HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

Catholic Woman's League Chesterville Sub-Division

The annual meeting of the above sub-division was held on Tuesday evening, April 1st. A matter of importance was taken up in the way of a means to create an attractive interest at the monthly meetings, so it was decided to hold a debate on a much disputed question of interest to all concerned for the first Tuesday of May.

During the transaction of business several letters of thanks were read by Mrs. Newman from those to whom flowers and fruit had been sent during illness. After the reports from the different committees a short program was given to which Miss Mead contributed two poems entitled "Wealth" and "The Blind Weaver," while Mrs. Lyle Marcellus gave several beautiful selections from "The Fragrant Minute." The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. Tate after the singing of hymn 255.

Dainty refreshments were served by the committee in charge: Mrs. Tate, Mrs. Newman, Mrs. Rowe, Mrs. W. Johnston and Mrs. G. Hummel.

Beats Firemen to Fire Pays for Honor

Belleville.—John Burkitt, of Frankford, led the Trenton fire brigade to a fire last Saturday night but he received a jolt when he paid ten dollars and costs for his fun in traffic court Tuesday morning. While proceeding to the fire, the offender passed all the reels on the road and obstructed them, according to the chief.

Morrisburg Man Held Up Robbed Near His Home

Between eleven-thirty p.m. and twelve, midnight, Saturday night, James R. Reddick, Morrisburg grocer, and member of the local branch of the Great War Veterans' Association, was attacked by thugs and robbed of $105.00 in cash, less than forty feet from the front door of his home.

Mr. Reddick, who lost the use of his right hand in the Great War, closed his store at approximately 11.30 p.m. Saturday night and left for home with about $125 in cash on his person, bills in his suit pockets and silver in his overcoat pocket. His home, which is more than half a mile from his place of business is in a dark and quiet section of the town. Upon reaching the walk leading across the road to his home he made the left hand turn necessary to cross the road and was immediately jumped upon by two men, one short and one tall, who had been hiding behind an adjacent tree. One of the men caught him by the throat as if to stifle any cry he might make and at the same time pulled him to the ground, the other striking him on the side of the head with what has since been determined as a beer bottle.

The blow no more than dazed Mr. Reddick for a time, consequently he knew exactly what was going on all the time, but was helpless, being pinned to the ground and throttled by one while the other thug robbed him of the $105. The robbers apparently knew of the $105 in bills but were unaware of the silver in Mr. Reddick's overcoat pocket, and after securing the cash, struck northward on Mill street and from there across the adjacent fields where the footprints were found and recorded the next morning.

Mr. Reddick got to his feet as soon as possible but too late to identify the pair in any way, excepting in size. The bad scalp wound is the only result of the attack on Mr. Reddick outside of the loss financially.

James O'Malley and Phillip Castigner appeared in Police Court at Cornwall yesterday morning, charged with robbery with violence and were remanded until next Wednesday. The charges against the pair were read but they were not asked to plead.

O'Malley and Castinger were arrested Tuesday afternoon by Provincial Constable B. C. Jakeman and an officer from Provincial headquarters at Ottawa. They were taken to Cornwall and held in the cells until morning. Police allege that the pair attacked James R. Reddick, Morrisburg grocer, Saturday night.

Deaths Reported Same Date On Three Occasions

March 28th in three years out of the past five has brought distressing news to Mr. W. Dawson of the Grantley district. In 1925 on that date in March he was advised of the death in Brandon of his brother, Johnston, while in 1928 the message contained announcement of the death of a niece, Mrs. Frank Mallory, of Ottawa, and this year he was advised on the same day of March of the death of his brother, Samuel, who had passed away in Brandon at the age of sixty-five years.

Young Woman Falls From Fast-Moving Train

Tuesday morning between nine and ten o'clock an eastbound freight train crew near Mountain station discovered the body of a woman lying near the tracks and stopping to investigate found a young woman about 25 or 30 years of age there unconscious. She was taken to Winchester where Dr. Malloch had been summoned to meet the train and given first aid, afterwards being transferred to a westbound passenger train and taken to a Smiths Falls hospital. The injured woman is said to have been a passenger on an extra train carrying recently-arrived immigrants and hailed from Poland to take up domestic service. The circumstances leading up to her fall from the train are not known.

Smiths Falls Man Dead On Engine's Pilot

Terribly cut and mangled, a man believed to be George Condie, of Rosedale, four miles from Smiths Falls, was killed about 12.15 yesterday afternoon, when he was struck by the Montreal-Toronto train, at a crossing a few miles south of Smiths Falls. The badly mutilated body of the unfortunate man was found on the cow catcher of the C.P.R. engine when it entered the Smiths Falls yards at 12.20 o'clock in the afternoon. Bits of harness and mangled flesh of a horse also upon the blood-stained cow-catcher made it apparent that the man had been driving over a crossing when the speeding train struck him.

Close to Butter-Fat Record

A three-year-old heifer owned by Wm. J. Fawcett, Winchester, came close to setting up a new Canadian record for her class and division in the R.O.P., when she finished her lactation the other day and it was discovered that on twice-a-day milking in the 305 division she had produced 16,271 pounds of milk and 551 pounds of butterfat, the latter seven pounds less than stands to the credit of the title holder, Clover Hill Kitty. This heifer of Mr. Fawcett's, Verouka Ormsby Pontiac, in her production of milk produced a much larger amount than the champion, her production being only 15,038 pounds.

Last Game of Hockey Won by Chesterville

Friday night the Cardinal team of the St. Lawrence league made its bow to a Chesterville hockey crowd in a hook-up with the local representatives of the Central Ottawa Valley league and were defeated by the one-sided score of 4 to 0. The ice was in good shape and a nice clean game resulted without providing any particular thrill to the supporters of either team. Chesterville collected a counter in the first period, one in the second, and two in the final.

The Cardinal team have weight and size but apparently lacked efficient coaching as their brand of hockey was hardly up to that seen in this league during the past winter or two. St. Louis and Loughridge are a speedy pair on the front line with Kinchen always alert on his wing, while it was evidently an ambition of Ivan Rombough's to get by his fellow Russellite, Bill Gamble, and soak one into the net. A counter came very close for Cardinal when the rubber struck the net frame and swung out instead of in.

The Staff of Death

Quite a long time ago a few people began to change the wording of an old phrase and when speaking of bread—and they meant white bread—to call it "the staff of death." The recent investigations of a poultry man seem to bear out the charge. He had heard a good deal said about white bread that was not very complimentary, and so he decided he would experiment on some of his hens. Setting aside a certain number, he fed them on plenty of white bread, substituting it for the regular ration. It was not long before the hens began to droop and lose interest in life. Arguing that it might be something else at fault and not the white bread, he put these waning ones on the old diet and tried some fine, busy hens, who were always laying fine eggs and telling the world about it, on the white bread, and presto! they, too, soon dropped their energetic little ways and faded like their sisters. In the meantime, these sad sisters, back once more on the unrefined food, were fast regaining their old-time verve. It looks like a case against the white bread, doesn't it?

World Spread of Institutes

To study the reports of the publicity work of the women's institutes is to get a picture of the forward march of the whole movement. In Canada, the land of its birth, it has spread from ocean to ocean, every province having now its own branch, county or district and provincial organization. in the British Isles it has far outstripped the land of its birth, both in national organization,and in growth of numbers. In South Africa, in the very place where only thirty years ago the struggling settlers were often terrorized and often massacred, today a Women's Institute flourishes, and among its manifold activities sponsors that most modern touch of modern life—the district nurse. In the state of Bengal alone, in India, there are two hundred and fifty women's institutes, "Mahila Lamitis," publishing their own official organ, one page in English, where all that pertains to the making of good homes finds space. In Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Holland, and in South America, the movement has taken root and spread, until in very deed and truth, the inhabitants of these places have found shelter in the good homes and in better living conditions which it is the purpose of the women's institutes to foster. It may be said that the Canadian motto "For Home and Country" has been adopted by institutes everywhere until today it encircles the globe.—Quebec Women's Institutes bulletin.

Tea Company Advertising Manager Addresses Worcester Club.

Worcester, Mass., March 31.—The Salada Tea Co., Inc., founded 38 years ago in Canada by the late Hon. P. C. Larkin, today occupies a dominant position in the tea packeting and merchandising industry of the U.S. as well as in Canada, as a result of adherence to a policy of its founder in regard to consistent and persistent advertising in newspapers, declared Col. Herbert C. Claridge, advertising manager of the company, in speaking before the Advertising Club at its weekly luncheon. The Salada Company, declared Col. Claridge, owes its very existence today to Canadian newspapers through which it was able to build the solid foundation of its vast enterprise. Truly the Salada company owes the Canadian newspapers a debt it can never repay. Learning the lesson from the start the company has always followed this policy.

Colonel Claridge gave a brief sketch of the company's history, paying tribute to the founder of the big industry, which now sells 17,000,000 pounds of tea annually.

"Our success has been due to consistent and persisten newspaper advertising," said Colonel Claridge in his opening remarks. Of the late P. C. Larkin, who was High Commissioner for Canada in England, the speaker said: "Mr. Larkin believed in newspaper advertising as the quickest and surest way to get at the consumer, other forms of advertising have been tried and tsted by the company, but none have been found more successful in making Salada tea the 'best seller' than newspaper advertising." Colonel Claridge said, "The basic policies of the company's founder are still in existence today. First of these are persistence to quality; second, sales work; and third, unflagging year around advertising. Considering advertising as we do merely as a sales tool, we determine our appropriations with a view of getting new business and holding present customers," the speaker said.

"Advertising is not something to be afforded, neither is it an extravagance or a luxury, but a definite means of buying new business and insurance for retaining old business. I can say that 90 per cent of our advertising is directed to old customers, and only ten per cent of it to new customers.

"Once I loved a girl, and she made a fool of me."

News and Information For the Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Boys Clean Seed.

The agricultural representative of the County of Durham reports that considerable interest in cleaner seed is in evidence in his locality. As an example, he states that in six weeks over 20,000 pounds of clover seed and 1000 bushels of grain have been cleaned by the Seed Cleaning Plant at the Boys' Training School, Bowmanville.

Live Stock Winters Well.

Brant County farmers report that stock has wintered well and is in fair condition. Generally speaking, this condition prevails throughout the entire province. In Carleton, live stock prices have been exceptionally good while in Durham fewer numbers have been marketed than is usual for this time of year. Glengarry live stock is in excellent condition and Haldimand reports likewise. Breeding stock is bringing a good price in Perth.

More Fertilizer Used.

R. H. Clemens, agricultural representative for Welland County, is the authority for some interesting information regarding ferilizers which seems to be quite typical of the situation this year. In 1928 his county imported 125 carloads of commercial fertilizer and in 1929 this increased to 225 carloads. One mixed farming township, twelve miles square, imported 64 carloads. A substantial increase over last year's figures is looked this season.

More No. 1 Apples.

Drastic changes are possible in the Fruit Act at an early date. Under the new amendments to the act, the number two and three apples would be eliminated and all apples of good color and No. 1 quality with a minimum diameter of one and seven-eights inches in the case of the small type and two inches in the larger type will be graded No. 1, while lower colored fruit or that with a little scab will be classed as domestic. There will only be two grades in place of the four now existent. This is a result of the prejudice often expressed by consumers against anything marked No. 2 or 3. The new law would also insist that the small No. 1's be put in one package and the larger ones in another.

Egg Market Settles Down.

The imports of eggs from the United States have now practically ceased for the current season. A few carloads are reported to have come in recently but these had been purchased on a previous order. The egg market has settled down this year to a spring storing basis and prices at a majority of producing points are considerably lower than a year ago. With mild weather prevailing in most producing districts it is not improbable that the movement into storage will get under way in earnest within the next week or so.

Fall Wheat Unpromising.

The fall wheat situation seems to be anything but promising this year, judging by reports of agricultural representatives of the various counties in the province. Bruce County reports fall wheat to be in a fair condition with the same to be said for alfalfa and sweet clover. Frontenac clover and alfalfa have been subjected to late frosts which may result in some killing. In Haldimand the fall wheat situation is acute and this report is duplicated by Kent where it is said that some of the acreage will have to be replanted. In Lincoln the hard frosts at night have been playing havoc with the crop. Middelsex and Peterborough Counties have been fortunate and the crop seems to be in fair condition. The recent fall of snow will improve conditions appreciably.

Poultry Business Booms.

Speaking at an agricultural conference in London recently, W. R. Reek declared that a few years ago the Ontario poultry industry was in the doldrums but that today Canadians consume more eggs per capita than any other nation in the world—the direct result of a customer getting a guarantee with every purchase, in the way of having the satisfaction that the eggs bought had undergone a careful inspection before being placed on the market. If this were developed along other agricultural lines the industry would be placed on a more prosperous basis than ever before.

Lime and Acidity.

Success in grain growing and gardening often hinges upon the amount of lime in the soil, it has been found. Alfalfa, however, cauliflower and beets, to mention a few of the crops, require enough lime to reduce the acidity. It is a matter for the chemist and the experimental farms to determine where lime is lacking and what quantity needed to be applied. It is well-known, however, that there is a relationship between potato scab and lime. This is explained by saying that while an acid soil eliminates scab it may, if too acid, reduce the yield. Experiments have shown that the range of acidity which will prevent scab and yet not reduce the yield, is very short; so that actually the farmer needs very careful lime service to determine his exact need of lime. Most vegetable crops as a matter of fact, do better under slightly acid conditions.

Value of Co-Operative.

At a recent meeting of the Vegetable Growers' Association, the vice-president, Joseph Cyr, pointed out an interesting case where an American buyer was in Canada looking for several hundred tons of garden beets for canning in disced form. The order could not be filled in Ontario as there was no organization here through which the beets could be secured at such short notice. The Federated Co-Operative of Quebec, to which he was referred, through its local organizations, experienced little difficulty in finding and grading sufficient beets for the order. The incident points out plainly the value of co-operative marketing.

Apple Market in West.

The belief is expressed by W. B. Somerset, former overseas representative of the Ontario Fruit Growers, that the fruit growers of this province have an extensive and profitable market awaiting them in the Canad an west if they will go after it. There is very little direct competition between Ontario and British Columbia in the prairie market except in tomatoes, because in apples the British Columbia grower confines himself very largely to fancy boxes predominantly of early varieties. With a good pack of later sorts in bushel hampers, Mr. Somerset sees no reason why the Ontario grower could not sell a great deal of fruit.

Food for Brood Sows.

Alfalfa or clover hay fed from racks forms an excellent roughage for brood sows. Roots are also good but may not always be availabe. The meal ration may vary considerably but should not be too strong. Bran, shorts, ground oats and ground barley in equal parts, if fed judiciously at from two to six pounds daily, depending on the size and condition of the sow as well as the period of pregnancy, has been found to give good food results. Mineral feeds are usually essential and may be supplied either by sods or a suitable mineral mixture containing charcoal, ashes, bone meal, etc.

Good Name

A national politician who retired after amassing a fortune decided to build himself a showplace for a home in Westechester, high-toned suburb of New York City.

"I want to give the place a name," he confided to an old newspaper friend; "you know, a name with one word that will describe me and the spirit of the place."

"Well, now, that you've quit politics," suggested the scribe, "why not call the place Dunrobin?"
