Connect Seaway Islands, Plan Cottage Sites In Parks Program

12 of 20 Islands Formed By Seaway Become Scenic Drive

During the formative period, the Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission met on several occasions with Ontario Hydro's Director of the St. Lawrence Power Project and his engineers and property officers. As a result of these meetings and the Commission's own discussions, it became evident that there were matters of policy which had to be resolved at a high level.

On September 15th, the Commission presented its general plans and its budget for 1956-57 to the Premier and Cabinet, receiving sympathetic approval. On the same date this Commission met with The Ontario Hydro Commission, and the procedure for obtaining land was clarified.

Prelim Plans For Parks

Flooding the Longue Sault Area will create about twenty new islands, of which it is intended to connect about twelve by means of a road, causeways and a bridge. The Commission has prepared preliminary plans for the construction of this scenic drive which will be approximately seven miles long. It is intended to do much of this construction by contract next summer, as it will be done more economically before flooding.

A good deal of discussion and planning has taken place regarding the Chrysler's Farm Battlefield Memorial Park, located in the centre of the rehabilitated area. This is expected to cover 1500 acres in Williamsburg and Osnaburgh, on the new shoreline. The present battlefield monument will be moved to become the focal point in the new park. Several of the older buildings to be affected by flooding have been selected to be moved into this major park area, for use as administration or museum buildings. An estimate of the cost of moving these buildings has been obtained.

Although priority is being given to parks projects related to the St. Lawrence Power and Seaway Development, the Commission has given consideration to the improvement of existing parks in other parts of the area under its jurisdiction.

Discussions are under way with the Department of Highways with a view to this Commission taking over the well-known Brown's Bay Park operated by that Department, at the Minister's request. This park would be enlarged and improved.

In response to a request from the Township of Charlottetown, the Commission is considering the problem of the Township in connection with their Municipal Park, an undeveloped area on the St. Lawrence, as to what aid can be given in the form of plans or advice re administration or any other assistance possible.

Summer Cottage Sites

Several hundred summer cottages will be dislocated due to the St. Lawrence development. At the request of Ontario Hydro, this Commission has agreed to plan for controlled cottage sites, where cottages have to be re-established, at the expense of the Hydro Commission. It is emphasized that all park lands will remain vested in the Crown, that the use of such lands will be planned and controlled, and that the cottages will be used for summer residence only. Two or three of the new islands in the Longue Sault Driveway have (See "Connect" Page Eight)

Iroquois High School Commencement Friday

Iroquois High School will present its annual Commencement Exercises on Friday, November 18th, at 8 p.m., in the Town Hall with Dr. C. Storr, Ottawa, as the special speaker. The event is one which is well attended in the village and a large attendance this year is forecast.

The pupils of the school work hard in producing a program of entertainment which the village has the pleasure of seeing and reports indicate this year's program to be every bit as good if not a trifle better, than any yet presented.

JERSEY CLUB PLAN BANQUET NEXT THURSDAY

At the annual meeting of the St. Lawrence Jersey Club held recently it was the opinion of the directors that the Club should hold a banquet and social evening for Jersey breeders and friends this year. The banquet will be held Thursday, November 24th in the I.O.O.F. Hall, South Mountain, at 7 p.m. Tickets are only $1.50 and may be obtained from any of the officers or directors named below.

George Jowett, Guest Speaker

The guest speaker of the evening will be Mr. George Jowett, of Morrisburg, who has travelled extensively and should have an interesting and informative address for all. In addition there will be other entertainment as well as the fellowship of meeting with Jersey breeders from the St. Lawrence Club.

The executive is hoping tickets are purchased well in advance so they may know how many to expect.

The annual meeting of the Club saw the following officers and directors elected for the coming year:

Past President, Bob Clark, Prescott; President, Ralph MacKenzie, Chesterville; Vice-President, Bill Fetherly, Brinston; Secretary-Treasurer, D. M. Rutherford, Morrisburg; Directors, Arden Baker, Brockville; Floyd Dingwell, Berwick; Arthur Rutley, Berwick; Bill Duval, Newington; Hume Grisdale, Iroquois; J. J. MacKenzie, Finch.

Other items of interest that were discussed was the Parish Show and it was decided to hold it again, if possible, at South Mountain at their annual fair.

The question of membership was dwelt upon at some length and each breeder was asked to pay $1.00 annual membership fee into the Club. It is important that this be done as this is the only means that the Club has of raising money to further Jersey promotion in this area.

DESIRE IS THE TRADEMARK OF FRANK IVEY

Edmonton may not repeat their Grey Cup victory this season but it won't be because any team will fight harder. "Pop" Ivey's formula has not changed and Jim Hunt, Star Weekly's sports writer gives the low-down this week on Ivey's "Will To Win".

$163.55 For Blind

The President announced that $163.55 had been received for the Institute for the Blind, with still more to be reported, and thanked the canvassers of the township for their work well done.

LADIES AT BRINSTON UNITED PLANNING A BAZAAR

The monthly meeting of Brinston United Church Women's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. R. Peterson on Thursday, November 3rd, at 2 p.m., with the President, Mrs. Irvine Payne presiding.

The meeting opened with hymn 182 followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The Bible Study period as suggested in Missionary Monthly was conducted by Mrs. C. E. Collison assisted by Mrs. Stanley Adams, Mrs. Ed. Thompson and Mrs. Mae Strader.

Secretary Mrs. Stanley Froats read the minutes of previous meeting with 16 members answering the roll call. Mrs. W. Cooper read an article on Christian Stewardship.

Lay Plans for Bazaar

KNOX LADIES AID CALLING IN SUNSHINE BAGS

The Ladies' Aid of Knox Presbyterian Church convened in the church hall on Monday afternoon for the regular October meeting. The President, Miss J. Cameron, presided over the meeting. "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" was the opening hymn. The Lord's Prayer repeated in unison and a scripture reading from chapter 2 of the Book of Ruth read by Mrs. J. R. Miller completed the opening devotions.

The Secretary, Mrs. B. Bradley, read the minutes of the last meeting. These were duly approved and the roll called. This was answered by nine members. Two matters of correspondence were read and discussed briefly, then shelved for future reference.

The treasurer's report read by Mrs. Pollock showed a very satisfactory balance with all bills paid. Mrs. Pollock gave a detailed report on the recent food sale and bazaar. The proceeds indicated that the effort was a successful one.

A large number of sunshine bags were turned in to the treasurer by those present at the meeting. All bags should be in the hands of the treasurer as soon as possible. The annual Christmas card list was read and revised and authority was given the secretary to send them out.

After a few minor items of business were discussed the meeting was closed with the hymn "Work For The Night Is Coming" and the benediction.

BRINSTON

Remembrance Day was observed by an impressive service held in the Memorial Hall, Brinston, where ratepayers of the township assembled in memory of those of the township who had served or made the supreme sacrifice in two World Wars and in Korea.

Interest Has Been Aroused In Search For Museum Pieces

Much interest has been aroused throughout the Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, and Leeds and Grenville, by the appeal of The Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission for museum pieces. The Commission will establish on the new shoreline of the St. Lawrence, in the heart of the rehabilitation area, a museum depicting the way of life of the pioneers of the upper St. Lawrence Valley.

It is emphasized that all articles will be properly labelled with the name of the contributor and particulars, and will be held in trust by the Province for permanent safe-keeping and maintenance. Safe storage will be provided.

Commission Grateful

George H. Challies, Chairman of the Commission, has advised this paper that the Commission is grateful not only for the contributions already received but also for suggestions made by many people who have written or phoned. Officials are pleased with the response to date but need many more items in certain lines. An advertisement in this paper lists some of the materials required.

Articles which were in frequent use in the home and on the farm in the early years and mementos and records of military engagements, are of particular interest. In addition, the Parks Commission wishes to obtain photographs and paintings of the ships which provided transportation for passengers and freight, in the days before the railway.

Every contribution is being acknowledged by letter. The second list of articles received, with names of donors, is shown below.

Mr. Charles Harkness, R. R., Iroquois: tools and equipment sufficient to establish an old time smithy in a separate suitable building.

Mrs. D. C. Merrill, Morrisburg: A small organ; a spinning wheel; number of old deeds and other historical documents; 3 old iron pots; 1 iron frying pan, old; 1 candle mould for 6 candles; 1 candle mould for 12 candles; 2 apple peelers; 1 weighing scale, old; 1 metal powder horn; 1 hand-made wrought iron oven cake turner; 1 fireplace bellows, old; 1 water bucket yoke; 2 old muskets, percussion cap; 1 ox yoke.

Remembrance Day Attendance Not Too Encouraging Here

The attendance at the Remembrance Day services in the village was disappointing as residents paid tribute to the veterans of two World Wars and Korea. Following a short ceremony at the cenotaph in the village park, the parade which had been formed in front of the Legion Hall marched on to the Town Hall for an indoor service.

The parade was headed by Branch 370 members, Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, Scouts, Cubs, and the Iroquois High School Band, which played at the cenotaph and Town Hall services.

Major D. L. Fenton, chairman of the indoor service and chaplain of the Legion Branch, addressed the attendance on "Remembrance Day" and "The Poppy".

Rev. Gordon F. Dangenfield gave the opening invocation, followed with the Lord's Prayer in unison. Rev. R. W. Smith read the scripture lesson and conducted the service at the cenotaph.

FLIGHT FROM NATCHEZ—Another Court-martial story and its aftermath is this book by Dr. Frank G. Slaughter. This court-martial took place at the close of the American Revolution when Dr. John Powers, an American in the British Army, found himself involved in some trouble concerning some missing cash, and although he was innocent, he had no proof of his innocence, and suffered the indignity of being removed of his insignia. However, the adventures he had on his way to Natchez, and later on his flight from that town with other Britishers, led him to a future life of happiness.

THE TRIAL OF KURT MEYER—For almost ten years the trial and sentence of Kurt Meyer has been the subject of much controversy. You'll remember reading about it in our newspapers, and will also probably remember that Kurt Meyer was the one Nazi Field Commander who was considered responsible for the cold-blooded murder of unarmed Canadian prisoners of war. In his book, B. J. S. MacDonald, who was the Canadian representative working in the group which investigated the case, tells of the steps taken, the trial itself, and gives his own personal views on the sentence, on the commutation of that sentence to Life Imprisonment, and then on Meyer's release after less than ten years in prison. Here you will find the true facts put before you in a very convincing style.

4-H Clubbers and a better Canada

This past week end saw hundreds of 4-H Club members from farms across Canada gathering in Toronto and Ottawa during National 4-H Club Week. One of the highlights was the national judging competitions at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, the Ontario Agricultural College and the Royal York Hotel. More than fifty girls competed in demonstrations of home economics and over sixty boys took part in judging of produce and livestock.

The movement to train the head and hands and to influence the heart and health of rural youth in Canada had its beginnings in different parts of the country just before the First Great War. Over the years it has had many names and many types of programs but its basic objectives remain the same. Quite simply 4-H Club Work is designed to influence farm people to adopt better methods of farming and homemaking, to help them to solve their own problems by training the young people to organize and to accept the responsibilities of citizenship. With membership now approaching the 73,000 mark it's impossible to measure in known terms the influence of 4-H Club Work in rural areas or on the national economy of Canada. Improved dairy and beef herds, new seeds and new strains for grain, fruits, and vegetables, new techniques of food preparation and preservation are but a few instances of the practical results of 4-H Club Work. The new spirit of enthusiasm sweeping the rural youth of the country is in no small way attributable to 4-H.

Any rural boy or girl up to the age of 21 who is able to carry out a demonstration of some better farm or home activity may become a member of a 4-H Club. Generally speaking there is no membership fee as such. Regular meetings are held and conducted according to parliamentary procedure so that the young people learn how to discharge the functions of a public or group meeting by actually doing it themselves. The club also plans group activities such as tours of prominent farm and industries, athletics, judging competitions and achievement day at the local fall fair. Individually, the boy or girl undertakes projects such as the raising of a calf, a pair of pigs or a flock of chickens, the growing of an acre or more of grain or potatoes and the girls may make or select suitable clothing for themselves or their family. In each case they learn by doing . . . they learn how to raise better livestock more efficiently, to increase the yield per acre, to sew or to cook.

It may be said, then, that the great membership in 4-H Clubs and their wide recognition by young and old indicate the way in which Canadian rural youth is planning its future. The 4-H Clubs train young men and women for leadership; they improve farms and therefore the community as a whole by introducing better agricultural and homemaking practices; they encourage co-operative community effort for the common good and by helping to build a finer rural life they contribute substantially to the development of a more satisfying Canadian culture.

A big pile of dollars

In opening his talk on "The Myth of Sovereignty" before the Rotary Club of London, Ont., last week, Mr. Stuart Armour, Economic Advisor to the President to The Steel Company of Canada, gave some very pertinent facts regarding the sums of money spent by Canada in defence during the past decade. We will not go into the meat of his talk on the myth of our economy to that of the United States, but will just give a few statistics to help us comprehend what billions of dollars look like.

Said Mr. Armour:

"Since the end of World War II, Canada has spent approximately $11.5 billion on defence, including defence production.

"Think of it. In ten years defence has cost us nearly eleven thousand, five hundred million of our hard-earned dollars; a sum almost beyond human comprehension.

"Let me try by means of these silver Canadian dollars to illustrate what that vast sum means in physical terms. If eleven thousand, five hundred million of our silver dollars were piled one on top of the other, they would reach into the sky a distance of 20 thousand miles. Were those silver dollars placed side by side, they would extend for 250,000 miles, which is greater than the distance from the earth to the moon.

"One hesitates to calculate how far eleven and half billion of our paper dollars would reach, since the money managers have given a certain elasticity to our money. But if the size of the dollar stayed as is (without reference to its purchasing power) eleven thousand, five hundred million of them laid end to end would extend about one million miles.

"Now I do not quote those figures to amuse you; nor am I trying to prove that our defence expenditures have been too great or too little, because I really do not know. All I want to do is to give you some idea by way of simple illustration of the magnitude of our defence expenditures since the end of World War II; a sum truly colossal when related to a population which still numbers less than sixteen million persons. And even the colossal sum I have mentioned takes no account of the cost of World Wars I and II.

"Why have we spent all that money on defence; and why do we propose to continue spending for defence on a similar scale in the years that lie ahead?

"You know the answer as well as I do, of course. We have spent it, and we shall continue to spend it, in defence of Western civilization in general and of our Canadian way of life in particular.

"In other words, we Canadians have put a very, very high value upon Western civilization, and also upon our way of life which, I submit, is one of the finest flowers of that civilization.

"What, then, is the salient characteristic of our way of life? Surely it is self-government—the right to order our own affairs in consonance with our own ideals and our own needs. In fact, Canadian history ever since 1759 has been the history of the struggle of a people 'yearning to breathe free' to achieve the undisputed right to make their own laws and their own treaties.

"We early decided that any other form of government, no matter how good it might be, was no substitute for self-government. Our struggle to achieve the right to govern ourselves after our own fashion was the inspiration for similar aspirations on the part of India and other British dependencies.

"The right of self-government may for convenience be subsumed under the word 'sovereignty'. Today we Canadians boast that we have achieved full sovereignty; that we have emerged from Colonial status; that Whitehall does not dare tell us what we should or may not do."

Sports in the Autumn

Take an autumn day with the leaves turning red—or even when the leaves have withered and disappeared. Add a good rugby game (earlier call it baseball, later hockey) and the crowd of enthusiasts which make spectator sports their recreation and you will have a cross section which is pretty representative of the whole country.

Let those who will call it a waste of time, or decry the loss of more active participation.

FOR PARENTS ONLY

BOOKS IN YOUR BUDGET

ARE THERE BOOKS in your family budget? If they have no definite place, they are apt to be crowded out by other leisure activities and other demands on your purse. Young Canada's Book Week in November is a good time for parents to discuss with each other and their children this vital topic.

Most people spend their spare time on what they really want to do and their money on what brings them most satisfaction. When mother and dad look back on their childhood, and compare it with their children's lives, today's world is a different less leisurely one. A generation ago there was no T.V., much less radio listening and movie going. But if in their youth, parents gained a love of books, they will want to pass on to their sons and daughters this great source of joy.

Because reading must compete with so many other exciting activities, it is more important than ever that good books, attractive and worthwhile, should be readily available in our homes. If children are "exposed" to books, the right choice of books for their age, they are almost sure to "catch" a love of literature.

Regular visits to the public library are valuable. A teacher who is enthusiastic about books may stimulate a child's reading. But there is no substitute for parents who love books and take time themselves to read. Fathers and mothers who believe that a good book is always an excellent investment are likely to have children to whom books matter.

Reference books such as a good dictionary, Rodget's Thesaurus, Bartlett's Quotations, etc. should have their own place. Then they can be found quickly when any member of the family wishes to check on a fact.

A number of homes have a section in the family library for plays, for poetry and for other type of books. The supplementary reading list for schools offers a wide range of titles in various classifications. These frequently give guidance in the purchase of a book.

OUR TOWN

TAKE IT EASY

SO YOU'VE GOT YOUR LICENCE, BILL. You're 16 today and overnight, you've been accepted into the Automobile Age. It's a fine feeling, isn't it? It's like growing up very suddenly.

Your Dad tells me you've a remarkably good driver, Bill. Most teenagers these days seem to show a kind of natural affinity to mechanical things. They seem at home almost from the first moment they slide behind the wheel.

He thinks he can trust you on your own. You'll be given the car whenever he doesn't need it.

But one thing worries him, Bill. Like every parent he's seen those young people who transform a motor car into a misguided missile. It's usually when they're a load of pals aboard. They want to show off and so they speed; they take those chances; they drive with a flair, a sort of expert recklessness that so often leads to highway homicide.

So your dad asked me to write a few words about what we think good driving is all about, Bill. We hope you'll give us about three minutes of your valuable time.

DON'T POSE AT THE WHEEL, BILL. That looks silly to adults and I've a hunch it looks silly to younger people as well. You've seen those creeps who get crunched up in one corner with their elbow all stuck out the window and a look on their faces as if they were a Space Cadet taking off for the moon. They're the kind who like to hear that musical squeal of rubber around a corner. They like the surge of a lot of horsepower, as if they were personally generating it.

I wish you could watch a test driver, the real professional at the wheel of his own car. He sits square in behind the wheel in a comfortable straight-backed position. He never speeds. He has full command over the car at all times. His passengers relax. He is ready for the unexpected. And that's the measure of a good driver.

The fact remains that the rugby season, or any other specific sports season, gives a needle of enthusiasm to those who may be tired of sitting at home or following the more staid forms of recreation provided for this generation.

There comes a time when it is a good thing to let loose, to cheer a team to victory and to stand waving arms and being really enthusiastic about a win in which even the loser is not seriously hurt. Because there will be another football season.

It will be a wonderful day when eastern fans follow the Grey Cup finals across the provinces and through the majesty of the mountains to Vancouver where the Pacific bounds a city which is on its way toward being one of the largest ports in the world.

East and west, and in the middle, good clean sport will do a job of tying together the varied interests of a huge country as well as anything we can think of, and these autumn days are the most spectacular of all.

Courtesy pays off

Most small towns, and even large towns, can use a pretty fair amount of good publicity. Contacts with prospective industries, business and people who may be thinking of making their homes outside other cities, depend to a greater extent than is generally realized on the treatment which they receive from residents and officials who, quite unconsciously, set the tone of the town's general attitude.

Before the war, manners were much better all round. People were, perforce, doing a selling job through the depression. Then came the days of short supply when anyone could sell anything and courtesy all too often went by the boards.

Today we are back in a competitive society. People will like you if you are polite; they will live in your town if they find it pleasant; they will build their industries there if it is to their advantage and once again—courtesy pays off.

NOT LONG AGO A LIBRARIAN mentioned that she had often seen an adolescent discover the fascination of biography in reading one of these prescribed books. She added "once a reader of biography, always a reader of biography".

We agreed with her and we recalled that Archer Wallace, when he was a guest in our home years ago, was asked "What is a good rule in choosing a book?" He answered, "You'll never go wrong on a biography!" This stimulated us to explore more faithfully this fascinating field.

In a fine biography the reader enters into the life of a thought of another person to an amazing degree. In such a book as "We Keep a Light" by Evelyn H. Richardson (Ryerson) the reader finds himself sniffing the salt sea air of the Atlantic and tending the precious light whose beams keep ships on the right path, or in "Emily Carr as I Knew Her" by Carl Pearson (Clark Irwin) the reader visits on the B.C. Coast and lives among the giant trees. In "The Old School Tie" by Arthur Tuckerman (MacMillan) we enter into the experiences of an American at an English School and enjoy his comments on the life there.

A book case for a child's room can be made by painting an orange crate. A book shelf is an inexpensive addition. A boy or girl likes beloved books among other prized possessions. Don't reserve buying books just for Birthday and Christmas gifts! Give them the place they deserve in the family budget! Then no matter where you live you can echo Edgar Frank's words:

"Think not my life is small
Because you see a puny place;
I have my books; I have my dreams;
Enchantment that transcends
Both time and place.
And so I live in Paradise,
Not here."

I remember when I was covering police, Bill. I went to a lot of accidents. You know what they call the ambulance? They call it "the meat wagon." You just wouldn't believe what a car can do to the human body.

And I remember once a boy of 17 or 18 standing looking down at the torn, lifeless body of a child who had stepped out from between two parked cars.

The young driver had a fox-tail on the hood and a kewpie-doll hanging down by the driver's seat.

I could guess the way he drove.

"I never had a chance," he kept saying. But the skid-marks told the story. He'd been going too fast. He wasn't ready for the unexpected. One life was gone and another was ruined.

WHAT YOU HAVE TO REMEMBER, Bill, is that this licence put a whole lot of responsibility on you. You're in charge now of what may be either a pleasure and convenience or a highly lethal weapon.

I don't have the figures for Canada available, but in those United States in 1953 this powerful toy killed 38,500 people and injured 2,140,000. Last year it killed 35,500 and injured 1,960,000. That's a lot of heartbreak and a lot of pain.

Three-quarters of that toll was caused by excessive speed, failure to grant right of way and driving on the wrong side of the road. In other words, bad driving. In the statistics they call it "driver attitude" and in every age it's bad. Yours just happens to be the group in which the beginning can be right or wrong.

So take it easy, Bill. If you are driving, be admired as an expert. Don't let them talk you into "seeing what she'll do." Don't let them encourage you to show off that power by passing on a hill or beating the stop light. Don't let the auto take command of you.

Most of all, take it easy for the sake of your dad and the trust he's put in you.

Proper use artificial lights profitable with laying stock

Carman C. Tennant,
Agricultural Representative,
Grenville County

The proper use of artificial lights during the shorter days of the winter months will make the laying flock more profitable. Lighting should commence in time to maintain a 12-hour day once daylight alone is inadequate.

Once started, the lighting schedule must be regular. An abrupt reduction in either length of time or strength of light may cause egg production to drop. A time-switch is considered essential to insure against forgetfulness. When lights are started in the fall there is nothing to be gained by doing this gradually. However, when they are being discontinued in the spring a gradual 15 minutes per week reduction is recommended.

Laying houses should have one 40-watt bulb for each square 200 feet of floor space. When all night lights are used this intensity may be reduced by one-third.

The location of the lights will depend on the type and width of the house. In houses not more than 24 feet wide, the lights should be placed in a single row at intervals not exceeding 10 feet, midway between the roosting quarters and the front of the house. The light should be suspended about six feet from the floor. The greatest light intensity should fall on the water fountains and feeders with a lesser amount on roosting quarters to induce the hens to leave them.

If morning light is provided, feed and water must be available at the time the lights come on. When the birds are receiving light and feed in the evening, it is necessary to have a dimming device to induce them to return to the roosts.

With the completion of fall plowing it is important that provision should be made for surface drainage. Now is the only time to do it conveniently for in the spring many low-lying fields may be partially flooded with water. In its simplest form, surface drainage may consist of low scores so located as to drain out the low spots. Dead furrows serve quite efficiently if they have sufficient slope. An extra cut or two with a plow through high spots in a dead furrow may be necessary.

Headlands are frequently a source of trouble in blocking the flow of excess water from dead furrows. If this is the case, a few minutes spent with plow and shovel now may make a big difference in the time the land in that field may be ready to work next spring. Wet fields, or wet spots delay seeding operations with the result that crop yields are greatly reduced.

Insulation is a most important factor to consider when ventilating any building in which livestock is kept. Walls of the building require insulation to keep the barn warm thus preventing condensation of moisture on the inside of the building. The foul moist air in a well insulated building is warm, and if the outlet flue is insulated well also the air will continue to rise on out through the top vent. If an outlet duct is not insulated the air in the duct becomes cooler and tends to cause down drafts in the barn.

Ventilation flues in many dairy barns as now constructed with one layer of paper and two ply of lumber do not provide sufficient insulation. Vent operation can be improved by applying two layers of one-half inch insulation board on the outside of the flue. The close packing of bales of straw around the flue will provide additional insulation.

If no system of ventilation has yet been installed in a dairy barn it is strongly recommended that the same be considered. Fan ventilation systems are relatively easily installed and are effective. Proper ventilation is a necessity if one regards the health of the herd, quality of milk produced, and the added pleasure of working in an atmosphere where the air is pure.

"Beef Husbandry in Ontario" Bulletin 509, published in September 1955 is a very readable publication and full of useful information. Realizing that some men who have all their lives been dairy cattle men are now finishing some beef steers, we think that this bulletin should come in handy. We have several copies at the office for those who may want one.

One of the most successful years in 4-H Club work in Canada will culminate in the 25th Annual National 4-H Club Week in Toronto, November 13-18, at the time of the Royal Winter Fair. A record number of 116 boys and girls will attend, all of whom have been selected for outstanding work in their respective provinces. Judging competitions will be conducted to select Canadian Champion teams in clothing, food, dairy, beef, swine, Poultry, grain and potato projects. It will not be all work, however, for an interesting and educational tour will be conducted in which the group will visit Niagara Falls, Hamilton, and the National Capital. In 1955, there were in Canada 72,784 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H Clubs, a new record in point of membership.

The Grenville County Junior Farmers are holding their Annual Banquet on Friday, Nov. 25th, at 7:00 p.m. in the United Church basement, Shanly. The guest speaker will be J. F. Fraser, B.S.A., formerly head of the Poultry Department of the Kemptville Agricultural School. Those interested in the progress of our Junior Farmers are invited to attend. Tickets will be available at the door.

Lord's Mill Guild helps Caledonian Mission

The Ladies' Guild of Christ Church, Lord's Mills, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred White on Monday evening, Nov. 7th, with a good attendance. "God of Our Fathers" was sung to open the meeting followed by the opening prayers. Mrs. Dick Byers read the scripture lesson. "Remember" was the roll call word. The minutes of the October meeting were approved as read by the secretary, Mrs. H. Joynt, who gave a report on proceeds from the decorating fund, penny bags, and the bazaar.

A few items of business were discussed and it was decided to send a small amount to help with the Caledonian Mission.

Mrs. Porter asked the ladies to make her a crib quilt.

The next meeting will be held on Dec. 5th at the home of Mrs. H. J. Dawson, roll call word "Holy", with Mrs. Norman Dawson reading the scripture lesson. Mrs. Fred White read a paper and poems on "Lest We Forget."

The flower fund was taken, and Carson Grant addressed the meeting on several topics of interest and closed the meeting with prayer.

Mrs. White served a delicious lunch and a social time was enjoyed.

CHRIST CHURCH BAZAAR SUCCESSFUL EVENT

The annual bazaar of Christ Church, Lord's Mills, was held in the Orange Hall on Friday evening, Nov. 4th, with a large crowd present to enjoy the various numbers on the program. Canon E. N. Grant in his pleasing manner was chairman and welcomed those present, especially the visitors from Maynard, Stone's Corners and Domville. Arthur Dulmage auctioned the donated articles and the children enjoyed fishing at the fish pond.

Lunch was served by the Guild ladies and a social hour was enjoyed.

Most Travelled Family of Bell(e)s

WHEN IT COMES TO TRAVELLING—by telephone wire that is—you'll go far to match the accumulated record, of the five Martin sisters of Montreal. Reading from left to right, Marguerite, Raymonde, Lillian, Yolande, and Huguette, all work at the Bell Telephone Company of Canada. They share a mutual interest in providing fast, courteous Long Distance Service to thousands of telephone customers. Marguerite, an assistant chief operator, was the first to join the company, ten years ago. She must have said some nice things to her sisters about the Bell! Huguette, the youngest, completed the quintette just over a year ago. We like having more than one member of a family sharing in telephone work. It says more forcefully than we ever could that "The Bell is a good place to work." We think, too, that as long as we have employees like the Martin sisters, you'll have the kind of telephone service we want you to have always.

Elevator slips clear of grain carriers after four months

With the departure of the Sir Thomas Shaughnessy Wednesday noon after discharging a mixed cargo of oats, wheat and barley, totalling 350,000 bushels in all, the unloading and loading slips at the Government Elevator were empty for the first time in several months. The Elevator itself had fat bins filled close to its 5½-million-bushel capacity.

In mid-August, grain shipments had come to a standstill, with close to six million bushels of grain at the Elevator. Six large carriers were in the unloading slips, waiting to be unloaded, while a seventh vessel tied up after being unloaded. Since that time, the big boats have been relieved of their cargoes and one by one have cleared for the Upper Lakes ports to be ready for the late season rush.

Alberta still has some 30,000,000 acres of unoccupied land suitable for cultivation.

Since 1946, when the first annual issue went on sale, the four billion dollars worth of Canada Savings Bonds bought by Canadians would . . .

BUILD		333,333 NEW HOUSES at an average cost of $12,000
OR . . . PAY FOR		1,000,000 UNIVERSITY EDUCATIONS at an average of $4,000 each
OR . . . BUY		1,600,000 AUTOMOBILES at $2,500 each
OR . . . GIVE		80,000 RETIRED COUPLES $5,000 a year for 10 years

GONE—ONCE AGAIN. Recently the Post Office Department held an auction sale of undeliverable mail—lost to its owners and the addresses because of improper labelling. These items made up 35 per cent of the over nine million pieces switched to the Undeliverable Mail Office. Sixty-five per cent of this mail was delivered by better direction or by return to the senders. And included in this staggering amount of mail was $36,785.48 in cash, which was placed to the account of the Receiver General. Some of this amount has been returned, however, to the remitters who subsequently claimed it.

The estimated cost of handling treatment to undeliverable mail was $12.40 per 1,000 pieces, a heavy burden on the public treasury brought on by apathy toward mailing instructions.

Offsetting this cost slightly were receipts from the auction, which amounted to $5,500.

GOLLIWOG WIGS AND BLACK DYE FOOLS MAU MAUS

Behind the British War Office's citations to soldiers serving in Kenya is a story of hair-raising exploits as a handful of African speaking Britons disguised as Kikuyu tribesmen risked being butchered to infiltrate Mau Mau terrorists hideouts. This week James Foreman in writing for the Star Weekly, tells how individual courage surpassed all imagination to carry out this mission.

Museum and Historical

The Commission is indebted to Mr. James Smart, former Director of the National Parks Branch, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources, for research into historical data and museum pieces he has collected during the past years. Mr. Smart has been a consultant to Ontario Hydro in connection with the history of the area and the rehabilitation of cemeteries, and has taken a personal interest in the museum and memorial project.

As the first step in the creation of a museum depicting the pioneer life as well as military achievement of this area, a display advertisement appealing to all citizens for contributions to the museum, was published in all newspapers in the Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, and Leeds and Grenville in October. This was followed by a news release listing the names of the first contributors, with the articles donated. Similar releases are being made every few weeks. Most of the newspaper editors in the district have complied with our suggestion for editorial support. Emphasis is placed, in acknowledgments of donations by letter and press release, that the articles are held in trust by the Province.

Letters or phone calls are being received daily, offering contributions of historical articles. In order to accommodate the material which is accumulating, a small temporary building is being erected at the rear of the Commission's administrative offices at Morrisburg.

As a matter of public record, Frank Panabaker, the well-known Ontario artist, has been commissioned to do two paintings of the Longue Sault rapids, one looking up-stream and one down. The Rapids Plat and Galops Rapids, which will also cease to exist when flooding takes place, will be painted by other prominent Ontario artists.

The Commission has appealed to steamship companies and newspaper editors for photographs or paintings of the ships which provided early transportation for both passengers and freight for many years on the upper St. Lawrence River.

Assistance to Municipalities

Until the Commission acquired suitable personnel, it was not in a position to stress its second function mentioned in the Act, that of inquiring, upon request, into matters affecting the welfare of municipalities and individuals in the five counties involved. A letter has been sent to the Council of each municipality outlining the scope of the Commission's work. A brief review of the experience of each member of the Commission's staff, as well as that of the representative of the Department of Planning and Development, was attached to the letter sent to Municipal Councils. A copy of this is also attached. A number of Reeves and Councillors have visited our offices
