Chesterville Cow Fourth in all Canada

Record of Performance Prizes for 1919 of the Holstein Friesian Association of the Dominion of Canada at its last annual meeting awarded to Mr. Thos. Allan of "Allendale Farm" this village 4th prize Butter Record in the mature class on his cow Pride's Fayne DeKol 17767. She having produced 830lbs. This is a highly creditable showing owing to the conditions under which they were made. Mr. Allen having the misfortune of losing his barn buildings by fire in May 1918, had to discontinue all his tests with the exception of this cow. Mr. W. A. McElroy of Hillside Farm kindly offered to finish the test. Two months later Mr. McElroy met with an accident to his hand and was unable to carry on the test further. Mr. Allen brought the cow home and had no shelter for any of his cattle until November. The wet and severe weather of fall of 1918 (especially at night) was a big detriment to a large flow of milk. Had Mr. Allen not met with the above misfortune and the season a favorable one no doubt this cow would have been surely first or second. However he considers it quite an honor to be placed 4th in the whole Dominion of Canada.

Lord's Day Alliance Case Adjourned

The case of the Lord's Day Alliance against the Maple Leaf Condensed Milk Co., which was adjourned after being called at Winchester some time ago, was heard before Magistrate Hart in the town hall here, on Thursday and Friday of last week. Much interest has been taken in this case by the farmers throughout this section and by the patrons of condenseries in other parts of Canada. It is looked upon as a test case and on the settlement of it, it is very likey legislation will be framed defining the nature of the operations which can be carried on by condensery companies in the reception and processing of milk on the Lord's Day.

There has been a good deal of confusion in the public mind caused by the fact that heretofore it has been more conversant with the manufacture of cheese from milk than with the manufacture of condensed milk. In the matter of cheese a certain acidity is required in the milk: whereas for condensing purposes acidity of a certain degree is a fatal defect. The contention of the defendants is that during the summer months it is impossible for the average milk producer to keep Sunday's milk at home sufficiently free of acid to permit of its delivery on Monday in a state fit for condensing purposes.

The Lord's Day Alliance believed the condensery's operation on Sundays was not necessary to take care of the milk and laid a charge under the Lord's Day Act for an infraction of it.

Much evidence was taken during the hearing, the condensery wishing to place all their evidence on record for future reference, if required. In doing so, besides numerous farmers in this locality the following experts upheld their side, viz:—Dr. Donald and Dr. McLean of Montreal, Prof. Zufelt of Kingston, Dr. McLaughlin of St. Thomas, J. P. Coyle of Aylmer and E. W. David of New York. Experts on the opposing side were Messrs. Hines, Publow, Dean and Putman of the Ontario Dairy Department, all of whom are experts in the manufacture of cheese, and whose evidence was more or less outside of the point at issue.

After the case had gone of for a considerable time it was suggested by the Lord's Day Alliance that the opposing parties get together and fix up a working arrangement whereby the receiving and processing of milk should be carried on at an earlier hour on Sundays than on other days of the week. This was agreeded to by the Condensery and an arrangement is in course of formation whereby the producing territory will be divided into zones, each zone's milk to be delivered at a certain hour on Sundays, with all to be delivered earlier than is customary on week days.

The receiving will be expidited by the opening of another receiving room. The cans will be cleansed and returned to the drawers without delay who will immediately take them away, thus confining the operation to as few hours as possible.

If this arrangement proves satisfactory the suit will be withdrawn by the Lord's Day Alliance.

W. B. Lawson, K. C. appeared for the defendants while Messrs. Henderson of Ottawa and Hilliard of Morrisburg handling the case for the Alliance.

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The clerk in opening council said he was very glad to see so many of the old members back again, in spite of the fact that a clean-up was predicted at the last municipal elections. It was also a pleasure he said, to see some ex-members back again. He noted with pleasure that among the new members were two sons of former members. He jocularly said that he did not expect to be in office when the next generation enters municipal life.

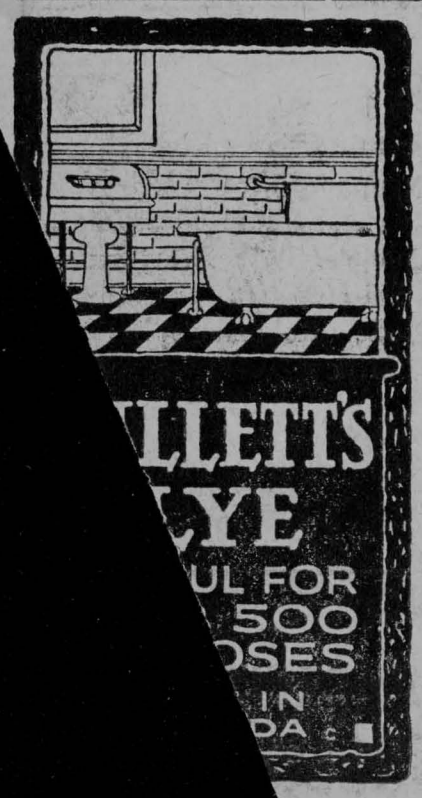
The election of Warden was then held. There were only two nominees:

David Dunbar, reeve of Osnabruck, nominated by D. A. McNaughton and R. C. Bogart.

D. D. McLeod, reeve of Roxborough, nominated by H. S. Kinloch and J. S. Robinson.

Mr. Dunbar was elected by a majority of two, the vote being 18-16.



The newly-elected warden was escorted to the warden's chair amidst loud applause.

Mr. Dunbar in assuming the chair, said: I am very grateful to the gentlemen who supported me for this great honor. I may say that I hold no ill feeling against any of the gentlemen who voted against me. I have known Mr. McLeod, my opponent, for the past three years, and have always found him a gentleman, and in my being given the honor of being warden, I feel it is because the majority of the members feel that the wardenship was due the township of Osnabruck, as it has not had it for 30 years.

I am very pleased to see so many old members back again. In looking over the new members I feel that they will acquit themselves creditably while here. I look for assistance from the former wardens, Messrs. McNaughton and Robertson, and am proud to have them with me.

We have a heavy session before us. There have been changes in the Provincial Government since last fall, and on account of those changes it was thought that there might be some alteration in the matter of good roads. However, I see that the new Minister of Public Works, Mr. Biggs, has pledged himself to do everything he could to forward good roads. He also recommended that we designate provincial county highways in order to get the 60 per cent. from the Dominion Government. It might, in my view, be a good plan to have two provincial county highways through each county. One has already been designated. In reference to the various committees of council, I would like to see these made smaller. Last year I voted for the large committees, and before the end of January session I saw I had made a mistake. If we make our committees smaller we will get along with the work better, and more than one committee can meet at once, giving the clerk more time to get out reports. The saving of time this would bring about would probably let us home a day earlier. I thank you again for the honor you have just bestowed upon me.

Council then adjourned for five minutes to enable the warden to take the declaration of office.

The warden on resuming his seat, invited C. F. Whittaker of Williamsburg and D. H. McDermid of Avonmore, ex-members, to seats within the railing, both gentlemen expressing their thanks.

The clerk read the communications received since last session, some 35 in number, and they were referred to the various committees.

Messrs. Munro and Nolan moved that the reeves of the various municipalities be a special committee to strike the standing committees for the year.

Mr. McNaughton said he had fathered a resolution to make the committees smaller but it wss defeated by 25 to 7. He moved, seconded by Wesley Hamilton, that the warden name a committee of nine—three from each county—to select the standing committees with particular instructions to have not more than 12 members on the important committees, and a lesser number on the others.

A vote was taken on the amendment which was carried by a total of 17 to 16, and the main motion was declared defeated. The division was as follows:

Yeas—Allison, Bogart, Campbell, Carlyle, Davy, Fulton, Wesley Hamilton, Wm. Hamilton, Marselis, Millar, McCrimmon, McNaughton, Nicholson, Robertson, Robinson, Silsmer, Smyth—17.

Nays—Ault, Cameron, Groves, Kennedy, Kinloch, Meikle, Munro, McGillis, D. D. McLeod, R. A. McLeod, McMillan, Nesbitt, Nolan, Robinson, Sangster, Stewart—16.

The Warden named the special commitee as follows—Wesley Hamilton, Carlyle, Marselis, Dundas; McNaughton, Nolan, Munro, Stormont; Sangster, Campbell, Cameron, Glengarry.

The council then adjourned to allow the committee to meet and make their selection.

After being out nearly an hour, the special committee returned and the chairman Wesley Hamilton, presented the report which was read by the clerk. The report was referred to the committee of the whole and along discussion followed as to the personnel of a couple of the committees named. An adjournment was made to allow the members to examine the committees more closely. On resuming Messrs. Munro and Wesley Hamilton moved that the report be adoped in council.

J. S. Robinson and A. H. Robertson, moved that the report be not adopted, but referred back to the striking commitee with instructions to have a representative from each municipality on the finance committee and the name of Mr. Nicholson added to the education committee.

A vote was demanded and the amendment was put first and was declared carried on the following division:—

Yeas—Allison, Ault, Cameron, Carlyle, Fulton, Groves, Kennedy, Kinloch, Meikle, McGillis, D. D. McLeod, R. A. McLeod, McMillan, Nicholson, Nolan, Robertson, J. S. Robinson, Stewart—18.

Nays—Bogart, Campbell, Davy, Wesley Hamilton, Marselis, Millar, Munro, McCrimmon, McNaughton, Nesbitt, J. A. Robinson, Sangster, Silmser, Smyth—15.

The main motion was declared defeated on the same division.

The council adjourned at the call of the chair to allow the special committee to amend the report.

After more discussion in committee of the whole, during which much time was consumed, the committees were finally agreed to, and the various committees retired to select their chairmen. At ten minutes after midnight the evening session came to an end, council agreeing to meet at 10 a. m. on Wednesday.

The standing committees for the year are as follows:

Education—Messrs. Ault, Cameron, Carlyle, Groves, Meikle, D. D. McLeod, R. A. McLeod, McNaughton, Nesbitt, Nicholson, Robertson, Smyth, Stewart, Mr. Nicholson, chairman.

Wednesday Morning

The council met at 11.30.

A letter was read from A. D. McDonald of Hagersville, Maryland, applying for the position of County Road Superintendent, and was referred to Road Committee.

At the request of the warden, Mayor Fetterly addressed council. In opening the mayor congratulated the warden on his election and expressed pleasure at seeing so many old members back again. He welcomed all members to the town. The principal object of the mayor's address was to bring before council the matter of the bridges over the Ottawa River near Vaudreuil. He referred to the meeting held in Montreal recently, and asked council to pass a resolution memoralizing the Dominion Government to construct these bridges. He also advocated that a delegation from Eastern Ontario should act in conjunction with one from the city of Nontreal and Quebec municipalities and go to Ottawa and urge the construction of these bridges upon the Government.

H. B. Fetterly, P. S. I., for Dundas, was also asked to address council. He spoke in reference to the School Attendance Act, the purpose of which is to look after children who do not attend school regularly. Each township council shall, under the act, appoint at least one school attendance officer. He also referred to the Consolidated Schools in rural districts. These schools, he said, were looked upon favorably by the new Provincial Government. He said that in days gone by the tendency had been to educate children away from the farm, whereas with these schools, in which agriculture would be one of the important subjects of the carriculum, better results could be secured. The main object, or at least one of them, was to have the children go to school in the rural community instead of having to leave their homes and go to city and towns for education. In the present rural schools today, he said, there was not sufficient time given to each class, as a school day of only 330 minutes and eight classes, it is only possible to give each class 40 minutes per day, which is not sufficient to obtain the best results. These consolidated schools said Mr. Fetterly, have been establised in the United States and Ontario with good results. The area covered by these schools is about five sections and the children are transported by covered wagons or sleighs at the expense of the community.

At the conclusion of Mr. Fetterley's remarks council adjourned till 7.30.

The balance of the proceedings will be given next week.

Premier Drury's Majority 2,236

Hon. E. C. Drury, Prime Minister of Ontario, was elected member for Halton by a majority of well over two thousand on Monday. The size of the margin given Mr. Drury in view of the comparatively light vote was conclusive evidence that the candidature of Edward J. Stephenson, the "independent people's soldier candidate", was not taken seriously by the electorate as a whole, though in two of the larger centres he polled a good vote. The electors of Halton are not labelled "U.F.O". to any great extent but they feel that Hon. Mr. Drury and his colleagues should have a chance to show what they can do. To have defeated the head of the new Goverment would have plunged the province into political turmoil again, and would have served no purpose. This viewpoint was reflected in the decision of the Liberal and Conservative leaders in the riding to leave Mr. Drury a clear field, and the votes of many staunch members of the old parties went to the Prime Minister as a protest against the uninvited entry of Stephenson It was a foregone conclusion that the farming districts would go heavily against Mr. Drury's opponent, despite adverse weather conditions, but in the last few days Stephenson also lost much support among returned soldiers to whom he made a special appeal, by the revelation that the various veterans' organizations were not endorsing his candidature.

In Georgetown and Milton Stephenson had majorities, but all the other urban centres, including Oakville, were against him, and the rural polls swamped him. In one sub-division, the second of Nelson, he received not a single vote to 177 given Mr. Drury. In others he secured but two or three votes.

Presentation at Grantley

A large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Carr on Monday evening to bid them farewell before they left for their new home at Boucks Hill. After games and music and a very substantial lunch, order was called and the following address was read by James O. McMillan, while Wallace Myers presented them with a very handsome oak rocker upholstered in leather.

To Mr. and Mrs. Carr and family.
Dear Mr. and Mrs. Carr—

Ever since the news has gone forth that you intended leaving our midst, many and sincere have been the expressions of regret heard on all sides and we, your friends and neighbors have gathered this evening not only to enjoy your hospitality, but to bid you a kind and loving farewell. We shall miss you very much when you are no longer with us, for we have ever found you neighbors in the true sense of the word, bright and cheerful and ready to lend your aid whether it be in toil or pleasure. We wish to assure you that you will always command a very warm corner in the hearts of the people of Grantley. As a very slight but sincere token of our esteem, we wish you to accept this chair and hope that its presence in your new home will keep in your memory many pleasant recollections of the home and friends you are leaving.

Signed on behalf of those present—Wallace Myers, Donald Gordon, Howard Beckstead, Donald Carr.

Ontario Rural School Fairs

During the year 1919 the Ontario Department of Agriculture, through its agricultural representatives, distributed seeds and eggs to 78,946 pupils in 3,278 rural schools of the province. R. S. Duncan, B. S. A. writing in the Agricultural Gazette for January states that the following quantities were distributed:—1,890 bushels of potatoes, 432 bushels of grain, 12,575 packages of root seeds, 30,700 packages of vegetable seeds, 21 900 packages of flower seeds and 11,045 dozens of eggs of a bred-to-lay strain of Barred Plymouth Rocks. These figures give some idea of the magnitude of the school fair movement in Ontario.

The first school fair was organized in 1909 with three schools taking part. Ten years later 357 rural school fairs were held in the province and the pupils had 69,848 home plots and made 111,823 entries. It is estimated that about 250 people saw the first school fair in which 58 pupils took part, while last fall 92,600 children and 107,590 adults attended the school fairs in Ontario. This is truly a wonderful growth.

Safeguarding the Live Stock Industry

At present we are finding two of our great industries coming into closer relationship with each other than ever before. These are the live stock industry and the meat packing concerns. There is now a better understanding between the two for they realize their mutual interdependence on each other. Between these two industries comes a most important factor which operates in the best interests of both; this is the live stock yards. These yards are now maintained at live stock shipping centres and leading market cities in Canada, and since August 1917 they have been under the control of the Dominion Department of Agriculture through the Live Stock Branch. At that time the regulations prescribed under the Live Stock and Live Stock Products Act were passed and since then the construction, equipment, maintenance and operation of stock yards are subject to the approval of the federal Minister of Agriculture.

Closely identified with live stock yards are the live stock exchanges operating on all markets and setting the rules for the conduct of business among the commission agents and dealers. The objects of the Exchange are to establish and maintain a commercial exchange for the benefit and furtherance of all interests directly connected with the buying and selling of live stock, to establish uniformity in the trade, and to provide speedy adjustment of business disputes. A series of articles on live stock yards and exchanges appears in the January number of The Agricultural Gazette. These articles present the facts regarding the operation of stock yards. It is pointed out that the stock yard is a semi-public institution operated as a public market and its business is the warehousing of live stock. Its one great advantage is that it provides a medium where the men with live stock to sell find buyers and buyers find live stock.

An angry father met his daughter's young man in the hall, and materially hastened his departure in the usual manner. Then he returned to the room and sat down.

"I hope you didn't hurt Harry," sobbed the daughter.

"No," fiercely replied the old man, picking up his foot and nursing it. "No, I didn't hurt him, but if ever he comes here again with bricks in his coat-tail pocket, I'll kill him!"

And the girl smiled softly through her tears.

work earned
. On the other uated from High average $68,000 be-reaching freescore mark. A mere diff rence
42,000! And so, from a purely dollar and cent standpoint it pays the teen-age boy to keep on "informing himself by forms."

For the average boy, it is only as he reaches the age of sixteen or seventeen, that he begins to discover the sort of thing that he is most naturally fitted for. It is as he gets fairly introduced into subjects like science, mathematics, history, and the languages that his interests and apitudes begin to declare themselves and become simulated. Having thus discovered his "bent" the High School boy is in a position to take the next step, and enter on a professional career. On the other hand, the chap who hasn't stuck to school may discover that he got started in the wrong place, and find that it is difficult to make a change. If he "only had his matric" he could go in for something better, but it seems too late to get it off now, and so he tries to content himself with some second best.

A boy can very easily make the mistake of concluding that because a school subject is of no apparent practical value, it is therefore a waste of time to pursue. This is quite leaving out of account the training that study may give him in concentration, reasoning, memory or criticism. The resolute working through of a baffling exercise in algebra, the logical solution of a geometric problem, the accurate observation of a chemical experiment, the practical application of derived formula in physics, the careful memorization of worth-while data or inspiring verse, the searching analysis of historical events, the studied appreciation of great literature, all these are mental processes that, if developed, help to make the young student more easily master a problem or a situation. A trained mind is something more valuable than an informed mind.

Through literature and history, too, a boy becomes introduced to greater thoughts, great conception of life, and the great working of the race. He begins to develop not only a fondness, but also a discriminatton in reading that is surely one of life's greatest enrichments.

There is still another consideration. The boy who quits school ea ly is thrown into the company of people older than himself, whose interests and standards he is almost forced to follow. He is largely cut off from the companionship and sympathy of boys and girls of his own age He is liable to become old and sophisticated before his time. He loses much of the natural enthusiasms, the social freedom, frank competition, and at the same time the co-operation spirit, of school life. These are things less easy to estimate and yet they are the ones that graduates look back upon with the greatest appreciation. When the preliminary value of a thing may not seem great it is often wise to be influenced by the value which older people set upon it.—Exchange.

Buy Red Clover Seed Early

Prime red clover seed was quoted at $35.55 per bushel on the Toledo market of the 6th instant. Toronto prices then ranged about $3.00 per bushel in advance of Toledo prices. Clover seed that would grade "Prime" on the Toledo market could be bought in Toronto at $38.50 and, because of exchange conditions, delivered to United States points at approximately $33.00 per bushel, or about $2.50 less than the Toledo price. The money situation, short supplies, and an earlier demand in the United States will explain the heavy exports of clover seed.

The price of red clover seed has advanced almost $14.00 per bushel on the Toledo market since May last. The world supply will not be sufficient to meet normal requirements. In these circumstancs, Canadian farmers who delay the purchase of their red clover seed requirements until seeding time may be unable to obtain supplies at any price.

Did You See Him?

I was entertaining my sweetheart for the first time at dinner, writes a contributor. He stayed rather late, and when he opened the door to go, my mother, who had retired early, heard him. She got up and stood at the top of the stairs and said; "Is he gone, Katy?" I did not want my mother to know he stayed so late, so I answered, "Yes" To my amazement she said; "Did ye see the divil dig into the butter?" We have been married now twelve years, and laugh at it to this day.

"Sir John Moore"

On October 10, six geese came to my place. I went out and called to these six geese, and the old gander answered. He knew me. I got twelve ears of corn, and threw one of them at him. Just as I did the four baby geese jumped in the air, but he called them and they dropped down. Then I threw more ears of corn, and each time the same thing would happen; he would sound that low note, and every time he did so the geese would come down. By the time I had thrown the eighth ear he had convinced them that all was well and they did not fly up any more. It was interesting to watch him trying to educate them to take kernels of corn off the ear, but it was strange to them. He would get a kernel off and drop it down, but it was fully fifteen minutes before he got those goslings to take the corn; when they did start, they cleaned off every kernel of the twelve ears. That told me these young goslings had never seen an ear of corn before, and that they had come all the way from Hudson bay without a mouthful and had dropped down there. The old gander had led them all the way down.

My mother-in-law's daughter and I coaxed this old gander and his five goslings into the coop and she held the door while I went in and clamped a tag on his leg. After I tagged him I took him to the door and threw him out—this same old gander that had been telling his boys and girls to eat the corn and to stay there and not be afraid. When I threw the gander out, did he fly to the lake? To know the Canada goose is to love him forever. You cannot show me any of his actions that one need be ashamed of, not one.

This old gander went out, and when he was about two rods away he turned around and looked back. You could hear him calling for the rest of his family in that little catch pen. He came right back to the door until every one of his family had been liberated; he stood right there and fought for them. We caught him the second time, put a cuff on each leg and named him "Sir John Moore" and we put on the tag this verse of scripture; "[illegible] will He withhold from them that walk uprightly".

He migrated as usual and, on March 20th, the boys said, "Look, Dad" and there was Sir John Moore, with the two cuffs on his legs looking for more corn. Five of his family had returned; he had taken care of them down in the southern states all winter, and brought them back. The last week in April they disappeared and my heart sank when I opened a letter from Fort George, James bay, and found four of the tags. The letter read: "The Indian says that seven geese came into their decoys, and they killed four of them. Each one had a tag on it". You know how I would feel, although [illegible] me. A Vision

'Tis nine long months since this plant I've struck,
Been working hard for the measly buck,
But I wonder if Huff's dream will come true
That night work—we'll have no more to do.

I'll admit, in the morning quite late we arise
But it's late at night when we close our eves;
It's not hard work we're kickin' about,
Just the monotonous hours that make us pout.

Some folks will say there's not much to do,
Let them come in here to prove that's true.
At night we're finished at twelve by the clock
And soon from the ether, our heads start to rock.

We turn off the stills and turn out the lights
And if all's well we bid the lab. good night
But before we go—if all's not well
We don't sleep that night—just feel like H—

We need a little sympathy, just a little bull,
If we get all of that—we don't care about "pull"
But those old cows we'd surely like
If on Sundays and holidays they'd only strike.

Those lucky grave diggers—
They got their raise,
Yet all we would strike for
Is some deserving praise,
Then let us see if our dream will come true
"You'll advance mighty fast
From the good work you do."

Maple Sugar

Sugar, 16 cents per pound. Neither United States nor Canadian refineries can control the situation.—Board of Commerce report.

The maple groves of Canada offer a potential crop of home-grown sugar, which may be made available to relieve the shortage of imported supplies. The days of warm sunshine and the cold nights will soon bring the sap up into the trees. It is well to be prepared for an early sugar season, by having all the equipment ready.

The high price of sugar will undoubtedly create a largely increased demand for maple products. Heretofore, the latter have been considered more of a luxury by the general public, but, in the portions of Canada where maple sugar is produced, it is generally found upon the table, in grated form, taking the place of imported sugar. Maple products are being used more and more in the confectionery trade and a considerable export trade is developing.

Canada protects the manufacturer of maple products. Under the pure food law the name "maple" cannot be used for any substance unless it is the product of the maple tree. This is a protection to the producer as well as to the buyer of maple sugar and maple syrup.

The sugaring season comes at a time when very few other farm duties are pressing. This time should be employed, and with excellent advantage, in the maple grove, thus adding to the farm income.

Fertilizers for the Potato Crop

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Of all ordinary farm crops that of the potato is probably the most profitably responsive to liberal feeding. The acceptance of this statement does not in the least ignore the fact that there are several other factors that play a very important part toward success in potato growing.—type of soil, character of season and the cultivation and spraying of the crop—but it means that with these factors favourable the crop is a very responsive one to applications of plant food and that the yield will be approximately commensurate with the available plant food supply.

It is generally conceded that there is no better preparation for the crop than a clover or alfalfa sod well manured (10 to 20 tons per acre) and ploughed in the late summer or early autumn. This practice of fall ploughing ensures the decay of the sod and manure and provides a good supply of humus, which is so useful in keeping the soil moist, and at the same time allows for the preparation of plant food in forms available for the use of the crop. Spring dressings of manure are not desirable, as they tend to encourage the developement of scab.

As is well recognized, soils differ greatly as to their productiveness—a quality largely dependant upon richness in available plant food—indeed there are no two soils exactly alike in this respect—and this fact makes it impossible to lay down hard and fast directions for fertilizing or to give a formula that would be equally applicable for all soils. But with a fairly good soil, from a well manured clover sod as described, we should consider 350 to 700 pounds of 3.06 commercial fertilizer would represent the limits that may be deemed desirable and profitable. This would mean an application of nitrogen 10½ to 21 pounds, of phosphoric acid 31½ to 63 pounds and of potash 21 to 42 pounds, per acre. If the ingredients are purchased rather than the ready mixed fertilizers, (generally the more economical plan) the amounts would be nitrate of soda 75 to 150 pounds, superphosphate 200 to 400 pounds and sulphate of potash 40 to 80 pounds, per acre. On light and very poor soils scantily manured the maximum accounts here given may be somewhat raised, dressings to 1000 pounds or more per acre frequently proving profitable. For soils rich in nitrogen, as from clover and liberal manuring, the nitrogen in the above recommendations may be cut down one third. On clay loams the potash may likewise be reduced one third.

It is considered good practice by many experienced potato growers to supply a part of the nitrogen in the form of an organic nitrogenous fertilizer, as dried blood. As both fertilizers contain approximately the same percentage of nitrogen this may readily be done by replacing half the nitrate of soda in the above recommendations by an equal weight of dried blood.

Probably the best plan of application is to broadcast the fertilizer mixture on the prepared land when reworked in the spring and harrow in. If the method of putting the fertilizer in the drill of furrows is considered more direct and more economical, care should be taken that the fertilizer does not come into direct contact with the sets.

The Parson: "Mrs. Smithers seems very cross with me—didn't you notice she almost cut me?"

The Friend: "I'm not surprised!"

The Parson: "But why?"

The Friend: "Don't you remember when you were preaching her husband's funeral sermon, you said he had gone to a better home?"

First Office Boy: "I told the boss to look at the dark circles under my eyes and see if I didn't need a half day off."

Second Office Boy: "What did he say?"

First Office Boy: "He said I needed a bar of soap."

Several young officers were once together at a certain restaurant, and the conversation veered round to a discussion on lies and lying generally, and finally it became a debate as to who was the biggest liar known to them. Sitting at the next table was an old gentleman who could not possibly avoid overhearing their conversation, and after a few minutes he rose and came over to their table. "Gentlemen," he began gravely, "I have just heard you decide that Lieut. Arthur—is in your opinion the biggest liar you ever met. I am his father." For several seconds there was an embarrased silence, then one of the younger officers began to stammer out apologies, but the old gentleman waved them aside. "No, no," he said, there is no need to apologize, its quite unnecessary. I was merely going to say that if you regard my son Arthur as the biggest liar you have ever met, you cannot possibly have met my son, Harry."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constant failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the system. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Cure fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

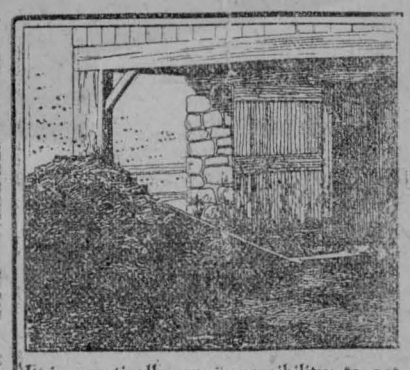
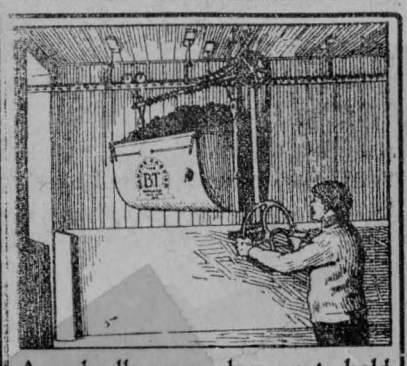
John King, Chesterville, Can Save You Money

The Sanders, Soule & Casselman Co. Limited

Day in and day out, the hard work of cleaning the stable has to be done. Stable cleaning with a wheelbarrow is a monotonous, hard, disagreeable chore. It is hard to wheel a heavy wheelbarrow load through a muddy yard and up a slippery plank. And the worst of it is, this hard, disagreeable chore has to be done every day.



It is practically an impossibility to get the manure far enough away from the stable. The conditions in the yard make it impossible. Manure piles right up close to the stable give off ammonia fumes that spoil paint and woodwork, rot harness and at the first opportunity breed flies.



A wheelbarrow does not hold much at a load, which means many trips before the work is done. The BT Carrier holds three times as much as a wheelbarrow. It will tackle 800 lbs. in one load.

The hard work of cleaning the stable is cut in two with a manure carrier. It runs on overhead track so it does not matter about the state of the yard. No planks to lay; no snow to shovel; no more pushing to the top of the pile with a wheelbarrow.
