Challies is Choice of Progressive-Conservatives

At a well attended Convention in the Community Hall at the Consolidated School, Hallville, last Friday evening, Hon. George H. Challies, Vice-Chairman of the Ontario Hydro Commission was unanimously chosen as the Progressive-Conservative candidate to contest the riding of Grenville-Dundas in the Provincial Election to be held on June 7th.

There was only one other nomination placed before the meeting and that was Mr. Allan Farlinger of Morrisburg. Mr. Farlinger said he thanked his supporters but had decided to withdraw his name and make the selection of Mr. Challies unanimous.

Mr. Challies spoke of the potential development of power on the St. Lawrence River and told the gathering of negotiations carried out during the past year between Premier Drew and Governor Thomas Dewey of New York State.

Development of St. Lawrence power at Barnhart Island will mean two Niagaras at the threshold of Eastern Ontario. Our share of the project would yield us 1,000,000 horsepower of dependable electrical energy — twice the amount which is now being developed at Niagara Falls."

Mr. Challies told the crowd that building of the power plant on the St. Lawrence would be the realization of a dream entertained for many years by residents of Eastern Ontario. "Eastern Ontario", he said, "will at last get the advantages that are hers."

Mr. Challies spoke also of Dominion-Provincial relations, and said that by not accepting the proposals of the dominion government in 1946, the province had collected 13 million dollars more than the government at Ottawa had offered.

Speaking of Col. Drew, he described him as a man of tremendous capacity and an indefatigable worker.

He also told of the surveys now being carried out for flood control in the South Nation river valley. An interim report, he said deals with control of run-off, relief from flash floods and increased flow of water at Chesterville.

Other speakers at the meeting were Lieut.-Col. A. C. Casselman, K. C., M. P., and Mr. Arthur L. Smith, M. P. or Calgary West.

HON. GEO. H. CHALLIES

Who has been chosen to contest the riding of Grenville-Dundas in the forthcoming Provincial Election for the Progressive Conservative party. Born in Winchester, his home is now in Morrisburg. He was elected reev of Morrisburg in 1929 and was first elected to the Legislature in 1929. In 1931, he was appointed provincial secretary in the cabinet of Hon. G. S. Henry. He has held the seat of Grenville-Dundas for the Conservative party since the time of his first election. At present he holds the cabinet post of Minister without Portfolio and is also Vice Chairman of the Hydro Commission.

LIONS CLUB MEETING

The semi-monthly meeting of the Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club was held on Wednesday at Bruce Lodge, and was well attended. Lion Frank Casselman had as his guest Mr. C. Allison Graham, the Liberal candidate for the forthcoming provincial election.

The next meeting, which will be Ladies Night, will be held on May 26th, when it is expected that J. R. Giles, District Governor and publisher of the Lachute, Que. Watchman will be present to install officers for this year.

OWNERS MUST REMOVE FOUNDERED MILVERTON

Considered a potential menace to navigation, the partially sunken collier Milverton must be removed from her resting spot in the St. Lawrence river, three miles west of here.

The ship was gutted by fire after coliding with an oil tanker, the Trans lake on September 24th last, and 12 members of her crew lost their lives.

Owners of the Milverton, Sarnia and Colonial Steamships, Limited, have been advised by the Department of Transport aid to navigation branch at Prescott that the wreckage must be removed. Ever since the collision the Milverton has been resting on a ledge with a portion of the ship below water.

At one time it was feared the ship might break in two and rompletely block the steamer channel.

A searchlight has been placed on the wreckage at night as an aid to downbound vessels which necessarily pass rather close to the hulk of the Milverton.

MRS. ETHEL DAWSON

The death occurred very suddenly on Monday of a well and most favourably known resident of Morrisburg, in the person of Mrs. Ethel Dawson, who passed away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Jessie Gorman, Montreal, following a heart attack.

Mrs. Dawson had gone to Montreal to spend the week end with her sister and her death came as a great shock to her host of friends in this community. As a saleslady for a well known drug and cosmetic firm, she was acquainted with almost every person in the village and district, and friendly to all. She was a member and tireless worker of Knox Presbyterian Church, Morrisburg, and was always willing to work just as hard for any other church, or for any good cause.

She was born in Morrisburg, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alex Hughes, and educated here. She married William Albert Dawson and spent most of her life in Morrisburg. Mr. Dawson predeceased her a short time ago.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Jessie Gorman and Mrs. Andrew Benson; a niece, Mrs. John McLean and nephew, Donald McLean, all of Montreal.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, May 13th. from the Jarvis Funeral Home to the Presbyterian Church here at 10.30 a.m. and were in charge of her pastor, Rev. H. P. Maitland. The remains were placed in the vault to await burial later in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Pall bearers were E. M. Beckstead, George Fraser, Fred Howson, John Meikle, A. W. Moore and Robert Merkley.

MRS. RALPH SCHWERDTFEGER

Many friends and relatives paid final tribute to Mrs. Ralph Schwerdtfeger, who passed peacefully away at her home early Friday morning, May 7th, after a short illness, at the funeral service held on Sunday afternoon, May 9th at St. John's Church, Riverside, where the deceased was a member and always active in church work.

The service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. L. Howald, who chose as his text from 1st Corinthians, verses 9 and 10. Misses Aileen and Mary Casselman rendered a duet "Jesus Saviour, Pilot Me", very effectively. The funeral was under the auspices of the Order of the Eastern Star, Chapter 83, of which the deceased was Past Worthy Matron.

Ilda Mary Schwerdtfeger was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John A. Saddlemire (nee Nancy Casselman) and was born April 17th, 1903. She was united in marriage on October 27, 1920 to J. Ralph Schwerdtfeger, who survives with a little daughter Barbara; also surviving are two sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Gertrude McHaffie, Morrisburg; Mrs. M. Dawley, Winchester; Walter Saddlemire at Ajax, Ont.; Orrin Saddlemire at Humboldt, Sask., and Edward Saddlemire at Flin Flon, Manitoba. A younger brother, Charles Saddlemire predeceased her in 1929.

The numerous floral offerings, messages and cards bore silent testimony to the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

Burial was made in the family plot in St. John's cemetery.

The pall bearers were six cousins: Graham, Roscoe, Ray, Russell, Paul and Lyle Schwerdtfeger.

Relatives present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. M. Dawley and family, Winchester; Mrs. Reuben Gallinger, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Kyer of Kars; Mr. Ed. Hanna, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Droppo Finch; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hummell, Chesterville; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Seeley, Rowena; Mrs. Janetta Schwerdtfeger, Cornwall and Chas. McHaffie of Toronto.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE MRS. DAWSON

She was a good woman! Such meagre praise
For this Christian, sincere in all of her ways.
She was a good woman, and ours is the loss.
Her kindly spirit saw the gold, not the dross.
She was a good woman, and I know that above,
Her tired heart is resting in Jesus' love.

Valley OF REVENGE

BY JACKSON·COLE

Synopsis

Chapter XXXIX: Bartle kills Pringle "to keep him quiet." Juanita sees him and, not knowing who he is, captures him. A struggle follows, Juanita stumbles and is overpowered by Bartle.

Chapter XL

But at the instant he was ready to snuff out this life that threatened him, Bartle saw two horsemen approaching.

Juanita was struggling to shoot. Bartle kicked away her weapon, leaped up and threw himself into his saddle almost in one motion. He bolted, spurring his mount to a furious gallop.

Juanita got up, shaking. Then she, too, was on her horse, and was after Bartle at full stride.

At last she had seen the killer face to face—the man who was the solitary lone-handed fountainhead of all the trouble in Deep Water Valley. His face would live in her memory forever!

* * *

Luridly Michael Valdez cursed the black night, for had there been moon and stars, he might have found some sign of Juanita. Ever since he left the Aldman farm he had been searching for her, for something had befallen her, since they had not met there as they had agreed.

Once more as he rode the cry of a mountain cat came from his lips.

There was no response. And Michael Valdez was filled with forebodings when he felt the first big drop of rain strike him like a pebble.

He halted suddenly as an alien sound in the night reached his ears. Could that be Juanita? He waited cautiously, before voicing their usual signal.

Then he made out what the sound was. On the cliff edge of an arroyo rode two men who were talking excitedly. Most of what they said was inaudible. But Valdez caught a few words that cut as deep as a sabre-swipe.

"I'll kill him!" repeated one of the horsemen. "He needs killing!"

Then from the east came more betraying sounds. It was as if the night had suddenly come alive with mysterious horsemen — all riding south. Where? Why?

Valdez made a quick decision, and cautiously followed. Some deviltry was afoot. That was certain.

Michael Valdez rode until a sign from another quarter brought him up short. The odor of burning tobacco. Another fire in a drying shed!

Valdez went on again, over a long stretch, then up to the crown of a hill. He saw lanterns on a farmhouse porch, many horses picketed nearby, riders still arriving, dismounting and entering the house. And as he watched, he felt the very air crackling with the presence of death.

* * *

Michael Valdez' teeth were clenched. Young Straw Aldman had told him how he had burst in upon a conference of cattlemen laying plans for range war. But this house below was no ranch-house. And about it moved only men in the garb of farmers. Had they, too, been summoned to a conference? Was open, ruthless war about to be proclaimed?

"Fools!" gritted Valdez. "They fly at each other's throats, turn on spigots of blood — because they suspect one another. And while they kill each other, somebody else sits back and laughs."

He dismounted. His wet velvet clothing hugging his limbs, he streaked toward the farmhouse, pulling up the soaked scarlet neckerchief over his face.

The front door stood open, and a babble of voices drifted out. Valdez crossed the porch with the silence of a cat.

* * *

A whiskered man whom Valdez recognized as old Daniel Nelson flung the lid off a new wooden box. The lamp, suspended from the ceiling, threw its yellow rays upon new Colts and tightly packed boxes of bullets.

"I told you men all to come here the next time ructions busted loose in the valley," Nelson said. "I said I'd be ready to tell you what we must do — unless we're content to be burned out and killed off like so many rabbits. They tried to burn down Chris Pringle's drying shed tonight. This time they didn't do much damage, but I reckon it shows that we've given the law chance enough to keep peace here. Now we move."

"It's Pete Haskell who's at the head of it all!" shouted a man whose hat dripped rain and whose eyes blazed rage. "The Half Circle H Ranch first! That'll teach 'em!" He grabbed for one of the Colts.

* * *

"You wait, Jim Kier!" commanded Nelson. "The man who takes one of these guns makes a vow it'll be used only to collect debts owed. If a building burns in this valley, these guns will back your claim to the right to burn a ranch building. If there's another killing in this valley, these guns are to collect a life — but only one for one. We don't want any wholesale burning or killing. Those of you who are agreeable to that — and are ready to abide by the orders — can help themselves."

Men surged towards the table — men who itched for the tools of death they believed could bring them justice. Then, as if some irresistable obstacle had dropped between them and the deadly box, every man halted ad stood still.

In the doorway stood a man, his very presence a potent command for silence and attention. The feared, scarlet-masked Caballero Rojo.

"Shift!" he said. "All of you. Away from that box."

Sunday School Lesson

Rev. R. Barclay Warren

Malachi Demands Sincere Religion

Malachi 1: 1, 6-9; 2: 13-14; 3: 7-12.

Golden Text: Why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say? Luke 6: 46.

It is not unusual for men to cry to God when in distress. But when delivered, it is so easy to forget one's Benefactor. So it was with the exiles after their return from Babylon. In spite of many difficulties they were enabled to rebuild their city and the holy temple, but their enthusiasm for the religion of their fathers soon began to wane. Malachi was raised up to call the people back to sincere religion.

In the printed portion of the lesson Malachi speaks of three distinct evils. First; instead of offering of the best of the flocks to the Lord, they presented the blind, the sick and lame. What was no good to them, they gave to God. This was not only disobedience to God's commands, but it illustrated a very unwholesome attitude on the part of the people.

The second evil was unfaithfulness in marital relations. Many men were dealing treacherously by putting away the wives of their youth. The Lord "hateth putting away".

The people were also "robbing God" by failing to bring in the tithes and offerings. The giving of the tenth of one's increase or profit began at least as early as Abraham. It was later commanded by the law of Moses. God promised spiritual and temporal blessings if the people would obey the command. It may be bad mathematics to say the nine-tenths will go as far as ten-tenths but many will testify that God's promise, as given by Malachi, is still valid.

Planning A Career

"I would like to know what my most outstanding characteristics are and also my worst faults. Does my writing indicate that I have the ability to become a writer or a newspaper reporter?" writes Mrs. E. M. B.

* * *

Dear Mrs. E. M. B.—Life's work is too important to plan another person's career by mail and no one with the welfare of enquirers at heart would attempt to choose a vocation for them. Personal discussion on all points pertaining to personal history, heredity aand so on would be required, and even then the final decision must be made by the individual. All the analyst can do is to list outstanding qualities shown in the script together with some suggestions.

* * *

Your writing is indicative of quick and deep thinking with tendencies toward emotional and sentimental traits. An outstanding characteristic is that you have an intensely investigative nature and are at your best when selecting and arranging things logically. You have instinct to recognize the most important things and also a rare gift to organize numerous factors to the best advantage.

Some of the faults are that you are a definite thinker and others may consider that you are stubborn and abrupt in speech as you do not do things diplomatically.

A vocation that gave you scope to organize colorful arrangements into a display might appeal. A second choice would be employment that requires organizing and teaching others.

Your outstanding traits would also be very useful to a person desirous of taking up newspaper reporting.

I am interested and I always

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I impart a creamy flavor to soup?

A. Place a piece of cheese, about the size of a walnut, in each quart of soup, before serving, and it will impart a rich, creamy flavor.

Q. How can I prevent the shells of eggs from cracking when boiling them?

A. This will not happen if the eggs are dipped into cold water immediately before putting them into the boiling water.

Q. How can I restore a sponge that has hardened from not being used?

A. Cover the sponge with cold water, to which has been added one teaspoonful of borax. Then boil it for about one minute. Remove the sponge, rub dry borax into it, and then rinse in cold water.

Q. How can I sharpen the sewing machine needle?

A. Try stitching for several inches through a piece of very fine sandpaper.

Husband Courts Married Woman

"Dear Anne Hirst: I have a very serious problem. First, about myself, I was divorced from my first wife. I am 47 years old, have three married children who have homes of their own some distance away.

"During the last war, I met and fell in love with a woman whose husband was in service. We were together constantly. On his return home, I broke away from her — and married a woman who has a small daughter. I never loved her, but I thought I might bring myself to forget the other.

"After two years, it is impossible for me to do it. I am seeing the other person three and four times a week now. My present wife knows about it. I have asked for a divorce, but she refuses even to talk of it.

"I know it isn't just to her to be living here. I would rather she were free of me. She is a very good woman; but no matter how I try, my heart isn't in our home. Any advice you can give me will be appreciated. Chic."

Would Wreck Two Homes!

* Playing fair does not matter a great deal to you, does it? You made love to one woman while her husband was serving his country — a pretty cheap trick, wasn't it?

* Then you persuaded another woman to marry you. Not because you loved her, but for your own selfish purpose. (I'll wager you never told her you were in love with someone else, did you?) You accepted her love, and her faith in you. Now you have outraged both.

* And back you are with the first one, doing your best to break up the home she has tried to make for her husband. — Again, for your own purpose.

* How long do you think you can get away with it? It would serve you right if this husband took things into his own hands.

* What price honor — or don't you remember the word?

Do What is Right

* You will never have any peace in this world so long as you think only of your own desires. Your heart may not be in your home, but you had better bring it back there and lock it in — if your wife will let you.

* You never can be happy until you learn to do what is right. That is so obvious that you should not need anybody to advise you.

* Stop seeing this ex-soldier's wife at once. Give her a chance to rebuild her marriage — that marriage which she once betrayed. Try to restore the wrong you have done your wife who trusted you. Cultivate her as you never did when you were courting her. Give her your friendship, at least, and make up to her for this grief you have brought upon her.

* I think you will be amazed to discover how happy a good wife can make a man who gives her the chance.

Evil catches up with us. Only when we know we are living right can we know peace. If you are confused tell Anne Hirst about it. She will help you find courage. Address her at 123, 18th Street, New Toronto, 14.

Stack 'em up—and collect $50! Maybe you pride yourself on your skill at pancake-making. Perhaps your husband has told you, some sunny Sunday morning, that you're just about the best griddle-cake composer in the world.

So here's your chance to cash in on your skill. To the maker of the three best pancakes at next Fall's Canadian National Exhibition will go a grand cash prize of fifty dollars—and there will be other valuable awards for second, third and fourth as well. The C.N.E. will supply all the materials too — all you need is courage enough to enter, and the ability to handle a frying pan.

Speed, skill and quality will all be taken into consideration in the judging. And here are a couple of things we almost forgot to mention. The contest is open to men, boys and girls, as well as women. And one of the rules says, "No contestant will be obliged to eat his or her own pancakes."

Better get busy and go into training, don't you think?

Some Notes From The Farm Front

By John Russell

Hydroponics sounds like some new kind of medical treatment. Actually it's simply a highbrow name for the process of growing fruit, vegetables and flowers without the use of soil — and it's something that's interesting more and more people every day.

It isn't really new by any means. More than a hundred years ago a European scientist, in a laboratory test proved that plants would grow in nothing but clear water in which soil had been previously soaked. But its development was speeded up terrifically during the war, when large hydroponic farms were established to provide fresh vegetables to the troops on soilless rockeries like Iwo Jima and Ascension Islands. Even now American forces in Japan get vegetables grown in tremendous "tank farms"

The process is a simple one. Those wishing to start in a small way just punch a little hole or two in th bottom of a cigar box, fill it with fine, clean gravel, put in seeds, give the whole thing a southern exposure and begin the feeding process.

The necessary chemicals can be obtained through many drug firms; and there are also different brands of "ready mixed" plant foods on the market. A little of the mixture in powder form — stirred up in ordinary water — goes a long way, as the liquid caught by means of a drain hole in the bottom of the box, can be used over and over again.

You keep the gravel moist until the seeds sprout, after that sprinkle twice a day. Soon the little seedlings are ready to l transplanted to your regular garden, and are said to be as healthy and sturdy little fruit, vegetable and flower plants anyone would wish to see.

But that is what might be called a half-way hydroponic process depending, as it does, on the final use of soil. For those who want to go the whole way with gravel, here's how one man — told about in Collier's Magazine — went about it.

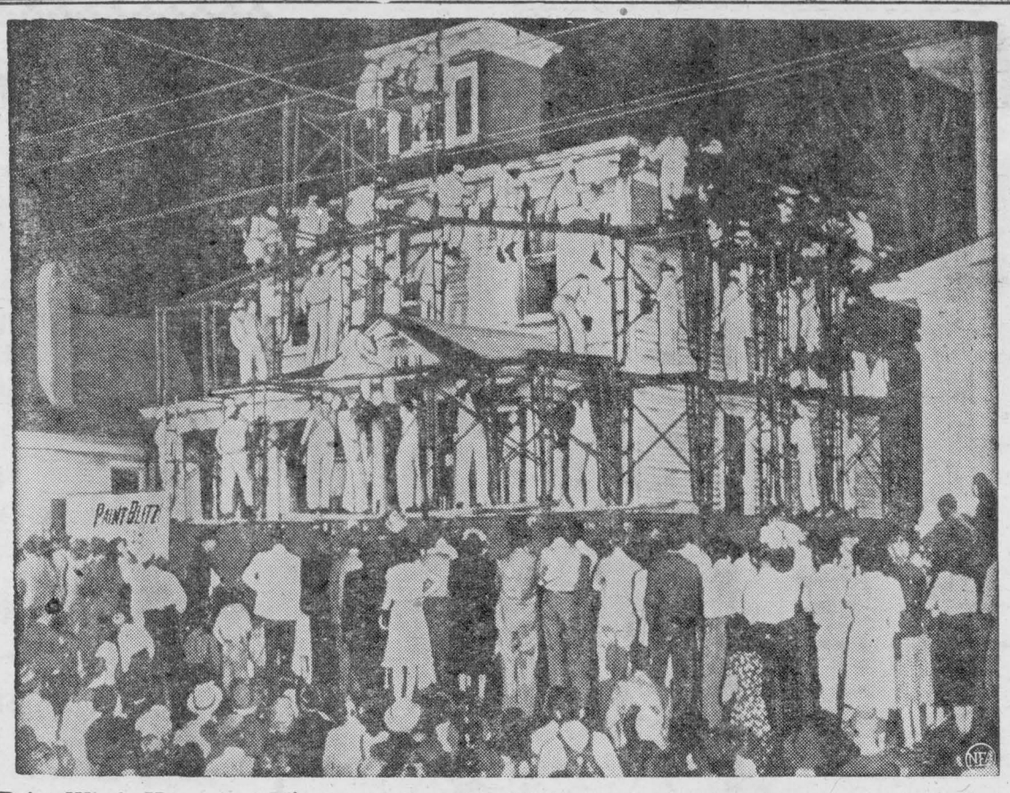

He made two boxes, each 30 by 54 inches, and set them at a convenient height — then planted his seeds in the five inches of gravel the boxes held. A pound of powdered chemical salts in a gallon of water as his "feeding stock" — this being measured out as required at the rate of one ounce of the mixture to a gallon sprinkling can of water.

Five weeks after the planting he and his family were eating tender string beans. Cucumbers were ripe on the vines in 36 days. The first tomatoes, started as seedlings, were ready for the table in 64 days. And he says that the quality of all he grew was incomparably delicious.

As a strictly commercial proposition, hydroponic gardening is still in the experimental stage, although millions of dollars have already been invested and some commercial growers have made a cleanup. others have not been so fortunate. Tomatoes, cucumbers and strawberries are among the favorite crops; and in many cases superior flavor and appearance are claimed to bring premium prices.

However, even if hydroponic gardening should never develop into a real commercial threat for the old-fashioned kind, as a diversion or hobby it's catching like wildfire. That's because any home that has a back yard, a roof or even a window sill can now have a garden — and one that grows things with a minimum of trouble and attention, and with record-breaking speed.

And then there's the very old one about the Southern farmer who was told that he could get his pigs to market a whole lot faster by adopting some new, time-saving method of feeding. "Why should I bother?" he replied disgustedly. "Heck; what's time to a hog?"

Paint Whole House in 5 Minutes, 40 Seconds—With crowds cheering them on, members of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers slap paint on the Memphis home of Mrs. Juanita Webb. The painters finished the job in 5 minutes, 40 seconds. The time is believed to be a new world's record.

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

By Gwendoline P Clarke

We are all feeling so much better satisfied now than we were a few days ago because the men have actually been able to get on the land. The hum of the tractor has indeed been a welcome sound after such a cold, wet and backward spring. Now, although we have no grain sown the ground is ready and we expect the drill will be doing its job tomorrow—that is, if it doesn't rain again. Bob has been running the tractor all the time—with his leg still in a cast. It is amazing what can be done once a person is fitted up with a "walking cast", though I am sure it must be a very heavy and tiring thing to carry around.

* * *

From what I hear very little has been done in gardens anywhere—nothing at all right here—it has really been too cold and windy to work outside for very long. Our garden, this year, is full of disappointments. There are not nearly as many daffodils in bloom as usual and some of my shrubs are in a sorry plight. Two variegated elders that were so very decorative are just about done. The roots are still living but the long, sweeping branches will have to be cut right down to the ground. Some of the other shrubs also look pretty sick, partly due to the winter nibbling of rabbits. Growing things on the south side of the house have been more fortunate. We had asparagus before it appeared in the stores and the rhubarb has been particularly sweet and tender.

The taste of asparagus and rhubarb may have whetted his appetite, anyway Partner has been ambitiously planning our vegetable garden. My, won't it be good to have home-grown vegetables again? After being without a garden last year we shall be doubly appreciative of what we hope to get this summer. But I am afraid that will depend largely on Partner. When I look around the house and see the work ahead of me this year I can't see myself putting in much time on the end of a hoe.

* * *

I can see now it doesn't pay to let two years go by without doing some papering and painting around the house. Now it looks as if every room from attic to cellar needs attention—and all at the same time. But housecleaning has its good points. There were days this week when it was so cold and windy I wanted work to do that would keep me warm. (We don't like burning wood in a high wind and our coal supply is just about done, so the house was really cold).

I looked around at the kitchen. Cleaning it was not on the agenda for that day but I couldn't think of a better job to keep me warm, so I went right at it. Believe me, by the time I had the ceiling, walls and woodwork thoroughly separated from their winter coating of grime and smoke, I was warm all right. It was also an opportune time for another reason—the men were so busy in the field they had no time to pay any attention to what I was doing—nor to interrupt me. So long as meals appeared on the table as per schedule I might turn the house upside-down, or sleep all day, for all they would know about what I was doing. That night I said to Partner—"Do you think my kitchen looks any better?" He looked around. "Oh," he said casually, "Have you been cleaning it?" Had I! My hands were proof of that even if the kitchen wasn't.

* * *

Now what do you think of this little episode? Last Monday Bob and I drove to the city. On the way out to the "pick-up" I stopped to pick a bunch of daffodils for Daughter. Some of them grow practically wild among the grass. Soon after arriving in the city I went to a washroom in one of the stores and upon looking in a mirror I was horrified to see, caught up in the net on top of my hat, a bunch of burrs, the kind that grow on those beastly burdocks. "Well," I thought, "there is nothing like advertising the fact that one comes from the country!" Bob said — "Why worry? I don't suppose city folk would even know what it was in your hat." He, by the way, hadn't so much as noticed them. What a man! But when I told Daughter . . . "Mother—how awful—didn't you even know they were there?" No, but I did afterwards I sat in the waiting room for fifteen minutes picking burrs out of that bit of netting on my hat.

New, — And Useful Too

The following are brief descriptions of some of the latest useful novelties and inventions to come upon the market.

A UNIQUE CEMENT. Plastics, wood, metal, rubber, leather, crockery, glass, mirrors and labels can now be easily made to adhere to themselves or to each other by means of a versatile cement having a vinyl base. Two years of research has resulted in the development of this efficient all-purpose transparent white cement, which is easy to apply and does not affect any material to which it is applied.

LOW PRESSURE TIRE. A new, extra low-pressure tire which is said to increase an automobile's safety and comfort has just been announced. Officials of the company making this tire say that it requires only 24 pounds of air pressure, and that it will run cooler than conventional tires. In addition to making car handling easier, the tires provide better and safer steering.

SELF FEEDING PAINT ROLLER A new painting tool has just been put on the market. It consists of a patented roller made of plastic, into which is poured a pint of paint—enough to cover half the average wall or ceiling. The cylinder has holes, like a sieve through which the paint "leaks" to saturate the close-fitting nylon roller cover.

TINY BINOCULARS. Only one fourth the weight and one third the size of conventional kind, these tiny binoculars will be useful either for sport or at the theatre. Housed in magnesium, and weighing but 4½ ounces, the binoculars are said to have a performance equal to those many times the size and weight.

WET WATER FOR FIRE FIGHTING. A newly developed concentration of organic chemicals is of such fast penetrating action that, added to water in small amounts, it increases the fire-extinguishing action of the water from 200 to 400 per cent. Normal use calls for only 1 part of the penetrant to 100 parts of water.

NOVEL KEY CHAIN. Made on the principle of the retractable telephone cord, this key chain extends to six times its coiled length and, on release, immediately retracts to its original shape. A 5½-inch coiled length will extend to approximately three feet.

Mix - Easy — New Cake Method

Here is the newest, quickest way to make perfect cakes. It's "Mix-Easy" because it puts a cake together in just two short beating steps, saving time, work, and dishes. This new method calls for specially balanced Mix - Easy recipes, like the following delicious Happy Day Cake.

Preparations. Have the shortening at room temperature. Line bottoms of pans with paper; grease. Use two round 9-inch layer pans, 1½ inches deep, or a 13x9x2-inch pan. Start oven for moderate heat (375 degrees F.). Sift flour once before measuring. (Use standard level measurements.)

- 2¼ cups Swans Down flour
- 3 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1½ cups sugar
- ½ cup shortening
- 1 cup milk with vegetable shortening or 1 cup less 2 tablespoons with butter or lard.

Step 1. Stir shortening just to soften. Sift in dry ingredients. Add about ¾ cup of the milk and mix until flour is dampened. Then beat 2 minutes or 300 strokes.

Step 2. Add eggs and remaining milk; beat 1 minute longer, or 150 strokes.

(Mix by hand or at a low speed of electric mixer. Take time out to rest as necessary and scrape bowl and spoon often).

Baking. Turn batter into the pans. Bake in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) about 25 minutes for layers, 35 minutes for oblong cake.

Lemon Cake

Flavor the Happy Day Cake with 2 teaspoons grated lemon rind, adding it to the shortening. Bake in two 9-inch layers. Spread with Orange Mist Frosting, adding chopped dates for filling.

Luscious Spice Cake

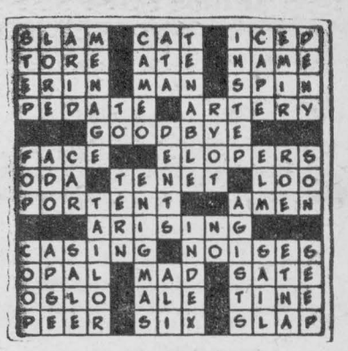

Add spices—1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon allspice—to flour mixture in Happy Day Cake. Add 1 tablespoon molasses to the shortening. Bake in two 9-inch layer pans as directed. Spread with Lemon Cream Icing.

Picnic Cake

Carry this cake to picnic or church supper, right in the pan! Bake Happy Day Cake in a 13x9x2-inch pan. While cake is still hot, spread with Praline Topping and bake 5 minutes longer, as directed. Cool and cut cake in pan.

Note: Recipes for Frostings will be given next week.

HELP CANADA'S REFORESTATION PROGRAM

This is tree-planting time in Canada! Thousands of farmers, school children and others who love the land are planting young trees to restore the nation's forest wealth. It's a project in which everyone of us should take a personal interest, for Canada's industrial growth and prosperity stem from her natural resources. Plant one tree . . . or a thousand . . . if you can. Help young trees grow to maturity by protecting them from harm and destruction. Providing for your country's future is a real contribution to "Good Citizenship".

You can help this public service effort. Make a note of some of the little things which, in your opinion, contribute to Good Citizenship.

Today we Live in a Greater Canada

Through their Eyes

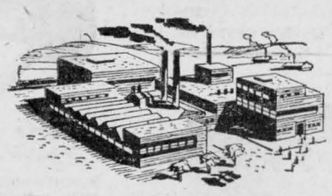

. . . CANADA is the most desired of countries. It represents hope and opportunity. It is where they want to be.

The dream of millions overseas is a reality for us.

"To see ourselves as others see us" strengthens our realization of our country's new importance in the modern world. The Canada that emerged from the war is a far greater country than we ever thought possible — a country of vastly increased and varied productivity — with a million more employed than before the war — with a new wealth of interesting careers awaiting those alive to the opportunities around them.

125,000 APPLICATIONS were on file in Ontario House, London, when Ontario began its immigration plan. It has been estimated that at least 80% of the displaced persons in Germany want to emigrate to Canada.

SIGNIFICANT, too, is the number of new plants established here by foreign firms. Specially interesting are those built up by wartime refugees, of whom about 3,500 entered Canada. They established at least 56 new industries employing over 6,000.

CANADA is increasingly attractive for visitors too! More tourists than ever came to us in 1947 — making an ever-growing contribution to continued Canadian progress and prosperity.

LOUIS FISCHL, escaping from Czechoslovakia, came to Canada in 1938 — began manufacturing kid gloves in an old renovated Ontario factory. Canadians joined his original handful of skilled Czech workers to learn the new art. Today thousands of pairs of finest Canadian high-fashion gloves, in leather and in fabrics, are being produced both in Prescott, Ont. and St. Tite, Que., their new branch.

LOUIS FISCHL says: "When I knew I was finished with Europe and had to begin a new life at 50, Canada was the country to which I was most anxious to come. Here there is a future. Here is everything needed for industry; vast resources for development; great opportunities for new careers".

One of a series presented by

to promote a fuller realization by Canadians of Canada's present greatness.

CANADIAN NATIONAL

What Goes On In The World

By Norman Blair

United States

Talk of drafting General Eisenhower as a Candidate for President appears to be dying down. The General's closest friends continue to insist that neither party could have him under any conceivable circumstances. But many of the Democrats — who feel that they haven't got a ghost of a chance with Truman at the head of their ticket — are still hoping for some kind of a miracle to happen.

Before the present session of Congress is over a bill is likely to be passed which may have far-reaching results. It is one which places some 200 government-owned war plants on a "national industrial reserve." This means that such plants cannot be sold outright to private industry but must always be available for Government use in case of war.

South America

The Pan American conference at Bogota, Colombia, seems to have ended on a note of harmony. But the harmony was achieved, in all probability by dodging most of the controversial issues. The insistence of some Latin American countries that all European nations—Great Britain especially—be ousted from Western Hemisphere possessions was quietly by-passed; and the South American demand for more economic assistance than the United States is willing to give also received a non-committal brush-off.

Actually there were only two accomplishments of the Conference that could be called at all positive. A charter was adopted together with the formal title The Organization of American States; an agreement was reached by which the different North and South American States would defend themselves collectively against outside aggression, much along the lines outlined in the 1947 Treaty of Rio Janeiro.

When it was all over Secretary of State George C. Marshall rose rather abruptly and said that he was returning to Washington, pressure of important matters there demanding his immediate return.

Germany

In Germany, and more especially in and around Berlin, the Russians continue their policy of "needling" the French, British and United States co-occupants on every possible occasion.

New regulations have tied up Bizonia-Berlin traffic on which the latter city depends for much of its food. Drastic regulations on western air traffic into the German capital have been threatened. In spite of British denials the Russians continue to insist that the fatal crash with a Soviet fighter plane on April 5th. was the English pilot's fault. And General Clay, American commandant in Berlin, told some of the families that had been showing signs of the jitters, "If anyone is nervous they'd better go home to the United States. I'd be just as happy not to have nervous persons around."

Russia

"Does Russia want another war?" and "What sort of shape would Russia be in to fight another war?" —these are two of the questions that come up in almost every discussion of world affairs. A recent report made to the United States House of Representatives by the Select Committee on Foreign Aid paints a picture of what goes on behind the Iron Curtain.

On the whole it is rather reassuring, from our point of view. For while total industrial production in Russia is said to be as large as it was before World War Two, and the Soviet budget for 1948 calls for the spending of 51 per cent more of resources on national defense than in 1940, everything doesn't seem to be going as smoothly as Stalin and his cohorts would wish.

Steel production is the major bottleneck. Although there have been improvements recently, pre-war figures are not expected to be reached before 1950; and there is little prospect that the goal envisaged in the five-year plan—25 million tons annually—can be reached for a long time after that.

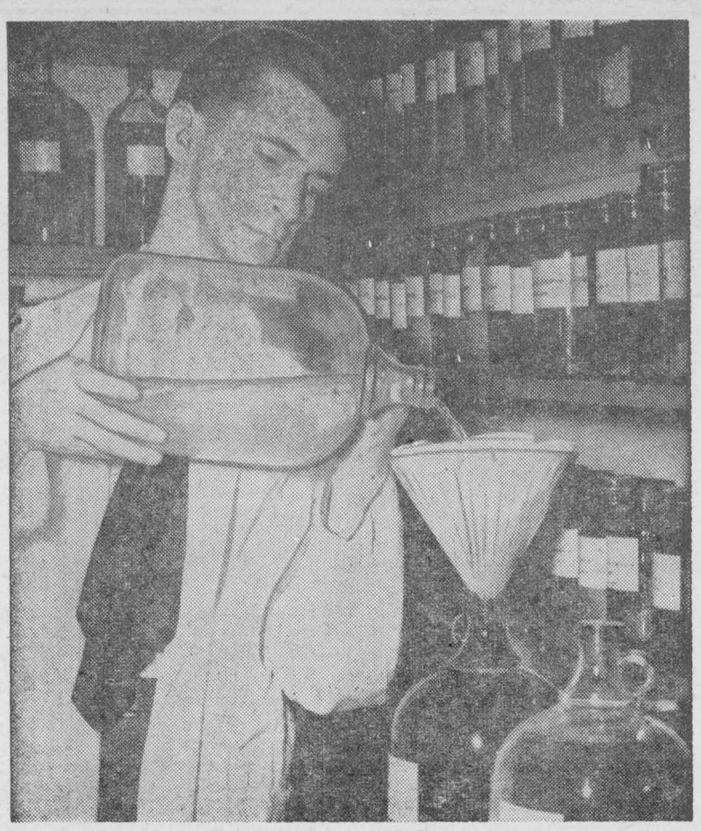

Great Britain

In a recent international Gallup poll one of the questions asked was "Would you like to go and settle in another country?" Almost half —42%—of the British men and women to whom the question was put answered "Yes".

But although such a large proportion said they'd like to try another country, only ten per cent said they'd like to move to the United States. More than three-quarters of the would-be emigrants specified Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa or some other country within the British Empire.

American moving picture stars are likely to be flocking to Britain in large numbers during the coming months. To use up funds "frozen" over there, Unite States film companies have scheduled more than 40 pictures for British production this year. Among these stars is Bing Crosby, who will make "Brigadoon" in England and possibly, while over there cross to Ireland to film "Needle in the Haystack".

A cheering note is seen in the report that, for the first time in 25 years, Britain became the leading passenger-car exporter in the world.

Balances Budget—While most other hospitals in Ontario were piling up deficits in 1947, Kichener-Waterloo General balanced its budget although increasing its staff and payroll. Economies were effected for the taxpayers by doing other civic departments' laundry at the hospital, by making its own soap, floor wax and several drug compounds, besides buying milk direct from farmers. Stanley Statia, hospital pharmacist, makes a germicide, on which several dollars per gallon are saved.

Sports – And One Thing or Another

By FRANK MANN HARRIS

("A Sixbit Critic")

Before the next hockey season is upon us — and the way things go it won't be long now — there is probably just about sufficient time left in which to take a fleeting backward glance at the one which has just passed into history. And what stands out most prominently in the welter of our personal memory is not the easy manner in which the Maple Leafs outclassed their opposition — not some of the hectic moments during the Barrie-Port Arthur junior series —not even the gallant one-man stand made on the behalf of a lost cause by Mr. Schmidt of the Boston Bruins.

* * *

What we seem to remember most clearly was how many goals were scored and games lost because of defence men committing what many consider the worst possible sin of which a rear-guard can be guilty. We refer to the increasingly-common fault of backing in toward your own goal-tender until his vision is obscured, thus causing him to fan on shots which ordinarily he could catch with his teeth. As a former honorary member of the now-defunct Goaltenders Froth Blowing, Literary and Benevolent Guild we feel it is high time some of our modern twine-minders took drastic action in this matter — and if they don't know just what sort of action to take, we shall be glad to tip them off.

* * *

For after all the cure is almost absurdly simple. We are thinking now of a famous old time goal-tender — pronounced in those days "goolender" — who, at the start of each season would call his team-mates together. With special emphasis toward defense-men, he would address them something as follows: "Youse guys are out there to score gools and to stop the other guys. I'm here to stop pucks. And if any of youse ever backs in on me so close that I can't see what goes on, I'm warning you here and now you're going to regret it."

* * *

Sometimes a new defense man would forget this solemn warning; but not more than once or at the outside, twice. You'd see him backing in, backing in, closer and closer to his own nets. Then, all of a sudden, you saw him rear up like a yearling colt stung in the caboose by an angry horse-fly. For that goal-tender carried a special stick which must have weighed all of seven or eight pounds. He had a powerful swing and was uncannily accurate in his aim. It was drastic treatment, and sometimes the erring defenseman would prefer standing to sitting for the next day or so. But it was effective; and we recommend it highly to the much-sinned-against net guardians of the present era.

* * *

We have long maintained that baseball — minus all the false glamor and ballyhoo with which it has been surrounded — is just about the slowest game there is so far as real action is concerned. Once upon a time, having nothing better to do, we took a stop-watch to a game with the intention of clocking just how many minutes, out of a game lasting two hours or so, the ball was actually in play.

* * *

But the sun was warm out there back of third base. The game was even slower than usual and we were drowsy. So our noble experiment only lasted an inning and a half or so, and the results of our experiment in scientific baseball research came to nothing. But we will go so far as to say there's more real action in five minutes of good soccer football than in most nine-inning ball games — and if this be treason, Mr. Chandler, make the most of it.

* * *

Radio announcers, who have to try and make an event sound exciting even when it's deadly dull — and magazine writers, who picture each athlete they deal with as some sort of Superman — have put sport in real danger of being oversold to the public. As an instance of what we mean, take the recent Kentucky Derby — the tamest sort of an affair, with Citation winning as he pleased.

* * *

But after it was over the Microphone Maestro had to go into a mild sort of dither regarding the masterly ride Eddie Arcaro gave the winner. "He didn't make a single mistake" was one of the phrases, if we recall correctly. Actually, as the jockey would be first to admit, all Arcaro did was just sit still and let the horse run his own race. We know a couple of 14-year-old girls who have been attending Riding School for about six months who would probably have done just as well, and brought Citation home just as easy a winner as did the great Mr. Arcaro.

No Trouble At All

A sentimental woman was married to an unromantic man. One evening she said to him with a sigh: "Would you mourn for me if I were to die?"

"Oh, yes" he mumbled, "of course I would."

"And would you visit the cemetery often?"

"Certainly," he said, with a little more animation. "I pass it on my way to the club, anyhow."

Land of Whig and Tory
With the C.C.F., that's three,
How can we extol thee,
Who are stuck with thee?
Louder still and louder
We're with promises beset,
Because we were born naive
They think we're naive yet.

Plymouth value BUILT BY CANADIAN CRAFTSMEN in Windsor

PRECISION AND QUALITY WORKMANSHIP are the keynotes of Plymouth production. Pictures above show—1. Fitting Pistons to a clearance comparable to one half the thickness of a cigarette paper. 2. Superfinishing a crankshaft. Frictional surfaces are ground mirror-smooth. 3. Testing a crankshaft for perfect balance with sensitive instruments. 4. Dynamometer-testing a completed Plymouth engine.

PLYMOUTHS are built in Canada by Chrysler! The Windsor plants of the Chrysler Corporation of Canada, Limited, contain over 22 acres of floor space where thousands of modern machines and instruments are used by skilled workmen for the precision manufacturing of fine cars. Materials from all over the Dominion are shipped to the great Chrysler plants. Canadians in every province are employed in manufacturing materials for Chrysler-built cars, including Plymouth. You may work in a plant which supplies some items. If so, you know the high standards required by Chrysler Engineers.

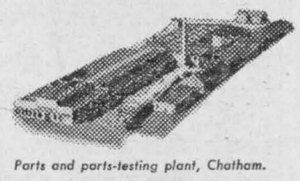

Whenever you are in Windsor, Ontario, we would like you to visit the Chrysler plants and see the Canadian Plymouth being made. You'll see the care that goes into every operation—the constant checking and testing that assures Canadian Plymouth owners reliable performance, greater safety and increased economy.
