

Chesterville's Margaret Keyzer

Margaret Keyzer and Cheryl Byers were named Queens of the Carnivals this past weekend in festive ceremonies held in both Chesterville and Crysler which marked the opening of the 1973 Carnival season.

Miss Keyzer, 16, daughter of Mr and Mrs John Keyzer of R.R. 3, Chesterville, was chosen over eight other girls last Friday night to wear the royal crown during the weekend of Carnival activities here in Chesterville.

Saturday night the Crysler Pavilion was packed to the doors as Miss Byers, 15, was ushered to the throne defeating three other contestants in ceremonies which kicked off that community's annual winter events. She is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Archie Byers.

An estimated 600 were on hand in the Chesterville Arena Friday night as Del and Rodger hosted the annual competitions. Music during the program was provided by David Begg of Crysler at a Conn organ supplied by Roy Fawcett's Piano and Organ Studio of Winchester.

The nine girls who entered were asked by the master of ceremonies to answer several impromptu questions and then skated around the arena.

When the judges finally emerged from deliberation, Miss Keyzer was presented with the crown from 1972 Queen Marlene Merkley. First runner-up was

Queens of the Carnivals

Janice Docksteader, daughter of Dr. and Mrs Dalton Docksteader of Chesterville and coming second was Kathy Feeley, daughter of Mr and Mrs Henry Feeley of R.R. 1, Chesterville.

Also entered in the contest sponsored by the Dundas Rebekah Lodge were: Janice Chambers, Linda Droppo, Terry Carr, Kathy Casselman, Sharon Sharkey and Kathy Ziebell.

CRYSLER CARNIVAL

Four girls had entered the annual contest in Crysler which was conducted on a different basis this year. Renee Leger, Ilene Dionne, Miss Byers and Diane Lafrance were to sell as many Carnival tickets as they could to account for 50 percent of their winning points. The other 50 percent was evaluated the night of the carnival on personality, talent and charm.

Mrs Lise Raymond introduced the girls while Roger Cayer asked each to answer a surprise question. Following their individual performances the judges, Mrs Jean Yves Levac, Fernand Forget and Mrs Monique Cayer, made their decision.

Guylaine Ayotte, 1972 Queen, crowned Miss Byers and presented her princesses with gifts.

Also addressing the more than 500 in Crysler Pavilion during the program were Marcel Lafleche, Carnival President, and Romeo Leger, Vice President. Hubert Benoit, chairman of the Queen contest, announced the winners.

In Carnival activities Sunday, a team from Earl Rolland Sales Ltd. of Crysler won the Tug-of-War competitions while Michael Benoit was the winner of the Log Sawing contest.

The Carnival continues this week winding up this Saturday night with a dance and draw at the Crysler Pavilion.

Ag. Minister calls for increased production 1972 record year for Canadian farmers

AVONMORE — The federal Minister of Agriculture has urged mixed farmers in Eastern Ontario to join every other farmer in the country in producing to their fullest potentials in order for Canada to meet growing export demands in light of world wide crop failures and increasing protein shortages.

The Hon. Eugene Whelan, in an address to some 200 farmers here last Wednesday night, said while there were no shortages at home, international sales were climbing. He said Canada's fantastic agricultural trade export records equalled $2 billion in 1971 and even more in 1972. It was expected to climb further yet in 1973.

"I am doing all I can as Minister of Agriculture," he said, "to encourage farmers across the land to produce as much feed grain as they can possibly produce. I urge mixed farmers in this region to supply their own operations with as much grain as they can grow for themselves. I advise corn producers in Quebec and Ontario to produce as much feed as they can. And I advise western producers to grow as much feed grain as they can possibly grow to help maintain and expand Canadian livestock, poultry and dairy production and to help maintain our export markets for feed grains."

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Stormont Federation of Agriculture, Mr Whelan, a cash crop farmer himself in Western Ontario, said 1972 was one of the most prosperous agricultural years on record, although many in Eastern Ontario were not able to share in that prosperity.

He noted however that he was striving to change the crop insurance system which has proven unsatisfactory. Mr Whelan said he was introducing a Bill in the House of Commons which would allow the government to reimburse provinces to a maximum of 50 percent of premiums paid under contracts of insurance, with the purpose of reducing costs of insurance to individual farmers.

While the Minister acknowledged the concern over increasing feed costs, he offered no solutions to the problem, but simply reminded the audience of the also increasing prices of farm products.

"The general increase in prices of grain and feed ingredients which has occured during the past few months is troubling everyone associated with the livestock and poultry industry," he said. "Feeders in Eastern Canada and British Columbia who rely to varying degrees on grain, originating outside their region, are more vulnerable."

"There is, however, no doubt that farm prices for livestock and poultry products have also improved considerably - against

Three-day weekend fair for Chesterville?

Nine man committee named Fair Board holds annual

A nine-man committee has been established by the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society to study the possibility of creating a three-day long weekend fair for 1973.

At the annual meeting of the Fair Board last Wednesday afternoon, newly elected president Keyes Smith said he and secretary-treasurer Doreen McMillan will investigate the idea along with George Countryman, Stan Vanden Bosch, Peter Monast, Dr. Brian Kennedy, Wilburn Robinson, Louis Moriarty and Carl Smith. Mr Countryman was named committee chairman.

The practice of holding the fair during the weekdays was established some 42 years ago when all Chesterville merchants chose Wednesday as a uniform closing day.

Over the years the popularity of weekend fairs and varying store closing hours have made society officers consider a change. While it has been discussed previously this is the first time any definite action has been taken.

The major problem is the difficulty in obtaining a midway on a weekend. Since the majority of fall fairs are staged in the later part of the week the availability of rides and entertainment is almost nil.

Mrs McMillan said the matter will be pursued at the annual meeting of agricultural societies in Toronto February 21 and 22 and a decision made following that.

Regardless of any date changes the Society is still planning to expand the annual Fair in the area of competitions and events. A number of suggestions were made including horse drawing and tractor drawing contests. The Fair Board will also be utilizing the new Chesterville and District Arena this year and hope to use it as a trade show area.

In regular meeting business, reports from the various directors were heard and the new slate of officers for 1973 elected. Keyes Smith was named president, taking over the duties of past president, Wilburn Robinson. Stan Vanden Bosch was named first vice and Doug Durant second.

New directors for the year include Jack Durant, Earl Merkley, Carl Smith and Henry Berkers They will join former directors Harold Lannin, Sarsfield O'Connor, Malcolm MacGregor, Harold W. Merkley, Mrs Don Cross, Dr. Bryan Kennedy, George Countryman, Gerald Kittle, Mrs Allison Graham, Doug Durant, Clare Merkley, Louis Moriarty, Aurelien Cayer and Stan Vanden Bosch.

Keith Guy, Peter Monast and Blake Feeley will join associate directors Lyle Loucks, Erwin Merkley, Blake Ball, Angus Smith, Eric Casselman, John Maxwell, Jerry Brugmans, Francis Lynch, Mac Thompson, Tom Clapp and Jim Sullivan.

Additions to Junior Directors are Neil Kittle and Ross Misener. They join Frank Casselman Jr., Bob Coleman, Ann McMillan, John Douma, Barry Lynch and Ronnie Thompson.

Most successful carnival $3,000 raised

Unfavourable weather conditions caused the cancellation or postponement of some events during Chesterville's weekend Winter Carnival, but the unseasonably high temperatures certainly didn't prevent it from being one of the most successful on record.

Literally thousands were on hand for the numerous events which began last Thursday with a Monte Carlo night and wound up Sunday with a fire works display and a senior hockey match.

Organizers from various activities reported standing room only at the suppers, dances and contests and Chesterville Chamber of Commerce, the sponsoring body, said they raised more than $3,000 to be used to support Chesterville Community Arena.

Following is a list of those results which were available at press time:

Log Sawing Contest — Boys': first, Kevin Kelly and Andy Windsor; second, Steven and Dwaine Kelly. Men's: first, Peter Vankessel and Martin Derks; second, Dwaine and Lyle Hess. Ladies: first, Chris and Barbara

Bits and Pieces

Teachers attend conference

Mrs Marjorie Thompson, a teacher at Chesterville Public School, and Mrs Arlene Nesbitt of Winchester Public, were delegates at a conference of the Federation of Women Teachers' Association of Ontario held in Toronto recently. The two women, presidents of their respective branches, were among 175 delegates from across the province who discussed several problems including school board cuts, increases in class size, dismissal of "redundant" teachers and other current concerns of teachers.

New Manse has clear deed

The recently built $40,000 Chesterville-Morewood United Church Manse has been completely paid for, it was announced this week. Just nine months after the sod was turned, enough money was contributed by the congregations of Chesterville and Morewood Churches to pay off the outstanding debt. Located on Casselman Street opposite the Chesterville church, part of the cost was covered by money received from the sale of the previous manse on Albert Street. Rev. and Mrs L. M. Ferguson and their family moved into the house in July.

Music students pass with honours

Mrs Frank Cox announced this week that two of her piano students had successfully completed examinations with honours. Bernadette Deklena passed her Grade 2 Theory examination in Ottawa recently, receiving first class honours with 88 percent. Shelley Fulton also became an honour student when she completed her Pedagogy Paper (Teachers written examination) earning 76 percent. The tests are set by the Royal Conservatory of Music, Toronto.

Three centres feature week-end Carnivals

Area residents are reminded of the Dunbar, Osnabruck Centre and Newington Winter Carnivals, all scheduled for this weekend. Dunbar's annual event gets underway this Friday night with the crowning of a Carnival Queen, followed by a full slate of outdoor activities Saturday. The other two communities crown their royalty at the end of the first day's activities. So if you're quick, you can be in Newington for the 7 p.m. ceremony there Saturday and then drop over to Osnabruck Centre for their celebrations.

Editorial Comment . . .

Peace in Vietnam — should the Americans be proud?

Probably the most marked development in world news last week was a ceasefire in Vietnam . . . a withdrawal of troops . . . a so-called end to the war.

But is the war really over or have the Americans simply gone home, smiling with the accomplishment of nothing and the loss of billions of dollars and thousands of lives and the knowledge that they had achieved "Peace with Honour."

To an armchair Canadian critic, the war, as far as the Western world is concerned, is over. We can probably all rest assured that it will be quite a few years before any non-communist forces again plod the soil of South-East Asia, combating the opposing sides in the name of world peace.

But we would all probably be kidding ourselves if we believe that the war has ended for the people of North and South Vietnam. It would probably be more correct to say it has slacked off. For in all the years that the world watched the devastation of Vietnam, very little was settled - very little was gained, and a great deal was lost.

Last Saturday's ceasefire at 7 p.m. was the beginning of the end of American involvement. The Americans will walk out of Vietnam like a man who walks away from his neighbour's house fire. It's too bad, but we're glad it's over, we hope it doesn't happen again or to us. But the Americans will never be able to feel the same emotions as their neighbours who stand in the rubble of their homes, suffering the immeasureable loss of life and devastation, realizing that they now have no home to go to.

We doubt that any human being other than a Vietnamese can realize the tasks that lay ahead in somehow trying to rebuild a country which stands on still unsettled ground. And even if their life style returns to a semblance of normality, will not the scars on every child's body remind them vividly of the war years of Vietnam?

Canada has joined in a peacekeeping force in Vietnam and we can all hope that this handful of men can achieve a goal a million others were unable to attain. But somehow this delegation has the characteristics of a flag man at a train depot. The fighting will cease as long as everyone agrees, but it seems almost impossible to believe that a small voice will halt aggression a billion bombs could not.

We can all bless Richard Nixon for ending the war but we can also reproach him for not ending it sooner. In future years he will probably be carried to his grave as the man who brought "Peace" to Vietnam with little recognition of the fact that he maintained the most destructive blood-bath in history.

Within the next few months, Vietnam will probably fade from the headlines, similar to the Biafran revolution of 1970. With American attentions directed to domestic problems, Canada should perhaps be wary of idle American hands. As the nation to the south becomes over run with population and the basic resources of survival dwindle we should become conscious of the possibility of rape from Richard Nixon - the only kind this political gorilla would undertake - "Rape With Honour."

Pricing 'Formula' needs revision

Following are portions of a speech given by the Hon. William A. Stewart, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, at the recent annual meeting of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board in Toronto.

Attending from this area were several members of the Dundas Milk Committee. In his remarks Mr Stewart discussed the growing concern over increased feed costs and the problems of pricing milk.

The increased cost in basic ingredients in livestock feeds has been nothing short of incredible. For example, 44 percent soybean meal which cost $104 a ton in September of 1971, climbed steadily to $125 a ton in September of 1972 and is now over $200 a ton. Bran was approximately $56 a ton in September of 1971, climbed to $62 a ton in September of 1972 and is now worth approximately $90 a ton. Oats which sold at $50 a ton in September of 1971 and remained at that price in September of 1972, have sharply increased and today western oats are worth about $83 a ton.

Barley has jumped from $55 to $56 a ton in September of this year to $73 a ton this past week. Distillers grains have followed the same trend. Selling at about $60 a ton in September of 1971, they climbed slightly to $63-$64 in September of 1972 and they have now settled at $86 a ton.

I could go on citing increases since September of 1972.

Linseed meal from $112 to $135 a ton. Rapeseed meal from $85 to over $100 a ton. But, surely, the point is well enough made. Feed costs have climbed phenominally in the last three to four months, causing great distress and concern among dairy farmers particularly and livestock and poultry producers generally.

Dairy farmers in this province have at the same time been faced with extreme difficulties in obtaining suitable, reliable hired help for their farms. They find themselves handicapped by policies that make Welfare or Unemployment Insurance appear more profitable than working. Our Ministry's Agricultural Manpower Service has made every effort to recruit experienced dairymen but despite good wages and acceptable living conditions, we have been unable to meet the demand.

In addition to feed costs and labour problems farmers have faced a steady spiralling of various input costs. Rural hydro rates so vital to dairy farmers, have increased by 10 percent as of January 1st, 1973. Increased prices for farm machinery, parts and service is taking place. Wherever they turn for goods or services, it is the same story.

The principle method of price determination for fluid milk in Ontario is the often-referred-to, but, perhaps seldom fully understood 'Formula B'. This formula has been used to determine the basis for milk price changes ever since 1966. I wonder how many of us are aware of the factors that are taken into consideration in 'Formula B', and their weight? May I spell it out.

Farm input price index	20%
Feed price index	10%
General Wholesale price index for Canada	30%
Average Weekly Earnings	15%
Fluid Milk Sales as a % of all milk sales in Ontario	25%
TOTAL	100%

The point which comes to my mind is this - does the Formula accurately reflect current producer costs? Based on information provided to me in the last few days I am inclined to believe that the data used in compiling the Formula is not as current as it should be.

In rejecting the Ontario Milk Marketing Board's submission for an increase of 57c per cwt., and allowing instead an increase of 35c the Commission was naturally influenced by the formula based on data for the period ending in September, 1972. Bear in mind this was before the recent increase in dairy feed prices and before most dairymen were aware of the serious nutritional deficiencies in their own feed.

I would recommend as has already been suggested, that the Formula is in need of refinement, in order that it might be more up-to-date, more responsive to current situations.

I would seriously recommend that immediate steps be taken to change the Formula in such a way as to make it more responsive to current conditions.

While I have up until now dealt almost exclusively with the matter of price for Class I and II milk, I sincerely hope that no one loses sight of the equally important industrial milk segment of our industry. These producers face the same increased feed costs, the same problems of poor quality forage, high labour costs, shortages of help, increased hydro costs, higher input costs, as do producers in the higher priced Class I and II market.

Milk prices cannot be set in one market in isolation to another market that involves thousands of producers. Nor can it be set without consideration for the effects that any price increase will have on consumer acceptance.

I firmly believe dairy farmers are entitled to as favourable a return as possible for their milk and I feel most responsible consumers feel the same way.

It should be made abundantly clear to everyone that the retail milk price increase that went into effect in Ontario the first week in January was only partially due to increased returns to the producer. The 35c per cwt. award to the producers amounts to less than 1c a quart.

In closing may I again express confidence in the future of Ontario's dairy industry. Changes have been made in the past - time and circumstances in their inevitable way indicate consideration should be given to future changes.

Ann Landers . . .

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my daughter-in-law who has had four children in seven years announced that she is almost sure she is pregnant again and added, "I hope the stork breaks a leg this time." I gathered from her comment that she did not want another child so I asked her why she didn't have an abortion. She replied, "I considered it but came to the conclusion that I'd always feel guilty."

I told her she had nothing to feel guilty about. Four children is a nice family and she had done her share. I offered to arrange everything, including counseling to get her thinking squared away. My son became furious. He told me to stay out of it, that they had accepted the pregnancy and not to add to his wife's ambivalence by suggesting alternatives. We got into a violent argument and now I'm a villian because I made a sensible suggestion. I should tell you, Ann none of us is Catholic.

I know from reading your column that you are favour of abortion on demand for any woman who wants it. Please restate your views and talk some common sense to my son and his wife. — Drummed Out Of The Tribe

Dear Drummed: I am indeed in favour of abortion for any woman who wants it - but the woman who wants it must be the one who is pregnant, and not her mother-in-law.

When your son's wife said she had considered abortion but would feel guilty about it, that should have ended the discussion. Abortion is an emotionally charged question, Catholic or not. When a woman expresses feelings of ambivalence or guilt no one should attempt to change her mind, except her physician if he feels a pregnancy would endanger her life.

Dear Ann Landers: Usually you're on the ball. But you blew it when you agreed with "Service Oriented" that a male nurse should be called by another name, something less feminine. Do you believe a female physician should be called something other than doctor because she is a woman? Why, then, should a male nurse be called something other than a nurse? Think about it, Ann. — Appleton Reader

Dear Ap.: I have thought about it, and the advice stands. The word nurse is also a synonym for "breast-feed". This double-meaning noun-verb gives "nurse" a strong feminine flavour. I hope someone comes up with a better name for men who want to work in the field of patient care.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in my 70's and live in a very pleasant home for the aged. There are about six or seven women who live here with their husbands. The rest are widows.

Some of the widows have boyfriends who live here also. They invite the gentlemen to their rooms for coffee and cookies, to watch TV or play cards. The wives think this is terrible. I think it's rather nice. What harm is there if old folks visit together and cheer each other up?

There are rules here that say we must leave our doors partly open. (No keys for locking.) So you know for darned sure there ain't no kitchie-cooin' going on.

Your column is the thing we all talk about at dinner and I'll bet some eyeballs would pop if they saw this letter. — Old But Not Dead

Dear O.B.: Put your eyeballs back in, you critics at The Home, here's my advice for today. I see nothing wrong with co-educational socializing. It's nobody's business but the people involved. In fact, if the old folks want to close the door, that's O.K. with me, too.

OBITUARIES

Earl J. Stephenson

Funeral services for Earl James Stephenson, well known Cornwall barber, were held in the chapel at McArthur Bros. and MacNeil Funeral Home, 426 Second Street East, on Saturday, January 20.

Mr Stephenson, who resided at 314 First Street West, died suddenly on Thursday, January 18. He had been in failing health for a number of years.

Born in the First Concession of Roxborough, he was the son of the late Captain James P. Stephenson and his wife, Isabel Hart. Educated locally, Mr Stephenson attended a barebring trade school in Montreal and soon after the completion of that course, he established his first business in Newington.

He came to Cornwall 44 years ago and within a short period of time, he and his brothers, Leslie and Percy, had opened up their own barber shop. The Stephenson brothers continued in business until about three years ago.

In 1929, Mr Stephenson married Elizabeth McLeod, formerly of Newington.

Mr Stephenson was an active member of Knox United Church. Among his church associations, he was a member of the Session for many years.

Besides his wife and aged stepmother, Mr Stephenson is survived by one daughter, Joan (Mrs James Dyke) Dorval, P.Q.; one son, Robert of Ingleside, five grandchildren; one brother, Percy Stephenson, Cornwall; and one sister Miss Luella Stephenson, L'Orignal.

He was predeceased by brothers Leslie and Harold.

Rev. Robert Pentinga, minister of Knox United Church, conducted the funeral service in the prescence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

Honorary pall bearers, fellow memebrs of the Knox United Church Session, were Mrs Florence Gardner, Gordon Armstrong, Bruce Rowbotham and Harold Tedford.

Active bearers were Barrie Blakely, Carl, Boyd, and Curtiss Stephenson and Weldon McLeod.

Relatives and friends attended from Toronto, North Bay, Brockville, Ottawa, Sarnia, Montreal, and surrounding communities.

The body was placed in the vault to await spring burial in Hillcrest Cemetery, Newington.

Mrs Carrie Hill

Funeral services for a life long resident of the Monkland area were held January 16 in the Brownlee Funeral Home, Finch, with Rev. W. E. Sayers officiating.

Mrs Carrie Georgina Hill died January 14 at the Rupert Nursing Home, Newington, at the age of 99, following a long illness.

Born in Roxborough, October 14, 1873, she was the former Carrie Georgina Pillar, daughter of the late Julia Rupert and William Pillar.

Educated at S.S. No. 10, Roxborough, she was a member of Monkland Presbyterian Church.

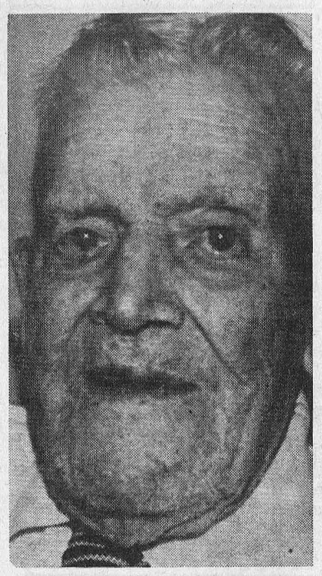
Surviving are sons William Elmer Hill, Long Sault; George Albert Hill, London; James Ross Hill, Belleville; and Bruce John Hill, R.R.1, Monkland. Also surviving is a daughter, Sheila May Holmes of Madoc. She was predeceased by a son, Hugh Alfred Hill of Toronto.

Following 2 p.m. services, burial was in Gravel Hill Cemetery. Pall bearers were Stewart Crawford and Wilfred Hill, both nephews, Winston Marjerrison, Bernard Bilmore, John Marjerrison and Oran Montgomery.

Capt. James P. Stephenson

AVONMORE — Captain James P. Stephenson, one of the area's best known and most highly respected citizens, died at the Cornwall General Hospital on Tuesday, January 16, in his 101st year.

With his passing, the community lost an important link with the past. Blessed with a great memory and an interest in community life spanning so many years, Captain Stephenson never tired of sharing the wealth of his varied experiences with all those blessed by his friendship.



Captain James P. Stephenson

Born near Avonmore in the Second Concession of Roxborough, on July 16, 1872, he was the son of the late William Stephenson and his wife, Elizabeth Hough. As a young child he moved with his parents to the home where he was to spend so many happy years.

As a young lad of 16 years he left home to begin his illustrious career with the Canadian Steamship Lines. Starting as a deck hand and continuing to climb the ladder of success, he was promoted to the position of Captain. As Captain, he piloted a total of 11 ships, most of them passenger ships accommodating as many as 400 persons. Locally he is remembered as the friendly, hospitable captain of such famous ships as the Rapids King, Rapids Queen and Rapids Prince as he guided them through the turbulent and scenic Long Sault Rapids. During his 45 years as both pilot and master, he made at least 1,300 trips through the picturesque cascade.

From the time of his retirement in 1934, he lived quietly in the family home near Avonmore. Just three years ago, he was admitted at the Cornwall General Hospital. Within a few days, his wife fell at her home and she too was removed to hospital. Within a month their fine old home with all its treasured possessions was mysteriously destroyed by fire.

Since then the Captain had been a resident of St. Joseph's Villa in Cornwall and nearly a year ago, Mrs Stephenson, too, was able to join her husband. On the occasion of his 100th birthday party last July, a gala party was staged at the Villa, at which many honours were conferred upon him.

Captain Stephenson was twice married. His first wife was the former Isabel Hart. Forty-six years ago he married Jennie Brown, a native of Scotland, who survives.

Other members of his family include one daughter, Miss Luella Stephenson, L'Orignal, Ontario; two sons, Percy Stephenson, Cornwall; and Earl Stephenson, who died suddenly two days after his father.

He also leaves 15 grandchildren and 38 great grandchildren. He was the last surviving member of a family of 12. Captain Stephenson was a member of

Pot-luck Supper planned

St. James UCW hold January meeting

AVONMORE — The monthly meeting of the UCW of St. James United Church followed a Week of Prayer service.

Mrs Rutherford MacIntyre, president, was in the chair. After the secretarial and financial reports, letters were read from those sick and shut-ins who were remembered at Christmas. Mrs H. A. Funge voiced her appreciation for a Christmas gift.

Mrs F. C. Eligh and Mrs Funge were named to meet with other ladies of the community in planning for the annual World Day of Prayer service.

Mrs Eligh and Mrs Elmer Park were appointed as a committee to plan for a pot luck supper to be held prior to the annual congregational meeting. Other events planned included a bakeless bake sale in February; a collection of used clothing to be sent to Montreal in March; and a spring tea for the month of April. The Monkland ladies will be asked to convene the April tea.

Mrs MacIntyre dedicated the offering and closed the meeting with prayer. Tea and fruit breads were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

MINISTER VISITS —

these increased feed costs, one must place the increase in prices for the products the farmer sells . . . ."

Mr Whelan said protein and feed grain prices were expected to continue at higher levels than last year for some time. He stressed that it was not due to any shortages.

"Don't let anyone fool you into thinking that there might be a shortage of feed grains in the east. There are adequate supplies of grains to meet the requirements of livestock feeders in Eastern Canada and B.C. Also, the Livestock Feed Board has taken further steps to ensure that freight assistance rates will be maintained regardless of any additional volumes that would be moved . . . ."

The Minister of Agriculture described himself as a "listening man and invited all farmers with any problems or questions to come and see him in Ottawa.

"As Minister, it is my constant preoccupation that we not only expand our livestock production in this country but that we maintain the livestock and grain markets we have developed over the past four years."

"I will defend the farmer's interests in this country with all the political skill farmers are reputed to be able to muster, not only to better the way of life of Canadian farmers, but at the same time, that of consumers."

Mr Whelan was introduced by the Hon. Lucien Lamoureux, MP for Stormont-Dundas, and thanked by Stuart Clark, newly elected president of the Stormont Federation of Agriculture.

Following his address, there was a brief question and answer period where the Minister discussed the individual problems of some farmers present.

One hint disclosed was that all $400 disaster cheques, granted by the Federal Government for crop damage this summer, had not been sent out. Anyone who hadn't received their cheque yet was to contact Mr Lamoureux and he would bring the matter to Mr Whelan's attention.
