DUNDAS AND WEST STORMONT EXHIBITORS DO WELL AT THE OTTAWA WINTER FAIR

At the recent Winter Fair held at Ottawa beginning November 13th and ending November 16th, 1934, Dundas and West Stormont Exhibitors were quite successful in the many classes in which they had entries. As this was the first strictly regional Fair held in this part of Ontario the exhibitors from this district held their own in competition with the best exhibits in Eastern and Northern Ontario and Western Quebec. In forthcoming shows it is to be hoped that this district will put forward a real effort to increase the number of exhibits, and by so doing make this fair a real show window for their livestock and products. Especially could the exhibits be increased in horses, seeds, fruit and hogs.

The following is a summary of the successful winnings of the exhibitors from this district. In seeds, while the number of exhibits were few, still the qual- of them was exceptionally high, as is indicated by the winnings.

In the open class for oats the exhibit of Silas Farrell of Finch was not only first in this class but was also awarded the Championship over all the winners in the oat classes. In the Grain Club Competition open to members of Grain Clubs, R. G .Boyd, Brinston, obtained first and Lorne Thompson, Brinston, second in Barley. Ed. McLaughlin, Iroquois; Marston Shaver, South Mountain; Arnold Shaver, South Mountain, stood second, fifth and sixth respectively in oats.

While there was only one exhibitor in sheep from this district in the person of Cecil Acres, of Osgoode, he did exceptionally well in the Southdown classes winning first and third on wethers under a year. First and third on ram under a year. Second and third on ewe under a year. Second and third on three ewes under a year. Second and third on pen of one ram, two ewes under a year. First and third on three animals the get-of-sire. Second and third on two animals the progeny of one ewe. He also had the Champion Ram of this breed at the show, and made a remarkable win on having the best wether in the show.

In the open dairy cattle classes exhibitors in Jerseys and Holstein-Friesians did exceptionally well. Grisdale Bros. of Iroquois, with their Jerseys, were quite successful in not only winning high places but also in winning many Championships. First and Junior Championship on their bull calf. First and reserve Senior Championship in heifer calves. Second and third on yearling heifers. Fourth on two year old heifers. Third and fourth on cow three years old and over, dry. Second in graded herd. First on Junior Herd for which was also awarded "The Perpetual Trophy" donated by the Royal Bank of Canada. First on senior get-of-sire. Fourth on Junior get-of-sire. Second on progeny of cow.

In the Holstein-Friesian classes more exhibitors from Dundas and W. Stormont were present. W. J. Fawcett, of Winchester was the heaviest winner being most successful in obtaining many of the higher awards and Championships S. W. Reid, of Osgoode, Kenneth Farrell of Finch, and Andrew Fawcett, of Winchester, with only a few entries, were well up in the standing. Bull calf first and Reserve Junior Champion, W. J. Fawcett; second, S. W. Reid; Bull two years, first and Reserve Senior Champion, S. W. Reid; Bull three to 6 years, fifth, W. J. Fawcett; Heifer calves, sixth, Andrew Fawcett. Heifer yearling, first and Junior Champion, W. J. Fawcett. Fifth, Kenneth Farrell. Heifer, two years, fourth, W. J. Fawcett. Cow, three years and over, dry, first. Reserve Senior Champion and Reserve Grand Champion, W. J. Fawcett. Cow ,three years and over, in milk, third and fourth, W. J.

Man Fatally Injured At Williamsburg

A tragic accident occurred at Williamsburg on Sunday evening last when Samson D. McGregor, of Southbank, B. C,. received fatal injuries when struck by a car driven by Leman F. Keegan of Kansas. The man died in Morrisburg early Monday morning.

Tragedy struck in quick succession at the McGregor family. The morning before Mr. McGregor was fatally injured, he received a telegram telling him that his home and property had been destroyed by fire. Mrs. McGregor is taking treatments at Williamsburg.

Walking to Village

McGregor, who was staying with his wife in Williamsburg, was walking into the village to purchase writing paper when he was struck by the car driven by Mr. Keegan, who was leaving the village. Keegan turned out to pass a car and was blinded by the driving rain, striking McGregor, and fracturing his skull at the base, breaking his arm in three places and lacerating his scalp from back to front.

The body was taken Monday morning to the Marsh funeral parlors in Morrisburg.

As Dr. M. W. Locke, coroner for the district, attended the injured man, Dr. C. A. Louden will preside at the inquest. Traffic Officer Eugene Rose of Morrisburg investigated the accident.

The late Mr. McGregor was a native of Carleton Place, going to Western Canada 16 years ago. He was 50 years of age. In addition to his widow, he is survived by two daughters, the Misses Bertie and Fay McGregor, both with their mother at Williamsburg.

No charge has as yet been laid against Keegan, although his car is being held pending the result of the inquest which is being held this evening at Morrisburg.

100 CLUB PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS

SPLENDID MEETING HELD AT HOTEL WINCHESTER LAST FRIDAY EVENING

One of the finest supper meetings of the 100 Club to be held in some time took place at Hotel Winchester, on Friday evening last, when forty members and a number of guests were present. Mr. Frank Shaver, M.P. for Stormont County, was the guest speaker of the evening.

Following the repast, during which Centurian Chester Timmins pepped up a real sing-song, President Harry Flora called the gathering to order and several items of business were handled. The Club decided to carry on the Christmas work as in former years and appointed the following committees—Christmas Tree, Albert Johnston, Raymond Summers and Eldon Fennell; Candy, J. J. Gray, W. J. Stewart and J. L. Dixon; Needy, W. A. Rowat, J. E. Singleton and Will Quart. Several means of raising funds were discussed but no definite action was taken.

A prize boost was conducted by Centurian J. L. Dixon, who introduced Mr. Will Henderson, of Ottawa, as his "booster." Mr. Henderson gave a short and interesting address on the modern Art of Embalming, which was thoroughly enjoyed. The prizes were won by Centurians W. A. Rowat and Alex Duncan.

Following the boost, President Flora called upon Centurian John McCormick to introduce the guest speaker of the evening, Mr. Frank Shaver, M. P., of Aultsville. His theme was "Modern Democracy," and proved to be most interesting. He opened his remarks by reviewing the various forms of government that are in existence to-day, finally turning his attention to the British Empire as a whole and Canada in particular.

Two primary factors enter into the building up of nations, he said, the character of the inhabitants and tradition. In Canada the former has played a tremendous part in shaping its destinies. The pioneers who settled here from France, were the cream of that country's population. Dauntless in spirit, filled with courage and determination, these hardy people left comfortable homes in France to hew and cut their way to a new start in the forests of New France. Patience was one of their main characteristics and it has been embraced by their ancestors.

The British pioneers, he continued, were endowed with similar qualities. The U. E. Loyalists, many of whom settled in this district, were accustomed to their glowing faith in England, a spirit all manners of hardships and added to of self-sacrifice which has never faded.

From these early foundations, said the speaker, the present generations of Canadians have received a heritage which is proving invaluable during such stressful times. The destiny of the country is fixed by the actions of each citizen woven into a composite whole and in this country Canadians were fortunate in having such a background of character upon which to build.

Turning to the second phase the speaker declared that traditions played a large part in our everyday life. The fact that we had been taught patriotism and pride of race since childhood was one means of maintaining democratic principles and the spirit of co-operation among the citizens. In this respect, Mr Shaver emphasized the place of a service club in the community and continued by saying that in such work the citizens got together and each gained a firmer and more complete understanding of the other's burdens

Centurian Tommy Hawkins moved a hearty vote of thanks to the speaker on behalf of the Club which was seconded by Centurian Howard Fetterly. The National Anthem brought the meeting to a close.

TRIPLET CALVES

A new setall, an automatic cud chewer, pictures in the paper, and maybe a crack at the world's fair should be in the offing for Mrs. Dionne Holstein, champion "calf-haver" of the Brantford section of Ontario which has given birth to triplets. The cow, which has had seven calves in 29 months, somewhat of a record, is owned by T. A. Russell, who operates a farm on shares with L. C. Barber, at Boston Corners, 12 miles south of Brantford. A short time ago the cow had twins. Mr. Barber, who owns the farm is 88 years old.

Sentenced To Jail For Two Months

Robert Goodman, giving his address as Ottawa, was sentenced to two months in the county jail at Cornwall, when he failed to pay the fine imposed after being found guilty on a charge of obtaining board and lodging at Hotel Winchester under false pretences.

Posing as a truck-driver for a well-known transportation company, the man came to Hotel Winchester and engaged a room, after explaining his position and saying that the transport had been overturned in the ditch north of the town along Highway 31. Becoming suspicious of the man after a time, the proprietor of the hotel got in touch with the Transportation Company and learned that they had no trucks disabled at that time, nor did they have any person in their employ by the name of Goodman. He was arrested at once by Constable Helmer and lodged in the local cells.

Appearing before Magistrate John McCormick on Monday last, the man was found guilty and being unable to pay the fine, was taken to Cornwall jail to begin a two months sentence.

COUNCIL WILL BUILD WATER RESERVOIR

WILL PROVIDE WORK FOR SEVERAL UNEMPLOYED MEN. WORK ALREADY STARTED

Reeve Ross called a special meeting of the Municipal Council on Monday night to deal with the question of transients, and relief work, in the village. The reeve pointed out that there were certain families already receiving relief, and there would likely be more requests in the very near future. He thought that if some municipal work could be provided and the heads of households given employment, it would be better. It would mean that some new work would have to be undertaken, and he suggested that as the ratepayers in the vicinity had for the past two years been asking for a water tank on Victoria street, west of St. Lawrence Street, and as it was admitted that such a tank was very necessary to that portion of the village in the way of fire protection, now would be a good time to build such a well, and thus, temporarily at least, relieve the situation. The suggestion met with the unanimous approval of the council, and a resolution, moved by W. Moffatt, and seconded by H. Bessin, was passed, authorizing Mr. Elnaugh to superintend the construction of the well, and to employ only the heads of families in need, in this municipality. It was also thought advisable to purchase some cord wood, and those applying for wood would have to cut the wood to suit themselves. Other matters were discussed with reference to certain road repairs, but no definite action taken. The council will meet again on the evening of the first Friday in December.

PUBLIC HEALTH WORK DISCONTINUED

The Press was informed this morning on good authority, that the Public Health work carried on for some time past in Dundas County is to be discontinued. This is indeed, to be regretted, as it was felt that much benefit was being accomplished through the efforts of the Public Health Nurses in this district.

Liberal-Conservatives Elect New Officers

A largely attended meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Association for Winchester township and the villages of Chesterville and Winchester, was held in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening last for the purposes of re-organizing the three municipalities. Mr. Fred H. Broder of Morrisburg, secretary of the county organization, opened the meeting, after which Mr. Howard Nesbitt, of Winchester Springs, was made chairman and Mr. Walter Moffatt, secretary.

Mr. A. C. Casselman, K.C., M.P., of Prescott, federal member for Grenville-Dundas, was the first speaker. He emphasized the need for local organization and pointed out that, at present, there were two different organizations in the constituency, one for provincial and the other for federal politics. It was advisable, he said, to unify the system as this had not been done since the re-distribution in 1925.

Mr. Geo. H. Challies, M.L.A., then addressed the gathering along similar lines after which considerable discussion took place. It was moved by Mr. Geo. Gillard, of Chesterville, and seconded by Mr. Homer Patterson, of Winchester Springs, that the organization of the three municipalities be proceeded with at once. The question of officers was then reviewed and it was decided that each municipality have a president, lady vice-president, secretary and a chairman for each polling division.

The election of officers then took place separately for the three municipalities, resulting as follows:

Winchester Village—President, J. W. Ault; lady vice-president, Mrs. Fred Parker; secretary, William H. Agnew; Chairman of polls, north, Harry L. Flora; south, E. M. Shaver.

Chesterville Village—President, P. S. Boyd; lady vice-president, Miss E. McGee; secretary, A. O. Robertson; poll chairman, Dr. A. B. Clayton, Geo. G. Gillard.

Winchester Township—President, John Bogart, Chesterville; lady vice-president, Mrs. Homer Patterson; secretary, Colin McGregor, Morewood; poll chairmen by numbers, 1, Geo. Ouderkirk, Chesterville; 2, C. B. Jamieson, Nation Valley; 3, Ernest Holmes, Methodist Street; 4, Roy Annable, Winchester; 5, Roy Docksteader, Winchester; 6, Archie Smirle, Morewood; 7, John Bogart, Chesterville; 8, Delbert Casselman, Winchester Springs.

Following the election of officers, an open forum was held during which the members answered numerous questions pertaining to the organization and work of the party. Both Mr. Casselman and Mr. Challies expressed their appreciation of the large audience present, giving an indication of the keen interest which is being shown in such matters. In closing his remarks, Mr. Challies outlined the decision reached by the elected members in caucus at Toronto recently. Mr. Henry, he said, was to continue as House leader during the coming session, after which a convention was to be held of all unsuccessful candidates and elected members, at which a definite decision as to party leadership would be reached. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Hockey Meeting Held Last Night

An organization meeting of the Winchester Town Hockey League was held in the Council Chambers last evening with a large number of hockey fans present. Mr. C. B. Timmins, president, was in the chair .

The election of officers for the coming season took place immediately and resulted as follows: Hon. president, D. Melvin; president, C. B. Timmins; vice-presidents, Harold Singleton, John Fader, Fern Workman and Gerald Helmer; Secretary-Treasurer, Gordon Johnston.

The organization of the league was then discussed. It was decided to interview Dougall McLean regarding his managing a team in the league. A motion was passed allowing the High School to pick players outside the institution and thus putting them on the same basis as the other teams. The play-offs were discussed at some length it being moved that the second and third teams play home-and-home games in the semi-finals, while the finals are to be staged as the best two-out-of-three games. Messrs. C. B. Timmins and Gordon Johnston were chosen a committee to interview the rink company with a view to reaching an understanding on the basis of operation for the year . It was also decided that each team might have a representative present at executive meetings, who will have a vote on all matters concerning the league, but will not be allowed to vote on any matter regarding player differences.

The managers of the Town League teams for the coming season are: Howard Fetterly, Harold Lannin, the High School (manager not appointed) and Dougall McLean, subject to his acceptance. Keen interest is already being taken in the league and from all appearances the local town league is in for its best season.

MILK IN THE SCHOOL LUNCH

If a child must carry his or her lunch to school it should be carefully planned for, after all, it is one of the three meals of the day and should, therefore, provide its share of food requirements. Milk should be included in some form in every child's lunch to avoid a daily shortage of the food so necessary for the growing girl and boy. The milk may be carried in a screw-top jar or thermos bottle, or it may be more convenient to have a supply of milk delivered each day to the school. When making a milk pudding for the members of the family who are at home for the noonday meal, it is an easy matter to set a serving aside in a small glass jar for the next day's school lunch box. Wherever possible, particularly during the winter months, arrangements should be made to provide one hot dish at school to supplement the cold foods brought from home. Many milk dishes such as cream soups, cocoa, cream, vegetables, cereal, eggs or meat are easily prepared, cost little, and will add materially to the nourishment and satisfaction derived from the school lunch.

REMARKABLE INVENTION

Fewer motorists will be fined for having no parking lights if they take advantage of the discovery of a very prominent scientist. He has perfected an "electric eye" so delicate that it measures the amount of daylight and at sunset automatically switches on the parking lights. It cannot be fooled by clouds and always keeps a few minutes ahead of darkness. It is believed that the same device will serve on street and navigation light systems.

CHURCH INTERIOR ENTIRELY OF MARBLE

The United Church at Actinolite, on new Highway No. 7, is one of the three churches in the world with the interior entirely of marble. This historic church, built in 1867, was constructed by local workmen. The outside walls are made of stone taken from a neighbouring quarry while the marble was drawn from a pit a few miles distant from the church. The edifice, one of the oldest the district, is still in excellent condition. Many visitors go annually to see the interior of this church which is beautifully done.

Mrs. Hyndman has been affiliated with church society work all her life and is a leading member of St. Andrew's congregation.

THIRD TIME GENERAL STORE ROBBED AT MOREWOOD

Gaining entrance by carefully chiselling the putty away and removing the pane from a side window of the general store of Daniel McGregor, at Morewood, thieves on Tuesday night of last week, stole a quantity of supplies. The window by which entrance was gained was in the flour and sugar store room and five bags of sugar were taken. The persons made little or no effort to break into the store proper which leads off the store rooms.

Last year at this time and on one occasion before Mr. McGregor had been robbed in a similar manner and it is thought that the thefts were made by someone laying up a winter food supply.

The robbery was discovered about 9 o'clock on Wednesday morning when several youths walking along the opposite side of the street noticed that the glass was missing from the window.

They informed Mr. McGregor who lives above the store. Mr. McGregor notified Cornwall authorities who are investiing.

FARMER TAKES HIS LIFE

George Riddell, 70, well known farmer of Spencerville district, was found dead in his barn Monday a.m. with his throat slashed with a razor which he still clutched in his right hand. Neighbours found the man after his wife and daughter had searched for some time. Dr. P. A. MacIntosh of Spencerville was called and pronounced the man dead. Dr. C. F. McPherson, coroner for the district, decided on no inquest.

According to the story told Coroner McPherson, the late Mr. Riddell had intended to drive his family for a visit with relatives at Cardinal. He left the house shortly before 10 o'clock Sunday morning to go to the barn to hitch the horse, returned to the house and went upstairs to the washroom and then returned to the barn. When he did not bring the horse and buggy around in a few minutes, Mrs. Riddell sent her young daughter to look for her father but the child could not find him. A neighbour, George Fader, then discovereed Mr. Riddell face down in the straw mow with his throat slashed.

Mr. Rirddell was a lifelong resident of the district and attended the United Church at Spencerville. He is survived by his widow, who is his second wife; one son by the previous marriage, Byron Riddell, and his young daughter. Arrangements have not yet been completed for the funeral.

AND THEY CALL THAT DEMOCRACY

W. H. Moore, M. P., in the course of a brilliant address at the Liberal Convention last week told the story of his father once having voted Conservative, and some years after when asked to vote Conservative again, replied, "I don't think the Lord has forgiven me for voting Tory the last time." Mr. Moore told this story to illustrate the old theory of party loyalty before anything else. Today, he stated, people are breaking more and more away from the habit of voting for party before principle.

While this may be true to a certain extent, and illustrated in the last Provincial election, it is only partly true. Most of us are aware that a person who calls himself a Conservative is seldom if ever seen at a Liberal convention, and likewise a professing Liberal is seldom seen at a Conservative convention.

It is really amazing how this party loyalty has gripped. There are thousands in this country who would vote for their party however corrupt it was, or however unable they were to conduct the affairs of a province or the nation.

It is unlikely, however, that our present system of party politics will survive many more years. The time is coming when people will realize that the country is millions of dollars in debt and badly governed because of the system of party politics. Some will immediately cry "What of the Opposition? Are we not to have opposition?" Certainly we are. All minds do not think alike and any person with ideals will oppose anything that does not appeal to them. At the present most members vote at the crack of the party whip, unless his name happens to be Hon. H. Stevens, or Tommy Church, and the result is nine times out of ten party comes before principle. And they call that democracy!—Bowmanville Statesman.

HENRY WILL LEAD PARTY IN HOUSE

Hon. George S. Henry will lead the little coterie of Conservatives at the coming session of the Legislature, it is expected. Of the seventeen members nine are from Toronto. The majority of these men have declared themselves ready to follow for another session the man who led them to defeat.

The seventy-three defeated candidates were not invited to the meeting as, in Mr. Henry's opinion, the only ones concerned in Legislature leadership are those who weathered the electoral storm.

Advertising never pays the man who never does any of it.

RAMBLING 'ROUND NEW YORK with HUGH KENNY

A genuine treasure hunt started last month just off the edge of Manhattan. It isn't any child's play, either, for there are two competing companies looking for the old British ship Hussar in Hell Gate and the East River. The Hussar went down in 1780 and is reputed to have carried gold at the present value of six million dollars—pay for British troops in America. Divers have been slogging in the mud in spite of the fact that the British Admiralty records do not show that the gold was aboard. Hopeful let, these treasure hunters.

Gene Buck, head of Tin Pan Alley's American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers, says, "eighty per cent of all radio programs comprise music of some form. How are we going to keep on having hits if the boys who write them don't receive commensurate compensation for their work?" . . . Buck is beating the war drums in answer to the government's charges that his organization is a monopoly.

Three new piers were started early this month, each to be 1,100 feet long, and the only piers in New York harbor that will be large enough to accommodate the French Line's 1,029 foot Normandie which is expected in New York next June, or the Cunard Line's 1,018 foot Queen Mary expected on her maiden voyage in the spring of 1936. The piers run between 48th and 52nd Streets on the Hudson.

If your husband or wife is missing, don't telephone the Missing Persons Bureau of New York's police force; you have to appear there in person, and preferably with a photograph of the missing . . . Otherwise they'd be spending most of their time looking for people who turn up in friends' apartments the morning after with terrific headaches, asking for an aspirin.

Up on the corner of Third Avenue and 57th Street is a stone that looks like a tombstone. But, rest in peace, inquiry revealed that it is actually only one of the remaining milestones that used to mark the distance from City Hall on the road in "the country," when 57th street was nothing but farm land.

JUDGES TO HANDLE OLD AGE PENSIONS

(Bowmanville Statesman)

The announcement by the Ontario Government of the abolition of all local Old Age Pensions Boards should prove a benefit rather than a detriment, as many seem to feel. Under the system that has prevailed men have worked willingly and in many cases well in their counties and have endeavoured to fairly and without favor administer the Old Age Pensions Act. But there has been the tendency with a life long acquaintance of the applicants and their relatives to let sentiment overrule their good judgment in granting pensions.

We believe, however, that with the applicant appearing before an absolutely independent Judge or Magistrate the application will be more capably handled to the interest of all concerned.

There are too many people receiving Old Age Pensions today who are not entitled to them. By that we mean that they have sons or daughters who are able and should be made to contribute to their parents' welfare. Too many children have ignored the obligations they owe their parents in their declining years. It is not unlikely that the raising and education of these same children, and the sacrifice it entailed, is responsible for many old people having to apply in their declining years for the pension. Under the proposed new system this will all be ferreted out and those who are able to support ageing parents will be made to do so.

Don't think for a minute we are opposed to this act, for we are heartily in accord with its provisions when they are not abused. Furthermore, with a continuance of the unemployment situation we would favor lowering the age limit from 70 to 65 years.

WINTER SPORTS IN CANADA

MANTLES of purest crystal snow spreading over glen and vale, the smooth sparkling ice surface of rivers and lakes and the joyous tinkling of sleigh-bells remind one that the season for beneficial and enjoyable winter sports is again at hand. Other forms of recreational activities are, for the time being, quite forgotten. The toboggan, ski, skate and sled are taken from their summer store-house and properly conditioned for the season's festivities. Children whose years scarcely exceed the finger numerals of a hand, youths of 'teen age, adults of middle life and frequently those whose years are well extended toward the allotted span of life, all join in the merriment of typical Canadian winter sports.

During the winter season every settled area in Canada is as easily accessible by railroad as in the summer and autumn months. Many miles of provincial highways are kept free of snow enabling the motorist to reach cities, towns and villages of international repute as winter sport centres. Nearly everywhere are natural sites for skiing, snowshoeing and tobogganing. Covered rinks for hockey, skating, and curling are found in cities, towns and many smaller centres, while open-air rinks are legion. Carnival feats, including bonspiels, toboggan racing, hockey matches, figure skating competitions, ski-jumping contests, snowshoe processions, and firework displays, add greatly to the enjoyment of a Canadian winter vacation.

The National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior, Ottawa, will gladly supply information pertaining to Canada's winter sport attractions.

USEFUL HINTS

To clean piano keys you can use a soft cloth dampened with a solution of warm water and a little common vinegar. Take care that the moisture does not get beyond the finished surface as dampness may affect the unfinished wood.

* * *

You can use your vacuum cleaner to clean the floor mop. Place vacuum cleaner on a piece of newspaper with the suction side up, and as you take the dust off the floor, hold the mop over the vacuum, which sucks the dust and dirt from the mop.

Varnish remover combined with brass polish will make like new the most hopelessly soiled and marred brass articles.

On windy days the clothes-line pole will do better duty if, in addition to the conventional notch in the top of the pole a large nail is driven into the lower end. The nail stuck in the ground will help to hold the pole and line in place, and avoid trailing sheets and tablecloths.

Muslin sheets and pillowcases, too old to use, cut in squares and hemmed, makes splendid window polishers to be used after windows have been cleaned with ammonia water.

Evaporated milk will pour more freely if two holes are punctured directly opposite each other on the top of the can.

* * *

Half an apple placed in the cake box will keep cake fresh and moist.

A small bag of sulphur kept in a drawer or cupboard will drive away red ants.

Rub hinges with a feather dipped in oil and they will not creak.

The odour of sweet peas is so offensive to flies that it will drive them out of a sick room.

Hand stains can be removed by washing in the juice of a ripe tomato.

A little charcoal mixed with clear water thrown into a sink will disinfect and deodorize it.

Camphor put in drawers or trunks will keep away mice.

A spoonful of vinegar put into the water in which meats or fowls are boiled makes them tender.

Mix 1 teaspoonful of cornstarch with 1 cup of salt for table use and it will not gather dampness, the salt of course.

To prevent a bruise from turning purple or black and blue according to popular belief, rub fresh lard upon it.

* * *

To remove the skins of cooked beets, let them lie a few minutes in cold water and the skins wil slip off easily.

ORIGINALITY

The world is peopled with imitators. For every one who has an original idea, there are a thousand who will bare-facedly purloin his idea once it is let loose, claim it for their own, and use it or sell it as the humor suits them. In fact, many of them do this sort of thing so often they really feel they are the originators of the ideas. Everything nowadays is imitated from jokes to streamlined trains and battleships. Last week a joke read "I've been trying to think of the right word for two weeks." A friend replied, "How about 'fortnight." This week the imitator had it "I've been trying to think of the right word for thirty days." The come-back was "How about 'month?"

Here's another illustration taken from the movies: Recently in a comedy the "heavy" threatened to wrap a telephone pole around the necks of a pair of clowns. The fade-out showed them with the pole around their necks. This week a similar threat was made by the villain of the piece to wrap the legs of a pair of jokers around their necks. The fade-out showed them in this position. Evidently somebody helped themselves to a good idea.

Stories, plays, songs, inventions, medicines, and many other things tell the same story. One person creates an idea and dozens imitate his work, sometimes almost before it gets on the market. It is obvious the glory and profit of a new invention should go to the man with the idea. He did the studying. He made the sacrifices, if any were made. He did the work. It is his brain-child.

But in the rush of Imitators, it often happens the originator of the idea gets lost in the shuffle and he gets neither praise, honour nor remuneration for his handiwork. Copyrights and registration of patterns may prevent exact duplication, but once some persons have an idea to work on they don't need to duplicate—they can imitate satisfactorily.

HOW BEST TO TEACH MANNERS

One more a leading educator deplores the lack of politeness among young people. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbus University, speaking at the opening services of his own institution, wonders "why it is, that youth can come to full adolescent years with no apparent appreciation of the difference between good manners and their opposite."

Some blame parents, who, strangely enough, may be persons of known courtesy, liked and admired for their urbanity. In another part of Dr. Butler's address may be found a parallel which may throw some light on the subject, in which he distinguishes between attending college and getting an education. It is one thing to be forced to memorize rules of courtesy and quite another to have those rules so firmly imbedded that politeness becomes an instinctive act.

Certain educators favor college courses in manners and decry the "school of courtesy" taught by "heavy" characters in films. They may be on the right track but a woman whose children are models of thoughtful consideration has perhaps found a better way. "I taught my boy and two girls to be unselfish," she explains. "Courtesy is only a by-product of that teaching." A wholly unselfish person could not be discourteous even if ignorant of rules.

DO NOT STOP TOO SOON

Failure is often a matter of stopping too soon. A student fails in his lesson when one more careful reading would have given him a good mark. A salesman fails to get an order when one more call would have secured it. When you watch a race, the runner who starts out ahead is as likely as not to fall by the way. It is the one who holds out who first crosses the line.

$25,000 NEW DOCK FOR FERRY TERMINAL

It is reported that the contract for the 80x100 feet dock, to the centre crib below the concrete pier, at Morrisburg, is let to Robt. Beggs & Son, Hallville. The construction will be of pile and tressle work.

The approach will have a 24-foot top, for two-way traffic, with custom house enlarged, and moved to face the approach.

HEALTH RULES FOR THE WINTER-TIME

We are now in the midst of the winter season, which brings to so many the recurring misery of colds, la grippe and bronchitis. These yearly callers are looked upon as more or less unavoidable afflications, yet there are people who escape them, either by reason of natural high resisting power, or a resistance established by careful living.

Over-work and great mental or physical fatigue lower the resistance, and should be avoided, especially when grippe is prevalent. Exposure can at least be avoided when one is conscious of being below par; when fatigue, nervous depression or digestive troubles warn us that our "guard is down." At such times keep away from crowded assemblies, where the exhalations of hundreds of infected air passages poison the atmosphere.

In every household there should be an accurate thermometer. It should be someone's duty to watch that thermometer from time to time, and not permit the temperature to rise above 70 degrees; preferably it should be kept between 65 degrees and 68 degrees.

Nasal douches are, as a rule, to be avoided, except on medical advice. Frequent, violent blowing of the nose is also harmful and unnecessary, and if carelessly done by compressing both nostrils may drive infection into the middle ear. Close one nostril while blowing gently through the other. You cannot blow out congested and swollen bones and tissues of the nose, and it is better not to try.

If the throat is sore, stop talking; spare your throat. Restrain coughing as much as possible. You cannot cough up a congested or swollen throat. Don't try—you will only increase the inflammation. Medical treatment by a physician can always mitagate and shorten the duration of a cold and lessen the danger of complications, the symptoms of which cannot always be appreciated by the patient.

Frequently grippe, pneumonia and repeated colds leave their imprints on the heart, the lungs, the kidneys and the nervous system. The earlier you discover any such damage and the quicker you repair it, the longer will these vital organs faithfully serve you in the problem of living.

This is another argument in favor of periodic examinations. Such examinations should be conducted with great thoroughness for the purpose of uncovering not only physical impairments and faulty living habits, but also any foci of infection—especially in the nose, mouth and throat—as such conditions not only invite colds and winter troubles, but other forms of chronic organic diseases as well.

THE PSALM OF LIFE

There is but little in life to live for. The world is a hollow mockery, full of troubles, trials and bad piano players.

We go forth in the morning full of hope, and come home at night full of bad whiskey.

We dabble in politics and bet our wealth on the leading men, and the other fellow getteth elected and we are left to mourn.

We run for office and our friends manage for us, and spend our money, and behold, we come out badly scooped and crushed financially.

We marry for wealth and our girl's old man assigns.

We deny ourselves many things in order to lay up some cash in the bank and the cashier fleeth to the States. And in an evil hour we dream not of it, the merchant presenteth a bill for our wife's new bonnet and the farm goeth under mortgage to pay it.

Woe unto man. Oh how little consequence is his joy.

In infancy he is full of colic and catnip and in youth he goeth about with a thorn in his heel.

In the evening of life he lieth down full of rheumatism, aches and antibilious pills.

The places that once knew him, know him now only by his promisary notes and accounts he left unpaid. And this is the end of man.

In youth he dances into the ring, eager to knock somebody out, but the first thing he knoweth he is ornamented with a black eye.

He cometh forth in fine raiment, in standing collar, and at noon time he goeth about with one suspender, and with the seat of his pants patched with an old sock.

He carrieth a torch in the procession, and whoopeth it up for his party, and behold, the man who stayeth home is appointed to office.

Such is the career of men.

Lo! in an hour when he dreameth not of it a breechy mule kicketh him athwart the centre, and he dieth.

TO CHANGE MARKERS

Following a custom of several years, New York State will reverse the present color scheme of its motor markers in 1935, showing black numerals on an orange background. New Jersey will sport aluminum on black, Pennsylvania gold on blue, Illinois marine blue on pearl grey, Massachusetts white on green and Michigan yellow on midnight blue.

CARBON MONOXIDE

The following recommendations were made by the Travellers Insurance Company in their Bulletin:—

1. Avoid running the engine if it is necessary to remain in the car while it is parked (especially in a closed garage). If in a close garage, always leave the nearest window at least partly open.

2. Keep the carburetor and all motor parts incidental to combustion adjusted so that the fuel will be burned as completely as practicable.

3. A cut-out that discharges gas in front of the muffler should not be used when the motor is idling.

4. Inspect cars regularly for leaky exhaust connections, loose and broken floor boards, defective floor coverings, and defective exhaust pipes and mufflers

5. Make it a practice to stop driving and get plenty of fresh air at the first sign of headache, dizziness, smarting eyes, drowsiness or nausea.

6. The exhaust pipe should discharge beyond the rear end of the body of the car, on the side opposite the driver.

7. Avoid following too closely any vehicle with a smoking or odorous exhaust.

Note: The smoke or odor usually is from burning oil, or is the result of poor carburetion, indicating that the fuel is inefficiently burned and that excessive carbon monoxide may be present.

8. Avoid sealing the car interior by closing all window and vents tightly. Ventilate, as far as possible, by opening the front windows or the windshield. (Exhaust gases enter more readily through the rear windows),

9. Further progress in streamline car design is desirable.

10. Flexible hose exhaust connections should be constructed to withstand the effects of long-continued vibration and heat. Exhaust lines should be renewed as soon as leaks are discovered.

11. Mufflers should be strong and preferably, seamless. Those having longitudinal seams should be installed so that the seams will be on the lower side.

Men pretend to be brave. Yet when something unpleasant must be said, the average man makes his wife do the telephoning.—Petrolia Topic.

PERFECT PEACE

(From Christian Science Monitor)

A prize was once offered for the painting that should best illustrate the subject of "Peace." A number of artistic works were submitted, comprising a variety of quiet restful scenes. Some of these depicted mirror-like waters with their beautiful reflections. One painting, however, represented the disturbed waters of a precipitous river rushing apparently in every direction, crowding furiously among huge rocks, and dashing relentlessly over others. On the banks were tall bushes whose branches extended over the stream. In one of these branches, and directly over the most turbulent part of the river, sat a bird in her securely fastened nest, as tranquilly as though the menacing noise below were music provided especially for her pleasure. And to this picture the prize was awarded.

So-called material man believes in material disturbances of all sorts; while spiritual man knows with experiences only that peace which passeth all human understanding. He who believes that abundance is money, that employment is labor, that health is a condition of matter, is not enjoying that peace which comes to one who can demonstrate that employment follows as a consequence of his constantly using the qualities of Mind, God, that health is a condition of wholesome thinking, that supply is influx of divine ideas. Acknowledgement and understanding of these truths bring a sense of security that cannot be overthrown.

POSSESSIONS

"Our material possessions, like our joys, are enhanced by being shared."—C. D. Prentice.

"Of a rich man who was mean and niggardly," he said, "that man does not possess his estate, but his estate possesses him."—Diogenes Laertins.

"Know then, that you possess sovereign power to think and act rightly, and that nothing can dispossess you of this heritage and trespass on Love."—Mary Baker Eddy.

"We only begin to realize the value of our possessions when we commence to do good to others with them. No earthly investment pays so large an interest as charity."—Joseph Cook.

"All the good things of this world are no further good than as they are of use; and whatever we may heap up to give to others, we enjoy only as much of as we can use."—De Foe.

"Mortals believing that they possess intelligence apart from God, often dominate one another. Ignorance of God, Spirit, as the only creator, and of the nature of creation as spiritual, they strive for personal power, place, and material possessions."—The Christian Science Monitor.

At the great depths of the sea there can be no color; the surroundings in which the fish live are probably as drab as the dark water, and they themselves are as dull as their homes. Eyes would be useless if we judge sight as we know it, yet we find species that have pin-points for eyes, while others have them as large as tea plates. Some have practically no mouth, with huge bodies, while several seem to be all mouth. One fish brought up from a depth of 2,000 fathoms was about two feet in length. It resembles a huge centipede, but instead of legs it had hair-like fins on the top and bottom of its body which looked like a strip of ribbon. Its mouth was like a snipe's beak, and it has been called the snipe-beaked ribbon fish.

STRANGER THINGS HAVE HAPPENED

Those who take more than a passing interest in public affairs, and particularly in our Provincial politics, will have noticed that Premier Mitchell Hepburn and Attorney-General Roebuck have not been so much in the headlines of the daily newspapers as they were two months ago. Neither are they so lavish in their boastfulness, nor so prolific in their charges of misdemeanour and wrong-doing on the part of their predecessors.

When a party is in power, practically for thirty years, there is bound to grow around those who represent that party in our Government certain excesses and perhaps extravagances, that in normal times would remain unnoticed. But when what we commonly call "depression," strikes us, when there is, because of demanded extravagances, a reckoning day, and taxes have to be levied, and not only the farmer but the trades people and merchants are drawn into that whirlpool of financial stringency, it is not surprising that those who suffer feel that some one, other than themselves, is to blame for the condition. That is the old, old story of human instability in time of political crisis, and the falling away of those who seem to have lost their grip, and their joining forces with the new, but untried, is the inevitable.

When the Liberals swept the province last June the leaders of that party were no doubt as much surprised as were the members of the Government in power. And when they realized what a complete victory they had won, they just naturally lost their heads, and during the succeeding months has followed an orgy of unsubstantiated charges of corruption, charges of wilful extravagances, of the political head-clipping of any and all who were conspicuously labelled Conservative. It was "Premier Hepburn this, and Attorney-General Roebuck that," and for a while it looked as though every member of the late Government was liable to be arrested for some wrong doing, and dozens of Government officials were not only dismissed, but were dismissed with the Hepburn or Roebuck mark of "more to follow."

But the first six months of "in power" have passed; the first glamour and bright morning sunbeams of the big stone building in Queen's Park are becoming more commonplace; the flattery and fawning of those who are always on hand to offer their very sincere congratulations, their tributes to the men of super political sagacity and outstanding statesmanship, these men who are now prepared to bow to, to humbly serve, and prove their unswerving loyalty to the ones who are the dispensers of political plums.

But coming down to realities is now a necessity. The business of the province must be carried on, and if, as has been promised, more efficiently carried on, it means hard work and less talk, more doing and less boasting. The vote that placed the present Government in power is not an altogether friendly vote. It was more of an experimental vote, and so far, the result has not been such that is likely to prove the experiment much of a success.

In fact, it may be said that the experiment in many ways has proved a very unsatisfactory, demoralizing and ill-promising one. The Hydro has, within a few months, practically become involved in the game of provincial politics. The liquor business has made the Government a part of its dispensing system, and it has become a case of sell beer and wine, let the consequences be what they may. Those who dare to publicly protest have been classified by the Prime Minister as cranks and agitators, and the order now is—to sell wine, beer, whiskey and gin to any and all, let the consequences be what they may.

The spoils system has been introduced, and with a vengeance. The men high in office and responsibility, as well as the poor man who worked on the roadside with his horse, have become victims of this political grab and get, when the grabbing and getting is good, no matter who may suffer, and no matter how faithful have been the services of the victims.

It is possible that Premier Hepburn and Attorney-General Roebuck are beginning to realize just what their responsibilities are, now that their first ambitions to show their teeth and wreak vengeance on their defeated foes have become, to a certain extent, satisfied. Let us hope so. They are but human, and the beginning of the Ferguson regime was very similar in many respects.

At the same time it must be admitted, and be recorded to the credit of the present Ontario Prime Minister, that he has endeavoured in some respects to carry out certain pre-election promises. His campaign against high-salaried officials and supernumeraries meets with public approval. If one third of what has been hinted and charged as to our provincial finances is true, the present Premier and Minister of Finance has a task that will require all his attention and energy.

So many changes have been made, so many experienced and well-qualified officials dismissed, and their places filled with men of little or no experience, that if the present Government can weather the storm of hostile criticism, dissatisfaction, and unemployment that seems to be gathering about them, they will have to cease mouthing and get down to real work.

In the meantime, and notwithstanding the protest of Hon. Dr. Faulkner, one of the members of the present Government, the spoils system is at work overtime, and in the most remote corners of the province. No mercy or the slightest consideration is shown. Men who have held minor offices, such as Division Court Clerks, Bailiffs, car license vendors, and even men who work on the roads, are being dismissed without cause, sense or reason, and their places filled by those who have been labelled with the badge of ward heller or true blue grit.

It is a policy that has created more ill-feeling, and desire for revenge, than anything else since the election. A ruthless system of political spoilation that is without precedent and without reason. It is bound to react on those who have encouraged it, and, unless the unexpected happens, this province will, for years to come, be in the control of those whose principal object will be to fool the public and reward their friends.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS

The municipal elections in Winchester will be held the first Monday in January, 1935, instead of in the month of December for some years past. The necessary by-law changing the date was passed at a recent meeting of the council. No good reason could be advanced for the changing of the date other than some people thought it better "as it used to be." On the other hand, there were those who thought that municipal elections and Christmastide and New Year Greetings did not go well together, and it was good to have the little turmoil, and squabble, if any, all over before the holiday season. However, as there was no objction raised, the by-law was introduced by Councillors Moffatt and Bessin.

So far as the Press can learn, there is little interest being taken in the forthcoming election. Some say there is likely to be a complete change. Reeve Ross is retiring, and Mr. T. O. Keyes has announced that he will be in the field for the office. Other names have been mentioned, but no definite announcement made, and it is doubtful if Mr. Keyes will have any opposition.

The affairs of the town are in good condition, and the Council of the past year has been faithful and vigilant. On the whole, Winchester has been fairly well served by its municipal authorities, and there is no particular one member of the Council Board who is deserving of special mention. All have worked as they belived in the best interests of the municipality, and have been faithful and conscientious in their attitude toward all. Let us hope that the Council of 1935 will prove as faithful to their trust.

WHAT ABOUT THE FARMER AND ROAD-BUILDING

Loans to farmers through the Agricultural Development Board were cut off when the Hepburn Government came into power, and so far there has not been anything done to help finance the farmer. If a farmer can, as he should, borrow money from the Government at three or four per cent., is it surely better than borrowing from the banks or private individuals at from five to eight per cent. It would appear that in Government schemes the poor farmer comes in for the least consideration.

It was announced yesterday that the Ontario Government has decided to expend sixteen millions of dollars in building a highway for tourists along the north shore of Lake Superior, from Sault Ste. Marie to Port Arthur. It is, of course, intended as a "Relief" measure, to give employment to men who are willing to spend a winter in the coldest region of Ontario. It gets the unemployed out of the cities. It gives a number of favourite jobs, as superintendents; it means that a very large portion of that sixteen millions will be expended in the building of shacks, the purchase of machinery that as soon as the work is done will be abandoned, and allowed to rot and rust. If ten millions were expended in placing the same number of men among the farmers of Ontario, to be used in repairing buildings, painting buildings, repairing machinery, improving and building fences, plantjng trees, clearing land, and the farmers paid for their board and lodging, it would be more to the point, and help not only the unemployed, but the farmers.

It is safe to say that a very large portion of that sixteen millions will never pass through the fingers of the men who will do the real work of road building. When the cost of transportation of men and supplies, the policing of the whole district, the paying of those who sit in comfortable offices and plan and direct the work, is deducted from the amount voted for "Road Building," the poor man, as usual, will come out at the short end.

WHY WE DON'T GET ALONE WITH OUR RELATIVES

The people we ought to get along with best are the very ones who cause us the most trouble. These are our relatives.

Yes, our brothers ,sisters, uncles, aunts and cousins—our near-relatives—know us intimately and better, not only because they've known us longer than strangers usually do, but also because in their blood run hereditary influences similar to those we, ourselves possess. These factors should make relatives more understanding, more sympathetic, more co-operative.

Probably that's why the expression, "blood is thicker than water," came into being. It means that our loyalty to our clan—those bound to us by blood ties—is, and should be, greater than to those who cannot claim such close kinship.

Yet, it is not true that the reverse is really the case? For how many actually get along wth their relatives? Are not relatives as a rule, annoying, if not deliberately exasperating? Are not most of us glad when they are not around and when they do not try to exert their pernicious influence upon us?

That exceptions to these general truths exist goes without saying. They are, nevertheless, so exceptional that we comment upon them.

You will note that in my enumeration of relatives I did not mention "in-laws"—that is, relatives we acquire by marriage—nor did I specifically consider the one in-law who is supposed to cause so much trouble that her conduct has become a standing joke. I refer, of course, to the mother-in-law.

The reason I left all in-laws out of consideration ,for the time being at least, is because they are relatives in a class by themselves. That is, the reasons which motivate them in making a nuisance of themselves are not identical with those that obtain in the case of blood relatives.

Just because blood is thicker than water is the reason why each and every human liability as well as asset is accentuated a thousand per cent. While you might dislike a stinginess in a casual acquaintance or friend, you would probably detest it in your sister or your cousin. On the other hand, should you merely admire politeness in a man you know but slightly, you are likely to adore it when it is a trait possessed by your brother.

Anyway, love and hate are not opposite emotions but the opposite extremes of the same emotion. Psychology says that the ones we love best are the very ones we could dislike right royally, while, contrariwise, if we hate someone we possess also the capacity for loving him.

Thus we find that married folks who have loved each other deeply and sincerely will revile each other in a most surprising manner, should they happen to get a divorce. Those whom we neither love nor hate leave us totally indifferent. That is, they do not rouse us either one way or the other. But if we are influenced by another person it must be either for or against. This for or against means either like or dislike, and like or dislike is merely a mild form of love or hate.

Inasmuch as we are brought up in the same family as our brothers and sisters and are subjected to the same environment, a foundation of mutual affection and helpfulness is laid down whether we will it or not. And when very young, when subjected to what the science of the emotions likes to refer to as "family romance," we tend to like each other better than when we grow to adult years.

Here the reason is, that while still children, we have not yet developed personality and individuality, nor the critical faculty. Later, however, our egos see to it that this personality and individuality are properly safe-guarded and protected. Then it is that we resent interferences on the part of our relations.

When it comes to cousins—also blood relations—the mechanisms involved are again somewhat different.

It must be remembered, first of all, that cousins are likely to be of about the same age as ourselves. This naturally produces a spirit of rivalry, and and with rivalry feelings of ,antagonism are bound to co-exist. In addition, one is forever hearing that Cousin So-and-So just got a new car or dress, that Cousin So-and-So was graduated with high honours, that another cousin is keeping company with a millionaire—because I am sure the point is clear.

What especially upsets one about relatives in general is that they all try to take advantage of their relationship and consider themselves privileged characters. They drop in on you whenever it suits ther convenience and irrespective of your own. Always, too, they are ready with advice, especially of the "I told you so" variety. And have you ever observed that when you have good news to tell them they have comparatively little to say in reply, but should it bad news, particularly some personal misfortune, they will comment upon it for the rest of the day?

Now as to mother-in-law. Why should they be so feared? The basic reasons for the average mother-in-law's behavior are not, however, difficult to find. Consider at the outset, however, that a mother-in-law is never so formidable, when it is her daughter who marries, compared to the case when it is her son.

For a mother transfers a tremendous amount of love to her boy, sometimes even at the expense of her husband, and when the former marries she is in danger lest this love be lost. Besides, her daughter-in-law is of the same sex and younger. The son naturally "transfers" to the girl at the expense—at least so the mother feels—of herself. Whereupon one must conclude that if a young married woman can get along with her mother-in-law, without friction or antagonism of any kind, either the husband's mother or the wife, or both, possess exceptionally fine understanding and character.

Grandparents usually do not cause as much trouble in families as do the younger generations, and the same may be said for one's parents. The appearance of new babies in the family has a great influence in softening the hearts of these "oldsters." But when they do cause trouble, the same general psychology is at work as has already been mentioned, while it is significant to emphasize that nine times out of ten it is the female of the species that causes the trouble.

Unfortunately, women do not allow reason and logic to rule them as much as men do. They allow emotion and prejudice to rule.

In general, however, when it comes to your own reactions to your relatives, you as a woman, need not feel that you are to blame if you cannot get along with them as you would wish. In fact, if you did get along with them you would constitute one of the comparatively rare exceptions that prove the rule.

The best any of us can do is make all possible excuses and comprises when it comes to our contacts with our relatives. Nevertheless, it is not wise to give in too much. Along that road lies loss of independence and even prestige and respect in their eyes. Human nature is human nature.

Unfortunate as my conclusion must be, I do not hesitate to advise that if, after you have tried repeatedly and failed, you simply cannot make a go of it with your relatives, blood or otherwise, it is best to drop them so that you may paddle your own canoe alone.

MENTAL HYGIENE

A plea for the practice of mental hygiene in the interests of better mental health was made by Professor S. F. H. Chant, of the University of Toronto, in the course of a lecture on "Some Psychological Principles of Mental Health, in connection with the University Extension Course.

Professor Chant said that everyone thought and acted abnormally at times, and that all would be the better of practising mental hygiene as a part of their regular life, just as they practised physical hygiene. Some of the suggestions given for such practice were:

Learn to accept the inevitable.

When fearful or worried, try to be reasonably active.

Learn to live in the present, rather than in the past or future.

Try to determine the facts about that which is feared, and have some avocation that will provide a release from worry or frustration.

Do not try to justify one's fears.

Develop satisfactory habits of rest, exercise and diet.

Objectify the outlook and bring worries and troubles to the light of day.

Do not become unsocial.

Do not sulk or mope; overcome frustration in large things by the accomplishments of a number of smaller things.

Counteract a competitive business life with non-competitive recreation.

If suffering from inferiority, try to determine the cause, and if the result of faulty training seek to improve the education, and have something to contribute to conversation.

Never be over-conscious of uniqueness. All people are pretty much alike, most of us just ordinary.

The queer thoughts that sometimes cross the mind are experienced by all people, but not always admitted.

Avoid all extremes of emotional behavior.

Try to form good mental habits rather than to suppress the bad ones. When the good ones are formed the others will be gone.

Advertising never pays the man who never does any of it.

HOW TO KEEP CANADIAN CHEESE

Canadian Cheddar cheese is made in various sizes and can be secured at all seasons of the year and in almost any quantity. Many people prefer to buy only what is needed for a few days at a time and, in that case, there is no difficulty in keeping it. Those who live some distance from a shop can buy it in large amounts and, with proper care, keep it in good condition for considerable time.

For the average family a 10-pound cheese is usually a convenient amount to buy at one time. One-half of the cheese may be preserved for future use by covering the freshly cut side with a thin layer of paraffin wax and keeping it in as cool a place as possible until required. The other half will keep fresh and moist if put on a flat plate or sheet of waxed paper with the freshly cut side down. When serving, it is better to scoop out the amount required with a small spoon or knife, leaving the outer edge uncut. The cheese should be turned upside down on the plate as soon as the meal is over and put away in the coolest place available. This will prevent the cheese from becoming hard or dry and there will be no danger of it moulding.

If cheese is allowed to become hard and dried out, it is not spoiled and should not be wasted It can be grated and used in cooking. If very dry, cheese will keep well if put in a clean, dry, glass jar and it is just as valuable for cooking as fresh moist cheese. It will usually have a more pronounced flavour than fresh cheese and this is often desirable when combining it with other foods.

TRICKED BY FLATTERY

All of you young people like flattery, but not if you know it is flattery. A girl may enjoy being called the town beauty if she thinks the speaker really means it. If she could know, however, that privately he considers her extremely plain, instead of pleasing her, the flattery would make her furious.

No one would be injured by flattery who tested it by his own common sense. The trouble is that you want to believe it. You open your eyes and shut your eyes. A plain girl who is called a beauty, a stupid young fellow who is made to feel by clever flattery that he is a fascinating conversationalist, really know better. They accept the flattery because they want to believe it, but in reality they are not deceived.

Instead of being deceived by flattery, take a little time to think it over. Use your common sense. You know better than anyone else whether or not all that has been said is deserved. Do not gulp it down merely because it has a pleasant flavor.

RABBIT FUR

An indication of the wide use made of rabbit pelts is contained in the list of trade names under which the fur is marketed. It may come in a garment, or fur set, or trimmings known as Arctic seal, Australian seal, Baltic black fox, Baltic leopard, Baltic brown fox, Baltic lion, Baltic seal, Bay seal, Beaverette, Belgian beaver, bluerette, castorette, chapchillas, chinchillette, Coast seal cony, conny leopard or mole, electric beaver, mole or seal, ermiline, erminette, fox hair, French beaver, French chinchilla, French cony, leopard, sable or seal, imitation ermine, mendoza or meskin beaver, minkony, moline, muskratine, near or nothern seal, Polar, Red River or Roman seal, Russian leopard, sable hair, sealette, sealine, squirrelette, or spirreline and visonette.

THE UNITED CHURCH

Rev. Geo. H. Smith, of Morewood, made an impressive appeal on Sunday morning on behalf of the M. and M. should we discriminate between home fund, taking Luke 10:29 for a text. Jesus said the world was His Kingdom and foreign missions. The entire work done by the Church is Good Samaritan work. Mr. Smith told of the wonderful work done by the Home Mission Board and the Board of Education.

An increase in givings to the M. and M. fund by 5 per cent. has been asked for this year. This appeal is entitled to our support even to the point of sacrifice. If we wish to really live we must give. We receive much from God, so let us give that we may be partakers of the abundant life.

Rev. John McKay spoke in the evening on "The Silent Jesus," who never was afraid of nor unprepared for his enemies. He never revealed much about his Father. Silence is golden. Leaders often talk too much.

The calmness of spirit exhibited by Jesus before Pilate was commended, and recommended for His followers.

DOG HOLDS FRANCHISE

"Bingo," the only dog in Canada on the voters' list, has lost his franchise. His name was struck off the list Monday by F. Willard Savignac, registrar for the electoral district of West Ottawa.

"The enumerators, two ladies, received the name of 'Bingo Pauze, clerk' from the occupant of an apartment," explained Mr. Savignac. "They took the name in good faith, not realizing it was a practical joke."

Nonetheless Bingo attained a distinction no other dog ever attained as his name was on the voters' list for two weeks.

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

OUR GRIM VISITOR

I write this, thinking of old Winter—grim to most of us who live in the so-called "Temperate Zone." Winter certainly adds to the householder's responsibilities as well as to the duties of the family doctor.

The kiddies are going to school. . . . What a blessing. Have you immunized your little dears against possible contagions they may encounter working in the little army? Diphtheria may put in its ugly appearance. Scarlet fever should be provided against. And, there is a good immunizer against whooping-cough. It's nice to be safe, you know.

I shall not attempt to advise you in this important procedure; I'm just reminding you that it's time to see Dr. Goodheart, your family doctor. He has all the things you need.

Now is a good time to take invoice, as it were,—of the children's feet. Give those toe-nails a going-over. See that each little terminus is in proper shape for the winter's housing. . . . Those little feet that take a thousand steps to your one! Select shoes for winter wear with capable soles that give a natural casing for the growing foot. Above all, do nothing that will cramp the toes. Also, insure against cold or wet feet.

I do not believe in "darning-needle toes" for shoes, either juvenile or adult. The feet are very important organs. They are the best of servants if properly respected.

I perhaps need not say this but my big, parent-heart is right. I do not believe in, nor endorse in any degree, the cute little nothings that I see worn by my ladies and little daughters out on the streets in winter. And I look at feet often.

THE LUCKY PEOPLE

Some of you young people envy, or think you envy, the people who do not have to work, who get up in the morning when they feel like it and plan their days without regard to jobs or salaries. There have always been a few such people to be reckoned with, and always they have been envied by a goodly proportion of the world's workers.

Somehow, when you come to look into the matter, however, you do not find these people who are idle because they have everythnig without working for it, so fortunate as you might suppose. They are very likely to plunge into folly and dissipation, as though in using legitimate pleasures every day and all day, they had worn them out. The percentage of suicides among them is amazingly high.

Some of you are thinking that even if you were not obliged to work, you would not be lazy. You would work, however, only when you felt like it. The habit of working regularly operates like all other habits; it makes work easy. If you wait to work until you feel like it, you will feel like it less and less frequently. When you do try it, you will find it needlessly difficult.

No one should be pitied because he has to work, nor envied because he is free to spend all his time in play. The lucky people are those who have work they must do, and strength with which to do it.

BEST MAPLE LEAF IS FROM QUEBEC

The most beautiful maple leaf found in Canada this autumn and submitted to judges appointed by the Royal Canadian Academy was sent in by Mrs. A. A. Adams of Bay Mills, Que., the judges announced in Montreal last week.

More than 10,000 leaves were chosen by residents of every province. From this huge number the judges finally reduced the most beautiful in form and coloring to three, awarding Mrs. Adams first place and second honors to two leafs, submitted by Mrs. Guy H. Humphrey, Hampton, in King's county, N.B., and Marshall I. White, Milton West, Ont. Third prize was eliminated as the judges were unable to choose between the selections of Mrs. Humphrey and Mr. White.

NOVEMBER

There's gladness in November days
With all their sense of loneliness
For they foretell in many ways,
Of coming days of shut-in bliss,
Though foliaged boughs are leafless now
And all the trees stand stark and sear,
We shall not need their shade I vow
When zero days are here.

And though our jaunts will be less long,
When hill and moor are clad in snow,
We still have joy and gladsome song
Within our homes where fires glow,
So, though these chill November days
May curb our freedom thus to roam
They prophesy in many ways
Of sweeter joys within the home.

WE GO THIS WAY BUT ONCE

We go this way but once, O heart of mine,
So why not make the journey well worth while,
Giving to those who travel on with us,
A helping hand, a word of cheer, a smile?

We go this way but once, ah, never more
Can we go back along the self-same way,
To get more out of life, undo the wrongs,
Or speak love's words we knew but did not say.

We go this way but once; then let us make
The road we travel blossomy and sweet,
With helpful, kindly deeds and tender words
Smoothing the path of bruised and stumbling feet.

NEVER SAY DIE

They said that it couldn't be done,
Not any way under the sun,
The strongest, the brainiest shook their heads,
After discussing each phase into shreds,
So—they said that it couldn't be done.

But I, poor fool, I didn't know
That the wiseacres had pondered so,
And had found it impossible to be done
By a dozen, a hundred—let alone one,
It is true that I didn't know.

So I pocketed fear and safely hid it;
I called on my strength to do as I'd bid it.
All alone, and helped out by none,
Ignorant that it couldn't be done;
I just went ahead and did it!

SIMPLE THINGS

By Molly Bevan

Happy is he, who in this life,
Bring what it will of care and strife,
Can keep throughout his threescore springs,
A child's delight in simple things.
We're eight, eighteen, then twenty-eight;
"Grown up," we sternly shut the gate
On all the dear, remembered ways
We knew in youth's untrammelled days.
Our daily work must be sufficient,
And we must strive to be efficient,
And not go sailing shoreless seas,
On wondrous, dream-built argosies;
We can't expect to earn our food
By seeking fairies in a wood,
Or thrilling to some grand old rhyme
Of battles in forgotten time,
So, held by never-conquered bars,
We cease to wonder at the stars;
Forget, or else too swiftly tire
Of watching pictures in the fire;
The music of the harping winds,
Is lost upon our wearied minds,
And, scornful of accustomed ways,
We strive to gain earth's newer toys;
Scoff at our childhood's sheltered nooks,
Our carefree games, our worn-out old books,
That yet could give a keener bliss,
Bring back that "something" which we miss
And never find, if growing old,
In endless toiling after gold.
We clip our spirit's eager wings
And lose our joy in simple things.

LIFE

Forenoon and afternoon and night,
—Forenoon,
And afternoon and night,—Forenoon, and what!
The empty song repeats itself. No more?
Yea, that is Life: Make this forenoon sublime,
This afternoon a psalm, this night a prayer,
And Time is conquered, and thy crown is won.

—E. R. Sill

THE SPARE MINUTE

Oh, what will you do with the minute to spare?
The gay little, stray little minute to spare,
Who comes from the clime
Of old "Plenty-of-Time,
With never a worry, and never a care.

Oh, what shall we do with the minute to spare?
The dear little, queer little minute to spare,
Who's only content
So long as he's spent,
No matter, however, whenever or where.

We'd better take care of that minute to spare,
The wee little, free little minute to spare
And never refuse
That minute to use,
It always is ready some burden to bear.

A RECEIPT FOR LUCK

An old receipt for luck runs as follows: Mix thoroughly equal parts of honesty and ambition. Stir into these sufficient stick-to-it-tiveness to thoroughly emulsify and then apply generously to every task that has to be done. Like Grandmother's mustard plasters, this has great "drawing" powers, so we are told. Luck of the desirable sort is simply the drawing to ourselves of the good things of life.

THE ART OF LISTENING

The art of listening, like the art of thinking, is an achievement. It is not everybody that can listen carefully, and learn thereby. Perhaps it is because few people can converse well enough to hold the average person's attention. There is something to that.

There may be times when one amongst a crowd of people talking like blue streaks, remains silent. The silent one might be termed a quiet fellow. He may be quiet, yet be a good listener. Engage this quiet person in conversation and it might be surprising how much he knows.

The Chinese may not have a word for it, but the saying that it is better to have two ears and one mouth can be credited to them. Ancient Chinese sages "said a mouthful when they uttered that remark."—Regina Leader-Post.

WORRY

Worry is the most useless thing in the world.

No matter how serious your troubles, worry cannot help them.

Too much worry shortens life.

And too much of the worrying is done uselessly.

An intelligent mental survey of your problems will avoid it.

Separate the real from the false problems and stop worrying.

"For every trouble under the sun, there's a remedy or there's none."

"If there is one try to find it, if there is none never mind it."

In thinking of your problems always keep this in mind: Today is the tomorrow you worried about yesterday.

This is an excellent guide for present troubles in the light of past experiences.

Intelligent thoughts solve problems; worry only muddles the issue.

An old man looking back over his life said: "I've had a lot of trouble in my life but the most of it never happened."

Face the issues when they are issues or about to become so, and stop worrying.

You'll live longer, be happier and be a better citizen.

Better able to take your fair share in the moral, social and religious problems of your town if—

You stop worrying.

The man who thinks twice before he speaks nowadays will find that the world is talking about something else.

THE BOOK

. . . . . the first line of which reads, "The Holy Bible," and which contains Four Great Treasures . . . . . .

by BRUCE BARTON

AN OLD MAN SETS OUT

PAUL left Ephesus after the riot, but not to return to Jerusalem; he was going across into Europe again. We may imagine the conversation that took place, for we get a wonderful glimpse into his mind in the letters to the Corinthians.

Bruce Barton

"You are going over the same ground again, Paul?"

"Yes, but every time widening the circle. This is my third time out, and each time I make a little larger swing, and see the work growing."

"When do you get back to Jerusalem?"

"Next spring at Easter. I am going to take back the biggest collection that the Jerusalem church ever received."

"Are you going to stay there?"

"Stay there? Do you think I could ever be content to settle down and stay in Jerusalem?"

"But you are getting to be an old man, and travel is hard on you and dangerous."

"Yes, I have been in dangers of many kinds. It has been my privilege to travel farther than any of the other apostles, in labours more abundant, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, in deaths oft.

Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one. Thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day I have been in the deep;

In journeyings often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren;

In weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness."

"That is a long list of perils, Paul. It must nearly have broken you down."

"I have still a heavier burden, my anxiety for all the churches I have established."

"Do you carry them on your mind and feel responsible for them?"

"Who is weak and I am not weak? Who is caused to stumble and I burn not?"

"You have done a great work and have much to be proud of."

"I am proud of it, and have been criticized as being vain about it. I have sometimes been ashamed of myself for letting people know my pride and joy in all this. Yet, while I have sometimes made myself a fool by seeming to boast, I really am not boastful. God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of Christ and in the joy of service."

"When you go out again where shall you go?"

"Back again over the same ground, but more widely, to all the Roman sub-capitals in Asia Minor and Greece, and then to Rome."

GIVING EVERY MAN HIS CHANCE

The New Outlook

Probably nearly every one who has formed any habit of looking over himself once in a while has discovered that it isn't very easy for him to be absolutely fair to any one from whom he differs in any very essential way. The stronger one's convictions are, the more difficult, no doubt, such a task becomes. Yet there is no greater obligation laid upon us, as members of a community in which all sorts of people live and all sorts of idea have place, than that one of trying to give every man and every man's opinion a chance.

We can never be quite sure that our way or our thought is the absolutely best one, and the possibility that it may not be should not only keep us from too much dogmatism but should help us to give at least a friendly look at the other man's. It deserves such fair treatment, for one thing, and, for another, it isn't good for us to get into a habit of not being generous to any one else's point of view.

This isn't to say that we should not have very real convictions ourselves or should not hold to them with strength and defend them with vigor. But occasionally it has been discovered that it is the convictions that we have some perhaps unacknowledged misgivings, about that we defend most pugnaciously. We ought to be in real doubt about those convictions of ours that we are not ready to place alongside those of the man who thinks differently.

It is just possible that if we and the man who disagrees with us did not spend so much time and energy upholding and defending our individual opinions and directed it to the discovery of some new way upon which we could both agree and unite, that much greater progress would be made. Disputation has its value, no doubt, but such value is strictly limited and it rather soon reaches the end of its real usefulness.

In any case it is almost invariably true that conference is better and more fruitful than controversy. Issues become really important when we get them into that other realm of practical achievement.

TOLL OF PREVENTABLE DISEASES

(Brantford Expositor)

Every year thousands of Canadians die for diseases which could be prevented. The Canadian Social Hygiene Council is authority for the statement that on an average one person in three thus dies ahead of his time, and an analysis of Ontario statistics would indicate that the average for this province is even higher, with 34 per cent. of all deaths postponable. Again, it is contended that from two to three per cent. of the population of Canada is continuously on the sick list and that more than half of all disabling sickness could be prevented.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Lafayette, hero of the American Revolution, was also a hero in two other revolutions, both of them in his native France. He took part in the revolution that overthrew Louis XVI and again in 1830.

His first revolution, however, was the American. When he was less than 20 yars old he fitted out a ship at his own expense and with 11 companions came to America to offer his servics to the colonists. He was at once made a major-general in the American army where he proved himself to be one of Washington's best officers despite his extreme youth. His most important contribution to the colonists' cause was the part he played in securing a treaty of alliance with France in 1778.

In the revolution in France in 1789, Lafayette was made commander-in-chief of the National Guard the day after the Bastlle fell. He gave the revolutionary forces their red, white and blue insignia. Although a leader of the revolution at its start, he later became dismayed by it and planned to overthrow the Jacobins in favour of a limited monarchy. He was thus proclaimed a traitor by the revolutionist. He escaped to Belgium and was there captured by the Austrians and held until his release was secured by Napoleon.

Lafayette played no part in politics again until after Napoleon had been overthrown and the Bourbons were restored. In 1830 he again commanded the National Guard which overthrew Charles M and established Louis Philippe as the "citizen king" of France."

CHEAP FEEDS FOR CRATE FINISHING OF POULTRY

In experiments in crate finishing of poultry conducted on the Dominion Experimental Farms it has been found that buckwheat screenings or standard recleaned screenings, a by product from the grain elevators consisting largely of wild buckwheat and broken wheat with a small admixture of wild oats, flaxseed and other weeds, give excellent results both as to quantity and quality of flesh. It was also shown in these experiments that small unmarketable potatoes may be used to advantage in crate feeding. Fed in conjunction with home-grown grains these potatoes gave as economical gains as corn and produced better color and finer quality in skin and flesh. The potatoes may be fed either boiled and mashed, or raw and finely chopped, and mixed with the ground grains and milk.

Breeds for Crate Feeding

The best breeds of poultry for crate feeding are the general purpose types such as Plymouth Rocks and Wyandottes or the heavy types such as Jersey Giants.

WHITEWASH FOR FARM BUILDINGS

The various ways of making whitewash either for the adornment of the home or as a disinfectant of certain farm buildings are of perennial interest.

The mixture used at the Dominion Experimental Station, Scott, Sask., for the inside of buildings used by poultry, sheep, hogs and cattle has several materials added to the lime and water. First fifty pounds of lime is dissolved in eight gallons of boiling water. To this is added six gallons of hot water which has had ten pounds of salt and one pound of alum dissolved in it. One can of lye is added to every 25 gals. of the mixture. A pound of cement to every three gallons is gradually added and thoroughly stirred.

The object of using alum is to prevent the lime rubbing off. Cement makes a more creamy mixture so that it is easier to apply and more surface covered. Lye is addeed for disinfecting purposes, but a quart of creosol disinfectant to every eight gals. would serve the same purpose. Lye is preferred when the color is to be kept white.

Frequently inquiries are made for a waterproof whitewash to be used outside. This can be made as folows: Slake 62 pounds quicklime in 12 gallons of hot water and add two pounds of salt and one pound of sulphate of zinc dissolved in two gallons of water. To this mixture add two gallons of skim milk. An ounce of alum per gallon, though not essential, would improve it. Salt should be omitted if required for metal surfaces which rust.

FLY-EATING PLANT KEEPS OWNER POOR

N. W. Nye, of Seattle, has a pet cobra plant which is causing him a lot of financial worry. It eats too much.

Nye, a mining executive, found the plant several years ago high in the mountains, and gradually acclimated it so that it could be moved to sea level.

The plant has a wide mouth with thousands of fine vegetable hairs which trap flies and other insects and feed on them.

Flies quit hanging around his house, having learned better, and the plant began to starve. So Nye fed it hamburger.

Now "Cobra" has such an appetite for hamburger that the Nye family meat bill is increasing to alarming proportions.

The miner is renaming the plant "Wimpy."

4-H CLUB NEWS

ON THE JOB

While a lot of folks over the country are talking about how to save our wild life, land, forests and other economic and recreational resources 4-H club folks are quietly working here and there on the problem with fine results. Persons familiar with the job to be done and its need look to the nearly 1,000,000 club members and their 100,000 leaders to produce more practical immediate results in this line than may be expected from any other organized effort. The reason is that this is a job which can be done best by the people who own and live on the land. With proper direction and incentives which organized support of their work can supply there is really no limit to what may be done.

Accomplishments of 4-H club folks in a number of states in conserving their natural resources are cited by Mr. G. L. Noble, managing director of the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work. In Nebraska, New Hampshire, New York and other states the planting of trees suitable for timber in cooperation with state forest nurseries has placed thousands of acres of sandy land suitable only for a "tree crop" back into production.

Another fine forestry job is the saving of standing trees from fire and the replanting and thinning out of sections within such areas. Louisiana club members have made a fine showing in this, likewise those of Washington and Oregon and other states. The planting of hardwood trees by club boys and girls of Kentucky is proposed as a fitting memorial to a late distinguished citizen of that state, E. O. Robinson. At least 10,000 hardwood trees would be planted yearly.

Tree planting to prevent soil erosion is being carried on in Iowa in an organized way by club members. They plant ditches and gullies with native shrubs and trees such as black locusts to check the further loss of soil. An indirect benefit of this will be to check further flow of silt into the streams and the Mississippi river.

In Oklahoma land terracing is a project of noteworthy scope among 4-H club members. This is primarily to save top, fertile soil from slipping off the higher land levels. Minnesota is cited as a leader in the conservation of wild life. This is a recognized activity in the 4-H program. It is being carried on through club members providing bird houses and refuges, preventing fires, saving ground nests and providing winter feed.

COULDN'T PAY; FILLED TOOTH HIMSELF

Because he could not afford a dentist's fee, a Weston father purchased cement at a local drug store several months ago and filled his daughter's tooth. It was revealed when the girl was taken to a tonsil clinic for examination, according to the report submitted to the Weston board of education by Miss E. Jones, public health nurse. The child was suffering from an elevated temperature, and had a small abcess at the root of the tooth, involving the outer layer of bone.

MAPLE PRODUCTS INCREASE

Canada's maple sugar and syrup industry is forging ahead once more with an increase of $987,309 being estimated for the 1934 production as compared with that of 1933. An increase of 580,185 gallons of maple syrup and an increase in value of $909,171 is estimated for the 1934 outut as against the 1933 production, the figures being 1,842,500 gallons valued at $2,468,800 for 1934 as compared with 1,262,315 gallons valued at $1,559,628 in 1933. With regard to maple sugar the estimated production is 4,954,000 pounds valued at $577,850 for 1934, as compared with 5,785,130 pounds valued at $499,713 in 1933. In 1933 the average price per pound of maple sugar was 9 cts. against 12 cents in 1934. The combined value of the industry is thus $3,046,650 and compared with $2,059,341 in 1933 shows an increase of $987,309 or 47.9 per cent. The values for the 1934 crop are preliminary and subject to revision as the full production has not yet been sold.

FOUR ESSENTIALS IN HOG RAISING

The first essential in the production of suitable hogs for the market is to have sows of good bacon type, breeding, and quality, and to breed these sows to a high-class bacon type boar. Such breeding stock will produce young pigs with a framework on which finished select bacon hog can be built by proper care and feeding. The second essential is that young pigs must be kept growing steadily from weaning to marketing. With proper feeds and good managements select bacon hogs are ready for market when six or seven months old. Thirdly, close observation should be given pigs at all stages of development, but the most critical period in the life of the bacon hog is just before and after weaning and until the pig has reached the weight of about 80 pounds. At this stage, care must be taken to make sure that the ration is properly balanced. The fourth essential is that for all litters, and particularly for fall litters, direct sunlight is necessary. Straw sheds or colony houses should be placed so as to provide shelter with the opening facing south.—Dominion Department of Agriculture.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Rev Charles E. Dunn

The Christian Steward
Lesson for November 25th.
Matt. 25:14-30.
Golden Text: Matt. 25:21.

It is a significant fact that most people do not know how to distribute their income. They have no budget system, and no philosophy of stewardship. An expert on income management once gave me interesting glimpses of the manner in which people give to the church. She told me of a young man with an annual income of $2800 who spent $208 a year on recreation, and gave only $12 to the church, less than one-half of 1% of his means. Another man she interviewed was paid a salary of $10,000 a year, and gave only $100, or 1%, to the church, while he spent $600 for a saddle horse.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

If folk would take membership in the Christian church as seriously as their daily work and recreation the churches would not have to beg for financial support. An abundance of funds would be available. For instead of presenting to God a mere pittance, everyone would feel ashamed not to give a decent part of his income on a regular basis. St. Paul well stated the rule of Christian giving when he said, "Upon the first day of the week let everyone of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him."

Someone has written: "I am a nickel. I am not on speaking terms with the motorman, I am too small to sit in the movies, I am not large enough to buy a necktie, I am a small consideration in the purchase of gasoline, I am not it to be a tip. But, believe me, when I get into church or the missionary society, I am some money."

It is plain that the rank and file are not conscientious in their giving for they fail to take to heart the Christian principle that we are trustees, for the time being, of God's wealth, and must devote it to the highest uses. Thus few deserve the cordial "Well done" of our Golden Text.

Our Column

Indian summer must be here if one can judge by the delightful weather of the past three days.

It is always well to look twice at the glib-tongued candidate, and then vote for somebody else.

Onions are now highly recommended as a cure for colds. They should minimize, also, the danger of contagion.

A mustard plaster made with the white of an egg will not blister. This is helpful to know, especially with children.

The rain over the week-end aided materially in filling cisterns and should have a real effect on the wells throughout the district. All of which is thankfully received.

HONOURED WITH THIRD TERM

Mr. Robert Revie of Cornwall, was re-elected for a third term as secretary-treasurer of the Life Underwriters' Association of that place at the annual meeting held last week. Mr. Revie is well-known in this district having resided here for some time before moving to the County town.

WINS HIGH HONORS

Mr. W. J. Fawcett, of Winchester Township, was one of the major winners at the Ottawa Winter Fair last week. Cattle exhibited by him in the Holstein division were outstanding, his animals taking three major awards as follows: Junior reserve grand champion female, Reserve senior champion female and reserve junior champion male. I. W. Reid of Osgoode, exhibited the animal awarded the championship in the senior male division.

A REAL POTATO

Mr. William Marquette, of Inkerman, brought a Green Mountain potato to this office yesterday, that would have gladdened the heart of the most exacting Irishman. This giant weighed 3 lbs., 1 oz. when dug, and measured 8 3-4 inches by 4 inches in diameter, to say nothing of being perfect in shape and form. It was graced with 35 eyes and there was plenty of room left on its surface for more. It was rapidly calculated that this potato would feed an ordinary family of three, with enough left over to make potato balls for supper.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CITIZENS' BAND HELD

The annual meeting of the Winchester Citizens' Band was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening last with a large attendance of members. In the absence of the President, Mr. W. F. Workman presided.

The treasurer's report was read by Mr. A. F. Utman showing that the organization was in a position to carry on operations during the winter months. It was pointed out that when the grant is received from the Council, a small balance will be left with which to start the new year.

During the meeting a contribution of $15 was received from Councillor Hyman Bessin, the Band members expressing their appreciation by tendering a vote of thanks. It was decided to resume weekly practices and Mr. Jack Latimer who has capably handled the organization as bandmaster, was re-appointed for 1935.

Following the regular practice last evening, the presentation of a Schaffer pen and pencil set was made to Mr. Latimer by the members, in recognition of his interest and past efforts on behalf of the band.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NEWS

Service will be held in St. Peter's Church, South Mountain, next Sunday evening at 7.30 p.m.

There will be a celebration of Holy Communion in St. Matthias' Church next Sunday morningat 9 a.m. Sunday School at 10.30 a.m.

Mr. Dawson Beattie quietly celebrated his 94th birthday on Monday of this week at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Earle, where his nephew, Rev. R. C. McConnell and Mrs. McConnell, of Inkerman, were guests for dinner.

William Beaupre, of Morrisburg, appeared before Magistrate John McCormick in police court here on Monday charged with being found in a public place in an intoxicated condition. He pleaded guilty, and as this was his second offence was fined $50 and costs. Being unable to pay his fine, he was taken to the counties' jail at Cornwall, where he will remain for two months.

A GIFT OF VENISON

The Press is once again indebted to Mr. Harold Keyes for a delicious piece of venison, a result of his recent hunting trip up north. The gift was thoroughly appreciated and much enjoyed by the editor and his family.

In discussing the trip Mr. Keyes informed us that deer were scarce in that district this year owing to the excessive depth of snow and the prevalence of wolves. His deer was brought down only a few hours before the party left camp.

JUSTICES OF PEACE WILL BE REPLACED

Appointment of justices of the peace at strategic points throughout the province for the purpose of taking "information and complaints" and issuing summonses was announced on Saturday by Attorney-General Arthur Roebuck.

Mr. Roebuck said that a new "general commission of the peace" had been issued, which automatically cancelled the appointment of all present justices whose names did not appear on the new list to be released immediately. Those left off will have no powers as a justice after December 1, 1934, on which date the new commission becomes effective.

The new appointments, the Attorney-General said, were part of his plan to improve the administration of justice in the magistrates' courts.

He explained that the new commission did not affect the power of persons who were justices of the peace by virtue of their office, such as mayors, reeves, deputy reeves, controllers and aldermen.

YOUNG COUPLE HONOURED

About seventy-five friends and neighbours met on Thursday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strader, in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Strader who were recently married. A most enjoyable social evening was spent.

The guests were welcomed by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strader after which a splendid program of music was presented under the chairmanship of Rev. John McKay. The old-time orchestra composed of Messrs. Harry and Cecil Strader, Dixon Hutt and Gordon Wilson, rendered several numbers which were thoroughly enjoyed. Recitations were also given by Misses Iris Summers, Lillian Holmes and Messrs. William Carkner and Wilfred Durant.

During the evening the happy couple were presented with an address, which was read by Mr. Ellsworth Summers, and a wicker chair by Robert Durant on behalf of the community. A delightfully appointed bride's book designed by Miss Annie Strader who also presented to the bride, who was charmingly gowned in her wedding dress of blue transparent velvet.

At the close, dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Donald Strader and Miss Annie Strader, assisted by Misses Alice Whitteker, Beatrice Cross, Iris Summers, Hazel Strader, Lillian Holmes, Jean Summers and Eileen Durant.

Following is the address:
Mr. and Mrs. Herman Strader,
Winchester, Ontario.
Dear Friends:—

It would not be in keeping with the big event which has happened in your lives for your friends and neighbours to allow the occasion to slip by without formally congratulating you and having something to say about your recent marriage. We have watched Herman's many trips in the direction of Dunbar and expected that some day he would bring home a "dear," and now that his trips have been so successful, it is our privilege to honour you both. It seems impossible to think of Herman settling down as an old married man but miracles are always happening. I suppose some day Bob Durant will settle down too.

No words could express our good wishes for you both. We hope that your sea of life will be very calm and peaceful, and that the storms will be few and far between. We desire that the highway that you will travel over may be as smooth as the best parts of Highway No. 31, that no road-hogs will ever have the chance to obstruct the way, and that all your detours will bring you back speedily to the accustomed road again.

We wish this occasion to be remembered in your home and we are anxious that you will have some souvenir there that will always bring to your mind your Summers' friends. We have chosen as our remembrance this chair which we now ask you to accept in our name. There was some suggestion of a chair each, but since newlyweds only use one chair anyway, we thought Herman would be like the rest of them and would want his wife sitting on his lap all the time!

We have some hope that you might both settle down right here in our own community, but wherever you go, we want you to remember that Herman has made for himself in this place a reputation which endears him to everyone, and from what we have seen of his wife, we believe that he has shown the same keen judgment in this matter as he shows in all other matters.

Signed on behalf of all your friends, Ellsworth Summers, Robert Durant.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

There was a very good attendance on Monday evening at the November Institute meeting to hear the report of the Eastern Ontario Convention held in Ottawa in October.

The president, Mrs. J. E. Singleton, conducted the business meeting. A great many uses of salt were given in answer to roll call. Mrs. E. Kellogg read the minutes, gave the treasurer's report and read the correspondence, consisting of a letter of appreciation from Marion Helmer for the opportunity of speaking at our public speaking contest, and for prizes received; also one concerning the Government grant, which it was decided not to ask for this year.

The December meeting will be held the second Tuesday instead of the third. Mrs. R. Crowdr was appointed to take charge of current events for the next three months. Mrs. J. Nesbitt told of some recent happening throughout the world.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Crowder. After all had joined in singing "The Maple Leaf," Mrs. Singleton brought the report of the 20th annual conention, thanking the Institute for the opportunity of being a delegate. This address was very attentively listened to, being given in such an interesting manner. A vote of thanks was extended to her. Dixon Hutt and Gordon Wilson furnished pleasing music on the piano, harmonica and guitar. After singing the National Anthem refreshments were served by the committee in charge; Mrs. R. Crowder, convener; Mrs. W. A. Sherwood, Mrs. J. W. Ault, Mrs. Geo. Wilson, Mrs. Kinkaid.

E. A. SUMMERS DOING WELL

Mr. E. A. Summers, an old Winchester boy, is making quite a name for himself as Agricultural Representative for the County of Durham, and it is gratifying for his numerous friends throughout this district to know, as the old saying goes, that "another local boy makes good." Speaking editorially on the work of Mr. Summers, the Bowmanville Statesman says:

"The remarkable success of Mr. E. A. Summers and his various agricultural clubs in Province and Dominion-wide competitions in the past few years, have been a matter of great pride with Durham people. The Durham County Representative has earned for himself a record unequalled by any other agricultural representative in the Province. Through his ability as a coach, three Durham boys took part in the International Grain Show at Regina last year, and since that time he has won numerous events and contests.

The Farmer's Advocate in its issue of October 25th outlines the fine record of Mr. Summers and his club teams in the Inter-County Club competition held at Guelph.

Included in this fine record are several important wins. The Advocate remarks that, "Durham walked away with three out of four positions in the competition, taking first place in swine, potatoes, and cereals and making the award decisive by also taking second place in swine. Durham's achievement is unprecedented in the annals of boys' and girls' work in the Province of Ontario, and reflects most favorably on the young people of Durham as well as upon the Agricultural Representative, who coached his teams so well."

Much of the praise is being placed by the residents on Mr. Summers. We join heartily in wishing him continued success.
