Dundas County Farmers Appoint Task Force

Over 1200 farmers jammed the huge auditorium at Nationview Public School, South Mountain Thursday night seeking solutions to the grave problems resulting from excessive rainfall.

A task force, including both Federal and Provincial members of Parliament, was set up to further study the situation and hopefully take immediate action to help the farmers who stand to suffer inestimable losses.

Both Gordon Blair, Grenville-Carleton M.P., and Don Irvine, Grenville-Dundas M.P.P., told the distressed crowd that their respective governments were eager to offer assistance.

The meeting was chaired by Gerry Carey, Fieldman Co-ordinator for Ontario Federation of Agriculture and three area spokesman, Mahlon Zeron, Neil Williams and Basil Dawley outlined the seriousness of the situation.

Government Members Give Full Support

It was evident the men who till the soil were not looking for government hand-outs but simply assurance that feed could be purchased at a reasonable cost. They were also concerned that in the event it became necessary to sell cattle they might be forced to sell at what they referred to as 'desperation' prices.

Mr. Dawley was alarmed that some hay, mostly stored since last year, was being moved out of the county.

"We have 52,000 head of cattle in this county", he said, "as well as 1000 sheep, horses and pigs and we need the feed right here".

Both Mr. Zeron and Mr. Williams agreed with Mr. Dawley that steps must be taken to keep the farmers in business and thus protect the economy of the province.

Several microphones were conveniently located throughout the auditorium and farmers given an opportunity to express views or make suggestions. It was soon apparent neighbouring counties were also represented and eager to join forces with their Dundas friends.

Members of the task force appointed included Orrie Cayer and Leonard Masterson, Winchester Township; Norm Tinkler and Lyle Casselman, Williamsburg Township; Morton Stobo and Howard Guy, Mountain Township; Keith McIntosh and Bruce Garlough, Williamsburg Township; Basil Dawley, Mahlon Zeron, Neil Williams, Harold Lannin and Hugh Blaine, Dundas Agricultural Representative Tom Clapp and his assistant, John Anderson, also agreed to work with the group.

Dr. Warren, of the Economic Department of Canada Department of Agriculture and Norman Watson, Associate Director, Administrative Service, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food were present to answer questions. Bob Hawley of the Provincial Crop Insurance Division answered several questions pertaining to crop policies.

PLAN MONSTER BINGO, TRADE FAIR

Artificial Ice Month - Sept. 12 -Oct. 14

Including Sundays, the month allotted by Winchester as 'Artificial Ice Month' will be stretched over 33 days and have a fund-raising objective of $31,000.

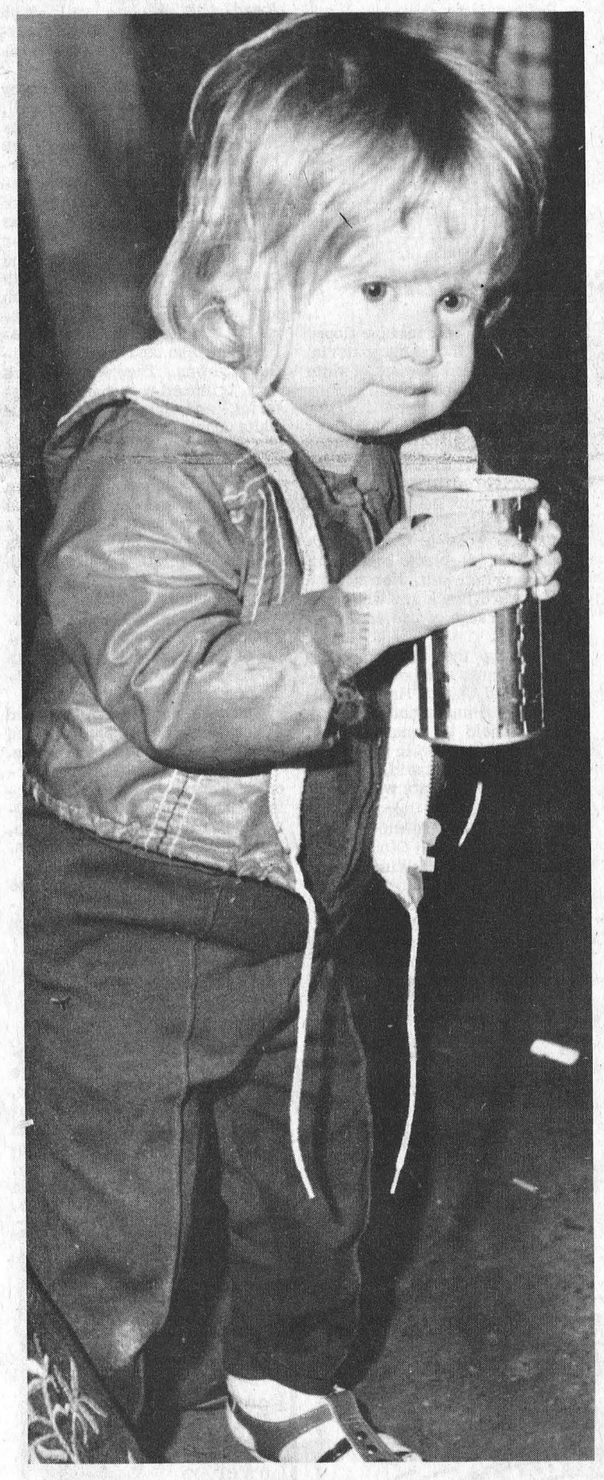
This the amount required for purchase of the compressor and everyone is optimistic figure will be reached and possibly surpassed.

A Monster Bingo will kick-off the campaign on September 12th and a giant Trade Fair on October 12th, 13th and 14th will lower the curtain in the ambitious project.

Several other activities are still on the planning boards including a September 16th dance with music by the Happy Travellers.

All events will be at the Community Centre on the new concrete floor in the arena area.

This 33-day extravaganza is the last all-out to complete the community centre complex, and officials are confident the community co-operation that made construction of the centre possible will assure the success of this final step.



One For The Road

This little Miss followed the activity throughout the day at Russell's Annual Exhibition last Saturday. After watching the last class being judged she appears contemplating the feasability of staying for the dance.

Convinced that maybe rest was imperative at this stage, she decided to head home - but first 'One for the Road'.

THE NEWS in Brief

Hospital Re-accredited

Winchester District Memorial Hospital has been re-accredited by the Canadian Council on Hospital Accreditation for another three years according to a report from hospital administrator H. P. Stel.

The survey was made on May 29th and the final decision based on its findings.

Several recommendations were offered, according to Mr. Stel, and each will be given serious consideration to assure the hospital maintains its present high standard.

Marg Boyd Receives R.N.

A Winchester mother of two, who graduated as a nurse many years ago but never found time to complete the additional studies required to obtain an R.N. degree, received her diploma this week.

Mrs. J. Ed (Marg) Boyd is well known in the field of nursing and spent many hours in her chosen profession at the local hospital.

Being married to a business executive, raising a family, and at the same time playing an active role in all community activities, left little time for further study.

Last Fall, however, Marg decided to return to college and complete the four required subjects. Travelling two nights each week to Algonquin, Ottawa, she continued her studies, and only this week received notification of her success.

Winchester Swim Meet Next Week

A competitive swim meet is scheduled for Saturday, August 12th and those in charge are looking for volunteer help to act as timers and judges.

The young swimmers are making a name for themselves at area competitions and the public is urged to come over to the pool at Noon and watch the action.

Pool superintendent Gord McIntosh has issued a reminder that skin diving instructions are available free of charge for those interested. Instruction periods are at 10:00 a.m. on Saturday and at Noon both Monday and Friday.

Metcalfe Citizens Want Traffic Control

Metcalfe residents have expressed concern that speeding trucks may result in tragedy unless immediate steps are taken to enforce traffic regulations.

The present building boon, combined with road work in the district, has greatly increased traffic through the little town and although the speed limit is clearly posted, all agree it is not being enforced.

Occasional 'speed-traps', according to one irate resident, are of little value since 'grapevine' communication soon alerts approaching traffic.

Residents have urged authorities to take immediate steps before a tragedy occurs.

Bathtub Races At Crysler Park

On Sunday, August 6th the Cornwall Bathtub Racers' Association will present, for the first time, a series of bathtub races at Crysler Lagoon in Crysler Park.

The races will start at 1:30 p.m. and 25 to 30 entries are expected.

Both modified and stock engines will be included in the entries.

This is entertainment with a difference and admission is free.

Weather Smiles Favourably On Russell Fair

"We were fortunate", said Russell Fair president Ernest Hamilton in reference to the fine weather that favours Russell's annual two-day exhibition.

Rain that has plagued farmers throughout the area this summer also played havoc with fair officials who were forced to abandon two-thirds of the spacious grounds because of its soggy condition.

"We improvised", Mr. Hamilton reports, "and apparently the large crowd was well pleased".

In previous years the show was spread over the entire area with the ball park used as a show ring. None of this was possible for last week's show, however, and even the lighted park was much too soft to allow for the horse show.

Secretary Jim Bertrand reported exhibits were much higher than anticipated and despite the reduced area the revenue was comparable with last year.

Another factor that had to be determined in planning for this year's event was the lack of community centre facilities, but all officials were optimistic regarding plans for construction of a newer, more modern complex in time for next year's fall fair.

Notable was the excellent exhibition in Domestic Science classes where those receiving the most awards were Mrs. B. F. Downes, Mrs. Bruce Dow and Mrs. Shirley Dowser, all of Metcalfe.

Mrs. Ernest Burton of Russell picked up most prizes in the flower show.

In the cattle classes the Jersey show was dominated by Emerson Kinkaid of Russell while Morewood's Mac Thompson was the big winner in the Holstein department.

Prizes in Guernsey classes were won by Malcolm McGregor, Les McEwen, Ivor Williams and Harry Nooyen.

Rated by most as the best show of heavy horses in the history of the fair exhibitors winning top honours included Walter Sparks, Grant Hodges, Ben Watson, L.C. Wallace, Angus O'Byrne, D.W. Richards and Al Bergeron.

In the Light Horse section Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stackpole, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Goth, Lotne Crawford, Keith Donelly, Mr. and Mrs. J. Spirak, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Brunton, Bill McWilliams, Orville Morgan, Ronald McHugh, Don MacLeod and Charles McNeely shared the winner's circle.

Modern Arena Opens At Metcalfe

Gordon Blair Sells Walter Baker First Ticket

Over 1,000 Observe Reeve Taylor Cut Ribbon To Open New Complex

Dr. W.A. Taylor, long-time Osgoode Township Reeve, officially opened the new, modern community centre at Metcalfe last Friday night and well over a thousand were on hand for the occasion.

The huge complex, one of the finest in Eastern Ontario, replaces the former building which had served the area for twenty years before being levelled by fire in January 1971.

Community Centre Board chairman Cecil Reaney welcomed the large crowd and invited everyone to inspect, not only the rink area, but also the spacious hall, kitchen facilities, spacious dressing rooms and the ultra-modern canteen.

Mr. Reaney, in his brief remarks, thanked all groups and individuals who has worked so tirelessly to see the rebuilding program completed.

The board chairman introduced the special guests of the evening including Gordon Blair, M.P.; township solicitor Walter Baker, architect Alex Graham and building contractor Lynn Prophet.

All members of the board, along with municipal council members and other special visitors were also formally introduced.

A feature of the program was the musical segment presented by five members of Kemptville pipe band and two talented young Scottish dancers. Winchester's Bill Stewart led the band as they marched through the large crowd and piper Stewart was ably assisted by Heather Murdock, Brinston; Dave and Kenny Robb of Osgoode and Michael Durant of Burritt's Rapids.

The five are part of the popular 18-member Kemptville group that will be entertaining this year in front of the grandstand at Toronto Exhibition.

Scottish dancing is always a crowd pleaser and the girls, Patsy Campbell and Cathy McGregor, both of Maxville received rounds of applause for their colourful performance.

Dr. Taylor, in his brief but timely remarks, congratulated those whose dedication had made the reconstruction program possible and said the new centre would prove a great asset to the entire community, "not only now, but in the years to come".

Music for dancing was provided by the popular young 'Tri Lites' band and later in the evening Gordon Blair and Walter Baker selected tickets from the drum to determine winners of valuable prizes. Winner of the portable colour television set was Ernie Whiteside, Metcalfe and other winners included Mrs. Ann MacMillan, Vernon; Mrs. Susan Croskery, Edwards; Shannon Teskey, Manotick; Mrs. Helen Purcell, Ottawa; R.J. Hay, Russell; Howard James and Lloyd Moore, both of Metcalfe.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Begins Eastern Ontario Forage Exchange Plan

(by Dundas Agricultural Representative Tom Clapp)

As everyone knows there is a lack of forage (hay and silage) in the County. The wet conditions have brought hay making to a stand still. Therefore, as a emergency measure program for the present time a Forsage Exchange is being promoted. This is not the answer to our programs but it may help until other more different programs are developped. Therefore, if you are in need of hay (and possible corn silage) you are asked to contact your local agricultural office (Winchester - 774-2313) of your need.

Also, anyone having hay to sell is asked to contact the Agricultural Office.

Each week these lists will be combined and mailed out to all those on the lists plus the agricultural offices and newspapers. We have already received calls from people who have hay available at 32 to 34 dollars a ton. Also several of the corn growers in the area are going to have corn silage available. Again all those who have or are going to have corn silage available and all those who will want corn silage are asked to contact the Agricultural Office.

Again let me say that this program will not solve our problem. But it may help you from having to sell a lot of your cattle. Cattle prices are falling now and to buy them back in a year's time will be quite expensive.

OFA President Elated Over Grain Policy

Feed grain prices will no longer discriminate against the Ontario livestock feeder if a Canadian Federation of Agriculture campaign is a success.

Last week's semi-annual Canadian Federation meeting pledged to end the problem of eastern farmers paying much higher grain prices than Prairie feeders.

The plan to revamp domestic feed grains policy was unanimously supported at the Winnipeg meeting by the C.F.A.'s ten provincial farm organizations.

"After several years of controversy, a national grains agreement is something to yell about", says Gordon Hill, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture.

"The emphasis is on moving the grain, selling it and stopping unmanageable surpluses from piling up."

"We've struggled to get this policy for price stability. It's taken a long time, but it's a good one."

Hill particularly endorses regulating Prairie commercial feedlots and feedmills. They will operate under the same rules that influence eastern prices when this policy is implemented.

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture will soon present the plan to the federal and provincial agriculture ministers and industry groups.

Thank You

Having sold my business in Winchester Springs I wish to thank all those who patronized our store in the past 22 years.

I solicit the same support for my successor, Mr. James H. Levere. Thank you all.

Metcalfe OFY Group Conducts Successful Bicycle Rodeo

Members of the Opportunities For Youth group at Metcalfe, in co-operation with Ontario Provincial Police, conducted a successful bicycle rodeo at the high school last week.

Twenty-four boys and girls who participated in the program first completed a written test on traffic rules and regulations. Police officers then gave each bicycle a safety check and following this procedure each cyclist was tested for riding ability over a difficult course.

Max Rowan, with 188 points of a possible 200, was awarded top prize and consolation awards were won by Scott Dowser, Allan Herr, Kim Rowan and Diane Kilbride.

OFY co-ordinator Al Micus, although well pleased with present participation, urges still more residents to take advantage of evening programs.

Tomorrow (Friday) films will be shown in the gymnasium at St. Catherine's School from 9:00 till noon.

Project participants were busy last week when they spent two days painting at the new community centre in preparation for the official opening.

Robert Pharand, supervisor of OFY operations, met the Metcalfe group and having reviewed their operation found it very satisfactory and assured the co-ordinator grant funds will be continued for the remainder of the summer.

4-H Seminar At Kemptville

"Future full-time farmers will have to be highly skilled managers who can delegate responsibility, operate automatic machinery and accept management and executive positions on marketing boards and agricultural organizations", J.M. Purvis of the Social Science Division told about 80 rural youth who assembled at the Kemptville College for the 4-H Science Seminar on July 18 and 19.

The 4-H members came from the 16 most easterly counties of Ontario to actually participate in the home economics and agricultural programs at the College.

Miss R.I. Shaver, Associate Principal (Home Economics), introduced those interested in home economics to the staff who soon had the 4-H members doing practical laboratory work in foods and clothing.

Those interested in agriculture were given an insight into the future of agriculture by J.M. Purvis, J.R. Cochran of the Farm Management Division, O.R. Irvine of the Dairy Division, and J.H. Clark of the Engineering Division.

Practical demonstrations on livestock management and agronomy gave the young agriculturists a practical look at agricultural education.

College curriculum and careers as well as a fashion show by the College students and a campus tour highlighted the second day. The seminar concluded with a gift of maple syrup which was produced on campus.

Dr. Ford Stinson, Principal, greeted the students at a buffet luncheon in Bell Hall.

AT RUSSELL FAIR

Another Red Ribbon

Russell exhibition, one of the first fairs in the district, proved very successful last week despite the soggy condition of the grounds.

Those in charge did an excellent job of conducting all classes on the greatly reduced area and one official reported the horse show was one of the best on record.

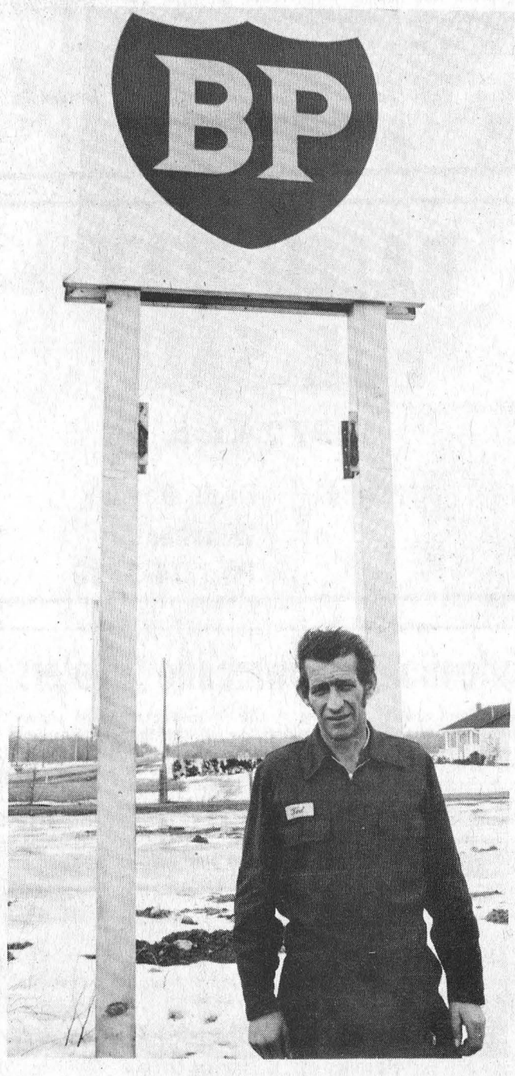
Service Keeps Ted Van Moorsel Busy



Local farmers can expect to hear a lot about Propcorn this year. Propcorn is the BP system for preserving high moisture grain for animal feed, and BP's new agent in the Wlliamsburg area, Ted Van Moorsel, will be doing all he can to promote the use of Propcorn.

Ted lives on a 120-acre farm off Highway 31 at R. R. 3, Williamsburg, and took over the BP home comfort and farm fuels agency last month. Last year, he cribbed 115 acres of corn, but says that he will be using Propcorn himself.

"About 60 per cent. of the BP customers are farmers and as I get around delivering home heating and petroleum products I'll be talking Propcorn with them."

Ted, who is 38 years old, has always wanted his own business. "After eight years in the fuel business with another company making deliveries, I jumped at the opportunity when the BP agency became open," Ted says.

Now he is settling into the job and making farm and home deliveries in his 2,000 gallons capacity truck and getting to know as many of his customers as he can.

He is helped by his wife, Catherine, who takes care of the office work and answers the phone when Ted is out.

When he isn't busy delivering BP products or looking after burner maintenance for their furnace oil customers, Ted and his wife like to visit Chesterville for 10-pin bowling. Ted is also a fan of the local Morrisburg Combines and gets to their games whenever he can during the season.

Ted makes sure no customer goes without "home comfort" by using the BP automatic Degree Day Delivery System. "Service is what makes a good agent," he says, "and I'm gradually meeting all my customers and introducing them to the full BP home comfort and farm fuels products, including oil-fired water heater rentals for homes and Tractor Oil Universal and Propcorn for the farm."

Ted delivers within a 15-mile radius of Williamsburg including Morrisburg, Iroquois, Dixon's Corners, Ingleside and Winchester.

Why not give Ted a call at 543-2005. He will be happy to hear from you and discuss your petroleum products problems and requirements.

He Shoots, He Scores

Competition was wet and keen at Winchester pool late Sunday afternoon. The pool staff had tossed out a challenge earlier in the week and OFY members had accepted.

Warm July sunshine bathed the crystal-clear waters of the pool when the 'Water Basketball' game got under way exactly on time, but the outcome was never in doubt.

The OFY team, more accustomed to office routine requiring mental rather than physical stamina, proved no match for the aquatic athletes whose skill and endurance gave tham a decided edge.

In accompanying photo a carefully aimed shot by a 'staffer' moves the 'aqua-wonders' another goal ahead.

Pioneers Tied For Third

(by Lynne O'Brien)

Williamsburg-Brinston Pioneers Thursday night tied Brockville for 3rd place in the Dundas-Metro Fastball League when they defeated Cardinal Pats 5-3. All the action was in the first inning. Larry Cooper started the Pioneers off gaining 3rd base when the left fielder errored. With 1 man out, Gerry Belanger tripled to centre driving in Cooper. Gord McMillan reached first on a fielders choice while Belanger was run down coming home. Brian Cooper walked, Roger Morrell singled to load the bases. Dave Simzer hit to left field, another error and McMillan and Cooper scored. Ron Casselman and Russ Casselman singled, each driving in a run.

Bottom of the 1st, Ron Patterson singled to left centre. With 1 out, Mike Skakum gained first on the pitcher's error. Jack Hoy reached first on a fielders choice. With 2 out, Ted Emmons hit to the pitcher who threw wild to first base and 3 runs scored. The score remained 5-3 for the remaining 6 innings.

Gerry Belanger hurled a 1 hitter, walked 1, and struck out 5. Ted Hoy took the loss with 6 hits, 1 walk and 10 strike outs.

Friday night, on wet, soggy home ground, the Pioneers dropped a 4-0 shutout to Domville Aces. Alex Skakum hurled a 2 hitter, walked 4, struck out 8. Belanger pitched 4 innings giving up 7 hits. Big Doug Casselman finished the game with 2 hits and 3 strike outs. Aces had 9 stranded, Pioneers 6.

Aces hold first place and may have already clinched the pennant. Cardinal holds 2nd with 9 wins. Brockville and Williamsburg 3rd with 8 wins each. Kemptville had 7 wins for 4th place.

MIKE ARMSTRONG STARS

Winchester Bantams Win Brinston Tournament

Winchester Bantams led by the stellar pitching of Mike Armstrong, captured top honours at Brinston tournament when they trounced Brinston 15 to 5 in the final game.

Rained had forced a halt with only two innings remaining the day of the tournament but last week the teams met to complete the game.

Winchester held a convincing 9 to 5 lead when rain forced postponement and added three more when they returned for the final innings.

Armstrong was the star of the tournament pitching all three games for his team and helping his own cause with two home runs.

Mike was judged the tournament's 'Most Valuable Player'.

Dundas Teams Dominate Ogdensburg Tournament

Three Dundas-Metro League fastball teams won all but $100 of the $950 prize money at the recent Ogdensburg tournament.

Cardinal Pats, who have won the tournament every year since 1968, brought home $500; Domville, $250 and Hull Volants, $100.

Highlight of the tournament was the pitching prowess of veteran Ted Hoy.

Hoy hurled a no-hitter against Dak Hilltop in the first game striking out 15 batters. Against Hull Volants he allowed one hit while retiring 11 by the strike-out route and in the final game against Domville Aces he fired another 1-hitter while striking out ten.

The spotlight was also on Joe Belisle who was wearing a Domville uniform. Joe, in the semi-final contest against Bob's Tavern, Ogdensburg, allowed only 1 hit in ten innings and struck out 7 batters.

NOTE: Williamsburg's Annual Tournament is scheduled for August 19th and 20th.

Lions Finally Complete Tourney

Winchester Lions twice rained out fastball tournament was finally completed last Sunday night when Ottawa Combines edged Kemptville 4 to 3 in two extra innings.

Ottawa received $250; Kemptville, $100 and third place finisher, Avonmore, $50.

Tournament convener Reg Harper said despite the added expense of two cancellations the project was a financial success and he had words of praise for both players and fans.

IN MEMORIAMS

BAKER—In loving memory of a dear brother and brother-in-law, Irwin Baker, who passed away June 28th, 1971.

No farewells were spoken,
No time to say goodbye,
You were gone before we knew,
And only God knows why.

Our hearts still ache with sadness,
And secret tears still flow,
What it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.

—Sadly missed by sister Gertie, brothers Harold and Frank, and sisters-in-law. 14p

QUINN—In loving memory of a dear father, William R. Quinn, who passed away August 1, 1956.

A cluster of preciouus memories
Sprayed with a million tears,
Wishing God had spared him
If only a few more years.

He left a beautiful memory,
And sorrow too great to be told,
But to us who loved and lost him
His memory will never grow old.

EDITORIALS... the way we see it!

But Are You In Top Shape?

Most of us have a tendency to disregard the constant reminders regarding the need for health care and adequate exercise. Being human we easily convince ourselves that, although most friends our age are getting a bit flabby, we still maintain that boyish (or girlish) figure.

The following, written by Guy Fournier for Information Canada and entitled "LOOK MA, BOTH HANDS!" may convince us to take another look at the reflection in the mirror:

"My father was an active man. He never stopped. When he stepped out of bed, he would light a cigarette to shake off sleep. With his left hand, he would plug in the percolator and with his right, the electric shaver. How he ever managed to do two things at once, I will never know. He would gulp a black coffee and hop into a cab, always the same one. Because he loved walking, he did not own a car.

"At the office, he balanced figures all day, jotting them down with his right hand and rattling away on an adding machine with his left. The muscles in both his arms were so developed that he could take me on one side and all my kid brothers on the other in a wrist-wrestling match and win. At lunchtime, while he read his paper, he bolted a sandwich and a cupcake.

During dinner, he would read the reports of the three associations for which he acted as secretary, take time off to teach us table manners and lend an ear to the sportscast. Always, everything at once!

"He was a sports buff. He knew by heart the hockey, football and baseball standings. He was as keen on wrestling, boxing, bowling, curling and golf. He was also a nut for amateur sports. Whenever the local team had a fund drive, he was the first one to subscribe. On Sundays, he even took in some games. In winter, he would leave the house muffled up to the ears, a mickey in his coat pocket. In summer, he would shove a few beers into a Kraft-paper bag to bring to the stadium. Twice, he was mentioned by the local rag as a well-known sportsman.

"He was so active that my mother began to worry. One day, she told him he should do some exercise. "Me, exercise? But I never stop. I'm in top shape."

"He remained in top shape until he died from a heart attack, at 50."

Sometimes Adults Know Best

Among the many noise contributors to our noise pollution must surely be included rock music which some parents think they have to endure in order to be "with it." But dear parents, you need no longer pathetically put up with that loud sound from your children's radio, stereo, or rock group. If you've felt an inward revulsion to it, your sensitivity has now been scientifically proven sound.

A series of experiments carried out over the past two years by Temple Bell College, Denver, has revealed that three hours of rock music a day "shrivelled young squash plants, flattened philodendron and crumpled corn", all in less than a month. Experiments with hundreds of plants from geraniums to beans showed the plants tried to escape the inharmonious sound by leaning away from it. Petunias and zinnias refused to bloom, leaned away from the radio blaring rock music, and finally died. Other petunias "listening to semi-classical or church music blossomed, and zinnias taking part in the experiment grew straight and tall. In every case rock music proved harmful.

Some time ago a study undertaken by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company showed that at 90 decibels of noise, the human blood circulation decreases, the flow of saliva and gastric juices is reduced, and the adrenalin flow increases, preparing the body for "emergency." 90 decibels is the level of kitchen noise at its peak which is presumably somewhat lower than the vibrational impact of rock music. Needless to say this level of noise is destructive to the human body and subjection to this kind of sound is bound to contribute to unrest, turmoil and violence that breaks out periodically in society. Parents would be doing their children, themselves, and the world a good turn by "turning off" rock music. This is one instance where parents should forget about being "with it" and take the lead in protecting children who haven't yet the sense to protect themselves from destructive influences in the "now" scene.

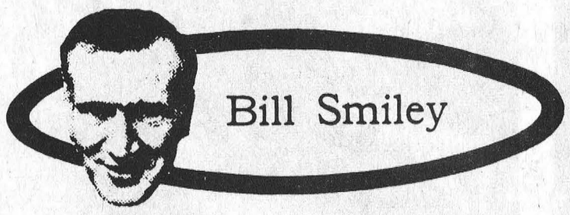
This Is The Life At Grandad's



Somehow I can't get too excited these days about Senator McGovern or Bobby Hull playing against the Russians, or any of the other hysterical events in the press. Trouble is, we're staying for a week at Grandad's, which is not conducive to getting excited about anything.

There's a radio and television set and a party-line telephone, but nobody pays much attention to any of them. On the other hand, there is no roar of traffic, no paper-boy ringing the door-bell at 7.00 a.m., demanding his week's pay, no honking of horns or squealing of tires, no raucous sputtering of lawnmowers.

Nor is there any reek of exhaust fumes, factory smoke, melting asphalt, rancid fish-and-chips, or polluted water.

The reason is simple enough. Grandad lives in a handsome stone house about sixty yards from a quiet country road, which you can barely see from the house, hidden as it is behind trees and hedge and shrubs. About four cars and maybe a couple of small trucks and one tractor go by each day.

No blatting motorcycles, snarling buses and grinding big trucks. The nearest lawnmower, and nearest neighbours, are two hundred yards down the road, out of sight and sound. No daily paper, so no cheeky paper-boy ringing and ringing.

The only sounds are the breeze in the trees, the somehow comforting mutter of a farmer mowing his hay, birdsongs, the buzz of an odd fly, and my wife talking incessantly to her father.

The only smells are roses, fresh-mown hay and what's cooking for dinner. Along with the cleanest air this side of heaven. The road is gravel, so there's no stink of asphalt. The nearest fish-and-chips are four miles away. The nearest factory is twenty miles away. And the nearest water is a huge bay, deep, clean, cold and unpolluted.

I'm sitting typing this at Grandad's desk, with a window right in front of me. Looking out, I see nearest a magnificent bed of roses, red and white. Beyond that a huge maple tree. Beside it an old apple tree with a swing dangling for the grandchildren. And beyond these the solid green of other trees.

Looking out the other window, to my right, there's a mass of flowers, then a white fence, then a huge hay-field, often with kids riding horses, then a line of trees and beyond and below that, a vast expanse of blue, blue water, with white cliffs on the other side of the bay.

Three hundred yards down the road, there is a cold, fast-flowing stream, with a real waterfall. I've taken some nice speckled and rainbow trout out of there. In the spring the rainbow come up it to spawn.

Half a mile away, where the stream flows into the bay, the rainbow trout fishing would bring tears to the eyes of a city boy who has never caught anything but a perch. Hundreds of rainbow are taken there in the spring and fall, and the fishing is improving, because the local anglers have done a lot to preserve the spawning females.

Across the road from the house, there is a pasture and beyond it a wild apple orchard where the partridge like to feed.

A couple of years ago, I was looking that way. Out of the orchard, across the pasture and right up to the fence came a buck and a doe. They were perhaps seventy yards from me. We stared at each other in mutual admiration (at least on my side) for about five minutes until they turned, flipped their white tails and gazelled back into the woods without panic. A memorable experience.

A friend of mine, who runs cattle on the adjacent property, was out counting his beasts one day when he saw a black bear amble across the property south of this, stroll up the fence line and disappear.

Quite a layout. No wonder I can't get excited about world affairs in a locale like this. You'd have to be nuts to go crazy here, while it's very simple to do so in most "civilized" areas.

Grandad leads a simple but fulfilling life. He cultivates his garden, as Voltaire suggested we do. He doesn't even have a garden, but he cultivates his own small plot of life. He has a deep faith, loves nature, hurts no man, and has an utter integrity which is rare to find these days.

Up at seven, he reads his Bible, makes his breakfast, pokes about doing chores: weeding, digging, mending something. He's ready for lunch and dinner. Enjoys food, though he doesn't eat a lot and weighs about 98.

He drives a fairly gruelling rural mail route (I went with him yesterday, and that's a column in itself). He is the township treasurer, and enjoys working on his books. He has a nap. He gives the house a lick and a polish.

He lives alone but is less lonely than the great majority. He likes to talk religion, politics, pollution, what have you? He doesn't give a hoot about money or acquiring "things". He has one arm and will be 80 this month. Tomorrow, he must take a driving test. He's been driving since 1914 and never had an accident. He's studying for it right now. He'll pass.

Why can't we all live like this, and be like that?

The Church In Miniature

by Rev. Gordon C. Smyth

Mark's Gospel suggests that the removal of his forerunner from the public scene triggered our Lord's ministry. "Now after John was arrested, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the Gospel of God." This was the beginning of a saga unparalleled in the annals of history.

The concensus of opinion among scholars is that our Lord's ministry on earth lasted about three years. Most of the time was spent in the northern province of Galilee. A little but increasingly significant part of the time was spent going south through the province of Judaea to Jerusalem for the three annual pilgrim festivals of which the spring Passover is best known to us.

Thus the makeup of our Lord's audience depended on where his itinerant teaching and healing ministry happened to be. I mention this realizing the statement must be qualified. As time went by even Galilean audiences were infiltrated by spies and troublemakers from the holy city. At any rate, it should surprise nobody that Jesus attracted a wide following. Indeed the relationship with some of these like Nicodemus is more fully reported than some who comprised the inner circle.

Many rabbis went about the land. Each selected at least twelve disciples because only a group of that number, representing all the tribes of Israel, symbolized the nation in its sacred totality. The time came when our Lord did likewise. Perhaps the first year of his general activity was over. Nobody can say for sure. But it is a fact that he was screening many with whom he came in contact.

The word "disciple" means "pupil". To live as such implied more than classroom instruction. It included continual personal association with a rabbi (teacher) as an integral part of the learning process.

However, our Lord had something more in mind. To be a disciple in the full sense prepared the way for potential appointment as an "apostle", one commissioned and sent out with a mission and message. Thus the crucial time arrived when Jesus implanted the seeds of a new faith that has since spread to the farthest corners of the globe! "In these days He went into the hills to pray' and all night he continued in prayer to God. And when it was day, He called his disciples, and chose from them twelve, whom he named apostles". (Luke 6:12-16).

Matthew and Mark also preserved a list. While several of the names are different, they can be conjectured or put together with Luke's. They contain three groups of four, in each of which the same names are found, although the order of arrangement varies. The first group includes those best known, the second the next best, and the third those least known of all, or, in the case of the traitor, known only too well. With this exception, it is even truer of our Lord's inner circle than of the fighter pilots of the Allied Command during the Battle of Britain, "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

Peter is always named first. He was the first too when our Lord wanted a more intimate group with him, as on the Mount of Transfiguration. It was Peter who proposed the selection of a twelfth to take the place of Judas. The implusive fisherman vexed Jesus more than any of the others. And yet he was a born leader. We need more of his ilk. The people who make no mistakes are those who do nothing.

Then there is Andrew. The greatest thing he did was bring his brother to Jesus. Many people resent reflected glory. Andrew never did. We could do with more of his spirit in our pews.

Then there are James and John. They had been associated with the aforementioned brothers as fish merchants in the city of Capernaum on the shores of the Lake of Galilee. These brothers were nicknamed "sons of thunder". They started out as hot-tempered enthusiasts. They wanted a whole village wiped out because of its lack of hospitality. The Master's influence cooled their tempers and increased their ardor. James was not afraid to die for his faith. If John did not write the Gospel that bears his name, it breathes his spirit of love. It has much to teach us.

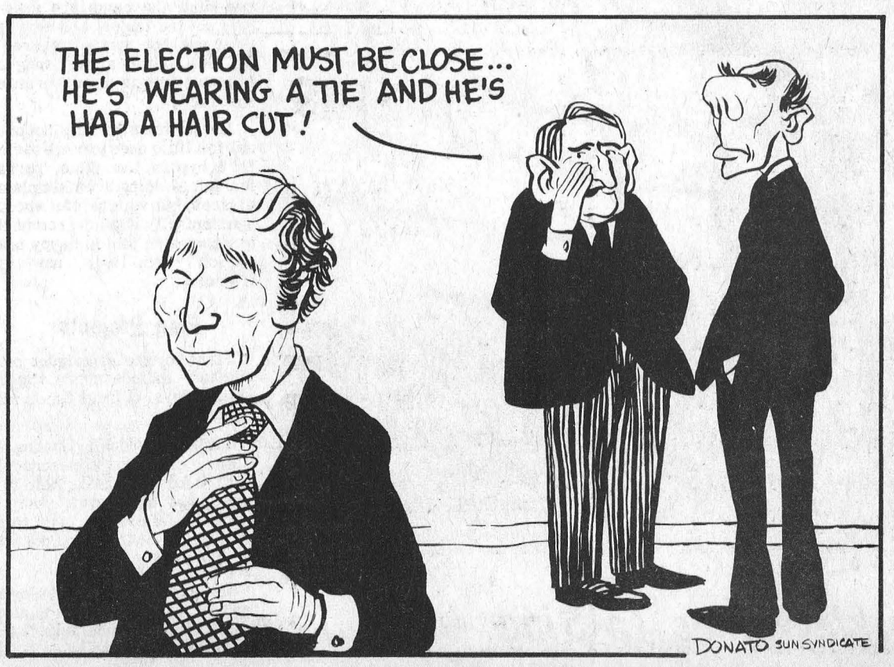
Then there is Philip. He was an inquirer. One day he said, "Lord, show us the Father, and we shall be satisfied." Philip should rekindle hope in many minds. They may be closer to the truth than they realize.

Then there is Bartholomew, elsewhere spoken of as Nathanael. Jesus paid him a rare tribute by saying, "Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile!" He was transparently sincere and consistently honest. He was quite unlike those elders in Athens, Alabama, who recently fired their minister because his daughter won a beauty contest. What if she had lost?

Then there is Matthew (Levi). He was a tax collector for Herod Antipas who paid out to pagan Rome. Pious Jews would spit on the ground as they passed his booth. But Jesus always had a kindly word for Matthew. The time came when he responded to a call to a better business. But he brought his training with him. He had learned to note everything quickly and accurately. Thanks to this experience we have a collection of "Sayings" in the Gospel named for him. The "Sermon on the Mount" is a case in point. But do we get the point of evangelism?

Of course, we know Thomas because of our own times of doubt. James the son of Alphaeus is just a name like many anonymous Christians for whom no community plaque will be placed. Simon who was called the Zealot typifies those who are learning that revolution is no answer to man's problems. Judas the son of James is on record as speaking just once, but actions speak louder than words. And Judas Iscariot who "became" a traitor!

Jesus wrote no books. He staked the future of his cause on twelve men who represented his broad catholicity and their strong individuality. Time has abundantly proven the victory of his faith, with a single exception. We can see ourselves somewhere along the line as we go down the list. I hope we can identify before reaching the last.



The Seventh Column

Readers have been making enquiries concerning the rather inadequate coverage given this season to fastball activities in the district. We regret having been unable to give more comprehensive reports and hesitate to lay the blame on someone else. However, we have tried to secure up-to-date standings from league statisticians but they, in turn, report individual teams are neglecting to send in game reports. Everyone is well aware that rain has forced cancellation of many games and league administrators are experiencing extreme difficulty attempting to re-schedule so many "rained-out" contests. Next week we're on holidays, but the sports department has promised to make a sincere effort to have complete standings and other data ready for the August 17th edition.

Pounds of ink and reams of paper have been used lately to tell and re-tell the sad story of this season's record-breaking rainfall. We haven't seen anyone building an ark yet, but we did see something rather unusual last Friday morning. On a tract of land north of Winchester, which under ordinary circumstances would be lush pastureland, several hundred wild ducks were swimming contentedly. Our first thought was to record the incident on film but the sound of the opening car door alerted the birds and they were airborne instantly. We plan to try again, but taking such a large flock by surprise will be no easy task.

Seems only yesterday the last traces of snow disappeared from the shaded nooks, and already we're into the fall fair season. Speaking of fairs, it's almost a certainty exhibits will be greatly affected by the unusually wet summer, but we're confident administrators will present the usual high quality shows. If you're still not depressed maybe a reminder that school reopens in exactly four weeks and five days will supply an additional touch of gloom. And to turn everyone completely "off" we once again claim to be the first with this timely reminder — only 119 shopping days left till Christmas.

Once, not that many years ago, the horse was an inspiration for poets, writers and artists. Mechanization changed all that and soon lines and rhymes epitomized the machine age. The horse may well have smiled to himself as he watched the new source of power relieve his aching muscles, leaving more time to enjoy the beauties of field and stream. The warm friendly animals are back, however, and this time not as beasts of burden but rather hobbies for adults, and pets for children. A long time ago someone wrote the following lines. For years they had little meaning but now we think they are rather timely:

O horse you are a wondrous thing,
No horns to honk, no bells to ring,
No licence buying ever year,
With plates to stick on front and rear.
No sparks to miss, no gears to strip,
You start yourself; no clutch to slip.
No gas bill mounting every day
To steal the joy of life away.
Your inner tubes are all O.K.,
And we pray they stay that way.
Your spark plugs never muss or miss,
Your motor never makes a hiss,
Your frame is good for many a mile,
Your body never changes style.
Your wants are few, and easy met,
You've something on the auto yet.

Proof that faith cannot be measured by the size of the place of worship comes from Alberta. Dubbed the "biggest little church in the world," the quaint Chapel of Meditation stands on the edge of the Dinosaur Trail, four miles west of Drumheller. It measures only seven feet by twelve, and accommodates a maximum of six worshippers at one time. A feature for visitors is a set of tape recordings of prayers for a variety of religious faiths.

Lions from District A-4 (and that covers a major segment of the Golden Triangle), stage their annual golf tournament next Wednesday at Vane Schell's (Poplar Grove) golf course. There's a report that Winchester club called for a vote to name it's best golfer and each member voted for himself. With other "duffers" from Morrisburg, Metcalfe, Gloucester and Alexandria competing, we foresee a major re-sodding chore for Mr. Schell.

Merriment heralded the official opening of Metcalfe's new community centre last Friday night and well over a thousand almost "danced, danced, danced all night." Speaking of community centres and the community spirit that makes them possible, this area has to be one of the most fortunate. Both here in Winchester and at nearby Chesterville fine new buildings, hopefully complete with artificial ice facilities, will be in operation early this fall, and plans are already on the drawing board for another modern recreational complex at Russell.

And this week's closing thought: Men generally use the braille system when checking women's figures.

ARREEGAAHH!
IT'S JUNGLE DAY

Kids swing tarzan-like from the rafters, jungle stories are told, young actors in drama class become tigers, elephants and leopards. The craft workshop is producing animal tooth necklaces and the beverage for lunch features "Jungle Juice".

It's a special events day at Seaway Community Services Day Camp operating out of an old red barn just south of Dixon's corners.

While special events day is staged about every two weeks, most of the 60 to 90 children who attend the camp daily agree that the entire summer programme is special. It's educational, it's valuable, it's well organized, but mostly it's pure fun.

Chief counsellors of the camp are Larry and Marilyn Cotton, both graduates from Queens University, and both are high school teachers.

The young couple have a heavy responsibility daily supervising up to 90 youngsters ranging in age from three to fifteen years in addition to 30 counsellors who assist in supervision. The assistant counsellors are hired by SCS and most are students from area high schools.

Larry and Marilyn spend long hours thinking up projects like "Jungle Day", often burning the midnight oil to prepare for the next day's activity. They also work weekends but usually manage one day a week "off duty".

Mrs. Steele, the director of the project, says the two supervisors are doing an excellent job.

The director expressed the view that consolidation of the two camps (previously there was one at Glen Becker and one in Dixon's Corners) is proving beneficial. This year's camp will last eight weeks.

Mrs. Steele feels the bussing of children to the camp is contributing to the consistent high attendance. In past years transportation was arranged for by parents and interested volunteers.

Centre Of Activities

No Dull Moments

The Cottons' never have a dull moment. From the time the first bus arrives at 9:00 till the last one leaves at 3 p.m. there is one long, interesting succession of events and sometimes minor calamities.

Very strict vigilence is given by the counsellors to ensure absolute safety, especially during "Barn Ramblings", an athletic obstacle course set up in the hay loft.

Both the Cottons' have first aid training but have used their talents here only for insect bites and scratches.

PRESS PHOTO STORY

- by Daryl Shellborn

Overnight campouts are looked forward to by the children in spite of frequent drenching rains and voracious mosquitos. Instruction is given in campfire making using only materials found in the woods (except matches) and very often even the instructors run out of matches before a blaze is started.

Stress Safety

Emphasis is placed on education, training and safety. Each class is designed to teach sportsmanship, making decisions, and to instill self-confidence, while at the same time helping the child to become creative while having "fun".

Mealtimes become "Family Time" where the entire group gathers for a period of quiet, leisurely lunch. The older girls attending the camp are used to help set the tables, and serve the delicious hot meals prepared by the SCS. Graces are sung and proper etiquette and decorum are observed.

Mr. Cotton says it is not unusual for little ones to come to camp in a hyperactive state, perhaps fearful of doing even simple exercises, but with helpful encouragement they soon overcome this tendency and join in happy association with their new-made friends.

Plan Projects

Plans for the remainder of the summer include more "Special Event" days. (Circus Day is coming up).

Classes in Cooking, baking and home economics are scheduled for the girls. Various field trips are in the offing which may include an afternoon visit to the Winchester Swimming Pool in the near future.

How do the Cottons' enjoy the task of supervising this summer project? "It's a challenge", they say, "but most rewarding."

Warm weather, cool weather, it just can not make up its mind. As far as can be determined, the fish are biting fair to good in most areas. The forecast for the coming week has to be good. The fish are starting to move about and patience will pay off with a nice catch.

For the campers, the weather has been good. There has been some heavy rain storms but overall, the weather has been nice and most provincial parks are running at capacity most of the time. When people go camping they tend to forget things. Here's a list of do's for the camper.

Cancel mail, milk, bread and paper delivery to the door.

Have a neighbour go in each evening and turn a light on in some part of the house. This will guard against intruders in most cases.

Be sure to let the police know you are going on vacation and they will check your house on a regular basis. Also tell them who is taking care of the place while you are away.

If you have pets that can not be taken with you, arrange for the neighbour to feed them.

Also leave a list of places you are visiting with expected times so you can be reached in an emergency.

Turn off gas and water taps if there is no need for them.

Now that you have done the above, you'll have a more worry free vacation and happier time.

Last week I mentioned a new award called the Garbage Can of the Week Award. This is the first week of the award and there are several good entries to choose from. However, the award has to go to the Department of Highways driver who was seen on Highway 29 doing his thing. No, you have the wrong idea. His thing was to throw a handful of tissues out of the truck's window into the centre of the highway. I'm sorry we don't have your name and address sir, as we can not send you your prize of one slightly used and full litter bag. I only hope you read this article and change your ways. Since we pay you to clean the highway, we really don't need you adding to your job.

Do you have a candidate? Good. Send in the name and the award winning action to the Valley Sportsman, Box 292, Smiths Falls. Perhaps we can help in a small way to clean up our environment.

MEMBERS REPORT

From Ottawa - GORDON BLAIR

Crop Disaster

The damage done to agriculture by unprecedented rainfall in this area is almost incalculable. The excessive moisture - in some areas more than 3 times normal - will cut yields from grain and corn crops catastrophically and has made haying almost impossible. Loss suffered by farmers growing cash crops is large and dairy farmers will be hard put to carry on because of the loss of hay, grain and corn.

This is not just a problem for farmers. Clearly it affects the business of many smaller communities serving the farm population. Urban consumers of dairy products could be affected by shortages and consequent increased prices.

Dundas Meeting

The farmers of Dundas County last week, after a series of preliminary meetings, held a large public gathering which packed the auditorium of the Nationview School at South Mountain. The proposals made by the meeting were constructive and are now being considered jointly by the Ontario and Federal Governments. A Special Task Force was appointed by the meeting, representing all the Townships of Dundas County, and the Federal and Provincial Governments including Mr. Don Irvine, M.P. P. and myself. This Task Force met immediately after the public meeting and will meet again next Thursday at Winchester, when it will be added to by representatives of other counties in Eastern Ontario, all of which are affected by this disaster.

Proposals Made

The proposals made were practical, centering on how to keep farmers in business in the face of this emergency. First and foremost was the surveying of all available forage and feed supplies which is underway by the experts of the Canada Department of Agriculture and the Canadian Livestock Feed Board. Second was the way of providing emergency financial assistance to farmers to carry them through this year in the face of reduced income and added expense for the purchase of forage and feed. I have been personally assured by the Canadian Dairy Commission that no producer unable to meet his subsidy quota this year because of this disaster will suffer a penalty and both the Commission and the Ontario Milk Marketing Board are now considering proposals to make this policy operative.

This disaster is not limited to Ontario. Farmers in Quebec face the same problem. Indeed every year natural disasters strike farmers somewhere in Canada. Generally, they have to be dealt with locally by provincial governments, but when they attain a large scale and cannot be met by existing programs such as crop insurance, special action is required involving both provincial and federal governments.

Suggestions Welcomed

Every farmer will naturally want to know as soon as possible what to expect. Everything will be done to hasten decisions. In the meantime, I hope there will be no panic action and that it will be realized that there is no shortage of feed grains in Canada or North America and the services of both Federal and Provincial governments are available to give advice. One positive development from the meeting was the decision to mobilize the forage and feed supplies in the community through the medium of the Agriculture Representatives who will compile lists of hay and feed being offered for sale by farmers and names of farmers offering to buy. Everyone concerned is welcome to make suggestions for dealing with the emergency and any that I receive will be transmitted both to the Task Force and the Federal Government.

From Toronto - DON IRVINE

In previous columns I have mentioned briefly the subject of cultural and economic sovereignty. Apart from the twin problems of unemployment and inflation, this subject has undergone the broadest examination and is responsible for more public comment in the media than perhaps any other. The argument ranges from the extremes on the one hand of those who would "buy back Canada" at any cost and as quickly as possible to those on the other who would encourage continued foreign investment without regard to any concept of Canadian identity. Both these views tend to oversimplify what is an exceedingly complex problem. The first group overlooks the simple fact that there is a limited pool of investment capital available in this country and the second group ignores a rather obvious desire of Canadians generally to cherish a sense of being different from our neighbours and friends. The first group would use this vital investment capital to the detriment of new and growing Canadian industry which also requires this capital in order to grow, prosper and thereby create new jobs. They would also, it would seem, severely restrict the establishment of subsidiaries of foreign companies in Canada thus further dramatically curtailing creation of essential employment opportunities. Extremes in any position are usually dangerous and damaging in time and the second group is, in many ways, as bad as the first. It is, in my view, essential to ensure domestic control of vital aspects of our economy such as banks, investment dealers and other financial institutions and of those areas of communication which reflect and fortify our cultural heritage. There are obviously no easy solutions.

As you can see, my position lies somewhere between the two extremes mentioned above. The argument over economic nationalism cannot be separated from consideration of the problem of existing unemployment and the creation of new jobs to accommodate a growing labour force. At the present time 5.5% of Ontario's work force is jobless. Translated into people this means that 191,000 men and women are unable to find work. Complicating this problem is the fact that each year an average 150,000 people enter the labour force for which new jobs must be created.

I am very much in favour of positive steps to encourage the development of Canadian industry and indeed would give priority to such measures. I could not in good conscience, however, support policies which would prohibit or discourage the expansion of foreign industry into Canada where such expansion will result in increased job opportunities and where no Canadian is prepared to go. I for one would not wish to explain to those in areas of relatively high unemployment that a company that might have provided the necessary jobs will not be permitted to open up in the area because it is U.S. owned. In the battle to combat the inflationary pressures in our economic system the people who paid the price were 600,000 Canadians that are presently out of work. I suspect that those who would pay the price for a greater degree of Canadian identity and control of industry will be the same people. Such a price is unacceptable to me and while I would support the basic concept of economic sovereignty, the approach to it must be more rational and reasonable. I believe that the Provincial Government has taken a very responsible approach to the dilemma and while I cannot say that I agree with every measure, for the most part they are positive and rational.

This week I have tried to deal generally with the problem. In next week's column I will outline some of the more important specific measures which the government has taken in response to it.

Government To Check Air Pollution

The federal government is to make a Canada-wide inventory of the sources and emissions of four air pollutants that pose a potential hazard to health.

Announced last week by the Honourable Jack Davis, federal Environment Minister, the study will focus on lead, beryllium, mercury and asbestos. It will identify the major sources of these pollutants in Canada as well as the quantity and nature of the emissions. It will also provide information about existing methods of controlling these emissions. The inventory will be based on 1970 data. The only figures available at present for Canada are based on extrapolations from similar inventories made in the U.S.

A contract has been awarded to James F. MacLaren Ltd., Consulting Engineers, of Toronto, to analyse the emission data and to evaluate the effectiveness of current control methods. The study is expected to be completed within five months.

Mr. Davis noted that under the new Clean Air Act, the federal government is responsible for setting national emission standards governing pollutants that may constitute a significant hazard to health.

"Inventories of this kind are an essential part of the process of cleaning up air pollution in Canada", said Mr. Davis. "We need the data not only to provide the basis for national emission standards but also to allow us to assess their economic impact." The Minister added that other substances, potentially hazardous to health, would be inventoried in the future.

WALTER BAKER SPEAKS OUT

Federal Gov't Needs Disaster Plan

At the Dundas Farmers' Disaster Meeting last week Walter Baker, Progressive Conservative Candidate in Grenville-Carleton stated that the Federal Government ought to take the lead in co-ordinating relief for the areas in Eastern Ontario hard-hit by excessive rainfall. Whether the short term solution is the provision on a subsidized basis of feed and forage or outright grants, the need is immediate and most farmers cannot afford the luxury of lengthy and protracted discussions.

It is apparent as well that neither the Federal or Provincial Government have disaster plans available on a continuing basis.

Mr. Baker said that the Federal Government with its overall co-ordinating ability ought to take the lead in establishing with or without the assistance of Provincial Governments a "National Agricultural Disaster Programme" to which annual grants would empower the immediate declaration of "disaster areas" and with contingency plans formulated to meet agricultural disasters of all kinds. An industry that is so dependent on matters over which it has no control, such as the weather, ought to have special consideration.

Such a scheme would avoid the delays that must occur when farmers have to approach the Ministry of Agriculture with "hat in hand" and without guidelines Mr. Baker said.

Mariners Erect Gospel Sign

Chesterville "Ship", Mariners With Christ, which has a number of members from Winchester, held a service of dedication of their recently erected Gospel sign along Route 43, Tuesday evening at Chesterville Pentecostal Church.

A road side service at the site had to be cancelled because of torrential rains that fell.

At the church, Garnett Johnston, First Mate, presided. The Reverend E. Earle Eaton, Captain, gave a welcome and devotions were conducted by the Reverend A.E. Edgeley of Morrisburg, acting minister of the church. The address of dedication was delivered by the Reverend Enos Brubacher of Eganville, national director of the Mariners and "Admiral of the Fleet".

Musical numbers were rendered by Tom Gill of Cardinal, vocalist, and James Bray of Metcalfe, accordion player. The Gospel sign, erected last week on the Pearley Merkley farm on Route 43, west of Chesterville, bears the verse "God is Our Refuge and Strength" (Ps. 46.1). -- "Erected by Mariners With Christ, Chesterville".

The committee arranging for the sign included W. Ethan McIlheran, George Crawford, Garnett Johnston, Mrs. Duart McLean and the Reverend E. Earle Eaton. Mariners meet in Chesterville monthly, and members come from Winchester, Finch, Newington, Williamsburg, Cardinal and Morrisburg.

Summer Management Of Your Dairy Herd

(by the Extension Branch Personnel, Carleton County)

With dairy cattle, temperatures over 80 degrees can cause a reduction in feed intake and efficiency and usually lowers their milk production. If possible, let the cattle come into the barn during the heat of the day, or use some kind of shade-providing shelter. If the barn is used, open the doors and turn on the fan to circulate the air. Access to drinking water is essential for cattle on pasture.

Flies are a problem during the summer. Install a walk through "rubber" or use a sprayer to give each cow a daily application of insecticide. For face flies, there are new face rubbers and dusters available. Before using be sure to read the label on the container. Certain products are specific in their use and must not be used on milking cows and in dairy and milk houses.

Feeding adequate amounts of dairy ration during the summer is important. By keeping up the production level, costly herd replacements may not have to be purchased. Because of the lower prices of feed grains the cost of dairy ration per cow is quite low this year and means greater returns for milk production per pound of feed.

Often heifers that are too young to pasture are kept in a yard or paddock near the barn for the summer. If used year after year, these yards may be a source of worm infestation. Animals that do not gain weight as expected may have stomach worms. Lungworms could be the problem in calves that develop bronchial coughs. Consult a veterinarian. He will be able to diagnose the problem and recommend the necessary treatments.

Treatment for warbles is usually done between September 15 and November 30 when the heifers are brought in from pasture. Ruelene or Neguvon can be used as a pour-on to control warbles. Follow the directions closely. These products are safe and effective as long as they are used correctly.

There seems little doubt now that hay and corn silage yields and quality of such feeds will be lower this year. To maintain milk production levels this coming winter, dairymen will have to feed more grain. It would be a good idea to approach some cash crop corn farmers soon and try to work out a deal for some grain.

Keep A Sharp Eye . . . . . For Pinkeye

SYMPTOMS and EFFECTS

This is the time of the year to carefully check your cows and calves on pasture for pinkeye. The disease can be recognized by a whitish film over the eye, a discharge and possible blindness if the case is severe. It is infectious and consequently if one animal has pinkeye, others may have it also or may get it soon.

Particular attention should be paid to the bull on pasture. If he gets pinkeye his breeding performance may not result in all cows being bred; consequently leading to low calving percentages or a long drawn out calving period next spring. Young calves are also susceptible to pinkeye and can be set back in growth due to blindness.

TREATMENT

Treatment and control involves isolating the infected animals, if possible. Severe cases should be placed in a darkened barn and supplied with plenty of water and good feed. Treating the eye is a daily, but usually successful task, using an eye ointment containing a sulfa drug. Antibiotic dusts for the eye are also helpful. Ointments and dusts are available from feed suppliers and veterinarians at reasonable cost.

Failure to treat infected animals very often results in many cows and calves suffering from pinkeye with the result that some animals become permanently blind. Checking your cattle frequently and regularly and treating the infected ones, still minimize the economic losses from pinkeye.

Drainage Committee Hearings

The Select Committee of the Ontario Legislature, appointed to study problems associated with land drainage, will visit most areas of the Province. Lorne C. Henderson, M.P.P., Chairman of the Committee feels that only by visiting drainage projects and by talking to local officials, farmers, contractors and engineers that the Committee will be able to assess the problem fully.

"We have a very wide mandate in our terms of reference" said Mr. Henderson "and we feel that all interested parties should have an opportunity to express their views and opinions personally to the Committee. We are planning to hold public hearings in perhaps fifteen selected centres in the Province. We want especially to meet and hear from county and township officials".

The Committee is expected to make recommendations in its report leading to amendments to existing drainage legislation which since April 1 last has been consolidated into the Ministry of Agriculture and Food.

Members of the Committee are from all parties on the Legislature.

Livestock Outlook Good

Canada Agriculture, in its Summer Outlook, contends there are grounds for fairly strong fed cattle prices in Canada during the last half of 1972, with prices probably averaging about the level of $34.75 per cwt. for Choice steers at Toronto during the July-December period last year. Canadian fed cattle slaughter in the last half of 1972 is expected to average above year earlier levels. U.S. fed cattle marketings are expected to average 4-5% above 1971 for the last half of 1972. This level of marketings is expected to bring about some price weakness, compared to late spring prices. The forecaste indicates a strong summer demand for beef aided by the seasonal interest in beef for outdoor cooking, lower pork supplies, and aggressive competition from packers for available supplies will tend to work to hold cattle prices at relatively high levels.

Hog slaughter in both Canada and the U.S. during the last half of 1972 is expected to average below 1971 last half levels - probably down 6% or more in Canada and 6-8% in the U.S. The Canada Department of Agriculture reports that under the above supply conditions, the hog price outlook could be termed "quite favourable" for the balance of 1972. Farm cash income from hogs can be expected to show a substantial increase for 1972. An important Canadian pork trend this year is the continued rise in pork exports. Also, with only a moderate reduction in per capita consumption this year, in light of relatively higher pork prices, there are grounds to assume Canadian demand for pork is improving.

OFA Pres. Speaks Out

Government inaction on the Barber Commission farm machinery recommendations drew angry concern yesterday from the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Norfolk fruit grower Frank Wall told the Canadian Federation's semi-annual meeting in Winnipeg: "We've waited long enough. That report was tabled in Parliament in May, 1971. The recommendations are there and these changes are needed desperately by farmers."

Wall is vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture which is a member of the national Federation.

He pinpointed the time-lag and income loss suffered by farmers unable to get machinery parts quickly.

"A farmer pays $2,500 for a baler to use maybe 10 days a year. If the machine breaks down, he can't afford to pay for agribusiness incompetence."

The Barber report urges machinery companies to jointly form a web of well-stocked parts depots.

"If machinery companies can't organize an efficient parts distribution system, then the government should take over." Wall added.

Delegates at the meeting directed the Canadian Federation of Agriculture to meet the Canada Department of Agriculture soon to speed action on the Barber report.

Wants Corn Marketing Plan

The Board of Directors of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture has directed its executive to name a group of concerned Corn producers to develop and implement a Corn Marketing plan for Ontario.

The executive had previously presented the proposal for a Corn Marketing Board to the Ontario Corn Council and the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board and received general acceptance of a Marketing Board concept rather than a commission.

The Marketing Board idea came out of discussions amongst commercial corn growers in Dundas County.

A Marketing Board is made up of producers only, whereas a commission may include representation from the trade.
