him this winter will welcome a pamphlet just issued by authority of the Dominion Fuel Board teliing him just how to proceed to get the best results. The Mines Branch at Ottawa has been experimenting for months with these auxiliary fuels in ordinary domestic furnaces, and the pamphlet now issued tells what they have found out. The fuels tried out were soft coal, pea-size anthracite, gas coke, 72-hour nut coke, Welsh anthracite and peat.

A feature of the experiments was that the use of two of these fuels together often gave better results than one used alone. Complete directions are given for building the fire, for replenishing it and for regulating the drafts. Chemical analyses are also published of each fuel, showing its comparative heating value, ash content and other constituents.

Particular interest attaches to the directions for using soft or bituminous coal; for the Canadian householder, in the great majority of cases may find it necessary to use soft coal for the remainder of this winter. This fuel, the pamphlet points out, is differentiated from anthracites in having a much higher percentage of volatile or gaseous material Its heating value, however, is nearly 10 per cent greater than that of anthracite, but it must be fired differently from the latter to get best results.

Care must be taken to see that the gases that come off are burned. In putting on more fuel, part of the old fire must be left uncovered to ignite these gases and the grid in the fire door must be left open to supply air so that the gases will be burned. A soft coal fire also has to be poked more to break up the caked fuel mass in order to permit of complete combustion. The unconsumed gases deposit a layer of soot on the interior of the furnaces and the flues, and this should be cleaned off daily to get the best heating results.

The pamphlet is written in clear nontechnical language, and should be read carefully by every householder. It is being widely circulated and coal-dealers are being given a supply for free distribution to their customers. Copies can also be obtained on application to the Department of Mines, Ottawa.

Girl's Heart Stopped Beating But Denies Being Near Death

Was Rose Wendricke, 17-year-old Green Bay girl, actually dead when her heart stopped beating, while on the operating table during a major operation performed by Dr. John Minahan, when he removed a brass nail more than an inch long, with a wide, rounded head, from the girl's left lung here?

At St. Vincent's Hospital, Green Bay, Wis., Rose vehemently denied that she was anywhere near death, and made plans for the many happy years, which she declared, are going to follow her discharge from the institution next week, when, for the first time in more than 13 years she will be as "well" as other girls of her age.

"Thirteen years ago," said Dr. Minahan, in describing the operation, "Rose, then a mere child, was playing with another little girl, when she accidently swallowed the brass nail. It lodged in the left lung in a region where it was found necessary to move the heart a matter of more than an inch to make the incision in the lung so that the nail could be removed.

"To get at the heart and lungs of the girl, it was found necessary to open her chest and temporarily sever five ribs. In moving the heart at one time it ceased to beat, but I discovered that by moving the organ slowly and then releasing it to a normal position in the body, I could regulate its action so that I finally had it in a position where I could make the incision on the lung."

PUBLIC LEMON SALE

One thing at a time is well, even in radio. Recently a reporter on the Floodwood Bugle tried to receive news messages from two country correspondents at the same time. One was broadcasting news of a wedding; the other a public sale advertisement. Following is the receiver's finished copy:

Beginning at nine o'clock amidst attractive decorations of spring flowers, Mr. Ann-Drew A. Lemon and Miss Helfer Eatin were disposed of at public auction on my farm, which was one of the most charming events, one and one-half mile east of her father, who is located at a vantage point, near the Logan-Nelsonville pike.

The bride was gowned in a becoming tarpaulin 10 feet by 16 feet, with large oval shaped mounds of good baled straw and the following property to wit: One Jersey bull, two years old, led the procession down the aisle and scattered other articles too numerous to mention before a background of farm implements and cathedral candles of pink. The impressive ring party was said by six Poland-China pigs, registered and tubercular tested, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Floodwood. One set of single buggy harness with drop effect of trailing arbutus and her bridesmaid, complete with tugs and bridle, made it one of the most compiete and charming events of its kind that will work single or double of the season. The groom was handsome in seven tons of clover and alfalfa mixed hay and diamond studded drag harrow with forty-two teeth. His best man was one DeLaine ewe, a former schoolmate at Ohio University.

Only intimate friends of sixteen milch cows were present, including fourteen registered Holsteins, the father and mother of the groom, six mules, and one good road scraper. Many beautiful and useful household articles such as sixteen quarts of tomato preserves, one brass kettle, beautiful cut glass, tin cans of all kinds, one churn, one baby crib, one electric toaster and six bushels of eating potatoes were received by the beautiful and charming auctioneer, A. M. Mooney. The decorations of also one six-cylinder uncle and two white calves will be served on the grounds by the members of the Ladies Aid of the Floodwood church. The wedding took place at high noon and will last until all goods are sold. Terms—nine months' time with approved security as is the custom at sales of this kind, with interest at six o'clock dinner at the Ambrose Hotel, Logan.

After the nuptial knot had been tied with 200 feet of hay rope, the happy couple left on one good John Deere manure spreader, for an extended trip through sixty shocks of fodder, to be hauled by purchaser. After a honeymoon through the east, they will be at home to their friends, with one good bay buggy, sixteen Rhode Island Reds and thirty bushels of corn in the crib. All sums under five dollars cash, but more time will be given the groom who is the son of one dapple gray gelding, weight 1400, age 7 years, well broke, and works any place. They have one cosy covered wagon, with three inch tires, and dump bed fitted for housekeeping on East Mulberry Street. The bride has had many beautiful parties held in her sixty bushels of onion sets and her many friends wish her much joy and three garden hose, same as new. The bride attended Ohio University and is a member of seven stands of bees.

Summer was once the season of sickness, in comparison with which winter was healthful, but of late years June, July and August have been among the most healtful months, and the great flood of sickness has come in midwinter. A great deal of it begins with a "common cold," which most persons regard too lightly: they do not realize the danger to themselves or the likelihood of their passing the infection on to others.

Great to Be an Uncle

A little boy from Canada, who had never seen a negro, was riding in New York with his uncle when he spied a colored lady.

"Uncle, why does that woman black her face?"

"She doesn't; that's her natural color.'

"Is she black like that all over?"

"Why, yes," uncle replied.

The boy looked up beamingly at his uncle. "Gee, uncle, you know everything, don't you?"

"No, dear. This is the one time I carried out your instructions to the letter. Here's the whole bundle."

"Oh, isn't that aggravating? I've changed my mind about wanting them. I was so sure you'd forget, as usual. One can never depend upon a man!"

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarral Deafness requires constitutional treatmeat. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is a constitutional remedy. Catarral Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the muscous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect nearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

BONDS

Are Mortgages on Fixed Assets

When a township issues debendtures (or bonds) it gives a mortgage on the whole township for security to the buyers of the bonds for the loan of their money for a definite number of years at a satisfactory rate of interest.

If the amount required is large it is divided into small mortgages, (that is, bonds or debentures) of $500 or $1,000 each, with the same security behind each, so that investors with small sums may take advantage it.

Bonds or debentures are rated the safest kind of an investment.

Sleeping In The Snow

Snow is falling and you are alone somewhere in the great white spaces north of the Arctic Circle. You are lost; your thoughts are confused; night is fast approaching, and you are dead tired What should you do?. Mr Vilhjalmur Stefansson, writing in the Friendly Arctic, gives a startling bit of advice for anyone in circumstances like those Lie down, he says, and go to sleep!

The general belief that when you are lost in the Arctic you must not go to sleep is erroneous. One of the commonest experience of humanity is that when you are cold in bed you have difficulty in sleeping. If you are warm enough to want to sleep, you can do so safely, for as soon as you become chilled you will wake.

The ordinary procedure of trying to keep awake at all costs is dangerous. It has been the cause of dozens of deaths that I have heard of in connection with the whaling fleet at Herschel Island. Men would become lost and, obsessed with the idea that going to sleep would necessarily be fatal, would try to keep awake indefinitely; their only means of doing it would be walk up and down. Through semi-panic brought on by the fear of freezing, they would walk faster than they should; they would gradually become more fatigued and would perspire violently enough to make their clothes wet and thus good conductors of heat and of little value as protection against the cold. Eventually the point of exhaustion would come, and they could no longer resist lying down. It is in such circumstances as those that a person may go to sleep never to wake.

MR. PEASLEE.S COCKSURE BOARDER

"I've been meanin' to ask you, Kellup," began Deacon Hyne as the two old men leaned upon Caleb's barnyard fence, "what it was happened to that young feller from the city who was stoppin' with you folks the past three-four weeks?"

Mr. Peaslee, shading his eyes the better to see a cow in the distant pasture, shaded a smile at the same time; he prolonged his inspection until he had the same smile under control. "Jest what was you meanin' to ask?" he inquired placidly.

The deacon hesitated. "Wal, for one thing," he said at last, "when he fust come he seemed to be an awful knowin' critter; he didn't seem to think we farmin' folks could know anything or give him and advice he was bound to heed—like that day at the blacksmith's shop when he started to pick up a piece of iron off'n the heap by the anvil. You know how a piece of hot iron'll lose its glow in a minute almost and yet be hot 'nough to burn to the bone?"

Mr. Peaslee nodded.

"Wal," Deacon Hyne went on, "he started to pick up a piece of iron, and Lafe Symonde, who had jest cut it off'n a bar he was forgin,' warned him to be careful; but the boarder kept right on fingerin' round the heap 'sif Lafe hadn't spoke a word, till bimeby we heard a yelp and saw him ram his fingers into his mouth.

"And he went out—to the drug store, I should guess—lookin' a speck less cocksure than he did when he come in."

"Wal," inquired Mr. Peaslee, "what else besides that?"

"I saw him yesterday when he was down at the depot to go home," the deacon replied doggedly, "and a lamer-actin' feller I never sot two eyes on. He looked 'sif he'd been run through the beater of a thrashin' machine! And when the station master spoke to him to stand out of the way of a truck he made what haste he could to mind. What I want to know is, what happened to him to change him so?"

"Now that we've got it all straightened out 'bout what's troublin' your mind, Hyne," said Caleb with provoking slowness, "I'll tell you Caleb what I suspect had most to do with his shift of mind. From the day he first landed here, I had to begin to warn him of things he'd better not do. Some of the things wouldn't have hurt him much,—though it's a massy he didn't lose a finger foolin' with the feed cutter,—but some things he seemed possessed to do was downright dang'rous, like tryin' to lead the bull out on a staff same's he'd seen me do it. However, I ketched him that time 'fore he got out of the barn with the bull so no harm follered.

"It was foolin' with the farm critters that looked to be his wust weakness; I'd no n o e'n get him warned away from one than he'd be afoul of some other one. As I remember, it begun with the bees; I told him he'd better not project with 'em, and it'd have been water on his wheel if he'd paid attention—but after he got stung once or twice he let 'em alone.

"Then he was always thornin' the geese to make 'em squall, and there was a day or two when I thought I'd like 'nough go crazy with the noise they made; but one day he got mixed up with the old gander, thinkin' he was a goose, I s'pose, and the critter stood its ground and fit him back and nipped his leg so hard it tore his pants, and I guess it damaged the meat some too. Anyway after that he didn't trouble the geese any more.

"But what I told him special to keep away from was that ram I had in a plank pen down in the corner of the orchard. I made the pen good and strong to hold him, for I didn't dare let him out; he weighed as much as a yearlin' heifer and was ugly as sin besides—so ugly I didn't dast to go near him myself nor let anybody else neither.

"Day b'fore yet'day about the middle of the afternoon I was settin' tipped back in a chair against the west side of the house; I won't say I wa'n't doziu' a mite mebbe. All at once I heard two-three deep blarts out of that ram and then a noise like a plank splinterin' when it was tore off, and right on top of that I heard somebody screechin' for help 'bout as earnest as anything I ever happened to hear. When I got my feet and awake 'nough to get round the corner of the house there was that knowin' animal student comin' through the orchard not more'n ten foot ahead of the maddest ram in Penobscot County!

"The straight road to the fence lay two rows of blackberry bushes, and the boarder took it. But so did the ram, and he gained a foot or two, goin' through, and kept gaining afterwards too. I thought one more spell that the boarder was goin' to make the fence jest in time to escape gettin' butted, but he didn't quite do it; the ram ketched him about ten foot from the fence and got one good wallop at him, and what with the rate they were goin' and at the force of the bump the boarder sailed into the air like a suit of clothes blowed off'n a clothesline in a gale. But he lit close to the fence, and the next bounce he was over it—safe but so used up I had to help him into the house."

Mr. Hyne looked at Caleb as if to read his secret thoughts. "Kellup," he said solemnly, "answer me this man to man! Did you loosen any board on that pen, thinkin' to teach him a lesson?"

But Mr. Peaslee, though his face reddened a litte, refused to reply in words

Here and There

Banff.—J. B. Harkin, Commissioner of National Parks, has announced that the formal opening of the Banff-Windermere Road, work on which was concluded last year, will take place on June 30. The ceremony is to be held at Vermillion Crossing, half way between Banff and Windermere, motors leaving both ends of the road early in the morning to meet at that place. The suggestion has been made by R. R. Bruce, of Invermere, that the National Park be named "Columbia National Park," and the road leading up the Columbia Valley from the boundary to Golden be named the "Canadian Columbia Highway."

Victoria.—Motorists will have a new circuit trip available with the completion in May of the high-powered motor ferry now building at Yarrows. Not only will Island and Mainland be linked by the operation of this craft, but the Canadian Pacific will have the steamer "Charmer" engaged in the purpose farther north. The "Charmer" will operate between Vancouver and Nanaimo, furnishing accommodation for all types of cars. With the new ferry in service, a new circuit will be made available—from Seattle via Bellingham to Sidney, thence to Victoria over paved road, to Nanaimo over the Malahat, thence by the "Charmer" to Vancouver and down the Pacific Highway to the border line and Seattle again.

The motor ferry will have ample height between deck to allow for all classes of cars. During the busy season it will make two round trips every day. The vessel will be fitted with observation rooms and open deck spaces to give tourists every opportunity to enjoy at their ease the fine scenery through the channels between San Juan, Lopez and other islands of the San Juan archipelago.

St. John, N.B.—The Canadian Pacific freighter, "Bolingbroke" recently brought from London the largest import cargo to reach St. John since the war. She was crammed to the hatches with more than 4,700 tons of general merchandise. Capt. E. Landy, who is in command, said that he had never carried a more valuable cargo and expressed great satisfaction that not a single package had been lost. Included in the cargo were silks and other valuable dress goods, dry goods of various descriptions, perfumes and many other expensive commodities. A cargo of this kind makes lots of work for the longshoremen.

Vancouver.—Carrying a record shipment of Canadian apples to the Orient the Canadian Pacific 16,850-ton liner, "Empress of Asia" recently sailed.

On opening the crates in the Oriental ports the consignees of past shipments have found that the apples are as fresh as if taken from the tree. This is partly due to the fact that at this time of the year the perishable cargo only gets one day of tropical heat during the whole voyage across. The "Asia" took approximately 350 tons of this commodity in her holds, the largest consignment of apples to go through the Narrows this season for the Orient.

St. John, N.B.—Figures compiled at C. P. R. headquarters show that the port of St. John has handled very much more freight to January 19th this season, as compared with the corresponding period of last year.

Exports totalled 260,472 tons of all classes of freight handled by the C. P. R. officials through this port since the beginning of the winter port business. Last year during the same period 146,393 tons passed through St. John; showing an increase of 114,079 to date for the present year.

Last year's import business during the same period totalled 27,692, while this year 28,832 tons of import freight have been recorded, an increase of 1,140 for the present winter port season.

The total increase in both export and import business for the port's business to date shows 115,219 tons over that handled during the same period a year ago.

Victoria.—Just what use to make of the forty-foot Indian war canoe presented the Canadian Pacific Company by the Alert Bay Indians is a problem that is giving Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the B. C. Coast Service, considerable thought. Chief Johnnie, of the Alert Bay tribe, came down in person to make the gift to the Canadian Pacific officials, and in his native tongue expressed the appreciation of his followers to the company for the attention given them whenever travelling on the Princess steamers.

SAT. FEB. 10

"God's Country and the Woman"

FEATURING

William Duncan

A tale of Courage in which red-blooded men, wolf-dogs and Indian guides fight to defend women.

Spectacular scenes, thrilling situations, daring deeds in the heart of the wilderness.

SYNOPSIS

Thrills abound in the territory north of 53. Drama is part of the daily routine in the land of ice and snow. No author can depict the life of this country with the force and color that James Oliver Curwood describes it. His stories make the best productions upon the screen. One of the greatist of these is "God's Country and the Woman." It is a spectacular film of the far north, Wolf - dogs, snow storms, and real fights are part of the action. The destruction of the outlaws' cabin is one of the high lights. The story deals with a man who agrees to marry a girl in order to save her from a great danger, the nature of which is not disclosed. The youth fights his enemies in the dark, aided by an Indian and half dozen wolf-dogs. His faith in the girl never falters, although circumstances indicate that she is unfaithful. His love goads him on into new dangers and adventures everyone of which is thrilling and spectacular. It is a film that will hold the attention from the first flash—one that you will never forget.
