Unity in Europe Close at Long Last Theme of Address by Geo. A. Drew

"It is my firm belief," said the Hon. George A. Drew Wednesday night, "that if we are firm in the course we follow, we have greater reason for confidence in long years of peace than any time since the end of World War II." Mr. Drew made the statement as he addressed members of Morrisburg and District Canadian Club in Morrisburg. The speaker had just returned from a long and extensive tour of Europe and the British Isles.

Harvey Johnston, president of the Club introduced Mr. Drew. He noted that the Canadian Club this year has the largest membership ever, nearly 350 members.

Mr. Drew began his address by noting he and his family had travelled the length of the continent during the summer. They had gone the length of Portugal, up Spain, France, Belgium, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Italy, and back to Great Britain. In those countries, he said the future and fate of Europe is decided.

Mr. Drew felt the last two months in Europe have seen a profound change take place to solidify European unity. In Britain he said "the spirit of the people is better than it has been for many years." Britain has assumed a new role in the past few weeks in committing her strength to build a united Europe.

France is a country with many difficulties. It was the speaker's opinion that grave and serious problems, such as large and active Communist Party, will be surmounted. The cities were more the focal points of Communist attack than the more conservativve countryside. "France is a country of immense opportunity," he said. "All they need is continued clear, inspired leadership.'

Canada's Leader of the Opposition drew a graphic picture of comparative conditions in Berlin in Germany. The Western Sector is being rapidly rebuilt. The streets are bustling with traffic, stores are crammed with excellent goods and everyone seems vigorous and confident. In the Soviet Zone the opposite is seen. Squalidness and ruin is evident on every side street and tawdry goods only are on display and in little quantity. On all sides can be seen the evidence of Communist slavery.

Mr. Drew outlined some of the reasons why the Western World can look to the return of German soverignity with confidence. He drew a parallel between the Europe and France of Napoleon's day. After the defeat of the "monster" Napoleon, as Jefferson called the Little Colonel, France rose to become one of the mighty allies of the west. After nearly 700 years of war with the British Empire she became one of her staunchest friends. In the speaker's opinion, the German people and Germany can take their place in the democratic union and become a tremendous force in the unification of Europe against Communist aggression. As friendly partners in a great cause they can be welcome and friendly allies.

Col. Drew showed that a free Europe joined in economic partnership would be a colossus greater than all Russia and her satellites. He felt we Canadians can play our part in creating the necessary international climate to make unity a success. Russia may have performed a great service, he thought, to mankind.. Through aggression European unity may be closer now than any of us could hope to dream a few years ago.

Mr. F. M. Cass of Chesterville, vice-president of the Canadian Club expressed the thanks of the large audience to the distinguished speaker.

Memorial Plates Dedicated At Trinity United Church

The annual Family Visitation of Trinity United Church was introduced with a consideration of Stewardship at the morning and evening services in the church last Sunday. At the morning service the minister, Rev. R. A. Mitchell, preached from the text: "Some of the heads of the families . . . made freewill offerings for the house of God . . ."

A feature of the morning service was the presentation, dedication and acceptance of memorial offering plates. Mrs. D. H. MacAllan, of Toronto, and Mr. Harry Allison presented the plates to the minister for dedication. Following the brief, impressive service when the plates were dedicated to the glory of God and in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Parnham Allison, Mrs. MacAllan and Mr. Allison presented them to the congregation which was represented by the clerk of Session, Mr W. N. Fulton, who received them for the church.

Mr. Mitchell expressed the thanks of the congregation to Mrs. MacAllan and Mr. Allison for their lovely gift which, he said, "the congregation will long be happy to use."

The choir very ably rendered the anthem "Who Givest All," under the direction of Mr. P. G. Hewitt, organist and choirmaster.

16-Year-Old Girl Injured by Truck

Miss Jean O'Neil, aged 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert O'Neil, Winchester. sustained shock and bruises early Saturday evening. Accompanied by her mother and an older sister, the party had been walking east on Main St., Winchester, when struck by a motor vehicle which had gone out of control.

Sheldon MacMillan, aged 18, of Winchester Township, driver of a pickup truck, told police he had turned from Centre St. into Main and came down a hill and while opposite the East End Food Market he had driven towards the south curb of the street to park. The truck had crossed the sidewalk and struck Miss O'Neil, pinning her between the truck and the bottom of a store window.

Miss O'Neil was treated by Dr. W. M. Byers, of Winchester.

Constable G. B. Raistrick investigated.

Mrs. Roy Leizert Guest Speaker At United W.M.S. Meeting

The regular meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society was held on Thursday, October 14th, in the dining hall of Trinity United Church. Mrs. A. J. Forward presided.

Reports from the various secretaries were heard: Mrs. Harold Durant, Christian Stewardship; Mrs. W. O. Dixon, Temperance and Citizenship; Mrs. Chas. McMillan, Missionary Monthly; Mrs. Walter Hummel, Community Friendship.

This being the fall Thankoffering meeting, the special speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Roy Leizert, Cardinal. For her subject she chose "Our Father's Business." All Christian people should make Christ's business their business. To be partners, and to work effectively with Him in His work, we first must become dedicated.

Prayer, faith and co-operation play important parts in all our lives and we must strive to work, serve and give for God's Kingdom. Full-time service is demanded with "Others" as our motto. At the close of the address Mrs. Mitchell thanked the guest speaker for her inspiring message.

Mrs. Edwin Forward presented her report from the School for Leaders which was held at L'Orignal this year. The lovely atmosphere, the friendship hour, the wonderful food and fine weather were wonderful attributes for a good beginning. Bible study periods were looked forward to each day and were most inspirational. Mrs. Forward drew attention to the wealth of reading material on display and noted that to be well informed regarding this work was most essential.

The worship service followed. Mrs. Stanley Shay acted as pianist during the afternoon.

Benediction wa s repeated in unison, bringing to a close a very lovely meeting.

Chesterville High School Rugby Squad Defeats Finch High School 21-6

Spurred on by the enthusiastic drive of Captain Brian Gilbert, the rugby team of Chesterville High School was the winner over the team of Finch High School when the teams met yesterday on the field of the local High School. In the first quarter Presley, of Finch, made a beautiful run which netted his team a total of six points. From then to the end, the game was packed with action and speed. Early in the second quarter, Jarvis, for Chesterville, made a touchdown. This was followed quickly by another made by Durant. One convert was registered on the latter play. At the end of the first half Chesterville had eleven points while Finch had six.

Early in the second half of the game Durant made a breakaway and sped up the field for another five points for the home team. This one play was well worth the price of admission. In the last quarter Mel Abel reached skywards, jumped still higher, brought down the ball, and headed for the end of the field for the final touchdown of the game. The final score was Chesterville twenty-one, Finch six.

Chesterville used the following players: Gilbert, Smith, Jarvis, Durant, Chambers, Abel, Sutherland, Beckstead, Moore, Windsor. Finch players were: McLeod, Paquette, Manley, Dingwall, Gove, Brownlee, Richer, Long and Presley.

For the first time in several years, Chesterville High School has an experienced rugby coach on its staff. Mr. Kavanaugh has inspired the boys and the result is rugby that parents can watch with enthusiasm.

After the game the teams had lunch in the Home Economics room. This refreshement was organized by Miss Senecal. The next game for the local team will be on Friday. On that day the team will clash with Vankleek Hill at Chesterville. The game is slated to be underway at three o'clock.

Hurricane Hazel Missed Damage Heavy At Toronto

Hurricane Hazel, to everyone's relief, missed this area in her desrelief, missed this area in her destructive trip up from the Car- early Friday, but by the middle of the day it was evident the big blow would not affect this area to any extent. There was some heavy wind during the night that removed the last of the loose leaves from the trees, toppled a few dead limbs and caused the electric power to fail for 45 minutes. No rain fell.

Toronto, particularly the western suburbs bore the full brunt of the storm. Over eight inches of rain fell during the day and night and the teeming downpour flooded dry creek and river bottoms that had never flooded before. The damage to property and life was appaling. Over 70 people are known to be dead and property losses run into many millions.

In the Holland Marsh area, north of Toronto, thousands of acres of fertile market garden farms are under water and the fall crops of onions, carrots and the like are thought to be ruined. The farmers are working desperately to get the flat land pumped clear before freeze-up. If ice comes before they can complete the job, there will not be any crop next year.

Hazel finally blew herself out in the north, in James Bay area.

Two contests were conducted by Mrs. Fraser and Mrs. Calvin Wagner.

Mrs. Mack Gordon reported for the Garden Club girls. Eighteen girls enrolled and 11 finished the course; two will receive county honours, Shirley Gordon and Lorraine Runions, having finished six courses.

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

To Speed or Not to Speed

The cry in council circles lately has been "D . . . if you do, and d . . . if you don't" in the matter of the patrol car of the village constable. Regardless of the occasional outbursts, it would appear the police car is here to stay. A look at the traffic picture helps to confirm that opinion.

One of the main reasons for the need of a patrol car, council felt, was the all too common habit of drivers using their cars on the village streets as the means to get there fastest without any regard to pedestrian traffic or the other motorist. Stop signs were only put up for the other fellow, prohibited parking areas were the handiest holes to leave the car for the morning, and thirty miles and hour was only to be observed in an area where the policeman was in a car.

It has not taken long for the driving public to realize there is a safe and sane way to get where they wish to go, and arrive just about as fast. The evening symphony of squealing tires on the corner square has dropped to a muted pianissimo. The flip across the CPR tracks is more in line with the 20-mile limit now after a few drivers paid to receive that knowledge.

No member of the community takes any pleasure or satisfaction out of the punishments that are meted out in court or the clerk's office for traffic infractions. It is less than pleasure to hear the outraged cries of the offenders, who feel the town is driving away its customers by stern attention to traffic safety. Council feels, as do all thinking persons, that insurance against trouble is never far out of line. If traffic manners cannot be developed through verbal education and visual signs, then the only alternative is a strict application of the rules via the ticket book. That medicine may be bitter but the second dose is rarely needed to cure the trouble.

A Last Look?

Ontario Hydro and their counterpart in New York State are steaming ahead with the St. Lawrence Power and Seaway Development. Coffer dams and temporary bridges are poking their way out into the turbulent waters of the river to make final and real the 50-year-old dream.

One of the beauty spots of Ontario and of this side of the continent has been the raging waters of the mighty Longue Sault Rapids in their raging slide down river past Sheek Island. For generations the area has been a favourite picnic and scenic point for dwellers in these counties. Thousands of Canadians have travelled the rapids in the old "Prince" boats and thrilled to the toboggan-like swoop and rush through the wild white water.

The waters are going to be stilled very soon, in comparison to the years of planning. In all probability, by springtime of next year, construction will have reached the point where the level of the river will be raised enough to still the mighty rapids and turn them into a slow-moving stream. The famous Longue Sault will join the auk and the passenger pigeon.

Have you been out to the Front lately? Some time soon, it would be a good idea to unlimber the Kodak, take a trip there and snap a few pictures. By April, 1955, you will have to depend on your memory for the sight of the historic rapids.

We Can Be Thankful

Hurricane Hazel missed Chesterville and the district. We can be thankful. After a summer that has left anything but pleasant memories of good weather, it seemed only normal that we would feel the brunt of the storm when radio warnings started early last Friday. Instead, the powers that be must have decided this end of the province has had had enough to contend with all summer long and Hazel swept her path of destruction well to the west.

Disaster in any form in Canada is keenly felt. When large numbers of our population suffer injury and death, nearly every community feels the loss, often in a personal way because of our limited inhabitants. Toronto is slowly cleaning up the destruction and counting her loss in lives and property. The Queen city has the sympathy of all the communities of Canada. But for the vagaries of weather, it might have been us.

Light Along The Way

Church is not universally popular in these days. Perhaps twenty-five per cent of the people in the United States, 10 per cent in Britain and something like 20 per cent in our own country attend church. So we may well raise the question of the value of the Church. A particularly pertinent question when it is remembered how many we know who never darken the door of the Church from one year's end to the other.

The Church has the longest history of man's institutions. Even in primitive times men built a place of worship of one sort or another. So when we read of Jesus: "As His custom was He went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day," we realize that He was performing a very old rite. For on the Sabbath (Saturday) day of the week His forefathers for innumerable generations had gone into the House of the Lord. Surely they found that the Church had significance for them to continue the practice so long and so faithfully.

The Church is the House of God. God is not confined to a building made with hands, but in such a building His presence is more certainly discoverable than in the counting house or on the corner of the street. In the sixth chapter of Isaiah we read how the prophet felt as he entered the temple. The presence of the Lord was about him and the fear of the Lord was upon him. Man needs so to meet God, to feel his worthlessness in His presence, to recognize how dependent he is upon Him; and this is most possible in the Lord's house.

It is possible, but not the part of wisdom, to set aside the experience of the past in the wondrous flush of modern life. So, to many, the Church stands for something that was all right in grandfather's day but not at all necessary now. Such reasoning overlooks the one great discovery of every age—that life has no worth at all apart from God. The person who humbly takes his way to church, week by week, is building strength against the difficulties that come, sooner or later, to us all. There is no magic in faith, it is the outgrowth of continual communion with God and this the Church makes possible.

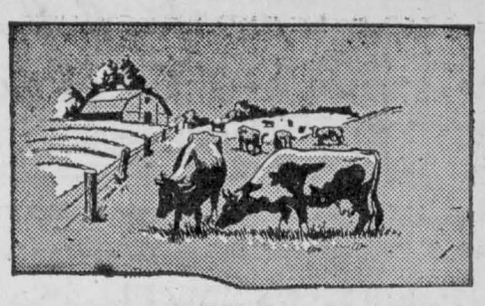

It is always a strengthening experience to be able to enjoy things with others. Even the movies mean more when they are seen in the company of another who enjoys our point of view. So faith is strengthened by the sharing of our experience of God, something quite manifestly impossible apart from the Church which, alone, can draw us into the stream of our fathers' faith, and at the same time unite us in its present experience. The Church is the place where the Christian community can flourish and many are the wonders that have come from such a community.

Admittedly, not everyone who goes to church is a saint, or discovers God readily. But that is not the fault of the Church, or of God. Worship is man's response to God and if the response is not what it should be the blame lies squarely upon us.

Those who fail to see the need of the Church have failed to recognize the importance of God Himself in their life. It is only through the Church that man can experience a complete response to God and discover the wonder of life which God can only reveal to those who approached Him. Is it possible to better than our Lord Himself who, "as His custom was went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day?"

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

I wish the scientists who have brains enough to invent hydrogen bombs would use some of their working hours to do me a favour. It isn't much I'd like. In fact, if they could figure out a way to produce what I need it wouldn't cost a cent once they got the wheels rolling. For all I'm asking of modern science is that they make me a little more time. I'd like to be able to do some extra reading.

This morning's mail brought me a new book—one that comes every three months with a note that asks me to send the club $2.63. Today's was the fall edition and I realized when I saw it that I hadn't read a word of the summer edition yet. I haven't had time.

I don't do half the reading I'd like to do. Not long ago we were loaned a ten volume set of Dickens. Now Dickens and I get along very well. I like his style of writing. I enjoy reading about life in jolly, old England as he found it. His characters are characters indeed and if they really lived there have been some unusual people over there on our mother isle.

Well, when Dickens arrived I was determined to read those books right away. I began with a "Book of Christmas Stories." They were excellent. There was one about an old man who was poor and lived a lonely, uninteresting life but who, in his own mind, was lord of a manor with money and friends and almost all that he desired. Another told of the hardships of the crew and passengers of a ship which was shipwrecked rounding Cape Horn. That was good too but Charlie left me up in the air for he never mentioned how the man who told the story got to shore.

And I loved the allegory about Mr. Nobody and the Bigwig family. We're all characters in that story. It certainly must have had quite an impact too on the conscience of the wealthy at that time for it holds the rich definitely responsible for the terrible conditions that existed among the poor of Dicken's day.

Then one night when the Christmas story book was upstairs and I was downstairs and lazy I started to read "A Child's History of England." Now British history was something I could have done without when I went to school. It seemed to comprise mostly of long, long lists of kings and queens and wars and dates. By examination time all I could remember concerned King Alfred burning the old lady's cakes and Henry VIII having an excessive number of wives.

But Dickens' "Child's History of England" sounds like an interesting story. And if you have a child studying Britains past buy, borrow or steal a copy of it for him. If you can't convince him to read it himself read it to him aloud. For Dickens makes England's history really come alive.

But the trouble is I've never found time to finish either of Dickens' books. And I don't go to the library any more. It's too frustrating to see all the books I havent time to read. I'd like to read all of them — biographies, novels, poetry, fiction—all but the wild and woolly westerns. But I haven't the time.

Two or three years ago I paid about four dollars for a book I thought would solve my problem. It's called "How to Read Better and Faster." It's a good one too. Written in the form of a reading course, it explains exactly how to group words and sentences, how to skip unimportant parts, how to get the facts as you go along and how to remember them. Every few pages there is a test piece to read. You clock your time then answer questions to see if you understand what you read. Its a dandy book but I've never had time to read it.

Of course, don't think for one minute that I don't read at all. I digest most of two daily newspapers, read the Chesterville Record verbatim, consume the interesting articles in four farm papers, devour all but the fiction in four of five womens magazines and even read some of the church papers and the Bible. So you see I'm not exactly starved for the printed word. It's just that I'd still like to read more and more.

However, I find on rechecking the third chapter of Ecclesiastes that I quoted from a while ago, the chapter that tells about there being a time to live and a time to die, a time to weep and a time to laugh, there is no mention about there being a time to read. So unless the scientists can do something about the matter for me I'll have to be content to do what reading I'm doing now or else steal the time to do a little more.

Pre-Gutter Prevention

Despite propaganda to the contrary, alcoholism is not the inevitable end for everyone who drinks. According to a recent survey, it is estimated that about two out of every Canadian drinkers become addicts. However, when one considers the large number of people who engage in social drinking, this 2 per cent figure can become rather alarming. If one adds to this 2 per cent the families and friends and employers of the drinkers who become alcoholics, one can easily see that a sufficiently large segment of the Canadian population is directly or indirectey affected by alcoholism to make the problem of prevention an important one.

Alcoholism is preventable in two ways. The obvious way is, of course, abstinence from the very beginning. Legislation to impose total abstinence on entire populations has been tried at various times and in various places. It has never yet proved a notable success, although it may have reduced the incidence of alcoholism to some degree. It is difficult to obtain accurate statistical surveys to prove this. The second way is cautious use of beverages backed by an accurate knowledge of the signs and symptoms of incipient alcoholism. People who are ignorant of the nature of alcohol often set traps for themselves which they might have avoided with proper information. Well meaning but uninformed friends and acquaintances of alcohol addicts or incipient addicts can do more harm than good with their clumsy advice.

The key to prevention of alcoholism on a national scale is widespread education regarding the true nature of alcohol and the true symptoms of incipient alcoholism. This is the function of the Alcoholism Committee of the Health League of Canada.

QUESTION:

"Frankly I am a heavy drinker, but by no means an alcoholic. I am annoyed by all these efforts to scare people unnecessarily about drink. They say if you feel in the need for a drink after a day's work and get enjoyment out of it you are practically at the door of Alcoholics Anonymous. Well, how about Winston Churchill and other people who have made beneficial use of strong drink all their lives without winding up in a gutter. Me, I dont say' I can take it or leave it alone, I prefer to take it; but I never drink before sundown. I haven't been drunk in twenty years. I eat heartily. I hold a responsible job and do my work well. I get along fine with my family. Maybe someday something will happen and I will find I can't handle the stuff anymore, but I can't worry about that. When that time comes, there's always A. A. Incidentally, why don't you people concentrate your efforts on boosting A. A. and lay off scaring the daylights out of people like myself who are a long way from that stage?

ANSWER:

No really well-grounded authority will say that the need for a drink to relieve the tension is necessarily a symptom of incipient al-

Game None Too Plentiful

That's perhaps somewhat of an understatement, at least according to some of the reports that I have had from fellow hunters. Partridge or ruffed grouse are very definitely scarce in some areas. Hungarian partridge too are apparently not as plentiful as earlier reports indicated. In some parts of the district hunters have been able to get limit shoots and in other parts have drawn a blank or found very few birds and those hard to find. The scarcity of birds prompts me to say again as I probably have before, a good dog can be a real asset and even if you don't fill your game pocket, his company will add to the enjoyment of your day afield. Woodcock, too, are scarce but the reason for that may not be so hard to look for. The unusually wet weather of this past summer and this fall to date is very likely a contributing factor. Any woodcock migrating through the district would sink their long bills in the damp earth almost anywhere in search of food.

Hunting the known feeding grounds is no guarantee that you'll sight any. Thanksgiving weekend, Phillip Thomas, of Senneville, who breeds and trains springer spaniels, invited me down to his place to hunt some cover that is always productive of good woodcock shooting. We had three dogs with us, two of them trained on woodcock, and although we tramped around for a whole afternoon, we didn't get to fire a shot. A couple of birds did get up, but they were out of range and they were all we saw.

Duck Shooting Only Fair

At least that's the way it is on the Ottawa River where I get in the odd spot of waterfowling. There have been some days since the opening with excellent shooting and just as many, if not more, when there just haven't been any ducks flying. Friday last, before the big blow, it was tops, but of course I wasn't out. Saturday looked good but wasn't. Sunday looked good again and I spent the morning in a sink box—this contraption I found most comfortable and I enjoyed the fresh air—but no ducks.

Rabbits Coming Back

Perhaps because they are on the up-cycle again, certainly not because there are any less fox or any of their natural enemies, but rabbits are much more in evidence this year. In talking of rabbits I'm referring to the snow shoe or varying hare—seldom seen during daylight hours and partial to heavy cover. The best hunting is with hounds and there is plenty of sport to be had without having to resort to any actual shooting.

In company with several friends who are beagling nuts like myself, we have had several grand outings of an evening. These snow shoes do most of their feeding after dark and it is then you can be pretty sure of getting the dogs onto a hot scent. Pick a fine night, pack along a generous jug of coffee, light a small fire to keep warm by or just for good cheer and turn the hounds loose, then sit back and smoke and just listen to that impossible-to-describe hound music. I like, too, that friendly competitive spirit that

Masonic Lodge, Finch Holds Ladies' Night

The Masonic Lodge, Finch, held their annual "Ladies' Night" in the Community Hall, Finch, with some 65 members and their ladies in attendance. The supervision of the banquet and the programme was under the convenership of R. E. Rupert, S. M. Begg, J. E. Thompson and D. M. Henry.

D. M. Henry, Master, was toastmaster and after a few brief remarks, proposed the toast to the Queen.

As is the usual custom, with the Finch Lodge on Ladies' Night, the toast to the ladies was proposed by a bachelor member of the society. This was ably performed by John MacQueen, and replied to by the Master's wife, Mrs. D. M. Henry.

A variety programme consisted of selections on the bagpipes by Jack MacRae, Crysler; a violin solo by George Adams, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. A. Munro, Chesterville; community singing led by W. C. Johnstone, with William Petit at the piano.

The daughters of several members of the lodge assisted in serving the tables and were thanked by R. E. Rupert.

An enjoyable evening was completed with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

New Heating System For Picadilly Theatre

As an added convenience to movie fans in the way of some solid comfort, a new oil furnace heating system has been installed at the Picadilly Theatre in Williamsburg. Announcement to this effect was made this week by Mrs. A. J. Casselman, theatre owner.

Installation of the new heavy duty Atlas unit was completed this week by a Morrisburg heating and plumbing firm. Steam heat through radiators will still be maintained but at a more even temperature made available by a better system of control.

Due to an unforeseen delay in the arrival of parts the actual completion of the job was delayed for several days, and any inconvenience caused theatre patrons because of cool conditions while the furnace was not operating is regretted by the management.

The new system, it is thought, will offer more comfort to movie goers who, it might be added, are in for some really fine entertainment at the Picadilly during November and December.

To Present Pageant At Winter Fair

A spectacle never before seen in Ottawa that will feature direct descendents of Ottawa's first council and men and women in carriages of the 1854 period will be held at the 1954 edition of the Ottawa Winter Fair opening in the Coliseum on Tuesday, October 26. It promises to be one of the finest spectacles ever featured by the Winter Fair and the pageant is being sponsored by the Local Council of Women of Ottawa.

The undertaking is in honour of the City of Ottawa's centenary being observed in the Capital this year. The pageant will be held each evening of the Fair—October 26th to 30th—and on opening night will follow immediately the official opening by the Prime Minister, Rt. Hon. Louis St. Laurent.

With the stage almost set for the Fair, the Local Council of Women is anxious to learn of any direct descendants of members of the first Ottawa City Council. They were: Mayor John B. Lewis and Councillors W. F. Powell, Edward McGillvray, Damas Bourgeois, James Leamy, Edward Smith, Charles Rowan, John Barteille and Henry J. Friel.

These descendants of Council will ride in the pageant's lead coach, a magnificent stage coach. In other carriages and phaetons of the era will ride men and women dressed in period costumes of 100 years ago.

Featured, too, will be a n old City of Ottawa fire pumper drawn by magnificent horses.

But not all the pageant will have to do with history. For on parade will also be, in addition to bathing beauties of the past, beauties of the present, too.

MRS. A. E. HOLMES HONOURED ON BIRTHDAY

Mrs. A. E. Holmes was tendered a nicely arranged birthday party on Saturday evening last at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Blake Ball, and Mr. Ball, Chesterville. The members of her immediate family were present to honour her on the occasion.

The evening was pleasantly spent in games, music and visiting. Refreshments were served, including the traditional birthday cake. Those who assisted in serving were Mrs. Alvie Steele, Mrs. Thos. Holmes and Mrs. Ball.

Mrs. Holmes, who is enjoying comparatively good health, reeived man remembrances from her family and friends throughout the district and best wishes were extended her for many more birthdays.

Last winter when it was below zero, a girl told her sweetheart she couudnt' think of marrying him until he had saved at least a thousand dollars.

But as spring made its appearance she asked him how much he had saved.

"Oh, about $35."

"Well," she said blushing, I guess that's near enough."

EVERYBODY EATS-- TRY THESE!

By Helen Graham

TRICK OR TREAT

Whether the children come begging for "Charity" or demanding "Trick or Treat" or that you "Shell Out," you want to be ready for them. Here are a few ideas of treats you can fix yourself:

Popcorn Balls

3 quarts popped corn
1 cup sugar
1-3 cup corn syrup
1 cup water
¼ tsp. salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Put the popped corn into a large greased bowl. Cook sugar, syrup and water to the medium crack stage (280 degs. F.). Add flavouring and salt. Pour over corn, stirring with a spoon to coat corn evenly. Shape into balls; lay on wax paper.

Grease your fingers when forming the balls to prevent syrup from sticking. Make plenty of these balls as word gets around and you will do a big business.

Taffy Apples on a Stick

Wash and dry about fifteen small apples. Insert a wooden skewer in the blossom end of each apple. Mix:

2 cups sugar
½ cup corn syrup
¾ cup water

in the top of a double boiler. Cook over direct heat until sugar dissolves. Add a few drops of oil of cloves or ½ teaspoon cinnamon and a little red colouring. Continue cooking without stirring until a few drops of the mixture forms in cold water a hard piece that cracks easily (290 degs. F.). Set pan over boiling water. Dip each apple into the syrup quickly. Remove and whirl apple until syrup covers it smoothly. Stand apples on a tray to cool.

Pulled Taffy

This is fun to make at a Halloween party.

1¼ cups molasses
¾ cup sugar
1 tbsp. vinegar
1 tbsp. butter
⅛ tsp. soda
⅛ tsp. salt

Mix molasses, sugar and vinegar in a saucepan. Place over a low heat, stirring until mixture boils. Cook to light crack stage (270 degs. F.), stirring occasionally. Remove from heat; add butter, salt and soda. Pour into buttered dish. When taffy is cool enough to handle, grease hands lightly and pull until taffy is very light in colour.

Easy Peaunt Brittle

2 cups sugar
3 cups unshelled peanuts

Shell peanuts, remove skin; roll fine or leave whole, as desired. Melt sugar in heavy frying pan, stirring constantly until a light golden liquid. Add peanuts, mix well; pour into ungreased shallow pan. Cool gradually; mark in squares while cooling. Whole peanuts may be placed on pan and syrup poured over.

Walnuts may be used in the same way.

Five Minute Fudge

2-3 cup (small can) evaporated milk
1 2-3 cups sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1⅓ cups semi-sweet chocolate bits
16 medium diced marshmallows

Combine milk and sugar in top of double boiler. Heat for five minutes or until sugar is melted. Remove from heat, add remaining ingredients. Stir until marshmallows and chocolate are dissolved. Pour into buttered pan. Cool and cut in inch squares.

When cutting marshmallows use a wet knife to prevent sticking.

Mrs. MacMillan has two sisters and two brothers living, Mrs. Wilson Runions, Cornwall; Mrs. Hugh MacMillan, Moose Creek; Elzie Alguire and Leslie Alguire, both of Avonmore.

HEN'S EGG POWER SHOWN BY BEAK

One way to judge the laying quality of a pullet is in the colour of the beak, according to J. H. Claybaugh, extension poultryman at the University of Nebraska.

Claybaugh said the ready-to-lay pullet is expected to be "more vigorous," with the richer yellow colour in the skin, beak and shanks."

"After the pullet has laid well for six weeks," he added, "there should be little yellow colour left in her beak."

The yellow pigment should fade in this order, he said. First, from the bottom of the feet and front of the shank, top of the toes and bac kof the hock.

"The yellow pigment starts to return when a healthy hen stops laying," he said.

HEALTH LEAGUE—

coholism. Along with other symptoms are frequency of "black-outs" (inability to remember what happened during an evening of drinking, though alcohol intake was not conspcuously immoderate and did not result in noticeable intoxicatation), a tendency to "sneak drinks" surreptitiously when drinking with a group that is drinking too slowly for your own requirements, to fortify yourself when going to a social gathering where drinks are likely to be scarce, to gulp the first two or three drinks of an evening.

If you are experiencing all of these symptoms more or less regularly, you have reached what the World Health Organization calls the "Warning Phase" of alcohol addiction, and are on the way to chronic alcoholism. If so, now is the time to seek A. A. help. Later on, you will find it much harder to rehabilitate yourself, and what is more you will possibly be without friends, family and job.

St. Luke's W.M.S., Finch, Have Well Attended Meeting Plan Invitations for November Thankoffering

The October meeting of St. Luke's Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. George C. Rupert, with an attendance of 40 members and visitors.

The president, Mrs. Hector Gillies, presided and opened the meeting with Mrs. George Rupert as pianist.

The Scripture lesson was taken by Mrs. Gillies, followed by prayer by Miss Helen MacMillan.

The minutes and correspondence were read by Mrs. Alex MacDougall and included an invitation by Avonmore to attend their Thankoffering meeting when Rev. Hector MaciMllan, from Africa, is to be guest speaker. The invitation was accepted and a number present offered the use of their cars to those wishing to hear the missionary.

It was decided to hold the fall Thankoffering early in November and the secretary was instructed to contact Rev. Logan Vencta, of Ottawa, in an effort to have him come for this occasion and present his pictures on his recent trip to the Holy Land.

It was unanimously decided to send invitations to Crysler, Avonmore, Moose Creek, Morewood and Winchester to join in the Thankoffering meeting.

It was decided to pack the bale for Tindale House on Thursday, October 28th in the Sunday School room. Anyone with good used clothing are to bring same at that time. The committee appointed to look after this is composed of Mrs. Rupert MacIntyre, Mrs. Hector Gillies and Mrs. G. MacLean.

The refreshment committee for the Thankofferng meeting consists of Mrs. W. R. Rutley, Mrs. Carl Waldroff, Mrs. Harold Cameron and Miss Isobel MacMillan.

A secret ballot taken on the life member resulted in favour of Mrs. D. A. Cameron.

A paper on the theme of the meeting, "Thanksgiving," was given by Mrs. MacMaster.

The roll call was answered with the word "Thanks."

A social hour was enjoyed, when lunch was served by Mrs. Rupert, assisted by Mrs. John Bush, Nrs. Rutley and Mrs. Elburn Shaver.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Harold Cameron.

MacRae—Kippen

Maxville United Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Janet Isabel Kippen to D. A. Bruce MacRae, of Hamilton, formerly of Moose Creek, Ont.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kippen, Maxville, and the groom is the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. MacRae, Moose Creek.

Bronze 'mums, ferns and other fall flowers were arranged at the altar for the 2.30 ceremony, which was performed by Rev. D. C. Munro, B.A. Wedding solos were sung by Miss Barbara MacLeod, of Guelph, accompanied at th organ by Mrs. R. T. O'Hara, Maxville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose Mrs. Arthur Knowles, of Byron, Ont., as her matron of honour. Ralph Millsap was best man for his brother-in-law, and ushers were William Kippen, brother of the bride, and Stuart Morton, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's floor-length white gown was of nylon tulle and lace with a full tiered skirt. She wore a matching lace bolero, and her fingertip veil was of French illusion net. She carried pink roses and stephanotis in a cascade bouquet.

Following a reception at the bride's home, the couple left for a wedding trip in Northern United States and Quebec. On their return, the couple will reside in Hamilton.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Reveller and Mrs. George MacGregor, Glen MacGregor, of Morewood.

Miss Shirley Beehler Honoured by Friends

Prior to her marriage on October 23rd Miss Shirley Beehler was honoured at a miscellaneous shower arranged by neighbours and held in the Orange Hall, Crysler.

As the bride-to-be entered the decorated hall she was greeted by the strains of the "Wedding March" played by Mrs. S. Begg. Miss Beehler was escorted to a chair by Miss Marion Ouderkirk; Mrs. Wm. Servage pinned a corsage of red roses on the bride's dress.

The bride's mother was escorted to a chair by Mrs. B. Beehler. Miss M. Beehler read an address wishing the bride-elect every happiness and good luck in her new home.

Miss Beehler was the recipient of many lovely gifts. A decorated wagon, well filled, was drawn to the bride by two four-year-old girls, Lynn Ouderkirk and Sheila Ann Servage.

She was assisted in opening the gifts by her mother, Mrs. B. Beehler and Mrs. Servage.

A few well chosen words of thanks were expressed by Miss Beehler, inviting everyone to come and see her in her new home.

All joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." A bountiful lunch was then served and enjoyed by all.

Father: "What were you and that boy in your class doing in the parlour last night?"

Daughter: "We were studying, dad. The subject was the practical theory of osculation."

Father: "I guess I will have to spank your little brother. He said you were kissing."
