County Well Represented at Ottawa Fair
Fine Showing Made by Area Livestock Exhibitors

Dundas County was well represented by breeders of all breeds of cattle and other livestock at the Central Canada Exhibition this past week.

In the beef section Harold Lannin, of Winchester, took many of the ribbons with his entries from Lanwin Farm. Competition this year at the Exhibition in the Hereford class was very keen with over 70 animals being shown.

In the sheep department James Reynolds and Son, of Winchester, had their flock of Southdowns in competition and again made an excellent showing for themselves and the County.

In the swine class Morton Stobo, Winchester, was the only exhibitor in the breeding classes from the County and his entries were never too far down in any of the classes. He also had Reserve Junior Champion Boar. In the Counties Competition a pen of six market hogs, selected by Mr Stobo from the herd of Stewart Gunn, Winchester, stood 2nd out of six entries.

In the dairy cattle department the County was, as usual, well represented, having exhibitors in the Ayrshire, Guernsey and Holstein classes.

The entries of S. S. Rose and Sons, Mountain, made very creditable showings having both the Junior and Reserve Junior Champions. In the groups the Rosayre herd was at the top or near the top at all times.

Colin MacGregor and Sons, of Crysler, and Calvin Wagner, Crysler, were two exhibitors from the County, with the MacGreyor herd having the Reserve Grand Champion Female and also taking top honours in many of the other classes.

The Holstein exhibitors from the County were Ford Baker, Inkerman; Basil Dawley, Winchester, and Allison and W. J. Fawcett, of Winchester.

W. J. Fawcett had Junior Champion Female while Basil Dawley and Allison Fawcett took top prize ribbons in the heifer class.

In the County herd the Dundas herd stood 2nd.

AREA GUERNSEY BREEDERS HAVE GOOD SHOWING AT EXHIBITION

Colin MacGregor and Son had Reserve Senior and Reserve Grand Champion Cow with their 5-year-old Glen Haven Paulette at Ottawa Exhibition. They received the Premier Breeder Banner and also won the Clark Dairy Trophy, this being with a female herd of two seniors and two juniors.

Calvin Wagner, with only three animals entered in the Exhibition, topped the 2-year-old in milk class with his heifer, Jimpsie Jean. The heifer was shown by his daughter, Barbara, who was the youngest showman in the ring.

Pose for Record Camera

DARLING TRIPLETS POSE for the Record camera shortly before they left Winchester District Hospital for their home at Grantley. They are the daughters of Mr and Mrs Reg. Darling and were born July 26. The little girls have thrived since birth and now weigh over five pounds apiece. Starting from the left is Roma Ann who weighed four pounds, one and one-half ounces at birth. Kay Ann was the smallest, at three pounds, fourteen ounces and Helen Ann was just half an ounce over four pounds. Mr and Mrs Darling took their daughters home over the past weekend.

Some interesting figures were shown us regarding the incidence of multiple births. Dr Howard Justus, who ushered in the little girls, chalked them up as the first triplets for his records in over 2 000 births. According to a researcher called Greulich triplets actually only occur once in every 7,668.7 births. Quintuplets arrive once in 670,734 births and quints once in 41,000,000.—Record Photo.

Reveler–Smirle

Knox Presbyterian Church, Crysler, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday, August 11, at 2 p.m. when Rev D. L. Gordon officiated at the marriage of Joan Smirle, daughter of Mr and Mrs Jake Smirle, Crysler, to Bert Leslie Reveler, son of Mr and Mrs Thomas Reveler.

Mrs Gerald Gardiner played the wedding music and accompanied the soloists, Misses Patricia and Janice Poapst, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by her twin sister, Joyce, as maid of honour, and Mrs Stanley Boothe and Muriel Smirle as bridesmaids. The bride's attendants wore ankle-length dresses of yellow, turquoise and pink crystalette.

Mr Martin Ballantyne was best man and the ushers were Mr Wilson Smirle and Mr George Reveler.

For her marriage the bride chose a floor-length gown of net over taffeta trimmed with lace and rhinestones and a matching lace jacket with sleeves coming to points over her hands.

She wore a three-quarter length veil held in place by a net coronet trimmed with rhinestones and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride and later Mr and Mrs Reveler left on a motor trip down through the United States, returning via Niagara Falls.

Going away the bride wore a turqouise duster and dress with natural-coloured accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations.

Upon their return they will reside in Ottawa.

Out-of-town guests were from Cornwall, Toronto, Russell, Ottawa, Welland, Chesterville, Marysville, and South Mountain.

Former Educationist Claude H. Robinson Mourned at Camrose

The news of the sudden death of Claude Robinson, prominent Camrose, Alta., citizen and educationist, came as a severe shock to everyone. The family was holidaying at their cottage on Pigeon Lake and while Mr Robinson was known to be in questionable health, he was enjoying life and participating in normal activities around the home. In fact, he was engaged in mixing up paint to apply on the window sash of the summer cottage when he was stricken. Mrs Robinson was with him a moment before and had gone inside the cottage to bring him something he required when upon returning she found him collapsed on the ground. He never regained consciousness. Friends and medical aid quickly arrived o n the scene but he had passed away.

The cause of death was a heart attack.

Claude Hill Robinson was born in Chesterville on October 26, 1891. He attended Chesterville High School, went west in 1909 and graduated from Calgary Normal School in 1910. He obtained his B.A. degree from Queen's University and his M.A. and M.Ed. degrees from the University of Alberta. He taught various schools in Southern Alberta until 1915 when he joined the staff of the Camrose Practice School. In July, 1916, he enlisted and served overseas in World War I with the 50th Battalion and he was discharged in 1919 with the rank of Sergeant. He returned to the Camrose Practice School as Principal after his war service.

In 1928 Mr Robinson was appointed Inspector of Schools for the Lamont Inspectorate and took up residence in Fort Saskatchewan. He returned to Camrose in 1934 as School Inspector for the Camrose Inspectorate and became Superintendent of the Division when it was formed in 1936. His keen interest in education an d his intense desire to give rural children all the advantages of higher education made him an active worker in the promotion of the Divisional School plan and in the organization of centralized schools so that rural children would be able to participate and still live at home. Due to an illness he was forced to retire in 1954.

Mr Robinson was a Past Master of Camrose Lodge, No. 37, A.F. & A.M., a life member of the Calgary Chapter, a member of the Edmonton Preceptory, a life member of the Al Azhar Temple of the Mystic Shrine, and a Past District Deputy Grand Master of District No. 5 of the Grand Lodge of Alberta.

He was a member of the Camrose Branch of the Canadian Legion and at the Vimy Night celebration was presented with his 25 years membership pin.

He leaves to mourn his passing: his wife, Lela; two sons, Hugh John and Robert; two daughters, Joan and Mavis, and Grandma Hart, at home; two sisters, Mrs Pearl Johnston, of Vancouver, and Miss Gladys Robinson, Edmonton; three brothers, William, of Seattle, Mason, of Chesterville, and Birnie, of Morrisburg; a half sister, Mrs Helen Barkley, Elma, Ont.; a half brother, Hubert, of New York City.

Fcneral services were held in Camrose United Church, with the Masons and Legion members parading in a body, while a large number of friends were also present to pay their final respects. Rev Dr C. Ramsay officiated.

Graveside services were conducted by the Camrose Masonic Lodge and the Canadian Legion.

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

From Sea to Sea . . .

This week, down in Quebec Province, "Canada's biggest family party" is being held and the Record Publisher and his family are there.

It first got that name when it was staged in Toronto in 1954 and the label has stuck.

Attending the "party" are close to 500 persons—mostly members and their wives of the world's biggest press association—the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association.

Canada has close to 800 non-metropolitan weekly, twice-weekly and tri-weekly papers and the large majority of them pay dues, ranging from $75 per year, to support their national newspaper association. In Ontario alone there are over 200 weeklies.

It is true that the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association has a few economic objectives and is concerned to some extent with the over $25 million of advertising and printing its members produce each year. But primarily it lives simply for the promotion of Canadianism.

Although its head offices are in Toronto, the Association's annual convention is held each year in a different part of Canada. This year it is Quebec. In 1957 it will be Banff, Alberta; in 1958, Halifax. And to these conventions come the publishers and editors of not only the bigger journals, but the little ones, too—the Fundy Fisherman of Black's Harbour, the Fort Saskatchewan Record, the Altona Red River Valley Echo, the Fort Qu'Appelle Valley Legend, the Osoyoos Times and the Similkameen Spotlight—names as picturesque and as Canadian as Canada itself.

At their conference tables and their after-hour discussions, editors of French, English and foreign language papers, men and women from rugged Newfoundland fishing villages, from Prairie grain lands and from industrial centres in Ontario, each year rediscover the common ties that bind them and their communities into a Canada that is truly one Dominion from sea to sea.

Unsubsidized by government, little heralded in the Massey reports, and seldom probed by sociologists, we wonder if there is any single factor which looms larger in the development of a Canadian culture than the annual get-together of the weekly newspapers of this land. This year's Allouette convention at Murray Bay will be their 37th.

Holiday Safety

Summer's last big holiday—the coming Labour Day weekend—is a time for special attention to safety by everybody, the Hon. James N. Allan, Minister of Highways, states in a special pre-holiday appeal.

"The Labour Day weekend is a very critical period for accidents," Mr Allan points out. "Traffic volume will be exceptionally high over the coming weekend, with the chances of accidents increased accordingly. Hundreds of thousands of people will be on the move, taking advantage of the last long weekend of summer. Then, right after Labour Day, we have more than a million youngsters going back to school and another great need for Public attention to safety."

Highway Department accident records show that:

Over the Labour Day weekend last year, 30 people were killed in 22 fatal accidents. Two occurred when drivers failed to yield the right of way or stop at a "through" highway. Two more occurred when drivers attempted to pass in poor circumstances and five collisions took place when drivers failed to stay on their own side of the road. Four more were the result of excessive speed, inattention or both, when cars "went off the road" and turned over or struck trees or other roadside objects. Three people died in rail crossing collisions. Six pedestrian victims were added to the frightful list. Two of these were tiny children who were permitted to run into the roadway. Two were adults struck in separate accidents on busy highways at night, presumably confident that they could be seen as clearly as they could see the cars' headlights. Two people walking together were struck and killed by a car turning left after dark.

"This coming Labour Day weekend will undoubtedly be one of enormous travel, of long trips and many heavily loaded vehicles. There will proably develop many situations to try a driver's patience and courtesy severely. Nevertheless, I ask all who use the streets and highways of the province to make a full effort to drive with care and consideration. This is the one sure way to safety on the 'common path'."

Animal Noises

Man speaks in many tongues and accents, but his sound-making has nothing on the babel of the animal kingdom.

Beasts, birds, fish and insects fill nature with an amazing medley of noises. Some are so familiar as to go almost unheard. Others are outlandish and rare.

A roster's crowing is a far cry from the melancholy bray of the jackass penguin. A whale surfacing on a still night exhales with an odd whoosh, whereas a lady moose sometimes mistakes a diesel locomotive's air horn for the love bellow of her swain.

Naturalists equipped with modern recording apparatus have turned increasing attention in recent years to the sounds made by the earth's creatures.

Capturing the songs and calls of wild birds was begun by Cornell University in 1930. Since then, led by Dr Arthur A. Allen and Dr Paul Kellogg, Cornell expeditions have roamed most of the United States and across Latin America to record voices of as many species of birds as possible. Amphibians, insects and mammals have been added more recently to the unique Cornell Library of Natural Sounds.

Other scientists have joined the work, discovering among other things the complexity of a song bird's song. A wood thrush, for example, can emit four notes at once, and a blue jay almost a major chord.

From the frontier between land and water, frogs produce a chorus that often approaches the fantastic — peeping, chirping, trilling, barking, braying, booming. Frogs can grunt like pigs, quack like ducks or sound like small boys beating on tin pans.

Bats, which are flying mammals, not only emit sounds extending far beyond the range of human hearing, but also navigate by them as if by radar.

Fish, seemingly the most silent creatures swim through the earth's waters with submarine sounds. Some fish cackle, others yowl, moan, whistle, bleat or buzz. Still others sound to research microphones like coal sliding down a tin chute or heavy chains being dragged over a wooden floor.

Taken as a whole, insects outdo all other forms of life in volume of sounds produced. The katydid, the cricket, the mosquito and the bumblebee are loud enough individually, but consider the uproar of all their voices together.

By recording mosquitoes and amplifying the buzzing half a million times, two Cornell Medical College scientists drew mosquitoes from miles around to electrified traps. They found that different species of mosquitoes have different calls, and a given type can emit several kinds of noises.

For all their vocalization, insects have no real voices. They produce sound by rubbing rasp-like wings together, or clicking parts of their hard body armour. Nevertheless, a cricket—in relation to its size — is a noisy creature indeed.

Canadians consumed 288 eggs per person in 1955.

Light Along The Way

"The Lord God took the man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it" (Ge. 2 : 15). These words, which are recorded in the first book of the Bible, suggest the universal nature of work. There are few people who like to do nothing, and if there were many our way of life would have been drastically changed, for none of us could get too far without the contribution which others are able to make through their labour.

Work is a blessing. Man is created in the image of God. He carries with him not only the ability, but the desire to create. He is happiest when he can put his hand to some toil that he likes and through which he can so express himself that in the end he truly feels that what he has done he alone could do. The wonder of craftsmanship has ever been a delight to admire, and we stand in awe of him who is able to bring into being something that only years of experience make possible.

The great problem is that our way of life depends upon the labour expended by countless multitudes that gives no opportunity for such creative talent. Modern methods of production do not depend upon craftsmanship so much as on the demanding machine. Day after day, week after week and year after year, men spend their lives doing little but following a routine of deadly monotony. Each is only concerned with one small phase of the total product, and has responsibility for but one operation. The sense of having created something is lost in the sum of all the operations necessary to produce the finished article. How unimportant the individual appears to be, and yet it is only upon the work of each individual that the end can be reached.

There is one thing to remember even in the bleakness of a monotonous routine. It is suggested in the words of Genesis already quot-

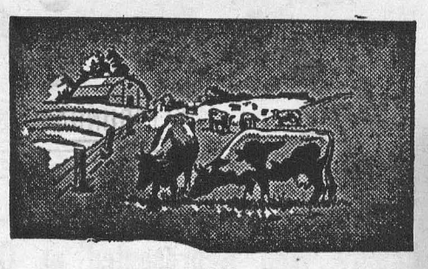
FRENDLEE FARM CHATS



By Lillian Allison

I spent quite an enjoyable half hour yesterday reading an article in a current magazine on the good, old days of radio. When I realized how much fun I was having out of reminiscing I knew I must be getting old for that is a sure sign of old age. However, names like Major Bowes, Ed Wyn, Kate Smith, Rudy Valle certainly remind me of some of my first experiences with radio. Iwas a teenager at the time and the depression had struck so hard we had to think twice before buying an all-day sucker.

I was living with my aunt and uncle on King Street when I first enjoyed the pleasures of dial twisting. One night my uncle came home and announced that he had got a second-hand, mantel radio on a "deal". In a day or two it was duly installed on a little table in the corner of the kitchen. It was a small, arch-shaped machine with enough volume to entertain the crowd at the Post Office. But let me assure you no 1956 family with a $500 TV could get half as thrilled and delighted as we were with that magic box that cost, perhaps, $15. With it we had the world of entertainment at our fingertips.

It wasn't long either before we had the daily schedules drawn up. At noon we listened to Prescott. There a disc jockey played request numbers for people who wrote in. Often we knew fans whose names were read on the air and that was a real thrill. But Prescott got into a rut and played "Hold That Tiger" so many times we all reached the screaming point and turned elsewhere.

At suppertime we tuned in on "Jack Armstrong, the All-American Boy." That was a serial story and night after night we listened bug-eyed as Jack caught the burglars, put out the fire, saved the drowning child, rescued his pals from the jaws of destruction and so on. At 6.45 Amos and Andy came on the air. Now anyone who didn't listen religiously to Amos and Andy during the thirties was suspected of having bats in his belfry. They ran a serial drama too—if you could call it drama. Mostly it was sheer nonsense. They certainly did their share, though, during those dark years to make a man forget that he hadn't enough money to pay the next Hydro bill.

At seven Lowell Thomas came on with the news. He could say more in fifteen minutes than any woman I've ever heard. Perhaps he was afraid the news would get stale before he finished it. Anyway if one couldn't quote Lowell Thomas on world affairs one was really out of it.

Three times a week we listened to Asher and Little Jimmy. A father and five-year-old son team, they strummed a guitar and sang old tunes and hymns and urged us to send to Nashville for their latest song book. They certainly knew how to sell song books. I have four or five of them yet.

From WSM, Nashville, every Saturday night we listened to the National Barn Dance. We listened on into the night too. I didn't care much for the fiddling but when Lulubelle and Skyland Scottie came on I practically crawled into the speaker. I could have listened to them all day.

Fortunately I realized why my aunt and uncle didn't care for popular music and jazz singers. They were too old. (Somewhere between 35 and 40). But I loved it. When they were away or asleep I'd get my ear glued to the radio and listen for hours to Bing Crosby, Kate Smith, Al Jolson, Wayne King, Guy Lombardo as they played and sang "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain," "The Waltz You Saved for Me," "Moon Over Miami," "Shuffle off to Buffalo," and so on. Even "Who's Afraid of the Big, Bad Wolf?"

The faithful wondered then where the world was headed. Attendance began to drop at the Sunday night church services as

FRINGES

THE COST of an hour's work in business includes some money that the employee does not get immediately.

In addition to the hourly wage, there is money the employer must set aside for vacations with pay, for statutory holidays and for unemployment insurance; in the case of many companies there is also the money required for hospital and medical care, for pensions and other "fringes".

Many people, including those self-employed, must themselves save for their holidays and their future needs and desires. On the other hand, people who work in some large enterprises for salaries or wages apparently prefer to have their employer set aside for them money for such purposes.

Fringe benefits are savings for the benefit of the employees and a substantial expense for the employers. They are part of the cost of an hour's work which must be recovered from customers in selling prices.

Moving Into New Town 2 To Be Speeded Up
Modern Village Emerging from Farmers' Fields

Moving into Hydro's New Town No. 2 should be completed by January 1, 1957, rehabilitation engineer Peter Hess said last week.

At the moment there are 32 houses in the town that have been moved from Mille Roches and many more in various stages of construction by private contractors.

Altogether, the town will house some 1,500 people from Mille Roches and Moulinette and surrounding areas. The operation is moving smoothly at present with one house mover in Mille Roches, one in the new town and the house float carrying the buildings in between on special roads.

The huge trailer float with its burdens can cross the countryside at speeds up to 12 miles per hour, though it usually moves at about half this rate. Two or three houses are moved each day.

The town has the appearance of a booming suburb to a big city. Construction vehicles rush by on all sides, fire hydrants stand beside the streets they will serve. Buildings are moving in or under construction all over the land that was fields a few months ago.

Peter Hess indicated that the commission wants to complete the moving operation from Mille Roches and Moulinette by December 31 in order to avoid the problems that hinder the movers in the cold of the winter.

Special heating arrangements have to be made, pipes freeze and cold weather hazards set in. If the moving is finished by the end of December of this year the commission will have avoided the worst part of the winter.

Roads, water and sewer mains and other auxiliary services are all complete now and the main work is concentrated on the houses. Power men are connecting the houses to the lines as fast as they arrive and the telephone company has a truck in the town constantly.

Street signs are beginning to appear at intervals, announcing Bethune Avenue and Kent Crescent and other names chosen for the curving roadways of the growing village.

All in all, the town is a busy and growing community that looks as if it may be one of the most modern and well equipped in Eastern Canada. A new school will open soon and will contain a kindergarten as well as all the usual public school grades. A United Church and a Catholic Church will soon push their steeples above its horizon.

A diamond, although the hardest substance known, is brittle and can chip if dropped.

Exchange Student From Britain Visits Dundas County

Miss Wendy Spurgeon, 19-year-old exchange student from Norfolk County, England, left for home on the liner Ascania from Montreal a few days ago, after touring Ontario, including Doundas County, the guest of the Junior Farmer's Association.

Arriving on June 4 with three other members of the English delegation, Miss Spurgeon and her three friends have been touring Ontario, while four Ontario Junior Farmers have been doing much the same thing in the British Isles.

During the last two months she has visited Toronto and the stockyards with the mechanical auctioneers, which she found fascinating; the Niagara district, which she described as beautiful; McDonald Hall at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and the counties of Waterloo, Huron, North Simcoe, Algonquin Park and a short visit with friends in Ohio State.

On her return to Ontario, she visited Prince Edward County before coming to the dairy county, Dundas. In this district she was the guest of Mr and Mrs Harry Holmes, Winchester Springs, and Mr and Mrs Wm. McRoberts and Mr and Mrs Byron Dawson, Winchester. While here she took time out to visit Ottawa and its many attractions. She said: "It is difficult to compare Canada and England, because of the vastness and age difference between the two. Of course, there is no place like home, but I certainly think Canada is a wonderful country and I am having the time of my life out here." She concluded by saying "everyone is so kind and hospitable in Canada that I cannot speak too highly of Canadians. I will take back many happy memories of a great country."

Miss Spurgeon lives at The White House, Aldborough, Norwick, Norfolk, England, on a 150-acre farm where wheat, barley and sugar beets are the main crops. The Spurgeon farm has a large herd of beef cattle, many pigs, chickens, Jersey cows and riding horses. The latter being Wendy's pet hobby. She does considerable show jumping and is a member of the British Show Jumping Association.

Her home is near Sandringham Estate, the Royal family's country home.

Stewart D. Anderson Laid to Rest

Funeral service was held at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Winchester, for Stewart Duncan Anderson, well known and highly respected Winchester resident who died suddenly at Winchester Memorial Hospital of a heart attack.

Mr Anderson was born 64 years ago near Winchester, only son of the late Robert James Anderson and his wife, Christena Cameron. He spent his entire life in the district working as a clerk in the grocery business and for a time at the Ault Creamery and for the past year at Melvin Motors.

He was a keen sportsman, and was for years a member of the Winchester Citizen's Band.

Besides his wife, the former Lottie Merkley of Chesterville, whom he married 31 years ago, he leaves to mourn his loss three sons and one daughter, Mac, of Iroquois; Robert, of Winchester; Jack, with the RCAF at Rockcliffe; Betty, of Toronto; two grandchildren, Linda and Steven Anderson. Four sisters also survive, Miss Clare Anderson, Winchester; Mrs John Bush (Tena), Finch; Mrs W. J. Plant (Jean), South Woodslee, and Mrs Dan McCarthy (Kathleen), Ottawa.

The funeral service was conducted by the Rev Wm. Sutherland with burial in Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Harold Levere, Sheldon Robinson, Wm. Hutt, Jake Empey, George Elliott and Wm. McKercher.

GLASS AIRCRAFT ON THE WAY

Plane designers are counting heavily on fibrous glass to enable planes to break through the heat barrier, the speed range in which plane surfaces are subject to temperatures exceeding 500 degrees, a glass company engineer says.

I. N. Smith, development engineer for a glass company, told a metals conference that the military is experimenting with a porous-skinned fibrous glass fighter plane as a means of air-cooling the skin of the plane at a very high temperature.

Already, he says, military planes are using glass for wing sections and tail pieces.

FIRES MOTORCYCLE ON TIGHTROPE

A 25-year-old German acrobat repaired a motorcycle which coughed into silence and stopped while balanced on a tightrope 130 feet from the ground.

Alphonse Traber-Show was demonstrating his aerial skill when his motorcycle slithered to a halt in a cloud of smoke during an open-air acrobatics display at St. Nazaire, France, the other day.

Women screamed and music blaring from the loudspeakers was switched off but Traber-Show deftly caught a bag of tools thrown to him, changed the spark plugs and completed his journey to the tumultous cheers of the crowd.

BILINGUAL PERSONS AND BILINGUAL DREAMS

Some bilingual persons dream in French, some in English and some in both languages, investigations made by Dr Wallace E. Lambert, assistant professor of psychology at McGill University, show.

Dr Lambert began his experiments at the University of North Carolina and has continued them at McGill, where for the last two years he and Dr Jaroslav Havelka have been testing college students on the psychological aspects of bilingualism.

Dreamers have given McGill psychological researchers new clues to learning languages. If a person has learned a language through translation rather than absorbing both language and culture of the country, he is more likely to dream in his mother tongue.

Experiments have shown that if a person likes the racial group whose language he wants to learn, he will learn quicker than if he just wants a second language for economic reasons.

The two types of bilingual folk —those who think in two languages and those who think in one language and translate into the other —are equally fluent, researchers have found.

A lady was entertaining her friend's small son. At dinner, while watching his struggles, she said: "Are you sure you can cut your meat?"

"Sure," said the boy, "we often have it as tough as this at home."

FARMER REBELS

Farmer Walter Carroll, Pensacola, Florida, has gone to jail for contempt rather than sign a crop acreage report for the United States Department of Agriculture.

Carroll, 44, told federal officials he didn't think it was any of the government's business how much he planted. He ignored a summons to show cause why he should not be held in contempt, and was arrested after a scuffle with federal marshals.

"But what if it's a paying well?" she was asked.

"That's different, then I can afford to drill another water well," she said.

On the Bookshelf

A woman once said: "Too many of us have $1,000 kitchens and only $10 libraries."

If your home library is rather meagre and you live within the municipality of the Village of Chesterville why not drop in to the Public Library?

If you like historical novels of absorbing quality you will enjoy reading "Mary of Carisbrooke" by Margaret Campbell Barnes.

In 1648, escaping from the iron-fisted forces of Parliament then ruling in Westminster, to the comparative safety offered by Newport and Carisbrooke Castle in the Isle of Wight, King Charles I was to become virtually a prisoner in his own castle. Documents prove that Mary really lived and, although only 17 years old, she risked her life in efforts to aid the monarch who was destined to be beheaded.

When Charles II returned to the throne he, with that quality of the Stuarts which was so worthwhile in that when in success they remembered those who helped them in adversity, Mary was appointed Royal Laundress.

Margaret Campbell Barnes in her several books seems to make the passionate Plantagenets, the haughty Tudors and the gay and yet so tragic Stuarts as real as the people you greet each day. Living as she does on the Isle of Wight, she also acquaints you with a lovely island (which Queen Victoria also loved) and the charming people who live there.

Spy Stories

"The World's Best Spy Stories, Fact and Fiction," selected by Kurt Singer, should while away many an hour.

Fiercely democratic and hating both Hitler and Stalin, Mr Singer with his family sought the safety of refuge in the United States, when the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission utilized his reports on atomic espionage.

He tells you the history of spying is as old as mankind when, in Egypt in the time of Ramses, men were sewn into flour sacks and sent into enemy territory. There are nine spy stories in the Bible and spy messages tattooed on a slave's head started the revolution against Darius of Persia.

He quotes Napoleon who said "One spy in the right place is worth 20,000 men in the field." Shakespeare said "Look like the innocent flower, but be like the serpent under't."

This book by top-notch writers will hold your interest.

"A Dog for Davie's Hill"

"A Dog for Davie's Hill" was written by Clare Bice.

Young Davie Mathieson shared his lunch with old Billy Bayne and his little dog Fly and as a result, was late for school. However, Davie's kindness was to bring him Fly to keep and train into a prize-winning sheep dog.

Written for youngsters 8-12 years, this story of sheepherding should fascinate readers of all ages, as the loneliness of the sheiling and Scottish Highlands, the magic of history and the companionship of a boy and dog exercise their grip upon the imagination.

Mr Bice has illustratel his book with 28 beautiful wash drawings full of humour and action.—S.C.

House Moving Plans Win Approval At Morrisburg

"Approval in principal" was given a Hyro plan for the allocation of 92 homes to the new sub division at Morrisburg at a meeting between village council and hydro officials last week.

Placing of different types of houses was also on the meeting's agenda, and Hydro agreed with council that group s of various sizes of houses should be placed together, so as to preserve uniformity throughout the new streets.

Herb Jackson, Hydro rehabilitation engineer, said the property committee was in a position to approach people whose houses will be moved and those wishing to build. Approval of the plan by council was necessary.

D. Craig, Hydro architect, explained the plan, showing size and location of lots. A survey showed a total of 92 houses to be moved —49 two-storey, 33 1½-storey and 10 one-storey. One hundred and ninty-eight lots would be serviced and people in town would have first choice of these. The plan was flexible, and the size of lots could, if necessary, be increased. According to the plan, larger types of houses would be kept together as far as possible, and the same for smaller ones. Orders of houses to be moved and those wishing to build would have preference over Hydro houses moved.

First discussion over the selection of lots would be with present owners and Hydro. In case of two or more wishing to move onto the same lot, council as a whole, acting as a committee, would assist in reaching a satisfactory agreement.

Some discussion arose that the sub division might not be large enough to care for all. In answer to this, it was stated that in other places where it was necessary to add, this had been done, and the same would apply in Morrisburg.

APPLES

GREEN APPLE SAUCE, green apple pie! Mouth-watering, aren't they? At this time of year I always think apples make the very best desserts, and the simplest ways of preparing them are very often the tastiest.

Apple Sauce

We used to have arguments at school about the quickest and best way to make apple sauce. The question was always whether to peel or not to peel the apples. I always have favoured not peeling as being the best, both from the standpoint of speed and fiavour.

Wash apples, remove stem and blossom end; cut in quarters or eighths, depending upon size of apples. Place in sauce pan with enough water to prevent burning. Cover tightly and cook quickly till apples are mushy. Pour into a sieve and rub plup through with a wooden spoon. Add sugar to sweeten. If you are not sure of the amount of sugar to use, add a little at a time till you have it sweet enough. Don't forget that the cold sauce will taste sweeter than the hot.

Baked Apples

8 medium sized apples
½ cup sugar
Boiling water

Wipe and core apples. Arrange in a baking dish. Pour in boiling water to a depth of ¾ inch. Add sugar; bake in a moderate oven until tender. It is best to test them with a fork to be sure they are cooked through. Baste two or three times during the cooking.

For variety fill the centres with seeded raisins or dates.

Apple Crisp

6 apples
2 tbsps. sugar (white)
1-3 cup butter
½ cup flour
2-3 cup brown sugar
¼ cup water

Wash apples; pare; slice into a buttered baking dish. Sprinkle with 2 tbsps. sugar. Cream butter; add flour and brown sugar; cream thoroughly together. Spread over apples. Pour in water. Bake about 30 minutes in moderate oven. Serve hot or cold with cream or hard sauce and Canadian cheese.

Be sure to make plenty as your family will want seconds.

Deep Apple Pie

Green apples
½ cup sugar
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. cinnamon
Dash of salt
2 tbsps. butter

Pare apples and slice into a buttered baking dish. Mix sugar, nutmeg, cinnamon and salt. Sprinkle over apples. Dot with butter. Add ¼ cup boiling water. Cover with rich pastry. Bake in hot oven 45 minutes. Serve with nippy cheese.

* * * *

Serve apple sauce with roast pork, sausages and spare ribs.

* * * *

Use some of your green apple sauce to make apple-gingerbread shortcake. Serve with whipped cream.

* * * *

For a hurry-up dessert, if you have a baked crust on hand, spoon sweetened apple sauce onto baked crust and top with whipped cream.

* * * *

The next time you bake a ham use applesauce as a glaze.

BARKING DOGS TAKE PLACE OF RADAR FOR OLD STEAMBOAT

The only steamboat known to navigate by barking dogs is celebrating its 100th birthday this year. And it is still giving pleasure to thousands of vacationers on picturesque Lake Mjoesa, the largest in Norway.

The steamboat Skibladner has hauled an estimated 1,600,000 passengers up and down the lake in the summers since 1856. She has carried on in rain or shine or fog.

And of fog there is plenty. This led to the development of dog-bark navigation. Explained one old ship hand.

"We navigate after the barking of the dogs on the farms. But once we almost ran ashore this way.

"The good old reliable dogs were barking as usual, and we adjusted course to their well-known pitches.

"At the last moment we understood that something was wrong. One dog was visiting another farm." Despite such narrow escapes the old Skibladner has picturesquely and safely steamed along at 14 miles an hour through the years. She is known affectionately as "The White Swan of Mjosea" and has a reputation for comfort and careful travel.

The menu is famed for its salmon and strawberries, but Capt. Einc Haugland is reported to be so fed up with this diet that he insists on eating ashore.

There is a railway line covering the same distance for those in a hurry. The Skibladner is strictly for those who enjoy living in the old style.

ELECTRONIC WAND MAY SAVE LIVES

An electronic life-saver that could give artificial respiration to drowning victims has been perfected.

A glass wand applied to the solar plexus shoots in tiny electrical pulses that move the diaphragm immediately, steadily, at any desired rate to control breathing.

Portable units, working from batteries, are planned for beaches and ambulances.

It is claimed that the electronic wand can move air in and out of the lungs in greater volume than by the old-fashioned manual methods.

people began to stay home to listen to Eddie Cantor present his hour long show. He was just as popular in his day as Ed Sullivan is now.

The hey-day of radio continued for quite a while. There were some top-flight programmes in the early forties too. Fibber and Molly, Bergen and Charlie McCarthy, Harriet and Ozzie, Henry Aldrich, Billie Burk, Bob Hope, Fred Allen and dozens of others kept us in gales of laughter during shows that were so funny we wouldnt' miss them for anything.

Then the best entertainers drifted into TV and we wondered if anyone ever listened to radio anyway. But strange as it seems more radios were sold last year than ever before. Although the good, old days of radio are gone it seems folks still listen to it for news, relaxation and information and I haven't a doubt that we shall continue to do so for many, many years to come.

LIGHT ALONG THE WAY—

ed. "The Lord God took the man . . ." The greatness of Jewish faith lay in the universal recognition of the presence of God. To the Jew God was present in all the situations of life. Often as not He was blamed for them too, even unfairly! As this belief helped the Jew so it has helped all who have accepted it. When it is possible to see beyond the little job we have to do, and to remember that honest toil, well and truly done, brings the Father's blessing, it is possible to accept the weariness that life brings and by doing one's best believe what Paul said: "All things work for good, to them that love God."
