Paper Drive Saturday November 27 at 9 a.m.

Boy Scouts and Cubs will be calling on the householders of the town next Saturday morning looking for waste paper and rags. They hope to get underway with the collection at 9 a.m.

It helps the collection a great deal if the bundles are well tied into manageable parcels and placed in plain sight of the road or street.

Siren Blowers Pay Up An Expensive Toot

Prospective fire siren sounders received a warning Friday last in Morrisburg police court. Magistrate F. M. Cass handed out fines and jail terms to the guilty young men of Chesterville who engaged in the reckless practice on Hallowe'en night, as a warning to would-be jokesters.

Charged with circulating a false fire alarm, four young men of this village were apprehended. Appearing before the magistrate, one of the charged, Lyle Wade, was dismissed as not guilty. The others were not so fortunate. Paul and Garnet Liscumb and Wilson "Junior" Fyke received three days each in jail and costs of $5.50. Roy Meldrum ponied up $25 and $5.50 for fine and costs.

Magistrate Cass noted the seriousness of the charge to the young men and hoped the lesson learned would serve as a warning to any others who might be tempted to commit the same offense.

Eight Patrol Cars, Fourteen Officers Pursue Gunmen Fugitives' Car Abandoned Near St. Albert

Three young gunmen held up and robbed a former Rockcliffe RCAF officer and his wife in their service station cafe at Wendover Tuesday night and later were pursued by police in a wild 85-mile-an-hour chase down pitch black township roads.

The gunmen apparently stole a car earlier on Tuesday in Winchester and are believed to live in the district.

Held up at gunpoint and robbed of $40 from the till was ex-Flight Lieut. Donald R. Miller, a former radio officer of the RCAF, and his wife, Rose.

After filling the gunmen's 1949 Meteor with gas, Miller was followed into the cafe and was ordered at gunpoint to hand over his money.

"I gave them $40 in bills and luckily they took it without coming round behind the counter and looking for themselves. I had a lot more in the drawer than I gave them," said Miller.

The ringing of the telephone hastened the exit of the gunmen. Miller said they were in their twenties, were shabbily dressed and needed haircuts.

OPP Constable Bernard Polnicky spotted the gunmen's car in Casselman a short time later and alone in his prowler took up the chase.

The gunmen fled over county and dirt roads to make pursuit more difficult.

"We went for seven miles at 80 to 85 miles an hour, then four miles to the south and west again on a narrow dangerous road, still at 70 or 75 m.p.h.

"In the end they ditched the car on purpose about four miles west of St. Albert.

"In the dark I only saw two men get out, so when I reached their car I had a quick look inside it to see if the third man was there. I didn't want to get cornered.

"Then I fired a warning shot in the air. I heard four shots back from them, but none of them hit me or the car."

Constable Polnicky said that in a few minutes police cars began converging on the area and spread a net around the triangle of farm lands between St. Albert, Russell and Morewood. In all, eight patrol cars and 14 officers took part in the hunt. Constable Wm. Hunsburger, of town, was an officer participating in the chase.

She was thanked by the president, Mrs. Graham Wells.

As there will be no December meeting, a committee of Mesdames Wells, O'Shaughnessy and Carkner was asked to look after the shut-ins at Christmas.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Lunch was served.

Chesterville A.F. & A.M. No. 320 Ladies' Night Held Tuesday in Trinity Church Dining Hall

The annual ladies' night banquet under the direction of W.M. Wilburn Robinson, of Chesterville Masonic Lodge No. 320, was held last Tuesday evening in the dining hall of Trinity United Church. A large and enthusiastic turnout was experienced.

Bro. Gordon Thom, of Morrisburg, provided the musical entertainment with two delightful solos. He was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Howard Fetterly.

An Ottawa entertainer, Borts the Magician, and his small troupe provided the main course of entertainment. The sleight of hand and fast patter was well received and proved interesting and mystifying.

Wor. Bro. Hosea Droppo proposed the toast to Her Majesty. After words of welcome by W. Master Wilburn Robinson a community sing song was enjoyed. The toast to the ladies was ably handled by Wor. Bro. H. Fay Shaver and responded to in a gracious manner by Mrs. Willis Darling.

The junior warden's toast, proposed by Bro. Douglas Durant, brought the evening to a close.

Mrs. Tommy Hamilton.

Marcellus Meats Robbed For Fourth Time

A thief or thieves broke into Marcellus Meats Monday night and left with $182. No trace of the criminals has yet been found.

Wm. Marcellus, one of the members of the business, entered the butcher shop on Tuesday morning. The first thing he noticed was a $10 bill caught under the edge of the trapdoor leading down cellar. He recovered it and in the process found a $20 bill on the steps of the stairs. Warned by this time, Marcellus checked the cash register, found it empty except for $7 worth of silver, called his brother Leon to see if he had the cash, and then realized the whole kaboodle had vanished.

Provincial Constable Wm. Hunsburger was called immediately. He took all the necessary steps to recover fingerprints and other evidence but to date nothing concrete has been reported. The burglars gained entrance through a cellar window on the King St. side of the building after being foiled by bars on a rear window. They forced up the cellar trapdoor into the meat shop and emptied the cash register. The cash is practically never left in the register over night, but this was one of the three times it had been in 1954.

Monday's robbery makes the fourth time Marcellus Meats have been entered and robbed, although Monday saw the largest amount lost.

Automobile Recovered Stolen Here Nov. 11

Word was received yesterday by Father Simon Lesage, of St. Mary's Catholic Church here, that his car, reported stolen November 11 from the dooryard of the parsonage, had been found.

Provincial police found the car abandoned near Cote St. Luc, a suburb of Montreal. It is understood the car has had a rough passage, at least by outward appearances, since it disappeared. The theft and replacement of the car is in the hands of the insurance company.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity to thank all those kind friends who remembered me with cards, flowers, treats and personal calls while I was a patient in General Hospital, Ottawa. All your many kindnesses to myself and my family will be long and gratefully remembered.

Ray C. Dillabough.

OPINIONS . . .
Ours and Others

Municipal Doldrums

It would seem there is not a care in the world in the minds of the taxpayers of the town, if the interest being shown about the coming nominations is any indication. In spite of some overtime questioning and listening on our part, the municipal picture promises little excitement or change.

Forecasters are noted for having a bombproof cellar handy. Ours is a little the worse for wear, but we are willing to try out the limb used for going out on and predict a few predictions, come Friday night. From here, it would seem the present reeve will be unopposed again. Unless a dark horse appears at the last moment, Mr. McMillan will probably have the seat for the asking. Any more the demands made on a person's time by Counties' Council when he is reeve of a municipality are more than many men like to spend away from their business.

Councillors four to be chosen with about three in by acclamation, and if three in that way, the fourth will be found easily to make it a full house. That is quite a prediction, and one that is apt to be shot full of holes Friday night. Still, our grapevine tells us the two lady members of this year's council are running again. One of the present councillors says he will not run but he always qualifies at the last minute. The other councillor is definite that he will not run, period. Does that make the foursome?

Last year a large crowd attended nominations for the first time in some years. It is to be hoped as large or a larger number of people will turn out this year. Without your support, members of council are pretty much on their own, and at least once a year, they should get some public attention.

Light Along The Way

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Man must have bread to live. Bread is the staff of life, the symbol of the food upon which the body depends for its sustenance. The search for food led the early nomad from one grassland to another. It carried primitive peoples on long migrations. It forced men south with winter's cold, and led them north with spring's rebirth. The pangs of hunger have started wars and been the cause of violent acts and treacherous deeds. Man must have bread, for without it he cannot live.

Neither can man live by bread alone. Essential though it is, bread is not enough for life. Man cannot continue happily nor successfully in sin; nor can he find peace without hope for the future; nor can he comfortably travel the long road of life alone, and none of these bread can supply. So, while bread may nourish the body if life is to have any worth man must have something else too.

One of the oldest stories in existence is that of Adam and Eve, a story rich in other things than bread. Here is the first acknowledgement, on the part of man, that life must include God to have meaning. When Adam and Eve sought bread to the exclusion of God's demands they found nothing but trouble. "Man shall not live by bread alone," he must have the Word of Almighty God too. Without God's help and guidance life rapidly dissolves into immoral cravings and deadly, empty yearnings.

God has continually and freely sought to help men while respecting their freedom of thought and will. Through many a ready heart and attentive ear He has spoken, and men can learn from Him from these faithful servants. Through them He has proclaimed a message to the world. It is this message which sustains life and helps man to fulfill his destiny.

The Word of God is more necessary for our day and generation than any other. When has man faced more difficult problems and more terrifying situations than in this century? When has he needed more a mind clearer than his own, a will stronger than his own, and a standard higher than his own? God alone can give these.

The Bible will not take away the pitfalls and perils of life, but it will give us the straight and narrow path which will lead us through them in safety. The Bible offers no ready made solution for our problems but it will stir the love of our hearts for the right by which alone they can be met. The Bible will not carry us, like the magic carpet, to an island free of trouble and sin, but it will cast about us a vision of what can be with Gods' help.

What else but the Bible can do these things? There is no other means of discovering God that is equal to this, thus it is essential for our day.

The Muchtouted Vitamin

Vitamins are nutritionally important, there is no doubt about it, but one wishes they would learn their place. They have been overpublicized and over-praised to the point where a large section of the public is already half persuaded that they (and antibiotics) will cure everything, and doctors are no longer necessary. Here are a few examples of what over-eager vitamin palaver has done to confuse the public.

QUESTION:

"How about vitamins for psychoneurosis? A neighbour of mine has periodc fits of deep depression in which he behaves irrationally. What would be the proper vitamins to give, and where would they be obtainable? His family cannot afford to send him to a psychiatrist."

ANSWER:

No known vitamin or combination of vitamins is an accepted treatment for psychoneurosis, according to Paul Williamson, M.D., writing in the Journal of the Canadian Medical Association. Some preparations are ideally suited to give while waiting for the patient to recover by himself, but it is bad when the physician himself begins to believe that the vitamins and not nature did the trick. There are certain nervous symptoms seen in connection with pellagra, which is a disease caused by a deficiency of niacin in the diet. It is not a true psycho-neurosis, and is very rare except among extremely poor people in the southern States. It is becoming rarer there too. If your neighbour has pellagra, which is rather dubious, the chances are that he can correct his condition by improving his diet. The best sources of niacin are green and yellow vegetables, notably carrots. It is also found in whole grain cereal, whole wheat bread, hog liver, pork and beef, salmon, milk, egg yolk and peanuts. At least some of these items are included in almost all diets execept in extraordinarily depressed areas, which is why a diagnosis of pellagra is unlikely. If your neighbour is truly psychoneurotic, which seems more likely, experimentation with vitamins would be costly and futile.

QUESTION:

"My doctor tells me that my three-year-old child has a mild form of rickets. I was horrified when he told me and I have been thinking of going to another doctor. We are not rich people, but we are not poor either. We feed our child properly, according to Canada's Food Rules, and it seems impossible that she should have a vitamin deficiency. I am almost afraid to tell my husband, and I am certainly too ashamed to tell my friends."

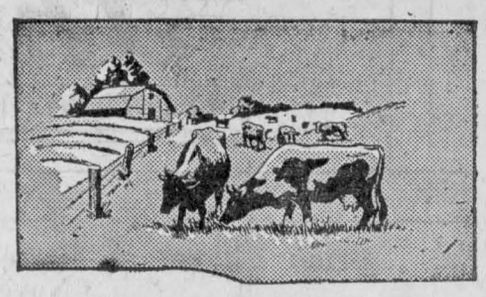

ANSWER:

You shouldn't be embarrassed. Actually minor rickets is very common, even in well-to-do families. This is particularly true in areas where the winters are ong and cold, and children spend a great of time indoors. Rickets is a form of vitamin D deficiency. Vitamin D is manufactured in the skin by the action of certain wave-lengths of ultra violet light. Hardy people, who get out into the sunlight on every possible occasion in hot or cold weather, are not subject to rickets. However, in our more refined civilization infants are not subjected to sunlight in very cold weather.

Fish liver oils are particularly good sources of vitamin D. In most places it is possible to obtain milk which has been "irradiated" with vitamin D. Because of certain undesirable results of irradiation (such as slight alteration of the taste of the milk and possible destruction of riboflavin under certain conditions) it has recently become the practice of many dairies in the United States to add a tasteless vitamin D concentrate. There is still some argument about this practice in Canada. Vitamin D in some form should be given to children in northerly climates at least until they are 3 years old. At about age 4 the diet of the child usually widens sufficiently in scope and his exposure to sunlight increases so that no further supplementation is necessary, though the possibility of rickets should not be completely ruled out at any time during the entire period of bony growth.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

We had cabbage salad for supper last Saturday night. Not that isn't news. We often have cabbage salad. But this one was different.

I chopped up cold, crisp cabbage, added some bits of celery and diced red apple then poured on some of my own homemade mayonnaise thinned with topmilk and set the vitamin-packed salad on the table. It looked good.

When it was passed around we all spooned out generous servings. For a tasty, fresh salad with cold meat and potatoes is very satisfying on a chilly fall night.

Then I tasted mine. Something was wrong. It had an unusual flavour. It wasn't spoiled. It simply tasted queer. That was it. It tasted like perfume. Of course it did.

About two weeks ago I finished a big, chubby jar of bath salts that I had been given for Christmas. It was a square-bottomed jar about six inches high with a mouth about four inches across. It had a screw-top too. So we washed it up for a refrigerator jar.

It seemed a natural for mayonnaise. It would sit on a lower shelf and not take up the precious space reserved for quart sealers and milk bottles. Besides, it was the right size for one recipe of salad dressing. So I filled it up and set it away assured that I had plenty of mayonnaise for a quick salad if somebody dropped in unexpectedly. Fortunately we sampled the mayonnaise when no visitors were around.

I tried to eat my perfumed salad. The others struggled with their's. But eventually we gave up and salad was left on every plate to be given along with the bowlful to the pigs. I hope they liked it.

Now if anyone has a yen for rose-flavoured mayonnaise I still have this chubby jarful in the refrigerator. Please apply for it in writing.

The salad reminded me of a cake I made once that had a rare, exotic flavour too. I was about eleven, I think, when I went to keep house for a cousin who was just home from hospital and not able to do very much. They thought I could get the meals at least.

About the first day I volunteered to make them a cake. Of course I had made lots of cakes in my day and felt like a veteran at eleven.

There were no cake-mixes then so I had to start from scratch. Eggs, butter, sugar, flour. I had quite a search for the soda and vinegar to sour the milk with but vanilla was easy to find. It was right in a little bottle on the bottom shelf. Well, Lady Luck was with me. The cake looked delicious when I got it iced and ready for supper.

When dessert came that evening I cut my fresh cake and set it on the table with a feeling of smug satisfaction experienced only by those who have done something well and know it. The man of the house looked hungry for cake so when he had put the first bite in his mouth I watched for his reaction. At first he looked puzzled. Then as he saw I was eyeing him he smiled and pronounced the cake good. With no little misgiving I tasted mine. What was wrong with that cake It was hot. It burned as if it contained cayenne. What could it be? We tasted it again with the same concern that men used in tasting the king's food for suspected poison. Then the lady of the house had an idea. What vanilla had I used? I got the bottle to show her.

Just as she had guessed. A short time before she had put red liniment into a vanilla bottle and had set it in the cupboard. She knew, of course, that it was there. But I had used it to flavour a chocolate cake.

Let me tell you rose-flavoured mayonnaise and cake made with red liniment aren't too enjoyable. Neither were the buttered beets we had last winter.

Harry brought up the quart of beets one day for dinner. Mother opened them, drained off the juice, emptied them into a saucepan, chopped them up, added salt, pepper and butter and set them to heat.

We all noticed something was wrong when we tasted them. Mother thought they were spoiled. But suddenly the light dawned. Instead of bringing canned beets Harry had brought pickled beets. I think you would have to acquire a taste for buttered pickled beets like you do for olives. The pigs got ours.

Beginner's Luck

Best story that comes to my ears as the white tail season draws to a close is the one of a buck that got away. One weekend a new member of a well known fish and game club in the Eastern Townships, hard by the Vermont border, turned up with a party of friends for his first deer hunt. Between hands of the poker game the night preceding the hunt, the new hunter was briefed by his pals on the finer points of bagging venison on the hoof, with extra emphasis on the buck law, which is enforced for that district. Came daylight and the hunters set forth, the newest member proudly shouldering an equally new thirty-thirty. For their own safety and so as to ensure their mate wouldn't get himself lost, they placed him on a good stand bordering a runway and told him to stay put.

Nothing to This Deer Hunting

It all seemed so easy. Even before his feet had started to chill, an eight-pointer stepped into view within easy shooting range. With scarcely a trace of "buck fever" the hero of this yarn, remembering the advice of the night before, drew a bead on a vital spot, squeezed the trigger and the buck collapsed. Walking over, he found his trophy all of a heap. At this point the "buck fever" caught up with him some, so he sat down and lit up a cigarette. Sitting there while his nerves steadied and enjoying his smoke, it came to him that the head of this eight-pointer, mounted and hung over the hearth, would not only make a handsome trophy, but also a mighty fine gun rack for the rifle that had killed so swiftly and surely.

Some People Don't Live Right

Unable to resist the impulse and eager to savour some of the effect of this brain wave, he stubbed out his fag, leaned over and placed the rifle across the horns. At this point everything happened at once: The buck staggered to its feet, gave our hunter one "the hell with you chum" look and bounded off, the thirty-thirty firmly positioned thwart its antlered head. Perhaps it would be kinder to leave the rest of the story to your imagination—with what misgiving that poor chap must have returned to camp to face his companions with this likely tale.

Stop, Look and Listen

Newcomers to deer hunting do sometimes get their venison first time out, but when they do it's mostly bull luck. No deer intentionally lets you shoot him. If you kill him it's because he blunders or because you outwit him and a buck, even a spike horn, doesn't blunder very often. Unless you know the deer country, unless you can read white tail sign, unless you understand deer ways well enough to know what a buck is likely to do before he does it, your chances of bringing home the meat are slim. Experienced hunters know that a deer's nose is his keenest sense organ, far keener than his eyes or ears; how to use the wind to their advantage and that they have little to fear from a deer's powers of vision. It pays to stand still more than to move. All this is old stuff to Ross McKay, a friend of mine, whose experience this year combined sound hunting knowledge with a fair measure of good luck thrown in. Ross knew

Final Tribute Paid Ross F. Beckstead, 67

Final tribute was paid on Thursday last to a well known citizen of Altsville, Ross F. Beckstead, who passed away at his residence on November 15th in his 68th year.

He was born at Grantley, Ont., on May 6th, 1887. The family moved to Aultsville in 1900. Mr. Beckstead farmed for some years, later disposing of his farm and taking up auctioneering. He was a well known auctioneer of the United Counties for 38 years, during which time he met and made many friends. Being a sports enthusiast, he managed the Aultsville hockey team in the season of 1911, the team taking the cup that year.

His death was sincerely regretted in the village and surrounding district. Many friends came to his home to pay their last respects, and many beautiful floral tributes surrounded the casket. The family received many messages of condolence.

Mr. Beckstead is survived by his wife, the former Mary Froats, of Chesterville, and five children. There are two daughters, Mrs. Lloyd Lalonde (Vaughn), of Cornwall; Mrs. Jack Gillette (Maxine), Brighton; three sons, Irvin, Kingston; Audeen, Cornwall; Barton, at home. He was predeceased by a daughter, Winona, in 1937. He is also survived by one brother, Irvin, of Aultsville.

The service was conducted by Mr. Mervin Peters, Spencerville, assisted by Mr. Taylor.

Interment was made in Woodlands Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Graham Gallinger, George Donnelly, Manson McConnell, Lloyd Marcellus, Willy Vanderwal and Lockwood Pruner.

INVESTIGATE "CRATER"

Seven Department of Mines scientists have begun studies of what was found in a summer-long investigation of what may be the world's largest meteoric crater, 30 miles across.

Dr. M. J. S. Innes, who headed a team which looked through a 680-square-mile depression in northern Quebec 150 miles northwest of Sept Isles, said cautiously that it "would not be unreasonable to suppose that we strongly suspect it is a crater."

He said it will take three months of labortory studies to determine for sure whether the depression was made by a meteor striking the earth ages ago, or merely a geological freak .

Remembrance Day Theme for Programme Hyndman W.A.

The Hyndman W.A. held their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, November 16th, at the home of Mrs. Cecil Canning. There was a good attendance.

The president, Mrs. Cecil Somerville, had charge of the meeting and opened with Hymn 405. The Scripture lesson was taken from 1 0chapter Luke, verses 25-42. The topic was Remembrance Day.

Readings on the topic were "Day of Remembrance" by Mrs. Howard Robinson; "Rededication of Peace" by Mrs. Salter; "Not Lost, But Given" by Mrs. Gilmer.

Hymn 399 was sung. A poem, "Remembrance Day," was given by Mrs. T. Francis; "Prayer and Faith," Mrs. Lorne Conley; "In Remembrance," Mrs. A. Francis; "A Soldier's Prayer," Mrs. Pelton.

One verse of Hymn 401 was sung, followed by two minutes' silence.

Mrs. Somerville gave a reading after which Mrs. McCarley led in prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mrs. Pelton, and were approved as read.

Roll call was answered by a cookie recipe. Collection taken amounted to $1.88.

Mrs. Lawrence Pelton offered her home for a quilting. It was decided to set up the quilt the following week.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to Mrs. Cecil Canning. A card of thanks was read by the secretary from Mrs. Robert Conley for the box she received while ill.

The next meeting will be held at the Somerville home. The devotions will be in charge of Mrs. Howard Robinson and Mrs. Chester Gilmer. Roll call is to be answered by the exchange of gifts.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction.

Mrs. Pelton conducted two contests after which lunch was served by the hostess and committee in charge.

New Phone Directory Book of the Year

It may not be on any list of best sellers, it has no plot and little action, but the new buff coloured telephone directory delivered here this week will have more readers than ny other book likely to appear this year.

The new Bell Telephone directory has 4,543 new and changed listings will serve an area including Brockville, Iroquois, Prescott, Morrisburg and Chesterville.

Bell Telephone manager for the region, N. E. Sharpe, urged customers to throw away the old book as soon as the new one arrives, to avoid "wrong numbers."

With each directory goes a "Blue Book of Telephone Numbers." The books are being issued to encourage customers to keep a record of both local aud out-of-town numbers frequently called.

"The Blue Book is helpful in placing both local and long distance calls. The telephone user, by listing numbers of friends and business associates frequently called can reduce the time required to complete the connection by as much as a half. Incidentally, both regular and pocket-size editions of the Blue Book are available at Bell Telephone public offices," said Mr. Sharpe.

The number of directories being delivered this year shows the growth in the region 12,785 copies as compared with 11,532 last year.

The average capacity of a box car in use on Canadian railways is 44 tons.

Bank of Nova Scotia Assets Over Billion

The annual statement of The Bank of Nova Scotia shows that the bank's assets have reached a record high of over a billion dollars. The increase of nearly $63,500,000 over last year brings the total assets of the bank to $1,029,123,000 as at October 31st, 1954. This record reflects the bank's vigorous growth since the war during which time it has opened 154 branches, increased its itc capital and rest account by $14 million and its shareholders by nearly 3,000.

The one-billion landmark has been reached during a period of rapid development which has seen the bank's total assets tripled since 1939. Not only have loans increased four times over, and deposits more than three times since then, but the bank's staff has more than doubled.

The bank's deposits showed a substantial increase during the year. They now stand at $957,755,826, an increase of $62,334,741 over last year's figure. Total loans amounted to $568,447,735 and total holdings of securities to $267,753,695. The bank's liquid position continued strong with cash resources of $161,196,952 standing at 16.47 per cent to public liabilities and quick assets at 53.00 per cent.

Profit for the year before the deduction of depreciation and taxes amounted to $7,030,773. Taxes were estimated at $2,760,000. Net profit for the year was $3,161,186. Dividends of $1.60 a share and provision for an extra distribution of 20 cents a share amounted to $2,700,000. The balance of undivided profit stood at $524,493 after transferring $1,000,000 to the rest account. This amount together with $1,000,000 from tax-paid reserves brought the rest account to $35,000,000

CHEESE PRODUCERS HOLD ANNUAL MEETING AT AVONMORE

Cheese producers were told recently at Avonmore that there is "good market interest" in their goods by British buyers.

W. O. Coon, of Elglin, president of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association told the annual meeting of the Stormont Cheese Producers' Association that the new storage plant at Winchester will be ready next season.

Mr. Coon explained the operations of the Cheese Marketing Board last year to the meeting in the IOOF Hall, attended by producers from all parts of the county.

The Stormont president, Charles Shaver, Aultsville, told the audience that there were funds available for the sale promotion comschool in Cornwall this winter.

Praise Legislation

H. C. Arnold, Campbellford, vice-president of the CPA, described the new Dairy Act as the "best dairy legislation in my lifetime." He called for support of the new programme of one-and-a-half per cent deductions to cover operations of the Marketing Board.

"Other types of milk producers are willing to co-operate," he said.

The meeting went on record as favouring the new plan.

The meeting also decided to call for a public meeting to discuss the proposed casein plant in Cornwall. Everett M. Biggs, Ontario Dairy Commissioner appointed this year, will be asked to attend.

The Stormont CPA elected the following officers for the coming year:

TAKES INTEREST IN CANADA

The Krupp interest of Essen, former leading German armaments makers, are extensively investigating the possibilities of participation in the expanding economy of Canada.

This is one of the latest developments in the remarkable postwar rehabilitation of the Krupp concern which again ranks among the world's leading industrial organizations.

Currently said to be considering a diversity of Canadian ventures, their interest in Canada was signalized this summer with the disclosure that a Krupp geologist was applying the Krupp Renn process in the treatment of low-grade iron ore in the Ungava Bay region on the Labrador peninsula in northern Quebec.

NEW BATTERY

A new storage battery is now being in manufactured in Canada, which, the makers claim, will be a real boon to Canadians who drive in winter.

The battery offers the unheard of advantage of being "adjustable" to meet the vastly differing demands of summer and winter driving.

Seasonal climate control adjustments are quick and simple. A plastic key is inserted successively into each of the battery's cells, and adjustment for either summer or winter driving is made by simply turning the key to the proper seasonal setting indicated on the battery top.

Chimney sweep Samuel Aker, 46, offered his body after death to scientists for research into London's grey killer—smog.

Baker, whose family has been cleaning chimneys for 174 years, says sweeps swallow more smoke, fog and soot than any other people and should be able to help scientists.

During a smog "epidemic" in 1952, 4,000 Londoners—mostly old people and brochial sufferers—died.

Tulip Named by Error Came from Asia

Last season was the 400th anniversary of the tulip in the Western World.

Despite the fact that tulips are traditionally associated with the Dutch, they actually had their origin in Asia Minor. In the 16th century an Austrian ambassador to Turkey first brought the exotic flowers to Europe. It was also this diplomat who, because he did not comprehend the soft language of the Turks or the verbal struggle of his interpreter, accidently named the flower.

Ogier Ghiselin de Busbecq, ambassador from Austria to Suleiman the Magnificent of the Ottoman Empire, first named, mentioned and introduced the exotic flower to Europe.

Travelling through the Turkish countryside on his way to Constantinople, Busbecq spied what he later described as "quantitites of flowers—narcissi and tulipans, as the Turks call them—much to our astonishment because it was almost mid-Winter, a season unfriendly to flowers."

Busbecq's mistake was in misunderstanding his interpreter's simile. The Turks had a word for the flower—Lale. The interpreter probably compared the inverted flower to a turban—"dulband" in Turkish—and the confused ambassador, thinking of the flower, dubbed it "tulipan." This he translated into Latin and the novel bloom was called genus tulipa.

Tulips are now synonymous with spring the world over, but in those days Europe was ignorant that this magnificent upstart of the flower world even existed. Since no one knew enough to spot the Austrian's bungle, his false appelation stuck.

In no time at all the word "tulip" denoted the last word in "get-rich-quick" schemes. Europe, especially Holland, went wild over the flower, and fantastic prices were paid for the bulbs from which they are grown. It was in this period that Holland became prominent in the cultivation of tulips and to this day she supplies bulbs for the gardens of the world.

Busbecq unwittingly gave the flower a name that has all but bad poets tearing out their hair—since not much rhymes with "tulip" other than "julep."

Laundry Lore

Absorbent cleaners to remove soil are cornmeal, cornstarch, French chalk, fuller's earth and magnesium carbonate. These cleaners are used frequently on bulky articles, wallpaper, fur pieces and mattresses. As a rule, they are satisfactory for treatment of grease spots.

Irish linen does not shed lint as most fabrics do, so wash it separately to avoid dulling the lustre with lint particles. For best ironing results, press linen on a board cover which is made of linen and reserve this especially for ironing articles of this fabric.

To clean children's washable stuffed toys, scrub them gently with a soft sudsy brush, remove suds with a damp cloth, then place in an automatic dryer or in a warm spot until dry.

Cockroach Ranch Forces Family to Move

Cockroach breeder Willian Bunting was evicted for "running a business from a (municipally-owned) housing project."

Bunting, his wife, their five children and the cockroaches moved in with friends and are carrying on.

The sandy-haird Fellow of the Royal Entomological Society of London regards cockroaches with cynical detachment. But he admires them because they are "simple animals," squash proof and in demand for scientific purposes. Some fetch ninepence dead or alive.

"And after all," said the 38-year-old cockroach rancher from Thorne, Yorkshire, in a London interview, "the more we know about them, the more chance there is of killing them off."

Cockroaches are "universally studied by biologists for anatomical comparison and physiological research," he explained.

"You see ,cockroaches are a simple form of animal. Their structure, living habits are somewhat similar to those of the higher animals—up to the human being.

"Cockroaches are the biology student's elementary education. I think they are just right—a handy size. They don't squash as easily as other organisms.

"Imagine trying to dissect a gnat," he added.

Super Cat

Albert Bartay, a 58-year-old typographer, of Houston, Tex., has a 15-pound cat that acts like no other cat on earth.

For instance, Toby, a four-year-old Persian and Angora combination, is a hunter's best friend. He stalks, "points" game,waits while his master shoots and then retrieves.

"And he doesn't disturb a feather," Bartay said.

Toby has been hunting with his master for three years .

"Just show him a gun and he livens up," his master said.

Passing birds get a low growl from Toby, but nothing else seems to matter. Bartay said Toby does not fight or play with other cats.

"But he sure likes ice cream," the owner added. "I split a pint with him every night, any flavour —Toby's not particular."

LONG AND SHORT

To make a Long name Short, a Brooklyn, N.Y., couple applied recently for a marriage licence.

Shirley H. Long, 22, and Michael A. G. Short, 21, planned to be married.

During a pause in a long tiring speech ,one guest said to another: "What follows this speaker?"

Second guest: "Wednesday."

To Each His Own

Sambo: "Hey. Rastus, lemme present my wife to you."

Rastus: "Oh, no you don't. Ah got one of my own."

SLIGHTLY IRREGULAR

The so-called "good old days" produced some confusion in the recent U.S. elections.

A cobwebbed ballot box turned up in the Borough Hall of Millstone, N.J., when New Jersey's voting machinery was impounded in the close election.

The box had been used in the Millstone primary election of 1910. The contents revealed:

A box containing 16 ballots. A counter atop the box indicated 18 votes had been cast. A tally sheet enclosed listed 17 voters in the district.

SUPERTEST Power-thrust

FOLLOWING ORDERS

A cook at the U.S. Air Force base near Bury St. Edmunds, Eng., was told he could not go on leave because he had to bake a cake for an officer's wedding.

The cook protested angrily, but was told by his superior officer that it was an order.

The officer gave him details of the cake and added: "Don't forget to put nuts on the top."

The cook made the cake, put it in a tin and went on leave.

The officer was married and the cake was borne proudly into the wedding reception.

The lid was lifted—and there, scrawled in icing across the top of the cake wa s the word "nuts."

USAF officers , who diclosed the story, said no disciplinary action had been taken against the cook.

No Scratch

My friends have allergies to dust,
To hair (on dogs., to paint, to rust;
I'm free of these but I've a honey:
I can't get very close to money.

OUTDOOR ROUNDUP—

his deer country, ten square miles of hardwoods, cut-over and abandoned farmland, like the back of his hand.

He knew where the deer were and took up his stand three miles out of camp well before dawn and settled down for a long wait. Shortly after it began to grow light he saw his deer. It was out of range and too far off to tell whether it was a buck or doe. With the wind in his favour Ross watched as the deer fed toward him, away from him and back again and into range. At sixty yards he got his first clear view and could see it was a spike buck.

And Lady Luck Smiled on Him

She sure did, for when Ross raised his 300 Savage to his shoulder he discovered with horror that his rear sight, a hunting peep, had broken off. That must have happened some time between leaving camp and taking up his watch. The buck started to fidget. Maybe a slight change of breeze had brought him a whiff of "man scent." Knowing it was now or never, Ross lined up the small front post as best he could and touched her off. Hardly believing his eyes, he saw the buck drop and stay down. When it was dressed out it was found the bullet had scored a direct hit to the heart. Good shooting, I'd say.

CHRISTMAS DESSERTS

PERHAPS IN YOUR FAMILY it is the custom to have plum pudding for dessert on Christmas, or maybe you have mince pie. Some folks prefer a lighter dessert after the turkey and "fixings" and here is a delicious Christmas pie that is as different as it is tasty.

BRAZILNUT CHRISTMAS PIE

¾ lb. Brazilnuts
3 tbsps. sugar
1 envelope unflavoured gelatin
¼ cup water
3 eggs
¼ cup sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
1½ cups milk
½ cup thinly sliced glaced cherries
2 tbsps. fruit juice
½ cup whipping cream

This pie can be made the day before Christmas, thus giving you time for other chores.

Put the nut meats through the food chopper, a few at a time, until you have 1½ cups ground nut meats. To the ground nut meats add 3 tbsps. sugar; mix well. With the back of a spoon press this mixture on to the bottom and sides of a 9 inch pie pan. Bake in hot oven of 400 degs. for 8 minutes or until lightly browned. To make the filling, soak the gelatin in ¼ cup cold water. Beat the egg yolks; add ¼ cup sugar and salt; gradually stir in the scalded milk. Cook in double boiler till it coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat; stir in gelatin. Chill till it begins to set. Beat with an egg beater until smooth. Add cherries, fruit juice and stiffly beaten egg whites to which ¼ cup of sugar has been added. Pour into cooled, baked Brazilnut crust. Chill in refrigerator till ready to serve. Just before serving garnish with sweetened whipped cream, sliced Brazilnuts and glaced cherries.

PLUM PUDDING

3 lbs. raisins
¼ lb. lemon peel
¼ lb. citron peel
1 lb. suet
1 lb. brown sugar
4 cups bread crumbs
4 tbsps. flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. nutmeg
¼ tsp. cloves
¼ tsp. allspice
1 tsp. baking soda
8 eggs
½ cup grape juice

Chop raisins; cut peel into pery thin slices, sprinkle. with flour. Remove the membrane from the suet, chop finely. Sift flour, baking soda, salt and spices. Add sifted sugar. Add bread crumbs, suet and fruit. Mix well; add grape juice and well beaten eggs. Pour into three well greased molds; cover. Steam four hours. If cooked in one large dish, steam six hours.

MINCE MEAT

2 cups chopped apples
1½ cups raisins
½ cup currants
¼ cup citron peel,sliced very fine
½ cup chopped suet
½ cup sugar
2 tsps. mixed spice
3 tbsps. rich fruit juice
3 tbsps. vinegar

Combine all ingredients in the order given. Mix thoroughly and allow to stand at least one week before using.

Serve a scoop of vanilla ice cream with your mince pie this Christmas.

STEAMED CRANBERRY PUDDING

You may not want to have this pudding Christmas day but it has a festive look and is nice to serve during the holiday season.

1 cup fresh cranberries cut in half
1 cup drained crushed pineapple
½ cup chopped blanched almonds.
½ cup molasses
1½ cups flour
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. soda
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. cloves
¼ tsp. nutmeg

Combine fruits, almonds and molasses. Add sifted dry ingredients and mix well. Fill greased quart sized mold two-thirds full. Cover tightly. Steam 2 hours. Serve with hard sauce.
