No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.
Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

Former Chesterville Bank Manager Passes Away

Garnet M. Whitney, only son of the late Sir James Pliny Whitney, former Premier of Ontario, was found dead in bed at his residence Friday morning. Mr. Whitney had been in his usual good health up to Thursday evening, when he suffered from what was thought to be a minor ailment, but his death came unexpectedly.

Mr. Whitney was born in Morrisburg, the son of Sir James Whitney and Alice Park, 52 years ago. He was educated at the Public and High schools at Morrisburg and completed his education at Upper Canada College. Upon his graduation, he entered upon a financial career and became employed in a branch of the Molson's Bank at Toronto, and was for several years manager of Chesterville branch. Nine years ago, he was appointed manager of the Molson branch bank at Aultsville and when the Molson bank merged with the Bank of Montreal, Mr. Whitney remained as manager of the new branch , a position which he held until his death.

Active in fraternal work, Mr. Whitney was associated with two orders, being a member of the Aberdeen lodge I.O.O.F., Aultsville, and the local Masonic lodge. He was a member of St. Paul's Anglican church, Aultsville. Despite the prominence of his father in political affairs, Mr. Whitney was never actively associated with political parties.

On Thursday, Mr. Whitney was about at business as usual but in the evening, complained of feeling ill. Remedies were applied and by midnight, he seemed to be recovering. When Mrs. Whitney visited his room shortly after six o'clock, he was apparently in usual health but when she returned an hour later, he had succumbed.

Surviving Mr. Whitney are his wife, formerly Miss Kathleen Colquhoun, of Wales; one son, James Pliny Whitney, Toronto, and a sister, Nora Whitney, Toronto.

The funeral service was largely attended Monday afternoon, not only by residents of Aultsville, but by friends and acquaintances of Mr. Whitney from all portions of the district. Floral tributes were heaped about the casket, testifying to the general regret at the death of Mr. Whitney.

Members of Aberdeen Lodge, I. O. O. F., Aultsville, conducted the funeral service at the residence, Frank Shaver acting as master of ceremonies. Mr. Whitney was prominent in lodge activities and was a former district deputy grand master of the I.O.O.F.

The service at St. Paul's church was in charge of Archdeacon Carson, of Morrisburg, who was assisted by Rev. Mr. Thom, Aultsville, and Rev. Archibald Carson, of Regina. Other members of the clergy present were Rev. Canon Netten, Cornwall; Rev. Mr. Homer, Iroquois; Rev. Frank Lloyd, Cornwall, and Rev. Fraser Weegan, Russell.

Chief mourners included the widow, formerly Miss Kathleen Colquhoun, Wales; a son, James Pliny Whitney; a sister, Miss Nora Whitney; an aunt, Mrs. J. Bigelow, Montreal; two uncles, Albert Whitney, Prescott, and Arthur Vance, Montreal; a niece, Mrs. Allan Keefer, Montreal; a nephew, Patrick Thompson, Toronto, and a cousin, Dickson Wagner, Toronto.

The pall bearers were former friends and business associates of Mr. Whitney—Gerald Anderson, Douglas Jarvis, Frank Jackson, Homer Alguire, John Loucks and William Duffin.

Bowling Club Elects Officers

An enthusiastic crowd gathered at the station Monday evening for the purpose of the re-organization of the Lawn Bowling Club. Reaburn, gave a very interesting review of the activities of the club during the past season. Golden Wedding Anniversary Of Winchester Springs Couple

On the evening of April 8th about fifty guests, friends and neighbors, gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson to spend a social evening and to commemorate with them the golden anniversary of their wedding day, Mr. Thompson being 77 years of age and Mrs. Thompson being well up in the seventies, and both retaining their youthful looks and vigor.

Mr. Howard Nesbitt contributed the following address and Mr. Robert Morrow presented the happy couple with a beautiful sea-weed rocker. Mr. Morrow was one of the guests present fifty years ago when Mr. Thompson brought his bride here to make it their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson,
Dear Friends,—

It is with great pleasure that we, your friends and neighbors, gathered in your home tonight desire to commemorate with you, this, the golden anniversary of your wedding day. We realize that you are one of the pioneer couples, in fact that you are the only one, left at present to enjoy this privilege. You have seen our little hamlet develop from a primitive village to a police village with all the modern facilities of the present day. You have witnessed the lighting system develop from the pine knot and tallow candle, to the Delco and Hydro electric of the present day. You have also seen the passing of the corduroy and turnpike road to the modern provincial highway on which your up-to-date home is situated, as well as many other lines of material advancement that we might mention.

We are informed, Mr. Thompson, that the Queen city of Western Ontario, was your birthplace and that in your childhood days you moved to North Agusta, Leeds county, with your parents, where you grew to manhood. Now, we do not wonder that a young man of your strength, ability, talent and business foresight should choose Winchester Springs in those early days of development of our county for the future home of yourself and your blushing bride of fifty years ago. We also wish to make note of the fact that you were a public spirited young man, being willing to contribute a number of years' service on the Williamsburg Municipal Board, as well as serving on the Police Village Board of your adopted village, where your judgment was aways respected among men. In fact, you have always taken a lively interest in all the public affairs of your day.

Now, Mrs. Thompson, we all will cherish fond remembrance of you as a kind and sympathetic neighbor, being always willing to lend a hand to anyone in trouble or need. Since coming here to help your husband hew out a home from the virgin forest, you have many times been called upon to pass down the way of sorrow, and you have always borne up under difficulties in a manner that might well be a lesson to us of younger years.

Finally, our best wish for you both is that you may be blessed with the best and richest gifts from the hand of the Giver of every good and perfect gift.

We ask you to accept this sea-weed rocker, not for its intrinsic value nor sterling worth, but as a token of respect, esteem and love from your friends and neighbors.

Signed on behalf of all—T. D. Nesbitt, Matthias Bailey, W. M. Bolton, Lorne McIntosh.

Mr. Thompson, with well-chosen words, made a fine reply for himself and his wife.

The ladies served an excellent repast of coffee, cake and sandwiches while Mrs. Wm. Barclay presented the bride and groom with a fine bride's cake.

The social evening closed with all joining hands and singing " For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

GAME SANCTUARY SOUGHT IN ALGOMA

At the annual meeting of the Algoma Game, Fish and Forest association service President Alf Shaw of Thessalon reported that instead of the area marked out and approved for a game sanctuary in Algoma he had at a public meeting held at Thessalon secured the endorsement of the bodies and every citizen of an area bounded by the southern border of Grasset township, the White river road, Portage trail and the Mississauga river road.

The area, enclosing 575 square miles, is rich in game, fish and fur and there are no settlers or development work on it. It is bounded on every side by an automobile road, which would make it accessible for tourists and easily patrolled by wardens.

Mistaken Identity

The driver of the small car found himself sitting in the road surveying his battered mudguards. He turned to the lorry driver. "Do you mean to say you couldn't see me coming on a straight bit of road like that?" he demanded. The driver of the lorry was not at all sympathetic. "Well, to tell you the truth," he remarked, with an irritating grin, " I did see your car. but I thought it was only a fly on my wind-screen!"

Messrs. Ritchie Bell and Nimmo Among Graduates

Promptly at 8:15 p.m. on Tuesday evening, April 9th, Dr. F. Scott McKenzie, Acting-principal, lead the Academic procession in the David Morrice Hall and constituted the Sixty-second Convocation of the Presbyterian Theological College.

The audience filled the hall and on the platform were the faculty of the College, representatives of the senate and board of the College, of the Montreal Presbytery, McGill University, the Diocesan Theological College, and clergy of the City of Montreal, of the province of Ontario, and the Maritimes, and several from the United States.

The Reverend Professor F. Scott McKenzie, the acting-principal, presided in the absence of Rev. Dr. D. J. Fraser, principal, who has been away for a greater part of the year on account of sickness.

The Rev. Dr. Malcolm A. Campbell of the First Presbyterian church, gave the opening scripture reading and prayer.

The Degree of Bachelor of Divinity was conferred upon Rev. Henry Cousens, B.A., of Lachute, and the degree of Doctor of Divinity, by examination, upon the Rev. Dr. Harvey-Jellie, D. Litt., a professor of the College, his thesis having been published in book form under the fascinating title, "Where Shall Wisdom be found?"

Four candidates were presented for the degree of Doctor of Divinity, "honoris causa," being the Rev. J. G. Potter, M.A., of McVicar Memorial church, Montreal; Rev. W. M. Townsend, M.A., of Travellers' Rest, P.E.I.; the Rev. John Pollock, of Belfast, Ireland, and Rev. J. C. Smith, of Scotland.

A large number of prizes were presented by John Williamson, M.A., Malcolm McCaulay, M.A., Rev. Dr. W. Harvey-Jellie, Dr. D. A. Murray of McGill University, Rev. Dr. I. A. Montgomery, who presented Mr. C. Ritchie Bell for the Morin College Scholarship of One Hundred Dollars, and Rev. Dr. Robert J. Dryslade, of Rochester N.Y., who presented his prize for work in church history in person.

The Registrar of the College presented Messrs. Hugh Jack, B.A., A. W. R. MacKenzie, Alexander Nimmo and C. Ritchie Bell, to the Principal for their Testamaturs in Theology, after which Rev. Dr. MacKenzie vacated the chair for Rev. Dr. J. G. Potter, moderator of the Presbytery of Montreal, who conducted the licensing ceremony of the four graduates.

In commenting upon the session just closed, Dr. MacKenzie, acting-principal, thanked those presented for attending, and in outlining the work of the year, he stated that a total of 52 students had carried on studies under the auspices of the college. Of these, 44 were regular students and eight were extra-mural students. He regretted the absence of the principal and read a message from Dr. Fraser to the Convocation, carrying his greetings to those present.

Prof. W. W. Bryden, D.D., of Knox College, Toronto, in his address to the students, reviewed the benefits to be derived by the pastor of small or rural congregations and outlined his conception of true preaching.

Mr. C. Ritchie Bell, read the Valedictory, saying:

Mr. Acting Principal, Members of Convocation, Fellow Students, Ladies and Gentlemen:

There is no more significant occasion in the entire Calendar of the Student's Year than that in which we are here participating.

At last we have reached the goal set before ourselves some years ago, that of graduating, and we are uncertain whether we are happy or sad. It is a varied emotion. We are happy in that we have attained the scholastic objective which originally called us to the Presbyterian College, and we are sorrowful because we are leaving the place we love so well.

On such an occasion as this it is always customary to say something concerning the characteristics of the class.

Already there are indications of how wide-spread will be our spheres of labour. One of our number will immediately begin his journey to the West, two have accepted "Calls" in Eastern Ontario, and the fourth will labour in the Maritime Provinces. One has the degree of B.A., from Trinity College Dublin, has his degree pending at Bishops University, while two though not thus honored have shown by their work in the Theological classes that their ability is of no mean order. The class of 1929 is a phenomenal one. We do not mean that we are the largest class that ever graduated from these halls, neither are we the smallest; but I remember that last year it was the boast of the Valedictorian that the class he represented was a class of bachelors; not in the sense of possessing college degrees but because none of them belonged to the saintly order of Benedicts. We as a class can see no reason for such proud boasting. Our proud boast is that already one-half of our number belongs to that saintly order, and for the remainder I can only say that they seem quite to agree with a remark made by one of our professors during the session, "Marriage is man's normal condition." I am confident that none of them have taken upon themselves any vow of celibacy.

But we have said enough concerning our class, and must proceed now to other matters.

We as students rejoice in the addition to the Faculty during the year of Reverend Doctor W. Harvey-Jellie, M.A., B.D., Litt. D., as Professor of Old Testament Literature and Exegesis. Doctor Harvey-Jellie's splendid scholastic attainments, his kindly nature and cultured mind are a valued acquisition to the life of this College.

We regret the serious physical collapse which seized our beloved Principal— Dr. D. J. Fraser. To him this College building and all its traditions stand as a memorial to his untiring and loyal efforts in its behalf during the strenuous days of the disruption. Dr. Fraser will ever be associated with this institution, to it he gave of his best. We commend him to the Great Physician, and pray for his complete restoration to health and strength.

To you, Dr. F. Scott McKenzie, our Acting Principal, we feel that some words of congratulation ought specially to be addressed at this time. You have laboured hard during this session. The Chair you fill is a difficult one, its labours alone are arduous, with it you have carried the executive affairs of the College in a manner that has won for you the respect and admiration of all. May you be long spared to labour in the interests of the College of which you are such an honoured graduate, may the years ahead bring success in an ever greater and higher degree to your endeavours. We as a class wish to thank our professors and lecturers for the thoughtfulness, kindness and earnestness with which they have sought to make us worthy of our Alma Mater but especially of the high calling upon which we are now to enter.

We extend to the Board of the College our appreciation for comfortable rooming conditions.

We would also record our deep sense of gratitude for the welcome which Principal Abbott-Smith of the Diocesan Theological College and his Faculty extended to our students in their classes. We appreciate their kindness.

To the pastors and citizens of Montreal, we say farewell. I tender you the thanks of my confreres for the kindness you have manifested and for the interest you have taken in our welfare. Pleasant indeed will be the recollection of the years spent in Montreal. Transfer now we beseech you your kind consideration to the students who will yet be registered here, and may future students continue to appreciate your kindenss as much as we have sensed it.

To our fellow students we say farewell. On your entrance upon College life the night of graduation seemed for you far in the distance, but how quickly the years pass which make up the only too brief period of your preparation. It is not out of place to wish you every success, and let us remind you that if the way seems long and difficult that,—

"We rise by the things that are under feet,
By what we have mastered of good and gain;
By the pride deposed and the passions slain,
And the vanished ills that we hourly meet."

We commend you to these lines, they suggest the true route that leads to real character and accomplishment! it is a hard lesson to learn that achievement comes as the result of overcoming difficulties and failures, but it is the lesson we all must master, if we are to reach our ambitions, our ideals in life. To make a spur out of defeat requires pure grit.

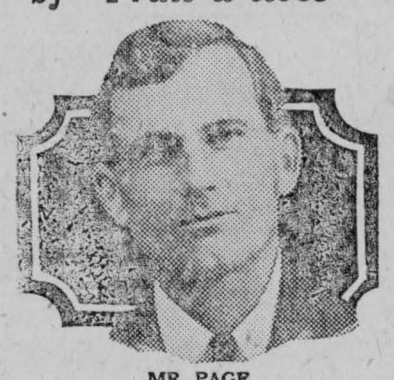

As fellow-graduates we close with mutual farewells. Dr. George B. Stewart has some splendid words: "We have, like Moses, been preparing ourselves for leadership while engaged in humble tasks, ikrsome ones, inspiring ones, apart from the roads by which men trudge their way through the world. We have stood by the flaming bush. We have heard the call to go down where men with bent backs, humid brows, broken spirits, are toiling at their daily servile tasks. They need our leadership, they need the salvation we can bring. We must exchange the mountain top with its outlook, for the river bottom, its clay pits and brick kilns, its grubbing sordid life. Thither we are to go steadfast, majestic, greatly enduring, careless of happiness or content, destined to rebuff, to unstinted and unrequited labour through the days of our Service and in the end lie down in some unkown and unmarked sepulchre, having had at the best only a glimpse of the Land of Promise from some Nebo. The Adventure of Service begun at a Flaming Bush on a Mount of Vision."

Jean Ingelow says, "No man is worthy to serve in any great cause who does not after he has given everything else to it, as if that were not enough, ungrudingly fling himself into it." Whatever else we may miss of the goods or the delights of life, whatever we may encounter of contrary winds and boisterous waves and perils of the deep, we will have gained the inner harmony of a soul that lived and wrought in the domain of the "Unenforceable," the realm where we glady imposed upon ourselves the inescapable law of service.

Helen Hunt Jackson builds one of her poems around the coronation of a king. Everything is ready in the palace for the brilliant function when through the open gates a beggar strays. He wanders through all the magnificence till at last he comes to the throne-room where the King sits upon his throne with his crown upon his head. The crown is heavy, the sovereign is over burdened, dejected. The beggar comes face to face with the king and the latter casts aside his crown, forsakes his throne. Together sovereign and beggar depart from the palace in search for the ultimate sovereign of men. the King of Kings. From this crowning day of our preparation we start afresh on the pathway of Service. We go with those who need us. The road lies all undiscovered before us. Its perils, its delights, its tasks, its rewards, will come with all the newness of revelations. It is a journey of Adventure that challenges our courage, fires our imagination, fills our soul with high hopes and noble purposes. The end of the journey is another great Coronation Day. Greater than this. Our life of Service begins with the Crown of completed formal preparation and ends with the Crown of Service finished in the earth. Classmates, endure unto the end and He who has preceded us in this Adventure and now sits on the Throne, will place upon our brow the Crown of Life and take us up to sit with him in his throne. The earthly Adventure ended and its triumph complete!

ONE BOX ENDED HIS SUFFERINGS

Serious Bowel Condition Relieved by "Fruit-a-tives"

MR. PAGE

Mr. James Page of Cabano, P.Q., was in a very dangerous condition. The Constipation from which he had suffered for five years was undermining his whole system. It was not only ruining his digestion and poisoning his blood, but had also brought on painful piles. Various treatments failed to help him until he tried "Fruit-a-tives," made of intensified fruit juices combined with scientific medicinal ingredients. "One box of this wonderful medicine," he writes, "gave me complete relief. 'Fruit-a-tives' gives results as nothing else does, and I sincerely recommend it to every sufferer." Mrs. Herbert Servage Spruce Grove

The death occurred on Monday, April 1st, of Mrs. Ethel Blanche Servage, wife of Mr. Herbert Servage. Mrs. Servage, who was twenty-one years of age, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barkley, of Dunbar, and had resided in this community from childhood. In 1928 she was united in marriage to Mr. Herbert Servage. Since then, Mr. and Mrs. Servage have resided at the home of the former's parents. An infant was born to Mr. and Mrs. Servage on Friday, March 29th, but in a few moments the child was called into eternal life. The mother followed her infant daughter into eternal rest on Monday, April 1st. The funeral service was held on Wednesday, April 23rd, at St. Luke's Lutheran church, of which the deceased was a member. Rev. Mr. Cronmiller chose as his text the tenth to the twelfth verses of "The Song of Solomon"—"Rise up, my love, my fair one, and come away. For, lo, the winter is past, the rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth, the time of the singing of birds is come." The funeral service was largley attended, the deceased having won a host of friends by her pleasant disposition. Interment was made at Maple Ridge cemetery. Besides her husband and parents, the deceased is survived by four sisters and two brothers: Mrs. Walter Whitteker, Mrs. Stanley Casselman, of Williamsburg; Mrs. Sydney Morris, of Chesterville; Mrs. Sam Price, Gallingertown; Grant and Lloyd Barkley, Dunbar.

Floral tributes were—Husband, a Wreath; Mother and Father, Pillow; Sisters and Brothers, Spray; Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Whitteker, Gouverneur, Wreath; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Morris, Wreath.

Ethel's gone, oh, how we miss her,
How we miss her, none can feel,
But 'tis God that hath bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.

Young Couple Honored At Morewood

On Monday evening, April 8th, about fifty friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mrs. Wm. Gordon in Morewood, to say farewell to Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McMillan on the eve of their departure for Springwater, Sask. Games and dancing were enjoyed by young and old alike until 11:30 when a dainty lunch was served. After lunch Mr. and Mrs. McMillan were called forward, an address was read and the young couple were presented with a lovely bed spread. Dancing was then resumed until a late hour.

The address:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. McMillan,—

Only a few short months ago we gathered under this same roof to extend to you our best wishes on the occasion of your marriage. To-night on the eve of your departure for your new home we come to bid you farewell.

During your short stay among us, "Gib", you have made many friends and Morewood would be proud to acclaim you as one of its citizens. It is with deep regrets that we say good-bye to you.

Dorothy, you have always been with us and we feel that we are losing a great deal when you depart. You have been a faithful servant to this community and words can only express in a very small degree the loss that we feel.

Words sometimes serve a purpose but, dear friends, as a more lasting remembrance of Morewood we wish you to accept this comforter.

Should you ever decide to return to Morewood, and we hope you will, we will then say "welcome" to you as we are now reluctant to say farewell.

Signed—Weldon Dillabough, John McLeod.

Misconceptions About The North

Cochrane Northland Post—Once more the people in the older parts of Ontario have been fed a lot of misconceptions about this part of Northern Ontario thereby keeping up and fostering the fantastic thought of the "forbidding north." We refer to the reports of the daily press of the bringing down from Moose Factory by airplane of Rev. Geo. Morrow, Anglican clergyman, who met with a serious accident which necessitated his removal to Lady Minto hospital in Cochrane. It is not our intention to undervalue the services rendered by Capt. Maxwell, director of the Ontario Flying service, by taking Dr. Paul to the unfortunate patient in Moose Factory and making the second trip to bring the patient out, but we do object to the wrong impressions conveyed as to the physical conditions of this country which made out this trip as something so extraordinary as to call for expressions like "a daring and hazardous flight over forests and lakes and wastes of snow" or worse still, "he accomplished one of the most spectacular missions in the annals of Canadian aviation" and for sheer epic courage, for heroism inspired by humanity" and so ad nauseum. when the commercial planes who are flying in our neighboring province would consider a trip like that all in the day's work.

When Stocks Fall Down And Go Boom

After every such shaking down in the stock market as we have seen recently, the grave authorities on finance usually assert that the occurrence was salutary, that certain stocks had got too high and that a time for a more conservative view of values to obtain had arrived. In other words, the sharp decline had afforded these solons an opportunity to buy stocks cheap, an opportunity they sometimes disguise in altruistic phrases about coming to the support of the market and so forth. We have nothing to say about this practice. Undoubtedly the time to buy stocks is when they are cheap, and we may be sure that the long-headed speculators and investors would not have bought them if they had not unlimited confidence of lesser speculators to once more hoist them to high levels.

But while this shaking down process may be beneficial to the general financial and industrial needs of the country, the victims of it are many. In a New York newspaper the other day a savings bank published an advertisement in which the following appeared:

"Every day old men, young men, women and girls excitedly rush into the savings banks and draw out the savings of a lifetime. Their stock will be sold out on them if they do not meet their margins. The distress of these depositors is touching, and in most cases they are firm in their statements never to allow themselves to get caught again."

In many cases their statements are unnecessary, for they will never again have a bank balance which will tempt them to speculation. These are the people who pay no attention to the market until a bull movement has received publicity on the front pages of the newspapers. Prices are nearing the top. It is then that the horde of small, uninformed investors rushes into the trap set for it. For the money of this vast army those who manipulate the stocks nave spread their bait. The trap is sprung at the appointed time and disaster overwhelms a multitude. It will not seem immodest, we trust, to point out that there are other more sensible ways in which a man can invest his money.

Does Milk Aid Longevity

Rather an interesting experiment was carried out recently in connection with the feeding of rats with a view of discovering what effect, if any, would result from an increased use of milk. About four hundred rats were chosen, so far as possible of the same heredity, and living under similar conditions, and all of them were fed on an adequate diet of a wheat and milk mixture. But half of the rats received a larger proportion of milk than their fellows, and it was found that these rats lived just ten per cent. longer than the rats which were fed an equal ration, but with less milk in it. The results were so pronounced as to be conclusive so far as they went, and it certainly looks as though the use of milk had received rather a strong testimonial. It would have been interesting at the time of the experiment was carried out if another batch of rats had been fed on a diet from which milk had been excluded to see just what milk means in the life of a rat. It is probable that if we could experiment with men also we should find that an adequate diet of milk, grains, ve,getables and fruits would be found more conducive to health and longevity than a diet of which meats and such foods formed a part. And probably we should be surprised at the difference which would be observed between men who eat at all times sparingly and those who indulge their appetites freely. The simple life, the temperate life, the life where the body is constantly under control, is the life upon which nature seems most to smile.

Opportunity, Not Wealth Poor Boy's Chance

What can a man do if he is poor? Is it not true that poverty shuts the gate of opportuniy against the man who has nothing? Is it not a matter of common observation that no one can hope to accomplish anything unless he has the solid backing of wealth? It may seem so at times, we have only to look around us to see that it is not so. The poor boy is not so greatly handicapped as we have thought. Wealth is often a much greater disadvantage in the struggle of life.

Tycho Brahe made all his discoveries amongst the stars without a telescope. America was discovered by a man who had to beg for the ships and money to make the voyage across the unknown seas. Turner painted his masterpiece for the National Gallery out of broken teacups. What a galaxy of brilliance the poor men of the ages provide! Samuel Johnson knew what bitter draughts men had to drink from the well of poverty. The poets, philosophers, statesmen, generals and merchant princes of the past all tell the same story. And today it is still true. Edison was a poor boy; the hunchback Steinmetz was devoid of wealth and did not care for it; three of our Canadian provincial premiers were once hired men on the farm and that not so long ago. Most of our great preachers are from poor homes, and they knew what poverty means. In fact, it looks rather as though poverty acts rather as a spur than as a drag on youth.

What are you going to do out of your poverty? You can get an education; you can become a leader amonst men, with never a dollar in your pocket; you can write, you can speak, you can live, and do it so well that men will forget that you are poor. Thank God, poverty does not close the door against either brains or goodness. We never ask how much money the saint has amassed; in fact, if he has very much the crowd is apt to discount his goodness very considerably.

And you need not be miserable because you have little of this world's goods. It will not even prevent you from getting the very best wife in the world. It mav sort out the best from the fortune hunters, but it will not prevent the very finest woman you ever knew from sharing your lot. If she refuse because of your poverty, she is not the best. If men realized how little money means in human happiness they would not sell their souls for the tainted dollars which sink them in the mire from which few are able to emerge. If you are poor, don't fret, but dig, and you will find that the man who is willing to work will seldom fail to find both happiness and some degree of prosperity.

One at a Time.

A judge was in the midst of his summing-up when a donkey began to bray outside the court. The judge stopped short. "Oh," said a witty but impudent barrister, "it is only an echo from the yard, my lord." The judge allowed the reflection to pass, but later on the same animal renewed his noise during the time the barrister was addressing the Court. This time the judge smiled, and, turning to the barrister, said, "Please speak only one at a time!"

Now, You tell One.

The club bore was in his deadliest mood. For two solid hours he had been boasting of his escapes from death while shooting in the jungle. At last he paused and gazed round the room.

"You fellows have never known experiences like those, have you?" he asked.

To his surprise one man nodded.

"I was once stranded in a forest with a gun and only one bullet," this member said.

"Really?" commented the bore. "And how did you manage to get away with your life?"

The other man smiled.

"While I was wondering whether I should starve or not," he said, "eight ducks flew past. I fired, and the bullet passed through all their heads. In falling the ducks hit the branch of a tree. This came down and caught a moose on the head. In its death throes the moose kicked a rabbit. This came sailing through the air and knocked me into the stream, and I came up with my pockets full of fish."

THE RECORD BREAKING NEW NASH "400"

"400" Standard Six 4-Door Sedan

DELIVERED FULLY EQUIPPED

Ask the Salesman this Question:

EVERY prospective motor car purchaser should ask every salesman he talks to, this question: "What is the price of this car, delivered to me, fully equipped with all the equipment?"

You should also ask what the difference is between the factory (f. o. b.) price and the delivered price—and then ask what that difference buys.

Heretofore it has been customary for factory prices to cover only the bare car. This permits the dealer to sell you your bumpers and the other accessories, at retail prices.

Nash, in introducing the new "400" Series, pioneered a new practice, by installing this extra equipment at the factory, at no extra cost to you.

When you ask the suggested question you'll find most salesmen (not Nash salesmen) reluctant to answer. They would rather not say how much more there is to pay, or what the extra money buys.

And you'll also find that by reason of the Nash policy, Nash "400" delivered, fully-equipped prices are much lower than those of many other cars with the same factory (f. o. b.) prices, and lower than some cars with even lower factory (f. o. b.) prices.

Short Cuts To Wealth Are Full Of Pit-Falls

Most of us are seeking a short cut to wealth. Many of us have chosen the speculative route, often with unfortunate results. When you listen to the stock saleman's claims, remember that heavy risks go with the promises of big dividends. The value of a new company's stock is always doubtful. No one knows whether or not the venture will succeed. If you cannot afford to lose your money, you cannot afford to take chances that are present in most new companies. The "get rich quick," the "special favor," the "hurry-up," the "letting you in on the ground floor" stock salesmen are not anxious to help you or make you rich. All they want is your money. To get it, they make absurd promises like "Guaranteed Dividends," "Stock Repurchased" and "Higher Listings on the Stock Exchange." Let us examine these briefly.

When you are offered preferred stock on which dividends are guaranteed, you do not get an absolute guarantee that you will receive the dividends, because these dividends can be legitimately paid only out of earnings or surplus and it is impossible for a company that cannot operate profitably and accumulate earnings to continue to pay the dividends that are guaranteed. Many people believe that when dividends are guaranteed they are sure to get them. Don't be misled by this phrase.—Reliable stock salesmen will tell you just what it means.

Many uninformed investors are told by stock salesmen that when they want their money, the company will buy back their stock. This is seldom true. A company is not obligated to re-purchase its own stock and cannot be compelled to do so unless by an agreement signed by an officer of the company.—Representatives of reliable investment houses do not make this claim.

The stock exchange is a market place and the prices quoted are the result of supply and demand. No company can guarantee the listing or the listing price of its stock on any reliable stock exchange. Hence people who buy stock from a promoter upon the assurance that it will be listed at a higher price than what they paid for it are usually misinformed. Do not be influenced by such promises.—Reputable salesmen do not make them.

Most of us want to get rich quickly, but short roads to wealth are risky. Remember, "the promise of big dividends is an offering of big risks." If you cannot afford to risk your money, you should put it in a savings bank or a sound investment.

Do not buy stock from a person you do not know. Make sure the stock salesman is telling the truth before giving him your money. A large amount of stock is sold by uninformed salesmen to their friends.—Any bank can give you a list of reiable brokers or investment bankers.

When buying stock, always determine whether you can sell it if you need money. Find out whether there is a ready market and to whom it can be sold. Can you sell it without serious loss? Can you get a loan at your bank upon your stock as collateral? The stock salesman may promise you that you can, but—BEFORE YOU INVEST—INVESTIGATE!

LOOK OUT FOR "SPECIALISTS"

Convinced by two smooth-talking confidence men that he was liable to wake up blind any morning, Robert Lannin, a 70-year-old South Gosfield farmer, paid $500 for an "operation" that consisted of little more than clipping his eyelashes and rubbing the eyes with water, he told police today.

The $500 represented a good proportion of his life savings, he said. They had wanted $600 but after some argument, had dropped the price $100. He gave them a cheque at about 11:50 o'clock last Monday morning, he stated; at 12:10 o'clock the cheque was cashed, police learned.

According to Lannin, the men said that they were eye specialists from a Montreal hospital. They travelled in a sedan bearing an American license marker.

Good Things to Eat

(By Etta Bitta Pye)

TOMATO RAREBIT

2 tablespoons butter
2 teaspoons flour
2 cups strained tomato or tomato soup
¼ cup grated cheese
1 cup sauerkraut

Melt butter, add flour and when brown add tomato. Stir until mixture boils, add seasonings. Put over hot water. A double boiler is excellent for making all rarebits, for cheese needs a low temperature. Beat in the grated cheese and continue beating until cheese is thoroughly melted. Stir in the sauerkraut and when thoroughly heated pour over triangles of hot toast. This is a good late-supper dish.

RAINY DAY GOODY

Cook salad macaroni in boiling water 15 minutes, drain, rinse, add one minced onion, season and pack in ring form aroung large platter. Heat one can salmon, pour into centre of macaroni ring. Place thereon one slice bacon. Add flour to grease in pan, make thick gravy with water or milk and pour over top.

FRUIT SALAD IN ORANGE CUPS

3 oranges
2 slices pineapple
12 marshmallows
1-3 cup nut meats
2-3 cup white grapes

Cut oranges in two; remove pulp carefully; then pull out all membrane, leaving orange cups. Cut pineapple, marshmallows and nuts in small pieces; skin and seed the grapes and mix all with orange pulp. Fill orange cups, cover with cream mayonnaise and garnish with grapes and nuts. Serve on lettuce.

HONEY CORN FLAKE MUFFINS

1½ cups corn flakes
1½ cups graham flour
2 cups white flour
2 cups milk
¼ cup honey
5 teaspoonsful baking powder

ARKANSAS HAM

Ham in thin slices
3 tablespoons vinegar
1½ teaspoons sugar
Paprika
1½ teapsoons mustard

Cook thin slices of ham in hot frying pan until slightly browned. Remove to hot platter. To the fat in the pan add the vinegar, sugar, paprika and mustard, well mixed. When mixture is thoroughly heated, pour over ham and serve at once. Ham cut about an inch thick is sometimes preferred to the thin slices.

CALIFORNIA MOCK DUCK

1½ pounds flank steak
1½ cups soft crumbs
1 cup chopped prunes
1 egg
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon lemon juice
Small pieces of suet

Why Many Women Hate Men

Harper's Bazaar

If men knew what women think of them human males would crumple. There might be a ratal epidemic among them. For when you slay a man's vanity you have dealt him a deadly blow. His vanity is as necessary to him as oxygen.

Women hate men because they are unmanly. A full browed, wistful eyed young woman tossed the observation across a luncheon table, "Isn't it strange how much more manly women are than men? I mean it. More women than men possess the characteristics that we have bracketed as manly. More women than men are brave, have physical endurance, can march on smilingly when their feet and hearts are bruised—faithful, and move grimly on, without complaint, to the solution of a problem that seems baffling. I don't know any men who are really manly."

Women dislike men because they are illogical. Women have been called the illogical part of hunmankind but is was man who hurled the adjective. Men profess to love the good woman but they patiently love the bad one. They shout their preference for the girl who is modestly clad, but they dance oftenest with the girl who most nearly approaches the nude. They compose blank verse about the mellow light of the fireside and seek the mellowed emotions that may be secured at cabarets. They agree with their country's enormous economy, in the home, but buy the best of whatever they wish, from cigars to automobiles.

She may observe silently, she may look on mutely, but every woman sees men as children strutting as adults. She is growing tired of her work of centuries, of stilling his sobs, of healing his bruises, of salving his wounded self-love and of sending him forth, renewed, to acquire more wounded vanity and punctures of the ego. With a curl of the lips distinctly unflattering, she impatiently makes ready the next bandages for his blows. Like an actress who has played one character overlong she is afraid she will "dry up" in a long speech some day. She fears that she will sprinkle some salt of truth into his wounds. Every woman is infinitely tired of sharing a man's sorrows.

A woman cannot love the average man if she knows him. Wily old Mother Nature, who often behaves more like a stepmother than a mother, tries to create illusion. She throws dazzle dust into our eyes, then destroys it. To be the man whom women fondly imagine all men to be, he must be brave and strong and loyal and kind and in all things adequate. Which unhappily Miss Everywoman must discover Mr. Everyman is not. And great is her unhappiness at the discovery.

Lady Astor said, at a banquet:

"They call us the weaker sex. But men are the weaker sex and every woman knows why." The American woman in the English Parliament hinted at woman's chief reason for woman's hatred for men. His extreme susceptibility. Extreme emotional instability, in the presence of any woman from 16 to 60, is the major fault that most women find in men and stirs in them primitive hatred and modern scorn.

Men haters are legion. Women haters, at least frank ones, are rare. Perhaps one of them will ventilate his opinions as freely as I have ventilated mine.

I believe that the average man in love is a picture of dullness and absurdity. A woman in love, on the other hand, I believe shines at her brightest. Jealousy I consider to be love's most corrosive influence.

I believe the most robust loves thrive upon difficulty. I further believe too much sentimentality to be fatal in the end to any love. I regard, in all affairs of the heart, sympathy more essential than cleverness; companionship more vital than beauty. Love built upon deception is a sorry business for all concerned. I do not agree with the notion that the physical side of life is of relatively small importance.

I consider no love greater than the lovers concerned. I do not think any love can endure without nourishment on the part of both parties. I think it is far easier to fall out of than to fall in love. I regard Time as life's most effective love balm. I maintain that every love encounter should contain a touch of surprise. I look upon love as the most wonderful and most terrible thing on earth.—Charles G. Shaw in Harper's Bazaar.

Keeping on the Main Job

It is said that occasionally when a baseball team is up against an extra good pitcher, whose delivery it cannot solve, he is allowed to hit a home run in the hope that he will be so exhausted after his effort that when next he comes into the pitcher's box he will be hit all over the lot. The pitcher's business is not to hit home runs, but to pitch, and even if he hits two or three home runs his team may be badly beaten if he goes up in the air when in the pitcher's box.

No man can afford to forget his main business, and no success in any number of minor things can atone for failure in what is his chief business. The professor may make a good politician, but his election to the seat in the city council will not mean much to him if he forgets his students. And the preacher may be side-tracked into too many committees, and he may make a most excellent chairman, but if it affects his sermon prejudicially he is making a big mistake. Not unwisely did Philip of Macedon address his son, Alexander, when he heard him play the flute and deprecated it, declaring that he ought to be ashamed of his proficiency in it, as it showed all too plainly that he had not spent sufficient time on what was his chief business—the governing of men.

Success may be but a prophecy of failure. The winning of one thing may mean the loss of a greater thing. When a man is hunting deer he will not allow his dog to trail a fox, for he may get the fox and lose the deer. So in business one may win an argument and lose a customer. Which is our main task? This is what we had better concentrate on, and forget the others; or at least keep them in their proper position. The harmony of life is achieved only by keeping every part in its proper position. The bass must not overpower the treble, and the tenor must not sing so loud as to drown the alto. Well is it for us to settle just what is our main task and allow no smaller pursuits to deflect us from it.

A lawyer recently wrot to a country newspaper asking if there were any editors in Heaven. The editor replied, "There is but one editor in Heaven. How he got there is not positively known. but it is conjectured that he passed himself off as a clergyman. When the dodge was discovered they searched the length and breadth of the realms of felicity for a lawyer to start ejection proceedings. They couldn't find so of course the editor was compelled to remain."

There is a flavour here which entirely satisfies

One we love but could not save.

Oft and oft we sit and think
Of a grave not far away,
Where we laid our darling one
Just one year ago today.

He did not fail to do his best,
His heart was true and tender;
He worked hard for those he loved,
That is something to remember.

Long days, long night, he bore his pain,
To wait for cure, but all in vain,
For God Himself knew what was best;
He took him home and gave him rest.

Inserted by mother, sisters and brothers.
