Boy Saves Four Lives.

Herbert Yates, the little 16-year-old son or Mr. and Mrs. H. Yates of Cornwall, has certainly earned the Royal Humane Society medal for saving life at the peril of his own.

Severat families camping at the foot of Sheek's Island decided on a picnic on Barnhardt's Island. Before returning home young Yates and four little boys, aged from 8 to thirteen years, were in a boat. They started across the little river which runs through from the Long Sault Rapids between the islands. The rowlock of the boat broke just as they were in the swiftest water and the boat upset and drifted away. Mrs. E. Derosie, Mrs. F. Newman, and Mrs. Shaver, mother of the little fellows were coming behind in a rowboat with three little girls and witnessed the accident. Young Yates, although only an indifferent swimmer and burdened with his clothing and heavy shoes, managed to bring the whole four to the mothers boat.

One little fellow, Freddie Shaver was almost gone, and did not recover for some time.

Upon returning Hayes was nowhere to be seen, and a diligent search has failed to find him.

The Senior Epworth League.

In the absence of the president, Miss McGee, the second vice-president, Miss Moad, had the programme Monday evening in charge. Excellent papers on the topic "Life Lessons for Me from the Book of Romans," were given by Mr. W. Boxell and Mrs. Fred Forward. Mrs. W. G. Bolster added to the program a solo, after which the roll call and consecration service was held. In spite of many members being out of town for the holiday, the attendance was fair.

Winchester Fair A Success.

The fair held at Winchester on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week proved to be a very successful event. The weather, although cool, was very pleasant, and yesterday saw the largest crowd that ever attended the fair. There was something doing all the time and many hundreds of people had to leave before the program was completed. The trials of speed were excptionally good both days and the winners had to drive for their money. Mr. W. J. Laflamme, the energetic secretary-treasurer, was a busy man, and to him every credit is due for the excellent program provided.

Noted Woman Dead.

Mrs. Macdonald, widow of the late Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald, first Premier of Ontario, died at her home on the corner of Second and Sydney streets, Cornwall, shortly before noon Friday. Her maiden name was Christena Waggaman, and she was born at New Orleans La., almost 90 years ago. She marred the late Hon. John Sandfield Macdonald 69 years ago. He died in 1879. She is survived by one son, George Sandfield Macdonald, Montreal, and three daughters—Mrs. Josephine Langlois, of Portneuf, Que., who was with her during her last illness; Mrs. (Col.) Uppleby, and Mrs. (Col.) Pemberton, both of England. The funeral took place on Monday at 9 a. m. to St. Columban's Church, and thence to St. Andrews, where the remains were interred besides those of her late husband.

Fire Engine Has Arrived.

The new steam fire engine has arrived and has been placed in temporary quarters for the present. It was proposed by the council to build new quarters for the engine and its equipment, but as Messrs. W. Hamilton and John Alford are thinking of placing a hall in their new building, that will be better adopted for gatherings, it is now thought advisable to use part of the town hall for the engine and still be able to hold council meetings there; also to lockups, etc.

We certainly want a good pubblic hall, and now is the time to embrace the opportunity.

Rich Gold Finds In B. C.

From Mansin Creek, B. C., comes word of a rich clean up of gold.

In 1904 the Kildone Mining Co., Ltd., composed of Ottawa gentlemen, bought the leases and four years ago started to put the property into shape for mining. A complere hydraulic plant was installed, a competent manager, Mr. H. M. Beach placed in charge, and work commenced.

On July 18th a wire was received in Ottawa from Mr. Beach stating in a few days he had cleaned up over $4,000 in gold. Shortly afterwards another wire came to hand telling of a $3,000 find, and since that time almost daily word is received telling of the almost fabulous richness of the finds made.

The streak struck by the present management is said to be one of the richest that has ever been found in that rich gold bearing district of British Columbia.

William Hawkins, a sixteen-year-old Barnado boy, confessed to setting fire to the barn of his employer, Mr. Fred Hett, on the Prais road near Brantford.

A Narrow Escape.

Mr. Jas. S. Summers had a narrow escape Monday from probably instant death. He was engaged taking off a load of grain at his barn being assisted by Kenneth Baker, when the hay fork carriage struck the stop block knocking it off. The fork then came down followed by the carriage, both falling a distance of twenty-five feet and just passing within about an inch of Mr. Summers' head and face. Duck Hunter Shot Himself Body Found in Boat on Creek in Frontenac—Belleville Sportsman Shot in the Arm.

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 2.—John Scales, aged about 27 years, accidently shot himself dead, about three miles east of Murvale, on Wednesday. He left shortly after dinner for the creek to shoot ducks. When he did not return his wife got a man named Richard Joiner to look for him. In company with Harry Good, Joiner found the body of the hunter.

Scales was lying with his body in the boat and his head in the water, not a length from the shore. He had evidently taken the gun by the muzzle, and pulled it towards him, when it was discharged, the full charge entering the abdomen.

Dr. Lockhart, coroner, decided death accidental, and no inquest was necessary. The deceased leaves a young widow and lwo small children.

Belleville, Ont., Sept.—Bertram Young, a barber, of thls city, was last evening the victim of a painfnl accident. He, with some friends, were duck-shooting down the bay, when a gun was accidentally discharged. Young received the greater portion of the charge in his right arm, which was badly lacerated. The victim was brought to the hospital here for treatment.

It's a pity when sick ones drug the stomach or stimulates the Heart and Kidneys. That is all wrong! A weak Stomach, means weak Stomach nerves, always. And this is also true of the Heart and Kidneys. The weak nerves are instead crying out for help. This explains why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is promptly helping Stomach, Heart and Kidneys ailments. The Restorative reaches out for the actual cause of these ailments—the failing "inside nerves". Anyway test the Restorative 48 hours. It won't cure so soon as that, but you will surely know that help is coming. Sold by W. G. Bolster.

Theft Found Out.

On the 23rd day of May While W. A. Short jeweller, of Iroquois, was attending morning service at the Methodist church his shop was broken into and a tray containing forty gold rings stolen. On Saturday morning Aug. 28th, W. G. Smyth, postmaster here, received a return parcel addressed to James E. Rolland, from Watertown N. Y., and as it is his duty to give parcels coming from the United States to the Customs officer, the parcel was taken to Mr. Bullis's office. Mr. Short, hearing of it, got the Magistrate and identified the coutents of the parcel, which was a number of rings, as his property by his own private mark. Mr. Short then swore out a complaint before Magistrate Collison and put it in the hands of Provincial Detective C. F. Stone, of Prescott, who arrested Rolland on Saturday, Aug. 28th Short then got a search warrant, which he put in the hands of Detective Stone and village constable Locke, to search Rolland's home. In doing so they found thirteen rings two stick pins, one brooch and three webs cloth, which were taken out of Geo. Currie's tailor shop on or about May 1st. Rolland was confined in the village lockup till Monday at 1 p. m., when he was brought up for trial. He pleaded guilty to stealing the rings and also the cloth. Detective Stone and Constable Locke succeeded in getting altogether twenty-nine rings and three webs of cloth. After hearing the evidence and the dentification of the goods by Messrs. Short and Currie, Magistrate Collison committed Rolland to Cornwall gaol to stand trial at the next jurisdiction, unless sooner called. Later.—Ernest Rolland was brought up for trial on Thursday and sentenced to 2½ years in Kingston penitentiary.—Iroquois News.

A Dundas County Story.

(Toronto Saturday Night).

Down in Dundas County, the constituency which Premier Whitney represents in the Legislature, there resided until quite recently a merchant commonly known as "Pat." His store was situated in a village back from the St. Lawrence several miles, and it was a real country trading post where neighbors gathered o' nights to talk "hoss" and "crops" and swap stories.

Now Pat, a typical son of Erin, had lived many years in the vicinity, and was respected alike for his honesty and wit. He was known by every person for miles around, even as far as Limerick and Connaught (two Irish settlements farther north in the country.)

One day when business was rather quiet and no one was about but a small guard of loafers, a lady entered the store and thus addressed the merchant:

"I say, Pat, I am having a deal of trouble with the paint you sold me the other day."

"And how can that be?" inquired Pat, his interest very much aroused.

"Well, it's like this: the paint will not stick to the floor as it should, while everything which falls on it from above sticks hard and fast."

Pat's face was a study, but his native wit did not fail him.

"That paint," he replied. "is highly recommended. Sure all the neighbors for miles around speak well of it. But in your case there must be something wrong. Why, you tell me the paint will not stick to the floor?

"No it will not."

"And it will stick to everything else which falls on it from above?"

"Yes."

"Sure then, there is only one thing can be wrong. You have no doubt opened the wrong end of the can and put the paint on upside down."

Surely the person spoken of must be Pat Devaney—.Ed.

Regularity of the system can only be secured by maintaining strong healthy circulation. If feeble, run-down, nervous, be sure that circulation is poor. The natural result is congestion that exacts so severe a penalty. Besides being a food former and nerve tonic, Ferrozone adds additional vigor to the heart and ensures strong blood circulation. This is the only means of preventing congestions that cause pain, headache and nerve werkness. The whole system is renewed and fortified, with strength vigor and endurance. Mysterious Fires.

Barns Burned at Lunenburg and Black River.

A serious fire occurred on the premises of Mr. Herman McGinnis, Lunenburg, Friday morning. Shortly after the milking of the cows had been commenced at 6 o'clock, Mr. McGinnis noticed smoke coming from the north-east part of the barn. Upon investigation it was found that the barn was on fire and before assistance could be obtained the flames had made such headway that a heavy loss resulted. The neighbors speedily responded to the alarm, and succeeded in saving the house and implement shed. The wind was fortunately in a favorable direction, or both would probably have been destroyed. The cattle were all out before the fire reached their part of the barn. In addition to the barn, part of the implements, all the hay and two loads of grain were burned. The loss is estimated at between $3,000 and $4,000; insurance $1,000 on building and $400 on contents, in the Grenville Patron Mutual.

It is only a couple of months since a similar fire occurred at Lunenburg. Mr. John N. F. Shaver's barn and implement sheds having been burned down on the night of Monday, July 6th, the cause of the fire being a mystery. The loss on that occasion was $5,000, with insurance of $1,000.

CHARLES M. HAYS

President of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

One of the railroad men of the times who has mastered all the intricacies of railway work in his thirty-two years of continuous service, is Charles Melville Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, and second vice-president and general manager of the Grand Trunk Railway. Born in 1856 at Rock Island, Ill., at the age of seventeen he began to learn the a-b-c of railroading, as clerk in the passenger department of the Atlantic and Pacific road at St. Louis. Then, after a year of this schooling had proved his fitness, he was promoted to the auditor's department and later to the general superintendent's office. From 1878-86 he was secretary to the general manager of two big roads, then general manager, later attaining the dignity of general manager of the Wabash system and in 1894 was elected vice-president.

In the two latter positions Mr. Hays represented his company as director on the boards of the various companies in which his road was interested. In January, 1895, through the efforts of Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, he was made general manager of the Grand Trunk at $25,000 a year with a five years' contract. The road was in a debilitated state of health; it needed heroic treatment—strong tonics quickly and properly administered, and deft surgery work in the way of cutting expenses and amputating useless members of the staff.

Mr. Hays made it clear that, as he was to be responsible for results, he must be free to select his own means to produce them. He was not to be a puppet nor a figure-head. He must have the support of the Board of Directors in carrying out what he decided the road needed. As the Grand Trunk had to meet American competition, it must win its way by recognizing and applying American methods. The English scheme of operating did not fit the situation; the road needed a brisk, vigorous, clean-cut business system, with the moss of tradition all removed. Mr. Hays prescribed this and he saw that the medicine was administered.

Old bridges that should long before have been put on the retired list were taken down, and modern steel bridges substituted; the road was double-tracked; primitive back-number rules and regulations were quietly eclipsed by introducing the Standard Rules in force in the States; the road-beds were brought up to concert pitch; the rolling stock made the latest and best; slow trains were displaced by fast-flyers; the road was transformed from a snailway to a railway; and trained men took the places of the old men whose one merit was influence at the home office.

In 1901 Mr. Hays retired to accept the presidency of the Southern Pacific; but the position proving distasteful, he was again secured for the Grand Trunk and is now busy with this road and his new project—the Grand Trunk Pacific R.R.

MANY USES FOR MAGNESIA.

Keeps Gowns, Shoes, Laces and Linens Daintily White All Summer.

The girl who likes to be always dainty, always fresh, and who likewise is devoted to the wearing of spotlessly white garments, often sighs when she gazes at her once immaculate shoes, her collar of filmy lace, which after one or at the most two wearings is showing specks of grime and is no longer the dainty thing which she would desire, she sighs again at the size of the bill which the laundress presents at the end of the week and almost forswears her beloved white garments.

But with a cake of magnesia on her dressing table no girl need give up the wearing of white, for it will eradicate many a darkened spot on belt, parasol, shoe or gown, leaving it almost as fresh as new. Magnesia may be purchased in powder or in lumps. The latter way is preferable, as it is so easily used. Just rub the cake on to the soiled spot with a generous hand, fold the garment, if you are cleaning a gown or waist, and lay away for a day or two, shake thoroughly before wearing and the beautiful white color will be restored.

When your white shoes are slightly soiled rub them also with the cake of magnesia and set in the sun for an hour or more, then brush well with a stiff, clean brush and you will be delighted with the transformation. If your white linen skirt is just a little soiled just about the hem it is not necessary to send it at once to the laundry. Get the cake of magnesia from the drawer in the dressing table and after first brushing all dust from the skirt rub it vigorously with the magnesia and after an hour or two brush it off with a clean whiskbroom, but be careful always to remove all traces of the magnesia before wearing a garment thus cleaned, otherwise the powder left will go on absorbing dust from the air and the objects with which it comes in contact, leaving a dirtier spot than before.

It is a good plan to put the magnesia on party dresses and other light frocks that have become partly soiled when putting them away, whether they actually need to be cleaned or not. Then when they are taken out and shaken they are as fresh and dainty as when they were new.

Doilies and delicately colored sofa cushions may be freshened in the same manner, and one housekeeper keeps a cake of magnesia in a convenient corner of her china closet and when a soiled spot appears on a tablecloth gives it a treatment of magnesia powder which, while it does not take the place of soap and water, aids in prolonging the usefulness of the tablecloth.

HOT WEATHER HEALTH HINTS.

Cold water dashed on the face and chest each morning gives the same tonic effect as the cold plunge without danger of shock.

Learn to relax if you would be free of lines in your face and cheat old age. Most of us keep ourselves at tension mental and physical.

When the skin becomes overheated, as it too often does in summer, try putting a little baking soda in the water in which you wash.

If relaxing exercises will take the kinks out of your face, relaxation—the kind best suited to your taste—will remove kinks from your soul.

Nothing relieves the sting of mosquito bites or the intense itching of hives like bathing in a weak solution of carbolic acid and water.

Eyebrows should not be neglected. Use a fine brush on them each night, pinch between the fingers into a delicate line and rub in vaseline if thin.

Dandruff arises from different causes, but when it is very much in evidence it is usually a symptom of depleted roots and the scalp needs feeding with grease or tonics.

Do not neglect the value of fruit in improving the complexion. Nothing equals the juice of oranges and lemons to clear up skin and brighten eyes. The latter must be diluted and taken without sugar, a half lemon to a glass of water.

Ready For Use.

As usual, the children were very hungry and were waiting patiently for father to fill the plates and pass them around. Father, however, was busily engaged in conversation and missed little Marion. After every one had begun eating the child grew desperate and interrupted his father:

"Say, papa, I've an awful good appetite today if you'll only give me a chance to use it."—Woman's Home Companion.

Quite a Success.

Wife of the Professor—Charles, here is a telegram—an explosion in your laboratory and the place wrecked. Professor—Thank goodness! Then that experiment was a success, after all.—New York Journal.

Young Folks

THE BREADLESS FOLK.

Baked Loaves Are Unknown In Many Parts of the World.

Baked loaves of bread are practically unknown in many parts of South Austria and Italy, as well as the agricultural districts of Roumania. In the villages of the Obersteirmark, not very many miles from Vienna, bread is seldom seen, the staple food of the people being sterz, a kind of porridge made from ground beechnuts, which is taken at breakfast with fresh or curdled milk, at dinner with broth or fried in lard and with milk again at supper. This sterz is also known as heiden and takes the place of bread not only in Steiermark, but in Carynthia and in many parts of the Tyrol.

In the north of Italy the peasantry live chiefly on polenta, a porridge made of boiled maize. The polenta, however, is not allowed to granulate like Scotch porridge, or like the Austrian sterz, but is boiled into a solid pudding, which is cut up and portioned out with a string. It is eaten cold as often as it is hot and is in every sense the Italian peasant's daily bread. The modren Roumanians are held by many scholars to be descended from a Roman colony—in other words, to be the cousins of the Italians—and, curiously enough, a variation of the polenta, called mamaliga, is the national dish of Roumania.

The mamaliga is like the polenta in that it is made of boiled maize, but it is unlike the latter in one important respect, as the grains are not allowed to settle into a solid mass, but are kept distinct, after the fashion of oatmeal porridge.—Bakers' Weekly.

GAME OF WONDERMENT.

When Played With Skill It Proves Very Mystifying.

It is necessary that only two of the party should have a knowledge of this game and then real "wonderment" is sure to be the result.

The two players agree that a certain word shall be regarded as a signal word. As an illustration, imagine this word to be "and."

One of the players asserts his belief that he is gifted with second sight and states that he is able, through a closed door, to name any article touched by any person in sympathy with him, notwithstanding that the same person may attempt to mystify him by mentioning a lot of other articles. He then chooses his confederate as being one with whom he may be in sympathy and goes outside.

The player in the room then proceeds to call out perhaps as follows: Table, hearthrug, piano, footstool "and" chair, lamp, inkstand. He then places his hand on the back of a chair and asks: "What am I touching now?" The answer will of course be, "Chair," because the signal word "and" came immediately before that article.

If the players are skillful there is no need for the trick to be discovered.

Deceiving the Eye.

"I saw it with my own eyes," you often hear some one exclaim—as if that proved it. But it doesn't always prove it, for it is perfectly easy to deceive the sight. Take a sheet of paper and roll it up into a cornucopia. Then hold the big end to your right eye and hold up one finger near the little end, but an inch or so to the left of it, and by keeping both eyes open you will seem to see right through the finger, the sensation being that there is a hole cut right through it. This is because while the left eye sees the finger the right one is shut off from seeing it by the cornucopia, and thus the combined image is that of a finger with an opening through it.

Garibaldi.

In playing this game it must be remembered that Garibaldi does not care for "e's," therefore no word containing the letter "e" must be used in answering the questions asked.

All the players sit in a circle, and the game begins by one asking his left hand neighbor, "What will you give to Garibaldi?" and the answer must be given before the leader finishes waving his hand slowly three times or a forfeit must be paid. Then the one questioned turns to the one next to him on the left and asks him the same question and so on around the circle. For instance, one would give a gun, one a book, one a sword and belt. This last having an "e" in it, a forfeit must be given.

Weak Kidneys, surely point to weak kidney Nerves. The Kidneys, like the Heart, and the Stomach, find their weakness, not in the organ itself, but in the nerves that control and guide and strengthen them. Dead With Wound in Head.

The bride wore a blue broadcloth gown with hat to match. After the pleasing ceremony the happy couple took the 1.01 train for Syracuse, N. Y., and other places on a honeymoon trip, after which they will take up their residence on the groom's farm at Nash's Creek.—Morrisburg Leader.

Peterborough, Ont. Sept. 3.—When W. J. Allen, of Madoc, pumped out his well last Friday morning, he found three sticks of dynamite, with fuse attached, lying on the bottom. It was plain that it had been placed there recently. There is much mystery as to the reason for it being there.

Shot At Squirrel.

Accidental Discharge of Gun Resulted in Death of Mr. Lorne Aicks.

Peterboro, Ont., Sept. 7.—Lorne Hicks, residing at 30 Park street, was accidentally shot in the left thigh by his brother-in-law, C. B. Chapman, yesterday, while squirrel hunting, three miles from the ctiy. Chapman sighted a squirrel and prepared to shoot at it, when Hicks called out that he saw another one. Chapman lowered his gun and turned slightly towards his companion. In some unaccountable manner which he himself cannot clearly explain. Chapman's gun was discharged, the fine shot enteerd Hick's thigh, severing a large vein. He died several hours afterward from loss of blood.

When the accident occurred Chapman had to run a mile to the nearest farm house, only to find the men away from home. He had to proceed another half mile to a farm where the threshers were at work. Help was given and Hicks, who had remained alone where he fell in the woods, was carried to a farm house. Several hours intervened before a doctor was procured and practically nothing could be done for the young fellow. Hicks was a member of the Young Conservatives Club and of the Park Street Baptist Church.

Four Perished In Lake Ontario.

Watertown, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Henry Hinmon and wife, of Pulaski, both aged about 40 years, their three-year-old daughter, and Alexander Heddon, aged 32, of Toronto, Ont., uncle of Mrs. Hinman, were drowned in South Pond, on Lake Ontario, between twelve and one o'clock yesterday. The party was about 15 rods from the shore in a sailboat when a squall struck them, capsizing the boat and throwing them into the water. Fant Barclay, of Pulaski, and George Heddon, of Toronto, brother of Alexander Heddon, who were also members of the party, after 15 minutes spent in trying to rescue the others, managed to cling to the boat until Frank Tyron, proprietor of the Outlet House came to their rescue. The others in the party sank at once.

Thirty Hours in Lake.

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 3.—Ben Harden, the Black Lake fisherman, whose long life has been a continual performance of thrilling experiences, including having both feet taken off by a train, and being the sole witness of a murder tragedy, is now in a precarious condition as a result of being upset from his skiff. His efforts to save himself resulted in unconsciousness as he neared shore, and thirty hours later he was found among the rushes and weeds, his head above water, and the rest of his body in the lake.

Ottawa Murder Mystery.

Ottawa, September 7.—The Ottawa police are investigating what appears to be a mysterious murder and Archibald Balster and Pierre Brisbois, the two men under suspicion, havd been placed under arrest. On Saturday the two men were seen in company with a neatly dressed young woman whose name was unknown. They went through the grounds of Earnscliffe, down to the shore of the Ottawa river and entered one of a number of boat houses near by. They were followed soon after by a police officer, who knocked at the door and demanded admittance. Brisbois answered the summons and at once attacked the officer. Another policemen came to the rescue and this brought out Balster. When at last the two men were secured it was found the woman had disappeared. Little was thought of this at the time, although the men gave conflicting accounts as to how and when she left the boat house. To-day the river was dragged and the body of the young woman was recovered.

Dominick Spratt, who was shot by Jacb Smith at Lindsay, died from the wound.

Cattle Took Wrong Bridge.

Gananoque, Sept. 4.—As Mr. Dempster, cattle buyer of this section, was driving a number of cattle across the King street bridge, nine head of them bolted across the railroad bridge above the lower dam. Two crossed the bridge in safety; the other seven had their feet caught between the ties, which are set about four inches apart, and fell on track. On being extricated five crossed in safety, the other two had to be drawn across the bridge by means of plank and ropee.

The bridge is some thirty feet high.

The body of Woldrich, the wife-murderer, was found in a well near Stettler, Man.

Making Money On the Farm

IX.—Clover and Alfalfa Growing

By. C. V. GREGORY,
Author of "Home Course In Modern Agriculture"

Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association

THERE is no crop grown on the farm which is more necessary or more profitable, all things considered, than some legume. Such a crop is profitable from the standpoint of the returns from an acre and doubly profitable when the fertility of the soil is considered. On the farm where much stock is kept legumes serve another purpose, that of furnishing cheap protein.

Clover Versus Alfalfa.

Throughout the corn belt clover is the most important legume. In western United States alfalfa is largely grown, while in the south cowpeas, soy beans and vetch are the principal legumes. The legume best adapted to your own locality is the best one to grow, at least until careful experiments have shown that some other is more profitable. In the west, where the soil is loose and dry, alfalfa sends down its long roots to a source of permanent water supply and yields abundant crops. Farther east, where the water table is so near the surface of the ground that the plants have "wet feet" during a considerable portion of the year, it does not do as well. In states east of the Missouri river clover is much more desirable. A small patch of alfalfa may be grown, but it does not fit into the system of farming well enough to be adopted on a large scale. It cannot be sown with the small grain in the spring with any surety of getting a stand. The seed is expensive, and the hay is more difficult to cure than clover.

Alfalfa does not come to its prime for about three years, so that it is not profitable to plow it up the second year, as is done with clover. For this reason it does not work well in the standard rotation of corn, oats and clover that meets with so much favor in the corn belt. It does not fit in with the rest of the work as well as clover either, as the first crop must be cut just when the corn is being laid by. When a good stand of alfalfa has been secured it yields twice as much as clover, but this extra yield is counterbalanced in most instances by its disadvantages.

Getting a Stand of Clover.

The question of getting a stand of clover is a troublesome one on many farms. This is due largely to improper methods. The first point to consider is the soil. Land that has been farmed a number of years is likely to be acid, a condition which makes it ill fitted to grow clover. This acidity can be overcome by adding ground limestone as suggested in article No. 2.

A seed bed in good tilth and free from weed seeds is also an important consideration. Little clover plants are very tender and cannot well compete with weeds or force their way through clods. Land that has been kept reasonably free from weeds the previous season is best for clover. Such land, prepared as for oats as described in article No. 4, makes an ideal seed bed for clover.

Clover seed should be tested for germination before sowing. If it does not germinate very well a larger amount to the acre will have to be sown. The seed should be cleaned carefully with a clover seed grader to remove all weed seeds. If purchased it should be examined very carefully to see that it contains no weed seeds. If much of the seed is badly shriveled it should be discarded entirely. This matter of testing the germinative strength of seed before the regular sowing is made does not receive the attention which its importance demands. It needs no argument to show that it is the part of prudence to make certain that this essential factor in the season's campaign is proved to be capable of fulfilling its requirement. The eye is by no means an infallible judge of grain offered for seed, and a more searching inquiry should be made.

Where clover is sown with timothy about eight pounds of the clover to four of timothy per acre is the proper amount. In a short rotation, however, it is better to leave out the timothy and use ten or twelve pounds of clover. Not all of this seed will grow the first year. The outer coat of a clover seed is very hard, and a considerable proportion of it does not soften enough to sprout the first season. It will come up the next spring and thicken the stand.

Seeding With Small Grain.

On light soils, especially if the spring is dry, the clover may be mixed with the oats directly and covered at the same depth. Where there is much clay in the soil or when the soil is rather wet at time of sowing the chances are that much of the clover seed will fail to come up at all if put in so deep. A better way is to go over the ground with a wheelbarrow seeder after the oats have been disked in and cover the clover seed with the harrow. Most drills have a grass seed attachment which sows the clover broadcast between the rows of small grain. The harrowing which follows drilling will cover the clover seed.

Drilled grain, especially if drilled north and south, is a much better nurse crop than that sown broadcast. The sun gets in between the rows to the little clover plants, and they grow much more rapidly than they do in broadcasted grain. Late grain does not make a satisfactory nurse crop. It stools out too much, and the ground is so dry and hard when it is finally harvested that the spindling clover cannot make much of a growth before winter. A luxuriant fall growth is the best guarantee against winter killing. Early oats or barley make an ideal nurse crop. They do not stool out much and are ripe early in July, thus giving the clover several months in which to grow before it is stopped by freezing weather. The first fall's growth should not be cut or pastured if a crop is wanted the following year. It is needed to hold the snow to protect the tender roots. In the spring the clover field should be examined early to see how it has come through the winter. The stand may need thickening by scattering a little seed over some of the thin spots, or the whole field may possibly be so badly damaged that it will be necessary to plow it up.

Curing Clover Hay.

Clover should be cut as soon as it is in full bloom and before many of the heads have turned brown. If cut earlier it is sappy and hard to cure. If left later it becomes woody. As soon as the cut clover has wilted a little in the swath it should be thrown together into light windrows, preferably with a side delivery rake. Cured in this way the leaves are less liable to become brittle and shake off. Well cured clover leaves are almost as valuable for feed as bran, so care should be taken to save as many of them as possible. As soon as the hay has cured sufficiently in the windrow it should be gathered up with a loader—if one can be had—and put in the barn. Clover has the reputation of being a troublesome crop to harvest, and many farmers are shy of it on that account. It is true that clover growing for profit demands a good deal of intelligence, but that is also the very factor which brings success in all agricultural enterprises. With proper attention to the habit of the plant and with the exercise of a modicum of judgment in its culture and harvesting there is nothing to be feared for the outcome.

Where it is desired to obtain a crop of seed the second crop should be used. The first crop seldom fills well and is always more valuable for hay than for seed. Most thrashing machines have a clover hulling attachment. It should be carefully adjusted so as to get all the seed. A bushel to a bushel and a half of seed per acre is a good yield. The yield of hay is from one to two tons to the acre for the first crop and a little more than half as much for the second crop. Where the fields are fenced the second crop may often be pastured to advantage.

Alsike clover finds a place on land that is too wet for the red variety. It does not yield as well, but it makes better pasture. By loosening up the sod in the low corners of the pasture with the disk and sowing four pounds of alsike to the acre its value may be greatly increased. In seeding a field to red clover it is well to scatter a little alsike in the low spots. It will be sure to grow whether the other does or not.

Handling Alfalfa.

What has been said about alfalfa does not mean that it is not to be grown at all except in the drier regions of the west, but that it is to be introduced into new regions carefully and on a small scale. The surest way to get a stand of alfalfa is to fallow the land during the spring and early summer. About the middle of July a seed bed may be prepared and the alfalfa sown at the rate of twenty to twenty-five pounds to the acre. If the ground is not too dry a stand will usually be secured in this way, since the fallowing will have destroyed most of the weeds. The objection to this plan is that no crop is obtained from the land that year.

A more economical way is to start with a crop of early oats or barley. As soon as this is harvested the land should be disked thoroughly and the alfalfa seed sown. If the ground is so dry and hard that the disk will not take hold it will have to be plowed. The main thing is to get the seed in as quickly as possible. The chances of securing a stand are much improved if a thin dressing of manure is given the land before sowing. After the alfalfa once gets a start it is very hardy and a good yielder, giving four to six tons of hay a year. It should be cut when about one-tenth of the plants are in bloom. The second spring a disk run over the field will split up the crowns and thicken the stand, discouraging the weeds and loosening the soil as well.

MULES FOR FARM WORK.

Why a Breeder Considers Them More Desirable Than Horses.

All mules are good mules if properly treated, says a Tennessee breeder. And there is no necessity that any limitations of climate or latitude be placed upon them. When owned and managed by unprejudiced people on northern farms they are as satisfactory in that section as in Tennessee, Missouri or Texas.

Of course where large implements are used and weight is an important factor in a team small mules will not serve. But on the sugar plantations of the south mules sixteen to eighteen hands are common, and, though they have less weight than the draft breeds of horses of the same height, they draw as big a plow and break as much land in a day as most of the heavy horse teams.

As to the cost of keeping, I am sure that they are at least 25 per cent less expensive. And in the matter of use on southern farms or any others, where careless management may be detrimental, mules are far more desirable than horses.

Of course the efficiency of a team of mules in accomplishing farm work depends on the same factors as in the horse teams—that is, quick movement. The average plow mule may be slower than an average plow horse, but there is no need that it should be so. The training is what determines that in most cases, and from my own experience I should say that it is as easy to have a quick stepping mule team as a horse team. If a cotton or sugar planter buys young mules and leaves their breaking to negro farm hands and along with slow, old horses or mules he will be sure to have a very slow walking team.

I once had a four mule team that hitched to a wagon or two plows did as much work as any team in the vicinity. I required that they were to be well treated, and they were as safe to use, accomplished as much work of any kind as the best horse team and cost a fourth less to feed. And another important point—when I parted with the mules at twelve or thirteen years old they seemed to be really in their prime. It is seldom that horses prove as durable.

Protecting Horses From Flies.

To keep flies from horses take two or three small handfuls of green walnut leaves. Over them pour two or three quarts of soft cold water. Let this stand one night and pour the whole next morning into a kettle. Allow it to boil about fifteen minutes. When cold it will be ready to use. Nothing more is necessary than to saturate a sponge before starting out with the team from the stable and with the liquid go over those parts which are most affected.—Farm Journal.

One Way to Save Work

As every woman knows who has to take care of even one room, dust is the worst work-maker of all, for the housewife. Most people know, too, that floor dust is a vehicle of disease. But it has not been an easy matter heretofore to prevent dust from having its own way with floors, even with the gradual banishment of carpets and the substitution of rugs and hardwood floors; for not every home can afford such floors, even if they were easy to keep clean or new-looking, as they certainly are not. Yet the solution of the dust problem is made easy by Floorglaze. With any of the ten charming shades of this easily-applied and quick-drying floor finish, any woman can have floors which will be easy to keep clean, and far more sanitary than a painted, oiled or waxed floor.

Floorglaze

Even to soft-wood floors Floorglaze gives a beautiful, glossy surface that will show no signs of wear after years of severe service, and that can be quickly washed clean and brilliant with soap and water. The use of Floorglaze is an insurance against dust, and actually against disease as well; it saves a vast amount of tiresome housework; and it is good for outdoor use, on porch and veranda floors and steps. A gallon of this most useful enamel covers 500 square feet. Floorglaze is sold in tins, from a pint to a gallon in size, by most reliable dealers in paints, and is made by Imperial Varnish & Color Co., Limited, of Toronto, who will gladly send you a free booklet worth reading.

"MAN ALONE SHALL WOO."

To This Decree Gertrude Atherton Attributes Woman's Deceit.

I think there is little doubt that this world old statute that the man alone shall woo has more to do with keeping down the mental and moral tone of woman, with cultivating her ignoble talents for deceit and intrigue than any of the other forces which she finds arrayed against her, says Gertrude Atherton in the Delineator for August. It is not the softening influence of the matrimonial and maternal states that works so many miracles, but the abrupt removal of the necessity to practice a demoralizing self control, to appear something that she is not, to still much ugly anger and resentment. I have known many girls, plentifully endowed with good looks and charm, to confess that they have "lain awake nights scheming how to get that man," only in nine cases out of ten to find him later on quite unworth the trouble.

We are all familiar with the selfishness, the slyness, the lack of real frankness, in what might be called the threshold girl—anywhere between seventeen and nineteen. This is nothing worse than the mating instinct driving her blindly until she has learned to play her part with taste and tact. During that period she gropes about in her still childish brain for those qualities that will enable her to hold at least her own in the great game and she is the more befuddled because of that curious tradition that a girl must seem other than she is.

Of course with only this old standard of feminity, and being still fluid and plastic, the poor things more often than not model themselves upon some favorite heroine of romance and are only knocked into shape by those indefatigable partners, life and time. Some of our western girls, it is true, have a disposition to rush at a man with both arms outstretched—one sees it constantly among the second class hordes traveling in Europe. And this I infer is the primitive impulse of almost primitive tribes to get what they want in the shortest time possible. But even these girls, when they are walking more thoughtfully in their twenties, when they are "young ladies," evolve a far finer set of adolescence and cultivate those qualities which when persisted in long enough make them more than a match for any man.

PLANS OF THE SUFFRAGISTS.

Mrs. Belmont Forming a New Society. Ida Husted Harper to Edit Progress.

Details have been announced recently concerning the campaign to be waked from the new headquarters of the National Suffrage association on the seventeenth floor of 505 Fifth avenue, New York.

The association is to occupy five rooms, the largest of which extends across the full width of the building. Opening from it at one side is a small room for mailing purposes and on the other side will be the private office of the president, the Rev. Anna Shaw. The adjoining rooms will be given up exclusively to national press work and editing the paper Progress.

The next two rooms will be occupied by the New York state headquarters. The Fifth avenue front will be divided into two rooms, the largest of which will be used as a library and reception room. The other will be the headquarters of a new society now being formed by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

The headquarters will be in charge of Professor Frances Squires Potter, who has just been elected corresponding secretary of the National Suffrage association.

Mrs. Ida Husted Harper has been made chairman of the national press committee and will edit the paper.

KITCHEN KRINKLES.

If a portion of your turnips are too small to pare boil them first and then rub the skins off with your hands.

The next time you use gasoline to clean any delicate fabric add a little cornmeal. The meal will scour out all the spots.

If food is scorched in the cooking remove the pan from the stove and place it in a larger pan of cold water. Then place a dish towel over the pan. The towel will absorb all the scorched taste from the steam and when placed on the table there will be no taste of the scorching.

If you have never tasted potatoes baked in the following manner then you have never really tasted baked potatoes. Before baking let them stand in a pan of cold water for about an hour, then place them in the oven and bake in the usual manner. The steam so generated will make them cook more rapidly.

Though the average housekeeper apparently isn't aware of the fact that a waste basket in the kitchen is a useful thing the fact remains that it is. Try one under your kitchen table in which to throw all wrappers from parcels and other odds and ends that cannot be placed in the garbage or in the ash pail. It is also a good idea to hang a small bag over the kitchen table and use it as a receptacle for odds and ends of string and cord.

"I suffered from womb disease for seven years, with dreadful pains over the front of the body, over the back and down the legs. I had indigestion and chronic constipation and the constipation was so bad that I went sometimes for ten to fifteen days without any action of the bowels. I was ill in bed for one whole year. At one time I was so low that everyone thought I was going to die, and the last Rites of the Church were administered to me. I was treated by six different doctors without any benefit.

Then I got a sample of "Fruit-a-tives," but I had no faith in them at all, and I would not have taken them only my husband begged so hard for me to try them. As soon as I began to take "Fruit-a-tives" I grew better, the bloating was relieved, the sleeplessness was cured, my stomach acted, and the bowels were moved, but above all the fearful womb pains were made easier.

I have taken eighteen boxes in all and I am now perfectly well again."

That Old Winter Cough

The Cough Syrup You've Taken has Sickened but not Cured You

You'll Never be well Till You Heal the Lungs With "Catarrhozone."

Nothing pulls down strength, makes you wretched, miserable and despondent like a chronic cough. The old-fashioned liquid mxtures slip down the throat, enter the stomach and do little else but ruin digestion.

Catarrhozone is the only breathable cold, catarrh and cough medicine. Instead of taking drowsy drugs, chloral, morphine and opium mixtures, you simply inhale the richest pine balsams, breathe into your lungs the healing, soothing vapor of a scientific remedy that commands the admiration of all good physicians.

The extraordinary efficacy of Catarrhozone is without a parallel. A sneezing cold is cured in ten minutes, a harsh cough is eased in an hour, the most offensive catarrh is thoroughly drawn from the system. In case of asthma and bronchitis the relief and certain cure that comes from the healing balsamic extracts in Catarrhozone is simply wonderful.

"For more than twenty years I suffered with a cough, bronchitis, asthma, and nasal catarrh, writes J. E. Fenwick, of Staunton, P. O. "Every attack I had seemed to grow worse and I could hardly breathe on account of an accumulation of phlegm in the nose and throat. One day I tried Catarrhozone and in ten minminutes was wonderfully relieved. I could breathe freely and naturally through the nose, and blood spitting was stopped—the phlegm was cleared away and my regular breathing restored. No remedy can do more than "Catarrhozone."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00. Smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Masked Burglars

Cause Sensational Scare at Finch, Ont.

Finch, Ont., Sept. 2.—Masked burglars armed and carrying an ordinary farmer's lantern, entered the residence of Mr. Joseph Stewart, a well-to-do farmer of Finch, between one and two o'clock Thursday morning, wakened him from his slumber and demanded his money. To emphasize this demand the burglars fired a shot, which entered the wall just above Mr. Stewart's head. Mrs. Stewart fainted and Mr. Stewart told the burglar that he would find the money in his pants pocket.

Kicking the pants down the stairs the burglar called to his comrade, "Mlke see if the money is there." Assured that it was the burglars withdrew taking with them also Mr. Stewart's fine coon coat. They secured forty-two dollars in cash but had evidently expected more. Mr. Stewart having drawn some hundred and forty cheese money. Of this he had fortunately given his brother a hundred to pay some workmen for labor in clearing bush land for him.

The burglars had a horse which they left on the road probably in charge of a third party, the tracks clearly indicated where the horse had halted and at which point he could not have been tied. Mr. Stewart concludes from the fact that the burglars called him by name that they probably knew he had cheese money and that they carried an ordinary farmer's lantern that they were not professionals but belonged to the neighborhood, probably being transients. Enquiry at adjacent liveries was met by the assurance that none of them had horses out at the hour of the burglary. No arrests have yet been made.

Mother and Baby Both Missing.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 5.—Mrs. James Mosely, aged 40, of Sandwich, and her eight-months-old child have been missing from home for nearly a week, and it is feared the woman, rendered temporarily insane from a recent attack of typhoid fever, has committed suicide by jumping into the river, and has taken the baby with her.

Mosely is employed at the tunnel here and was absent from home the night his wife disappeared. A thorough search of the surrounding country is being made for the woman, and if this should prove abortive, the river will be dragged.

Six Arrests At Ingersoll

Provincial License Inspector, After Trial, had to Draw Pistol to Protect Himself and Detectives.

Ingersoll, Sept. 5—At the instance of Provincial Inspector, Ayerst, eight warrants were issued yesterday charging local men with assault in connection with a disturbance which followed the Police Court cases on Thursday in which John Hayes, of the Normandie Hotel, was fined $100 and costs for selling liquor without a license. Before 5 o'clock five men had been taken into custody, and during the evening another gave himself up. The other thus far evaded the police.

During the progress of the trial it was apparent that there was a bitter feeling on the part of some of the spectators against the detectives. A hostile demonstration occurred at the close of the trial as the provincial inspector and the two detectives were leaving the building. For the space of a few minutes there was a small riot. The detectives were attacked as they were descending the stairway. Several blows were aimed at them and they were forced to defend themselves. For a time they found themselves sandwiched between the attacking forces and after he had received a blow himself. Provincial Inspector Ayerst drew his revolver, at the same time commanding the crowd to "stand back." With the assistance of Chief Chilton, the disturbance quickly quelled and the two detectives were hurried away to the police station. Over an hour later they were given police protection to the Grand Trunk depot, where they boarded the Flyer for the east The Provincial Inspector returned morning, and the warrants were sworn out.

There was much activity around the Police Court last evening, when the six men were bailed out to appear for trial next Thursday afternoon, at 2 o'clock.

Central Canada Fair.

This year's Central Canada Fair in Ottawa, all of next week, will be on a larger scale than has ever been attempted before. Friday and Saturday the 10th and 11th will be preparatory days while the exhibition will open to the public on the morning of the 13th. The new grand stand, with its accomodation for over twelve thousand people, is being rushed, and exhibitors are now engaged in placing their exhibits in the buildings. Space in the main or manufacturers' pavillion as well as in the annex will be fully occupied. There will be a process of manufacture, while all of the varied departments, many of them new, will be fully up to the standard, daily demonstrations will be given in the dairy building along with valuable and instructive lectures on butter making.

The showing of live stock, sheep, swine and poultry will be the most extensive ever shown, judging by the entries that are pouring in.

Horse races, trotting, pacing and running will take place daily before the grand stand, and some of the fastest horses on the grand circuit will be in attendance. A daily parade of live stock and public judging will be other interesting features. Then there will be a dozen vaudeville members introducing acts that are entertaining and amusing, music morning, afternoon and evening by select military bands, a daily flight of the Nassar airship, the latest international craze, and dozens of other attractions including the always amusing midway. At night the great spectacular Siege of Sebastapool will be put on accompanied by a military tatoo, and fireworks of astounding brilliancy. All the railways are quoting cheap rates, and it is expected that there will be a large patronage from this district. The fair will be the biggest and best ever held in Ottawa and well deserves an attendance breaking all records.

Dominick Spratt, a Lindsay lad, was shot and badly wounded by a man who fired at a muskrat in a creek.
