PRISONERS FOR FARM LABOUR

Forest Hill Village, which disdainfully carries on in precincts of Toronto, has ordained that Japanese, Canadian born or otherwise, will not be permitted to work within its sacrosanct borders. Its citizens have probably discovered that money is a potent factor in solving even the domestic servant problem and in many other ways has enabled them to maintain the rarified atmosphere of exclusiveness that sets the municipality as a place apart. Other sections of the province confronted with the labor shortage cannot be quite so particular and Japanese workers are being welcomed to the sugar beet fields and the wide open spaces as an aid to production. Arthur MacNamara, Director of National Selective Service, announced that 300 German war-prisoners will be placed in Kent County, near Chatham, to work on farms and on the outcome of this experiment will depend whether or not more camps will be established in the province. At present the Department of Labor has about 5,000 Nazi prisoners at work, mostly in the bush—approximately one-half of them in Ontario. Mr. MacNamara explains that the Kent experiment is a little more difficult because it is highly industrialized and close to the international border. It will also be necessary to supply trucks to transport both the prisoners and the guards to the fields and back again to the camp. In practice, work groups of about ten will be taken out separately and will be kept under constant guard. Prisoners will be allowed purchasing rights in the camp canteen. They get no cash, but receive token money, about 30 cents per day, for canteen purchasing. In addition, 20 cents per day goes to each prisoners credit. The farmer is required to pay the Dominion Government on the basis of the work that is done and at the prevailing rates, so that he does not get advantage of cheap labor. Actually, said Mr. MacNamara, no profit accrues to the government, as the wage payments simply help to pay the costs of the camp. In addition to the camp project, a relatively small number of prisoners of a non-belligerent type, such as merchant seamen, have been assigned to individual farmers as hired men.

SUBJECTS CHANGE FOR TEACHING

At the convention of the Ontario Educational Association several suggestions and resolutions were presented that will probably be acted upon. The Department of Education was asked to discontinue defence training courses in secondary schools, it being advised that topics in the course having permanent value could very well be transferred to related school subjects and the rest of the course dropped. It was suggested that owing to the growth of juvenile delinquency and the alarming increase in veneral disease that sex education be made a part of elementary and secondary schools' curricula. A reform long advocated by the late Sir James Whitney was given an airing and had to do with the establishment of a more complete and practical course of study for children who do not proceed to high school or to University. In this connection it was pointed out 46 percent of pupils leave school at the end of elementary and only 3 percent go to University. The association also expresses its opinion that every Canadian member of the armed forces, however young, in any theatre of war outside Canada should be entitled to vote at Dominion or Provincial elections, and that teaching of the "value and necessity" of voting should be part of every eighth grade curriculum.

ATTEMPT SAVE ONTARIO'S FORESTS

In an effort to combat the ravages of the Budworm and the Jackpine pest in the province, the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests purposes using an autogyro for insecticide dusting this summer. Other means will also be adopted and a laboratory will be established at Sault Ste. Marie at which investigations will be centralized, the Dominion providing the scientific personnel. These pests have already destroyed millions of dollars of standing timber. The budworm attacks white spruce and balsam, chiefly the latter. The Jackpine worm, an import from Manitoba, feeds almost exclusively on Jackpines. Most of the forested area of Ontario knows the spruce budworm. The main outbreaks centre in vast Algonquin Park, the Mississago River Watershed northeast of Sault Ste. Marie, and a smaller area west of Lake Nipigon in the Thunder Bay district.

CHICAGO PUBLISHER FRIEND OF CANADA

Canadians have a warm feeling for Marshall Field, the rich store magnate and publisher of the Chicago Sun, chiefly for his unselfish war efforts and co-operation with Britain and the manner in which he has combated the sinister isolationists influence of Col. MacCormick of the Chicago Tribune. It was fitting that Mr. Field should be accorded a warm welcome on his first visit to Ontario last week. He declared that people of both British Countries and the United States wanted complete war, complete decision of victory and not a negotiated treaty which would leave conditions ripe for Germany to repeat her past performances. Mr. Field is a firm believer in an international police force to insure peace. He maintains that "Upon that beginning much can be built. Moreover, the existence of such a strong, modern international police force, backed by popular opinion of the world, would do much to discourage local acts of aggression which might develop into more general wars. Certain key bases, in my opinion, should be under the direct control of the world organization to facilitate international policing."

HE SHALL SPEAK PEACE
By Lila V. Walters

A STORMY sea! Waves dashing high!
The frail boat rocks upon the deep.
(How can the Lord unconscious lie,
Head pillowed in the stern—asleep?)

The winds sweep down on Galilee,
And fiercer grows the storm, until Strong men cry out in fear! Then He
In conscious power, speaks: "Peace be still."

A world war-wrecked! In Fury tossed
By storms of rage and jealous hate!
(The Lord unmindful of the cost;
Unheeding—till it be too late!)

Yet say not so! He hears the cry—
And still "He maketh wars to cease."
The crucible is 'neath His eye,
In His own time "He shall speak peace."

NEW SYSTEM PAYMENT GOV'T. HOG SUBSIDIES

Effective as of Monday, April 10th an entirely new system of payment of the Ontario Government hog subsidies of $1.00 on grade "A" hogs and 50 cents on grade "B1" hogs has been put into operation Honourable T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, announced today. Instead of being paid on direct application by the producer to the Department of Agriculture, payment will be included in the Dominion warrant which is attached to each grading certificate, and which can be filled in and signed by the grader and will include both the Dominion subsidy of $3.00 on grade "A" and $2.00 on grade "B1" hogs and the Provincial Government subsidy as indicated above. The Provincial Department of Agriculture has made arrangements to reimburse the Dominion Government to the extent of the amount of provincial subsidies so paid.

In view of this change, it will no longer be necessary for Ontario farmers to apply for the provincial subsidy on hogs marketed on or after April 10th. Subsidies on hogs marketed before that date, however, will be paid under the former system of direct application to the Hog Subsidy Division, Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

The new method of payment of subsidies in one amount at the time the grading certificate is returned to the farmer will be welcomed by the Hog Producers of Ontario, as it provides for a complete simplification of procedure, under which presentation of the warrant at the back is the only action necessary by the farmer in order to receive his subsidy payments.

FACED with the difficulties created by wartime shortages in labor and machinery, Canadian farmers carried on with the equipment that was available, and it is a tribute to their energy and enterprise that they have attained the tremendous increases needed to serve the needs of the United Nations.

To assist them in their greater production programmes, Massey-Harris and its dealers set new and higher standards of service to farmers. In the maintenance of equipment in the hands of farmers, they have prolonged the use of machines beyond their normal life period, and by reconditioning and rebuilding, they have put back into service machines much needed to compensate for the shortage of new ones.

In the supplying of parts—always a feature with the Company—Massey-Harris and its dealers have, during these difficult days of shortage, rendered such an outstanding service as to earn the reputation of being—"The Best Farm Machinery Service in Canada."

Give this Man a Warm Welcome

You may not regard the Victory Loan salesman as a salesman when he calls on you. He is a man from your community whom you likely know well . . . perhaps a neighbor. He may never have done any selling before.

He has taken on this work because he feels that it is an important war job that must be done.

As a matter of fact he is not trying to sell you anything. He will ask you to save money.

Farmers are doing an important war job, too . . . producing food. Most farmers have increased their incomes. They have money to save.

You plan to use this money, and the things you plan to use it for are necessary things.

The Victory Loan salesman will ask you to let your country have the use of your savings now by putting your money into Victory Bonds.

Our big job now is to win the war, and to win it as soon as we can. That's why every Canadian is asked to buy Victory Bonds. It's why each of us is asked to buy all we can. You can buy them with cash, which you have saved, and you can buy more bonds and pay for them as you earn money, over a period of six months.

Berwick Overseas Soldiers Appreciate Their Parcels

April 4th, 1944.

Women's Institute, Berwick:

Just a few lines in acknowledgement of the gift parcel which I received from you last week and wish to thank you all very much, as I appreciate everything you have sent.

The soap did not affect gum or any other eatables, the parcel was intact and in no way damaged.

Being moved about quite frequently here but not with the unit at present. Things do change from time to time, but it is all very difficult and impossible for me to put down on paper, for security reasons.

We are being well treated here but your parcels do help out a great deal and it is nice to know that all you back home do have a thought for us, here in the Canadian Army.

Again many thanks for the parcels you have sent me in the past and hope some day I may be able to return all your kind deeds.

I remain,
Yours Truly,
Lt. R. A. Casselman.

March 30th, 1944.

Women's Institute, Berwick:

I am certainly very grateful for the lovely box of things that I received the other day from your Institute. It is things like that which give us the urge to carry on, when we become disheartened and discouraged. The life of a soldier over here is not an easy one to bear and sometimes we feel like giving up, but we get a boost from people like you, and it gives us the urge to continue.

I would like to give a special word of thanks to Mrs. John Bogart for it was her name which was enclosed in the socks, which by the way, will come in very very useful to me.

When the war is over and we get back home again, we will try to thank you personally for all you are doing towards comforting us, and I am sure a great deal of credit for the victory should be bestowed on the numerous small institutes such as yours, which are contributing so much to our war effort.

Once again, thank you, all, and I would appreciate letters from any who would care to write and I am sure I will answer them all.

Sincerely,
Arnott Empey.

March 22nd, 1944.

Women's Institute, Berwick:

Mrs. Bogart: Received the parcel the Berwick Women's Institute sent me and it had a pair of socks sent by you, so I thought I would drop you a line. Thanks ever so much.

I am fine and so are the rest of the boys from Berwick. I hope this letter finds you all the same.

We are having real nice weather over here; the farmers are all working on the land, there are quite a few almost finished. I suppose by the time you get this letter you will be hard at the spring work.

We are living in tents now. It's a little cool in the morning but still its not too bad.

By most of the letters I see from over there, everybody is getting married. Maybe I had better bring a wife home with me.

I suppose it is quite quiet over home now. There sure are a lot of the boys over here.

There are a few air raids over here but nothing has dropped near us.

Well, Mrs. Bogart, I am not much at writing letters so I will have to close, hoping this letter finds you all well. Thanks again for the parcel.

Your friend,
Cpl. E. (Ben) Ouderkirk.

March 20th, 1944.

Women's Institute, Berwick:

I have received your very nice parcel of February 3rd, tonight, and wish to thank you ever so much for your kindness. Everything was in perfect condition and really tastes grand. The socks, writing paper and shaving needs are swell too and very much appreciated.

Thanks again, ladies, for the swell parcel. I hope the rest of the Berwick boys and myself will be able to thank you personally in the near future.

Yours truly,
Pte R. Leroux.

March 22nd, 1944.

Women's Institute, Berwick:

Many thanks for your parcel and also for the carton of cigarettes I received some few days ago.

I hope in the very near future I will have the pleasure of expressing my appreciation to you personally, for your kindness in remembering me.

Once again my thanks.
Bdr. N. MacQueen.

Barber: "Your head is sadly in need of a shampoo, sir."

The new soldier looked him over, then grinned.

Severely Handicapped Now Resumes Duty

Behind the appointment of Major Raoul Audet as station agent at Levis, Quebec, for the Canadian National Railways, is a story of cheerful courage and resourcefulness. Major Audet is handicapped by the loss of both hands and, ordinarily, it would be unseemly to refer to the disabilities of a soldier, but in this instance Major Audet is willing that they should be known so that others may be encouraged to persist against adversity. Major Audet has been fitted with devices so remarkable that they perform the functions of his lost hands even to the extent that he can operate a telegraph key with facility, deal with a typewriter and perform many other services.

The premature explosion of a grenade caused the loss of both hands. As soon as his condition permitted, Major Audet undertook educational and vocational courses. Later, he was fitted for the equipment designed for such cases and successfully mastered the uses of artificial hands.

When the other fellow acts that way, he is ugly; when you do, it is nerves.

When he doesn't like your friends, he's prejudiced; when you don't like him, you're simply showing you're a good judge of human nature.

When he picks flaws in things, he's cranky, when you do, you are discriminating.

When he tries to treat someone especially well, he's toadying; when you try the same game, you are using tact.

A Virtue

"Why do people say 'as smart as a steel trap'?" asked the talkative one. "I don't see anything particularly smart about a steel trap."

"A steel trap is smart," responded the old grouch, "because it knows the right time to shut up."

And there was silence—for a time.

MAIL TO REINFORCEMENT UNITS A CHALLENGE TO US ALL . . .

THIS is a war of movement. Never before have troops been moved such incredible distances, in so many theatres of war, so quickly. Night and day, thousands of men are in motion, by sea transport, motor truck and air . . . edging into enemy territory, shifting to keep the element of surprise. Did you ever stop to think what it means, under these trying conditions, to find your friend or relative, and put your letter into his hands?

Yet in spite of the tremendous task involved, tracing men who are moving from reinforcement units in England to group depots in Italy . . . or from one location to another . . . or through hospitalization or while on leave . . . in the face of every sort of war hazard . . . 31,500,000 letters in addition to parcels and other items, reached our men in 1943.

A BIT of Mother Earth on the outskirts of nowhere . . . a lone campfire . . . the howl of a wolf . . . the scream of a mountain lion . . . a free man who treads where no man trod before.

In such a setting has been the origin of some of Canada's greatest gold and mineral producing mines. Turning his back on the commonplace ways of earning a living, the prospector risks his capital, pioneers new regions and a mine is born. This is free enterprise.

FARMERS SHOULD MAKE THEIR HELP NEEDS KNOWN

"The Ontario Farm Service Force plans to have more help available for the farmers of Ontario than in any previous years of its operation," declares Alex MacLaren, Director of the Force. "But," he adds, "before we can help the farmers they must let us know their requirements for such help as we can provide".

In previous years, Mr. MacLaren said, one of the chief difficulties we have faced has been the unwillingness and slowness of farmers to make application for help. In some sections of the Province we have had large numbers of volunteers but no demand for their services, although at the same time the farmers were complaining of help shortages. "It is obvious," continued Mr. MacLaren "that we cannot help the farmers if they don't tell us when they require help. But if they do tell us, we believe we can take care of their requirements."

Volunteer farm help will be available from high school students, farm commando brigades of volunteers organized in the towns and cities, farm holiday brigades and through farm duty leaves and compassionate farm leaves for members of the armed forces.

Farmers are urged to estimate their needs for help at once and to make their requests to their county Agricultural Representative or the Ontario Farm Service Force, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. For experienced farm help for the entire season or year, application should be made to the nearest office of National Selective Service. These offices are all ready to receive applications now.

Brother, Should You Spend a Dime?

A dime is small change! (10¢) But when a lot of dimes march out of your pocket they soon become dollars that start to fight other dollars, for the new neckties, dresses or furniture left for us to buy. This battle of the dollars is called INFLATION because it starts prices rising! And the higher prices go...the less your dollar is worth! For instance, during the last war, people had to pay 23¢ lb. for sugar that you get for 8¢ lb. today. A voile night dress was $6.95 compared to the $1.98 you pay now. Your dollar buys more goods, is worth more than the dollar of 1914-18. Price ceilings and other anti-inflationary measures have helped keep it's value high. And remember! Every time you use your money wisely to pay off a debt BILL PAID or to increase your savings BOND 100 when you refuse to hoard goods or patronize black markets...it makes your dollars worth MORE!

Make This Pledge Today!

I promise to give my support to keeping the cost of living down. I will buy only what I need. I will observe the ceiling whether buying or selling goods or services. I will pay off old debts, save for the future, invest in Victory Bonds and War Savings Certificates. And I will support taxes which help lower the cost of living.

Keep Your Dollar Value High!

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! Victory gardeners are eagerly awaiting the days when the garden plot can be ploughed or spaded and made ready for vegetable seeds and plants. Everyone knows that their garden can provide some of the vegetables that will be scarce in supply. Providing for home consumption, victory gardens release more supplies for the men and women in the armed forces, fighting for victory.

Inasmuch as the supply of seeds is limited and the plot may be small or not suitable for root vegetables, we suggest that you plan wisely for your family needs—both nutritionally and in sufficient quantity to prevent waste.

A Few Tips To The Amateur Gardener:

1. Leaf lettuce should be given preference over head lettuce and one-half a five cent package is ample to plant at one time for a family of four.

2. A wide variety of green leaves for the salad bowl can be grown by home gardens, assuring an inexpensive supply of vitamin-rich foods throughout the summer and fall. Romaine is an alternative for leaf lettuce (often called cos lettuce). Endive has a distinctive flavour and should be planted later than the romaine (the curley leafed type is richer in iron than the broad-leafed type). Chervil is an aromatic plant, somewhat resembling parsley but superior in flavour. However, like parsley the seed is slow to germinate but both parsley and chervil can be potted late in fall, and used to improve the vitamin C quantity of your winter's salads.

4. Chives is a useful salad vegetable. It is a cousin of the onion, of which the leaves are used.

5. Yellow turnips are stronger than white but are more nutritive when properly cooked. Turnip greens are one of the best sources of vitamins A and C.

6. Beet tops are very valuable and may be cut off without injuring the vegetable. Cook quickly in a small amount of water, without salt. Steaming requires too long and cooking in fats also kills vitamin content.

7. Chinese cabbage has more mineral content than white cabbage but is more difficult to grow. Be sure to plant hardy winter cabbage plants if you have adequate winter storage room.

8. Navy beans are better than lima beans and there is usually more yield from the plants.

9. Green peas have a high score, compared to corn on the cob.

As many as four sowings of leafy vegetables may be made with good results.
