Reeve G. H. Barkley Explains New Assessment Proceedure

During the past week, ratepayers of this municipality have received either personally from the Assessor or through the mail, their Assessment Notices for the current year. These are the legal notification to the ratepayer of the assessment of his property on which his portion of 1945 taxes will be based. Most ratepayers will doubtless notice, with varying degrees of alarm, that there is a considerable increase in the amount of assessment for this year over any previous year. This is due, of course, to the new Equalized Assessment schedule which applies this year for the first time to every assessable property, village, town and farm, in the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. It has become effective by By-Law of the Counties' Council and is intended primarily to equalize the assessment of all properties in order that the County Tax Rate will be more equally applicable and proportionate in every part of the three Counties concerned.

It is only natural to expect that when the ratepayer received his notice and sees that his assessment has increased perhaps anywhere from 50 percent or 60 percent to more than 100 percent, his first reaction may be expressed somewhat as follows: "Since my assessment is nearly doubled, I'll have to pay almost twice as much taxes as I formerly did." This, of course, is entirely wrong for the reason that the amount of taxes to be levied for any year varies usually very little and, therefore, if the assessment is higher, the tax rate per dollar of assessment will be proportionately lower, and the actual money paid for taxes willl be little or no higher. In other words, the assessment and tax-rate work on a sliding scale so that if one goes up the other goes down, leaving the money required for tax purposes reasonably constant.

It may be interesting to know in a general way on what basis the new equalized assessment is arrived at. It is affected by various things pertaining to the property itself, each of which must be recorded by the assessor at the time of assessment. A comprehensive list of the various points affecting the assessment is supplied the assessor in the form of a Manual issued by the County Assessor and it is the duty of the assessor to list each item. so that by later reference to the Manual he may arrive at the new assessment. Such things as the condition of the property, the type of building, number of storeys, construction, heating system, plumbing appliances, floors, fireplaces, air-conditioning, closed or open verandahs, bay windows, etc., etc.,—all these, together with the valuation of the lot enter into the assessor's computation of the total assessment. On farms, in addition to the above, there are such items as condition, type, size and purpose of out-buildings, location as to highway, acreage, soil cultivated, orchard, pasture or wooded areas, waste land, etc., to be considered. Basic valuations are listed for most types of property with proper and equitable provision made for those above or below the standards listed in the Manual. In most cases, percentages for physical depreciation and for obsolescence are also deductable from the grand total assessed value.

It will therefore be appreciated by all ratepayers that, in order to arrive at the figures found on the Assessment Notices, a great amount of work has been involved. There will doubtless be some errors, some apparent inconsistencies, but these may be rectified by appeal for revision, using the space provided on the back of the Assessment Notice for this purpose. It is hoped, however, that, unless there are glaring discrepancies in anyone's assessment, the number of appeals, will be kept to a minimum. Every consideration has been and will be given to all reasonable claims and no ratepayer need feel that he is being discriminated against in any way. As the Equalized Assessment scheme becomes more and more accepted, it will be seen and agreed to by all that it more nearly approaches the only fair system of arriving at the very purpose for which it was intended.

G. H. Barkley,
Reeve.

IN VANCOUVER HOSPITAL

Mrs. Ralph Hummel has received word that her husband, Flt. Lt. Ralph Hummel, who suffered an injury to his back is progressing favourably in a Vancouver hospital. Flt. Lt. Hummel for the past few months has been at Sandspit, on the Queen Charlotte Islands and at the time of the mishap was on his way by boat to look over some work, when they ran into a severe storm. He is expected home shortly.

Radio Forum News

S. S. No. 10 met at the home of Albert Smith. We understand that, under the new assessment, any farm whose outlet is on a Provincial highway has an extra 10% added. If this is true the municipality should keep the outlet ploughed so that Forum members wouldn't have to walk through snowbanks to reach the farm home. However, 20 members turned out. After Thos. McCadden had passed the hat for collection, he announced that the members had paid $7.35 as their share in helping to keep our Forum Broadcast self-sufficient. Two members who were unable to be present, sent their collection.

The questions were of the 'tough' variety. When passing judgment on the decisions of the UNRRA officials, the members appreciated their position but the majority favoured feeding defeated nations—(one just can't see women and children starve)—but, if payment is to be made by imports, it was felt that only those imports which did not conflict with present or possible Canadian manufacture should be allowed; Also, that the fat bacon and poorer cuts of meat should be used and leave the Canadian consumer some of the better cuts for a change.

After discussion, it was agreed, that if our forum was running the country, immigration of proper persons would be encouraged, opening up, on a broader scale, by private enterprise, Canada's Natural wealth, mines, lumbering, hydro, etc., and that raw products would not be exported but processed at home. This would tend to open up wider domestic markets for farm produce and cut down some of our profitless export trade.

Next Monday is review night and the last meeting until next fall. The forum will meet in the schoolroom with John Sutherland in charge. An official of the British-American Oil Co. will show movies, as an added attraction. The entire school section and interested persons are invited. Bring your own sandwiches and a cup—that is, if you want to eat and drink with the rest of us. The school has not enough cups for a crowd, so bring one with you.

BORN.

FEELEY: On March 12th, 1945, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Feeley (nee Iona Ouderkirk), a son. Both well.

WOUNDED RECOVERING

In a letter written by Ray Smith on February 25th to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rene Smith of Kingston, he told of being wounded by shrapnel three days previous. Although he had suffered wounds in the right hip and leg he said he was O.K. While Ray has been in hospital in Germany his brother Lyle has been in a convalescent camp in Italy six months after being wounded by shrapnel in the right leg on September 13th.

Mrs. Hugh Robinson

On Thursday, March 8th, at the age of seventy, Mrs. Hugh Robinson passed away suddenly, at Elma, in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Egerton Barkley. Although she had been in rather poor health for some time her sudden death came as a shock to her family and friends.

An earnest Christian, and a faithful member of the United Church for many years, Mrs. Robinson was a woman of kindly disposition, sincere character, and steady faith. A devoted mother and capable housekeeper, she tirelessly expended her thought and efforts on behalf of others.

The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon in the Elma United Church with the service conducted by Rev. R.G. Newman, pastor of the church. The Elma quartette sang "The Old Rugged Cross", and a duet, "The Beautiful Garden of Prayer" was sung by Mrs. Bernice Barkley, organist, and Mrs. R.G. Newman.

The pall bearers were Messrs. H. Carruthers, W. Carruthers, H. McMillan, Hugh McMillan, B. Barkley, and Graham McPherson.

Many beautiful and floral offerings were received. (Owing to shortage of space the list will be printed next week.)

Left to mourn her loss are, one son, Hubert, in the Central Mediterranean Forces in Italy; one daughter Helen, (Mrs. Egerton Barkley); four step-sons, two step-daughters, four brothers and two sisters.

MAY JOIN RURAL CHURCH PARISHES

Probably taking a leaf out of the success that has attended the Consolidated School policy the United Church is considering the proposal of larger Church units. Rev. Douglas Bryden of Jerseyville has suggested that two or three rural church parishes or units of the same denomination, lying side by side in a community, might operate more effectively as one unit. He feels that the present situation of Churches has been largely determined by the communication and transportation of horse and buggy days. He points out that within a radius of seven miles from a point in the area where he lives there are 23 churches. The result of this congestion is that numerous churches in small rural areas erous church in small rural areas have weak choirs, Sunday Schools are too small to grade except into beginners. Teacher training classes are not feasible and young people's work is petering out. In this connection the formation of larger units has proved successful in the United States. In the larger units, a superintendent is appointed to supervise all activity within the area. There are several preaching points. A women's worker carries on religious education in the schools and meets with women's groups. Usually a young man who can take his share of responsibility for the conduct of public worship will look after young people's clubs and perhaps general community work.

ONTARIO'S COMMERCIAL FISH BECOME LESS

There is evidence that steps are to be taken to control fishing in the Great Lakes due to the serious depletion of commercial fishing in recent years. A permanent commission comprising Ontario points and eight United States points is contemplated to implement fact finding investigations of which evidence has already been presented. T. A. Golden of Tobermory, representing the Georgian Bay and Lake Huron Commercial Fishermen's Association, advocates extension of planting of relatively mature fry and consideration of placing pike on the game fish list as it is not regarded as valuable commercial variety. Mr. Golden, referring to the Georgian Bay and Lake Huron area, said that in those waters there had been a yearly average from 1933 to 1938 of 1,900,000 pounds caught. In the last recorded year, 1943, this had dropped to 500,000 pounds and it was estimated there was a further reduction of 10 to 15 percent last year. The whitefish catch is down in Georgian Bay to 35 percent of the 1933-38 average. It is agreed that uniformity of Legislation between Ontario and the United States regarding fishing regulations in the Great Lakes may result in the checking of the present serious curtailment in the supply of fresh fish.

THE AIR GUN IS A MENACE

With the advent of Spring the air-gun menace has again become a live topic of discussion. Many people hate to restrict the liberty of young people in this respect but it has been abundantly proven that the unbridled use of such weapons has proved a menace, there being cases on record where eyesight has been impaired by pellets from air guns. Then, too, there is the matter of the protection of the wild birds that add to the enjoyment of summer in this province, the average young man with a gun regarding them as a legitimate prey and easily accessible.

TOTAL FARM INCOME HIGHER

It is a pleasure to be able to report that cash income from the sale of farm products reached a new high in 1944. The estimated returns totalled $1,752 million, an increase of $350 million or 25 percent over 1943, and $1,029 million or 143 percent over 1939. Additional Government payments raise the total farm cash income to $1,817 million for 1944 compared with 1,434 million in 1943. Higher income in 1944 is reported for all provinces except Prince Edward Island. Most notable increases occurred in the West in both grains and livestock. Saskatchewan recorded the largest increase. Substantial increases were recorded from Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec.

FARMERS HELPED BY NEW LOAN ACT

Through the recent proclamation of the Farm Improvement Loans Act Canadian farmers are presented with an inexpensive and convenient method of intermediate credit, that is, credit which is not required for a few months but for intermediate terms up to ten years. For small amounts, loans may be made for a period of a year or so, and up to ten years for the largest amounts.

Under this legislation, farmers may apply at their local banks for 5 percent loans for every kind of farm improvement from a new plough to a dwelling house, provided the amount does not exceed $3,000. There are no service or finance charges, and so far as possible the terms of repayment are flexible, so that they can be adjusted to the individual circumstances of the borrower. For example monthly instalments might be most suitable to a farmer with a steady year-round income, while it might be more convenient for the grain farmer to pay say, twice a year or annually.

While the benefits are available immediately, it may not be possible for farmers to take full advantage of the Act until after the war. When manpower and material shortages disappear and wartime controls are relaxed, the Act will enable farmers to equip their farms with up-to-date machinery and equipment and to make improvements that have had to be deferred during wartime.

The following are the purposes for which loans will be available: (1) purchase of agricultural implements; (2) purchase of live stock; (3) purchase and installation of agricultural equipment or a farm electric system; (4) alteration and improvement of a farm electric system; (5) fencing and drainage; (6) construction, repair or modernization of a farm house and the construction of labourers' cottages and tourist cabins; (7) construction, repair or alteration of other farm buildings; (8) such improvement or development of a farm as land clearing or reclamation, soil conservation and such like.

RED CROSS ACTS FOR YOU

Once a Canadian soldier becomes a casualty or a prisoner of war he becomes a ward of the Canadian Red Cross. Thanks to the people of the Dominion, who make the work of the Society possible, our troops know that they are not forgotten by the people back home.

When a casualty enters a field hospital he has already received the blood of a fellow Canadian, because Red Cross blood serum is a basic treatment for shock, which in the last war lessened the chances for survival for many of the wounded. At the hospital he is met by cheerful girls of the Canadian Red Cross Corps, of which over 500 are now on active service. They give him Canadian cigarettes, candy and chewing gum. But best of all he has a Canadian girl to talk to.

After he has received treatment for his wounds, the girls write letters home for him, provide him with reading matter and the little 'extras' that mean so much. Thousands of letters have reached the Red Cross expressing the gratitude of patients for this service from home.

Should he be moved to military hospital in Britain, the Red Cross girls are again at his side. Red Cross service even includes home-town newspapers, and the girls do shopping for the men in the neighborhood.

On the hospital ship crossing the North Atlantic Red Cross supplies and comforts are available and when he reaches Canada once more, Red Cross Conducting Officers accompany the hospital trains across the country, sending telegrams to next-of-kin and providing fresh fruit, newspapers and ice cream.

The Canadian Red Cross is proud of the service it gives for the Canadian forces but it is only possible to render this aid in accordance with the generosity of our people.

Tragic

PRAISES CANADA'S DRIED EGG POWDER

An unsoliclited tribute of praise for Canada's dried egg powder which since the early part of 1942, has been going to Britain in substantial quantities, was recently received by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in a letter from a woman in Southampton, England. The letter, addressed to "Minister of Food," Ottawa, reads in part as follows:--

"Thank you, Canada for those very specially good dried eggs. Thank you for all the trouble and care in testing, drying and packing. They are such a long way the best dried eggs we have ever had that I am sure you must take very special trouble in preparing them.

"Thank you for getting them to us. We housewives of Britain do appreciate it all and the many, many ways in which you have helped and are helping us, but mostly we have not time to sit down and say thank you. In fact I've been meaning to do so for a long time until at last I said, 'not another spoonful of that good egg powder will I take until I have said thank you' and here I do so now. I say it with my hands still floury and the bread in the oven likely to burn any moment.

"Thank you and God bless you."

Since February 1942 up to the end of 1944 a total of more than 43,000,000 lb. of dried egg powder, the equivalent of about 129,000,000 dozen fresh, have been sent from Canada to the British Ministry of Food by the Special Products Board.

OUTSTANDING FILMS FOR RURAL AREAS

Thousands of Canadians in rural areas are going to be the first to see some of the most absorbing moving pictures taken overseas during this war. The National War Finance Committee, with the co-operation of the National Film Board and independent projectionists, is sending to [illegible] community halls and churches in the country areas of each province a show which matches in interest anything displayed in big theatres of larger centres.

One picture will show how Canadian boys in uniform overseas spend a 48-hour leave behind the front lines; another reel contains the first pictures released by the censors showing how the Allies built and towed across the English Channel the huge docks settled on the shores of Normandy. Then comes a ten-minute film made in Hollywood expressly for the Eighth Victory Loan, starring Allan Ladd, Betty Hutton, William Bendix and Susan Hayward, a brief story light and entertaining, but very thought-provoking. Last but not least, the programme carries pictures taken in London, England, under the terrible attacks of German robot bombs. In this picture one actually watches these jet-propelled bombs approaching the city. One listens as the roaring of the motor becomes silent and watches the explosion as the deadly missile drops not far from the camera. Close-ups are shown as the United aircraft men score hits on some of the robots and as Canadian airmen speed in to explode the bomb in mid air.

Among the supplementary films which are being sent out to augment this Victory Loan programme is one, "Report on German Morale", produced by the U. S. War Department from captured German film. Through this picture the Canadian has his first look at the German people on their home front in war time and learn just how the Nazi party has been able to keep civilians and armed forces in hand during these last difficult months.

ARMOUR OF JUSTICE
By William Shapespeare

What stronger breastplate than a heart untainted!
Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just
And he but naked, though locked up in steel,
Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted.

His Red Cross Mother

FIGHTING through the mud and icy slush of flooded battlefields, our boys in the front line have learned to bless the tens of thousands of devoted women who labor as volunteer workers for the Red Cross.

Through five years of war, these Canadian "Blue Smock" workers have knitted hundreds of thousands of pairs of socks . . . made millions of other comforting articles of clothing —packed millions of Red Cross food parcels. Other specially-trained volunteer women serve as drivers, as nursing aides, as office workers and dietitians.

Freely giving their time and labor, these hard-working volunteers make your Red Cross dollars stretch farther. Thanks to their efforts, each dollar you give is multiplied three times in the value of food, clothing and medical supplies it buys.

GIVE—and give generously, to support their selfless work. Let your contribution to the Canadian Red Cross be the token of your thanks to these devoted women who serve in very truth, as "another mother" to your boy, or your friend or neighbor in the fighting line.

Not There.

There was a timid knock at the door. "If you please kind lady," said the beggar, "I've lost my right leg."

"Well, it ain't here," exclaimed the woman.

PARENTS: Through the mail, shortly after March 22nd, all families will receive a Family Allowances Registration Form. Fill in this form as soon as it is received and mail it back in the envelope in which it came. Please do this promptly —it is in the interests of your children.

The form you will receive is very simple. There are only seven questions and only a few minutes need be required to complete the form, but be sure to answer every question.

Family Allowances are being provided to assist parents in the raising of their children. This monthly allowance is to be used for health protection, for doctors, dentists and nurses; to provide better food, adequate clothing and shelter, and to help equalize opportunities for all children.

INCOME TAX: No one will benefit from both Family Allowances and a full income tax deduction for their children. Parents have the choice of applying for their Family Allowances or not claiming the allowance and claiming the full deduction for their children under Income Tax. If they claim the Family Allowance, the amount of deduction from tax allowed for children under the Income War Tax Act will be reduced by the amount of any Family Allowance received. Anyone who is uncertain whether or not he or she will benefit from Family Allowances more than from Tax Deduction should register for the Family Allowance and in this way be on the safe side. Incomes may change during the course of a year.

THAT modern corner grocery store that serves you and your neighbours didn't just happen.

Back of every such venture, from the days of the "cracker barrel" store, to today's modern groceteria, is an individual with the courage to assume risks and face competition for the privilege of directing his own business.

Recognizing the needs of his community, he strives untiringly to serve . . . he works hard, and in doing so, he prospers. This is free enterprise.

Drama In Everyday Life

A short story I wrote about the hill country where I grew up brought me a letter from a doctor in a place I shall call Crow Hollow, high up in the Great Smokies. The doctor wrote to suggest that I might find other stories in the hill people who lived there and he told me about them. It was the first of many letters I had from him before I found a chance to visit him.

By that time I knew a good deal about his country and its people. He had told me about their Elizabethan speech and folkways, about their old-world ballads, about their humor and their kindness and their swift, fierce anger, about their superstition and ignorance and pride, their patience and courage under pain. Though he wrote little about himself I came to know a good deal, too, about Dr. Seth Gifford. Between the lines of his long letters he gave me a clear vision of the young physician who, almost 40 years before, had turned his back on the safe ease of the low country to serve the mountain people, and a clearer vision of the old doctor who had not yet repented of that choice.

So, when I went up into his high hills, it was Dr. Gifford himself that I really went to see. In those days there was no road at all to that wrinkle in the mountain's high shrugged shoulder, except for steep, boulder-littered creek beds. I had spent a long day on a hired mule before the mail carrier who had been my guide, pointed to a cabin on the far side of a stream, mutely refused the money I offered, and rode on.

A high, thin voice answered my knock. The door opened into a bare, puncheon-floored room with a big fireplace between shelves of books and bottles and surgical instruments. In one corner a ladder went up to an open trap door. The furniture was a great home-carpentered pine table, a few split-hickory chairs and a bed-bunk built against a wall.

Seth Gifford lay in the bunk, his knees drawn up under a patchwork quilt. His face was bitten by time and sun and wind, but I knew that some of the deep lines in it were lines of pain.

"I was wondering, if you'd get here in time," he said slowly, spacing his words apart as if each one taxed his strength. "This appendix of mine isn't going to wait much longer, but there might be time for you to fetch Sim McKee. It's only about a mile, straight up the branch—first house you come to."

"Hold on a minute," he said as I turned to the door. "Sim might be drunk by now, and ornery. He won't want to come, even if he's sober. But he might, if you tell him what I tell you, word for word. Tell him I've got a belly like a board and about all the pain a man can take. My white count's up to 20,000 and my temperature's over a hundred. Repeat it, so I can be sure you've got it right."

I said it over twice before he let me go. I kept on saying it over as I rode up the branch, and I kept wondering too, whether there was any magic in the words that could make Sim McKee a man again, let alone a doctor.

I knew his story from Seth Gifford's letters—the bright hillbilly boy who wanted to be a doctor, who had gone "down yonder" with what help Gifford could give him, to sweat and starve his way through academy and college and medical school. The boy Seth Gifford had counted on to be his partner and successor. The boy who, in his first month of internship, had been dismissed for being drunk on duty, who came home to his bit of land in the Hollow, sullen and silent, refusing, except for a little slipshod farming, to do anything but drink.

I found him squatting in the doorway of a rickety cabin in ragged jeans, shock-haired, with a frowzy stubble of beard. His eyes were frankly hostile. I couldn't see any change in them when I gave him Seth Gifford's message, but he stood up slowly. He was taller than I'd thought and there seemed to be a kind of strength left in him.

"The old fool! Waiting up here for a chronic appendicitis to go acute on him! What does he think I can do about it?"

"I don't know," I said. "All he told me was that maybe when you got his message you'd come down."

"I can do that much," he said.

I wanted him to take the mule but he said he could make better time afoot. He was out of sight before I'd gone a hundred yards. When I got back to Gifford's cabin, Seth Gifford was flat on the big table and McKee was poking at his stomach.

"You old idiot!" McKee said. "You knew this was liable to happen any minute. You knew the thing to do was to go down yonder and have it out. And now—"

"And now you better quit talking and get to work," Gifford gasped. "Unless you're going to stand there and let me die, because you—because you're too scared to do anything about it."

"Scared? Me?" McKee sounded angry. Then, suddenly, his voice changed. "Why do you think that's what's the matter with me?"

"Maybe because it's the matter with all of us, one time or another, if we're any good," Gifford said.

"That's not all," McKee said. "Look at my hands."

Even from the doorway I could see them shake.

"Corn liquor did that to 'em," Gifford said, "and it'll steady 'em. Jar of it on the top shelf. You ought to know by now how much you need."

McKee reached down the jar and filled a tumbler with the white liquor. He drank it as if it were water, tilted the jar again, stopped, set it back on the shelf.

"Might be needing what's left when I get through, worse than I need it now." There was a new sound in his voice, and it seemed to me that he had somehow grown taller. "I had better do it under a local, hadn't I, so you can help if I go wrong?"

"You won't go wrong," Gifford said.

I had never seen an operation and I wasn't any help. There was nothing for me to do but watch McKee's hands. I had no way to judge their skill, but I could see that they did not shake, and it seemed to me that they went surely at their work. And swiftly. There was only a little time of waiting before I heard that new voice of McKee's telling Gifford that it was all right. And in another little while the thing was finished.

We had lifted Gifford back to his bunk and he seemed to be asleep. McKee went over to the shelf. I saw him pull in a deep breath as he reached for the jar and filled the tumbler. But he set it down untouched. "Better save it up for morning," he said. "Time I've sat up all night watching this old fool I'll be needing it worse than now."

"I could sit up with him," I said.

He shook his head. "You wouldn't know what to do. No, sir, you go put your mule in the shed and feed him and then you turn in." He nodded toward the ladder. I did as I was told.

When I came down in the morning he was still in the split hickory chair beside the bunk. I wondered, at first, how sitting up all night could make a man look so much younger and stronger and more alive. And then I saw that he must have borrowed Gifford's razor. Without that stubble on it his face, in spite of the lines about his mouth, was a young man's. And with no fear in it.

The tumbler of white corn whiskey still untouched, was on the shelf.

I can only guess that Seth Gifford knew all along what his sudden desperate need might do for Sim McKee. And for the people whose only hope of ever having a doctor to take Seth Gifford's place hung on his making one for them out of Sim.

It is a long time since Dr. Seth Gifford died, but there is still a doctor in the Hollow. A doctor who will be glad, I think, when he reads what I have written here about him. Except, perhaps, that he may wish I had called Seth Gifford by his real name, even at the price of calling Sim McKee by his.

The Latest Chin.

"Ha, ha," laughed the recruit. "You can't fool me. I know they've got potato-peeling machines in this army."

"Yes, smart chap," replied the sergeant, "and you're the latest model!"

Now Be Quiet

Two sweet young things were discussing affairs of the heart.

"So you've accepted Tom?" said one acidly. "I suppose he didn't happen to mention that he had previously proposed to me?"

"Well, not exactly," replied the other, blandly, "but he did confess that he'd done a lot of silly things before he met me."

Foul Deed.

A Sergeant who was everything a GI wouldn't pray for was out working one day when a sniper's bullet just missed him. He paid little attention, but when another whizzed by and then another, he detailed a couple of men to get the enemy marksman.

The boys crawled away and presently came up with a Boche who, as they caught him, held up his hands and begged for mercy.

"Notta chance, bud," one of the Yanks growled. "Whatcha askin' for mercy for—when ya missed our sergeant three times!"

THE CANADIAN WAY OF LIFE . . .

Down to Earth . . .

GARDENING for the fun of it—week-end trips in the old family jalopy—lazy days fishing by the river—these things still stand for a pleasant way of life—a way of life our men overseas are fighting for today! They won't be able to come back to these simple things, unless we get "down to earth" in our thinking, and make sure when they do come back, their dollar will be worth a dollar!

To protect that dollar, we must realize now, the dangers of careless, unnecessary buying! We must buy only what we need—never buy two where one will do! We must not evade rationing or price control, or deal in black markets. If we break these rules, our country—the country our soldiers are fighting for—will start on that spiral of prices known as inflation.

And inflation affects everyone . . . wage-earner, pensioner, small-business owner, returned soldier! That's why it's important to take a stand against it now. If inflation starts in this country, this is what will happen. Prices will rise. Wages will try to follow along—and will never quite catch up! Soon your dollar—your soldier's dollar—may buy only 25% of the things it used to! That is what has happened in many of the countries of the world today, and that is why normal living for anyone is impossible in those countries!

So let's make sure our soldier's dollar, when he gets back, will be worth a full dollar. We cannot give back to him his lost years or lost youth. But if we keep up the fight against inflation, the man who is overseas can look forward to pleasant, satisfying living . . . to the Canadian way of life!

Make this Pledge Today!

I pledge myself to do my part in fighting inflation:

By observing rationing and avoiding black markets in any shape or form.

By respecting price controls and other anti-inflation measures, and refraining from careless and unnecessary buying. I will not buy two where one will do, nor will I buy a "new" where an "old" will do.

By buying Victory Bonds and War Savings Stamps, supporting taxation, and abiding by all such measures which will lower the cost of living and help keep prices at a normal level.

THE BREWING INDUSTRY ONTARIO

Published by THE BREWING INDUSTRY (ONTARIO) to reveal the dangers of inflation.

The 1945 Call For Poultry Meat

A survey of the domestic and export markets shows that there will be a demand for every pound of Grade A and Grade B poultry meat that can be produced in Canada in 1945. There will not only be a demand for this product in its own right, but the shortage of other meats will accentuate it.

The Executive of the Poultry Industry Committee of Ontario instructed a sub-committee to consult with representatives of the produce trade in order to ascertain what specific and definite information could be given to poultry meat producers—especially as to the prices they should be able to obtain for their birds when they are ready for market.

The following points have been established and they are presented to producers so as to acquaint them with the possibilities of a shortage, to impress upon them that the markets need, and will need, poultry meat, and as a guide in determining the extent of production. The points are:

1. Arrangements have been concluded through which Canada is to supply to the United States Army her surplus up to thirty million pounds of Grades A & B poultry; Chicken 2 lbs. and over; fowl 3 lbs. and over.

2. This huge block of product, besides other exports, leaving the country, means that distributors will be hard pressed to take care of all demands.

3. No cockerel chicks—particularly heavy breeds—that can be raised for poultry meat should be destroyed. They can be grown and profitably sold when finished.

4. The demand will be principally for Grade A and Grade B, Grade C birds are an uncertain quantity at the best and so must suffer a substantial price discount. A large percentage of C's could be turned into a higher grade through proper care, feeding and finishing. This will pay.

5. The members of the produce trade were asked to state prices that producers could feel assured of receiving for chicken during all of 1945 in the light of the present situation, and forecasts. Here are the figures and producers can count on these as what they should ask for—and get—on the basis of dressed weight and grade, f.o.b. country processing plants.

CHICKEN.

Grade A Milk-Fed	30c per lb.
Grade A	28c per lb.
Grade B Milk-Fed	28c per lb.
Grade B	28c per lb.
Grade C	20c per lb.
	(4 lbs and up)

Prices for the first four grades are for all birds weighing two lbs. and over thus allowing a liberal weight range.

Grade C poultry is not wanted and the market for smaller than 4 lb. birds in this grade—as well as for culls—can not be predicted; it never is good. Producers should strive for the higher grades.

This then is definite information for the producer as to his market for poultry meat for 1945. Cockerels should be grown, not destroyed, cooperation to this end between the hatcherymen and their chick buyers would help materially.

ARCTIC CONDITIONS ON BELGIAN AIRFIELD.

Picture Shows: RAF ground crews bombing up RAF Second Tactical Air Force Mitchell aircraft on the snow-covered runway of a Belgian airfield. Extreme cold has made conditions for the ground crews difficult, but the bombing of enemy targets continues.

The present-day sandwich is said to be an unsuccessful attempt to make both ends meat.

NO CHANGE IN MEAT POLICY

There is "no change" in Canada's meat supply situation, the Agriculture Department said when asked if the slash by the United States of shipments to Britain under the lend-lease arrangement might result in rationing again being imposed in Canada to help cover the overseas deficiency.

Canada had contracted this year to ship to Britain 450 million pounds of pork products and 60 million pounds of beef, the same volume as was sent in 1944.

The Canadian supply situation said the Agriculture Department, was such that, if Britain required it, an additonal 290 million pounds of meat could be shipped this year.

Under contract last year to supply Britain with 450 million pounds of pork products, Canada shipped 700 million pounds and while the beef contract specified 60 million pounds, 100 million were sent.

"We can do the same again this year," said an Agricultural Department official, "and last year we were able to lift rationing from the domestic market."

For the time being, it was understood, there is little likelihood of rationing again being imposed, as Canada not only can fill the overseas meat contracts but can ship additional millions of pounds.

BUTTER RATION INCREASED

The Canadian butter ration will be increased from six to seven ounces weekly beginning April 1, restoring a one-ounce reduction put into effect January 1st because of inadequate stocks, the Prices Board has announced, last Monday.

The announcement quoted K. H. Olive, administrator of Dairy Products, as saying that the reduction during the Winter months, introduced to ensure that supplies would last until Spring, has resulted in elimination of the shortage and the increased allowances is being made in line with board policy of adapting the ration to available supplies.

The validity date of coupon No. 104, originally scheduled for May 3, will be advanced to April 26, making one butter coupon valid each Thursday during April. Validity dates of subsequent coupons will be announced later.

Under the present butter rationing plan, butter coupons have no expiry date, and need not be used until the butter is actually needed.

Missed

About to travel to India, an Englishman was told by friends to be sure not to miss the tiger shooting.

"It's no trick at all," they said. "You hide in a thicket at night; when the beast arrives aim between its two eyes, shining in the dark. It will fall as if struck by lightning."

On his return they asked how many tigers he had killed.

"None at all," he replied sadly. "They've become altogether too clever. They now travel in pairs, and each one closes an eye—so, of course—"

The Censor's Dream

The following was written by a service man in answer to queries from his friends as to his whereabouts and occupation:

"After leaving where we were, we left for here. Not knowing we were coming from there to here, we could not tell if we would arrive here or not. Nevertheless we are here and not there.

"The weather here is just as it usually is at this season, but, of course, it is quite unlike the weather where we were at before we left for here.

"After leaving by what we left behind we had a good trip. The people here look just like they look.

"The whole thing is quite a new experience here, because it is not like it was where we came from. Even the lands and camps are quite unlike the lands and camps we had where we were.

"I really must stop this newsy letter before I give away too much valuable information, as the censor is liable to be a spy."

multiply by millions!

You've often watched the teller stamp your cheque. Every day, in every branch of every bank in Canada, cheques are being scrutinized, stamped and recorded. During the war years, this daily flow of cheques through your bank has swollen to a torrent. Deposit accounts are more numerous and active than ever before. This increase reflects the tremendous activity of Canadian life and business. Production, purchases and payrolls have all reached record levels.

In addition, three-quarters of a million men and women in the armed services must get their pay, and their dependents receive allowances regularly.

The handling of this wartime volume of cheques is quite apart from numerous special services which the banks have undertaken—the delivery of millions of Victory Bonds and the sale of countless War Savings Certificates; ration coupon banking; subsidy payments to producers; foreign exchange operations.

Yet all this extra work has been carried out at a time when new help has had to be trained to take the place of more than 8,500 bank workers now in uniform.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! In these busy times many of us have added the "lunch box" to our daily tasks; others find themselves preparing two or three every day instead of one.

The lunch box is an important responsibility—on it depends to a great extent the energy and efficiency of the school child or war worker.

Therefore it must be made both nourishing and attractive. Here are a few suggestions to accompany a thermos of soup, cocoa, tea or coffee, on these chilly days.

SANDWICHES

You might try these recipes to introduce variety. Whatever the fillings used, be sure to wrap each kind individually in wax paper.

BEEF LOAF

1½ lbs. round steak, 2 eggs, 1½ cups bread-crumbs, 2 tbsps. chopped parsley, ½ tsp. pepper, 2 tsps. salt, 1 tsp. celery, 1 tbsp. poultry dressing or onion.

Grind the beef. Mix it thoroughly with the unbeaten eggs, bread-crumbs, chopped parsley, pepper and salt. Place in a loaf pan and press firmly until it is molded to the shape of the pan. Bake in a moderate electric oven (350 deg. to 375 deg.) for about two hours. Cut in thin slices.

CHEESE AND EGG SPREAD

1 tbsp. fat, 1 tsp. grated onion, 1½ tbsps. flour, 2 tbsps. sugar, ¼ tsp. mustard, 2 hard-boiled eggs, chopped, ½ tsp. salt, ¾ cup milk, 1 tbsp. vinegar, 2 cups grated cheese.

Melt fat and cook onion in it for 1 minute. Add flour, sugar, mustard and salt and stir till well blended. Add milk. Cook, stirring constanty until mixture thickens. Add vinegar and cheese. Continue cooking until cheese melts and mixture is smooth. Add eggs and cool. Store in a covered jar in a cold place. Makes 2¼ cups filling.

TO STRETCH BUTTER

Cream ½ pound butter till light and fluffy. Gradually beat in ½ cup milk, using a dover egg beater. Store in a covered jar in electric refrigerator.

DESSERTS

Cookies, carefully wrapped in wax paper, make a good accompaniment to fruit in season, which is always welcome and easily carried. Puddings and custards, made to serve at home, may also be included in the lunch box if packaged in custard cups. These standbys may be alternated with a serving of cake or pie, placed on card board, then enclosed in wax paper.

OATMEAL CRINKLES.

1|3 cup fat, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 cup pastry flour, ¼ tsp. salt, 1 cup rolled oats, ½ tsp. baking soda, ¼ cup warm water, ¼ tsp. allspice.

Cream fat and sugar thoroughly. Add allspice. Mix flour, salt and rolled oats. Add alternately with the warm water in which soda has been dissolved. This makes a stiff dough. Drop by teaspoonfuls into a greased cookie sheet and flatten with a fork. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 deg., 10 to 12 mins. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

TAKE A TIP

1. Here's a snack you should try some morning at home. Make up any left-over coffee to one cupful by adding some hot water to it. Put this in a saucepan and add 1 square of baking chocolate, 2 tsps. sugar, a pinch of salt and boil 3 minutes—add a cup of milk and it's ready. (You may put it all in the double boiler right after breakfast in fact, and let it simmer for 15 minutes then cover and let stand on the clement turned off.)
2. To keep food hot throughout a staggered meal hour use casseroles for meats, vegetables and desserts and an enamelled pitcher for gravy. These all go back into a large shallow pan with a little hot water in it on the oven shelf to keep the food hot but not dried out. Then when the next one comes in its easy to lift them out wipe off and place back on the table. Oh, and another thing, use a tray to carry them all on, making one trip do.

Here's the situation: Makers of telephone equipment have been busy on orders of all kinds for the armed services. For them, the time to start reconverting still lies ahead. Even after war needs have been met, these manufacturers must make a major change-over before they can resume normal production of supplies for civilian use . . . Which means that we must continue to defer many requests for telephone service, awaiting the day (we hope it may not be too long delayed!) when materials in adequate volume and skilled manpower again become available. The applications on our waiting list will be filled as promptly and fairly as possible, on a first-come-first-served basis.
