Matilda Institute Members Enjoy Pennsylvania Trip

This year the Matilda Women's Institute sponsored a three day bus tour of South Central Pennsylvania, leaving on July 30th and returning rather late on August.

The focal point of the tour was Lancaster County where the Amish folk cling to their age-old religious traditions in the operation of large and prosperous farms in this fertile section of Pennsylvania. No electric power is used, even though high-tension power lines can be seen crossing the countryside; the Amish farmers take no payment for land lost to these towers, but they do insist that the towers be painted dull black rather than the shiny aluminum we are accustomed to seeing here. Power normally supplied for farm operations by electric power is ingenious pumping schemes employing water wheels, and, of course, the human element is very much involved in all farm operations. In addition, there are no tractors in the fields; sleek heavy horses and very large and sturdy mules do the work here. Buggy and carriage shops are plentiful in the county, since all travel done by these people, even on the busiest highways, is by horsedrawn vehicle. For the visitors from Matilda and surrounding areas, it was an unbelievable experience to find, less than 500 miles away, a way of life that appeared so peaceful and so rewarding, though totally unlike rural life here.

Another point of interest on the tour was a visit to Chocolate World in Hershey, Pennsylvania; here visitors ride in comfortable mini-trolleys through a simulated presentation of the chocolate industry, all the way from the cocoa plantations in tropical countries to the manufacture and packaging of the numerous chocolate products which bear the Hershey label. The tour group stayed overnight in Hershey, near the intersection of Cocoa and Chocolate Avenues! The entire small city is most attractive, with plenty of space for recreation; most of the group spent an enjoyable evening at Hershey Park, which has all sorts of entertainment for all ages.

Summer theatre at Ephrata, Pennsylvania, where a group of New York City players presented "No no, Nannette" to an appreciative audience, and a stop at the world-famous Glass Centre at Corning, New York, rounded out a most interesting tour.

Arrangements for the tour were made by Institute members, Kathleen McGinn and Freda Melan, and transportation was by air-conditioned coach provided by Strader's Bus Lines of Iroquois.

Casselman-Billings Vows Exchanged At Iroquois United

Sally Lue Casselman, sister of Mrs. Denzil Prunner, Iroquois, and Joseph Edward Billings, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Billings were married in Iroquois United Church on Saturday July 27, 1974, at three o'clock in the afternoon. Rev. Brian Gee officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The maid of honour, Judy Baillie also wore a floor length gown, but of blue gingham cotton. Each girl wore a white eyelot pinafore apron and carried flowers similar to that of the bride.

Y. Tompkins Honored At Knox Church

At the conclusion of the worship service of Knox Presbyterian Church, Sunday, August 11th, special presentations were made by the Presbyterian Women Auxilliary through Mrs. Marlene Shearer, and by the P.Y.P.S. through Miss Joanne Hodgson, to Mrs. Yvonne Tompkins and her son Neville, on the occasion of this family of the congregation leaving the Iroquois community to take up residence in the city of Cornwall. The Rev. Hibbs spoke of the good work of Mrs. Tompkins and Neville in the respective organizations of the church, and of their contributions within various organizations of the village. Stating that it was "with regret" that the congregation was losing the ministry of this couple, the Rev. Hibbs noted that Cornwall was close enough for periodic visits, when circumstances would allow, and that the congregation will always be appreciative of the work and witness given by Neville and his mother in their time of sojourn with us. Well wishes were extended to Mrs. Tompkins, and through her to her son, who could not be present for the occasion, at the conclusion of the service and those present, during the fellowship time of lemonade refreshment on the church lawn.

Personal Note

Mrs. John Wilding of St. Laurent, Quebec, and Miss Frances Wilding of Lachine spent the weekend with Mrs. Batchelor.

Special Presentations

entations made to Mrs. Tompkins and Neville Tompkins at the close of worship in Knox Church, Sunday, August 11th.

It's Green Apple Time

A resident reports that someone helped themselves to the apples and pears on their property last weekend and although neither are ripe, all the apples and many pears were stripped from the trees. This resident explained, it's not the dollar value of what was taken and damaged that counts. It is the fact that the growing of these fruits is a hobby with many people and a lot of care and attention has gone into growing them.

After-dark wanderings can be controlled!

Irvine, M.P.P., Grenville - Dundas, Acting Minister of Housing, is pleased to announce that he has been advised by the Honourable John Rhodes, Minister of Transportation and Communications, that Moffatt Construction and Materials Limited of Ottawa, Ontario, has been awarded Contract No. 74-96 for grading drainage, granular base and hot mix paving for a distance of 2.16 miles from the Wouth Junction of Highway 43 northerly including the Village of Winchester.

GETTING BACK TO NORMAL

No matter what we may think of the political system in the United States, none of us can say that they don't bounce back swiftly over there after any crisis. Once President Nixon popped out of the presidency, the new man was in harness immediately. From the tone of his address, President Ford is out to make some drastic changes in the attitudes and workings of the White House.

If he succeeds in bringing the United States back to some semblance of order in problems such as inflation and honesty in government, not to mention his promise to strive for balanced budget in 1976, he will have accomplished what all world leaders have been trying to do in the last decade. Inflation has run rampant in many parts of the world and along with high unemployment and floods and starvation in many parts of the globe, the world is headed for a crisis of a magnitude never before faced by mankind.

Perhaps President Ford can pull off what a good many others have been trying to do for a long while. Perhaps the United States with all its mighty powers, will be the first nation to control inflation and lead the way for an easing of the world's worst problem.

The new President has also pledged to continue Nixon-Kissinger's foreign policy...and if President Nixon is remembered for nothing else but his great strides towards peace in the world, he will have attained a mark in the pages of history.

No one likes to see a great man brought down from the pinnacle of his career in the manner in which Nixon was forced to resign. The circumstances of his administrations' and his failures, demanded his resignation and it now appears that political peace at home may be in the works for the United States. For the retired President it may also mean that he will find a peace within himself in the coming months. He deserves that at the least!

Human nature seems to pro some people into kicking a man when he is down and there is no doubt that Nixon is down. But from past experience it has been found that he doesn't stay down very long and it is to be hoped that in the coming years he will find a way to use his knowledge and ability towards helping in whatever level he chooses, for the betterment of mankind. No man reaches the level of the presidency without a great deal of ability.. no matter what his failings and Nixon could still become a man history will remember with many good deeds.

Somewhere in the future, Americans will no doubt come to realize that while Nixon had his faults, he does that share that position alone and as long as we human beings are as we are at present, the same situation could arise in any government of the world. It is happening every day on one level or another in our lives and even if we don't condone such happenings, many of them are a product of our times and our society.

MY WIFE CALLED ME "DEAR" TODAY

by Bill Smiley

Summer reflections: some good, some bad. First we'll give the good news, then the bad, as the current crud goes. If you don't know what crud means, ask your family doctor. Or somebody else's family doctor, if you don't trust your own.

A family doctor is someone in the family. That means you try to get everything for free. So if he tells you that you have a little headache once in a while, take an aspirin, relax, you know you have a monumental brain tumour.

On the other hand, if you take somebody else's family doctor, beware. He'll probably tell you that you have a possible brain tumour, that you should relax, and take plenty of aspirin.

Well, I hope that takes care of that. I didn't really mean to get onto doctors. Grand chaps, actually.

But I have a lingering resentment against a R.A.F. doctor who insisted on giving me my annual anti-tetanus shot (a dirty great injection in your shoulder) the night of our passing-out party, from a training course on Spitfires.

I told him I had a bad back, a wrenched knee, a toothache, phlebitis, and pneumonia.

He said, "Jolly good", and sank an elephant needle into my shoulder.

I had the satisfaction of seeing him stunned by a coffee cup hurled from behind the piano. It was thrown by our C.O., who, despite the fact that he'd had his pants pulled off and beer poured liberally over his lower torso, was still very much alive.

And a moment later, I had the satisfaction of seeing the C.O. caught right between the eyes by a dinner-plate flung by a New Zealander who said, "Whizzo" when he saw the Commanding officer fall to his knees, trouserless.

This was in the good old days, when it was more or less expected that you'd smash up the mess before you graduated.

It wasn't vandalism, in the modern sense. You had to pay for everything you broke, and you took full responsibility for what you'd done.

It was a wild, free, careening sense of destruction, perhaps based on the sense that you were destructible and were going to be destructed. Perhaps that is what makes young people tick today. If they tick. Some of them don't even seem to be wound up, let alone tick.

As usual, I've gone far from my theme. The good news and then the bad news. It's like a Newfie or Polish joke, both of which I despise.

Good news? It's not raining; the town engineer is not going to cut down 31 maple trees until he tries again next year. My grandbaby is a little devil. One of my students wants to come around and talk. My wife called me "Dear" today. My bursitis is not hurting too much. There's a rose bed in the backyard which hasn't produced a rose in three years, but this summer has a fine touch of green (three baby elms). I don't have a heart condition, though I'm not sure about me liver. The electric storm last night didn't hit my oaks. The plumber gave us a big bag of fresh beans out of his garden.

Bad news? My grandbaby is a devil. He and his mother are living in a dome (no lights, no water, no electricity, no toilet). I left an $8.95 library book out on one of the lawn chairs yesterday and it rained all night. There's a nest of yellowjackets up in the roof and the roofer will quit, after he's taken half the shingles off. Two stings will do it. The boys who are going to do the painting will all have fallen off a ladder and broken their right arms by the time they're ready to go.

My mistress has the mumps. My doctor has a needle. My wife has a tongue. My cat is heterosexual. My daughter is cheerful. My son is cheerful. (This is bad news because it means they are both going to make a touch).

All in all, it's a pretty average summer, so far.

Scene Of July Wedding

The Iroquois United Church was the setting for the marriage of Arlene Mae Summers and Wayne Charles Anderson, on Saturday, July 20th at 3.30 p.m. The Rev. Brian Gee officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Hugh Thompson of Williamsburg was the organist for the occasion.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ollie R. Summers, Iroquois, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. T. Charles Anderson of Winchester, Ontario.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a peasant style gown of nylon organza and imported cotton. Cluny lace formed an apron effect down the entire gown front, wedding ring collar and cuffs of the full Bishop sleeves. White satin bows accented the high collar and midriff. The lace was again repeated on the chapel length train. A high camelot bonnet of the lace held her bonnet veils of illusion (chapel length) lace completely edged the entire veil.

Miss Anne Summers of Iroquois, sister of the bride was Maid Of Honour. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Brian Dockstader of Kingston, sister of the groom with the Plan.

Some U.S. hospitals near the Canadian border and in Florida will accept your OHIP card and deal directly with the Plan if you are an in-patient. But as a general rule, as far as payment for treatment outside Ontario is concerned, you are responsible for paying the provider of health services. The receipts for insurable services should be sent to OHIP for reimbursement and payment will be made by OHIP to you.

The Ontario Ministry of Health publishes a booklet called The Traveller's Guide to the Ontario Health Insurance Plan. The booklet describes in detail everything you need to know about hospital and medical services outside Ontario. Copies are available from government offices and travel agencies, or you can write directly to the Ministry of Health, Queen's Park, Toronto.

There is no charge for the booklet — and it may be one of the most valuable things you can pack in your suitcase before you leave the province.

and Miss Diane Burrell of Cardiac and Miss Stephanie Joy of Renfrew, niece of the bride.

They wore identical gowns of dacron organza rose pring with a flared skirt in shades of pink. A deep ruffle fell from a scoop neckline forming a cap sleeve and the ruffle was repeated at the hemline. A midriff was fashioned in a deeper shade of rose shier ending in panels down the skirt back. A matching crocheted straw braid picture hat was worn with ribbons and streamers. They carried baskets of pink carnations and white shasta daisies.

Mr. Jeffery Heath of Ottawa was Best Man, Mr. Mark Cruddy of Ottawa, Mr. Donald Anderson of Winchester and Mr. Gordon Summers of Toronto were ushers. They wore dark grey Tuxedos.

Mrs. Dava Estelle of Toronto was soloist for the occasion. She sang the Wedding Prayer at the beginning of the service and "I'll Walk Beside You Through The Coming Years" during the signing of the Register.

Following the service a reception was held in the Church Hall catered by the United Church Women.

The guests were received by the mother of the bride. She wore an Empire line gown of letae chiffon, made with a cowl neckline draped bodice and long full sleeves. A chiffon panel fell from one shoulder and was held by tiny covered buttons. She wore a corsage of pink shaded roses. Mrs. Anderson, mother of the groom assisted. She was dressed in a yellow empire line gown in silk knit and a matching style jacket. She wore a corsage of shades of yellow and orange salesman roses.

The brides bouquet was caught by Miss Francis Seardino of Renfrew and her garter by Mr. Charles Dvey of London, Ont.

The happy couple left for a honeymoon in Bermuda. The bride wore a many flowered knit gown for going away with a corsage of Scout Leurt Roses. They will reside at 57 Colborne Street, Apt. 5, Kingston Ont.,

TODAY'S HEALTH

Your health insurance travels all over the world

by David Woods

Supposing you're lucky enough to be vacationing on a Caribbean island in winter, or in Europe in summer and are then unlucky enough to be involved in an accident — or to develop appendicitis. Are you covered by the Ontario Health Insurance Plan?

The answer is that OHIP will pay the cost of standard hospital accommodation anywhere in the world for injury or sudden illness; but non-emergency care will be paid at a maximum rate of 75 per cent for the same hospital service in Ontario, provided, any medical treatment you receive is covered under the Ontario Plan. Medical costs are reimbursed at 90 per cent of Ontario Medical Association Schedule of Fees. Charges for cosmetic surgery, appliances such as artificial limbs, or a stay in a health spa are not retrievable costs.

Especially in the United States, where medical costs are often higher than in Ontario, you could be faced with a bill quite a bit larger than the amount which OHIP can repay you.

Your safest bet is to make sure you know what your health insurance covers you for — before you start your trip. If you feel OHIP coverage may not be enough for your needs, several private insurers have special supplementary plans for travellers.

Here are some tips on making OHIP work for you when you're out of the country:

- Always carry your OHIP card with you.
- In a financial emergency ask the hospital to phone or write to OHIP to confirm coverage.
- Submit claims within six months of the date you are billed for medical services.
- Describe fully the reasons for being outside of Ontario — vacation, business trip, etc.
- Provide OHIP with details of medical or hospital services performed, name and address of physician who performed them, dates of services (including hospital admission, and discharge dates), the fee charged for each service and complete personal information — name, sex, and date of birth.
- Make sure that you get itemized receipts for all services.
- Always quote your OHIP number when communicating

FETTERLYS'

HIGHWAY 2 AT CARMAN ROAD

Letter To Editor

Dear Sir:

As a frequent cyclist in and around town, I have become aware of a minor problem and would like to notify the authority whose responsibility it is.

It concerns the area of land between the boat houses and the old canal. In recent weeks, this area has been used extensively by campers, which in itself, should be disallowed. However, the area is very littered.

Apparently, in the old town, this area was beautifully landscaped with well-pruned trees, lawn and flower beds. Could this not be done again, thereby serving the town people as well as tourists and visiting boaters?

I submit these few observations and hope that something can be done.

Sincerely,
John McAllister

Tender Call

The Honourable Donald R. Irvine, M.P.P., Grenville - Dundas, Acting Minister of Housing, is pleased to announce that he has been advised that a modified tender call will be advertised on July 29, closing on August 28, for 35 senior citizen units in the Town of Kemptville.

Spring Cleaning

Why do Ontario Hydro line crews spend hundreds of hours every year washing insulators?

Dust, road salt, and grime accumulate and can form an electrical path when dampened by fog or mist. Resulting high leakage current may start pole-top fires and black out local power supplies.

Most insulators in areas of high contamination are cleaned several times a year, with a concentrated effort in the spring. The work is done on live lines, to eliminate any interruption of power. A water jet is deliberately broken up into a spray so that it won't act as a conductor between line and lineman.

Insulators located in critical areas, such as near the Gardiner Expressway in Toronto, get special attention — they're cleaned after every snowstorm.

DOLLARS & GOOD SENSE

by WILLIAM J. MARTIN
Special Consultant to
Avco Financial Services

Have you shopped for furniture recently? U.S. consumers are finding new labels as a result of Federal Trade Commission guidelines calling for fuller disclosures which became effective March 21 (1974).

The changes won't affect the products themselves but may alter the way you think about them. That fruitwood desk is probably now known as a fruitwood stain finish desk.

Each piece of furniture will have to be tagged by its manufacturer and the tag will have to state exactly what the furniture is made of, including fabric coverings.

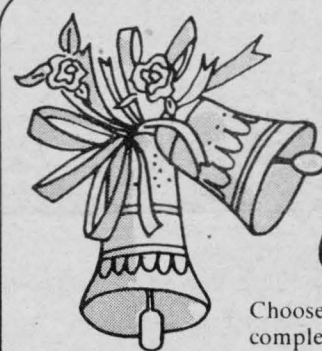

The Commission, in announcing the new standards, said that any material facts concerning the merchandise, which, if known, would influence the decision to purchase by a prospective buyer, should be disclosed.

The change will also affect how a furniture product is advertised. From now on, if the ad says pine, then that is what the furniture had better be made of, not pine stained plywood.

So that cultured marble table you like so much is now just a table with a simulated marble top made with marble dust and a polyester binding.

The move is just one of a series of new labeling changes in store for a wide variety of products soon to be introduced to consumers. Take a look the next time you're out shopping.

Readers' questions are welcome and should be sent to Box 5875, London, Ontario.

Quotas Taking Step Right Direction

The introduction by Ottawa of import quotas and a stabilization program for beef is a step in the right direction but stops far short of meeting livestock producer's needs and catches the Minister of Agriculture, Eugene Whelan engaging in a contradiction, Walter Miller, Vice President of the National Farmer's Union said today.

He said a stabilization price based on an average return of 45.4¢ per pound for all steers on the hoof is a severe short fall from the 52¢ per pound Mr. Whelan said last March that beef feeders needed, just to break even.

The union Vice President said "since last March when Mr. Whelan led farmers to believe he favoured a price of 52¢ to 55¢ per pound, machinery, fuel, interest, feed and other costs have risen considerably." He said the stabilization program has so many shortcomings that beef farmers should regard it as no program at all and a reneging on election promises.

The union Vice President said he believes it will do little or nothing to halt many producers from being forced out of the business. He said using a price based on the last five year average is totally irresponsible as prices of the last five years have absolutely nothing to do with today's cost of production.

Mr. Miller accused the federal government of shirking its responsibility in not establishing a National Meat Authority which would exercise control over the whole industry and establish an orderly marketing system for livestock, protecting the legitimate interests of producers and consumers alike.

Farmers and consumers need more than just the illusion of stability if we are to avoid moving from crisis to crisis and move out of the boom and bust cycles that have given packing houses and retail chain stores the opportunity to profiteer.

The union vice president said, "This is the responsibility of the federal government and they have not yet accepted it."

An Army Chaplain - 1867

(An imaginary letter from the Chaplain at Fort Henry, Kingston, Ontario, to the Bishop of his Diocese, December 29, 1867)

My Lord Bishop,

At the end of another year at Fort Henry, it is time to pause and reflect upon the spreading of God's word. It is also time, My Lord, to acquaint you with my position and situation here at the fort.

I have in my charge some 300 or more persons--the officers, non-commissioned officers and enlisted men of the regiment, plus their families. I am treated with the utmost respect and courtesy by all.

Divine service is performed regularly at Fort Henry, for all persons in my charge. Prayers are read each day, for those who wish to join in, and I am available to the soldiers at any time for quiet meditation or a comforting word.

Every Sunday the men are marched to worship service, where I preach the catechism, emphasizing the duties that they are negligent in. The most common vices, sadly, are violence, intemperance, and profaning the Holy Name of God by swearing and cursing.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper is given four times yearly and it is my trying task to urge the men to attend Communion.

You may have judged, My Lord, by the tone of this dispatch, that poor attendance burdens me like a plague. Of all the vices known to soldiers, this is the worst!

The men are obliged to attend worship service, accompanied by their senior officers. We encourage wives and children to worship here alongside their men, but some married soldiers prefer to shun the military chapel to attend the Cathedral in town with their families.

Because soldiers of the Roman Catholic and Presbyterian faiths are not compelled to attend our Church of England worship service, the numbers are diminished even further here. Every Sunday they are marched to and from their own place of worship, unless military duty interferes with this arrangement. These soldiers are fortunate indeed, to have the liberty of worshipping the Almighty in their own fashion.

Of course, My Lord, the children are attending Sunday School and receiving religious instruction twice weekly.

In closing, My Lord allow me to add that I am in need of three score Bibles and Prayer Books for issue to the men and distribution to children and invalids.

Your humble servant,
J. S. Moffatt, Chaplain.

DON IRVINE REPORTS FROM TORONTO

Many Counties Still Looking At Restructuring

The basic difference in the Ontario Government approach to structural reform of local government was considered in my last column.

As long as extreme growth pressures continued in the densely populated urban areas of the province, new structures to enable authorities to digest and divert that growth were given a high priority. The new regional governments introduced east and west of Metro last year completed those priorities. Where local authorities were unable to agree on specific details someone has to settle the matter one way or another in the interests of getting it done and operating.

As mentioned in my last column, the significance of the Oxford restructuring bill (the first county government to be reorganized) was that in every way the initiative comes from the local level. The original study was commissioned by the local authorities and paid for by them. They appointed the study group. The decision as whether or not to go ahead was made entirely by them and the legislation reflects their ideas and wishes. Certainly they did not always agree, but they worked out their own compromises to everyone's satisfaction.

Many other counties are now considering local government reform. They may not all decide that new structures are needed in their special circumstances. Those that decide to proceed will do so on their own volition and without influence or interference from Queen's Park.

What are the advantages of these changes?

First, the development of the reorganization permits the transfer of significantly broad new powers from provincial level to the local level. Perhaps among the most important of these is responsibility for planning and zoning but there are others, such as its enhanced status, which will be an advantage in future dealings with the province and with regional governments.

Many people ask, "Why couldn't the province simply hand over these powers to the local government?" The answer is at once simple and complex. One of the principle objectives of any local government reform is to substantially reduce the existing number of area municipalities. (In the case of Oxford, 18 municipalities became eight.) At the same time, a single county-wide governmental structure is designed which ensures representation from all areas. A city like Woodstock or a town like Ingersoll had not previously been represented on the Oxford County Council; they had their own administrative structures. Under the new system they will become part of the new county government. It is the existence of such a strong single government that makes it possible for the province to hand over new powers confident that the structures are there to administer them.

Additional powers bring provincial grants to support them financially. If you didn't make such changes, imagine how chaotic planning would be if it was being done, simultaneously, by three large government bodies and a group of smaller ones.

The Oxford bill has created two tiers of government. The upper tier has general responsibility for county roads, health and welfare services, planning, water and sewage. The lower, or second, tier consists of eight municipalities each with its own municipal council headed by a mayor. It will oversee local roads, certain aspects of land drainage, fire and police services and zoning.

Most of all, the residents of Oxford will notice the very significant increase in local autonomy. Decisions which affect people directly will be made by local, elected officials familiar with the needs and objectives of the area. That's really putting government close to the people - and that's what the local government reform program is all about.

SAUSAGE SORCERY

* It's the beginning of real summer, the start of vacations and the plunge into outdoor cooking. The home economists for Union Carbide suggest these summer menu ideas:

* Pack the picnic cooler with sandwiches made from wieners. Grind together ½ pound frankfurters, ½ a small onion and 1 stalk celery. Blend in ¼ cup sweet pickle juice and a few drops of tabasco sauce.

* Or, pack these crowd pleasers: Mix together ½ cup minced wieners (they're fully cooked right from the package), a 3-ounce package cream cheese and 2 tablespoons thawed frozen pineapple juice concentrate. (Add the rest of the concentrate to lemonade for a new punch.)

* For the grill, try 6 wieners encased in a mixture of 1 pound ground beef, 1 slightly beaten egg, 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and ¾ teaspoon seasoned salt. Grill over hot coals about 12 minutes and serve in hot dog buns with relish and mustard. These will serve 6 people.

* No barbecue season will be complete without barbecued bologna. Score a 3-to 4-pound chunk of bologna about ¼-inch deep, as for ham. Anchor on spit and attach to grill. Baste with a mixture of ½ cup red current jelly, 2 tablespoons prepared hot mustard and ¼ teaspoon cloves. Cook about 45 minutes until well-glazed and hot. Slice to make 10 to 12 servings. (Use the leftovers for sandwiches.)

* For a kabob idea, wrap wiener chunks with partially cooked bacon and alternate on a skewer with folded bologna slices and dill pickle chunks. Turn often until browned and bacon is cooked.

* For safe picnicking and camping, remember to refrigerate all sausage except for dry sausage (salami) which may be kept whole indefinitely in a cool place. Once the casing is opened, however, refrigerate dry sausage also.

* Copies of "Sausage Sorcery", a recipe booklet prepared by Union Carbide Canada Limited, may be obtained by writing Family Food Counsellor, Suite 500, 101 Bloor Street West, Toronto, Ontario M5S 1P7.

Ontario peaches now on market

Peach picking in Ontario's tender fruit lands is well underway, both in southwestern Ontario and the Niagara Peninsula. Growers report peaches are of good size and juicy as a result of rains just ahead of the harvesting season. Ontario has 10,000 acres of peach orchards and the redskinned free stone peaches sold on the fresh market are renowned for their flavor and texture.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

A pleasant disposition can be expected when there is a pleasant expression and Donald has both. Nine years old, Donald is a tall slim boy with dark eyes, brown curly hair and light brown skin. His background is mainly black with one white (Italian) grandparent. He is in good health though inclined to have eczema in hot weather or when he is upset.

Polite, well-mannered Donald has finished Grade 2. He wants to do well in school, partly because he is eager to learn and partly because he is anxious to please the adults in his life. Donald is very responsive to an atmosphere of warmth, firmness and re-assurance. His foster mother says there are never any behavior problems as long as this energetic boy is kept busy, so it is hoped his adoption home will provide plenty of running, climbing and game space.

Donald is interested in sports and plays floor hockey at school. He is adept at manual tasks and enjoys building things like go-carts or houses out of packing cases. A helpful lad, he is always happy to join in household chores.

This month, Donald's ambition is to be a pizza delivery man. In the meantime, he hopes for a family of his own where he will have a mother and father and perhaps brothers and sisters. The Children's Aid Society prefers a black or mixed racial home for this engaging youngster.

To inquire about adopting Donald, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.
