A. M. Fulton Honoured In Masonic Anniversary At Chesterville Lodge

A member of a well-known Chesterville family was honoured last week when A. Mackenzie Fulton was tendered a turkey banquet here in honour of his 50th anniversary as a Past D.D.G.M. of this Masonic District. Mr Fulton was D.D.G.M. of District 320 in 1905. He is one of only five men in Canada today who can claim that distinction and the only active enough to carry on his business. In his long life, Mr Fulton has reached the top in Masonic work, being a 33rd Degree Mason.

A. M. Fulton was born on Maple Ridge on the farm operated by his brother, A. H. Fulton. He joined Masonry here in 1898 when he was 23 years of age. In 1905 he had become D.D.G.M. of the district.

After an education in law at the University of Toronto, Mr Fulton started a law practice here in Chesterville. After a few years he moved to Lindsay, Ont., and started the firm there, Fulton and Fulton, in which he is still active with his son.

Mr Fulton is the oldest of 10 brothers of which 9 are living. In Chesterville Howard, Bert and Wesley are very familiar names and C. T., until he moved to Toronto a few years ago, is equally familiar.

Mr and Mrs Fulton, the former Maud Hill, of Winchester, have had three sons and a daughter. One son is dead.

The Record joins its many readers in congratulating Mr Fulton on his reaching such a pinnacle in fraternal life and wish him many more years to enjoy it.

W.M.S. Evening Auxiliary Makes Donation Toward Projector

The November meeting of the Evening Auxiliary of the United Church Woman's Missionary Society was held in the church dining room Tuesday at 8.00 p.m. Mrs F. M. Cass, the vice-president, opened the meeting with a few words of welcome after which the hymn "Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life" was sung.

Mrs B. W. Lapp called the roll and read the minutes of the October meeting. Mrs R. A. Mitchell, in an interesting report of the Sectional meeting held recently in Williamsburg outlined the work of various branches of the Misisonary societies.

The secretary read a letter of appreciation from the Men's Club for the donation towards the purchase of a projector.

The treasurer's report was given by Mrs Carl Merkley and Mrs Dalton Quartus gave the report on Community Friendship.

The president reminded the nominating committee that their report should be ready for presentation at the next meeting. The members of the nominating committee are Mrs Bert Gillard, Mrs Eric Casselman and Mrs G. W. Gilbert.

The committee of next month's meeting which will take the form of a pot luck supper with the usual exchange of Christmas remembrances will consist of Mrs G. W. Gilbert, Mrs Harry Allison, Mrs Hilton Reid, Mrs F. M. Cass, Mrs J. A. Butcher, Mrs Carruthers, Mrs Oscar Olsen and Mrs Jim Nicol.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs James Fyke, assisted by Mrs Lloyd Smith, Mrs Gordon Lannin, Mrs Dalton Casselman and Mrs Hugh Marcellus.

The programme was in the form of a discussion to discover the responsibility of the church towards immigrants and was lead by Mrs James Fyke, assisted by Mrs C. A. Graham, Miss Gladys Marcellus, Mrs Hugh Marcellus and Mrs Dalton Casselman.

After the benediction, lunch was served by Mrs Fyke and her committee.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE TO HEAR ROBERT R. MUNDLE

Robert R. Mundle, Field Service Representative of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, will join the members at the regular meeting next Wednesday evening in the clerk's office for the November meeting. Mr Mundle is well versed in community building work and his experience will be available to all who have questions. President E. B. McMillan is most desirous that a good attendance of the members be on hand November 9 to welcome Mr Mundle and hear his message.

Brian Gilbert Speaks To Rotary Club

Last Monday night Brian Gilbert, student of Chesterville High School, was the speaker of the evening at the regular meeting of the RotaryClub. President James Cunningham was in the chair. The speaker was introduced by his father, G. H. Gilbert, and thanked by H. G. Bigelow.

Cadet Major Brian Gilbert was one of the Canadian cadets chosen to go to Banff National Cadet Camp this summer. Only cadets with the high proficiency Gold Star badges were eligible to apply and acceptances were based on scholastic standing as well as cadet efficiency.

The speaker outlined the training programme followed during the summer at the camp. In spite of a lot o f hard work he led his hearers to believe there was a lot of good fun involved also. Especially when the course was climaxed with a pack journey that kept the cadets in tents on the trail for several days.

FALSE ALARMS AGAIN PLAGUE FIREMEN

Monday night, Hallowe'en, stupid people were on the prowl along with the small fry. The clock was nearing midnight when the fire siren started to wail. The signal was set off from the box at the drugstore corner but the culprit is still at large.

During the evening two other alarms were sent in, both called from Morewood. An anxious time was had by the fire chief and his men until responsible parties could be reached to prove the calls false. The polci eare still investigating.

"Aha! And how is it I find you kissing my daughter? stormed the irate father. "How is it?"

"Great! Just great!" replied the young hopeful.

Council Cringes at Climbing Cop Costs for '56 Hope for Private Police Through Ads

Members of Chesterville council decided last night to advertise in the city papers to fill the position of police chief for the village. It was their unanimous opinion that Provincial Police costs were rising out of the range of the small town to pay unless desperation dictated the necessity. The advertisements are to run at the weekend and it is hoped to have the replies in by the 6th of December for the next regular meeting.

Chesterville council turned out in full force last night for the November meeting. The reeve, Chas. McMillan, presided.

Hydro business centred around the problem of lighting the short street that runs between Joseph and John up at the Legion property end. The street is very dark and there are now two residences on it. As the properties are entitled to a lighted street,the village electrician was ordered to take steps to have a light installed in the centre of the block. The Commission also noted that several lights were missing at strategic points in the village and they were marked down for replacing.

Good financing on the Commission's part means that only $4,000 worth of bonds need be sold for the final payment on the rehabilitation of the village system. The original figure was to have been $6,000. The bonds were ordered sold with the reeve and clerk as authorizing agents.

The truck problem of the Commission was raised again when it was noted that a figure had been received on a trade-in proposition. Much discussion followed the advisability of making the change. Final decision was withheld pending further horse trading by Commissioners Arnold and Sharkey.

The first matter of council after the minutes was that of hearing a delegation of ladies, members of Chesterville Women's Institute. The ladies, through their spokesman, Councillor Campbell, who is also president of the Institute, called council's attention to the fact that final payment will soon be made on the W.I. contribution to the hall. For the past 20 years they had been paying $100 a year, and in return were promised use of the small auditorium free from now on.

The ladies wished to know what arrangements could be reached with council in the matter of light and heat and to have an agreement or resolution to that effect. Final decision was to allow W.I. to collect rents as in the past for use of the room and to give council 50% of the moneys taken in as shown by the yearly audited statement. The annual take amounts to about $100 in a good year, with the Rotary Club paying $50 and the library board $25. The balance comes from other town organizations. Representing the ladies of W.I. with Mrs Campbell were Mrs John Sutherland, Mrs George Barkley and Mrs George G. Merkley.

Council moved unanimously to send the fire chief to the fire chief school in Toronto for three days, November 16-18. The fire chief discussed the false alarms of Hallowe'en and joined council in condemning the irresponsible parties who would condone such a crime. There was one false alarm here in town and two false alarms called in from Morewood.

E. B. Lynch reminded the reeve of a promise to reconsider his salary at the end of the year and it was reconsidered up, $25 worth to $325.

By-law 789 was read a first, second and third time, passed and nally sealed to appoint polling places and deputy returning officers in the event of a municipal election on December 5.

Tenders will be called for on the construction of a new false ceiling in the fire hall, to lower it approximately six feet.

Council felt $5,000 was getting a bit too rich for the town's blood to pay for OPP services. The new schedule, with the added cost of paying for the relieving policeman at holiday time brings the costs to nearly that figure on the the new contract. Before the contract is signed council felt it would be better to advertise for a private village policeman at a figure more in in line with the pocketbook of the town. Advertising is to be done in the two Ottawa dailies asking for bids for the job and the applicants are to be considered at the next meeting on December 6.

Meeting adjourned close to the witching hour.

ONE WAY TO GET A HOUSE MOVED is to live in Iroquois these days. There Hydro is busily changing the face of the entire village. Houses are being picked up bodily and moved a mile or so back on the new townsite. Pictured here is a house belonging to Hubert Coulter, of that town, after it has left its foundations and has started to move out on the street. Looking on are members of the latest party to tour the Seaway and Power Project, members of the Liberal Opposition of the Legislature as the guests of Peter Manley, M.P.P. for Stormont. Left to right are: Harry Worton, Geo. T. yordon, Farquhar Oliver and Peter Manley listening to words from Chas. MacIntosh, Information Officer of the Project.—Record Photo.

"Holiday Ahoy" and Local Talent Features Fun, Frolic and Games

"Holiday Ahoy" is the local talent stage show being given Thursday and Friday, November 3 and 4, under the auspices of the Chesterville Legion at the Chesterville Community Hall. The show is built around the festivities in connection with the launching of the world's finest luxury liner—the "S.S. Holiday."

Dave Garroway, a TV personality (seen on only a few stations in Ontario) is played by Jack Presant. During the ceremonies he interviews everyone from the ship's captain, played by Ed Brady to the two goofiest gobs afloat, Singapore Sam, Gordon Olsen and Shipwreck Kelly, Blake Feeley.

A highlight of the show is the all-children's number in a "Cowboy and Indian" TV movie. In this scene Ronald Doering plays Roy Rogers; Linda Miltimore takes the role of Dale Evans; Kenneth Baker is the sheriff and Carol Kilby is the sheriff's daughter, Polly. Brian Brady is the good Indian, Tonto, while Bonnie Lesage is Princess Winter, Summer, Fall and Spring.

Comedy reaches a climax in the scene in which the Okel Deekel women initiate the captain into their tribe. These Fiji Islanders are Elva McMillan, Lorna Froats, Alice Anderson, Yvonne Barkley, Lorraine Coyne, Lila Robinson, Eleanor Simpson and Myrna Froats as Panama Hattie and Addie Campderros as Calcutta Kate, singing the "Pagan Love Song."

On board are chorus girls as sailors, sailorettes, exchange students and hostesses. The exchange students are Margaret McMillan, from Holland, Judy Henderson, from U.S.A., Judy Butcher, France,

Mrs Gordon Blow presented certificates, pins, and seals to Bonnie McLeod, Giska Dam, Anne Lang and Judy Neuse. Judy Servage was presented with a life membership certificate by the W.M.S. Mrs Morrison, of Cardinal, was special speaker.

SHELL-OUT FOR UNICEF AT MOREWOOD

A shell-out Hallowe'en party for Unicef was held Monday evening at the home of Mrs Kenneth Hillis. The 21 children were from her Sunday School class of the United Church at Morewood and neighbourhood children.

Assisting Mrs Hillis were Mrs Millen Smirl, Mrs Grant Swerdfeger and other neighbours.

During the evening the children played games and heard stories. Prizes were won for fancy dress by Linda McLaughlin, Kay Smirl, Ian Coulthart and Wayne Baker. The children collected $10 in their Unicef Boxes in the house-to-house colection.

A delightful lunch was served at the conclusion of the fine and useful evening.

Mr, Mrs Percy Wagner Honoured on Anniversary

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr and Mrs Percy Wagner October 22nd when their family and relatives gathered at a surprise dinner in honour of their 28th wedding anniversary. The room was decorated in pink and white and a lovely wedding cake centred the table.

Mr and Mrs Wagner received many fine gifts, including a chest of silver from their children and nine grandchildren.

Among the 40 guests was Mrs Wagner's father, Mr S. H. Scott, who has 12 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren.

Car Damaged In Collision with Horse

The driver of a motor car escaped serious injury in a collission with a horse on County Road 7, just south of Morewood, Thursday evening.

OPINIONS . . .

Ours and Others

CPR Roadway Repairs

The roadways on either side of the CPR tracks here in town are a disgrace. The least rain shower turns them into a mess of mud and puddles that make it almost impossible to cross unless equipped with a snorkel tube.

The property must be crossed to gain access to the platform if one comes in by auto on the north side. When freight is to be unloaded or loaded at the sidings, water and mud flies continually with passing traffic.

These columns have spent much time calling attention to road and highway conditions in the village and out of the town limits. It has always been hoped the railway company would finally see the light and bring their hard-used connecting roadways up to a reasonable par with those of the municipality. The excuse that because they belong to the railroad they need less attention has little validity in this day of mechanized traffic. Now that diesels are replacing coal burners on the iron rails, what will be left to fill the holes in the roads when the soft, useless ashes are gone.

It would be nice to report that the 135-odd people who have to pass over the CPR tracks twice each day, from the factory, are to get a blacktop road. That is too much to expect, but, at the least, enough hard stone ballast could be laid to make a reasonably dry bed in wet weather and less of a cratered barnyard in summer.

Hunting and Its Hazards

Each year when Fall reaches just about this point the Nimrods of the community have made their peace with their wives, done all those nagging little jobs that have been put off during the summer and gotten things in shape to head for the bush for the annual deer hunt. We know whereof we speak, especially regarding the little jobs because, thanks to the invitation of a friend of ours, we are gong to join the above mentioned Nimrods.

A couple of things are brought to mind. The papers are starting their annual headlines of hunting accidents, the excuses are ringing through the air, "I didn't know it was loaded," "I saw it move and thought it was an animal." With between 30 and 40 members of the town community alone hunting this Fall, either in the townships or in the north bush, it would be well to stress the need for constant safety precautions when out with the guns. While everyone knows it is always the other fellow who gets into trouble, still the scales might turn some day if carelessness gets ahead of common sense. Especially in the heavily hunted townships is care needed. Then the roads and lanes are thick with hunters and even shotguns are deadly if not used properly.

Light Along The Way

But Ruth said, "Entreat me not to leave you or to return from following after you; for where you go I will go, and where you lodge I will lodge; your people shall be my people, and your God my God; where you die I will die; and there will I be buried. May the Lord do so to me and more also if even death parts me from you." (Ruth 1 : 16, 17).

It is many long years since Elimelech, the Judaean, went to live in Moab, taking his wife and two sons with him. There he died. His sons married, but they also died. Finally Elimelech's wife, Naomi, decided to return home to Judaea. Her daughters-in-law wanted to accompany her, but she dissuaded them. Ruth would not be dissuaded, however, and when she spoke to Naomi in these remarkable words the latter made no further protest about her going.

Ruth's words reveal her own fine character, of course, but they also suggest that Naomi must have been a very fine woman. Through kindness and love, even in the midst of her own terrible sorrow, she had drawn the younger woman to her. Her decision to return to her own kin, among people who were strange, where she would have to learn new ways, make new friends, and find a new life, in no way changed Ruth's attitude towards her. The fact that in this land to which they would go men worshipped a different God than she was wont to worship, and lived by different, and stricter, religious principles, did not affect her love for this one woman whose example had won her admiration and affection so completely. Indeed, she was only too willing to accept the God whose faith Naomi so clearly set forth. Even the problem of burial, an important one in those days, was no problem for her; she was quite willing to become one of her mother-in-law's people both in life and death.

The lives of men must touch each other, during the course of the day. It is when people like Naomi, bringing into the associations of daily life their warm spirit of love and understanding, that great things happen in the lives of men. Were all men considerate of each other, were they able to hold firmly to their faith, were they good examples of love and trust, this world would be a better place in which to live.

Jesus bears out the truth of this. Was it not in the simple acts of kindness, compassion and love that men caught His Spirit, and if this was the way the Master went, should not the servant tread it still?

STANDING ON THE HUGE COFFERDAM spanning the St. Lawrence River at Maple Grove above Cornwall are members of the Legislature who made the tour of the Seaway and Power Project last Thursday. Host for the day was Peter Manley, M.P.P. for Stormont. The party was made up of eight members of the Liberal representation, the Opposition, in the Ontario Legislature. Left to right they are: Harry Worton, South Wellington; Gordon Innes, Oxford; Chas. MacIntosh, Information Officer for Hydro on the Project; Peter Manley; Geo. T. Gordon, Brantford; Farquhar Oliver, South Grey, leader of the Opposition; John Spense, Kent East; Albert Lavigne, Federal member for Stormont; Wm. Hogg, Hydro Works Engineer; Ross Whicher, Bruce; Harry C. Nixon, Brant. At the far right the blurry character turns out to be the editor of the Record who was invited along for the ride.—Photo courtesy the Freeholder.

Seaway Tour de Force

PETER MANLEY, M.P.P. for Stormont County has felt for some time that his picture of the Seaway and Hydro Project here in Eastern Ontario would be better understood in the House if he could show his fellow Opposition members the works as they stand now in construction. As a result, last week he arranged for most of the Opposition members to journey from their various ridings to Cornwall.

Arrangements were made with Ontario Hydro and Thursday morning found eight Liberal members of the Ontario Legislature at the administration buildings of Hydro ready for the grand tour. We were invited to go along at the invitation of our friend Peter Manley.

The group of members included the Leader of the Opposition, Farquhar Oliver, South Grey; John Spense, Kent East; Geo. T. Gordon. Brantford; Ross Whicher, Bruce; Harry C. Nixon, Brant; Gordon Innes, Oxford; Harry Worton, South Wellington; and, of course, Peter Manley. Messrs Rheaume, Wintermier and Wren were not able to be present.

We have been over the route before but this is the first time we have reported it for the readers of the Record. Living as we do in reasonable nearness to the project, certain features are familiar to our readers, but a review of the progress as we saw it may be of interest.

Members of the Western Ontario ridings were hard put to express the feelings stirred up by the man-made obstructions that are controlling the wild waters of the St. Lawrence. We passed across the 4,500-foot cofferdam that ties Barnhart Island and the Ontario mainland. On one side is the swift water of the St. Lawrence and the other is rough, torn river bed, rapidly losing its ages-old contours under the force of dynamite and earth movers. The work at either end is progressing rapidly with excavations opening the high shores and deepening the river bed for dam footings.

Barnhart Island is getting quite a face-lifting in places by the American engineers. Their work is running on a tight schedule this Fall in certain lines of endeavour. It is necessary that the floating pontoon bridge, which we crossed, be out of the river by freeze-up; otherwise the rushing ice would remove it. To take its place, a railway bridge is being built farther west on the island over South Channel. It was hard to believe that the rushing water in the narrow South Channel was the only outlet for the Great Lakes system. Some of our Western Ontario friends opined perhaps it wouldn't take too long to fill in behind the power dam after all—there seemed to be quite a head of water to draw on.

The party continued west on the New York mainland until it reached the Polley's Bay area. Here again, the great river had quieted its might before man's urging and had even taken a new channel through the end of Longue Sault Island to allow dam work to be done in the dry.

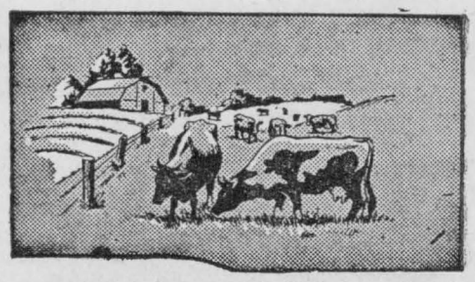

The engineers have dammed the South Channel between the mainland and Longue Island, opened a channel right through the end of the island to allow the water to bypass out into the main channel across from Sheek Island and had then built a half-moon dam out at the mouth of the channel to build the first or south half of the control dam. Wm. Hogg, Project engineer for Ontario Hydro, and Chas. MacIntosh, information officer for the project were helpful here in explaining to the eager questioners just what the outcome of all the preparatory work would be. It seemed out of the question that mere men would be able to quell the raging Longue Sault that was gnawing away at the foot of the cofferdam on which the group stood. The engineer was confident it could be done and went on to show the plans.

Up on Longue Sault Island, in sight from No. 2 Highway, the island is being bisected at a point nearly across from Dickinson's Landing. A whole new canal is appearing under the busy machines. The canal will serve to take the water away that will be dammed up when the cofferdam across the head of the Longue Sault is completed. The dam is beginning to appear at the island side now and the rapids will be stilled by this time next year and the riverbed dry so that work can progress on the other half of the control dam.

The party of M.P.P.'s stopped off for a little while in Morrisburg and enjoyed the hospitality of the reeve, Geo. Beavers, and Mrs Beavers. It was rather disheartening to think that the gracious living room in which we sat would be under many feet of water in a very few years. Mr Beavers was in a rather upset frame of mind at the time of the visit. Members

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

One day last week I would have voted with both hands in favour of giving this country back to the Indians. In fact I spent considerable time that day wondering why intelligent, reasoning people live here at all. That was the day we got on the storm windows.

You know they call them storm windows because of the storm father raises when he has to put them on. And, personally, I don't blame him. I despise the job too. If I ever happen to answer the $64,000 question believe me one luxury I'll certainly enjoy is having someone else wash and put on our outside windows.

In the first place there doesn't seem to be a right time to put on storm windows. We're either too early or too late.

The first year I was married I was determined the windows were going to be put on in time. I wasn't going to freeze my fingers washing windows on a cold November day. So we did them early. And I was quite pleased with myself when they were finished. Pleased, that is, until the big, fat flies began to buzz around merrily between the clean windows. And before the cold weather came those glass panes were as dirty as if they hadn't been washed at all.

Now I'm not one that can't profit from experience. So the next year I was equally determined that the windows wouldn't go on too soon. So we waited for Indian summer. But I guess we didn't have any that year. The days floated by and finally it was later than we thought. We had waited in vain for the decent day that hadn't come. Eventually one frosty morning Harry lugged the windows into the kitchen one at a time. When I'd washed them he put them on without the outside of the window being washed at all.

It seemed we couldn't win. A week too early and the flies moved in between the glass. A week too late and it was too cold to wash them outside.

Well last Friday wasn't too cold so I thought I might as well take the bull by the horns and go at the windows. I got a tub of warm water with detergent in it, a sponge and some clean linen towels and ventured forth.

I got half a dozen of the dirty windows out of their summer hiding place and went at them with the sudsy water. Ordinarily I can wash the dirty panes, dry them off and polish them with the linen towels and they shine like crystal. But not last Friday. The more I polished the more streaked they got. Just when I got them done very well I'd accidentally rub the glass with my wet sleeve and have to begin again.

Well I washed and polished and rubbed and lifted each heavy sash and wondered why Wolfe and Montcalm hadn't better judgment than to have fought over a country where double windows and doors are necessary to keep out the winter's cold. And as I scrubbed I wondered what the rent would cost in Florida. I was sick of the job then and the outside of the windows still had to be washed.

I had done them all two weeks before. I'd used a long-handled brush and some warm, sudsy water to remove the dirt then rinsed them with the hose. Then Nature had dried them until they simply gleamed. Why couldn't I do them that way again?

So I did. But Nature was contrary. They dried thoroughly polka-dotted with water spots. I couldn't look at them all winter like that. But I couldn't polish them by hand either. For they made our windows awfully long and they made me awfully short so I can't reach the top panes except from the very top of the step-ladder. And that's too shaky.

So I had to invite Harry to wash off each pane with a wet sponge and wipe it dry. He did very well too and didn't complain much except he couldn't see any sense in shining the top panes since "we don't look out them anyway."

By the time we quit the job I was cold and tired and just about ready to hand things back to the Indians. Then to add insult to injury dozens of flies appeared between the windows when the sun shone the next day. And right now the biggest spider I ever saw is spinning an umbrella between the windows over the kitchen sink. As I said before you can't win when it comes to storm windows. There's no use trying.

Tour de Force—

of the planning board of Hydro had arrived almost unannounced the night before and called a meeting which could be attended by only a few of the townsmen. They had presented the long-wished-for plan of resettlement of the town along with a map.

Mr Beavers and Mr R. H. Armstrong, lawyer of Morrisburg, carried the ball in favour of the views of many Morrisburg citizens. It was their contention that Ontario Hydro was open for criticism in its manner of settling for properties that were to be flooded out. It would appear there was not any definite method or yardstick for setting property values and confusion and uncertainty was the logical result. The municipal officers were quite emphatic in some of their descriptive passages, to the degree that Mr MacIntosh, as information officer of Hydro, was constrained to present Hydro's point of view. Opposition members left the residence of the embattled reeve digesting points of view that they had not met too often before on the Power and Seaway problem.

Iroquois was the next port of call. Here the giant house movers of Hydro were in action. We watched with interest as the house of Hubert Coulter was gently raised from its foundations and started on its trek to New Iroquois, cradled in the immense arms of the mover. In New Iroquois, the atmosphere was considerably different from that of Morrisburg. Fresh paint, landscaped lawns and refurbished houses made a brave picture of progress and a demonstration that Hydro was really in positive action. The greatest change we noted, of all the impressions received, was the attitude change of the reeve Lloyd Davis. For so long Mr Davis had been the castigator of Hydro through the press and other media, that his present attitude to the Commission was a complete about-face. The reeve, today, feels that Iroquois has received one of the best deals any small community could receive. He is willing to admit that Hydro has given the town nearly all any town could wish, and to call off his vendetta with relief. The years of indecision and lack of information have dissolved in an aura of mutual respect and understanding. The visiting members seemed much impressed with the progress of the new town.

A look at the earth movers in the canal area on the Point brought the tour to a conclusion. The whole island seems to have received the 'new look' that is apparent in all the International Rapids section. Raw earth and hurrying machines mark a new era in embryo for the Front.

If any conclusion can be drawn from the multitude of impressions absorbed during the busy day, one in particular stands out. The present generation of home owners in the doomed towns have every right to be expressive regarding the change in their homes and fortunes. For three decades the Seaway has been a possibility to them. Now it is a reality, and the reality is overwhelming. They are willing to accept the change, but constant and definite assurance is needed from the destroying powers that the building powers will give with the same will that they take away. Iroquois is proving this but Morrisburg has yet to feel and see the tangibe results of deeds over words. Down the river it is the same, and perhaps Iroquois rising as New Iroquois is the needed pillar to instil confidence that the Commission will build soundly in spirit as well as materially.

Legion Auxiliary Meets at Williamsburg

The regular meeting of Williamsburg Ladies's Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion Branch No. 538 was held at the home of comrade Phyllis Strader. The meeting opened with President Comrade Georgia Froats in the chair. WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Mrs W. E. Myrick, of Weldon, N.C., got awfully tired of her first name, Hazel, after the hurricane of the same name hit the Carolinas last year. She asked friends and relatives to call her by her middle name. It's Ione.

Teacher: "How do you spell Saskatchewan?"

Bright boy: "You want the river or the province?"

St. Luke's W.M.S. Plan Thankoffering Meet at Finch

Finch Auxiliary of St. Luke's Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society held their October meeting at the home of Mrs W. G. Brownlee, with 35 members and visitors present.

Mrs George C. Rupert conducted the meeting, assisted by Mrs Alex MacDougall, as secretary. Mrs O. R. Hoople acted as pianist.

The Scripture lesson was taken by Mrs H. Middleton, followed with prayer from Glad Tidings. Mrs D. K. MacLean gave an interesting report on the C.G.I.T. Group, recently organized with some 17 members to start with.

The report of the cooking sale held at the home of Mrs R. Smith was given by Mrs MacMaster, showing the substantial sum of over $25 had ben realized.

The Study Book was taken by Mrs George C. Rupert, being on "Religion in India." The roll call was answered with a verse of Scripture containing the word "Peace."

Glad Tidings was reviewed by Mrs Rupert MacIntyre.

Final arrangements were completed for the fall Thankoffering meeting, to be held in St. Luke's Church on October 28, at which time Rev W. Lloyd MacLellan, D.D., of Cornwall, will be guest speaker and to which the Auxiliaries of Avonmore, Moose Creek, Crysler, Morewood, Chesterville, Dunbar and Winchester have been invited.

It was decided to present Life Memberships to Mrs A. A. MacLean and Mrs J. H. Bush, the presentations to be made at the November meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs Harold Cameron November 8.

LOCOMOTIVE COW CATCHER GOES TO SEA

The old-fashioned locomotive cow-catcher has gone to sea, to kill sharks in Canada's west coast salmon fisheries.

The fisheries department recently fitted one of its vessels with a triangular steel ram with a sharp point and a knife-like upper edge, and sent it out to chase basking sharks in Barkley Sound on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

The boat bagged nearly 50 of the monsters during its first month of operations. On one day it speared 18.

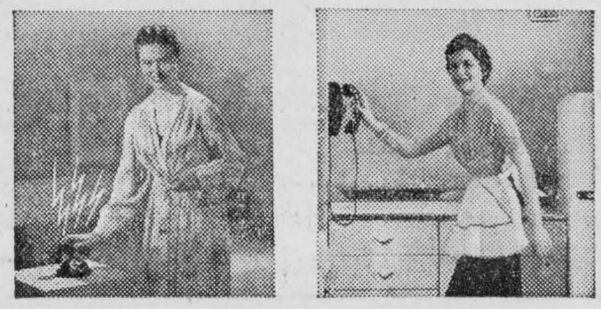

The ram, which costs about $200, looks like the answer to the shark problem which has been bothering salmon fishermen for years. It is a big improvement over harpooning, which is too slow, and rifle fire, which is both ineffective and a possible danger to other vessels.

"Mr Jones, can Daddy borrow your corkscew?"

"Sure thing, Johnny. Just run along back home and tell him I'll bring it right over."

On the occasion of her approaching marriage, Miss Betty Beckstead was honoured by her friends and neighbours at a miscellaneous shower in Osnabruck Centre Hall. On her arrival the bride-elect was attended by her sister, Freida, and Miss Rosemary Empey. All joined in singing "Happy Shower to You," while they were being seated in their nicely decorated chairs of blue and white under a shower of confetti.

A congratulatory address was read by Mrs Wilson Mattice, in which Miss Beckstead was wished every joy and happiness.

The bride was presented with a bride's book, which was signed by all present.

A nicely decorated basket laden with beautiful gifts was carried in and placed before the bride-to-be by Carol Bruyns and Bonnie Primeau.

LICENCE PLATES TO MATCH COLOUR SCHEME

Licence plates to match your car? Police Sgt. Keith McKay, of Pasadena, Calif., says he's heard everything now.

McKay was on the desk the other day when a worried woman called.

"I've just had my car painted pale pink," she said, "and the yellow numerals on the licence plates clash so badly with the colour scheme. It's all right if I paint the tag numbers pink too, isn't it?"

"No, it isn't, ma'am," replied McKay. "That's against the law."

"That's ridiculous," snorted the caller. "I see cars with different-coloured plates every day."

She hung up before the office could suggest that perhaps the plates were on cars from somewhere else.

GOOD MIXING MEANS BETTER PAINTING

Always stir the contents of a paint can before using. In the case of enamels, particularly, be sure to stir the pigment thoroughly. The best procedure is to pour the top two thirds into another container and stir the remainder carefully. Then, continuing your stirring, return the poured-off liquid to the original can.

If the can has been opened before and a skin has formed on top of the can's contents, remove this whole before stirring. Should any part of the skin remain, pour the entire quantity through a strainer you can obtain from your paint dealer. You can also use a piece of wire screen or an old section of hosiery for the purpose.

FOR THE POULTRYMAN

Even well-grown pullets are not COMPLETELY developed when they begin to lay. They continue to fill out, adding another 1 to 2 lbs. Trying to grow, manufacture eggs, and maintain body condition, all at the same time, puts heavy demands on them, and on their feed. Without feed fortied for this 3-fold job they may lay themselves into a false or partial moult and en expensive rest period.

PURINA BOOSTER CHECKERS are made to supply extra proteins, vitamins, minerals, antibiotics to deal with that situation. Feed 6 lbs. per 100 birds per day, on top of the regular ration.

Disease germs, mites, lice can upset your poultry plans and turn your expected profits into losses. It's sensible to take sensible precautions against them.

PURINA INSECT OIL is a real help. Painted or sprayed on wooden surfaces, it kills germs with which it comes in contact, repels mites for a year, and helps preserve the wood. Apply when the house is empty. (If you have much wood to paint, of earth floors to disinfect, INSECT OIL CONCENTRATE will prove more economical).

PURINA POULTRY INSECTICIDE will help you get rid of lice. Paint it on the roosts just before roosting time. Repeat in 10 days. It's good practice to inspect birds for lice at housing, and after that at least once a month.

DON'T WANT LIGHTS

The little village of Killerton, Devon, Eng., has no street lights and doesn't want them.

The municipal council unanimously rejected a suggestion to light Killerton's streets—mostly just footpaths between thatch-roofed cottages—after being told by the village's oldest inhabitants, 94-year-old Tom Richards:

"Old people and children go to bed before it gets dark. And courting couples—well, they certainly don't want lights.

"And I find my way home all right with a flashlight after the pub closes at 10.30 p.m."

CONNOISSEUR THROWS COOK OUT OF CAFE

Roger A. Hatfield, 25-year-old construction worker, likes his fish done just so.

He paid a $25 fine in Whitby for throwing out a cook and doing his fish himself in a restaurant.

Police said he walked into the kitchen, threw the cook out by the hair, and helped himself to some salmon.

On another occasion he entered the kitchen, took 10 or 15 fillets from the refrigerator and fried them himself while the cook stood by and watched. That time, police said, he paid $3.40 for his dinner.

"He apparently walks into restaurants and cooks his own meals whenever he wishes," said Constable Reginald Parker.

"I feel like taking that beautiful blonde out again tonight."

"Have you taken her out before?"

"Well, no. But I felt like it once before."

PORK

IF YOU HAVE A LOCKER for frozen food or have a deep freeze the chances are that you buy meat in large quantities and often that meat will be pork. You will want to make use of all the cuts of meat so here are a few recipes that may be a help.

Homemade Sausage

Put 4 pounds of pork and 1½ pounds of pork fat through a meat chopper. Season with ⅛ tablespoon salt, 2 teaspoons sage, 3 teaspoon pepper. Form into cakes like hamburgs. Wrap each cake separately in wax paper. Pack sufficient cakes for one meal in packages wrapped in freezer paper. When ready to use cook in the same way as for hamburgs being sure the meat is thoroughly cooked.

Headcheese

Remove all the meat from a hog's head. Wash well and cover with cold water. Add salt, a small onion and mixed herbs if desired. Simmer slowly until meat is tender. Cool in stock. Drain and remove bones. Slice meat. Season to taste with salt, pepper, sage, cloves and allspice. Add ½ cup vinegar, mix well and pack in molds. Cover with plate and place a heavy weight on top. Allow to stand two or three days before using. Cut in thin slices and serve with tomato ketchup.

Liverwurst

This is an old recipe that is very tasty. It can be stored in your freezer in cartons or may be made a little later in the season and kept frozen outside in a large crock.

1 pork liver
1 pork tongue
1 pork heart
3 lbs. side pork

Put all meat, except tongue, in a kettle, cover with cold water and cook until very tender. Put meat through a meat chopper and pour stock over all. Season with salt and pepper. Cook tongue separately and discard the liquid in which it has been cooked. Skin tongue before putting through chopper. Cool thoroughly before freezing.

When you are ready to serve liverworst place desired quantity of frozen meat in a frying pan. Heat and serve on hot buttered toast. This is a good supper dish for a cold winter evening. It is not necessary to grease the pan before heating as there is sufficient fat in the liverwurst to prevent it from sticking.

Baked Pork Chops with Dressing

Make your favourite variety of breadcrumb dressing well seasoned with sage or summer savory. Cover pork chops with a generous layer. Place in a shallow baking dish and cook three quarters of an hour in a moderate oven. Serve with applesauce or fried apple rings.

Slices of side pork may be prepared in the same manner.

Hungarian Pork Chops

Sear pork chops lightly in a frying pan. Add 2 cups sauerkraut and ½ cup canned tomatoes. Cover and cook slowly 30 to 40 minutes or until chops are done.

BOYS TEST PIES FOR PROFESSOR

When Dr Walter A. Maclinn, a food specialist and professor at Rutgers University, was at odds with food editors on whether to freeze pies before or after baking, he knew where to go for a panel of experts.

What better tasting jury than 10 hungry boys, all less than 10 years old?

The 75 editors, representing newspapers, magazines and radio stations on the eastern seaboard, had contended after sampling some of Dr Maclinn's pies—mostly apple—that the ones frozen before baking tasted best.

But Dr Maclinn was skeptical. So he rounded up the boys and assembled them in Buccleuch Park.

"The youngsters went along with me down the line," the professor reported. "They couldn't detect any difference in flavour between the 'before' and the 'after' frozen pies. And what's more, they thought I was a good cook."

An old Indian took his watch to be repaired. When the jeweller took the back off, a dead bug fell out.

Chesterville W.I. Members Meet in Public Library Mrs Walter Carruthers Convenes Excellent Meeting

The October meeting of Chesterville W.I. was well attended and after the opening exercises two minutes of silence was observed in respect to the memory of the late Mrs James Hughes and Mrs Wesley Casselman who helped found the organization 54 years ago.

Following minutes read by Mrs George Merkley, the report of the treasurer was given by Mrs Floyd Edgerton, and Mrs George Johnston said she had sent cards to ill and bereaved people in the community.

Mrs B. W. Campbell, secretary of Dundas County Music Festival, handed in a cheque for $25.44, the profit on the 1955 Festival. It was decided to cater for the Holstein Association banquet on November 30, when turkey 'n trimmings will be the order of the day.

The secretary gave voice to an appeal made by the Parks Commission, Morrisburg, in which they asked the members to donate antiques and objects of interest connected with Canada's past for inclusion in a proposed museum.

The group of ladies who served the refreshments at the annual meeting of the Concentrated Milk Producers were thanked and commended. Mrs Albert Kilby, Mrs Hugh Marcellus and Mrs Harold Marriner agreed to judge the costumes at the dance on Friday night.

Subject to the wishes of several mothers who asked that dancing classes be resumed, there was no response from the meeting when it was suggested by the president that a letter be sent Mrs Charron asking if she cared to return to instruct the classes in dancing. The opinion seeming to be the previous project had not been satisfactory, a few mothers present thought they would prefer a private teacher, as apart from the previous venture which was under Community Programmes and Chesterville W.I.

The report on the Ottawa Area Convention given by the district director, Mrs John Sutherland, was both comprehensive and interesting. The members were also reminded of the conference to be held on November 14 in Winchester Town Hall.

Mrs Walter Carruthers convened the programme and introduced Mrs Allison Graham who presented Melanie Fyke, Ann Casselman, Carolyn Durant, Susan Graham and Joyce Marriner in a group of three charming songs to her piano accompaniment.

Mrs Carruthers then called on Mrs Fetterly who read "October Days;" Mrs Myles Merkley, "Summer in the Heart:" Mrs Ken Merkley, "Grace of Gratitude" and Mrs George Merkley, "Things That Count."

Tea was served by the convener, Mrs Carruthers, and Mrs Myles Merkley, Mrs Ken Merkley, Mrs Malcolm Smith, Mrs Tom Moran and Mrs Wilburn Edgerton who, together with the pianists, Mrs James Fyke and Mrs Hugh Marcellus, were thanked by the president for a delightful evening.—S.C.

Trinity United Men's Club Holds Ladies' Night At Monthly Meeting

The last regular monthly meeting of the Men's Club of Trinity United Church took the form of a Ladies' Night. The meeting was in charge of the president, Dr B. W. Lapp, while the minutes were taken by the secretary-treasurer, Mr John Presant. A brief worship service opened the meeting, and was in charge of Dr Lapp, Mr Presant, Mr H. Allison and Rev R. A. Mitchell.

During the business period a report of the executive was presented and adopted, whereby it was agreed that the Club would immediately undertake to raise the sum of $350 to secure a projector and screen. The new projector, which is available for trial purposes, was shown to the members, who later enjoyed its use in the evening's programme. The members of the club were notified that $100 had already been received from one of the church organizations towards the purchase of the machine, along with several generous individual donations.

Folowing the business meeting a short Bible study period was directed by the Rev R. A. Mitchell. Mr Mitchell discussed some of the difficulties which scholars and publishers faced in bringing the Bible to the English reader. He pointed out that the Old Testament was originally written in Hebrew, and the New Testament in Greek; and not only was the work of translation difficult, but the difficulty was agravated since most of the copies available are relatively recent, and in no way get back very closely to the first copies ever penned.

Mr and Mrs Harry Allison led the group in an interesting recreational period. The two films, "Beautiful New Zealand" and "Bronco Busters," were shown, after which the gentlemen served lunch. Mrs Lyle Marcellus thanked the men for their invitation to the ladies, and for the good time that was enjoyed by all.

Receives Sentence For Thetf

Peter Sabourin, no fixed address, last week received a sentence of four years in Kingston Penitentiary for theft of $200 from a man who had taken him into his house and boarded him for 15 years.

Sabourin pleaded guilty to the charge after electing to be tried by the magistrate. Ensuing evidence revealed that eight convictions of theft, false pretences and forgery had been registered against him over a 20-year period.

Sabourin stole $200 from the savings of Clare Garlough. Osnabruck, taking a taxi to Montreal and spending it all there. He later went to city jail, Cornwall, asking for a place to sleep for the night. He was interrogated by constables there about the theft, and admitted that he had stolen the money, but had spent it all.

It was revealed in evidence given the court that Mr Garlough had lodged the accused in his house and fed him over a period of 15 years.
