Woman Fatally Injured Fell From Automobile

Last Sunday afternoon as an automobile was entering the lane on the farm of Bruno Quesnel, three miles west of Crysler, Mrs. Parthenais of Cornwall, mother of Mrs. Quesnel, fell from the car when a door flew open, crashing her head against a large tree in the lane. She was severely injured and after attention by Dr. Justus was rushed to Hotel Dieu hospital in Cornwall in Harry Henderson's ambulance. It has since been reported that Mrs. Parthenais has passed away.

School Opens Tuesday Sept. 5th

The staff for 1944-5:

Mr. E. E. Maybee, principal and teacher of Mathematics and Physical Culture.

Mr. Gordon Wragg, teacher of Scientific Agriculture and Shopwork; Miss Mary Stortz, teacher of Latin and French; Miss Hilda Ower, Teacher of English and Girls' Physical Culture; Miss Edith Lyons, teacher of History and Home Economics.

The following students have won Honour Graduation Diplomas (Grade 13).

Arnold Barrett, James Carr, Gerald Droppo, Wm. Hough, Marjorie Masterson, Queenie McPhail, Lester Summers. These students all obtained standing on work directly related to agriculture and are required to submit statements showing 13 weeks of Farm service as soon as possible.

Last week we omitted the standing of Sister M. Avita, whose grade in 13 English Literature is First Class Honours.

Students are requested not to buy school texts out of town in order to be sure of getting the newest revised texts. Some books, used last year, will not be used in the school in the coming term.

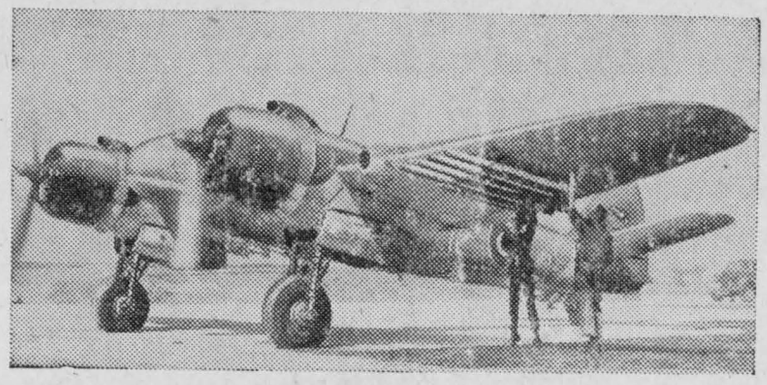
(1) A student must have the Secondary School Graduation Diploma which means that he has passed in Grades XI and XII in English, History, Mathematics, French, Latin and Science. The requirements for Toronto University, are the same if a student seeks to enter Queen's from this point he must have an average of 66% on these papers. This is called entrance by pass matriculation.

(2) Entrance by honour matriculation means that he shall have passed in four or five of the Grade XIII courses in English, Latin, History, Mathematics (Algebra, Geometry, Trigonometry, and Problem French, Physics, Chemistry and Biology.

Applied Science: The Honour Matriculation requirements are English, Mathematics, (Algebra, Geometry and Trigonometry with 60 percent average). Physics and Chemistry and one of Latin, French, History or Biology. Toronto University today requires 75 percent in Mathematics for applied Engineering.

Medicine—XIII English. Mathematics (two of Ag. Geom. Trig.) One of Latin or French (or any other modern language). One of Chemistry, Physics, Botany or Zoology. One of History or another Math. or Science paper.

The inability of many students to attend college is not due so much to lack of finance as it is due to not completing full work in Middle School. It should be fully understood that no university will accept a student from Upper School (grade XIII unless he has the Grade X and XII work complete. Thus he does not require grade XIII Latin for most courses in college but he must have completed the work in it in Middle School. The same is true for French. In larger schools Spanish or Italian or German could be taken instead of Latin.



RAF BEAUFIGHTERS EQUIPPED WITH ROCKET PROJECTILE

Beaufighters of the RAF Coastal Command have been attacking enemy shipping off the Norwegian and Dutch coasts with a new weapon—Rocket Projectiles.

Photo Shows: Only after the engines have been revved up and the aircraft is about to taxi off are the rocket projectiles fused. Ground crews are shown fusing these rockets just before the take-off.

WOUNDED SECOND TIME IN FRANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Amos. Liscumb have been informed that their son Pte Stirling Liscumb has been rewounded in action in France. A short time ago Pte Liscumb was reported wounded and although the nature of the wounds at that time were not stated they were apparently not serious. A cable has also been received from the wounded man stating his wounds were caused by a rifle bullet on the left side of his face.

LOCAL BOWLERS ELIMINATED

Founder of Philathea Class Honoured By The Class

The Philathea Class of Trinity United church held a special meeting on Wednesday, August 30, at the home of Mrs. A. B. Clayton, when the guest of honor was Mrs. T. Houlehan, the charter president of the class. Thirty-six ladies enjoyed a delicious dinner after which the president, Mrs. Geo. Cass, took charge of the programme. Mrs. Ingram Cross read a number of inspirational selections and a solo was rendered by Mrs. W. N. Fulton. Mrs. Wright reviewed the aims and purposes of Philathea Bible classes and extended an invitation to all present to be with the class on Sunday morning. Mrs. W. N. Fulton read the following address:

Chesterville, Ont.,
August 30, 1944.

Dear Mrs. Houlehan:—

We, the members of "Philathea" are gathered here this evening to do honor to the one who organized our class some twenty-two years ago. As we look back over the years we remember many qualities which endeared you to us, and to the class you so faithfully led. We think of the time, the effort and the untiring energy which you gave to the planning of each and every meeting; we remember the class spirit;—the beneficial results we each derived therefrom;—the ties that bound us on common grounds and held us so close; as we tried to work in God's vineyard. We shall always remember your efforts in our behalf—your love, your patience, your understanding, and your spirituality. Surely it has anchored many of us and the work has held, we are still carrying on. Many of the Members have entered the eternal world and many have taken up their cross in other fields of labour—but we trust wherever they are tonight, all, are remembering and cherishing fond memories of Chesterville Philathea.

We are delighted to have you with us again, so we take this opportunity to pass on to you a little of the esteem and love, we shall always retain in our hearts for you. Please accept this gift, and think of your old friends often, as you have gone to reside in the place of your choice.

Signed on behalf of the Philathea class members,

Pres., Mrs. Geo. Cass; Sec. Mrs. Clayton; Teacher, Mrs. Wm. E. Wright.

Mrs. Houlehan expressed her thanks for the kind sentiments contained in the address and for the handsome bed-throw which was presented on behalf of the class by Mrs. Wes. Cross.

The president extended thanks to Mrs. Clayton and to all who had assisted and the meeting was brought to a close by the reciting of the class benediction.

Popular Morewood Girl Showered By Friends

A miscellaneous shower was held in the United Church Hall, Morewood, Monday evening, August 28th, in honour of Miss Sybil Dillabough.

The hall was tastefully decorated with pink, blue and white streamers, cut flowers and white wedding bells.

After a social half-hour, including vocal solos by Mrs. T. McCord of Hamilton, the bride-elect was presented with a corsage. Miss Jean Bogart read an address and the many gifts were presented to the bride-elect in an artistically decorated wagon drawn by little Miss Marilyn Steinburg and Master Larry Babcock.

Miss Dillabough expressed her appreciation, and all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Lunch was served by the hostess—Mrs. Len Babcock, Mrs. James Cheney, Mrs. James Lambert, Mrs. Ralph Steinburg, Miss Doreen Campbell, Miss Jean Bogart and Miss Marjorie Faulkner. Mrs. Harold Faulkner presided at the tea table. More than one hundred and thirty guests signed the bride's book.

Among the gifts was a mahogany coffee table from the members of the United Church choir.

KILLED IN ACTION

Mr. and Mrs. Rene Smith of Kingston, have been advised that their son Pte Bert had been killed in action in France. He was the middle son, Lyle being older and Ray the younger. All are overseas, the former now in Italy, where he has made quite a name for himself athletically.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith recently had the pleasure of seeing Lyle in a news reel at a Kingston theatre when he was shown as the champion high jumper of the forces in Italy. Ray recently arrived overseas.

SMALL BOY HAS HEAD CUT

Tuesday morning last as Allison Graham was moving his truck away from a platform at Farnham Allison's his little son Charlie received a hard blow on the head. The little lad apparently was standing with his hand on the truck when it was moved and fell from the platform to the ground. Dr. Justus was quickly summoned and it was feared that the child's skull had possibly been fractured and he was rushed to Cornwall hospital. No fracture was found and he was returned to his home.

Everything Ready For Fair Wednesday

Wednesday next week will see the thirteenth annual exhibition of Chesterville and District Agricultural Society in this village. Many improvements have been made at the Fair Grounds since last year making for the better showing of the animals. Entries have been well up to the usual number at this date and it is expected it will exceed former years.

The track is said to be in first class condition for the trials of speed and many horsemen have signified their intention of being on hand.

For the first time the Ayrshire breeders of Dundas-Grenville will stage a Red and White Day at which the members of the Ayrshire Club have promised a large display of thei favorite cattle. Last year it was the Holstein breeders who staged a similar display with the greatest success.

The society prizes are very liberal at this show, supplemented by generous special prizes in all classes. Its tide you had a holiday, come to the show next Wednesday

YOUR RELIGION NOT LIKE OTHERS

While the proposed course in religious education to start in the public schools on September 5th is not particularly comprehensive and certainly not onerous it is enough of a touchy subject to develop controversy. It will be recalled by "old timers" that the few extracts from Holy Writ introduced in pamphlet form by Sir George W. Ross, as Minister of Education, almost set the heather on fire and politics being of that dynamite character it was sneeringly referred to as the "Ross Bible" and was eventually withdrawn from publication, if a few non-controversial verses from the Book of Books can properly be referred to as "publication." The present Minister of Education seems not unmindful of the fact that the new course is one calling for careful handling. It is proposed to devote two half-hour periods a week to religious education and the instruction will be given by the teacher except in those cases where a resolution of the school board requests the services of a clergyman. A teacher who has conscientous scraples may be exempted from teaching the prescribed course, upon notifying the school board in writing. The regulations also set out that the Minister of Education may grant to a board exemption from the teaching of religious education in any classroom or school, provided the board shall request in writing such exemption and shall submit reasons therefor. The subject is compulsory only for the children of those who desire such instruction to be given and for those who do not claim exemption. For those children who will be receiving instruction from the teacher, the course is prescribed to ensure that the teaching will not be sectarian in character, but that the fundamental truths of religion upon which there is substantial agreement among all branches of the Christian faith will be presented. A teacher's manual dealing with general methods of instruction has been prepared by the Department of Education and will be placed in the hands of teachers at the opening of the school term. A booklet containing the words and music of approved hymns for school will also be provided. The new course will come into effect for grades one and two and it will be introduced into the other grades of the public school one grade at a time as the teachers' guides become available. It is provided that the school day shall be opened with religious exercises consisting of the reading of the Scriptures and the repeating of the Lord's Prayer or other prayers approved for use in schools.

400,000 POUNDS OF JAM

The Ontario Women's Institutes and the Red Cross Society having ascertained that the people of Great Britain are very fond of jam, it is proposed under the "Jam for Britain" project to ship tons of this delectable material overseas in the next few months. The women when they undertake a task don't do things by halves. Donations of money, jam and honey have already been sent from more than 90 Red Cross branches and practically every Women's Institute in the Province. Money contributed thus far, $3,800, is used for the purchase of factory-made jam for areas where it is not practical to prepare home-made jams. The Government is allowing sugar for this project which it is expected will supply 400,000 pounds of jam from Canada for the civilian victims of war in Britain, Canadian troops in hospitals and British wartime nurseries. Ontario's share in the amount will be 250,000 pounds.

FAIRS WILL SHOW MADE-OVERS

During the tense apprehensive days of the war, Country Fairs received somewhat scant attention and many of them, like unto the great leader, the Canadian National Exhibition, were cancelled for the duration. With the tide of victory definitely turned in favor of the Allies and the Nazi hordes fleeing to the doubtful sanctuary of Germany, interest is being revived, not only in Fairs but also in other social attractions that found favor before the War. A propos of all this, beginning at Kenora and continuing at more than 100 Ontario country fairs the Consumer Branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will turn the Spotlight on the women of Canada for their help in supporting home-front defences against inflation. A special women's feature of these fairs will be booths set up by local consumer branch committees and women's divisions of agricultural societies presenting displays of remade clothing and grocery exhibits illustrating comparative prices between 1920 and 1944. These booths will pay particular tribute to "Mrs. Canada" for paying no more than ceiling prices; for conserving food and clothing; cooperating with storekeepers; observing ration regulations and buying only what she really needs. Exhibits of remade clothing will encourage women to make-over and make-do, demonstrating either with real remakes or by photographs, something of the art of remodelling the family's clothes to approximate 1944 fall and winter styles. Booklets giving specified pattern numbers and hints on restyling and recutting will be distributed by consumer branch representatives at fairs where remake exhibits are arranged. Several of the larger fairs will feature the new 1944-45 Remake Revue.

SAVING THE TURNIP

The Ontario Agricultural College which is soon to be taken over by the University of Toronto and divorced from politics has developed a spraying method of control of water core or brown heart in table turnips. Nearly 300 acres, in small plots, were sprayed last year, incuding about 25 acres in Wellington County. In every case where the spraying was done early enough and by the method prescribed, control of the disease was obtained. The disease appears as water-soaked, firm patches in the flesh, and these areas may increase in size until all the turnip is affected. Some Wellington County farmers have had repeated trouble with water core, and on some farms one field will be infected while another is free from the disease. This is because it is not a disease that spreads but is due to faulty nutrition, caused by lack of boron in the soil. The method of feeding borax to the plants through the leaves by spraying was developed at the college. The spray is a mixture of borax, orvus and coarse bentonite clay.

SNAPSHOTS RAISE MORALE.

Servicemen like to have pictures of their families in familiar home surroundings rather than against the formal studio background. Every branch of the Y.M.C.A., in base towns or even mobile canteens, is acting as an order office to supply such pictures. The men make their applications, which are forwarded to London headquarters. Then a corps of 1,500 amateur photographers goes into action. They are volunteers who joined this scheme and who, in their spare time, visit the homes of servicemen to take snapshots. Even Gen. Montgomery has taken advantage of the plan. One of the amateur photographers visited his son's school and, at Montgomery's request, forwarded the latest snapshot of the boy.

Fashion Note

A serious wartime problem the girls are facing is selecting gowns that will look well with either a soldier or a sailor.

Thoughtful.

The new convict—he was a Harvard man—summoned the warden to his cell.

"Warden," he complained, "I don't like the food here. I don't like my quarters. And what's more, I don't like the type of work I've been given."

"Any thing else you don't like?" inquired the warden, grimly.

"Yes," added the convict heatedly. "I don't like this early-to-bed ruling. And also I don't like your face."

The warden tried to control his temper.

"Anything else you don't like?" he snapped.

The prisoner shrugged.

"That's all for the time being," he murmured. "I don't want you to think I'm unreasonable!"

5TH ARMY: THE ANZIO BRIDGEHEAD OFFENSIVE

British and American Forces launched their successful offensive from the Anzio Bridgehead on May 23rd, 1944. The assault began with a violent barrage from over 1000 guns, under cover of which the Infantry moved forward to break the German ring round the Bridgehead.

FORGET IT
Anonymous

IF you see a tall fellow ahead of a crowd,
A leader of men marching fearless and proud,
And you know of a tale whose mere telling aloud
Would mean that his head must in anguish be bowed,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a skeleton hidden away
In a closet and guarded and kept from the day
In the dark; and whose showing, whose sudden display,
Would cause grief and sorrow and lifelong dismay,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

If you know of a thing that will darken the joy
Of a man or a woman, a girl or a boy
That will wipe out a smile, or the least way annoy
A fellow, or cause any gladness to cloy,
It's a pretty good plan to forget it.

Clever.

"What is the most useful creature in the world to mankind," asked the teacher.

"A hen, sir!" replied Freddie.

"A hen," echoed the teacher. "How do you make that out?"

"We can eat it before it is born, and after it is dead!" exclaimed the boy.

SMALL SAVINGS RAISE A TOTAL OF $12,000,000,000

The wartime savings of the small investor in Britain amounted to $12,000,000,000 as of the end of July. This great total announced by the National Savings Committeee, represents "small" savings only and it is made up of money invested in Savings Certificates, in Defence Bonds, and in increased deposits in the Post Office and Trustee Savings Banks. A third of this tremendous amount came in 15 months, whereas it took 22 months to pile up the first third and 18 months to accumulate the second. During the last war, savings were considerably less, but the savings facilities then were not nearly as extensive as they are today. There were then some 42,000 savings groups, while now there are over 300,000.

That's a Question

Memory training by association became a fad in a certain school. "For instance", the English teacher was explaining, "if you want to remember the name of a poet, Bobbie Burns, you might conjure up in your eye a picture of a London policeman in flames. You see, 'Bobbie Burns'."

"I see," said one of the pupils, "but how is one to be sure that it doesn't represent 'Robert Browning'?"

PROFIT IN POULTRY FLOCK IS GOVERNED BY QUALITY

Selection is the basis of successful poultry operation, and quality not quantity is the factor that will eventually determine the profit that may be made from the poultry flock, says W. T. Scott, Head Poultryman, Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ont.

In September it is necessary to decide on the number of pullets that will be kept and to select from the range those that will comprise the flock for next year's work. As one hundred good pullets may lay more eggs than two hundred poor ones, the importance of selecting only those of good quality will be readily recognized.

To a great extent successful selection will depend on the operator's experience and power of observation though the promising bird carries unmistakable signs of quality, chiefly by her size and maturity. Pullets hatched before the end of April should be laying or closely approaching that condition before it is necessary to bring them in off the range. Those approaching maturity are readily recognized by their full coat of glossy feather, reddening comb, bright eye, and the spreading of the pubic bones at each side of the vent.

All the birds should be handled and examined individually and those showing slow growth of feather, immaturity, or any physical defect should not be kept under any circumstance. Unthrifty birds take up feed, space, and labour that should be spent on a profitable laying bird. The weakling is a menace to the rest of the flock. It is often the medium of infection and disease.

Though governed to some extent by date of hatch, feed and environment, early maturity and all round quality are the result of good breeding. In the Barred Plymouth Rock flock on the Experimental Station at Harrow the average age of maturity or first egg is five months for April hatched pullets. Generally pullets hatched later than April are not only later in reaching maturity but take longer, consequently they are more expensive to raise.

Cost of production increases in proportion to the number of birds of poor quality in the flock and the time to cut the poor bird liability is now.

Animal Lover

The Sunday school lesson had been upon the parable of the prodigal son. The teacher wished to impress upon the children the mean disposition of the elder brother who "would not go in."

"Now," she said, "in the midst of all this rejoicing at the return of the prodigal, there was one who was unhappy. While the others were bright and glad, he was sad, and who was he?"

"The fatted calf?" called out a small boy.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYERS AND THEIR MALE EMPLOYEES

By an order signed on August 15th, 1944, by the undersigned Minister of Labour under authority of National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations:

1. Commencing August 22nd, 1944, every employer is required to check the documents held by each newly engaged male employee, within 7 days of the employee's engagement, to determine if such employee possess documents to show that he is in good standing under National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (that is, in relation to the Military Call-up);

2. Every employer must report on Schedule 9 to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division, concerning any employee found not to possess documents as refererd to;

3. Every employer is required similarly to check the documents held by each male employee newly engaged between May 1st, 1944, and August 22nd, 1944, and to report to the Registrar for his Mobilization Division by August 29th, 1944, on any such employee found not to possess documents as referred to;

4. Any male employee here referred to, is required by the Regulations to present his documents to his employer for purposes of inspection;

5. Penalties are provided for any employer or male employee who fails to comply with these Regulations.

By an earlier order, employers were required to check the documents held by their male employees, and to report by May 1st, 1944, on doubtful cases as well as cases where employees did not possess documents. The procedure for the present continuing check, although being notified to employers in "Notice to Employers and their Male Employees", which is now being mailed, is identical with that set forth in "Employers' Guide", which covered the check made before May 1st, 1944.

Employers are asked to remember that they do not report on men who do possess the necessary documents—only on those who fail to present documents for examination, or where there is doubt that the document presented actually proves good standing.

The employers of Canada co-operated very satisfactorily on the first check, made up to May 1st last. This co-operation was decidedly helpful, and is very much appreciated. Further co-operation is now earnestly requested.

Schedule 9 and details as to documents which prove good standing, are available through the Employment and Selective Service Offices.

VAUNTED 7TH ARMY RUSTS

Many Bandsmen Come From Salvation Army

With growing concern for the increase in juvenile delinquency, The Salvation Army provides, and has provided for many years, safe, effective antidotes to benefit children in all walks of life.

Great stress is placed by The Salvation Army upon young people's activities. For the young, beginning with the Cradle Roll. There are Cubs and Brownies, Scouts and Guides to give young folk the much-needed and wholesome outlets for high spirits and youthful energies.

The importance of music is stressed, and thousands of children, between the ages of 8 and 15 are being taught to sing and play various instruments in the junior music groups. The Army is proud of its boy and girl instrumentalists, many of whom attend vacation music camps where under highly trained leaders they develop into accomplished musicians and later augment the numbers of senior bandsmen and 85,000 songsters.

Many hundreds of Salvation Army-trained bandsmen have left civilian life behind and have made a name for themselves in the bands of the Navy, the Army and the RCAF. Ask in any band and you will find bandsmen who received their training in Savation Army combinations.

Corps Cadet training covers a six-year course of study which fits hundreds of young people for lives of Christian service. Youth groups attached to Salvation Army Corps, provide education, entetainment and social diversion.

In an effort to build strong characters and to maintain high moral standards, Th Army's program develops many exceptional talents and much self-reliance among young people, and is a recognized force in combatting the alarming rise in the problems of juvenile delinquency.

At the front, a father's thoughts grow tenderly anxious when he thinks of his youngsters and the added burdens a mother must bear in wartime. When his wife writes: "Mary is so happy and interested in The Salvation Army Girl Guides," or "Tommy had such a good time at The Salvation Army Fresh Air Camp," he rejoices that The Salvation Army is still in action on the home front.

Your gifts to the Army of Mercy through its Red Shield Home Front Appeal, go a long way towards making the continuance of this fine work possible.

LONE RECONNAISSANCE BY CARP MAN LEADS TO BRIDGING SEINE

A daring lone reconnaissance mission by Lieut. Harold Vodden of the Royal Canadian Engineers, who comes from the Carp area of Eastern Ontario, led to the first bridging of the Seine by the Canadian Army.

Vodden's orders were to find a suitable location on the Seine where the advancing Canadians could throw a bridge over the wide river. So he drove east in a jeep beyond the leading infantry battalions and into a country where no Canadian troops had ever been.

When he neared the river he met armored cars of the Manitoba Dragoons who had come from another direction. He continued to operate alone, reached the river, then scouted along the banks for miles until he found a good spot for a bridge. Much of the reconnaissance had to be done on foot in broad daylight.

Finally he got back word to his headquarters. Sapper companies and bridging material rolled up to the area right behind infantry as they pushed to the river. Ten hours later the Seine was bridged at the point Vodden had chosen.

MOVEMENT OF LABOR FROM DISTRICT TO WEST STOPPED

To prevent the complete stripping of experienced labor from Ottawa Valley farms, no more agricultural workers will be permitted to leave this section of Eastern Ontario for the Prairie harvest fields.

This was announced this morning from the office of Deputy Labor Minister and Selective Service Director Arthur McNamara.

Over the past two weeks some 5,500 workers have left the east, on the Government-sponsored excursions for the west to help with the Prairie harvest.

Of these around 400 came from the Ottawa Valley farms.

"Those 400", it was explained, "are about all who can be spared from this area of Eastern Ontario without creating a farm labor shortage here."

While no more experienced agricultural labor will be permitted to go West from Eastern Ontario, the Prariie harvest excursions remain open to civil servants, college students, office employes and others not listed as farm workers.

Three years ago Mr. McNamara organized the first wartime harvest excursions credited at that time with getting Prairie farmers through the peak of the farm labor shortage.

ANIMALS AT THE BAR

In spite of the war, we are living in a rather humane world. People like animals and go to considerable lengths to keep them and defend them.

In the past few days, dogs, roosters and goats have all had their time in court in Vancouver. The owner of a rooster was fined for allowing his lusty bird to disturb the sleep of the neighborhood.

A dog that was accused of barking too much was given a reprieve of a week in which to help his owner find witnesses in his favor. A number of goats received a clean bill of health in the rental court.

Grantley

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Johnston of Toyes Hill, were Sunday guests at the Robinson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilburn Robinson spent Tuesday in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Pliny Fetterly, Mrs. Chas. Lant, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Antoine, all of Cornwall were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Kittle.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith and little daughter Lillian, Newington, spent Sunday evening at the Kittle home.

On Tuesday evening, August 22, amid flowers and brilliant lights, Grantley folk gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mason Robinson to honor their son Wilburn and his bonnie fair bride, the former Natalie Fetterly of Morewood. An upstairs room was reserved for the wedding gifts, which were very pretty and useful, an indication of the popularity of this young couple. A social time was spent by those present and at a proper moment the bridal couple were called to the floor, when an address was read by Mr. Wen McMillan and the presentation of two lovely chairs and a coffee table was made by Willis Darling, Grant McMillan and Alex Gordon. The groom responded in a very neat speech and after singing, "For They are Jolly Good Fellows," lunch was served and soon "the lights were out and gone were all the guests."

MAIMED RACCOON FOUND IN RENFREW

While hanging out clothes frrm the elevated platform of the rotary clothesline in her back yard Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. G. L. Burwell, Ann street, Renfrew, noticed what she believed to be a large dead cat in the grass at the edge of the garden. Examination revealed, not a dead cat, but a young raccoon full of life and spirit, despite an injured hind leg.

Placed with difficulty in a box and given food the raccoon showed fight to such an extent that Mrs. Burwell promptly named it Monty. To make matters worse the family cat, a large Maltese took umbrage at the attention shown the racoon and displayed a streak of jealousy.

Realization of the trouble she was likely to encounter if she harbored the racoon until its injury was mended she called Game Overseer T. A. Stafford and he took Monty in tow but not without the aid of a gauntlet and chain.

LOAD OF HAY BURNS WITH WAGON

Considerable damage was caused in a freak fire on Highway 29, some two miles from Smiths Falls yesterday, when a match, allegedly thrown from a passing car, ignited a load of hay, the wagon and load being destroyed.

The load of hay and wagon was in charge of Bert Lumsden, who was driving with Bob Evoy also riding the load. Harold and Carmen Lumsden were following in a car and halted when some hay fell from the wagon. They declared a match was thrown from a passing truck, igniting the hay which blazed up quickly and gave them barely time to unharness the horses.

"HAND MILKING" IS ON THE WAY OUT, TOO!

The Modern Milking Machine has won the favor of Dairymen

Freedom from the time-taking, tiring and tiresome chore of hand milking has come to thousands of dairymen through the perfection of the modern milking machine.

The milking machine saves hours of time and labor, making easier and quicker work of a task that has long been considered as "taking a lot of the joy out of life." In these times of help shortage, it has been the milking machine that has enabled many a dairyman to keep the monthly cheques for milk and cream coming in as usual and to benefit from the great demand for dairy products.

To users of milking machines, doing the job by hand is a thing of the past—to them hand-milking belongs to the days when grain was sown broadcast by hand and crops were harvested with the sickle and the cradle.

Vaunted 7th Army Rusts And Rots In Normandy

I drove for miles through the most fearful cemetery that Western Europe has ever known and only saw a fraction of it. This was the cemetery of the 7th German Army, or that considerable portion of it which was trapped in the Normandy gap and slaughtered. There died an army. There died Hitler's last hope of holding the Allies. It lies rusting and rotting in byroads and fields, in lanes and orchards with a horrible finality.

We only wish Hitler might be made to see every mile of these stinking miles of death, of the pitiable impotence of the gray men with the black faces lying in the churned mud, of these men whom he willed to their slaughter, as he willed the slaughter of so very many men, women and children who only wanted to live their little lives in peace.

Unparalleled Havoc

I only wish that all men who dream of war, who talk of glory or the grave, who aim at conquest through killing, might see these charnel fields of Normandy. They would have to see it now and soon, for not only are the human dead being buried and the animal dead being burned but nature is already beginning to assert her power to cleanse her earth of this foul thing.

Never, surely, has so much havoc to men, animals and machines been packed into such space. Some roads are impassable with the mass of smashed German machines and materials and detours have to be made through fields.

In other places, in order to let through the onrush of our mighty military machine which is pounding and hounding Hitler to his early doom, bulldozers have simply pushed the smashed, burned and rusting junk of tanks, guns, half-treads, troop carriers and staff cars off the roadside, overturned in ditches and gullies.

If any one wondered about the power and accuracy of the RAF and the RCAF, of the medium bombers, and fighter bombers, or about the deadly contribution to victory of the rocket- bearing Typhoons, he need wonder no more after seeing this wholesale precise havoc in the twisting lanes, in the leafy orchards along the hedge rows where the fleeing Germans sought to conceal themselves.

Paid Off Many Debts.

Here is the evidence of how our air forces and our artillery flailed relentlessly at the Germans trying to get out of the net, scourging them with rockets, cannon-fire and shells in this gauntlet of unparalleled destruction. A good many of the debts the Nazis owe us were paid off in this Normandy pocket and in the Falaise-Argentan gap which the Canadians, with the Poles, closed by winning down through fast to Trun and Chambois.

Time was when I was greatly moved by death. But today I saw these massed and monstrous German dead lying gross in the ditches, lying like maggots in the mud of the roadside without a qualm. Foul to the nostrils but not to the eyes. Offensive to the senses, but not to the soul. This, I felt, was our vengeance on the Germans who were without pity for their fellow-men; who even now are killing English folk in the cities and the country-side with the inhuman flying bombs.

It is hard to tell you and difficult to describe what I saw for miles and hours today when with Lieut. Les Callan the Star's cartoonist, as companion and with Lieut. Dick Haviland as conducting officer and jeep-driver, I got lost in a jungle of roads between dead Germans and our own tanks.

I asked Callan, a very gentle, very kindly man, what he thought of it all. "Put me down as saying I did not see enough dead Germans to satisfy me," he said. "But I like horses and I was downright sorry to see so many dead horses. You can see that many of them have died literally in the traces, doing their best to get these Jerries out. That's what hurts me—these dead horses."

Foe Used Farm Carts . .

He was right. We saw in the relatively small area in and around the gap we were able to visit, not just scores of horses dead, but hundreds of horses. You will not find one horse-drawn vehicle in our magnificently mechanized armies in France, but the Germans, for all their vaunted mobility, used very many horses to draw guns and transport. . . .

Near a group of dead horses a small red calf rubbed itself against an apple tree and an old white horse grazed undisturbed. On all sides the living and the dead showed close together in vivid contrast. The countryside was little disturbed by the slaughter which had swept like a thunderstorm across it. There was little evident damage. Most farmhouses seemed unhurt though dead cows, dead horses lay at many a doorstep or the foulness of Germans lying in nearby lanes poisoned the air sweet with the scents of harvest.

Peasant women worked in vegetable plots and men worked in the fields as if this smear of German wreckage and of German dead lay a thousand miles away instead of under their eyes and noses.

A Silent Sermon

I saw many cases of peasant women rumaging through a litter of German garments, squatting down right by German dead and retrieving what trousers, shirts and linens they might find seviceable. The French are realistic, logical and thrifty, and no doubt they got many a useful thing. They were not hunting souvenirs as our troops British and Canadian, were. Many of them were culling over the debris for treasure. And many Yanks in tin hats from their sector south were indulging in regular rubber-necking expeditions throughout the area. It was all certainly a sight to be seen, however awful a sight, that was a sermon on the littleness of man and the monstrousness of war.

We drove down the mouth of the gap as it began from Falaise, taken by Canadians to Argentan, which the United States had won eventually. About three miles short of Argentan we cut across by a side north road east toward Trun, which had been one of the back roads the Germans had used in their attempt to sneak out of the gap.

Indescribable Slaughter.

Reaching Trun, we drove southwest toward St. Lambert-sur-Dives and Chambois, the axis along which the Canadians had driven to close the gap and hold it against the Germans. Approaching St. Lambert, we began to come on the real slaughter and from there to Chambois and then north on the roads and in the fields for miles, it was indescribable. Literally hundreds and hundreds of German vehicles, from Panther tanks to farm carts and tiny trailers and bicycles, smeared the roadsides and showed along hedge-rows and in fields and orchards in a gargantuan messing.

How they were spotted and destroyed with such accuracy by the airmen and our gunners in this thick bocage country bowered with leafage, passed my comprehension. But spot them they did, and swash them they did, mercilessly.

St. Lambert and Chambois, two villages cluttered with German wreckage and with dead horses and dead Germans and along fences, in gutters and hedges, even on the doorsteps of stores and homes, were roaring crossroads where it seemed the Allied armies met, British, Canadians and Poles in tanks and carriers, U. S. troops in jeeps, all in a coming and going of traffic to hurry the war's end.

Roads Impassable.

We drove up the road from Chambois northeast toward Vimoutiers, meaning to make a circular swing around across the back of our rapidly-moving front Seineward. But we did not get to Vimoutiers, could not get to Vimoutiers.

First of all, the German wreckage so thickly clustered the back roads, dirt roads we would call them in Canada, that in places not even the bulldozers could clear it. As a result there were diversions for our armor through fields and woods.

I was grimly savagely happy at having seen that smashing of the Germans, that terrible reckoning by our men and our powerful machines with the Nazis in their own coin a hundredfold. . . .

I hate war and I think killing is madness, but seeing those Germans dead I am very happy.

Confidence.

The supreme confidence the witty and accomplished Irish baron, Judge Bowse, had in his own powers began early in life, while he was a comparatively little known attorney.

"For whom are you concerned in this case, Mr. Dowse?" asked a judge at the beginning of a case.

"I am concerned, my lord, for the plaintiff," was the confident reply, "but I am engaged for the defense."

Lieut. Jack Morris Writes Interestingly To Mrs. Morris About Invasion

Tuesday, July 25th, 1944.

My Dearest Ida:

Two more wonderful letters arrived this evening. I don't think it is necessary for me to say how much I enjoyed them. They are Nos. 8 and 9 and came in very good time. I must say I am pleased the service to Canada has been speeded up and so keep our loved ones at home informed quickly of our well being.

We have had some interesting times again, you will read of them in the papers before I can mention them I know. Sunday night we had our first casualty in headquarters. Jerry sent over a few salvoes of artillery and one of our Despatch Riders got a severe head wound. He is reported still living tonight, but I cannot see any possibility of his recovery, poor chap. It is all the more tragic in the fact that he has a wife and several children. I cannot figure why he was not in his slit trench as the rest of us were as the whistle and the whine of the shell warns one of the approach. Another D. R. was beside him, but got only a few scratches on his face. I was able to help a chap from another unit as a second packet came over. Believe me we hit the ground fast when we heard the whine of those heavies. The Padre and M. O. are doing a marvellous job taking care of the wounded.

Wednesday Eve.: I had to leave on a tour last night and din't finish till 1.00 A.M. With the strict b'ackout which we are forced to keep there wasn't a chance of continuing my letter. I received another letter today. My how I eat 'em up. I planned on finishing my letter on shift but had some plans to do with the Col. and get caught up on my war diary. I go on duty at 4.00 A.M. Soon as I finish this and have a cup of tea I'm turning in to my slit trench.

Friday Evening: This is certainly a continued story my dear. I maintain my section is the most difficult of Bn. headquarters, the hours are longest. I was away all afternoon visiting one of the Coy's and getting a good view of the land we recently made ours. Heinie lobbed over a few heavies in our direction but nothing happened. I saw Geo. Milne and chatted with him. He likes his work and is looking better than I have ever seen him.

I lost my car the other day as French cars were ordered turned in to military authorities. Civil Affairs will try and return them to their rightful owners from whom the Jerries confiscated the vehicles. I had hoped to get a snap of my prize but weather conditions lately precluded photography. I got a film the other day from a German source, it was brought in with some captured German documents. At first it was thought exposed and would provide some information for the "I's". I lost my radio again. The boys will miss it as I had it set up on the back of my truck office and they could listen to the news.

I had a nice letter from Major Doering the other day. I must say I do appreciate his thoughtfulness. I marked up the new U.S. positions and put our boys on the map this evening. Makes them feel good.

I had a grand shower and a change of clothing this evening which makes one feel like a new man. Now to my rest and I'll try to write again tomorrow.

Fondest love,
Jack.

August 11th, 1944.

My Dearest Ida:

My letter writing seems to go by spasms of late, and I hope the periodical lack of letters does not worry you too much. As it happens, we have moved four times since I last wrote, and believe me trying to do my work along with all this moving is very trying indeed. We moved twice yesterday. First place was at 10.15 and at noon I was told I would be the officer to look over the new place so immediately after dinner we were packed up and on our way. We made a record in being ready to move in 17 minutes. The weather has been terribly hot for a couple of days and the dust is terrific. Our present location has been milled over by tanks and hundreds of vehicles so you perhaps have an idea of what the dust is like.

I have a hole dug for my bed and feel quite safe in it. Jerry has lobbed a lot of shells over the last few days but fortunately none have been close. As I write this I'm partaking of a huge piece of raisin pie and tea. How does that sound for luxury on the battle front.

Oh, I must tell you of an interesting incident which happened on Tuesday. I went out to look over a new site and just after I had arrived with two Despatch Riders we were subjected to a very interesting bombing-raid. We hit the ground fast, luckily finding a convenient hole. After it was over I went over to see if I could help a bunch of fellows from another unit who seemed to have been hit. Just then some big ammunition started exploding. I dived into a dugout and found as my room mates some boys of the Ottawa Bty of the Light A.A. Reg't. After the fun was over I crawled out and ran smack into Myles Casselman. Was he ever surprised! He could hardly believe it was I. After I had convinced him, we had a little chat. Like myself he has seen few of the boys from home. He certainly looks well, and seems to be thriving on Army life. I saw Jim again today, he has a couple of Records for me.

Jackie's lovely letter come yesterday. Yes, Jackie, we all hope the war will soon be over and all the Daddies will be able to return to their little girls and boys. I feel so sorry for the French children over here in the war zone. The villages and hamlets I have gone through recently are just shambles—piles of grey rubble. In this ancient Normandy all building has been of stone; therefore, the buildings and walls crumble to heaps of stone.

The weather here these past few days reminds us of summer back in Canada. It has been very hot but after supper tonight a nice cool breeze sprung up from the North and carried a beautiful freshness in from the Channel. Of all the moves we have had of late only one was back, and that one was to give the boys a few days respite. It meant much more work for Btn. headquarters but we were so glad to be able to help the boys from the front line to get some much needed relaxation. We had the battalion together for a week and after the necessary work was completed we had sea bathing. Bingo etc. They did appreciate it. I didn't get to see any of the shows or take in the bathing. Didn't even get to see the Canadian show presented by the CWAC's in a series of large caves.

Blame these pesky mosquitoes. They are really blood-thirsty! I did a bit of house-cleaning today also. After these last few moves our "office", was awfully dusty and things in a bit of an uproar. My desk was very untidy. You will recall how "Tidy" my desk used to be at home? With such a lot of things in small quarters it is a case of having to keep them sorted. I had a rack built at the end of my desk for the maps with pigeon holes for various rolls which simplifies things.

I saw Reg the other night. He looks very well. The first I've seen him in France.

I must get some much needed rest now.

Deepest love, Jack.

My Dear:

It is almost a week since I wrote you. I am very sorry. I know you will understand the situation. I have been terribly busy (as I seem to say in every letter) every hour of the day and on into the night taken up, and until tonight, I have been unable to 'blackout' my office so as to write late at night. Yesterday I received Connie's letter written in Ottawa and your parcel of soap mailed July 7th. What grand mail service. I trust it will continue that way. We are greatly thrilled with the advance of our Allies and I know the folks back home are also. We have quite a time keeping our maps up to date. For instance the other day we decided to make a map of the complete front on a large scale but when we had completed it and the next report came in the Yanks and Tommies were off the sheets. But I'll gladly change the sheets every day if they keep on driving Jerry helter skelter. I suppose the folks back home are wondering why the Canadians are not pushing forward faster but there is a very definite reason and it is not the lack of men or equipment.

I now have my office fixed up so as to ensure a perfect Blackout and not bring down the wrath of the C.O. nor bombs from Jerry, although we haven't seen nor heard a Jerry plane for some time. The material for my "pent-house" was procured (quite honestly I assure you) from the Engineers and the tarpaulin, a beauty, from an officer who was with us until recently.

I must tell you some big news—Major Roger Rowley, our second-in-command, left us tonight to become a Lt.-Colonel and Commanding Officer of the S.D. & G.'s. I was doubly pleased at that for I think he is a fine officer and I still think the S.D. & G's a pretty fine Regiment.

One of the prisoners brought in last week was 19 years old but a seasoned fighter and a fanatical Nazi as are all the youth in the S.S. Divisions. He was one of a patrol of three who attempted to raid one of our gun positions. One was killed, one captured and the other got away in the darkness. I as awakened at 5.30 in the morning by a Sgt. who said he had the prisoner we had asked his company to bring in. The very interesting fact here was we had requested it for the following night. Division was more than elated when we took him in. He was very pale from spending days in dugouts, and a typical Nazi. Like the one Mack. King spoke of on Wednesday. I don't think the day is far off when we will have them on the run. First to Paris, then to Germany "improper".

I guess this is all for tonight.

Fondest love to the three of you,
Jack.

"Do not open until Christmas". That exciting phrase should soon be making its appearance on parcel mail despite the fact that many places in Canada are just recovering from the hottest spell on record. Postmaster General William P. Mulock advises that it is time to make plans for Christmas gift parcels to members of the Armed Forces Overseas. The Christmas mailing period this year is:

SEPT. 15 - OCT. 25

Naturally parcels sent to those serving in the more remote theatres of war should be sent the earliest. Suggested "deadline" mailing dates are:

September 15: The Far East, India, Burma, Ceylon, etc.

October 5: The Middle East area, Egypt, Iran, Iraq, Syria, etc.

October 10: Central Meditteranean Forces.

October 25: The United Kingdom and France.

In view of the rapid progress of the war these dates might possibly be subject to change.

Last Christmas season (Oct.-Nov.-Dec.) over 12,000,000 lbs. of parcel mail alone were despatched to the Forces Overseas from Canada. This year an even greater volume is expected. Therefore, Early Mailing is Necessary to enable Postal officials to cope with the handling, and to carry out arrangements for transportation on trains and ships. Remember that cargo space is still at a premium. Bear in mind this year that the mail must travel greater distances—many of our troops are farther afield—on different fronts fighting under the conditions of mobile warfare—plenty of time must be allowed between mailing and delivery. Picture the chaos if everyone should wait until the last minute to mail—Postal authorities would be faced with the impossible task of providing sufficient space aboard the last ships leaving in time to ensure Christmas delivery. The result would mean a cheerless Christmas Day for thousands overseas looking forward eagerly to getting their Christmas gifts in time.

A suggestion to further help our boys and girls on Active Service receive their gifts from home is to voluntarily cut down, as far as possible, on the size of the package, even though the maximum weight at the special rate of 12 cents per pound is 11 lbs. This will enable authorities to ship a greater number of parcels in the cargo space available.

The bitter disappointment caused by late arrival of Christmas gifts can be spared our Fighting Services too, if citizens will give the most careful attention to correct addressing and proper packing. Last Christmas season thousands of parcels were received at the Base Post Office in a damaged condition. They had to be set aside for repair or readdressing in order that they might be safely sent on to destination. This caused delay and extra work for the postal corps. The longer the distance parcel must travel under wartime conditions to reach its destination at a battle front, the more imperative is careful packing.

Each parcel should be carefully packed in corrugated shock proof containers, the contents compact so that they will not shake loose and break out of the package. Then the parcels should be wrapped in several layers of wrapping paper, and securely tied with strong twine.

On no account should "shoe boxes" be used as containers—they easily crush and break.

Avoid using fancy coloured Christmas paper as an outside wrapper, or coloured ribbon to tie.

For added security parcels may be sewn in strong cotton or similar fabric.

Any substance likely to leak, spread and damage the mails, if sent at all, must be enclosed in sealed metal containers with lids securely soldered on—then surrounded with absorbent material in corrugated cardboard and securely wrapped and tied.

Fresh fruits, grapes, pears, etc., or other items likely to spoil are not acceptable.

Do Not Mail Glass Jars or Bottles.

The mailing of matches, safety matches, lighter fluid or any other inflammable substance is prohibited by law.

A completed Customs Declaration should be attached to each parcel.

All mail should be fully and clearly addressed in ink, without misleading abbreviations. Place a return address on the cover of each parcel and slip among the contents giving the name and address of the sender and the complete Armed Force address that appears on the parcel. Prepay all mail correctly. By refraining from writing to a member of the Armed Forces Overseas that gifts are being sent, until actually mailed, much worry can be saved the soldier. Do not disappoint our men by mailing too late for Christmas delivery.

Persons who Mail Early For Christmas to the Armed Forces can rest assured that the authorities will do everything possible to make delivery on time.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hello Homemakers! Plump, juicy and blushing red are home grown tomatoes and now's the time when they are at their best. Sliced, stuffed, or in a cocktail—serve them in every way you can. You won't have a chance like this for another year.

How to can tomatoes: Scald, peel and core. Leave whole or cut in quarters. COLD PACK: Pack raw. Pack solidly in sterilized jars. Add one teaspoon salt per quart. Adjust lids and process in boiling water bath for 45 minutes. Or, for a salad tomato which stays whole, pack peeled ones into hot sterilized jars, fill with hot tomato juice (made by stewing some tomatoes and straining), add salt and process only 35 minutes.

Open Kettle: Heat tomatoes to boiling point. Add one teaspoon salt per quart. Boil 20 minutes. Pack hot in sterilized jars. Seal at once. (There is more loss of Vitamin C with this method.)

TOMATO ASPIC.

4 cups fresh cooked tomatoes, 1-3 cup chopped onions, ¼ cup chopped celery leaves, 1 bay leaf, 2 whole cloves, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tbsps. brown sugar, 2 tablespoons (2 envelopes unflavored gelatine), ¼ cup cold water, 3 tablespoons lemon juice.

Combine tomatoes, onions, celery leaves, bay leaf, cloves, salt, and sugar. Simmer 20 minutes; strain. There should be 3 1-3 cups. Soften gelatine in cold water; dissolve in hot tomato mixture. Add lemon juice. Pour into greased mold; chill in electric refrigerator. Unmold on crisp lettuce. Serve with old-fashioned potato salad.

STUFFED TOMATO SALAD.

6 medium sized tomatoes, ½ cup of peas (green, cooked), ¼ cup of chopped celery, ¼ cup of diced cucumber, salad dressing.

Scald and peel the tomatoes. Cut a slice from the top and hollow out with a spoon. Mix the tomato pulp and salad dressing with the peas, chopped celery and cucumber and fill the tomatoes with this mixture. Lay the slice of tomato on top and garnish with hard-cooked egg yolks forced through a coarse sieve.

TOMATO SAUCE

1½ cups tomatoes, 1 slice onion, 1 sprig parsley, 1 stalk celery, ⅛ tsp. pepper, ½ tsp. salt, 2 tbsp. bacon fat, 2 tbsp. flour.

Cook the first six ingredients together ten minutes. Strain. Melt fat, add flour, and when smooth add tomato juice. Cook five minutes.

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES.

Slice unripe tomatoes in ½ inch slices crosswise. Do not peel. Dip in egg, then in bread crumbs, and saute in bacon fat until nicely browned. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Serve at once.

TAKE A TIP

1. Wringers for washing machines are valuable. May we remind you of the simple precautions that prevent service work and loss of this labour saver.

Wringers should be set at the proper pressure for the thickness of the clothes. Too heavy a load may lock the rolls and even strip the gears. As soon as the "wringing out" is finished release the rollers. Oil ruins rubber. Do not spill any on the rubber parts of the machine—if this happens clean off immediately with soap and water. Do not use any abrasive on stained rubber. Try to take as much as possible off with baking soda and water.

THE QUESTION BOX

Mrs. J. H. suggests: a delicious Tomato Juice Cocktail.

18 ripe tomatoes, 1 cup chopped celery, ½ cup chopped onions 3 sweet red peppers, 2 tbsp. vinegar, ¼ cup sugar.

Wash and cut tomatoes. Chop the peppers finely. Mix tomatoes, celery, onions, peppers, and salt together. Boil for one-half hour in a covered kettle. Strain through a coarse sieve. Add vinegar and sugar. Boil 3 minutes, covered. Seal in sterilized jars.

Mrs. A. A. suggests: Uncooked Mustard Pickle.

1 gallon cidar vinegar, 1 cup salt, 2 ounces white mustard seed, 1 ounce turmeric, ¼ pound dry mustard, 1 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 2 cups brown sugar, saccharine to taste, cucumber, onions, cauliflower, etc.

Combine vinegar and flavourings. Cut prepared vegetables in suitable sizes and place in the liquid. Cover with heavy plate to keep vegetables under liquid. The longer the vegetables are left in the liquid, the better the flavour.

Stone or glass jars are desirable.

Mrs. J.C. suggests: Chili Sauce.

30 large ripe tomatoes, 4 green peppers, 10 medium-sized onions, 6 large apples, 3 cups vinegar, 4 tablespoons salt, 1 cup white or brown sugar, 1 teaspoon cloves, 1 teaspoon cinnamon.

Wash and peel tomatoes and onions peel and core apples; remove seeds from peppers. Cut tomatoes and chop onions, apples and peppers. Add vinegar, salt, sugar, and spices and boil for 2 hours. Stir frequently. Seal in sterilized jars.

DENSE SMOKE AND FOG ..

This morning citizens arose to find their visions limited to a very small area with objects more than thirty-five or forty feet invisible. The density was caused by a change in the wind driving the smoke from bush fires in the area north-west of Winchester in this direction, which with a mixture of fog made safe motoring for several hours quite out of the question.

CANADIAN STOCKMEN GIVE THREE HOLSTEIN BULLS

In a "hands across the sea" gesture, three high-class Holstein bulls are being shipped to Britain as a gift from the Canadian breeders to their British colleagues. The donors are Senator Donat Raymond of Vaudreuil, Que., Geo. C. Jackson of Downsview, Ont., and R. Ray McLaughlin of Oshawa, Ont. The shipment was arranged by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada with the assistance of the Department of Trade and Commerce.

Quite a number of herds of Canadian Holsteins have been established and maintained in the United Kingdom as a result of importations made before the war. With the source of further seed stock cut off by the war, the British breeders have found it difficult to carry on without resort to inbreeding and at their request, the Ministry of War Transport recently made shipping space available and granted permits for the entry of three bulls from Canada. A shortage of foreign exchange prevented the purchase of these bulls but the Canadian breeders rose to the occasion and offered to donate them so that the purity of the British herds could be maintained until further importations were possible.

The three bulls are representative of Canada's best breeding and are expected to enhance the splendid reputation now enjoyed by Canadian Holsteins in the United Kingdom.

JAM ON THEIR BREAD FOR THOUSANDS IN BRITAIN

There will be jam on their bread for thousands in Britain this year through work and organization of women in Otnario. Under the "Jam for Britain" project sponsored by the Women's Institute and Canadian Red Cross Society, tons of jam will be shipped to Great Britain in the next few months.

Donations of money, jam and honey have already been sent from more than 90 Red Cross Branches and practically every Women's Institute in the province. Money contributed thus far—$3800—is used for the purchase of factory made jam for areas where it is not practical to prepare home-made jam.

The government is allowing sugar for this project where it is expected will supply 400,000 pounds of jam from Canada for the civilian victims of war in Britain, Canadian troops in hospitals and British wartime nurseries. Ontario's share in the amount will be 250,000 pounds.

Further information about Ontario's jam project may be had from Miss Nesta Hinton, supervisor of nutrition, Ontario Division of Red Cross, 621 Jarvis St., Toronto 5.

PEACE OF MIND

Only if you KNOW you are adequately protected by good automobile insurance can you drive with that peace of mind which makes motoring a pleasure. Only in this way can you protect yourself against serious financial loss through bodily injury to other persons or their property.

Because nowadays you are driving fewer miles than you used to is certainly no reason for being without the protection an Automobile policy will give you.

Remember that your car is older and, therefore, less reliable mechanically. And remember that it takes but a split fraction of a second for "something" to happen.

Let us plan your automobile insurance to give you the protection you need TODAY.
