Here and There

by Kay Kay

Some days are better than others but when you have weather like we've been having, up to 79 degrees for the first of October, it makes other small problems seem insignificant.

The grass is still as green as in the summer and theh trees have been slow in turning. Down in the Williamsburg Township Forest, however, there is a change and in a couple of weeks it will be a pleasant Sunday afternoon drive. The autumn colors bring a beauty not seen at other times of the year. Many people also take a day and drive to the Gatineau where the myriad colors also present a distinctive delight. There is something rather calming and yet invigorating when you take a sunny afternoon's walk in the fallen leaves.

All around theh area we keep heairng of bigger and better vegetables, of tomato plants with 40 tomatoes to the plant, of spuds over 3 lbs., of heavy corn crops, and so on. What a country we live in. We have poverty amidst our plenty and somehow there just doesn't seem justice in this. Let's all help to get our "just society" a working reality . . . not just a pipe dream.

Pleasant Valley Couple Forty Years Married

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac McShane, of Pleasant Valley, were pleasantly surprised Saturday evening when their family honoured them on their 40th wedding anniversary.

The celebration was held on September 28th, belated, due to their recent trip to the West Coast and United States.

The couple were honoured dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Norton, Mountain and were surprised on returning home to find brothers and sisters, children and grandchildren gathered in their home.

Mr. Walter McShane read the address and the couple were presented with many lovely gifts.

Following the presentation, both Mr. and Mrs. McShane thanked everyone for coming and for their gifts. All joined in singing "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Mr. Jim McShane, brother of the groom, proposed a toast to the couple.

The couple were married September 5th, 1928 at Williamsburg by Rev. A. M. Russel.

Their attendants were Mrs. Lorraine Hamilton of Ottawa and Mr. Robert C. Merideth (now deceased). The couple have four daughters, Mrs. William Edwards of Brockville (Nellie), Mrs. John Bueley of Iroquois (Joyce), Mrs. Ronald Graham of Iroquois (Clara), Mrs. Carl Link of Ottawa (Helen) and one son Walter of Pleasant Valley.

They are also the proud grand parents of 16 grandchildren.

Relatives were present from Kingston, Brockville, Prescott, Iroquois, Ottawa, Mountain and Dixons Corners.

A dainty lunch was served and all departed wishing the couple many more wedding anniversaries.

RETIRES AFTER 33 YEARS AT CALDWELL

Graham Lindsay retires this week from Caldwell Linen Mills where he has worked for 33 years. Mr. Lindsay, a loom scheduler, was feted by the manufacturing staff last Friday night when Gordon Pulfer presented him with a transistor radio as a parting gift.

COMMUNION SUNDAY

On Sunday, October 6th, throughout the Christian Community, World-Wide Communion Sunday will be observed. Perhaps in no other way is the essential unity of the Christian Faith more widely acclaimed than in the common remembrance of the death of Christ.

In keeping with this worldwide practice the Sacrament of Holy communion will be celebrated in White Church at 9:30 and in Iroquois United Church at 11:00 a.m. next Sunday.

The trophy was won by Mr. and Mrs. W. Kenny, of Brockville with 3 games and 41 points. Mr. and Mrs. Doug Reynolds of the local club also won three games with 41 points but Mr. Kenny had only 24 shots scored against him, while Mr. Reynolds had 26 shots scored against him, which gave the trophy to Mr. Kenney.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds were the second three game winner.

High two-game winners were Mrs. May Ward and H. Henderson of the Elmdale Club, Ottawa, with 46 points, plus 2.

High one-game winners were Mr. and Mrs. George Cooper, of the local club, with 39 points, plus 5.

The regular schedule in the Davis Trophy play is now completed and the semi-final playoff on Thursday evening, October 3rd. The four skips in this play-off are reminded to have their players on hand on both these evenings, as play-off must be completed this week.

Employment Survey At Prescott

In the past two weeks the Prescott Business and Development Commission has received requests from 2 major industries for an employment survey of the area with the prospect of building plants in Prescott or vicinity if the labor market is sufficient.

Mayor D. R. Irvine, chairman of the development commission pointed out that as well as the major firms, Prescott has received inquiries from two smaller firms.

"We have the labor force to supply the smaller firms" he stated "and we hope to attract at least two of them in the near future."

"If there is sufficient labor in the area" he continued" we should also get one of the larger firms as they have narrowed their choice to Prescott and one other municipality outside this area."

"We would like up to 2000 applications from persons in the district seeking full time employment as semi-skilled and unskilled employees in light manufacturing and assembly line work." Employment applications forms are being placed in all chartered banks in the area, as well as in schools.

In addition the Canada Manpower Centre, Prescott, is staying open from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on the evenings of October 10, 11, 17 and 18 to issue and receive job application forms. Suitable applicants will be notified as to an interview date by the one major firm early in November.

"I certainly hope that all persons in the area interested in full time employment will take advantage of this opportunity and send in application forms to us," Mayor Irvine stated.

Seaway High School's First Commencement Attracts Large Attendance

Seaway District High School's first annual commencement brought out an almost capacity attendance and saw, at the same time, the results of hard work and personal endeavours as the graduates came forward to receive acclaim. It was the highlight of the year for all the students of the school and as well, the teaching and administrative staff as they looked back on the past year's achievements in the new school and look forward to the current term with anticipation.

Held in the expansive auditorium of the school last Saturday night, parents from all four corners of the school area attended. Rev. R.V.A. Rogers, St. John's Anglican Church, opened the event with a prayer.

In his welcoming remarks, Board Chairman Dale Beckstead pointed out that this was probably the last large function he would be attending as chairman, with the new regional board taking over January 1st, 1969. He outlined the boundaries set up for election to the new board, including the area of Iroquois, Matilda and Mountain to elect one member to serve all three communities, and one member to be elected to serve Morrisburg, Williamsburg and Finch. Another man or woman will serve for Winchester, Chesterville and Winchester Township. Similar areas are set up throughout the three counties and Cornwall.

Guest speaker Dr. R. E. March Associate Professor of Chemistry at Trent University, was introduced by Lee Madden and thanked by Henry Malon.

The grads were presented with corsages, courtesy Brybar Flowers, Morrisburg, who also provided floral pieces for the tables in the cafeteria .

GUEST PREACHER AT ST. JOHN'S

The Reverend Ralph Smith, formerly Rector of the Mission of Iroquois will return on Sunday to conduct and be the guest preacher at the Services of Harvest Thanksgiving.

It is a coincidence that twice the Rev. Allan Rogers, Rector of the Mission of Iroquois has been successor to Rev. Ralph Smith first in Carleton Heights, Ottawa, and now in Iroquois.

The guest preacher is rector of the Parish of Fitzroy Horbour, where until his more recent appointment to Riverside Park in Ottawa, the Reverend Allan Rogers had been Rector for six years

Both clergy look forward in this Harvest Thanksgiving exchange to the renewal of many old acquaintances.

IROQUOIS PRE-TEENS HOLD SHOW-DATE

Seventeen members of the Iroquois Pre-Teens and adults held a "show-date" outing on Friday evening, September 25th, at the Winchester Theatre. Planned since the summer months, members met at the Knox Church parking-lot, and proceeded to the theatre, with transportation facilities being provided by Mr. and Mrs. C. Bowden, Mr. D. Keck, and the Rev. J. J. Hibbs, leader.

Following a very enjoyable show, the group adjourned to the Country Kitchen on highway 16 for a fellowship and luncheon time. Everybody was back in Iroquois by 11 p.m.

The next meeting of the Pre-Teens will be held in the Knox Church lower-hall, Friday, October 8th, at 7 p.m., at which time there will be an election of new officers, and plans made for the Fall season.

Special thanks to the former executive, and the retiring president, Sally Casselman, for a "job well done", and as they graduate from the Pre-Teen's.

Be Wise, Beware!

"Accident Preventon Programs must stress education", said Mr. R.G.D. Anderson, General Manager of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, speaking in support of the I.A.P.A. province-wide safety campaign being conducted during the month of October.

"Of the 47,119 compensation cases among I.A.P.A. member firms in 1967, the greatest number were caused by falls, by workers being struck by objects, and by over-exertion, usually during manual handling of material.

"This indicates an urgent need for on-the-job training in lifting, in use of protective equipment, such as safety belts and safety shoes, in the correct use of ladders and scaffolds for working at heights and in good housekeeping to remove hazards which cause falls on the level", he said.

"Almost every accident, no matter what the apparent cause, results from an unsafe act, an unsafe condition or a combination of both. Too often there is a tragic lack of knowledge of what causes an unsafe condition.

"Education of management, supervisors and foremen in the newest techniques of accident prevention is an absolute necessity for the prevention of injuries, loss of life and the high costs of accidents to our economy."

Mr. Anderson noted that I.A.P.A. manufacturing membership achieved a 4 per cent reduction in compensable accidents during 1967, and during the first six months of 1968 a further 6 per cent reduction has taken place. This was due in part to the additional assessment by the Workmen's Compensation Board on firms with high accident frequency, and to I.A.P.A. efforts to extend knowledge of accident prevention through the work of its field staff, and by their TV messages, safety courses and literature.

During the October Safety Drive the I.A.P.A. hope to provoke new and continuing interest in safety throughout industry and among the public generally.

The 1968 campaign theme is "Be Wise, Beware, Prevent Accidents".

An Auspicious Beginning

The first annual commencement at Seaway District High School will leave fond memories for the graduating class and for those now in school who attended the event.

The new school, with expanded facilities and courses, offers quite a complete training ground for our young people and as the new board takes over in 1969 these facilities will no doubt be even further expanded.

Starting January 1st a 16-member board will administer all the public and secondary schools in the three United Counties and the City of Cornwall. An election will take place December 2nd this year.

Within a few weeks complete details of the election and the board set-up will be published to give ratepayers some idea of what lies ahead in the education field.

Seaway School will pay a big part in the new education system and the results of the past will be enhanced by further advances in the future. To the grads we extend our best wishes for a full and complete life in their years ahead.

$$ and Good Sense

This column is a regular weekly feature prepared by the Family Financial Counselling Service of the Avco Delta Corporation, P.O. Box 2820, London, Ont. All questions submitted to the above address will be answered, in print or by return mail. Names will not be used in print. However, all questions should be accompanied by a complete name and address.

Dear Sir — When we first got married we decided that we would live on my salary and, for as long as she continued working, put my wife's salary in the bank. We decided we would save it until such time as something came along that we both wanted, and we could use "her" money for that. Now, I want to buy a new car and my wife agrees that we should have one, but she wants to leave what she calls "her" money in the bank and pay for the car out of my income. I don't think that's fair. What do you think?

M. M.

I think the original concept on which you and your wife agreed is correct. If circumstances make it at all possible, income which the ordinary working wife brings home should not be used for everyday living expenses, but should be set aside for that "something" in the future which cannot be handled readily by the husband's income. I am assuming that is the basis of the agreement which you and your wife made at the outset.

It would seem to me, however, that somewhere along the line your wife succumbed to a very serious temptation — that of referring to the income which you bring in as "our money" and that which she brings in as "my money". Now semantically that may be an acceptable way of separating the two incomes, but your wife has come to believe this. She no longer thinks of the arrangement on which the two of you agreed as a way of setting aside part of the collective income for future necessary or desirable purchases.

She actually believes that you are trying to spend "her" money when you should be spending money that belongs to both of you.

Either that or, psychologically, she is trying to punish you by withholding money over which she feels she has an extra degree of control.

I would say there is more to this situation than whether or not you buy a car and how you pay for it. You and your wife must re-examine together your common goals and see if you can't reestablish the spirit of partnership which prevailed when you set up, originally, what I continue to believe is a sound program of family financial management. When you do,

SUGAR AND SPICE

Ian is quite a lad

Young people, however fine their ethical standards, have a knack of getting themselves, and innocent bystanders, into some unholy messes. Herewith a couple of examples.

Our neighbor's boy, Ian, is a good lad. He's clean, honest, polite and law-abiding. He's about as normal a young fellow as you'd meet. Likes girls, plays football and works hard at everything except school.

He and his gang are mad about motors. Motor-bikes and cars occupy much of their waking time. Ian had a Honda, then a Volks, and this summer bought a convertible for $60. It runs.

Last week, his group was out cruising around, looking at used cars. They had no money to buy one. Just looking. And they came across a deal no red-blooded car-lover could resist.

It was a hearse. A huge, black, 1950 Cadillac hearse. It hadn't been stripped down into a vegetable truck or something of the sort. It was a genuine, ready-for-work hearse, complete with purple upholstery and every detail, right down to a crucifix.

Think of the history in that black behemoth's years of service. Think of all the good souls who had their first and last ride in a Cadillac in that long, sombre body.

I don't think the boys pondered much on these things. But they were hooked. They'd have the coolest transportation in town. And a Cadillac.

But what did it. was the price. One hundred dollars. Ian, the only one with any money in the bank, wrote a cheque on the spot. The others were to come in on shares when they raised the money.

I don't blame them. If I'd seen it first, I'd have bought it as a second car for my wife. It would certainly be a conversation piece.

And that's exactly what it turned out to be. When Ian drove up and parked it in the driveway, and his parents found out what he'd done, there was some conversation, all right.

He was told in no uncertain terms that he had made a grave error, that he'd taken on a stiff proposition, and that [illegible]as not a motor-bike, but a hearse of a different color.

But the damage was done. The menacing black hearse had been seen in the driveway. The phone began to ring. The neighbors started taking up a collection for flowers. The Potato Man, who calls regularly with produce, tapped timidly at the back door, hat on his breast, tears in his eyes, and said brokenly, "I didn't know whether I should call today, when you've had a sadness in the family."

Ian was told to get that hearse out of sight. He let one of the other lads take it home. The latter's mother told him not to park it within a block of their house. People chased him away when he tried to park in front of their homes. And so it went the rounds of the boys and their parents.

It is now hidden behind the cottage of one of the families involved, deep in the woods. But the boys, undaunted by ghostly or gruesome associations, are planning some fine parties and fishing trips in it next summer, when the heat is off.

The second incident occurred at our school this week. These days, teachers are trying all sorts of novel methods to make learning come alive. Some work; some don't.

One of our young history teachers had carefully planned a mock trial. He arranged for one of his students (a girl with a beginner's driving license) to "steal" his car, take it to the students' parking lot and try to drive it out of there at noon, which is verboten.

She was to be apprehended in the felony by a "detective", the vice-principal, questioned, then turned over to her classmates for trial.

All went well. She got the car started. The teacher had it pointed in the right direction. Then all hell broke loose. She had trouble with the handbrake or the clutch or something, took a leap forward and staved in the side of the teacher's car on the bumper of another one parked there.

Net results: history teacher has a $100 body repair bill looming; one hysterical teenager felt worse than if she had stolen a car. But it was a good idea.

Look For Aid

The Ontario Farmers' Union has mailed letters to all is locals across Ontario to be ready for action backing up the corn growers' demands and to reenforce their position on effective collective bargaining. Western Canada Farmers' Union organizations are wiring in their support and advising Ottawa of same.

Several hundred farmers in southwestern Ontario, driving their tractors arrived at Woodstock late Friday. Area farmers are joining here to continue Monday to Ottawa.

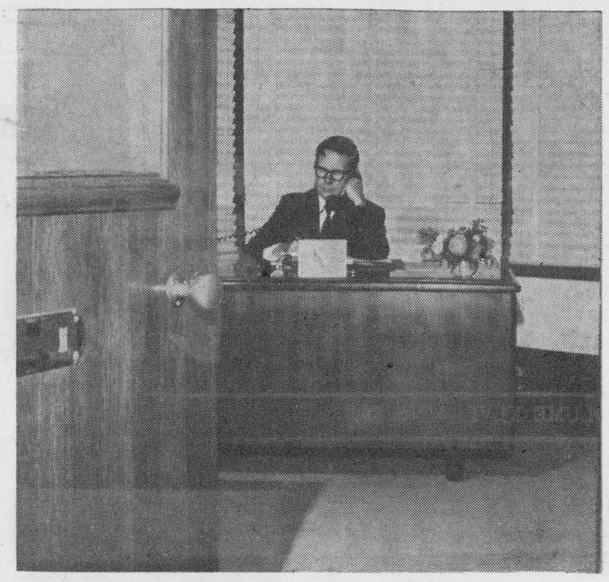

President Miller said, "Corn growers are not asking the government to sell their corn, but want to do it themselves. Because industrial empires are heavily importing cheap corn at present to fight us, we have now demanded an immediate embargo on all corn imports."

Local stock and production is sufficient to meet the domestic requirements till near May, at least. It seems the trade has realized that the Farmers' Union is the official spokesman for the corn growers, which was indicated by the enormous overwhelming support the corn farmers gave the Union last month and assigned millions of bushels of corn to the OFU.

In recent years our governments advised farmers to grow more corn. So they did, and now are facing heavy financial losses if forced to market their corn at this year's indicated price because the government allows cheap priced corn imports. To start in livestock to feed on their crop in an effort to regain the corn growing losses would create detrimental financial situations for other farmers as well.

Mr. Miller said, "Losses on growing a grain crop never are recuperated through other media It is like robbing Peter to pay Paul. The farmers have been provoked into action and are ready to fight for their rights."

I feel certain the matter of how you are going to pay for your car will resolve itself.

GORDON BLAIR, M.P., REPORTS

Canadian Unity

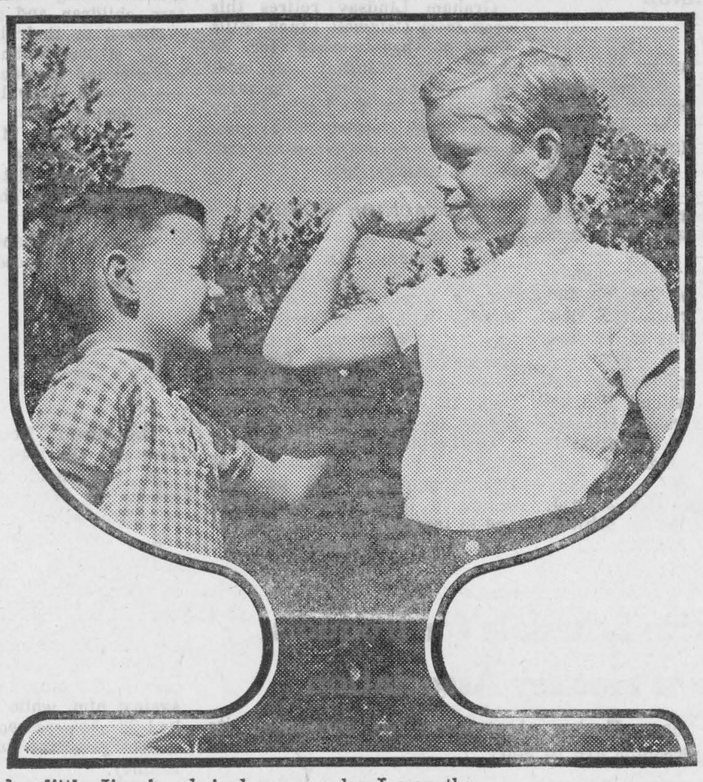

This past week shows that events outside the House of Commons can and do have a great affect on our nation and its future. At the conclusion of the Speech from the Throne debate, the House had started to apply itself to the nation's business. Important committees to revise and reform procedures had been established. Supplementary estimates had been introduced and the first major project of the session was to have been the enactment of a bill to provide for the bilingual publication of statutes —a reform long overdue in the opinion of most lawyers and one which contribute to national good will. The stage set for the important constitutional conferences between federal and provincial governments.

With the sudden death of Daniel Johnson, it appears we are in for another period of rediscovery and re appraisal of Quebec policy. Above everything else Mr. Johnson, in my estimation, was a man who preached politics in a vein of practical realities. His last message to his province and to the rest of Canada struck this very note. He clearly indicated that he would not hesitate severing relations with France if "it had either the goal or the effect of destroying the country". He also took to himself the task of protecting the rights of Quebec's English-speaking minority. Although Mr. Johnson emphasized that everyone educated in the province's secondary schools would be required to have a working knowledge of the French language, the English - speaking minority would retain its rights. Said Mr. Johnson, "We cannot permit rights as important as language to be manipulated by local bodies such as schools." Were these statements a first step in the "do unto others as you would have them do unto you"? We will never know.

Daniel Johnson's sudden and tragic death, at a moment of extreme uncertainty in relations between Quebec and Ottawa, will undoubtedly cast a widening shadow of apprehension about the future. Nevertheless, I am confident — as I have always been — that there is enough good sense and good will in all parts of Canada to maintain the unity of our country.

Changes there will be — some more difficult to accept than others — to protect the rights of English and French-speaking people in all parts of the country. The Canadianism of Daniel Johnson will, we all must hope, live on in his successors and perhaps help the rest of us in the discussions that lie ahead.

THE WORLD'S STRONGEST MAN

The day little Jimmie admired my muscles I was the strongest man in the whole world. And so I remained until the next morning when I got into an argument with that big kid in the next block. Then a humiliating retreat seemed preferable to a bloody nose.

Life hasn't changed much since I've grown up. Sometimes on Sunday I am so confident of my human might that I glibly pass up the spiritual resources my neighbors are finding in church. And by Monday I'm wondering where to turn for help in some insurmountable difficulty.

Experience is forever teaching me that my own self-confidence is mostly self-delusion. The men I admire seem absolutely honest about their own limitations, and absolutely certain about God's strength.

One Sunday as I sat in a pew and watched others receiving Communion this thought struck me: Among those who kneel reverently before an altar today is undoubtedly the world's strongest man.

SCOUT news

The Am-Can Reunion was held in St. Mark's Parish Centre on Saturday, September 28th, 1968 winding up the expedition with a total of 170 persons sitting down to a banquet of roast turkey put on by Don Richards of Prescott. The guests consisted of 30 American leaders and families from Easton, Pennsylvania area, south of the border who took part in this venture, with the remainder from St. Lawence District of scouts, and families along with leaders and their families. Mr. Claire Chamberlain our Tour Director from Winchester was chaiman who welcomed everyone out, and Rev. Peter Wendall a scouter from south of the border said grace. After the dinner Claire Chamberlain had a few choice words, commenting on the fact that if more nations were to practice the act of 'friendship and brotherhood' as we have done across the border on this expedition, the world would be a lot better place to live in. This was followed by comments from Mr. Carl Everett the American Tour Director, and Mr. Allan Yost the American Assistant Tour Director who spoke on the Pearson Fund established in Easton commemorating Scouter Charles Pearson who was fatally stricken with a heart attack when he stepped from the bus upon arriving in Canada at Morrison Island.

Our District Commissioner Mr Howard Countryman said a few words of welcome and presented Mr. Jim Dickson of Winchester a letter of appreciation from Boy Scout Headquarters on the excellent way the fatal incident was handled by the Winchester Scouters and Scouts on behalf of Mrs. Pearson. Mr. Marvin Beach our District Council President gave a few words of welcome commenting on the excellent job done by the Scout Leaders involved in this expedition of friendship and brotherhood with hopes that it would continue to be a regular event of the district. The head table was introduced and then each Scout introduced his parents and family present.

Dr. Larry Gray of Winchester showed some movies taken during theh camp at both Morrison Island and Camp Weygadt in New Jersey, followed by movies shown by Howard Countryman of the Pre-Camp at Cornwall and of the Ontario Jamboree, both the camp leading to the washout at Milton. Henry Heffren showed some coloured slides taken also of the expedition. The banquet was concluded by Rev. Mawhinney giving the closing prayer, and Claire Chamberlain declaring the active file closed for Am-Can 68 and that all crests worn by those who attended could now come down.

I do not feel the file on Am-Can should be closed without thanking the Junior staff for the excellent performance and co-operation they gave throughout the whole expedition including the clean up of the hall after the banquet. Also a vote of thanks to the wives of the scouters who so unselfishly devoted their time to this worthy cause.

When the banquet was over the Scouters and their families retired to Winchester for a social evening at the Winchester Legion.

P.S. All Scouters, Scouts and Venturers are reminded of the Camporee to be held in Limerick Forest on Thanksgiving weekend, October 12, 13 and 14 of October, 1968.

IROQUOIS LEGION 'ROOKIES' DEFEAT 'VETERANS'

Yes, the Veterans of Iroquois Legion Branch 370 dug out their gloves and cleats from the moth balls and made an attempt at making a comeback at Softball Sunday afternoon September 29.

They pulled a few of the old tricks out their supply bag and came out on the short end of the score as they were edged 4-3 by the present addition of the Legion Intermediates.

Lefty Bud Perry pitched the entire seven innings and was the winning pitcher. His "Old" opponet Louie Bailey pitched a fine game and received relieve duty in the sixth inning from Pepper Robertson.

By coincidence "The Vets" scored all their runs in the top of the 3rd inning as Louie Bailey Cliff Warren and Muck Keeler scored the runs.

However the "Rookies" learned a lesson from the old boys and bounced back to take over and hold onto a 4-3 lead in the bottom of the fourth and so went the ball game.

Scoring for the Intermediates were Dale Roberts, Bill Duvall, Ray Lapier and Alex Dusa scored the winning run.

The members of the Old Timers team were Muck Keeler, Freddie Milligan, Eddie Orlicky, Pepper Robertson, Hugh McQuig Ed. Renwick, Clarence Warren, Cliff Warren and Louie Bailey, Paul Claxton, coach—who said they were going to use ringers.

The lineup for the "Rookies" were Dale Roberts, Ed. Merkley, Jim Scott, Bud Perry, Alex Ousa Charlie Waddell, Roy Lapier, Bill Duvall, Tom Wallace, Ed. Sloan, Leo McKee Manager and Leo DeBellefeuille, coach.

P.S. See you next year "Vets" —remember those bones will be another year older.

Anyone wishing to attend the Annual Dance and presentation evening in Cornwall on Ocotber 11th are asked to contact any member of the Legion Fastball Club.

Full Executive Seaway Valley Presbyterial WMS Met At Kemptville Recently

ALEXANDRIA — The full executive of the Seaway Valley Presbyterial United Church Women met in Kemptville recently and through the report of Mrs. Allan Van Allen, Kemptville, learned that $15,892 has been forwarded in the first two quarters to the Unified Budget with $100 for the Conference Expense fund.

Mrs. Dalton Dockstead, Chesterville, finance chairman, reported that a questionnaire prepared by her committee in Morrisburg and sent to the locals met with favorable results. The questionnaire endeavoured to determine the amount each group hoped to give toward the Unified Budget.

Mrs. Clifford Larmour, presbyterial president, opened the sessions with devotions. The meeting was attended by fifteen executive members, three regionals, vice-presidents and fifteen presidents of locals or their representatives.

Mrs. Larmour reported on the General Council held in Kingston and expressed her disappointment in the way in which the United Church Women's report was presented. "The task of the church is a tremendous one, if our efforts are to be more effective we may have to work more closely with the men of the congregation. Financially we are doing well, but are we so busy stressing the budget and financial report, important as it is, that we forget about people." Mrs. Larmour stressed the importance of reading the Church Year Book and said it would make excellent study material.

Regional vice-presidents were announced by Mrs. Wilfred MacNaughton, Williamston, as follows: Region 1, Mrs. Errol Boa, Chute a Blondeau; Region 2, Mrs. L. E. Harris, Cornwall; Region 4, Mrs. A. S. Allen, Cardinal, Region 5, Mrs. Allan Hanna, Jasper. No nomination had been obtained for Region 3.

Amendments noted that Mrs. Kenneth Barton, Sr., Martintown, will act on the finance committee instead of Mrs. R. M. Scott; Mrs. Harold Jones, Morrisburg, on Stewardship and Vocations instead of Mrs. W. Foss; Mrs. Lloyd Poapst, Merrickville, instead of Mrs. Armstrong.

Mrs. Robert Welland, Cardinal, announced a conference on Citizenship Social action will be held in Cornwall, November 14. Mrs. H. W. Giffin, Ingleside, reported on a Montreal meeting where plans were made for extending the work of the Co-operation in Christian and Missionary Education committee.

Mrs. Allan Hanna, Jasper, stated that the Board of Women had suggested teams be arranged to work on Leadership Development, and thus make use of Fall rallies to present it. Mrs. Ambert Brown, Iroquois, said that used clothing is urgently needed at the Toronto depot. Twenty cents per pound for expenses is proposed, but if a group cannot afford this, the parcel should be sent regardless.

The "History of Dundas-Grenville Churches" will be available. Mrs. A. S. Allen is preparing a list of copies required.

The annual executive meeting will be held Tuesday, January Church. All reports should be in 28, 1969 in Chesterville United the hands of secretaries by January 10. The Prescott membership extended an invitation for the annual Presbyterial meeting with a tentative date of February 19, 1969.

A rally in each of the five regions was discussed. Suggested dates for these would be between October 21 and 31.

Interested In Area

stated "and we hope to attract

In the past two weeks the Prescott Business and Industrial Development Commission has received requests from two major industries for an employment survey of the area with the prospect of building plants in Prescott or vicinity if the labor market is sufficient.

Mayor D. R. Irvine, chairman of the development commission pointed out that as well as the two major firms, Prescott has received inquiries from two smaller firms.

"We have the labor force to supply the smaller firms" he at least two or them in the near future."

"If there is sufficient labor in the area" he continued "we should also get one of the larger firms as they have narrowed their choice to Prescott and one other municipality outside this area".

"We would like up to 2000 applications from persons in the district seeking full time employment as semi-skilled and unskilled employees in light manufacturing and assembly line work."

Employment application forms are being placed in all chartered banks in the area, as well as in schools.

In addition the Canada Manpower Centre, Prescott, is staying open from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. on the evenings of October 10, 11, 17 and 18 to issue and receive job application forms.

Suitable applicants will be not ified as to an interview date by the one major firm early in November.

Lands & Forests Report

4-H Forestry Clubs

by Ronald A. Lessard,

Forestry Technician

This year the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests has once again given its forestry leadership and guidance in five 4-H Forestry Clubs in the Kemptville District. Each club consists of 10 to 20 young members from the rural areas of the District. They are given instruction in the general practice of forestry by Department of Lands and Forests personnel.

Before they can learn the management of their forest resources, they are taught the identification of the major forest tree species. The identification of such trees or Dendrology as it is called, is broken down into two parts. They are taught the identification of about 30 species in winter condition using the bud and twig features, and 30 species in summer condition using leaf characteristics.

When they have learned to identify the tree species, management practices in the farm woodlot are illustrated in the meeting hall and in the field. Improvement cuts and selection harvest cuttings are dwelled upon in the management of this secondary farm crop and it is shown how woodlot owners can benefit from proper management.

By combining the improvement cut, that is the removal of trees of poor quality, poor form, and undesirable species to encourage the most desirable individuals to persist vigorously and the selection harvest cut, which is the removal of mature crop trees for a cash return, the woodlot owner can maintain and improve his timber crop.

Throughout Southern Ontario much land unsuitable for agriculture is in the need of reforestation so the setting out of forest trees upon such land is emphasized to the clubs. The clubs are lectured on the proper planting practices and the members carry them out in their field projects. Each member is required to plant 100 trees, many members planting up to 1000 trees.

Whether it be in their woodlot or plantation, protection of the trees is important. Protection from fire, insects, disease, cattle, rodents and the malpractices of man are shown to be requisites of a well managed timber stand.

A balanced combination of inside and outside lectures, slides and films and field trips, enables the Department of Lands and Forests to help the farmers of tomorrow to help themselves in the management of another farm crop.

Retraining Program Opportunities

This is a program of adult education and training offered by the Ontario Department of Education. Retraining centres are situated in almost 50 cities and towns across the province and are administered by the local school boards or are attached to the colleges of applied arts and technology.

The training offered under the program can be divided into 4 categories as follows:

1. Training under the Occupational Training Act (1967).
2. Rehabilitation.
3. Training for fee- paying students.
4. Training in co - operation with industry.

1. The Occupational Training Act

This act of the Federal Government finances the largest portion of the retraining program. Under this act, suitable candidates are selected by Canada Manpower and are referred to training. Candidates must be 17 years of age and must have been out of school 1 year. If accepted by the Centre they are placed on course free of charge. All tuition fees are payed by the Government of Canada. Where students are eligible as a consequence of having been associated with the labour force for at least 3 years, or from having bona fide dependents, they will receive allowances. These allowances depend on the marital status of the trainee and vary from $35.00 per week to $75.00. Up to $21.00 per week extra is paid where a trainee must move more than 15 miles from his home to take training. Usually OTA trainees are drawn from the ranks of the unemployed, but unemployment is not a necessary requisite for application. Ideally, candidates are trained in the trade for which they are most suited and in which there are job opportunities close by.

The various trade courses offered have their own academic prerequisites for entry. If the candidate does not have the necessary education, he can enter an academic upgrading course (called Basic Training for Skill Development). He may have up to 52 weeks Basic Training followed by a skill course. If the desired skill course is not available in his area, the trainee may transfer to any centre in the province which offers the course. Altogether, more than 100 skill courses are offered across the province.

2. Rehabilitation.

The Ontario Department of Social and Family Service, and Workmen's Compensation refer handicapped persons to training. Normally, these people are placed under the Occupational Training Act through Canada Manpower. Where these agencies feel that training would benefit individuals who are not eligible under OTA, they can and do place them directly on course and underwrite the costs.

3. Fee-Paying Students

This is a recent development which is growing rapidly. For the nominal sum of $2.00 per week, a person at least 16 years of age who is not eligible for training in the normal way may pay and take almost any course which is offered. If enough such people apply to warrant it, a course can be offered to meet the needs of the group.

With Industry

4. Training in co-operation

Where an employer desires to upgrade his employees, training can be offered so long as it is not in the area of job skill. Academic courses or related technical subjects can be taught. Usually, the course is taught 50 per cent on the employer's time and 50 per cent on the employee's time with the government paying 100 per cent of the costs.

Agricultural and Rural Development Act

Many candidates for retraining are initially located by ARDA This agency helps decide on the need for training along with Canada Manpower and the training authority. Farmers who are judged potentially successful are placed on Business of Farming courses. People on "marginal" farms are often referred to training on courses which will enable them to leave the farm and earn their livlihood in industry or business.

Counselling

Ontario Manpower Retraining Centres generally have qualified counsellors on their staffs who can offer help to any member of the public needing advice regarding education or training. Their prime function however is to provide a service for the people who pass through the retraining program. Applicants are counselled and tested to ensure that each is placed on a suitable course and trainees receive further counselling and testing throughout the program. Before graduating they also receive advice on job seeking, applying for jobs and budgeting.

Presbytery Members Pledge Day's Pay

The Seaway Valley Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, meeting at Maxville Thursday, September 26th, unanimously pledged themselves to give one day's pay for overseas development and relief as an over and above gift. This concern action followed a presentation on the Mission of the Church given by Rev. Donald Pipe, formerly of Avonmore, now Field Secretary for Montreal-Ottawa Conference Department of Missionary and Maintenance.

In his official capacity as Chairman, Rev. L. M. Ferguson conducted the business of Presbytery, with Rev. J. L. Dean as Secretary. Business included discussion of re-alignment and amalgamation of some of the pastoral charges within the bonds of Presbytery; the appointment of Commission and Committee Members; various reports and correspondence.

Following the dinner served by the choir of Maxville United Church, Worship and a panel discussion presentation of the highlights of General Council was given by Commissioners, Rev. George Clifford, Mrs. C. Larmour, and Mr. Harry Shaver.

Mr. Jens K. Jensen was received as a candidate for the ministry in the United Church of Canada.

When and How To Harvest Corn For Sileage

Several thousand more acres than usual of corn were planted in Eastern Ontario this past spring. A lot of this corn acreage will find its way into silos and will be fed out this winter as silage. A very important question that we should ask ourselves is "When is the best time to harvest corn for silage?"

Several farmers have already filled their silos and are complaining that there is a lot of seepage from these silos. Recent studies at Cornell University in New York State, show that the best time to make silage is when the corn plant is at about 35 per cent dry matter or 65 per cent moisture. This is when the corn kernels are mature and well dented. This makes a more desirable silage than silage made from corn in the milk or soft dough stage because there is more dry matter yield per acre at the 35 per cent dry matter stage. We must remember that the feeding value is in the dry matter, not the moisture. There is a lot less water to be handled when mature corn solage is being put into the silo. Also corn silage made at the 35 per cent dry matter stage will be the easiest silage to preserve.

There is little, if any, advantage in letting the corn mature beyond the 35 per cent dry matter stage because this will result in (a) very little increase in dry matter per acre (b) much greater field loss, in the form of broken stalks and bird damage (c) and also it could result in greater storage losses since it may be a little too dry for proper fermentation.

Cattlemen often express concern about the fact that when corn becomes mature, there appears to be a large quantity of whole corn kernels in the manure of cattle fed this silage. Several researchers both in Canada and the USA have been looking at this problem for the last 5 to 10 years.

In a recent project just completed at Cornell University this past winter, several whole plant corn silages of different lengths of cut were compared These included a theoretical cut of ¼" and also a forage harvester was used with a recutter on it to recut some of the solage even finer. The recut silage had essentially no whole corn kernels left in it. You would expect theh recut silage to give the best results. However, it did not. Both the regular and recut silages resulted in equal milk production when it was fed to dairy cows as the sole forage. Also cows fed finely chopped corn silage tend to produce milk of a lower percent fat.

There was no difference in the digestibility of the two corn silages. One would think that the recut silage would have a higher digestibility, but the recut silage, because it was finely ground passed through the digestive tract of the cows faster than regular cut silage and did not remain in the cow long enough to have anymore nutrients absorbed against recutting corn for silage, ed. Another decisive factor is the horsepower requirements to recut the silage. It requires 3 times as much horsepower to cut a ton of rcut silage compared to cutting a ton of regular silage.

It appears from most of the research work on this problem, that the loss in nutrition value from whole kernel passage when cattle are fed mature corn silage is too small to warrant recutting the entire corn plant, at least from the standpoint of nutritional efficiency.

The main reason that a farmer may want to use a cut as fine as a theoretical cut of ¼" is that the silage will pack in the silo better if it is cut fine.

The best corn silage is usually made from 35 per cent dry matter corn plants that have been chopped by a theoretical cut of ¼" to ½".

FIRST CANADIAN HOLSTEINS IN EAST GERMANY

A shipment of 150 purebred Holstein calves and five service age bulls has just left Canada for East Germany. These are the first Holsteins from Canada ever shipped to this area.

The Holsteins will be maintained on a government farm where their development will be carefully studied in relation to the native cattle. If, as expected, the Canadian Holsteins can substantially improve on the present milk production of the native cattle, more shipments will follow.

East Germany is an area of lush pastures which should provide ideal conditions for the Canadian Holsteins. Present production of the local cattle is approximately 9,000 lbs. of milk per year, testing 4.0 per cent butterfat.

Three technicians representing the East German government selected the calves, secured largely from Southern Ontario breeders. Assisting with the selection and shipping was Rockwood International Livestock Ltd., of Georgetown, Ontario.

Canadian Holsteins have an international reputation as good uddered cattle and this was a factor in the East German decision to buy here. The heifers shipped represented a cross section of the best Canadian bloodlines.

The five bulls are richly bred individuals. One from Glenafton Farms, Alliston, Ont., is a son of the twice-All-Canadian and Royal Winter Fair Grand Champion, Seiling Rockman, from an "Excellent" daughter of another twice All-Canadian and Royal Winter Fair Grand Champion, Rosafe Signet. Another, from Green Valley Farm, Kleinburg, Ont., is a son of the "Excellent" sire, Glenafton Herdmaster from a "Very Good" daughter of the Class Extra sire, Rosafe Citation R. A third, from Carl D. Boynton, Nobleton, Ont., is sired by the "Very Good" bull, Brigeen Chief Flying Cloud and his dam is a "Very Good" granddaughter of the famous Class Extra sire, ABC Reflection Sovereign, with a yearly record of 24,040 lbs. milk testing 3.85 per cent butterfat. The fourth bull, from R. F. Paris, Ont., is a son of the Class Extra sire, Rosafe Shamrock Perseus and his dam is a "Very Good" cow with a yearly record of 24,188 lbs. milk. The fifth bull, from Stuart Hutchins, Paris, Ont., is by a Very Good" sire and from a 21,206 lbs. daughter of Zeldenrust Pontiac Korndyke, the former World Champion lifetime producer with 306,051 lbs. milk and 11,649 lbs. butterfat.
