Winter carnival

MOREWOOD - The winter carnival season kicks off this year with festivities in Morewood this weekend. The Morewood carnival gets into gear, Thursday night, with a bingo and will run until Sunday afternoon's curling funspiel for adults and movies for kids. There will be family entertainment at the public school and a teen dance at the Morewood R.A. Centre, Friday night. On Saturday there will be a pancake and sausage breakfast, fun and games for children and curling for adults during the day. The carnival queen and princesses will be crowned, Saturday night. A host of activities, including sleigh rides, cross-country skiing, children's entertainment, euchre, skating and a log-sawing competition, will take place Sunday.

New unit

The Ontario Provincial Police has formed a district traffic unit which will deal with traffic related law enforcement. The special unit, which was officially formed Monday, will concentrate on impaired driving, speeding, seat belts and moving violations on Highway 401 and Highway 417. According to an OPP press release the special unit will be staffed by 14 police officers which will assist OPP detachments in an area east of Almonte and Morrisburg. The district traffic enforcement unit's cruisers will be equipped with radio units, alert machines and will be using radar detector detectors. The new unit will also increase the OPP's emphasis on educational programs to encourage drivers to comply with speeding and seat belt laws.

Day-time heist

CHESTERVILLE - An unknown thief broke into a home on the Berwick Road east of Chesterville, Monday. OPP Sgt. Jim Irvine said the thief stole a Panasonic television set, a V.C.R., a Realistic citizen band radio, and an AM-FM cassette-stereo. The theft took place during the daytime and the thief broke in through a side door. The police were unable to detect any finger prints left behind by the thief, Irvine said.

Young offender

Police have charged a youth with trespassing in connection with a complaint filed with the OPP January 4. The complaint was made by a Chesterville resident. OPP Sgt. Jim Irvine said Tuesday, the charges were laid this past weekend following an investigation into the complaint. The youth cannot be identified because the Young Offenders Act prohibits the publication of offenders under the age of 18.

Village water woes keep pouring in

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE - The total cost of Chesterville's problem-plagued water project has gone up by $170,000 to $2.47-million.

The cost was estimated at $2.3-million when construction on the project began a year and a half ago. The latest estimate, which was given to The Record Thursday by Reeve Jim Cook, includes more than a dozen additional costs to the water project not included in the original estimate.

But Cook stressed that not all the cost increases have been approved by council.

"How much of that are things that council will not approve, I'm not sure. We want to take a look at everything. But that's the latest estimate," he said.

Council had withheld the approval of the latest increases late last month, insisting on screening them before giving its approval.

Over the past few months council has expressed considerable frustration at the project engineers' inability to get water flowing to the village from the new well at Maple Ridge. Cook said last month he felt Totten Sims Hubicki Associates Ltd., which designed and supervised work on the project, is responsible to some degree for the project's woes.

Lester Allick, a Totten Sims Hubicki engineer, was unavailable for comment when contacted Tuesday.

Construction on the well, pumping station and pipeline linking the well to the pumping station in the village, was completed in the early spring of 1990.

But shortly after the new well began pumping water to the village, the pipeline began springing leaks forcing the MOE to shut it down.

The engineers and the MOE have yet to figure out exactly why the leaks have occurred.

However council went ahead and approved the three bills submitted by Totten Sim Hubicki when it found out the bills were for additions to the project unrelated to problems with the pipeline, Cook said.

The bills included a $22,000 charge for putting a fence around the well, $2,000 for putting up warning flags along the CPR railway during the construction of the pipeline and a $3,000 charge for electrical work, he said.

A fourth bill for a substantial amount of money is still being withheld by council pending further clarification, said Deputy Reeve Roger Cole Monday.

Council has also reluctantly approved the payment of $14,000 to Totten Sims Hubicki for work done prior to the completion of the water project.

Council had held back the payment to the engineers in November to protest the lack of progress in rectifying the problem.

But the MOE urged council to pay up or face legal consequences for breach of contract, said Cook.

Cook, though, was satisfied council had succeeded in drawing attention to its frustration by delaying payment.

"We stopped payment in order to get them to realize that something had to get done to get the show on the road...and that point was made," he said.

But Cole disagreed with the rest of council. He said he voted against paying the engineers despite the MOE's urging. He felt for the amount the village had paid for the water project, the pipeline's problems should have been addressed more quickly.

"I did not agree...because I still want to see some action," he said.

Cole has been council's most vocal critic over the delays surrounding the pipeline, but Cook said the rest of council's patience could run out if the pipeline isn't soon fixed.

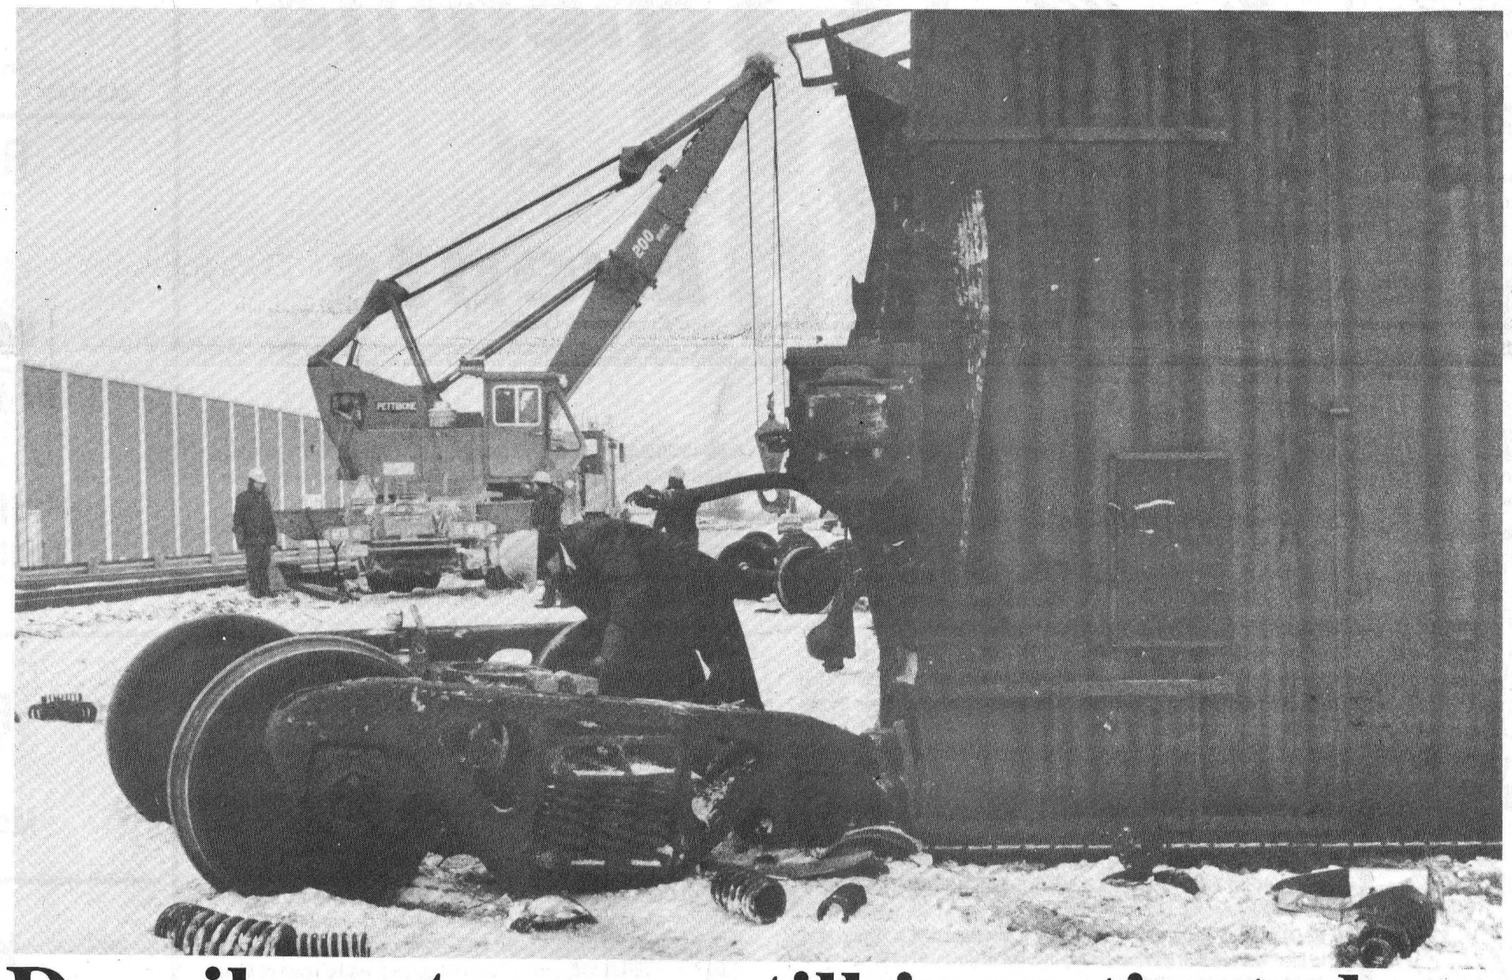
"We are communicating with them our displeasure with the lack of progress," he said.

Council has decided to give the engineering firm another few weeks to solve mystery of the cause of the leaks in the pipeline. If there are still no results, council could take legal action or fire the engineers, Cook said.

The MOE, which is paying for 85 per cent of the water project, hired an independent consultant, Environmental Hydraulics last September, to determine the cause of the pipeline leaks. But tests on the pipes conducted by Environmental Hydraulics have been disputed by the pipe supplier, Flex-Lok Pipe Ltd.

The conclusion of the tests were further hampered when Enviromental Hydraulics' chief engineer, Alan Fok, fell ill after returning from a recent vacation in Hong Kong, said Cook.

"Nothing's simple anymore. I wish this was just black and white," said Cook of the complications plaguing the water project.



Derailment cause still investigated

by Dianne Fetterly
Record Staff Reporter

CHESTERVILLE —There were no injuries when two cars of a 92-car eastbound freight train derailed in Chesterville last Friday morning.

D.C. Scott of CP Rail in Montreal said the derailment occurred at 1:15 am, Friday, when one car flipped on its side, taking off the trailing trucks of the car ahead of it.

The train was moved out at 4am with only the two cars remaining for crews to clean up. Scott said although the line was not completely blocked, it was expected to be fully operational by noon the same day.

The cause of the accident is still under investigation but initial investigations point to a broken wheel on the second car, said Scott.

Sixty-eight of the 92 cars were loaded – none with dangerous commodities, he added. As of yesterday, there was no estimate of the cost of damages.

Junior C Flyers penalized for party damages

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE - Village council has billed the Chesterville Flyers Junior C hockey team $600 for damages at two village buildings following a fundraising dance and a Christmas party last month.

The damage occurred during a team fundraiser Dec. 1 when a window was smashed at the Community Hall and at a team Christmas party at the Nelson LaPrade Centre Dec. 22.

The damage to the two village buildings almost cost the Flyers a venue to host their fundraisers.

In a special meeting late December council demanded payment of the damage, estimated at $600, plus a deposit of $100 before rental of the Community Hall was granted to the Flyers again.

The team quickly promised to pay for the damages and was permitted to rent the Community Hall for another fundraiser Dec. 29.

Flyers' coach Jerrold Boulanger said Friday he was worried the Flyers would be barred from further use of village facilities because of the damage caused at the fundraiser and the Christmas Party.

"I was afraid they would not let us have any more dances," he said. "I'd like to have about two more."

The fundraising dances are the team's primary source of revenue. Boulanger estimates each dance nets the team a $2,000 profit. The team uses the money to pay a $6,000 annual ice-time fee, $1,000 in league fees and for some outstanding debts to a Winchester sports store.

Reeve Jim Cook said Thursday he doesn't believe council will object to the team's continuing use of village facilites for their fundraisers. Council wanted to make sure the damage was paid before the Community Hall was rented out to the team again, he said.

Cook commended the team for curbing damage at its Dec. 29 dance.

"Apparently everything was left in good shape," he said.

Cook said he couldn't recall any previous incidents where there was damage following a fundraising event since he took over as reeve two years ago.

The team has already held three fundraising dances this season and Boulanger said he has told his players to refrain from damaging village property if they hope to hold more fundraising events at village-owned facilities.

"I approached the players and more or less chewed them out," he said.

Boulanger believes the team will recover costs of the damages from the persons responsible.

Boulanger said a person has admitted to breaking the window and has promised to pay the bill for its repair.

"The person who did it is going to reimburse the hockey team. So there's no big deal about that. We knew who it was that night. He approached us and said he was gong to cover the damages done to the hall," he said.

The person is not a member of the team, he said.

Boulanger said the damages at the Nelson LaPrade centre will be covered by the players who held their Christmas party there.

The Christmas party was not the responsibility of the Flyers' team organization, but a private party the players organized themselves.

"I didn't have anything to do with that, it was the players that did all that...but I guess there was a hole put in the wall, some damage done to a window and there was a substantial cleaning bill," he said.

But Boulanger objected to amount the team was charged for the damages. He said he will approach council and offer to do the repairs himself to reduce the cost of the damages.

Students rally for peace

INGLESIDE - As many as 200 high school students at Rothwell-Osnabruck School assembled in the school's gym for a 20-minute peace rally yesterday Tuesday).

At the rally, students signed a two petitions–one for Prime Minister Brian Mulroney, the other for Stormont-Dundas MP Bob Kilger–to ask the federal government to find a peaceful resolution to the Persian Gulf crisis.

"We feel that there are ways we can work it out with (Iragi leader) Saddam Hussein other than war," said Kelly Hartle, one of the organizers of the rally.

The rally was held just 12 hours before the midnight deadline set by the United Nations Security Council for Iraq to remove its occupational army out of the tiny Persian Gulf emirate of Kuwait. A 500,000 man strong multi- national military force is poised to go to battle with Iraq's army if Iraq doesn't pull out by the midnight deadline.

R-O student Hartle said she and a friend, Chantal Arbuthnot, organized the rally for peace because of the potential human tragedy in the Middle East if war breaks out.

Hartle said she is also concerned about some of her friends who are in the Cornwall Militia Reserve and may be called on for duty in the Persian Gulf.

The petition signing was accompanied by popular music with an anti-war message and a brief candle light vigil where eight students acted out potential tragic scenarios should war break out.

Merchants continue meeting

Chesterville merchants were generally pleased with the results of this year's Christmas promotion and have already begun plans to to expand the program for 1991.

A small but enthusiastic group of merchants gathered in Holy Trinity Anglican Church Parish Hall Monday night to discuss the Christmas promotion and get plans rolling for 1991.

They agreed that the Christmas midnight madness promotion was a success and hoped that with Christmas falling on a Wednesday in 1991, it will not be necessary for merchants to open on the Sunday before Christmas.

The Yule promotion will start earlier in 1991 than it did in 1990 and uniform lighting will be expanded throughout the downtown area.

Thieves go on spree

FINCH - Thieves went on a shopping spree Tuesday night when they broke into a Finch convenience store.

About $2,500 in goods were stolen from the Cin- Bad Convenience Store by thieves who forced their way into the store through the back door.

Thieves

Store owner Cindy Bilmer said the thieves came prepared, bringing with them a tool box to force their way into the store.

"They went shopping while the store was closed. They picked what they wanted," she said.

Constable Bernie Gadbois of the Long Sault Ontario Provincial Police detachment said the thieves took with them a variety of goods including cigarettes, canned food, potato chips, writing paper and a case of envelopes.

"They went on a shopping spree and they took what they could," he said.

The thieves also caused about $150 in damage to the building as they first tried to gain entry through a boarded-up window, he said.

The convenience store heist was one of two break and enter thefts in the Finch Township area Tuesday night. Thieves also broke into the Berwick post office.

For Bilmer, the break-in at her convenience store was the second since she and her brother, Stanley Bilmer, took over the store a year and a half ago.

The last break-in occurred approximately a year ago. Bilmer said the latest theft was similar to the one last year. Between $2,000 and $3,000 worth of goods were stolen last year, she said.

"It was basically the same M.O. as they had the year before. They came in and used my own garbage bags to steal something," she said.

Since the first break-in, Bilmer took steps to secure the store from further theft by boarding up the window.

But that did not deter thieves from coming around a second time.

The burglars unsuccessfully attempted to open the post office safe, but Gadbois said they stole an unknown amount of mail. They also tampered with some of the mail at the post office, he said.

Gadbois could not say whether the two thefts were linked and that the OPP was still investigating the break-ins.

Congregation plans to rebuild

MOOSE CREEEK - Members of the congregation of Knox Presbyterian Church are hoping their church will rise Pohenix-like from the ashes of the disastrous fire that destroyed the 90-year-old structure here Nov. 24, 1990.

Built in 1900 and dedicated in February 1901, the church was completely destroyed in the Nov. 24 fire but at a meeting Mon., Jan. 5 members of the congregation voted unanimously to set about the daunting task of rebuilding their sanctuary.

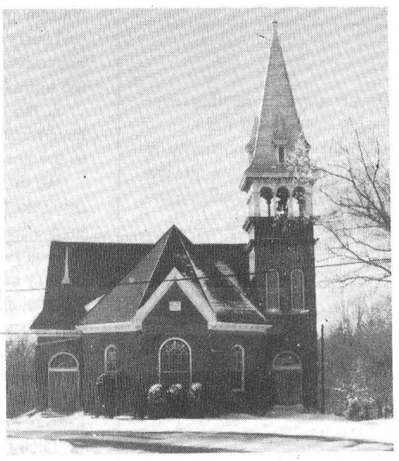
Building and fund raising committees were set up at the Jan. 5 meeting to accomplish the task.

According to Donald McKay, congregational treasurer, the cost of building a new church will be in the neighborhood of $250,000, although the congregation hasn't decided on a final design for a new structure.

He said the church was "under-insured" and the manse in Moose Creek may have to be sold to raise part of the $250,000 price tag.

Before building their own church, the congregation had worshipped at the Sixth Concession Roxborough Church.

Rev. Laughlin Beaton was the first of 25 ordained and student ministers serving the congregation through the church's 90-year history. In 1989 Knox Presbyterian Church joined with Gordon Presbyterian Church of St. Elmo and St. Andrews of Maxville under the ministry of Rev. Garry van Bruchem, who resides at the manse in Maxville.



The 85-member congregation of Knox Presbyterian Church, Moose Creek, plans a fund-raising campaign to build a new church to replace the structure destroyed in a fire Nov. 24, 1990. Estimates of the cost of building a new church are running in the neighborhood of $250,000, although a design for the new building hasn't been chosen.

The church's fund raising campaign has already started and donations can be sent to congregational treasurer McKay, Box 192, Moose Creek, KOC 1W0.

Seasonal egg pricing

OTTAWA - For the second consecutive year, Canadian egg producers will receive a farmgate price of eggs that is based on seasonal variations in demand says the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency.

This follows a decision of the Agency's Board of Directors to continue its Seasonal Pricing Program.

The program was introduced in the fall of 1989 as a means of making the egg industry more market sensitive and cost efficient. It is an important part of CEMA's effort to ensure that supply management adapts to the business environment of the 1990's.

"Under seasonal pricing, farmgate egg prices are lowered during periods of soft demand and raised during periods of high demand", explained CEMA's General Manager, Gerry Gartner. "This encourages producers to place their flocks so that supply better matches demand patterns and excess production is minimized."

Know-how no how

What seems to be the problem?

No home or business owner would put up with the song and dance the Village of Chesterville has been getting from its engineering firm and the Ontario Ministry of the Environment on the continuing problems of getting water from the village's new well to Chesterville.

But council is expected to merrily continue along and pay its bills to the engineering firm, even though leaks in the pipeline forced the ministry to have it shut down.

The cost of the project has gone $170,000 over the original estimate of $2.3-million and Chesterville is still without water from the new system.

Council is entirely right to withhold payment of some of the engineering firm's bills until it gets a staisfactory answer on why the system isn't working properly and gets the problems rectified.

Don't these people offer any sort of guarantee that their systems will work?

If a $20,000 automobile can carry a three-year or 60,000 kilkometer guarantee, then why can't a $2.47-million water pipeline?

It seems to be a case of a project with the price of a Saturn V rocket and the warranty of a toaster.

Perhaps the next time council lets out a major contract it could insist on a HUDAC warranty. Or at least ask the ministry to find an engineering firm with the technological know how to get water to run downhill.

A clear signal

It was like a breath of fresh air last week when CBC-Ottawa began broadcasting its AM signal over the FM band. In so doing, CBO-Ottawa has expanded its listenership by over 200,000 in Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, giving those of us outside the pale of the National Capital Region access to some of the world's finest public affairs radio broadcasts.

Before the switch, CBO was available only on the AM band and its signal seemed permanently aimed at Arnprior. Try as we might, we couldn't bring in a clear signal from a radio station only 35 miles away. The weakness of CBO's signal and the constant interference made tuning in the station a case of "air today, gone tomorrow".

Now all of that has changed and for those us who are dedicated radio listeners, it is a welcome change indeed to be able to tune in Morningside, The World at Six, As It Happens and the rest of the high quality broadcast menu served up by CBC.

It is a welcome alternative to the growing trend of cluttering up the FM band with ersatz AM rock'n' roll, complete with howling disk jockeys and "Have I got a deal for you!" ad pitchmen.

The wider broadcast pattern is a welcome addition in another way as it seems to indicate that CBC's Ottawa brass no longer considers everyone outside the capital to be a bunch of cloggin' lads from up the Ninth Line near the 'Frew.

To all those at CBO, we welcome you to the rest of the Valley. But what took you so long?

The Editor:

An editorial appearing in the Dec. 5 issue of your newspaper has been brought to my attention. This is the one that refers to the discussions surrounding the change of meeting dates for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Public School Board.

Firstly, let me preface my remarks by saying that we get nothing short of "great" coverage from the Chesterville Record. Your paper must be complimented for bringing our point of view, as well as your own, to the people in your area and especially your readership.

I want to make one comment wherein you referred to me in the said editorial as having blasted a reporter —it certainly isn't my intention to blast any reporter for any type of reporting done. As a matter of fact, even when reporters are quite critical of me I compliment them for this as this is the only way that one can keep one's perspective in this ever changing educational field.

May I take this opportunity to wish your colleagues at the newspaper and especially yourself, the best for 1991.

With every good wish, I remain,

Yours faithfully,
Joe Gunn
Trustee

From Chesterville's Past

Jan. 12, 1911

In the early hours of Wednesday morning, Jan. 4, occurred the death of William Thompson at his home in Connaught where he lived and labored for the past thirty years. The deceased gentleman had been ailing for some time past. His charitable works and kind disposition will not soon be forgotten in Connaught and district where his demise is sincerely mourned. Born of a good old family in the city of Waterford, Ireland, on Sept. 29, 1825, his death severs an important link with the past.

Terence McGuire, a boy fourteen years of age, was discovered on King St. Brockville, last week, suffering from an overdose of whisky. A stomach pump was used and his life saved. A warrant has been issued for Andrew Darling, whom the boy declares supplied him with whiskey.

The death of an old and respected gentleman occurred at his residence at Maple Ridge on Monday, Jan. 10, 1911, at the age of 69. Isaiah Helmer leaves to mourn his departure two sons, George and Clarence, and two daughters, Mrs. D. J. Hill of Marvelville, Mrs. W. N. Hill of Kenmore.

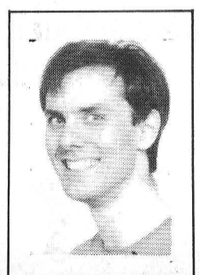
Just give peace a chance

For the Record



Yves Cossette

The deadline has passed and at this very moment United States-led forces may be attacking Iraqi military forces, or they may be in the final stages of preparation for war.

Either way the prospects for peace look pretty bleak. More than 100,000 casualities—civilian and military–have been forcasted if war breaks out.

Yet our leaders, Joe Clark, minister of External Affairs, for one, maintains we have to go to war to preserve peace. Figure that bit of logic, if you can.

Well at least we're not fighting for democracy or for oil, our leaders tell us now. We are fighting to preserve international law and order. That means if Saddam has not pulled out his army from Kuwait by midnight Jan. 15, then he will be forced out.

Leading this crusade for international law and order and peace for all future generations is U.S. President George Bush. This is the guy who led the United States to flagrantly violate international law and order by invading Panama just 13 months ago to remove a dictator who was a thorn in the side of the Americans.

But the Americans' invasion of Panama was really just an continuation of American foreign policy. If there is a perceived threat to American interests, use force.

For Latin American countries the policy even had a name, the Monroe Doctrine, resulting in invasions of Panama, Grenada (1983), Dominican Republic (1965), Nicaragua (1930's) etc.

However, it was not in America's backyard where the U.S. suffered its greatest humiliation. It was in the Asian country of Vietnam.

Invariably comparisions have been drawn to Vietnam with the current crisis in the Middle East. But Vietnam stands out for one other thing besides the Americans losing the war. Vietnam most importantly discredited war.

For the first time people who did not take part in the war got to have a first hand look at war with the help of television. And they saw what it stood for–death and destruction.

They saw the pain and human suffering inflicted by bombs and bullets. They could see no tangible benefits by conducting the war. Back then the war was conducted to contain communism. (Vietnam won the war, but communism is on its way out). Now the excuse is to contain Saddam.

According to opinion polls many Americans and a slight majority of Canadians are opposed to war in the Gulf. When the Vietnam War started there was no peace movement in either the U.S. or Canada.

But this time around there are people against the war and they are quite vocal about it even before the onset of hostilities in the Gulf. That's good. The more people against war, the tougher it will be for our leaders to justify going to war.

Students at Rothwell-Osnabruck High School held a peace rally at school yesterday voicing their opposition to war. If the thoughts of these young people are in any way indicative of the prevailing opinion among younger Canadians today they could be a formidable force in persuading our government from eagerly embracing war.

As for Saddam, he hasn't figured it out yet either. In his ruthless quest for power—power for himself and power for his country–he took his country through eight years of hardship and suffering in his war with Iran which produced over one million casualities. He is ready to risk his people's lives and future for prosperity once again by not giving up the few extra acres of desert sand he acquired in his conquest of Kuwait.

By invading Kuwait, Saddam Hussein shares the responsibility for any war in the Gulf and the suffering that goes with it.

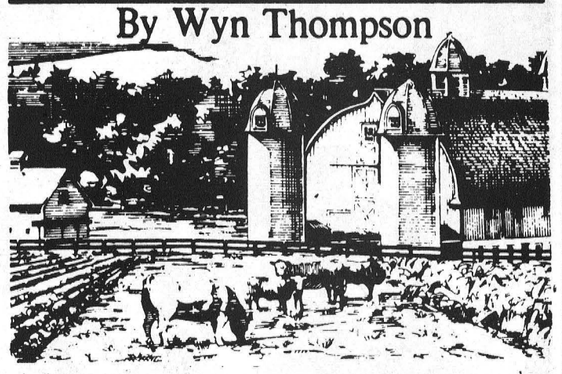
But the West has a responsibility too. By not giving economic sacntions a chance to work other western countries like Canada are giving consent to American willingness to use force as an acceptable tool to maintain International law and order according to American rules.

As American musician Bruce Springsteen once said: If you blindly follow your leaders, you could get killed.

Let's not blindly follow our leaders and stop this rush to war before it's too late.

The Farmer's Wife

By Wyn Thompson



What a morning! Minus twenty-five degrees. Sunshine, pale blue skies, a few fleecy clouds. Ground covered with snow; not a whisper of wind stirring; smoke of breakfast fires rising straight up from the chimneys. A spotless world.

I go out to get wood to fill the wood-box and the frosty air stings my face, prickles my nose and sets my blood racing. I fill the bird feeders while I am out as well.

As I go about these homely chores, I think about the recent television shows I have seen portraying the garbage and transportation problems of Toronto, Vancouver, yea even Ottawa.

The garbage is knee-deep, the air is smog-bound, crime is up, and the electric is down more than it is up. Very soon, the soothsayers predict, the people of the cities are going to flee their environment, perhaps to Eastern Ontario.

Well, I have a counter-prediction. If such an exodus ever does occur, especially in winter, ninety-five percent of those who flee will be back in the cities within the year.

Let's make a few comparisons between the grim life in these cities and the rural idyll in South Gower Township, Eastern Ontario.

1. No garbage strikes. This is true. There has never been so much as a slowdown in my balliwick.

The reason for this good behaviour is very simple. There is one sanitation manager and a large, smelly dump to which most of the area's 2000 or so inhabitants takes their own garbage.

We can take it whenever we are in the mood, providing we are in the mood on Wednesday afternoons or throughout the day on Saturday, which is when the dump is open.

We used to go to the dump every Saturday afternoon taking the week's garbage. Then we became environmentally conscious and by adhering to the rules of use, reuse, recycle, we now go to the dump once a month. And I'm supposed to feel sorry for all those poor Torontonians, Ottawans, and Vancouverites who had their garbage collection reduced over the holidays.

2. No crowded thruways. There sure aren't any. We don't have trouble with taxis either. Nor buses, and the last trains in the nearby town were discontinued years ago.

We do have air service. To catch a plane, you simply drive thirty-five miles to Ottawa International where, if there's no fog, ice, or snow, you're off the ground in no time.

Don't count on going where you expected to in December or very early January. No, I'm not talking of hi-jackings. I'm just speaking of failures to land because of rain, fog, ice, or snow.

3. We drink cold, pure country water and breathe that fresh country air. We do, for sure. Of course, we have to work like dogs for the privilege —but how else would we keep out of mischief?

Then there's air. As I will readily concede, it really is pure in most of South Gower, unless one of the three remaining farmers is spreading a load of manure right under your nose. Be that as it may, in summer if it is not too humid, the air is a joy to breathe.

Winter is, indeed, another matter. At any temperature much below minus 10 degrees C and with a sharp wind blowing, it hurts a little to breathe. You can almost feel the ice crystals forming in your lungs.

So you see, "city cousins," you know what we're doing. We are working like dogs, chopping wood and carrying it in to stoke fires to get the air warm enough to breathe.

Paying for fuel oil out of salaries that would define a lot of us as poverty-level in Toronto, Vancouver and Ottawa.

4. In the country you lead the simple life. Away from it all. All what? People assembled like ants in a hill. No noise? Lack of privacy? I wish.

People who like privacy had better stay in the city. You won't find it on the farm.

You may be out of sight of the next house, but private you're not. Firstly, you're not out of hearing. And I don't mean "way off in the distance-a-dog-barked" country sound so beautifully, or should I say mournfully, described in Victorian novels. I mean of modern technology.

There are corn harvesters, combines, big tractors, and ATV's. Then your neighbours, particularly if they are 'nouveau farmers' all have chain saws with which they cut wood daily to keep from freezing to death.

5. Then there are the seasons of the year when invasion of your land is viewed by other's as a god-given right. Summer is not one of them, except for the neighbours stray animals which are soon collected.

The first wave, of course, is the migratory game season. Next comes the deer season which overlaps the previous season. Most times of the year is considered pigeon and groundhog hunting season.

6. People are so honest in the country. Well, all I can say is that one must have his home tightly secured here in the township and a neighbourhood watch well organized. On no account must you feel free to leave the keys in your car. My case rests.

7. The country is full of charming wildlife, while the cites are infected with rodents and cockroaches. Well, it might be true that there are more porcupines and skunks in South Gower township, Eastern Ontario than in the City of Ottawa, let us say.

But, there are also more mice, rats, bats, mosquitoes, blackflies, fleas, toads and snakes.

I could so easily go on with more discussion on the difference of the cities noted and South Gower township, Eastern Ontario but, the way I want to end this piece is not with more drawbacks of the country, but with more advantage of the cities.

So I ask you, consider what you have in the cities —more rapid transportation than we in the township have, for sure. Museums, ballet, opera, musicales, theatre, gourmet restaurants, bright lights.

Please stay there, at least the most of you.

MAY the Sacred Heart of Jesus be praised, adored and glorified throughout the whole world forever and ever. Amen. Say this prayer 9 times a day, for 9 days; and your prayer will be answered no matter how impossible it may seem. Don't forget to thank the Sacred Heart with a promise of publication when petition is granted. Thank you to the Sacred Heart of Jesus.

CARD OF THANKS
May we try to say thank you to all the wonderful family, friends, and neighbors for the concern and support following the loss of our dear son, brother, grandson and nephew, Russell. It was all the visits, the help at our home and in the hospital, the beautiful cards and flowers, the charitable donations, and delicious food that made such a difference. When we needed someone to just be with us, there always was help. Those special handshakes, warm hugs, and words of empathy meant so much to us.
We shall always remember
Thank you,
Martin, Bonnie, Maggie,
Amanda and Elias
and the Henderson and Niederkorn families

Merchants

Merchants raised concerns about the number of area residents heading to American shopping malls and will be looking at ways of reversing this trend by stressing the importance of shopping locally.

They also have a Valentine's Day promotion in the works.

The merchants' committee will hold its next meeting in early March.

Dale McNaughton of Seaway Valley Pharmacy has agreed to continue chairing the committee until someone assumes the presidency. Mike Dean is the association's treasurer and Alan Sharkey is its secretary.

New clinic

Moose Creek clinic opens

MOOSE CREEK - More than 100 people braved cold winds to witness the official opening of Moose Creek's new medical centre Sunday afternoon.

The recently completed $140,000 medical centre will house general practitioner Dr. Daniel Lacroix who began practicing in Moose Creek in June of last year.

The clinic has a drug dispensary and a laboratory capable of conducting a full range of blood tests.

Roxborough Township Reeve Donald Cumming said the new medical clinic will serve the northern portion of Roxborugh Township. A similar clinic in Avonmore serves the southern portion of the rural township.

"I think it's a real fine facility," he said. "With one in Moose Creek, the township is covered 100 per cent for medical services."

The Moose Creek Medical Centre came together as the result of a co-operative effort. The township donated the land the facility was built on and $30,000 to its construction.

The Moose Creek Chamber of Commerce, which owns the building, built the health facility with the help of an ambitious fundraising campaign which generated $63,000, and its own contribution of $8,000,

Moose Creek Chamber of Commerce fundraising chairman Art Buchanan said Sunday another $40,000 is needed to pay for the medical centre building. To secure the remaining $40,000, Buchanan hopes to cash in on a federal grant of $30,000 and a provincial grant of $10,000. The Chamber of Commerce has already applied for the grants.

The Chamber was able to cut construction costs by employing volunteer labor. Buchanan said 80 per cent of the labor was done by volunteers.

Lacroix is renting the medical centre from the Chamber. Originally from Orleans, he is a graduate of the University of Ottawa. He worked in Montreal and Ottawa for three years before starting a family practice in the Northern Ontario community of Mattawa.

After three years, Lacroix moved south to Moose Creek in June, 1990. For the time being Lacroix will be the only doctor working out of the Moose Creek clinic. But Dr. Luc Clement, who operates a clinic in St. Isidore, will be providing a back-up service.

Lacroix said once his practice builds up in Moose Creek, the services can be expanded to accommodate a second doctor operating out of the clinic.

Ault seeks grant for water recycling project

by Andy McLeister
Record Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — Ault Foods Ltd. is seeking government assistance to help it implement a project that could cut water consumption at its plant here by up to 90,000 gallons daily.

Winchester Plant manager Yves Leroux confirmed Monday that Ault and the supplier of equipment for the project, Seprotech Systems Inc. of Ottawa, have filed a joint application for financial assistance from the Ministry of the Environment.

They hope to continue evaluation and possible implementation of technology the plant began experimenting with last fall.

"I can't tell you a whole lot about it except to say we are working with (Seprotech)," Leroux said. He added that within several weeks he will be able to give more details.

He said it would be "premature" to announce the dollar value of the project until a response is received from the MOE. The cost, he said, will likely hinge on the extent and nature of the project.

The plant manager said he was "absolutely satisfied" with experiments that were conducted last fall by technical manager Gary Dean with the help of two visiting Danish engineering students.

"Recycling is an on-going business for us and one of these days something is going to break," commented Leroux. For example, an "acquatic system" for water conservation is being brought on line this week, he noted.

Dean said recently that the Sepro equipment tested last fall is a modified version of "membrane technology" that has been used to "polish" dairy products. He described the technology as complicated and expensive.

He said there are still some instrumentation bugs to work out of the system but, otherwise, he sounded satisfied with last fall's evaluation.

Last year, visiting engineering students assisted Dean in evaluating the Seprotech equipment. This phase of the project ended when the students departed for Europe in Decem- ber.

Dean says the trials are continuing. He said enough data has not been compiled to determine whether the 90,000 gal. target will be reached.

Chesterville man on Indian exchange

A story in The Chesterville Record has given an are man the chance of a lifetime to see the world.

Pat Coyne, who, with his brother Michael, farms at RR3 Chesterville, will be leaving Saturday for India on a four-week study exchange sponsored by Rotary International.

Coyne will be a member of a five-person delegation from Eastern Ontario taking part in the month-long educational and cultural exchange and will be staying in and around the Indian capital of New Delhi. He will return to Canada Feb. 25 after a five-day sidetrip to the Himalayan Mountain kingdom of Nepal.

The cost of airline tickets and accommodations is being borne by Rotary International. Incidentals, like the sidetrip to Nepal, are paid for by the program participants.

Preparations for the trip to India began last October when the Chesterville Rotary Club placed a story in The Record asking for applicants for the month-long Rotary Study Exchange. The program is for non-Rotarians between the ages of 25 and 35.

Coyne, who has an honours degree in history from Queen's University and who works during the summers for the St. Lawrence Parks Commission as a costumed interpreter at Upper Canada Village, applied and was one of several from across Eastern Ontario, Western Quebec and Northern New York to be interviewed by a panel of Rotarians in Cornwall in November.

He was informed in mid-November that he was one of five from Rotary District 704 chosen for the trip. Three are from Ottawa and the fifth is from Vankleek Hill.

Asked why he wanted to take part in the exchange, Coyne told The Record Tuesday that his interest in the Subcontinent was kindled during his university days when he studied British history, particularly the policies of British colonization of India during the 19th century.

"I want to see the architecture and what has remained from the era. No matter what people think of British policies during that time, India was united into a nation.

"I'll probably spend a lot of time in museum settings - I'm in the museum business - in and around New Delhi."

At the top of his sightseeing list in the Indian capital is the Viceroy's Palace, the home of what would have been the rough equivalent of our position of Governor-General during the British Raj.

Near the top of the list is the Taj Mahal in the city of Agra.

"I also want to see the population of India. I've been told that if you think you've seen crowds, you have no idea of what a crowd is until you get there," he said of the country, whose population has exploded to over 800-million.

Because of his agricultural background, Coyne also expects to visit a number of Indian farms.

During the exchange, he will be hosted by about 10 Indian families, an experience for which the Canadian group was briefed during a recent two-day orientation session in Cornwall.

The group was told that service club members in Third World countries are generally members of the economic elite and that during their time in India they will be staying with very wealthy families and will probably each have their own servants while guests in these homes.

The group will have its own tour guide, a native Indian who has been working as a chemist in Cornwall for the past 30 years. He helped lead the orientation seminar on the cultural and religious differences the group can expect to encounter.

After their return to Canada, members of the exchange will be expected to be available to speak to Rotary Clubs and other groups across Eastern Ontario on their experiences in the Subcontinent and on the work - such as its Polio Plus program - that Rotary International is carrying out in the Third World.

"One of the major aims of the program is to foster a degree of understanding among people of diverse backgrounds," he said.

To this end, the local Rotary district will be playing host to a group of Indians under the study exchange program during May.

Sign making

Chick Bidgood is cashing in on society's craving for signs with the assistance of some high-tech gadgetry. He has been in sign-making and lettering business for almost three months and plans to attract customers from as far away as Ottawa, Cornwall and Brockville.

CHESTERVILLE - "Sign, sign, everywhere a sign."

So go the lyrics to a popular 60s tune by Ottawa's Five Man Electrical Band and although the song laments signs and their pervasive presence in our culture, signs often serve useful functions, giving directions, denoting rules or illustrate logos.

A Chesterville area man has decided to cash in on society's need for signs and has started up a fledgling but steadily growing sign and letter making business just east of Chesterville on Highway 43.

Since starting out on his new business venture, Graphicraft Ltd., Nov. 1, last year, Chick Bidgood has steadily acquired new customers.

"Being a new business of course you have work into the market, but we're not having any hassles getting in there," he said Monday.

With the help of technology, two computers and two machines to cut vinyl lettering for the signs, Bidgood hopes eventually to expand and draw customers from Ottawa, Cornwall and even Brockville.

"What we try to do is find something you'd get in the city and bring it out here," he said.

Customers can bring in their own sign designs which can be easily transferred to Graphicraft's computers. But Bidgood also does his own designing with a computer. He designs logos and will do signs and lettering in any shape or color, he said.

The state-of-the-art technology permits the production of signs and lettering with precision faster than it would take to paint them, he said.

Bidgood's business has picked up a lot faster than he envisioned. The number of customers may be as high as five a week. That doesn't look like much in print. "But each customer is buying a horrendous amount of signage," he said.

Bidgood recently had one customer order lettering for three vehicles followed moments later with another one ordering nine signs.

"It's developing rather nicely. I'm very pleased," he said. "Word-of-mouth seems to be the biggest asset to our business."

Within a year Bidgood predicts business will triple or quadruple. Eventually he plans to have a staff of six working for him. He now has one part-time helper.

Originally from Rouyn, a city in northern Quebec, Bidgood has lived the last seven years in Finch Township.

He was a bush pilot for 10 years before switching careers to become a property manager for another 10 years. He retired from property management two years ago.

But he decided to come out of retirement during a recent visit to Florida when he saw how well sign and lettering businesses were doing there.

Having done drafting as a hobby previously, Bidgood decided to put his hobby to full use in a business venture and took over a building that once housed a tractor dealership to start his business.

"I never thought it would get this far," he said.

Bidgood hopes it's a sign of the times.

Winchester Township implementing garbage pickup, dump tipping fees

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

MAPLE RIDGE - Starting next month, Winchester Township residents will no longer have to dump their own garbage at the local landfill site.

At a meeting last week, Winchester Township Council agreed to implement door-to-door garbage pickup in a move to exercise more control over waste going into the dump.

The township will also implement tipping fees at the site and provide stickers for township residents allowing them use of the site.

People without identification stickers will be charged an increased fee to dispose of their garbage.

Reeve Claude Cousineau said Friday the township is considering a fee of "a couple dollars for a car, and maybe $5 for a half ton (truck)."

Residents will likely be charged for garbage pickup on an annual basis, combined with a waste management surcharge to help pay for the township's dump operation and closure plan, Cousineau said.

The waste management fees will likely be included in the annual tax billing.

Cousineau said the township adopted the new measures mainly to exercise control over waste going into the landfill. "We've got to keep people out of that landfill," he said.

The garbage pickup also was adopted as one of the final steps in the township's move to implement a recycling program.

Plans to implement recycling for the Chesterville, Winchester and Winchester Township area have been on hold until the township implemented a garbage pickup plan. Chesterville and Winchester already have door-to-door pickup.

The township garbage pickup will be mandatory for residents. Everyone will be billed and no one will be able to opt out of the program.

"I think that's the only way we can do it," he said.

He added, most residents are in favor of any action the township can take to help the environment, especially if such action leads to recycling.

"People are really ready for it. We've got a lot of calls (asking): 'When are you doing it, when are you doing it'. They're really anxious to get at it."

"In general, most people are conscious of our environment and they're going to want to recycling."

The bins needed to collect recyclables, to be installed at the dump site, have already been purchased. And Cousineau hopes the three municipalities using the dump can split on the cost of a new truck.

The truck will likely be eligible for a 50-per- cent grant, he said, and a recycling trailer to tow behind the truck will likely be eligible for two-thirds funding.

In order for recycling to be successful, an education process will be needed, as well, he said. People will have to separate their own waste for collection when recycling is implemented.

Winchester man convicted of rape

OTTAWA—Pleading guilty to raping a 16-year-old girl along Dwyer Hill Road a year-and-a-half ago, Jeffrey Windsor was sentenced in Judge Paul Belanger's Ottawa court last Thursday.

Windsor, 28, of Winchester, received three-and-a-half years in prison for the pre-meditated attack that took place in October, 1989. He admitted to lying in wait in the bushes for the teenager who was riding her bicycle on the lonely backroad, handcuffing and blindfolding her during the attack.

According to Windsor's own testimony, he was equipped with a hunting knife, a set of handcuffs, and a balaclava when he grabbed her and threw her bicycle in a ditch. The girl was so tramautized by the ordeal that she refused to give testimony at the trial. Crown Attorney Lorne McConnery told the court the victim shouted "don't kill me!" at Windsor during the rape.

While Windsor's lawyer, Peter Beach, tried to show no premeditation was involved, Judge Belanger asked why Windsor would have a balaclava in his truck in October along with handcuffs and a hunting knife. "I think the conclusion is nearly inescapable that this (rape) was not only well thought out but well planned," Belanger said. The judge added it was "disturbing" that a psychiatrist who examined Windsor concluded the defendent was not inclined toward rape.

Windsor got a reduced sentence since he admitted to the crime. Had the young woman been put through the ordeal of a trial, Belanger said he would have given a lengthier sentence.

Pioneer-style winter fun at village

UPPER CANADA VILLAGE—With millions of summertime visitors coming over the past 30 years since it opened, Upper Canada Village is proving a popular tourist attraction even in January.

This year for the first time, Upper Canada Village is open year-round. And the scene last Sunday was blue skies, picturesque setting, and nose-chilling temperatures as skating opened on the canal here.

Cross-country skiing enthusiasts were also plying the 28cm of newly-fallen snow on the 10km of trail at Crysler Park and the bird sanctuary and another 5km of trail at Brown's Bay Park. In addition, 10-km of snowmobile trails are also available at Crysler Park.

A two-horse open sleigh offers up fresh-air tours of the Village every weekend from January through mid-March—if the snow melts, Village officials promise to offer wagon hay rides instead. Rides are continuous from 1-3pm, tickets are $2.50 for adults and $1.25 for seniors and children over five.

Other wintertime activities at the Village include special evening sleigh rides and suppers planned for three coming Saturdays— Jan. 19, Feb. 2, and March 2. The price is $7.50 for adults, $5.00 for children and places must be reserved in advance.

MAPLE RIDGE - Winchester Township has been given a reprieve by the Ontario Ministry of Environment concerning the township landfill site.

The township had been given until Oct. 31, 1991 to complete an operation and closing plan for the site on Boyne Road, just east of Winchester.

But at the request of the township, the ministry of environment has extended the deadline to March 31 this year.

Work being done at the site includes the testing of water in wells drilled at the site for contamination, and the development of a plan for the closure of the site when it reaches capacity.

The planning alone will cost about $50,000, but is being two-thirds funded by the Ontario Ministry of Environment. The remaining $14,000 cost is being split between Chesterville, Winchester and Winchester Township.

The actual closing of the dump will also be expensive, but the cost will be reduced to one-quarter of what it should cost because topsoil and clay will be taken from a site purchased by the township across from the dump, Cousineau said.

However, the process will still be an expensive one, he said. "It's going to be costly, there's no question about it."

Work to rehabilitate the site after its closing will be extensive. The site will be covered by a four-foot-deep layer of clay and topsoil, and seeded down, and it also will be ventilated to allow for the escape of methane gas as well.

The township had been asked to begin work —which takes about eight months to complete —on the plans in December, 1989. But the township was delayed starting work because of a lack of government funding, Cousineau said.

"We knew it had to come, but there were no funds available," he said.

Cousineau is hoping the site they purchased about a year ago across from their existing site will have another use. He hopes the perimeters of the present site can extended to include the new site for landfilling.

The township had purchased the land in hope of landing the waste disposing rights for the area under the Grenville-Dundas waste management plan.

The plan may not be as viable as originally thought by the township. A recently announced waste processing facility for north of Moose Creek near Highway 417 could derail Winchester Township's waste hopes.

The plan was announced late last month and the facility could be operational in two years, drawing garbage from the three United Counties and possibly other areas.

Villeneuve wants riding name-change

Andy McLeister

TORONTO — If MPP Noble Villeneuve has his way, his riding will soon be renamed to reflect its true dimensions.

Villeneuve introduced a private member's bill in the Ontario Legislature last month to rename the riding, S-D-G and East Grenville. It's official title is now Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

And he is confident that this, his third name- change attempt, will succeed.

"I think (name change) will happen sometime between March and June," Villeneuve said last week.

"It's my third attempt, but with this (new) government which seems oriented towards people things I should have no difficulty bringing this forth."

On two occasions with the previous government he introduced legislation similar to Bill 31 — an act to amend the Representation Act — but it wasn't given high enough priority, he said.

When the legislature reconvenes in March, he presumes Bill 31 will be passed because he can't see it becoming a subject of lengthy debate. He has already written the three party house leaders to enlist their support.

Of course, if the name were spelled out, Villeneuve's desk at Queen's Park wouldn't be large enough to hold it. That is why Bill 31 calls for the S-D-G initials to be used along with "East Grenville".

The riding, which encompasses the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, plus the eastern half of Grenville County, already has the longest name in the province.

However, the name has been left unchanged since East Grenville was added when the provinces electoral boundaries were re-mapped in 1986.

He sees no problem with compressing Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry into the acronym, S-D-G. He has found that 99 per cent of the people in the riding and elsewhere refer to the United Counties by their initials.

But he feels the name does not recognize his 12,000 constituents in the eastern part of Grenville County. "They're without an identity," he said.

The new name should represent all the riding in both "a traditional and non-traditional way," he said.

"SDG has been traditionally been accepted as the United Counties and there has never been any confusion," he said.

In a general sense, Villeneuve is also concerned about riding boundary changtes which occur about every 10 years as population patterns fluctuate.

If his riding continues to grow, he fears representation will become watered down.

Rural riding's such as his, are much different than urban ridings. Villeneuve must represent the concerns of 23 municipalities, compared to city ridings in which a single municipal entity is represented by a number of MPPs.

He would like to see rural ridings exempted from the present policy, in which the population of ridings determine their geographic size.

Under the policy, sparsely populated ridings cover large areas to meet voter-number requirements.

In the1986 electoral boundary re-mapping, a population figure of 74,000 per riding, allowing for a 25 per cent variance in either direction was established. The population of SDG and East Grenville is in the neighborhood of 55,000.

He believes ridings like SD&G should be given a rural designation, in much the same fashion as Northern Ontario ridings enjoy.

As it now stands, urban representation is greater at Queen's Park. This imbalance between urban and rural MPPs should be corrected, Villeneuve maintains.

Villeneuve said his representation is stretched thinly, that for conventions scheduled for next month, he is lining up meetings between municipal officials and government ministers and bureaucrats.

For both the Rural Ontario Municipalities Association and the Good Roads Association conventions, "you ought to see my schedule," he said.

"I set up all these meetings and I need a pretty fast bicycle," he quipped.

Flyers hang on for narrow victory

CHESTERVILLE - The Chesterville Flyers barely held on to a 6-1 first period lead over the visiting Russell Lions, Monday night in Eastern Ontario Junior "C" Hockey League action.

After building up a five-goal cushion, the Flyers watched as the club's impressive lead dwindled as the game progressed.

A quick lead was nailed in by the Flyers' Denis Ouellette. With 1:39 played, Ouellette scored off a pass from Rod Casselman. Russell needed only another 6 seconds to notch the even score.

An unassisted powerplay goal by Casselman put the home team ahead with 15:09 showing in the opening frame.

Dan Adams added to Chesterville's lead with help from Ouellette. The 3-1 advantage was established at 11:57.

Ouellette and Adams teamed up again to net the Flyers fourth marker, but this time their roles were reversed. Ouellette slapped in the rebound from Adams at 6:41.

Claude Bernique picked up the pass from Adams, to mark the Flyers 5-1 lead with only 4:03 remaining in period one.

Adams took advantage of a powerplay to net the pass from Young, ending the first period scoring with 3:11 showing.

The 72's slapped in a 4-0 advantage before Sherrer nailed in his first goal at 15:11 of the second period. Chris Holmes and Shawn Taggart set up play.

MORE ON FAT BURNING

Fitness Forum

by Jennifer Gregoire, Reg. N., N.D.

There really is nothing mysterious about calories. The more oxygen we use results in the more calories we burn off. Consequently, the deeper we breathe and the faster our heart beats because of exercise the more calories we use. Therefore, exercise is the best way to burn fat.

The best way to determine how hard you should exercise is to measure the maximum amount of oxygen your body is capable of using. To measure this, doctors have you ride a specialized bicycle or walk on a treadmill. You give it an all-out effort, while the doctor measures your maximum oxygen consumption. With this information he or she can give you a prescription on how hard to exercise.

Most of us can't afford this type of testing. Fortunately there is an alternative: checking your heart rate.

When we exercise, our muscles demand more oxygen. Our heart rate and breathing speed up to get more oxygen to the exercising muscles. Not surprisingly, there is a parallel increase in heart rate and oxygen counts. Because of this parallel increase, you can use your heart rate as a worthy replacement for all the sophisticated testing.

Everyone has a maximum heart rate. Your maximum heart rate is the number of beats your heart makes per minute when you are exercising as far, as fast, and as long as possible. Although it varies from person to person, your maximum heart rate is roughly 220 minus your age if you are a man, or 226 minus your age if you are a woman. So, if you are a twenty-year-old male, your maximum heart rate is about 200; if you are forty, it is about 180.

Those who are overweight should not exercise at their maximum heart rate level. That could be dangerous. A safe level for most people who are overweight ranges between 40-65 per cent of their maximum. This is your ideal heart rate range.

Most experts agree that at least 300 calories should be burned while exercising to help you control your body weight. There are several reasons for this. When we are at rest, the majority of our energy comes from glycogen and glucose [carbohydrate]. As we exercise, our body gradually shifts over into burning stored fat. The longer we exercise, the more fat we use. Exercising for thirty minutes [or burning 300 calories] seems to be that critical threshold necessary for burning away fat and keeping it off.

It is also important to remember the interplay between intensity of exercise [how hard] and duration [how long]. You may compromise the intensity of your exercise by doing it for a longer time period, or you can increase the intensity of exercise and do it for a shorter period of time. The IDEAL level of exercise for weight control is 60 per cent of maximum heart rate for thirty minutes.

Unfortunately, not everyone is able to exercise at the 60 per cent level of intensity. For some people, 40 or 45 per cent is better. Therefore, they would have to exercise longer.

My Silent Achievers this week are Morewood Public School principal, Bob Gilroy, and all his students and teachers who are observing an Aerobic Month by working out together everyday. WELL DONE.

We are so very lucky to be able to do it for ourselves.

Devils sweep

Buske, Byers double digit visiting Char-Lan Crusaders

MAPLE RIDGE - North Dundas Devils outscored the visiting Char-Lan Crusaders 135-74 here last Tuesday sweeping their first SD&G basketball doubleheader of 1991.

Ryan Buske pumped through 19 points, including three three-pointers, leading the Junior Devils to an impressive 78-29 decision.

Ashley Byers dropped in 16 for the Senior Devils as they rolled up a 57-45 victory in the afternoon's closing game.

Scot Bell nailed three three-pointers [two in the first half] to support Byers' effort.

The Juniors victory enabled them to imrpove their "AA" Division record to four wins and a loss. ESLC Patriotes lead with 10 points, two up on both North Dundas and Glengarry. St. Joseph's Panthers are two back of the Devils with six points.

On the Senior point parade coach Gerry Jean's Devils remain sixth but improved their record to two [wins] and three [losses]. North Dundas' four points are within four of St. Joe's, Glengarry and ESLC. St. Lawrence leads the Senior "AA" rankings with 10 points.

Jean's seniors managed to play through a closely- called game with three starters carrying four fouls each and another fouled out but still led by quarter scores of 15-6, 33-21 and 49-33 before winning 57-45. Defence highlights an 8-8 final quarter.

Chris Van Bridger broke up a quiet, almost dull first period nailing a three-point looper which put the Devils into a lead they expanded on.

Before the half Scot Bell followed Van Bridger's lead and swished a pair of spectacular threes and the Devils were away to their second win of the season.

Ashley Byers piled up 16 points, Bell rang up 11, Dave Harper 10, Trevor Plumb nine, Chad Simpson six, Van Bridger five and Darren Hutt three for the Devils.

Crusaders got 20 points from Phil Poitras but missed 20 free throws. They had 32 foul shots presented to them but just couldn't capitalize from the line.

Coach Gerry Jean said he was pleased with his charges, noting it came after the long Christmas lay-off.

"I was impressed. The guys shot very well and played strong man-to-man coverage. We still want to work on individual things."

"I would like to see the guys help each other more and be more vocal on the floor —Yell out plays, call for help."

The coach says his team should be closer in most of their games from now on but points out his twin towers —Darren Hutt and Chad Simpson aren't able to play at 100% [still recovering from pre- Christmas ankle injuries] and veteran forward Jason Kennedy is gone for the year due to a knee injury.

JUNIORS WIN BIG

North Dundas led by period scores of 18-10, 38-13, 56-23 and 78-29 as they demolished the Crusaders.

The Devils' surging offence produced 20 points in the second period and 22 in the final quarter.

Ryan Buske drained a game-high 19 points. He was good for a trio of triple pointers. Rod Merkley delivered 14, Sean Salter nailed 13, Jamie Kennedy hooped a dozen and Jason Stevens hit a six pack o' points. Jason Ball [4], Sean Hachey [2], Mike Singh [2] and Cory VanDelst [2] completed a well-rounded attack.

"We did some things very well," explained Junior coach Deanna Corbett-White.

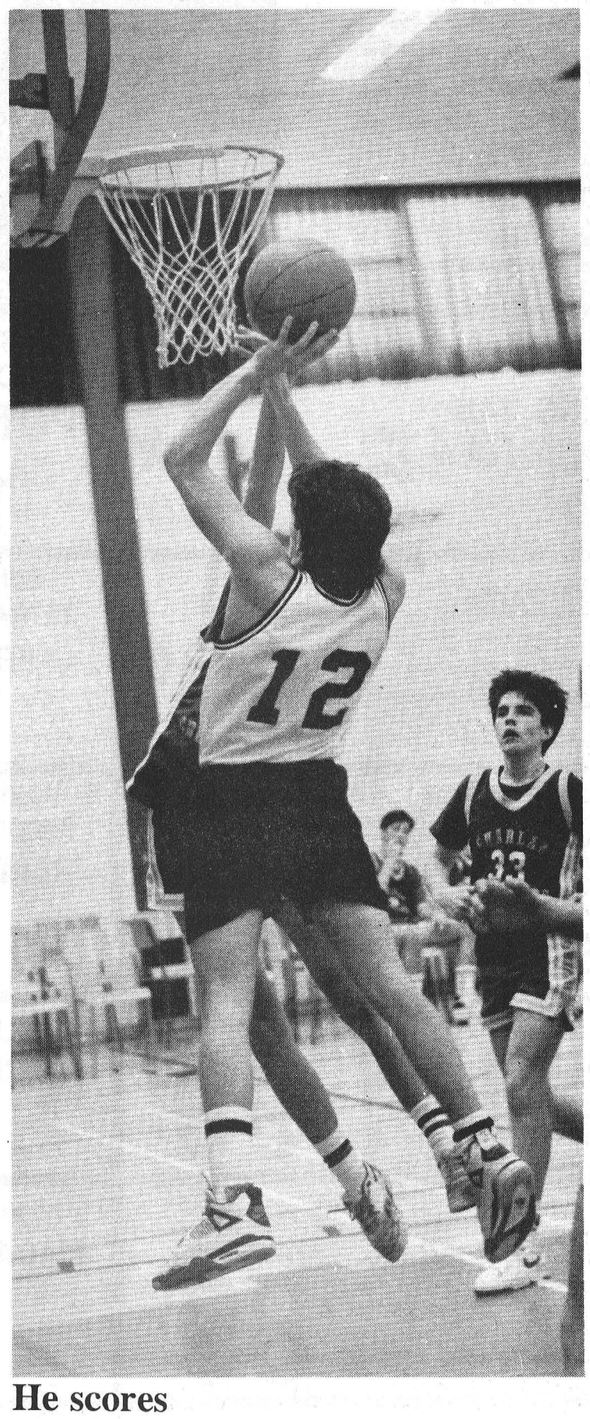
"I was pleased with three of the four quarters but we must run our offences better against weaker teams. Overall it was a good effort for our first game back."

Corbett-White had her charges go through three practices during the holidays and ran them through a three hour session Monday and figures the players are in "pretty good shape" heading into the final stretch of the regular season.

She also pointed proudly to the SD&G Scoring Leader standings which show Rod Merkley in fourth place with 16.3 points, Sean Salter eighth at 12.7 and Phil Burns ninth at 12.3 points per game.

"I think that shows our team effort. I would rather have three or four players shooting around 15 than having just one who scores 30 a game. If he goes cold, the team dies."

This week [Tues., Jan. 15] the Devils hosted the Tagwi Warriors. Then North Dundas isn't slated to play until Feb. 5 when they travel to Ingleside to play the R/O Lancers.



He scores

The North Dundas Junior Devils' Jamie Kennedy sunk a two pointer on Tuesday, Jan. 8. The little Devils captured a 78-22 win against Char-Lan Crusaders.
