CHESTERVILLE - Deputy Zone Commander of Zone G3, Dave Brown will be the guest speaker at Chesterville Branch 434 of the Royal Canadian Legion Nov. 21 at 8:00 p.m. Branch president Cecil Hatt is encouraging all members to attend as a number of important issues are listed on the agenda

Library holds day of surprises for kids

FINCH — The Finch Branch of the SD&G County Library is one of three that will host a story and surprise activity day Saturday, November 19. Sue Bowness will be in Finch at 1 p.m. for the hour-long program, which is suitable for children from around six to 10 years of age. Bowness will also be at the St. Andrews Branch at 11 a.m. and at the Maxville Branch at 3 p.m.

Kids' entertainers coming to Cornwall

CORNWALL — There is no shortage of entertainment for kids aged two to 12, with the upcoming, three-series package from Carousel Entertainment for Children. With blacklight puppets, Fish Whiskers, a drama about expanding our community, will hit Cornwall's Aultsville Hall December 3 at 2 p.m. Leonardo Mozart, a comical storyteller and composer, will be on stage January 28 at 2 p.m. And on March 4 at 2 p.m., the Ontario Ballet Theatre will perform its rendition of the children's classic, The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe. Tickets are available by calling 448-3733 or 537-2540, or by visiting The Sanctuary at 217 Pitt St., Cornwall. Carousel Entertainment is a non-profit, volunteer group that brings some of Canada's finest children's entertainers to the area.

Poachers left deer after night shooting

Crime Stoppers this week is asking for the public's assistance in solving a deer poaching incident in Williamsburg Township November 9. A buck deer was shot at 4 a.m. on Mel's Lane, just north of the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary. The deer was shot from an old pickup truck and the occupants departed quickly without retrieving the dead animal. Shooting at night or from a roadway as well as allowing game meat to spoil are strictly prohibited. If you have any information on this or any act of poaching, call Crime Stoppers toll-free at 1-800-265-TIPS. If your tip leads to an arrest, you may qualify for a cash reward of up to $1,000. You do not have to reveal your identity to help solve a crime.

CHESTERVILLE — Chesterville village council candidate Frank Heerkens was the odd man out Monday as incumbent Peter Van Kessel and newcomers Gail Parker and Sharon Casselman were given the nod by Chesterville voters.

Van Kessel will serve his third term, while Parker and Casselman replace outgoing councillors Roger Cole and Martin Derks, who did not enter the race.

Reeve Jim Cook and deputy-reeve Shirley Coons were both acclaimed.

Parker was the top vote-getter, receiving support from 357 voters. Van Kessel was second with 315 votes, followed by Casselman with 269 votes. Heerkens was a close fourth, with 251 votes. Vote totals are unofficial.

Clerk Howard Smith said voting Monday seemed slow at first, but picked up during the day and was heavier in the evening.

Voter turnout in the village was 44.8 per cent, as 532 of an eligible 1,187 voters went to the polls. The number included 24 who took advantage of the advanced poll.

While the race itself was somewhat low-key, tension mounted Monday evening as about 50 supporters and curious onlookers waited in the community hall for more than a half-hour between the first poll results and the remaining numbers.

But when Cook posted the numbers from the final three polls, Parker and Casselman in particular were visibly elated and accepted congratulations from supporters. Heerkens was not in the hall when the results were posted.

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — After a three-year hiatus from Osnabruck Township council, Ingleside's Jim Bancroft will return as reeve, defeating incumbent Gordon Ross and opponent Doug Leighton in Monday's municipal election.

Bancroft tipped the scales with 1,094 votes, 299 more than Ross and 888 more than Leighton, the former deputy-reeve, who finished a distant third.

In a closer race, long-time township employee Bart Whitton got the nod as deputy-reeve as he edged past former councillor Oscar Ouderkirk with a 185-vote, 1107-922 margin.

Incumbent councillors Fran Laflamme and Heine Bruining were re-elected, and newcomer Stephen Middleton of Ingleside also got the nod from voters.

Laflamme, much like her first council victory in 1991, was the top vote getter among council candidates, receiving 1,517 votes to Bruining's 953 and Middleton's 852.

Unsuccessful councillor candidates Sam Gallinger, James Moak and Anne Missins received 703, 506 and 484 votes respectively. All vote totals are unofficial, and preliminary figures showed about 2,095 Osnabruck residents went to the polls.

Incumbent Public School Board trustee William Fleming, a 12-year veteran, easily defeated opponent Diane Leighton by a 1,192-533 vote margin.

Lise Benoit-Leger was chosen as French trustee for the Public School Board. Separate Board trustees Peter Van Moorsel and Alphonse Lafrance were acclaimed.

Winchester Township to welcome two new councillors

MAPLE RIDGE — The Claude Cousineau reign in Winchester Township continues.

Claiming 72 per cent of the unofficial vote for the reeve's seat, Cousineau collected 903 votes out of 1,255 cast in Monday's municipal election.

Falling behind the incumbent reeve, challenger Ray Como fell considerably short with only 352 votes.

Ed Gibson, Martin Schoones and John Douma will fill council seats, claiming 863, 663 and 640 votes respectively.

Gibson reclaimed his seat, having previously served a three-year term, while Douma and Schoones are newcomers to the political arena.

Cousineau said he expected the victory having talked with hundreds of voters while campaigning door to door. "I saw many people and expected it to be a three to one race in my favor."

However, he added, there is always some level of apprehension when it comes down to election day.

No major changes will take place in the township, he assured. "We'll bring the new guys up to speed and as always, it will be a team effort."

Whitteker, Van Allen returned to council

WILLIAMSBURG - Tom Henderson will be the only new face when members of Williamsburg Township Council are sworn in Dec. 5.

Long-time councillor Trevor Tolley was ousted from the political arena entirely by Deputy Reeve incumbent Lyle Van Allen during Monday's municipal election.

The Williamsburg Town Hall filled early in the evening with candidates and ratepayers eager for results.

However, a jovial atmosphere turned to one of weariness when the final results weren't counted until 11:25 p.m. Polls closed at 8:00 p.m.

Long-time Reeve Johnny Whitteker easily defeated his first opponent ever, Ken Simser, by taking 68 per cent of the votes in what proved to be a tame and uneventful campaign.

"I think the reason why I got elected was because of the infrastructure and the financial situation we're in," said Whitteker shortly after he the unofficial vote count indicated he would retain his title for what may be his last three years.

"I'm not sure if I'll be running again," he added.

Lyle Van Allen's win as deputy reeve was met with mixed emotion by the incumbent.

"I have a tremendous amount of respect for Mr. Tolley and Mrs. Dobry. Trevor will be sadly missed on council. I'm going to miss him as a fellow councillor," said Van Allen.

Van Allen took 50 per cent of the votes while Tolley and Dobry split the other half.

"You don't go into a race unless you think you're going to win," added Van Allen.

"I've lived in this community all of my life. I think that was definitely a factor (in my win)," he added, "I think I've done a fair job in my 12 years."

Robert 'Rowdy' Gillard was the surprise leader in the polls in what polls showed to be a tight race for council seats.

"I didn't expect to lead the polls. That's the first time since 1977," said Gillard.

Gillard took 26 per cent of the votes while Carkner and Henderson were neck and neck with 19 and 21 per cent of the votes.

"It was close...it gives you a really good feeling," noted Gillard.

Crites surprises in Roxborough Township

Voters give three Ratepayers Association members a mandate

MOOSE CREEK - George Crites has become only the sixth man in Roxborough's political history to stage a successful comeback for the position of township reeve, ousting incumbent Carson Payne in Monday's municipal election.

Crites, who headed the five-member slate of Roxborough Ratepayers Association candidates, easily defeated Payne by a margin of 1049 to 662, sweeping all nine of the township's polls.

In taking 61.3 per cent of the votes cast, Crites resumes the chair he vacated after serving as reeve from 1973 to 1980 and for which he vied unsuccessfully against John MacIntyre in 1985.

The last reeve to stage a comeback after being out of office for a term was G.L. McIntosh, reeve from 1932-35 and 1938-44.

Just over 61 per cent of the township's 2,793 eligible voters cast ballots Monday, an unofficial tally shows.

Joining Crites on council for the next three years are fellow ratepayer association candidates Rene Lalonde, who defeated incumbent deputy reeve Len Sabourin by an almost identical margin, and Eliot McRae, who grabbed the third council seat in a six-way race.

Carson Payne: Ousted

The other two ratepayer candidates didn't fare as well.

Council candidates Raymond Abraham finished fifth and John Brabec was dead last.

Rounding out township council are incumbent Alton Blair and first-time candidate Donald Massia, the poll horse with 872 votes.

Incumbent Daryl McRae failed in his re-election bid, finishing 58 votes behind Eliot McRae.

In his concession speech to a gloomy gathering of supporters in the Moose Creek Recreation Hall, Payne said members of the out-going council could hold their heads high for the job they had done over the past three years but "obviously the voters of the township didn't agree".

They were ready to make the tough choices, he added.

"We stepped on a few toes and shook a few walls" during the past term and he pledged "we're going to be here, live here and in three years we'll probably be back".

Village welcomes two newcomers

Both Casselman and Parker had cited community involvement and volunteer work in their bids for election, while Van Kessel banked on his experience and said the village must plan for the future.

The three successful candidates each told the Record that they thank voters for the support shown.

Heerkens had hoped to use his expertise in electrical contracting to benefit the village's Hydro Commission, which is made up of councillors.

He said Tuesday he was "mildly surprised" with the outcome, but said the fact he doesn't live in the village and a perceived conflict of interest in hydro may have worked against him. Heerkens congratulated the other candidates and said he wishes them well.

Finch's Barry Brownlee will represent Chesterville, Finch and Finch Township as a trustee on the SD&G Public School Board.

Opponent Graham Casselman led Brownlee and third candidate Heather Bourque after the Chesterville polls were tallied, but Brownlee was carried to power by a strong showing in Finch and Finch Township.

Finch elects two incumbents, two novices

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

FINCH — Finch Village voters came out in force Monday and elected two incumbents and two newcomers to their council Monday.

Incumbents Garry Ouderkirk and Terry Ouderkirk won re-election handily, and will be joined at the council table by Colonel Montgomery and Donald McKercher. Reeve Lyndon Hough was acclaimed.

Terry Ouderkirk was the top vote-getter with 216, followed by Garry Ouderkirk with 194. McKercher pulled in 176 votes and Montgomery a solid 156 votes.

Incumbent Lyle Heagle was unsuccessful in his bid for re-election, finishing fifth with 133 votes. Newcomers Doug Workman and Claire Hubbard trailed the pack with 38 and 21 votes respectively.

Voter turnout was a whopping 83 per cent in the village — with 318 of a possible 384 voters exercising their right. The figure includes 21 per cent who took advantage of advance polls.

Finch Village Clerk Madeleine Brown said she was pleased with the turnout.

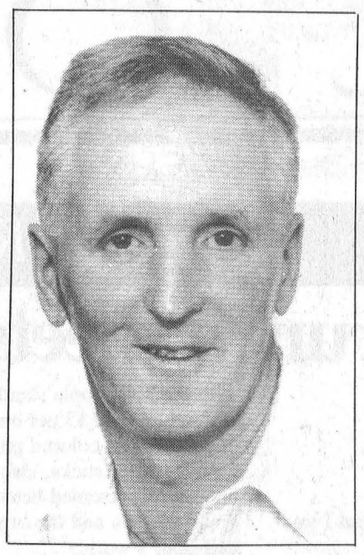
"It's obvious there was interest — the voter turnout showed that."

Colonel Montgomery said Tuesday he appreciates the support from Finch Village voters, and said he is looking forward to the challenge of his first term. "It's going to be exciting."

Terry Ouderkirk also thanked the voters, and said he hopes council will "carry on and try to keep things going for the betterment of the community."

Ouderkirk, entering his fourth term, said it was reassuring to have been re-elected, along with fellow incumbent Garry Ouderkirk.

"It was nice to know that we must be doing something right, because we're back in. And it's nice to be back in again."



Colonel Montgomery

Finch Village, unlike other local municipalities, has a reeve and four councillors as opposed to a reeve, deputy-reeve and three councillors.

Township keeps Cousineau

As for council, he added, "it was a very close race and I'm looking forward to working with all of them."

Como's outlook was not as optimistic. After refusing to pose for a photo congratulating Cousineau on his victory, Como declined an opportunity to comment.

However, at the celebration party in Morewood following the closure of the polls, Como did tell a crowd of more than 100, "I guess I had a lot of corn to pick and when it comes to priorities, my corn comes first."

Political newcomer Martin Schoones said the race for council seats was "clean and fair."

Happy with the support he received to become the councillor with the second highest number of votes, Schoones said he is looking forward to the next three years.

Douma agreed. Currently preparing for his first term on council, the 40-year-old farmer said he is willing to listen to people's concerns and act on them.

"I didn't really make any promises during the campaign. I only said I would do my best."

Douma claimed his seat by only 10 votes with 640 ballots being marked in his favor, squeezing past Robert Norris who trailed with 630.

Norris said he will not be seeking a recount. "No, I don't think that will be necessary. I will try again, perhaps, in three years and that will be good enough."

Other defeated candidates fell far behind the pack. Randy Rankin pulled in 219 votes while Brigette Klepy garnered only 151 of the unofficial votes.

Klepy insisted her campaign was a great way for her to meet people in the community, as she has only lived in Morewood for a few months. "I have lots of time to get ready for the next election in three years."

Voter turnout in Winchester Township was about average, says clerk-treasurer Nancy Krisjanis. "It was comparative to previous elections at between 55 to 60 per cent."

Ouimet tops in Finch Twp. vote

Melissa Batchilder

BERWICK — Finch Township councillor-elect Roger Ouimet swept the polls in Monday's municipal election with a whopping 655 votes.

An entire new slate of councillors will fill the seats in the township come December, ousting incumbent candidate Don Campbell.

Other councillors elected Monday were Parry Carruthers with 519 votes and Fraser Ouderkirk with 328 votes.

Campbell and political newcomer candidate Ron Beaton fell well below the 300 mark in Monday's polls. Campbell garnered only 275 votes while Beaton picked up only 269.

Barry Brownlee will take a spot representing the area on the SD&G Board of Education after taking 688 votes. Falling behind in that race were Graham Casselman with 274 votes and Heather Bourque with 143.

Voter turn-out was average in the township with about 54 per cent turning out at the polls.

Reeve Floyd Dingwall and Deputy-reeve Archie Byers were acclaimed. Candidates were unavailable for comment prior to press time.

EDITORIAL & OPINION

Editorial

Over the hump

The sun has risen again, and it may seem that little has changed in your neighborhood. But in every municipality, there are new people about to be welcomed to the council tables.

Depending on where you live, there might have been much or little hype leading up to Monday's municipal election. But now it is done, the ballots cast, the decisions made, the candidates chosen.

If you did vote, you have helped shape the face of your township, village and school board for the next three years, chosen the people who represent you at the municipal level of government.

Hopefully you voted, and more hopefully, you had reasons for the choices you made.

Finch Village is to be commended for its high voter turnout. With an 83-per-cent turnout, there's no question that the choices made were well-thought out.

In Osnabruck and Roxborough townships, voters have opted for a change at the top, in each case electing a new reeve. Ingleside's Jim Bancroft apparently convinced voters that his teamwork approach was the best for Osnabruck Township.

And in Roxborough, reeve-elect George Crites and two of his Ratepayers' Association running mates, Eliot McRae and Rene Lalonde, have enough votes on council to hold the balance. The Ratepayers' Association too convinced voters that its approach was better than the existing one.

In each case, and in every municipality, it must be said that win or lose, the people have spoken. Candidates must live by those decisions, as residents must for at least the next three years.

Keep in mind the promises that were made during campaigns, and don't be afraid to hold the successful candidates to them. Understand that it may take a while for a new candidate to learn the ropes before he or she can make their voice heard.

The best and most effective councils are those that work as a team but aren't afraid to differ when it comes to issues. The best councils are those that have members from a diverse cross- section of the municipality, from the business owner to the farmer to the every day resident.

The best councils are those that can handle the pressures and fiscal realities of the day while keeping in mind the interests of every taxpayer. Give your local council support, helpful criticism where you feel it's needed, and don't be afraid to attend council meetings. They're open to the public and they pertain to you.

Off The Record

Captain Crunch meets Captain Kangaroo

Wendel Clark
Quebec Nordiques
Le Colisee
Quebec City
Dear Wendel:

You probably don't remember me, but I was the guy who said thank you after you autographed a magazine cover and a photograph for my sons at the Ottawa Civic Complex sports card show Sunday afternoon.

I don't find it surprising if you fail to remember us since you didn't look up once as you scrawled your signature across the two pieces pushed in front of you by your flunky. Even after I said, "Thanks again", thinking that maybe you hadn't heard me and failed to respond in the way of all well brought up Canadians, with a "you're welcome", you refused to give me the courtesy of so much as glancing at the kids who had been standing in line for an hour after their father had forked out 19 bucks (plus $12 admission for the three of us) for autographs from one of their heroes.

I had to explain to them after we had endured the pushing and shoving that resulted from the massive incompetence of the show's organizers, Hobby Star Promotions, that maybe you were just having a bad day.

And then I thought to myself as we were driving back home, why should I cover for your loutishness? It's better the boys should get a lesson in real life and find out that just because someone can take a crooked stick and hit a forzen rubber disk with some reasonable degree of accuracy doesn't necessarily mean that that same someone isn't a total and utter jerk.

And Wendel, based on your sorry performance Sunday, you fall somewhere between complete jerk and overpaid prima donna, the kind of dolt who, because of some chromosal mischance, got an extra hockey gene and has had people catering to him all his life.

(Don't get me wrong. I don't back the owners. In fact, I consider NHL owners as the moral equivalent of something you'd scrape off the bottom of your shoe.)

First of all, you were an hour late. To hell with the 300 people standing in line, each of whom had paid $7 per autograph. Judging by the number of colored photographs (available for $5 each), sticks, sweaters and pennants, the line-up respresented beteeen six and seven grand for you and the organizers. Not bad for a half-hour's work.

Have you been operating on Daylight Savings Time since losing the directions to your new Doug Gilmour digital watch?

And even when you were introduced over the public address system, we were kept waiting, by my watch (the old-fashioned wind up type), an extra three minutes before you and your retinue shambled in, looking like roadies for a Stones' concert. Except that they're generally better mannered and more punctual.

And then came the announcement that you wouldn't personalize any of the souvenirs that the paying public had brought along. Your name. For seven bucks. And that was it.

And just what was it that you scrawled with that felt marker? Was it Wendel Clark? Oliver Wendell Holmes? The Duke of Wellington? You'd never know from trying to decipher it. What's the matter Wendel, forgotten how to sign your name since you got your last paycheque from Marcel Aubut?

What pointed up all the more your lack of good manners was meeting the Ottawa Senators' Brad Shaw and Peter Sidorkiewicz earlier that day at a card show in Nepean. Both players donated their time; their autographs were free; all that was asked was that a donation be made to an Ottawa hospital and there was no limit on the number of pieces of memorabilia that fans could have autographed. They even brought their own cards for those who didn't have memorabilia to be signed.

Each took time to joke with my kids, both festooned from head to toe in Montreal Canadiens logos. When I made a donation to the hospital, the doctor who had organized the signing session stopped us, whipped out his Polaroid and had my young lads join the players for a couple of pictures. And then, Wendel, they each took the time to sign both photographs.

Now here, Wendel, are a couple of guys who understand that sometimes you just have to give a little to get a little. Granted neither of them is ever likely to wear the C of the fabled Leafs, but both made more public relations points for the plight of locked out NHL'ers than one spoiled superstar.

And speaking of superstar, last spring the boys and I went to a sports memorabilia show in Toronto and met Henri Richard, who took the time to talk to them and shake hands with both.

Henri Richard, Wendel. The guy has his name on the Stanley Cup 11 times. ELEVEN TIMES, Wendel. I don't care if you are the darling of the Toronto media; that's not going to get your name on the Coupe Stanley. Not even once.

In the summer of 93 we met Bobby Hull and he, the greatest left winger since V.I. Lenin, the man who gave legitimacy to the WHA and opened the bank vault doors to ham and eggers like you, took time to stop and talk with every single person in that autograph line-up. No one left without a personal greeting, a photograph with the Golden Jet, or a handshake.

Both these guys made their names in the six-team NHL, when guys like you, Wendel, were playing for the Hershey Bears. They were the stars in the finest league in the world, not today's watered- down product, and they treat their fans as those who share their love of the game, not as marks to be shaken down at some sports card sideshow.

And 25 or 30 years later we still remember them. Whose gonna remember you in 25 years, Wendel?

It was ironic that a kid right in front of me was carrying a poster with your likeness as captain of the Leafs. "Captain Crunch" the caption said. On the strength of your performance Sunday, I'd suggest they change it to Captain Kangaroo.

Yours sincerely
Robin R. Morris

THE FARMER'S WIFE

By Wyn Thompson

I don't know how world problems affect other people, but they drive me right back to my hearth and home.

They re-activate my interest in the little everyday problems in my own corner of Eastern Ontario.

The increasing cost of fuel and the problems of polluting the environment make me plant more trees and admire greatly the stack of firewood the Farmer erects outside our door each fall.

It makes me interested in his efforts in taking care of the woodlot so that the people who inherit it in the future may have their own supply of wood.

Today, I am afraid that the unprogressive genes of my ancestors have taken over, for rather than aspiring to keep up with the flashy world organizations that are flying high —or crashing, I am becoming more and more interested in making a rural home that is as nearly self-sustaining as I can make it. Call me provincial, if you wish.

However, there is no immediate thought of leaching ashes to make home-made lye soap or starting the spinning wheel going, and yet to see plentiful fleeces on the backs of a neighbor's sheep give me a feeling of security.

We have an acreage of land, in fact most of the raw materials of contentment. A day like today, full of sunshine can make the spirit soar, and it is contagious.

Even a stormy day can be lovely if the wood is split and readied for a fire and the pantry is not empty. And if there is health.

"The world's a mess," announced neighbor Sam coming through the back door and interrupting my train of thought.

"It doesn't do to spend too much time thinking about it, Sam, " I replied.

"I suppose, but still there's..." he proceeded to list every trouble spot in the world and every, troubled politician.

"Sam's like this some days" his wife Amanda often comments.

He sipped the last of his coffee, laid a farm manual on the table for the Farmer. "Guess I've depressed you enough," he flung over his shoulder as he left.

On the contrary, Sam's assessment of things never fails to make me laugh.

I started humming, "What the world needs now..." Less of Sam in that mood, perhaps?

Before I spent too much time thinking the subject of world problems over, I decided that a fine day is simply a state of mind, not a special meteorological event.

A day is fine if one approaches it in a joyous, appreciative frame of mind. I, of course, don't want to think too much about this or I will find myself beyond my depth, in a sort of philosophical jungle.

However, I am determined to have a bit to say about fine days. For starters, our lives should be made up of them and our greeting to one another should be "A good-day!" (I long ago learned not to inquire after health).

When extended in all sincerity this is the best wish in the world. But, if you listen to the way in which it is extended by some people, you feel they don't know the meaning of the word.

It sounds almost as if they might be saying "Good-day and a boot to your miserable carcass."

But, there is another greeting I like even better than the ancient one. "A fine day!"

If it is said with feeling and warmth, you realize that it is a state of mind that is eqivalent to saying "I am happy and hope that you are the same."

I have noticed that people of a cheerful disposition use this greeting, often regardless of the weather. When I get this greeting, I instantly feel that the day has some wonderful qualities I'd better find, and for a short time at least I feel better for the encounter.

Then there are some people who seem to feel that only if the sun is shining can they shift gears to a happiness mode.

"Sunshine is necessary to make a fine day," states a rather bothersome acquaintance.

But, it's not hard to gather opinions on how to tell a good day from a bad one. For some, like William E. Saunders, "There is no such thing as bad weather; only our lack of appreciationo of it."

For others, it doesn't take much...as an old Simcoe, Ontario, rhyme suggests, "If a cock crows as he goes to bed,
He will wake up with a wet head."

The Newfies got it right in the Folk Lore of Nfld., 1937.

"A year of snow, a year of plenty,
A warm Christmas. A cold Easter.
A red sun got water in his eye.
Evening red and morning gray,
Double signs of one fine day."

Then, there are those to whom food means a fine day. Any kind of food. Such was the case for Sydney Smith, 19th century writer,

"Oh, green and glorious! Oh herbaceous treat!
'Twould tempt the dying anchorite to eat;
Back to the world he'd turn his fleeting soul,
And plunge his fingers in the salad bowl!
Serenely full, the epicure would say,
Fate cannot harm me, I have dined today."

But, who that has met a jolly friend fails to afterward chirp the lines. "It's sunny weather
When we are together."

A Good Day To You!

Reflections

Generosity breeds contentment for Grace Dale

Melissa Batchilder
Record staff

Alive. If one word had to be chosen to describe Grace Dale, it would be alive. From the moment she awakes in the morning, her heart must fill with sunshine as she welcomes fresh air into her lungs and embraces her warm surroundings.

Looking back on 77 years of life, not once does she dwell on a misfortune or tragedy, despite knowing a few. She chats endlessly about her "blessings" and "good fortune."

It is her tasteful humility which causes her to hold back when asked to reflect on her accomplishments. "I'm not one to boast. I just don't want people to think of me that way." How could they? Her grace and elegance prevent it.

She bounces from room to room pointing out favorite possessions, all the while gripping tightly to a weathered copy of the Bible.

Inside the once black-bound book are keepsakes from her past; birth and wedding announcements, anniversaries and obituaries. All have played a role in what she refers to as "a very fortunate life."

Despite following many paths in life, one thread appears to intertwine and connect them all. Grace's family is first and foremost. "It always has been and always will be."

A wall of fame features each child and grandchild and Grace beams as she looks at it. Amongst photos developed in black and white and color is an eye-catching portrait of the lady of the house. She is arranging a bouquet of flowers beneath a painting. "That's a story I'll explain to you later."

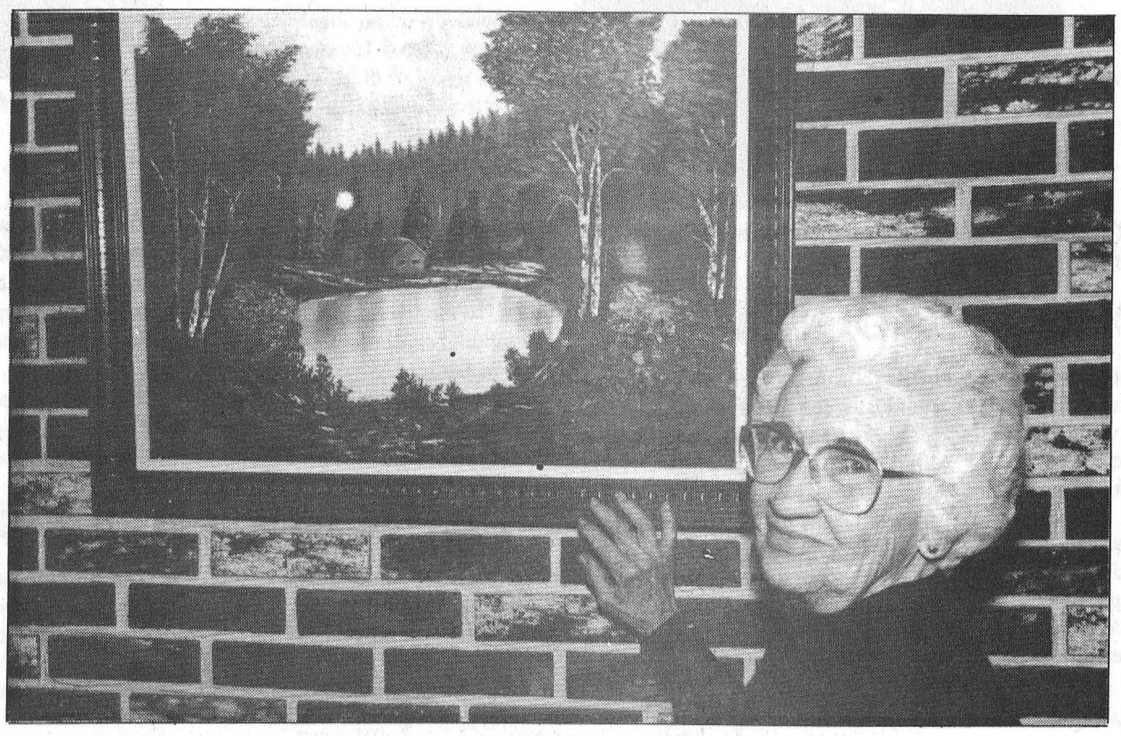
Back in her family room, Grace is more interested in sharing stories about paintings on the wall or the stone wall behind the stove than about herself.

"The rocks in this came from the east to the west coast. This one is from a gold mine. This one is from Thunder Bay and this one is from PEI."

Her husband used to laugh about the trailer being heavier each time they returned home from a trip. "I just loved looking at and picking up rocks along the way."

For Grace, "along the way" covered a lot of miles, especially once she became a travelling saleswoman. That too, is another story.

"I had wonderful parents. I was the baby of four and the only girl in the family. I don't think I was spoiled. When my father said yes, he meant yes and when he said no, he meant no. I respected that."



Painting with oils is just one of Grace Dale's many talents.

Grace met the man she married when she was 15. It was two and a half years later the wedding actually took place. "He had to travel 11 miles to work in the winter and he told me I either married him before winter or forget it. I married Graham Durant that year and his mother lived with us for 15 years."

It was a year and a half later, she explains with a note of sadness in her voice, "we had a baby girl." The infant only lived for eight weeks.

However, only 18 months later Grace gave birth for a second time, to her son, Jack. "And 22 months after that Don came along."

The family lived on Kittle Road on a farm and worked with the intention of their futures in mind until Graham Durant was diagnosed with angina. "It was a family illness and it was actually eight years before he died."

Looking to an arrangement of dried flowers on the table before her, she explains, "she got into the flower business more by accident than anything else."

The local funeral director called one day about 4:30 p.m. and said he was in a jam. "Everyone knew I kept flowers so I told him to bring a couple of containers and some ribbon and I would see what I could do."

She did something alright. That was the beginning of her flower business. "Once I was worried and called to ask if I needed some sort of licence to be arranging flowers and I was told all I needed was the know how." After installing a cooler and using the upstairs den of her house for arranging, she was on her way to becoming a successful businesswoman.

When Graham Durant's illness prevented him from farming any longer, Grace asked him how he felt about moving to Chesterville and opening a flower and gift shop. "We moved to Chesterville in March and Graham died the following January. It was 1968."

For Grace, there's been a lot of water under her bridge. Not once did she consider stopping her life. "I just dwelled on the good and let go of the bad. I think and am grateful for always having been blessed with good fortune."

Whether it's been working with flowers, paints, crafts or baking, she has done her best. "That's what success is, don't you think? It's doing your best."

Grace continued with her business, Durant's Flowers and Gifts, for a number of years. "But I decided to retire at 52."

In 1970 she married her second husband, Merv Dale. "He was a wonderful man. He was so thoughtful and loving and was always writing bits of poetry."

Merv Dale was a salesman who travelled extensively throughout the province. The pair lived in Ottawa where Grace worked in a jewelry store, having not lasted long in retirement and her husband was on the road.

"It was Merv who suggested I go on the road with him and be a salesperson. He said if I gave up my job and travelled that would be fine with him. I gave my notice and was wished well."

For the next 10 years, Grace "had a ball on the road." The couple travelled all through the north. During this time their base was the Kittle Road. "We set up our home in this trailer 22 years ago and built onto it as we needed."

Grace lost her second husband three years ago, but during his life she remembers with a smile, "we had a lot of fun. We enjoyed everything together."

Today, Grace has a lot of life to look back on. "I've learned many lessons and enjoyed everything I've tried. The fun is usually in the trying."

Her home is now filled with paintings she has done or needleworks she has completed.

"Being a good mother was the most important thing to me."

She also learned the use of a dictionary, she notes, while touring through her hobby room. Dozens of books fill shelves as her sewing machine is situated in one corner and skeins of wool fill the closet. "I don't have any high school education, so I always read with two books in my hand. One was the dictionary."

The weathered copy of the Webster's Dictionary holds a prominent spot on the bookshelf.

Back in her kitchen, Grace's youth is apparent. After pulling out a kitchen drawer, she slams it closed with her hip. She laughs aloud when the movement is commented on.

Her energy level is high. Grace has hardly taken a seat for the past two years. One wonders when she ever sat down long enough to complete 120 paintings or tie the ends on a piece of crewel work. Her surroundings prove that she must have at some point.

Life to Grace, is what she has made of it...filled with generosity seeding contentment, warmth and love.

Melissa! — by Melissa Batchilder

Ohhhh, I'm sooo exhausted. Seriously, I slept in until 6:30 p.m. Sunday night. I was really happy to see them come, but wasn't sobbing endlessly as they headed east and west either.

I was just so tired. Truly, madly, insanely exhausted. Come Saturday night, I don't even remember where I slept. All I know is that when I got home there wasn't a bed or a blanket to be found. Actually, I seem to recall pushing someone onto the floor at one point. It was almost as bad as the night I just slept under a pile of clothes.

And Smelly, my dear friend. Well, she wouldn't have been so dear had she convinced me, the quiet one, to go out on the town one more time. I'm just not the party princess I used to be. However, I might add, I think she picked up steam as she aged.

The folks had a time I think. I know they loved Chesterville and thought it was a beautiful spot with wonderful people. Of course, I'm biased. I always thought it was beautiful.

And so long as Howard Heritage is across the street, I won't be missing my Poppa as much. Keep in mind the hash-slinging king is the same guy who sent me a looooovely pair of boots for d'winter. Nothing like army boots with scrunchies to keep your toesies free of frost-bite!

It really was a wonderful week and I'd love to tell ya all about it. Hell, I wish ya all was there. I mean you too, could have enjoyed fried bologna sandwiches on a regular basis. And we wouldn't want to forget the one minute showers in the morning. Ya were wondering why my hair looked so awful. There was still shampoo in it. I guess that's what happens when ya got a full house and a weensy hot water tank.

And I mean, for entertainment, you could have been amused by watching my father pull his teeth out much to the enjoyment of the grandchild.

Anyways, I can't tell ya all about it cause my eyelids are drooping and I'm trying to clear off a spot on the desk to lay my pretty little head.

Did I tell ya why my turtles should be put down? Now those of you who are into the rights of reptiles, take a pill, this story is unbelievable. I didn't know whether I should call a doctor or a veterinarian. Thank heavens, my momma was there or I would have been in a major way.

There I was. It was the night my three and a half year old and excelled nephew Daniel arrived.

Of course, like all kiddies, he headed for the turtles, Lille and Hammer, who I hate now.

I suppose the rotten little critters were a little confused with all the people around and being picked up and forced to do tricks all the time. Believe me, I wasn't long gettin' the message.

I picked up Hammer, who is the violent and aggressive male as I see him now. Actually, an anger management course wouldn't go astray with him.

Anyways, I pick him up and put him close to my face and say, "see Daniel, he doesn't bite." Well that little bleeping son of a sailor grabbed hold of my bottom lip and held on for what it was worth.

I was justa screechin' as I literally, yanked the little bleeper off my face and threw him onto the rocks in his tank. I'll probably have the Humane Society after me now. And did I get sympathy? I'd be doubtin' 'er. That is, unless of course, you call my mama almost wetting herself with laughter on the couch and my father wiping his eyes for the next hour, sympathy.

Nosirreebob. Even when I called the hospital for advice on the medical procedure I should be following the doctor screamed laughter in my ear and said, "well, I never thought this is what I would have been called for tonight."

Fine then. Bugger off all of yous. When I develop some rare form of a tropical disease from the turtle biting my lip I certainly won't be hanging my hot water bottle on your doorstep to take care of me.

And as for the turtles. They're for sale. Okay, well I'm only keeping them because it's illegal to sell turtles in this province. Maybe they'll rot like I'm still hopin' the pumpkins will do.

There are good people and there are not so good people in this world. Doug of Doug's Golden Eagle in Glen Becker is one of the good people.

As I was leaving work late last Tuesday evening I realized just as I was approaching lovely Williamsburg, that I was out of gas. I mean, I was really out of gas. It was below the empty line, by about a centimetre.

So I pull into a gas station and plead with the owner to take a cheque. It was all I had with me. I begged him and told him he could keep all my identification, family pictures, the whole nine yards if he would just please take a $5 cheque. I just wanted enough gas to get home.

Well, no sir. He snarled at me and told me he wouldn't and he didn't care where I had to go.

I was devastated. I had to get home. I didn't know what to do. This guy might as well have spit at me. I told him my family was arriving and I had to get home and everything. He told me he didn't care.

I had no choice but to get back in my car and just drive in hopes of finding another gas station.

At Glen Becker the engine started to sputter just before I saw the lights of Doug's Golden Eagle. I pulled in expecting rejection and envisioning having to hitch-hike home. I was in such a state that I just starting pouring out my whole story to Doug who listened like a therapist, then shrugged his shoulders and said, "no problem. How much gas do you want?"

It's funny how every now and then you just want to say thanks, send a person a gumdrop cake (if I could make one) or just let them know the good deed they performed was appreciated. Not only did I appreciate it, but my entire family did as I was able to arrive home just before my sister and nephew, who I haven't seen for two years, got there.

Thanks Doug! You made our day.

Sandy Dillich is on the whine again. She still doesn't have a couch. Poor Sandy. Poor, poor Sandy.

If your have an old couch you are looking to get rid of, Sandy is your taker. Call her at d'Record.

******

Well, it's time for the weekly watch out of my window on the world.

I always have to mention Gone Loonie because it's right in front of my face as I look out and because I loooove dollar stuff. Obviously, so does everyone else cause I just saw about 10 people go in.

It must be the beautiful weather that's drawn so many out. Honestly, it looks like downtown Toronto without the suits or derelects. Right now, I can see a whopping 23 people on King Street.

There is a girl with an awesome outfit that appears to be heading for d'Record. Maybe we can kidnap her and steal her krinkle skirt and suede boots.

Someone is using the phone next to the Heritage. I wonder who he's calling. Maybe I'll just wander over and ask him.

What are they doing to the old hardware store building? I saw a bunch of guys over there chipping away at the bricks this morning. Now that's what I'll do. I'm gonna go right over and ask. Have a week!

Bleak picture: Carson Payne, left, and Daryl McRae view the wreckage of their electoral hopes Monday night in Moose Creek. Both incumbents lost their seats.

Crites upsets Payne in Roxborough

In a campaign marked by controversy, Payne later told The Record he couldn't fight innuendo with facts and despite claims to the contrary by his opponents, he was leaving the township in better financial shape than he found it.

Reserves have been increased from $100,000 to $400,000; capital expenditures have increased from $400,000 to $1.5-million and the $8-million Moose Creek sewer and water project is well under way while taxes for municipal purposes were held at an annual increase of only about one per cent.

He accused his opponents of fostering divisiveness between rural areas and villages and among the villages themselves and argued that his policy on development will ultimately pay dividends for the township.

"It doesn't make any difference where the development goes. It will benefit everybody in Roxborough.

"If there are new subdivisions built in Moose Creek because of the sewer and water project, it will increase assessment for the whole township."

Payne said he was surprised that he hadn't done as well in Moose Creek and Monkland.

Resentment of the Moose Creek project could have hurt him in Monkland in Moose Creek itself, his home poll, he put his six- vote loss down to a misinformation campaign about the sewer and water project.

Crites said he wasn't surprised by Monday's verdict or by his margin of victory.

In a telephone interview from his home Tuesday, he said his record of 16 years on council and the issues the ratepayers' association raised during the campaign propelled him back into office.

Questionable management of projects like the Moose Creek water project, closed meetings and lack of attention to township roads contributed to his victory, he said.

He promised an end to closed council meetings for any purpose other than matters of property and personnel and pledged to keep a close watch on the completion of the work in Moose Creek, first proposed in 1979 when he was reeve.

"When council got their hands on that $8.5-million something went to their heads. We had engineers crawling all over council and council crawling all over the people.

"A dollar is a dollar is a dollar and a dollar has to be looked at...I'm right behind any council that wants development but you have to use everybody equally."

Crites added that he was surprised that in a township with the population of Roxborough's there weren't more candidates for reeve.

"There should have been at least 10."

His victory doesn't mean the end of the ratepayers association, he said Tuesday.

"I want them to watch over me and this council to make sure they're satisfied we're running it right down the middle of the road."

Munroe retains seat

TOLMIE'S CORNERS - Donald Munroe easily retained his seat for Roxborough Township and Maxville on the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education Monday, turning back a challenge from Lusia Jaziewicz.

Munroe, who wrested the seat from Jasiewicz in 1991, took all nine township polls and Maxville's poll to win by a better than two-to-one margin, 696 to 246.

In other board elections, M. Ouellette edged D. Jones 13-11 for area trustee on the French- language section of the public board and N. Bourgeois defeated D. Therriault 285 to 166 for area French-language trustee on the SD&G RCSSB.

Bancroft wins mandate in Osnabruck

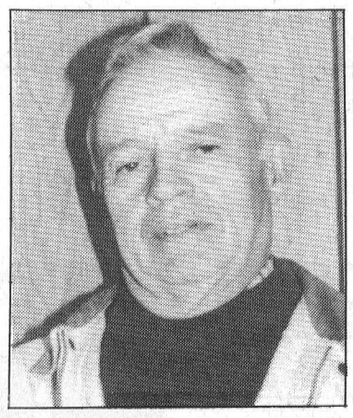
Reeve-elect Bancroft, whose support was consistent throughout the township and its 11 polling stations, led the race early, with 619 votes to Ross's 440 and Leighton's 100 after seven polls had reported back to the returning office.

Bancroft, in an interview after his victory was inked into the result board, said that he didn't dwell on past councils or personalities in his campaign, "And I honestly believe this is a result of those actions."

"We'll have fun for the next 24 hours and enjoy it a bit, but then the work begins," he said, adding he will get together with the other successful candidates before the next meeting.

Deputy-reeve-elect Bart Whitton attributed his victory to being well-known in the township. He served in a number of capacities until his retirement in January.

"This is something I looked upon as a challenge, first to get myself elected, and second to prove the point that I can do this," he said after the final results were posted.



Deputy-reeve-elect Bart Whitton

Whitton said finances will be the focus of the next three years, that the township will have to modify its stance in the face of provincial cutbacks and the fiscal realities of the day.

"I see it as quite a departure from our way of doing business. It's a re-learning process."

Opponent Oscar Ouderkirk said he was not disappointed with the loss, saying he was satisfied with and had accepted the results.

He said he enjoyed his time on council and was looking forward to a return to private life, but noted the past council took a hard stand when it had to.

"I only hope that the council that's coming in does the same thing."

Bruining said he had mixed emotions about the election results, saying he was pleased to have won, but that he was sad for a couple of colleagues who were not successful.

"I'm elated and sad at the same time," he said.

Bruining said, however, that he was looking forward to getting together with the new council and getting back to business.

Middleton told the Record that he thanks voters for their support, and said he is looking forward to learning the ropes and helping the township "move ahead."

Whitteker easily survives challenge

Gillard is anxiously anticipating his next three years on council.

"I want to work towards a nursing home after we complete the 31 unit housing project."

"I'd like to continue to put as much back into the township as possible. It's all about working with the people," he said.

Gillard's long-time fellow councillor, David Carkner, was disappointed with the voter turnout as, he predicts it may be the people's last chance to vote in this forum.

"The turnout wasn't very good for the weather," he noted.

"It's probably the last time we'll have a municipal election because of the way the government is restructuring," he added.

Taking over Trevor Tolley's vacant chair is first-time candidate Tom Henderson.

"I think new blood can't hinder council, it can only help," said Henderson.

"It was a close race. I hoped I'd win and so did everyone else (I know)."

Henderson believes his lifelong residency and commitment to the Township of Williamsburg will compensate for his political naivete and transition onto council will be eased with the aid of veterans.

"The first part of it is a learning process... and I've lived in Williamsburg Township all my life and I'm sure we'll all get along very well," he said.

Susan Adams is the new Public School Board Trustee for the township.

Adams walked away with 43 per cent of the votes.

Chesterville Public School notes

Students at Chesterville Public School raised $3566 at their recent walkathon and will be donating 10 per cent of the amount collected - $357 - to Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

The balance of the funds will be used for extracurricular activites, buses for field trips and sports events.

Report cards were sent home with students Mon., Nov. 14. If your child hasn't brought home a report, call the school at 448-2224.

Parent interviews will be held at the school on Thursday evening and all day Friday, which is a Professional Activity Day.

Chesterville Public School's 10 and under girls team took first place at the recent Dundas Elementary School Cross Country Meet at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary. Congratulations to Tonya Spiller, Kimberly Dings, Gwen Dingwall and Christina Nicol.

The school committee is starting a trial run for a hot lunch program at Chesterville Public School and will be serving pizza pockets, at a cost of $1, on Thurs., Nov. 17. Correct change is required.

Parents are reminded that drinks are available on a daily basis. Orange juice, milk and chocolate milk are being sold by the school committee at 50 cents per container.

The breakfast program, begun last year, continues. Children may have cereal and orange juice upon arrival at the school. A donation of 25 cents is appreciated but not required. Children taking part in the program are asked to bring an unbreakable drinking container that can be rinsed out after use.

Susan Ennis has been selected to work on a committee which is revising the primary grades report cards for public elementary schools in SD&G.

Parents who wish to purchase books at the school's annual book sale may do so between 8:30am and 4pm., Nov. 17 - 22, inclusive. Profits from the sale are used to purchase new books for the school library.

Anyone with ideas for a school entry in the Chesterville Santa Claus parade, to be held Sat., Dec. 10, or who wishes to help build a float can get in touch with the school committee by calling the school at 448-2224.

Members of the Environmental Gang wish to thank everyone who donated clothing for their Honduras project. The container with the clothing and medical supplies left Canada Nov. 14.

The Environmental Gang wishes to remind parents that they are still looking for donations for their Christmas rummage sale. Donations can be sent to the school in care of Ms. Henbest.

The SD&G and Cornwall chapter of the Association for Bright Children of Ontario (ABCO) will meet at 7pm Thurs., Nov. 24 at Cornwall's Viscount Alexander Public School, at the corner of Dover and Westmoreland Streets. Guest speaker will be Margaret Tofflemire, ABCO president, who will speak on the "IPRC and what it means to you". For further information, call Sushil Aneja at 543-4503.

Morewood P.S. holds book fair

MOREWOOD — Parents, students and staff of Morewood Public School are holding the Annual Fall Book Fair until Friday.

The fair began Tuesday at the school in Morewood.

Members of the public are invited to attend and preview or purchase a wide variety of books for all ages.

Proceeds from this year's book fair will go toward the purchase of new books for the school library and classes.

Shoppers can choose from many fiction and non-fiction titles, featuring this year's most popular youth authors, such as Caroline B. Cooney, R.L. Stine, Betty Ren Wright, Phoebe Gilman and many more.

A special preview schedule for students has been arranged for today, Wednesday. Hours for the public are 2:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. Thursday and 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. Friday.

For further information, contact Jean Cabana-Marshall at 448-1440.

JWJ Styrofoam owner Margaret Countryman, left, and her assistant Wanda Feeley display just a few of the dozens of designs which can be purchased at the shop. Currently, a number of Christmas designs are being created and sold at the Highway 43 business. Countryman also designs and sells a number of other characters, figures and signs.

JWJ makes waves in styrofoam when local woman takes reigns

Melissa Batchilder
Record staff

CHESTERVILLE — JWJ Styrofoam isn't just a hobby, it's a business.

Located on Highway 43 just east of Chesterville, it offers a wide assortment of products fit for gifts or decorations throughout the year.

Styrofoam replicas of Christmas trees, Toronto Blue Jays logos and Sesame Street's Cookie Monster along with a host of other characters adorn the walls as Margaret Countryman prepares another piece of work.

A massive sale sign is about to be cut on one of five tables designed to mold the styrofoam.

"We cut each piece with heated wire depending on what shape or size it needs to be," says Countryman.

After purchasing the company in March, she says, "it was trial and error from there on in."

Although she enjoyed drawing, Countryman had no previous experience in the styrofoam cutting trade.

"Drawing is a big part of the business," she adds, as each raised piece of styrofoam has to be drawn separately.

Whether it's a Christmas decoration or a sign, the styrofoam works can be displayed outside without problem. "They can go indoors or outdoors just as long as they are properly supported."

Countryman will be displaying her own Christmas works on her lawn this year. "I can't tell people they can do this if I haven't tried it myself."

Most of the styrofoam pieces make great gifts, says Countryman. "Barney and Sesame characters are great ideas for children's rooms and people will often buy the sports logos for boys rooms or behind their bars."

Although the signing aspect isn't a large part of her business right now, she adds, there is room to expand. "I made my own sign outside and it has stood up really well."

However, all outdoor styrofoam pieces have to be painted. "There is a chance the birds will try to eat the styrofoam if it isn't painted."

Prior to working in styrofoam, Countryman had a cake shop in the same building. "I used styrofoam dummies for cakes and as a result became aware this business was for sale."

The styrofoam is purchased conveniently in Finch and transported the few kilometres up the highway.

"The work seems to be keeping us busy. We really couldn't be doing a whole lot more."

Wanda Feeley is Countryman's part-time assistant, "when she isn't working for my husband."

With the Christmas season fast approaching, Countryman is inviting customers and new shoppers to drop buy and take a peek at Santa Claus, reindeer, poinsettias and a host of other seasonal decorations.

Finch Township asks school board to split cost of paved sidewalk

Record Staff

BERWICK — Finch Township has asked the SD&G County Board of Education to pay a portion of the cost of a paved pedestrian walkway along the east side of County Road 12 near North Stormont Public School.

Council passed the motion at its Nov. 7 meeting - the last before the Nov. 14 municipal election - asking that the board pay a portion of the estimated $4,700 cost of the 100-yard-long strip, according to clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey.

Counties council has agreed to provide the engineering for the project but will not contribute toward the actual paving cost.

Council hopes to start work on the project next year.

The original request for a paved walkway, roughly the width of a sidewalk on the east shoulder of the county road, came from the administration at the public school, Empey said.

There are no sidewalks on either side of County Road 12 but pedestrians tend to favor the east side of the road because of the depth of the ditch on its west side.

At its Nov. 7 meeting, council authorized the reeve and clerk to sign an agreement with the United Counties for a road reconstruction project in Berwick and for the water and sewer project in Crysler.

The work in Berwick involves the township's share of the cost of the reconstruction of a section of County Road 9 from County Road 12 west for about 500 feet.

The counties' road department is looking after the cost of the road, curbing, gutters and drainage, and 25 per cent of the cost of the installation of sidewalks.

The township will pay for 75 per cent of the cost of the sidewalks and the full cost of restoring lawns in the construction area, Empey said.

Full details on the Crysler project will be available after the plans and agreement have been reviewed at the counties level, he added.

Big winner

A $100 ticket paid off for Chesterville's Paul Elliott, left, as he was the big winner in a recent draw to benefit the Wheels for Stacy campaign. Elliott, left, accepts the grand prize cheque for $10,000 from Wheels For Stacy committee members John Edgerton, Kevin Mackler, Donnie Wheeler and Ron Gibson. Mackler says the campaign was a success, as a van with wheelchair lift was recently presented to the family of Stacy Paul, a three-year-old Winchester girl who suffers from Spinal Muscular Atrophy. $500 winners were Bill McMillan of Winchester Springs, Robert Tuckey of Brinston and groups from Winchester Cheese, Ontario Hydro in Winchester and Beavers Dental in Morrisburg.

Catholic Board supporters continue fair funding lobby

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CORNWALL — The SD&G Catholic School Board plans to continue its fight against what it calls an unfair provincial funding mechanism that results in lower per-student spending ability for the board.

The Campaign for Fair Funding in Education is targeting provincial tax assessment regulations that it says are unfair.

According to figures provided by the SD&G Roman Catholic Board, its cost per elementary pupil in 1993 was $4,823 compared to $5,192 for the public board, a difference of $369 per pupil. And for secondary students, it cost the Catholic Board $5,834 per pupil last year compared to $6,519 for the public board, a difference of $685.

"It's not a separate school board versus public school board dispute here," stresses committee co-chair Denis Sabourin. "It's an inequity in the system pertaining to all assessment-poor school boards."

Sabourin said some school boards, such as in northern Ontario for example, simply do not have the tax assessment base to handle the administration and classroom requirements needed.

He said while he believes the SD&G Catholic Board is delivering cost-efficient education, more could be done if more money was available.

"If the funding was equal, think about how much better a child could do — instead of one computer per classroom, you could be looking at two or three.

"It's not a poverty issue, it's an assessment issue and that's what we're asking the government to address."

The committee is made up of parents and some school principals, and its objectives are to raise awareness of the inequity locally, among parents and Catholic organizations, and lobby the provincial government.

Sabourin said more funding would also allow the board to address the conditions and upkeep of its buildings more aggressively.

"We do have a high level of quality service in the classroom, but I'm concerned there's not going to be a lot of it left, the way the province keeps handing costs down the local school boards."

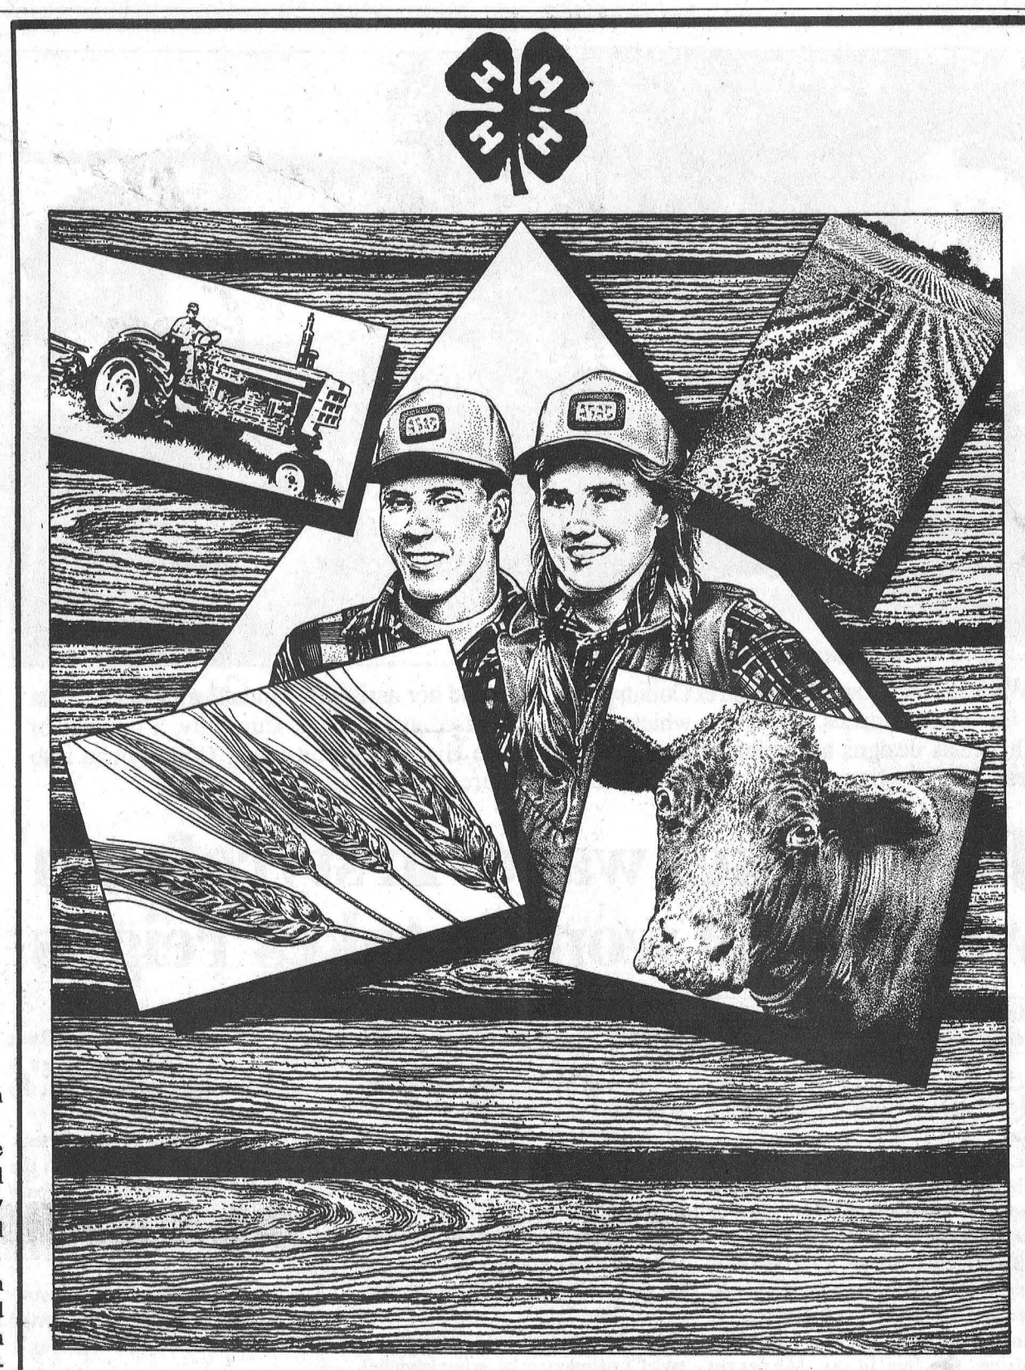
A province-wide letter-writing campaign started in the spring generated 100,000 letters to various provincial politicians. And 28,000 of the letters were from parents in SD&G.

Sabourin noted that not all of the letters were from separate school board supporters, and that the law changes being sought will benefit all school boards.

The committee hopes to meet with provincial Minister of Finance Floyd Laughren and Minister of Education Dave Cooke before the current session of provincial parliament ends in in the second week of December.

And in the meantime, the committee urges concerned parents and supporters to write the two ministers and demand action.

"With that kind of response, it's a constant reminder that the people of this area want to see some action."



4-H is an educational program that helps young people develop skills, serve their communities and explore possible career choices.

The 4-H slogan is "Learn By Doing." Members learn by working on various activities and projects. Subjects for such activities and projects include the environment, health and safety, leadership, nutrition, plants and animals, science and technology, and many others. 4-H participants also learn how to deal with stress, make good decisions, build a good self-image and develop other skills that help them become responsible and productive citizens.

Recycle Your Money This Christmas
By Shopping Locally

Here are eight very good reasons to shop Winchester this Christmas:

1. Economic development. It has been proven every dollar you spend at home does the work of $5.00, circulating over and over in the community.
2. Personal service. Local merchants know their customers and can help with gift selection.
3. Part of every dollar you spend goes towards local taxes, so you pay less.
4. Hometown business employs local residents.
5. Quality merchandise. Merchants stand behind their products.
6. Local merchants financially support the interests of your children and grandchildren (i.e. minor sports, organizations, churches, etc.)
7. Plus we care about our customers. You'll be greeted with a smile and a hello, and you can shop at your own pace.
8. Plus you could be the winner of our $2,000 Shopping Spree. Minimum purchase required.

CARD OF THANKS

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank the many family, friends and relatives who shared in our 40th anniversary celebration making it an enjoyable and memorable day. Also for the many cards, gifts and good wishes. Special thanks to Phyllis, Keith and family for planning this occasion. It was a day we will cherish and remember always.

Ken and Betty Beckstead

CARD OF THANKS

The family of the late Harold M. Marcellus of Finch wishes to extend their appreciation for expressions of sympathy, charitable donations, flowers and food brought to our homes. A special thanks to Dr. D.K. MacMillan, the staff of W.D.M.H., the staff of Brownlee's Funeral Home, Rev. Leslie Walker and St. Luke's- Knox Ladies Aid for the lunch they served.

Mae Marcellus, Lana and Carol

CARD OF THANKS

SLOAN - The family wish to express their sincere thanks and appreciation to our relatives, friends, and neighbors for the wonderful support we received during Bev's illness. We are truly grateful to Rev. George Bruce, Dr. C. Adamson, W.D.M.H. and staff, and the Ottawa Civic Cancer Clinic. An extra thank you to the staff at Daniel's Funeral Home for making this time easier for us. Perhaps you sent a lovely card, a floral arrangement, or sat quietly in a chair and spoke the kindest words or just thought of us in sorrow. Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much. For addresses unknown or anyone missed please accept this as a personal thank you.

John and Family

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank my family and friends for their visits during my stay at Winchester Hospital. Special thanks to Dr. Justus and nurses on second floor for their care.

Allan Ross

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank my family and friends for visits, phone calls and cards while a patient in Winchester Memorial and Ottawa General Hospitals. Special thanks again to Drs. Slowey and Schnurr and doctors and nurses in Ottawa and Winchester I.C.U. Very special thanks to Father Esper for prayers and kindness. All is deeply appreciated and will long be remembered.

Francis Lynch

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to thank everyone who helped me during the election and all of those who voted for me. Mr. Brownlee and Mr. Casselman you both presented a great challenge. From the bottom of my heart thank you all.

Heather Bourque

CARD OF THANKS

C.N.I.B. thanks all the volunteers, team captains, organizations and the generous contributors of our area for the continuing support of our recent campaign. In these troublesome times, the results were most heart warming. A very special thanks to Doris Cross.

IN MEMORIAMS

IN MEMORIAM

TUPPER - In memory of a loving husband, father and grandfather, Dwight, who passed away Nov. 17, 1983.

You had a smile for everyone,
You had a heart of gold.
You left the sweetest memories,
This world could ever hold.
To us you were so special,
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all our hearts,
That you were here today.

Lovingly remembered by his wife and family
14

IN MEMORIAM

RAINEY - In loving memory of a dear grandson Christopher D.R., who passed away Nov. 14, 1987.

We often sit and think of him
When we are alone,
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own;
Like ivy on the withered oak,
When other things decay
Our love for him will still be green
And never fade away.

Sadly missed by Grandparents

Obituaries

Allan Clifford (Red) McIntosh

Allan Clifford McIntosh, of Inkerman, died November 11, 1994 at home. He was 63.

Mr. McIntosh, a long-time farmer and retired CPR operator, was born June 26, 1931 in Inkerman, son of Isabella Grant and the late George Austin McIntosh.

He was dear father of Terresa (Peter) and Brian, both of Inkerman, Cheryl (Greg) of Vernon, Carol (Jack) of Winchester and Scot (Rosy) of Williamsburg. He is also survived by granddaughters Darby, Holly, Taylor and Jessica and brother Grant of Maynard.

Funeral services were held November 14 at Daniels Funeral Home and Chapel in Winchester and were officiated by Rev. Fred Milnes. Interment was at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Arnold Presley, Lynne McIntosh, Todd Blair, Jeff Droppo, Doug Cheney and John Blair.

Harold Mason Marcellus

Harold Mason Marcellus, of Finch, died November 6, 1994 at Winchester District Memorial Hospital after a lengthy illness. He was 83.

Mr. Marcellus, a retired farmer and St. Lawrence Parks Commission worker, was born January 6, 1911 in Dunbar, son of the late Myles Marcellus and Effa Kendrick.

He is survived by his wife, Mae McMillan, by daughters Lana (Ray Larsen) of Finch, Carol (John Hull Jr.) of Aylmer, Que., sisters Evelyn Gillard and Gladys Marcellus of Chesterville and brother Leon Marcellus of Chesterville. He is also survived by grandchildren Dan Larsen and Allison Hull.

Mr. Marcellus is predeceased by brothers Roy and William (Bill).

Funeral services were held November 10 at Brownlee Funeral Home in Finch and were officiated by Rev. Leslie Walker. Interment was at Goldfield Cemetery.

Pallbearers were George Clark (honorary), Clare Nugent, Douglas Nugent, Gordon Kelly, Bob Sanderson, Alan Chanter and Glendon Smith.

Cancer claims township deputy clerk-treasurer Bev Sloan at 52

Winchester Township deputy clerk-treasurer Beverley Sloan died November 7 after a courageous eight-year battle with breast cancer.

Sloan, who lived on Harper Street in Chesterville, was 52.

Winchester Township Reeve Claude Cousineau said Sloan will be dearly missed at the office, describing her as a "conscientious employee."

Cousineau said she battled the disease with courage, and worked at the office as recently as three weeks ago.

"She was a strong individual. Most people wouldn't have lasted as long as she did. She was very determined, and an inspiration to us all."

The flag at the Township's Municipal Hall was flown at half-mast in Sloan's memory.

Sloan was born February 10, 1942 in Ottawa, daughter of the late Girven Scott and Isabella Scott.

She was the beloved wife of John Sloan and dear mother of Ross (Tobi) Giles of Kemptville and Matthew Giles (Joanne Coleman) of Chesterville.

She was dear sister of Dorothy (Oral) Rooke of Ottawa, James (Claudette) Scott of Ottawa and Donald (Cecilia) Scott of Toronto. She is also survived by grandchildren Thomas and Amanda Giles and will be missed by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held November 9 at Holy Trinity Anglican Church, Chesterville, and were officiated by Rev. George Bruce. Cremation followed with interment of ashes at Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Sheldon McLeod, Michael Harper, Jeff Rooke, Todd Scott, Brent Copeland and Scott Verhey.

Jewelery and Beauty shut-out, Andy's over Country Girls

WINCHESTER - Sports Unlimited blanked Annables Jewellery 2-0, Stewart's Classics shut-out Double Beauty 2-0 and Andy's Food Town defeated Country Girls 3-2 in WDWHL.

The first period of the Annable and Unlimited match-up remained scoreless until Unlimited's Nancy McDermid drove to the net alone with 57 seconds left on the clock.

Early in the second period McDermid went to the net again. Tammy Bartholomew and Karen Koekkoek assisted on the 2-0 shut-out.

Stewart's Classics' Terry Hoy scored the first of her two goals with 1:01 left to play in the first period. Kim Williams made the assist.

With 11:48 left in the second period, Hoy went to the net alone for a final 2-0 score over Double Beauty.

Country Girls' Tina Flichel and Carolyn Herfkens dominated the first period by posting singles and shutting out Andy's Food Town.

Andy's Food Town came back strong in the second period by scoring three goals and shutting down the Girls for a 3-2 final.

Deanna Corbett-White netted one goal and two assists while teammates Rhonda Winters and Cathy Fawcett posted singles.

PeeWee Kings tie, win over weekend

RIDEAU-ST.LAWRENCE - The Greater Kingston Frontenacs and the Minor PeeWee Kings both left the ice happy last Saturday with a 2-2 final score.

Brad Potter and Steve Brown were the Kings' goal scorers. Josh Graveline, Ryan Carty, Jon Chambers and James Thomas each had assists.

In Sunday's confrontation against the Ottawa White Knights, the Kings easily walked away with the 6-2 victory.

Ryan Carty and James Thomas each posted two goals and one assist.

Rideau-St. Lawrence hockey tournament

RIDEAU-ST. LAWRENCE - Come see the stars of tomorrow today.

The first Annual Rideau-St. Lawrence Bantam 'AA' Kings Hockey Tournament takes place on Fri., Nov. 18, Sat., Nov. 19 and Sun., Nov. 20 at the Smiths Falls Community Centre.

A total of 18 teams will be participating. 10 Minor Bantam teams and eight Major Bantam squads from the area.

The first game begins at 7:15 a.m. Friday morning and the All-Star game takes place on Sunday at 12:45 p.m.

Local Minor Bantam players include Winchester's Chris Barkley, Wesley Ross, Matt Carkner and Sean Williams.

Cornwall Colts say 'no' to drugs

CORNWALL - Forget about contract negotiations and players strikes - here's a really great opportunity to appreciate local hockey talent.

Skate Along with the Cornwall Colts happens Sat., Nov. 19 from 3-4:30 p.m. at Cornwall's Water Street Arena.

The Colts, along with the Cornwall Police Department, OPP, RCMP, Operations Look-Out and the Eastern Ontario Health Unit are joining forces to promote physical activity as an alternative to substance abuse.

Tagwi miss playoffs

AVONMORE - The fourth place midget Tagwi Warriors girls basketball lost a disappointing game to the Seaway Spartans who remain in first place.

The Warriors were given an unfriendly 33-22 welcome when they visited Seaway in the first round of semi-final play-off action.

The Warriors season is now complete while the Spartans face the Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers.

The senior Warriors, also in fourth place, were unsuccessful in their bid for a play-off spot.

Char-Lan defeated Tagwi 55-28.

R-O defeats Tagwi 3-2 for first trip to EOSSAA

INGLESIDE - The Rothwell-Osnabruck senior boys volleyball team are off to EOSSAA today after defeating the Tagwi Warriors three matches to two in the best of five 'A' finals at R-O last Wednesday afternoon.

"It was a super close contest," said Warriors coach Sean Lee.

"The two teams were very even."

The Warriors and Lancers split the first two, cautiously played matches, 15-10 and 15-11.

"We were very cautious because we were on a bit of a low," explained Lancers' coach Karen Bryan.

The tight officiating also contributed to the extremely slow pace of the first two matches.

"It was almost too slow," said Lee.

"The ref let us play a bit more (in the third match) so that picked the pace up," noted Bryan.

The Lancers adjusted their style of play for the third set which allowed them to shut the Warriors down for a 15-3 win and gain a 2-1 match lead.

"Our setters were forced to bump-set and they weren't used to it so it affected their spikes," noted Lee.

The Warriors were not going to be counted out of their chance to go to EOSSAA that easily.

The Warriors fought back hard in the fourth match for a 15-11 win which tied the contest up at two matches each.

The Warriors maintained their fourth-match intensity and took an early three point lead in the fifth match. The Tagwi Warriors needed only two more points for the Senior Boys 'A' Vollleyball championship title when the Lancers started to find holes in the Tagwi defence.

The Lancers stalled the Warriors score at 13 while R-O gained point after point until they tied the deciding match at 13-13.

The two teams traded points 14 and 15 but it was the Lancers who were able to pull ahead to 17 points for the final 17-15 win.

"It was very emotional and the boys were really exhausted, that's how intense it (the game) was," said Lee.

"It ended up being an endurance match, whoever could endure the referring would win," he said.

Senior Devils happily finish losing season

CORNWALL - The Senior Devils Girls basketball team were defeated 52-31 and completed their year without a victory.

"Losing the game isn't the end of the world. We will approach our semi-final game with GV (GVSS Vikings) first and not even think of meeting the Pats. We have to win Tuesday's game (against the Vikings) first," explained Devils coach Deanna Corbett-White.

I"m very pleased with the year. It was through a lot of hard work that the girls have improved so much."

Corbett-White said a slow start was a factor in the loss to La Citadelle.

North Dundas trailed 15-10 at the end of the first quarter and 28-15 at the half.

"We just weren't as intense as we usually are. We didn't play hard enough. We had the ball knocked away and were hesitating. La Citadelle really wanted the game."

"But if we learn by losing, we will win in the end," she said.

The coach was pleased with the offence which spread the production out. Although she was pressed and and to be moved out to point-guard, scoring leader, Jill Byvelds hooped 10 points.

Mindy Holmes, Chris Jackson and Julie Simpson all dunked six points. Chris Linton, Cindy Merkley and Amy Berands all drained four.

Moira Klein-Swormink led the Midget Devils' attack with a seven point effort.

Sheila Goodfellow and Christine Laurziere each hit for a pair of field goals. Rhonda Sherrer scored a deuce in a 24-17 loss.

North Dundas, trying to avenge an earlier one-sided loss to the Pats, led the game early but couldn't hold on and dropped the 24-17 decision.

Going three for 24 from the foul line didn't help their cause any.

It was the final game of their high school careers for Lisa Prentiss, Carrie Swerdfeger and Kerry Howse as the Senior Devils dropped a 52-31 decision to La Citadelle.

"Lisa (Prentiss), Carrie (Swerdfeger) and Kerry Howse are graduating and will be missed. They contributed a lot to the basketball program over the years," said Corbett-White.

The Pats led 16-13 after one quarter and 30-20 at the half en-route to their 52-31 win.

Prentiss led the Devils charge with eight points. Swerdfeger nailed seven while Lauren Colbridge and Maggie Graham each hooped six points. Christine Harper bagged two.

Lancers defeat Spartans for play-off spot

Sandra Dillich

IROQUOIS - Coming off their 56-36 loss to Char-Lan the Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers senior girls defeated the Seaway Spartans 37-32 in their semi final match-up at Seaway.

"It was a good win for us because we've had a bit of a slow season," said Lancers coach Krista Simonett.

From the first tip-off it was evident the Spartans and Lancers were evenly matched and this game would be a tough win for either squad.

Seaway was the first to score at 6:26 of the first quarter. R-O and Seaway matched each other basket for basket, tying the game at 6-6 in the first quarter.

Six points was all the Spartans were going to get for the remainder of the quarter.

R-O's Donna Terhorst scored four points and dumped in two from the line to help put her team ahead 15-6 at the end of the first quarter.

Both teams went to the net early in the second quarter but neither squads sunk the ball.

The Lancers were the first to get the scoring started when they drove through the Spartans defence for a 17-8 lead.

One minute later Seaway's Suzanne Shianner made the Spartans only basket of the quarter.

R-O led 25-8 going into the second half.

Seaway's second half aggressiveness under the net slowed the pace of the game down dramatically and put a strangle-hold on the Lancers scoring opportunities.

Seaway's Shianner scored seven points in the third quarter to help put her team within six points of R-O.

"When he put a zone on us (in the second half) it really slowed us down," explained Simonett.

R-O's Christine DeJong went one for four from the line to score the Lancers only third quarter point.

R-O was the aggressive squad on the court during the fourth quarter.

Terhorst and Sara Morrel both fouled out of the game early in the last quarter.

But the Lancers early lead kept them ahead of the Spartans who matched R-O basket for basket during the last eight minutes of action.

"They (the Lancers) wanted to win so they came up," said Simonett.

Kelly Rombough was the Lancer's top scorer with 12 points. Angie Thompson sunk 10 points and Terhorst dunked eight.

Seaway's top scorer was Shianner with 13 points. Tracy Irven scored nine points.

After losing to Char-Lan earlier in the week 18-11, the midget Lancers came back to defeat them 27-24 in their semi-final match-up last Monday.

"We were behind the whole game and then Pam Prosser scored three baskets in a minute and we were never behind after that," said Lancers coach Bob Thompson.

"Everybody played great," added Thompson.

Compoli sunk nine points while teammate Erin Enns scored eight points. Meghan Gibson chipped in four points.

The junior Lancers were unable to avenge their 41-28 loss to Char-Lan as they once again defeated R-O 30-26. The Lancers are now out of the post-season play.

"We played well and had lots of chances...we just lacked in scoring," said Thompson.

"I'm pleased with the season."

The Lancers top scorer was Dianna DeJong with 11 points. Amy Snider scored six points and Amanda Beaudette sunk five points.

The third place junior Lancers final game is today against Seaway.

The midget squad also travels to Seaway today while the seniors are at Char-Lan.

ND Devils eliminated from v-ball playoffs

CORNWALL - The third-place North Dundas District High School Devils were eliminated from this year's SD&G Senior Boys Volleyball play-off picture here last Tuesday.

The host SJSS Panthers, second-place finishers, defeated the Devils 3-1 in the best of five semi-final match.

La Citadelle (24 points), St. Joe's (20), North Dundas (19) and CCVS (16) all qualified for post season action, out of the 10 schools competing.

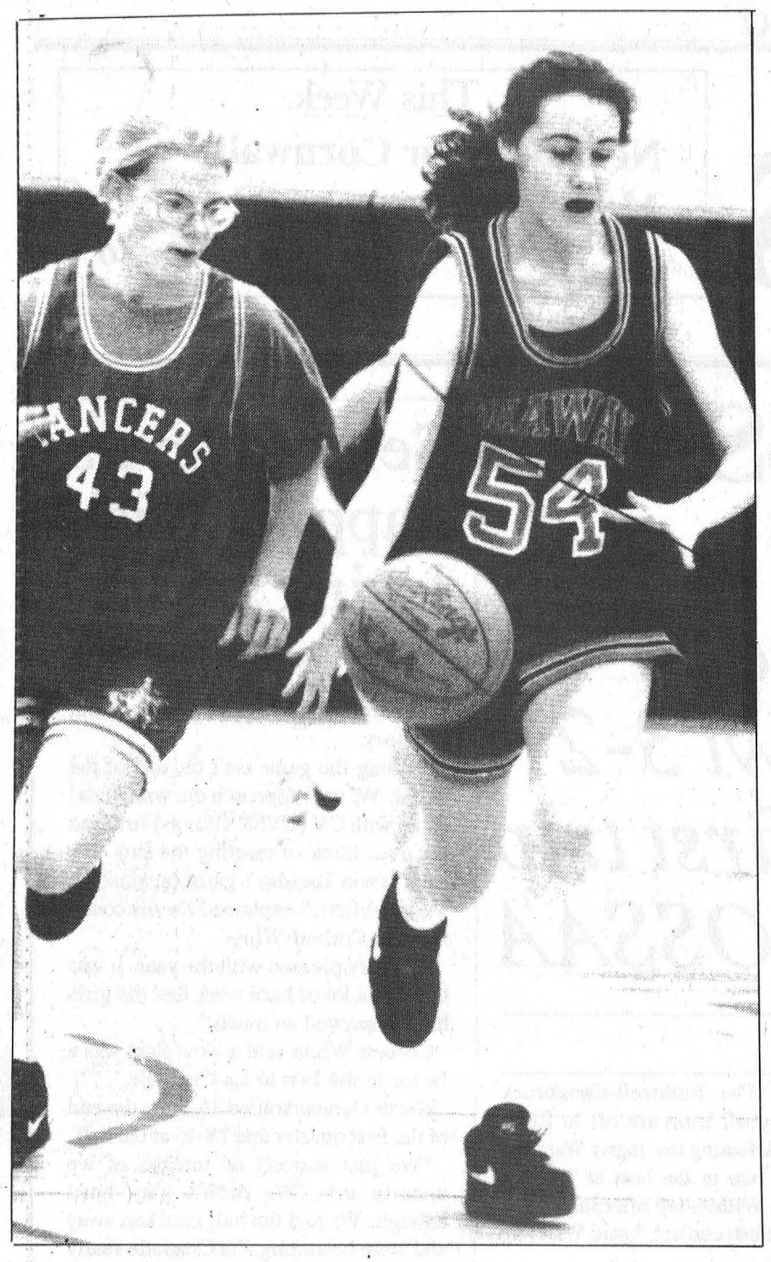
North Dundas' Junior Devils missed the post-season by one point.

Glengarry (24 points), SJSS (16), GVSS (13), ESCL (13) all qualified. NDDHS was fifth with a dozen points.

"We came out extremely flat. We recovered some but we struggled early and that really hurt us," explained coach Mike Moore.

The fourth and final game was a disappointing 15-13 loss. Moore felt his squad had played well in the match but they still lost.

"Overall it was a pretty good (regular season). The team was happy with the year but not with their play against St. Joe's. They had beaten them earlier in the year and could have beaten them again, had they played to their potential. That makes it a little disappointing."



Spartans battled Lancers

R-O Lancer Donna Terhorst (43) keeps pace with Seaway Spartan Tracy Irven (54) during their semi-final game last Monday at Seaway. The Lancers defeated the Spartans 37-32. Terhorst scored eight points, Irvin sunk nine for her team.

Fast, furious action at the Speedway

CORNWALL - Newly banked corners at the 'action track' hold the promise of even more exciting racing as the Cornwall Motor Speedway returns to a full schedule of 17 or 18 events in 1995.

The popular quarter-mile speedplant will also, once again, offer competition in four classes: modified, sportsman and the expert and novice categories of the Street Stock division.

Owner/promoter, Ron Morin, accepted an unexpected offer when the contractors of the Flycreek Control Project needed a dumping site for tons of clay dug up in the construction of an ongoing flood control program.

"We've laid down over a hundred loads already," explained Morin.

"We're building up the turns with a banking effect which will allow the cars to hold their speed longer into the corners. The track is also going to be longer and the back straightaway is being widened considerably."

Morin says bank on it. The racing will be fast, furious and, at times, frenzied.

In technical terms, the corners will be banked at seven degrees at the bottom on the infield side and approximately 18 degrees on the top side.

Racers will find the higher they climb up into the groove, the better the slingshot effect will be coming out.

In visual terms, spectators sitting in turn four will see cars coming right at them full speed before the bank propels them on a 90 degree turn down the front chute.

The racing surface remodelling is something Morin had thought about doing previously.

"The job is a lot less complicated when the trucks just arrive at the track ready to put the clay wherever you want it."

Adds Morin, "let's just say it was one of those offers I couldn't refuse."

Cornwall officials are in the process of internally formalizing plans for the 1995 racing calendar.

"The schedule will be finalized after the D.I.R.T. meeting in November but right now we're talking about 17 or 18 events," noted Speedway marketing director Brian Mulligan.

"That will include six or seven 'special' shows and we're pretty confident of adding a Small Block Skoal race as well as keeping the Big Block Skoal race."

Cornwall Motor Speedway will operate every Sunday night in 1995 from the Canadian holiday long weekend in May right through to the Labour Day weekend in September.

Season tickets are now on sale with substantial savings realized for fans who buy before the end of 1994.

The cost is $175 for adults or $200 in the reserved seating section. A pit pass, good for all events, is $50 more.

Fans purchasing a season ticket and paying in full prior to the end of the calendar year, receive a $25 discount.

Cornwall is re-implementing its past policy of free admission for all children 12 and under to regular racing shows.

There will be a nominal charge for children at special shows.

The Cornwall Motor Speedway office is open throughout the fall, Monday to Friday, between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Black Aces defeat White Knights 6-3 in CTHL

Sandra Dillich
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE - The Black Aces doubled the White Knights 6-3 in last week's Chesterville Town Hockey League action.

The White Knights started the scoring early in the first period when winger Greg Kelly drove the puck through the Aces' goalie and the posts for a 1-0 lead.

The Aces fought back hard 40 seconds later when Cory Van Delst netted his only goal of the night.

Pat Kelly and Rodney Casselman assisted.

Kelly made his second assist of the night when he helped Brent Hillis put one past Knights' goalie Jim Hume.

With just over a minute left in the period, Knights' Greg Kelly tied the game at 2-2.

The second period found the Aces all over the Knights as they put the puck past Jim Hume four times.

Dave Van Delst was the Knights solo shooter in period two.

The Red Rockets blasted past the Green Hornets 3-1 in their match-up.

Stars and Eagles defeat Express

Express fall victim to high flyers

FINCH - The Stars blinded while the Eagles swooped down for the kill.

The North Stormont Express could not find enough steam in their engine to pull up from behind for a win this weekend.

The Express lost 8-4 to the Casselman Stars and 11-2 to the St. Isidore Eagles.

Casselman's Stars' shone bright last Thursday night when they visited the Express' station.

From the opening face-off the Express was unable to keep up with the Stars lightning speed and meteoric shots on goal.

The puck soared past Express goalie Todd Brownlee three times in the first period before his teammates found the track that led directly to the Stars net.

James Cooper was at the helm of the Express' first goal when he slid the puck under Casselman goalie, Colin Montpetit, on a pass from brother Tommy and captain Chris Leroux for a 3-1 score.

The Stars' Pierre Cote fired back less than a minute later for a 4-1 lead.

The Express' steam dulled the Stars early in the second period.

At 13:34 Tommy Cooper went high to the corner, on a pass from Pat Cadieux while Montpetit went low for the Express' second goal of the game.

Thirty seconds later, Cadieux fired the puck from the blue line smoking Montpetit for a 4-3 score.

The Express, however, ran out of steam two minutes later and Casselman Star Steve Racine, netted their fifth between Brownlee's legs.

With 5:30 left in the second period, Mathieu Boulerice drove to the net bringing the score to 5-3 for the Stars.

The third period was not much different from the second. The Express were derailed every time they were en-route to the net while the Stars netted two blinding goals.

With 53 seconds left in the game, Express defenceman, Lance Ouderkirk, drove to the net full-steam ahead from the Stars zone for North Stormont's fourth goal of the night. Julian Benoit and Ben Comfort assisted.

The Express were once again unable to keep up with the soaring St. Isidore Eagles as they devoured the Express 11-2.

Eagle Luke Brownrigg, drove to the net twice early in the first period to give his Eagles a 2-0 lead.

With four minutes left in the period Express centre Mike Marleau fired the puck into the net, on a pass from Lance Ouderkirk and Tyson Chadwick, to bring his team within one.

The Express' defence was swormed during the second period as the Eagles nested themselves in front of the net.

Todd Brownlee found the Eagles net-smothering too much and let in two quick goals at the start of the period.

Andrew Barton returned to the net but he too was unable to fend-off the low-flying, high shooting Eagles.

The Eagles tally soared to eight before the Express got back on track.

With 2:12 left in the second period, North Stormont's Ben Comfort found the express route to the Eagles net for their second goal of the night.

The Eagles flew past the Express' defence and right to the net three more times during the third period for a final score of 11-2.

In other EOJCHL action, St. Isidore defeated the Russell Lions 10-3. The Lions also lost 9-4 to the Rockland Nats. The Vankleek Hill Cougars defeated the Embrun 72s 6-5 and Casselman 4-3.

Lions end Demons winning streak

Sandra Dillich
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE - The Morrisburg Bantam 'C' Lions ended the North Dundas Demons three-game winning streak last Tuesday night when they defeated their hosts 5-3.

Morrisburg dominated the first period by scoring two goals and shutting the Demons out.

North Dundas fought back hard, against the bigger and more aggressive Lions in the second period. Darcy Roberts netted their first goal on a pass from fellow Demon, Cory Couvier. Less than a minute later Roberts gave Couvier help for a 2-2 tie.

Jeff Esposito could not hold the Lions off any longer and they scored with 6:57 left in the seond period.

The Lions came out roaring in the third period, scoring two goals early on for a 5-2 lead. Demon Mike Deighton, gave the last two-minutes everything he had and scored from the point with 1:36 left to play for a final 5-3 score.

The Demons dropped their second game in a row to the Metcalfe Jets 5-4 in last Sunday night's match-up.

The Jets got the scoring underway as they flew to the net twice early in the first period for a 2-0 lead. At 6:23 on the clock, Demon Steve Wyman, devilishly dumped the puck into the net on an assist from Mike Deighton for a 2-1 score.

With only 14 seconds left in the period Deighton drove to the net alone to tie the score at 2-2.

The second period remained scoreless until 1:47 when Kenny Turner popped the puck past goalie Scott Millar to take the lead.

The Jets increased their lead to 4-2 with 14 seconds left in the period.

The Demons dominated the third period.

At 13:15 of the period, Deighton netted his second assist of the night as he helped Darcy Roberts post his first goal of the night.

Roberts then helped out teammate Dean Kerr for their fourth goal of the night.

With just under two minutes remaining in the game, Turner netted his second goal of the night to break the tie and give his Jets the game.
