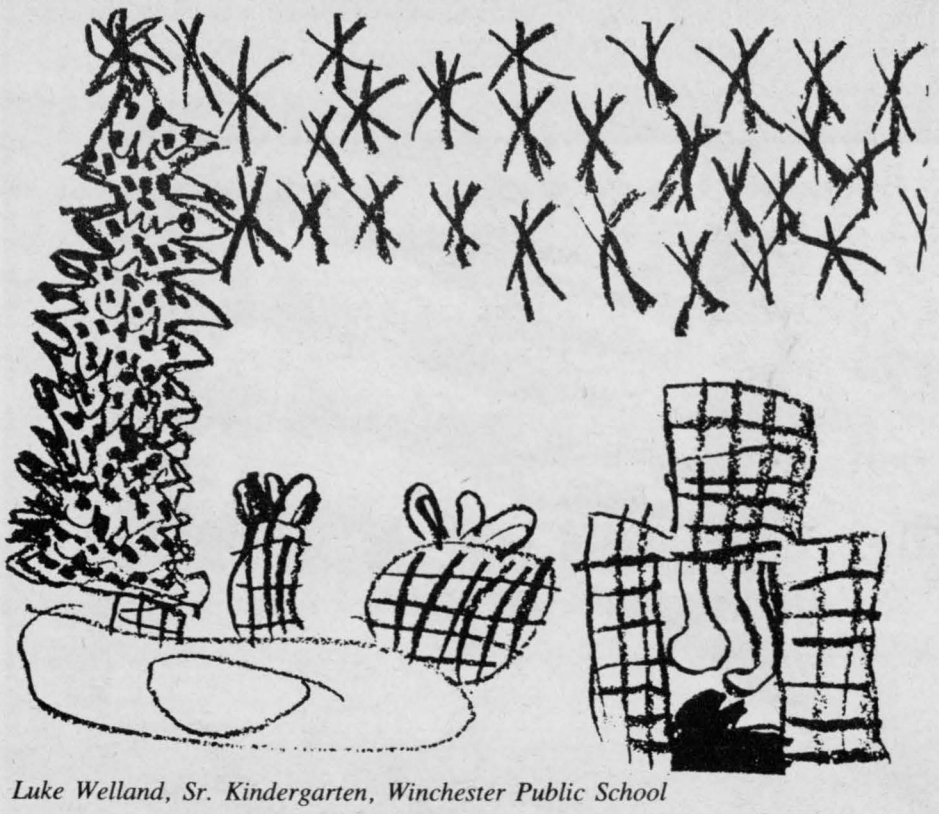
Christmas GREETINGS



Luke Welland, Sr. Kindergarten, Winchester Public School

Christmas will soon be here

Santa Claus is coming to town
Parents and children are running around to get all things picked out, ready with wrap
For that special day will be here in a snap.

Christmas day

Christmas day is full of joys,
With lots of presents for girls and boys.
Santa comes every year
With all of his happy, happy reindeer.
Christmas day is full of cheer,
You should never worry or never fear.
Santa eats his cookies and milk
In his bright red suit of shiny silk!

The Night Before Christmas

'Twas the night before Christmas
And all through Winchester School
Not a creature was stirring —
Not even the class fool.

The Adidas bags were lying
In the lockers on the floor
In hopes that the holidays
Would last forevermore.

At home, children were waiting
For Santa to appear
While their teachers rejoiced
That the holidays were here.

Mrs. Coligan in her gown,
The Van Brugens in their coats
Had just poured a drink —
A Merry Christmas toast.

When what to my wondering eyes should appear
But Mr. Marcellus and his
Grade 6 reindeer.

On Matthew! on Clinton!
on Brett! on Tanya!
On Chris! on Jiman!
on James! on Angela!

To the seat of your chair!
To the top of your desk!
Now get to work! Get to work!
Get to work all!

A Christmas sleep-over

One Christmas Eve Janet slept over at Venessa's house. The two girls slept downstairs in their sleeping bags. Suddenly they heard a tip-tap noise on the roof. Janet and Venessa got out of their sleeping bags and then they looked up in the chimney.

They saw a big black boot at the top. They ran back into their sleeping bags and closed their eyes. Then they heard a big CLUMP! They opened their eyes just a little crack 'cos if Santa saw their eyes open, he would run up the chimney. The two girls saw a big sack and Santa was taking a present out. The two girls could hardly hold in laughter. Then Santa left.

Now the girls could go to sleep. H-a-a-a yawned Venessa, "morning!" She yelled, "Mommy! Daddy! Wake up!" Then Janet and Venessa opened presents and had a nice Christmas dinner.

Katherine and Kellie meet Santa

One cold winter night Santa came to our house. Kellie heard a noise downstairs. Then Kellie said, "Wake up, wake up Katherine, there is somebody downstairs." Then Katherine and Kellie went downstairs to see who it was. Then Katherine said, "Hi Santa". Santa said, "Hi little girls."

Katherine and Kellie go to the North Pole: "Hi our names are Katherine and Kellie, could we see your reindeer please." "OK I guess you could," said Santa. Then Santa brought us up on to the roof. Then Kellie said what are their names? "Vixen, Dancer, Dasher, Prancer, Comet, Cupid, Donner, Blitzen, Rudolph," said Santa. Kellie said, "let's go in now it's getting cold." So they went inside to get warm.

And Santa saw a table with a lot of good food to eat. Santa knew the food on the table was for him and his reindeer because of the letter that was on the table. Then Katherine asked Santa, "Could we go to the North Pole with you?" Santa said, "OK, yes you can go." Katherine and Kellie went to the North Pole with Santa.

Katherine and Kellie meet the elves: Kellie said, "What are the elves' names?" "Grumpy, Zit, Meany, Warty, Susan and a whole lot of others," said Santa. Kellie said, "Look at that one he's making wooden shoes." Katherine said, "Could you show us around and could we meet Mrs. Santa?" "OK, that would be a good idea." So Santa showed them around and we had fun and we became elves.

The Abominable Snowman

On Christmas Eve, Santa was leaving his house to deliver the toys when the Abominable Snowman hit him. Santa landed in the snow then he said, "Christmas is going to be ruined." Then he got up and ran home. His wife said, "What happened?" The Abominable Snowman went to say sorry to Santa. Santa tried again to deliver toys.

But by the time the Abominable Snowman got there, Santa had already left. "Oh-ho, it is almost Christmas Day. I have to help him. I hope it isn't too late," said the snowman. "Oh-oh, Santa said it is almost Christmas day. I better hurry up. I do not want a child to see me and give away Christmas. The sun is rising and I am at my last house. Oh-oh, I am too late," said the Abominable Snowman. Santa said, "I saved Christmas all by myself."

The mouse's Christmas

One year at Christmas, a mouse wished for a lot of cheese. When it was Christmas she was happy she got a cheese maker. She thanked Santa Claus. He was proud to hear someone say thank you. Next Christmas, she wished for the same thing. But she didn't get it, she got a thousand other things, like cheese, cheesies, etc. That Christmas was great!

The little boy who didn't know what Christmas was

There was a little boy who wanted to know what Christmas was. His father said, come here. Christmas is something that we celebrate because it is Jesus' birthday. If Christmas wasn't Jesus' birthday, people wouldn't be celebrating Christmas. Boys and girls think Christmas is presents. But it isn't. Remember that, son. Christmas is not presents. The mixed up Santa Claus

Once there was a man and his name was Santa. He was always forgetting things. One Christmas Eve Santa was sleeping and his alarm did not go off.

Boy did he have to hurry up. Santa was trying to sew up the hole in his suit, so that he could where it. His wife said don't worry about that, go and get washed up.

He went to wash up and when he got back it was the same. The hole was still there. Santa said I give up. And his wife said, no you don't.

I will get you a suit. When Santa looked outside the reindeer were ready. So Santa went downstairs and got his old suit and put in on even though it did not fit him....

The Christmas star

"This year", said Mr. Merriweather one morning at breakfast, "we can have a really enormous gorgeous Christmas tree."

"Yes we can", smiled Mrs. Merriweather, looking up at the high ceilings of their big, new house. "The biggest ever!"

All that night when Mr. Merriweather brought home boxes and boxes of big, new ornaments, they admired every one of them.

What gorgeous things they were. Big shining balls that would have dwarfed their old tree, and fruit made of blown glass, and flying birds in rainbow colors, and shiny bells that really rang, and a most beautiful shiny golden angel.

"For the top of the tree", said Mr. Merriweather proudly, "we've used our star a long time," and everybody thought it would be nice. So before supper they put up their Christmas decorations. And they all had a Merry Christmas!

Melissa's Christmas

One more week until Christmas! Melissa couldn't wait. Tonight she was going with her mom to get presents for her dad and brothers. In the car Melissa told her mom what she wanted for Christmas.

"Mom", said Melissa, "for Christmas I want a china doll, a pack of crayons and a teddy." When they got home Melissa wrapped her presents.

Today was Christmas Eve. The Christmas tree looked beautiful. It was covered with diamonds, candy, and baskets with Baby Jesus in them. At the top there was a beautiful angel.

Finally it was Christmas. What excitement! Melissa got a soft teddy and her brother ran around the room with his car. Her mother was admiring her earings and her father was trying on his shoes. The spirit of Christmas was everywhere in their house.

The first Christmas

One day in Bethlehem there was a lady called Mary and her husband's name was Joseph. Joseph had to go to town and Mary was pregnant so Mary had to ride on a donkey to town and they tried to get an inn but they were all filled. So a farmer let them in a stable in the barn. Late at night the baby was born. Shepherds and wise men followed a star to the barn. The shepherds gave him a baby sheep and the wisemen gave him jewels, gold and silver.

The best Christmas ever

It was the day before Christmas and Santa was at the table just outside the elves' workshop. Santa was eating because he had to get fat for Christmas. Most of the time while he was eating, he could hear the elves working. This time he couldn't. He went in to see what was wrong. When he got in there, he couldn't believe his eyes. All the elves were packing up their belongings.

"Why are you doing this?" They said, "We are tired of making toys. We want to do something new." Santa made them wait and he talked to them. Soon it was time to give out the toys. They said they would stay that night and then they would leave. So Sants said that it was all right and walked to his sled with a frown. Soon he was done giving out the presents. Then he said to the elves, "You can leave now."

But they said, "No." "What?" asked Santa. The elves said that they were staying! It was unbelievable, but it was true. Everyone had a happy Christmas, even Santa.

Christmas past

Last year, my mother and I were putting up the Christmas tree when my father came in and said, "That looks great." After that everyone put up one decoration on the tree. And put all their presents under the tree.

Then later that night all the presents were gone. Who took them? Where did they go? It was Christmas Eve and "no" presents. What would we do? It was now 3pm and it was time for "Detective Smartie" to find them.

As the hours went by Detective Smartie had no luck. Everyone tried to help but no luck. After a while, we all got sort of tired.

Now it was 6pm and we got a strange phone call. The mysterious man said, "If you want your presents back they will cost you two dollars for each present.

But where was my dad? He was outside in the barn on the phone. He hid the presents there in the barn in the hayloft. But after all that we had a great Christmas.

A hunting adventure

In the evenings, during the long winter Mooseesee enjoyed listening to the stories that his grandfather told him about his hunting adventures. One night he told a story about ''Nanook'' the great white, polar bear.

One day when I was out hunting, I saw a big cave. I looked in it and saw very big claws. I heard a very loud roar, then I saw a big white Nanook (polar bear). He looked hungry so I went fishing and caught two fish. I gave one to Nanook and took one home to share with my family. Now Nanook is not hungry and my family is not hungry. Isn't my grandfather a good storyteller and a good hunter?

Whispers in the night

The ivory snow whirled around the window panes.
The children in their beds, dreaming of presents and candycanes.
And when all is quiet — no one around
Down the chimney with rosy cheeks, Santa falls.
He quickly hides Christmas gifts under the tree
Then he whistles and whispers to himself with glee.
But does he know that someone's watching?
A sleepy boy hears Santa talking.
Santa spies the curious boy
But he goes back up the chimney to deliver toys to good girls and boys.
Oh! what a special Christmas gift — a secret to keep forever.

The lonely Christmas bear

Once there was a litle boy who was very rich. He had too many toys and he didn't like any of them.

He decided to throw them out the window. One of his toys, a beautiful white bear that his mother had given him, fell into the garbage can.

Nobody saw it or heard it.

The bear felt miserable in the garbage can.

For the rest of that day and all night he lay in the garbage can. The next day, the garbage truck came and dumped the poor little bear into the truck. It drove away on a bumpy road.

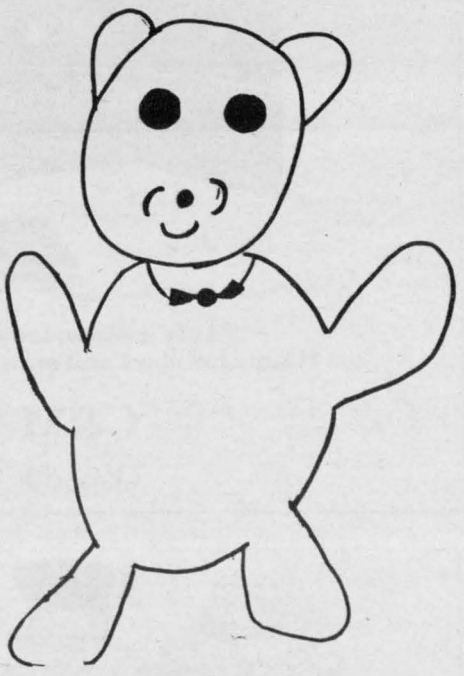
The bear fell out. He rolled off the road and into the water onto a piece of driftwood that was floating on the water. The bear felt wet and lonely. He was dirty because the water was polluted.

The bear floated for days and days. He passed cities and farms and forests and fields.

He was cold and lonely.

A lonely, cold, homeless boy saw a tiny white speck in the water. He got a stick and pulled the board to shore and got the bear. He dried and cleaned him and he was happy.

The bear was happy too. Suddenly, a bright star shone in the sky. The little boy and the bear went to see what it was.



They found a stable and in the manger was a baby. The little boy wanted to give the baby a present so he gave him his bear. They weren't lonely any more.

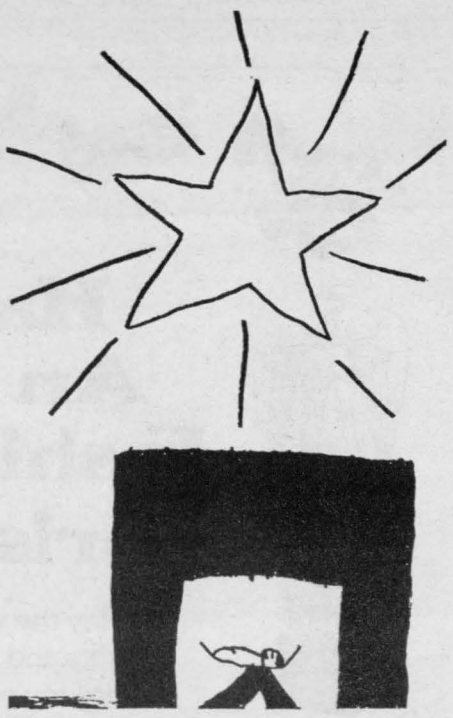
What Christmas should be like



It was a brittle day. A man sat in rags waiting for one, just one person to stop and pay attention to him. One after another people walked by. A priest walked by him. "Surely he will stop," he said.

But did he? No! He crossed the road to get farther away from him. Another walked by. Then a group of guys. The man said, "I will surely die, they will beat me to my bones."

But wait, a boy was at the phone. The man could hear no more, he had fainted.

When he woke up he was somewhere, but he did not know where. The boys stood there. One came to him. "Merry Christmas, sir" and he handed him $10 and some clothes.

"Thank you" said the man.

"Don't say anything, just sleep."

And that is what Christmas should really be like.

The night of Jesus' birth

One late night in a stable,
To find a room they were not able
Joseph and Mary lay down to sleep
The animals give them a welcoming peep.
Happy to find a place to stay
They nestled down in the sweet-smelling hay.
Then in the night, Mary gave birth,
And in that stable was glory and mirth.
They laid him in a manger
Away from most danger
And brought to that night, happiness, peace and light,
Jesus was wrapped in swaddling clothes of all white,
His face announced glorious things in sight.
The shepherds came to worship Him
With loving eyes although they were dim.
We still remember that sacred time,
It fills your hearts as well as mine.

Sheila Dykstra, Grade 7
Community Christian School

Can you imagine?

Jesus Christ's birth is a time for us to celebrate. Just imagine. It's around supper time. Mary and Joseph have just arrived in Bethlehem. They tried all the inns they could find, but they were all full. Finally they found a stable where they could stay. Late in the night, weary Mary gave birth to baby Jesus. She wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger.

Meanwhile, in a field where shepherds watched their sheep, suddenly the whole sky became as bright as day. A choir of angels appeared and began to sing of the birth of Jesus. The shepherds left their flocks and went to see baby Jesus. When they left baby Jesus, they told everybody they met about Jesus.

Can you imagine? It must have been a beautiful night!

A wish for Christmas

I wish there were a giant Christmas tree — so tall its lights would shine around the earth, for all to see, the happy and the sad, the poor and humble, those of royal birth.

The Christmas star would be there at the top; its glorious light would melt the coldest heart, make men forget their hatreds and their greed, clasp hands in friendship and for wars depart.

This world would then the Christmas story share, and know the joy that came to Bethlehem. That night, when Christ the Lord was born — the Prince of peace, God's gift of love to men.

Jeremel's story of Christmas

I couldn't believe my ears! As far back as I remember all I had done was beg for my food and clothing.

"Jeremel the Beggar" they used to call me. Sometimes I had even stolen, though I knew it was wrong.

Now here was a shepherd from the hills round about Bethlehem, asking if I would help look after some sheep! He offered me good meals, five shekels, and a blanket if I agreed. Of course I would!

But before I told him that, I searched my mind for the reason why he had asked me. I finally came to the conclusion that because Ceasar Agustus had ordered a census to be taken each man had gone to his own town to be counted.

That meant that many of the shepherds were gone. I thanked God for this chance of a lifetime.

I was doing well as a shepherd. I already earned one shekel with which I bought an extra blanket for more comfort. The other shepherds were kind to me. They even allowed me to name a new-born little lamb. I named him Gimel.

One night as I lay on my back with my two blankets tucked beneath my chin, I looked up at the many stars which studded the sky. There was one outstanding star shining brightly over the sleeping town of Bethlehem.

It was the largest star I have ever seen.

Ezrel the shepherd who was in charge woke me up.

"It's your shift," he said gruffly. I sat up and moved closer to the fire. I was quietly watching the sheep sleep when all of a sudden an angel surrounded by a bright light appeared.

Every shepherd awoke from his sleep with a terrified look. Hands flew up to block the dazzling light. I peeked between two spread fingers of my hand that covered my eyes. The angel spoke out loud to us.

"Do not be afraid. I bring you good news of great joy that will be for all the people. Today in the town of David a Saviour has been born to you; He is Christ the Lord. This will be a sign to you. You will find a baby wrapped in strips of cloth lying in a manger."

Then when he said this a whole choir of angels joined him and sang praises to God saying, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace to men on whom His favor rests." The angels left and the shepherds stared after them with total awe.

"Let's go see all that the Lord has told us," Ezrel said eagerly. "But someone must stay to guard the sheep. Any volunteers?" Three hands went up out of the seven assembled. The other four ran quickly down the hill. Thoughts swirled around in my mind.

Why was He dressed in strips of cloth and not a purple robe like a king? Why was He born in a manger and not a palace? I had no doubts that this was the Messiah, just questions about him.

When we entered Bethlehem we easily found the stable in which the child was staying, for the star I had seen earlier shone directly above it.

When we knocked on the door a man named Joseph bid us enter. He was a carpenter from Nazareth. He had dark brown hair and soft, kind, brown eyes.

He led us to the manger where his young wife Mary sang softly to a baby bundled in strips of cloth lying on some hay in the manger.

She smiled at us as we walked in. She had a pretty girlish face with twinkling brown eyes and long lashes. Her brown hair that reached far down her back matched her eyes.

We knelt beside the manger. The baby smiled and cooed at us. The animals lowed softly as if they knew He was very special. Mary looked at the child with love clearly written on her face.

I folded my hands, shut my eyes lightly and prayed. I thanked the Lord for sending His Son so humbly down to earth. He would one day die for us to wash away all our sins. I thanked Him for allowing me, a mere beggar to see Him. I now realized He had sent the shepherds to ask me for help so that, when the time came, I could see the Christ-Child. God must care a lot for everybody, even me Jeremel the Beggar.
