Arena enthusiasm prevalent at C. of C. meeting

Preliminaries held - committee named

Will Chesterville get an arena, artificial ice or both in 1972?

The answer to this question is being sought by a 12 man committee appointed at last Wednesday's Chamber of Commerce meeting.

After the committee decides which one, if any, of the three recreational facilities is feasable, at this time, then the final decision will probably be made by the public.

This is the largest single project ever undertaken by the Chamber and although it has been suggested many times before the idea never got any further than the meeting room.

This time the ball is at least rolling and if interest shown by the 27 members present at the dinner meeting is any indication of the public support, the goal should be realized.

The reason for the three different projects — an arena with natural ice, an outdoor rink with artificial ice or an arena with an ice making unit, is a matter of money.

Charlie Graham, president of the local Chamber, told the gathering that he, along with other C of C members and interested citizens, had checked into the cost factor.

Stuart Byers, who's construction company is presently puting the roof on the Stittsville Arena, said the building cost that village approximately $100,000.

Mr Byers noted that the arena also had a banquet hall built in but did not include artificial ice.

Vern MacMillan told membership that Cardinal had constructed an arena in 1969 and installed artificial ice in 1970 for a total cost of $180,000.

The Chamber president said Finch had erected an arena for $55,000.

The costs varied slightly but the membership agreed that the building itself would cost approximately $100,000 and the ice making unit at least another $50,000.

Mr MacMillan explained when Cardinal built theirs they had a considerable amount of money and labour donated towards the project, like $50,000 from Canada Starch, $31,000 raised in two canvasses, professional and businessmen in the village volunteering their time and equipment.

Mr Byers and Mr Graham both said that Stittsville and Finch arenas were built with several thousand dollars worth of volunteer help.

Areas of financing and donations were also considered at the meeting. Reeve Keith Graham said if the town put outa $100-000 debenture for the project, it would probably increase the taxes by 10 mills. Reeve Graham said the decision would have to be made by the public.

The committee, consisting of C of C executives and members and interested citizens, will study further the costs involved. Their decision will be brought to the organization at another meeting and hopefully will lead to a public forum on the project.

Bits and Pieces

Santa to visit shut-ins

Some of the children in Chesterville are probably wondering where they went wrong as they won't be able to make it out this Saturday to see Santa at the Park Pavilion. The Chamber of Commerce decided at its meeting last Wednesday night, if the children can't get out to Santa then they will bring Santa to them. The C. of C. is asking parents to notify Jimmy Moran if their son or daughter will be unable to attend because of illness or some other legitimate reason. The Chamber will make arrangements for a personalized visit.

Ministerial Association meets in Chesterville

The District Ministerial Association met in Chesterville on Monday morning at the home of the Reverend L. M. Ferguson. The Reverend E. Earle Eaton, president elect, chaired the meeting. A paper on drug addiction problems was given by the Reverend Thomas H. Boyd of Morrisburg and Mr Ferguson conducted the devotions.

Walkathon Draw Winners named

Paul Pitkanen was the luck winner of $50 or a new bike in the Chesterville Rotary Club Walkathon Draw held Monday night at the weekly club meeting. Everyone who participated in the Oct. 16 walk and turned their sponsor money ni by Nov. 30 was eligible to particpiate in the contest. Michael Larose picked the winning Pitkanen stub. Michael, son of Mr and Mrs Robert Larose, who walked three of 12 miles on crutches also drew Colleen Moriarty's and Michael Hogeveen's tickets. They each won $10.

A 'six-legged' calf

A grade Holstein Heifer on the farm of Martin T. Derks of RR 2, Chesterville, gave birth to her first calf, Nov. 26 by caesarean operation, but what was more unusual was the fact the calf had six legs.

Mr Derks told the Record the young cow had had trouble freshening and the attending veterinary decided the operation was needed. The calf normal in weight and fully developed had two extra legs located between its hind legs. The farmer said although the calf couldn't stand it ate normally. Internal disorders caused its death two days after birth.

Chief Fyke issues Christmas warning

Have yourself a very merry Christmas says Chesterville Fire Chief Grenville Fyke but keep it safe from the fire dangers of the season.

Chief Fyke warns residents to keep the tree fresh and green by standing it in water throughout its stay indoors. Keep cigarettes and matches at a safe distance and switch the tree lights off at bedtime and before leaving home.

'Hay Day' in Chesterville

No doubt some of the motorists passing through Chesterville last Thursday afternoon figured the town was having a real hay day. A large flat bed truck owned by R. Stewart of Winchester, loaded with several tons of hay, was travelling south on Main Street, and as the vehicle pulled away from the intersection at Main and Queen Street about 40 or 50 bales came sliding off onto the roadway. The driver didn't notice what happened and was last seen travelling south out towards Dunbar. About half an hour later we saw the truck back in Chesterville parked across from the Chesterville Hotel. Two men had just finished putting the last bale back on the truck.

Santa here Sat.

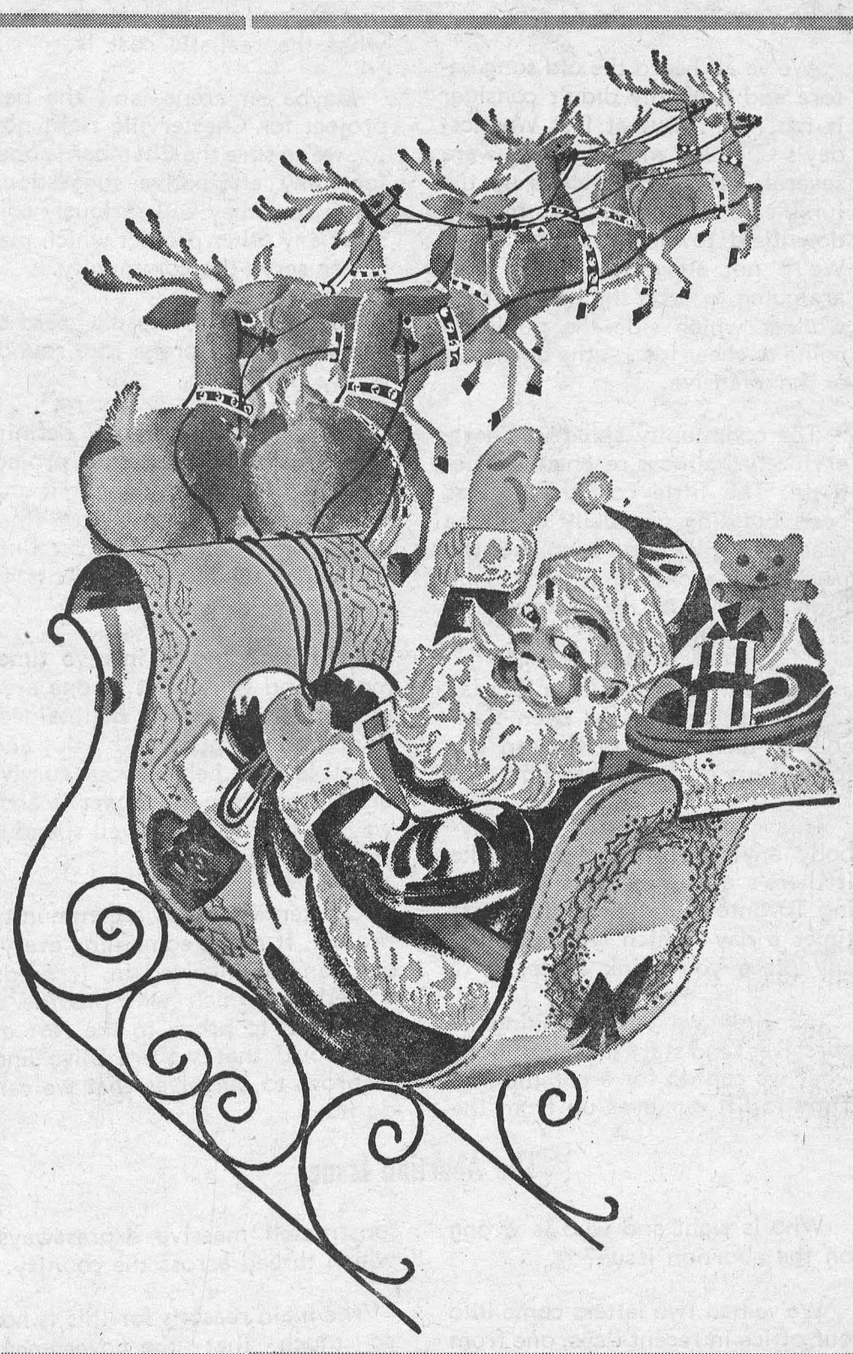
The 1971 Santa Claus parade is all but rolling down Main Street, Chesterville, following the Chamber of Commerce meeting last Wednesday evening.

Merchants and organizations still have to get their floats in shape but the organizational end is tied up.

The annual event gets underway this Saturday from the Legion Hall at 2 p.m. After travelling Main Street, the floats, bands and displays will turn left onto King Street at the bank corner, proceed down to Queen Street, and back onto Main. After crossing the bridge, the procession will turn up Victoria to College Street and left again to South Street and finally to the Park Pavilion, where the children can meet Santa.

The Chamber is asking all participants in the parade to be at the Legion Hall at 1:30 p.m. to arrange their position in the caravan.

The C. of C. has ordered 800 bags of candy for Santa to hand out to the children. And the bill is running about $232. President Charles Graham told the 27 members present that the organization will have to take $87 out of general funds for the candy. Outside donations for the treats came to $145.



Health unit-

Village told to investigate hazardous sewer problem

The St. Lawrence and Ottawa Valley Health Unit has pointed a finger at two establishments in Chesterville and told village council that something must be done to bring them up to standards.

Reeve Keith Graham, at the council meeting Monday night, said letters should be sent to the owners of the business and home involved, asking them what their plans are.

The letter from the health officer said both the buildings needed better sewage facilities. A foul odor and sewage water presented a real health hazard to the tenants in both instances.

Councillors Stuart Allen, Jack Lannin, Fred Coons, and Archie Black agreed to the motion which instructed clerk Lloyd Graham to send the letter.

Reeve Graham said if the owners did nothing to rectify the situation, then council could have the establishments connected to the sewer system and the bills sent to the owners, payable over five years.

Council and health authorities are becoming more concerned about the substandard sewage facilities in Chesterville and will be checking those homes and businesses which do not have municipal sewer service.

WATER CONSUMPTION

The 1,300 residents in Chesterville are using about 67,000 gallons of water a day.

An annual report received by village council at Monday's meeting, informed the village that the water system was working adequately to keep up with the demand. The report from the Ontario Water Resources Commission did say that the iron content was slightly higher than normal and may have to be rectified.

In another report received by council, they were told that the sewage system handles about 60,000 gallons of sewage a day.

DUMP TO CLOSE

According to a letter from the Waste Management Branch, Chesterville has until May, 1972, to find another location for the village dump.

The correspondence read at the December meeting, Monday night, by Clerk Lloyd Graham, said that open dumps are now illegal and must be replaced by fenced, land filled areas with supervision.

Although council has not acted on the new regulations yet, councillor Archie Black wondered where the village would relocate.

Mr Black pointed out that if the dump was moved too far away, some garbage would no doubt be found on the nearest abandoned side road to Chesterville.

Miss Leduc is a graduate of the three year program at Ottawa General Hospital, receiving her diploma from the school in May, 1971. At present she is nursing at the General.

Memory Lane Herd honored at Ayrshire Banquet

FINCH — Roy Simmons and two of the Ayrshires from his Memory Lane herd were honoured here last Wednesday evening December 1 at the annual banquet of the Stormont County Ayrshire Club.

Mr Simmons of R.R. 2, Finch, who is also director of the national Ayrshire Club, was presented with a certificate for the best herd average production in the county, 12,737 lbs. of milk.

Also honoured were two cows in the herd, Memory Lane Lilybet and Memory Lane Shirley. They both were awarded the Gold Seal for passing the 100,000 pound production mark.

Approximately one hundred people were on hand at St. Luke's Presbyterian Church Hall and the guest speaker for the evening was R. O. (Dick) Biggs, Livestock Specialist with the Federal Department of Agriculture and Food, Ottawa.

Douglas MacKehnie, who is secretary manager of the Canadian Ayrshire Association, was another head table guest.

Mr Biggs' main job is to promote Canadian cattle around the world. He told the gathering of his trips to Australia and Europe and related some of the farming techniques in various countries.

The FDA representative said that the need for dairy cows was increasing around the world. The Ayrshire was becoming more popular as a milk producer and he attributed this to the breeders and farmers who work constantly to better the breed of cow.

He urged all farmers to keep bettering their herds. He said if

Time for Action

One of the most difficult decisions and most challenging projects is facing Chesterville Chamber of Commerce.

Their idea of building an arena or installing artificial ice in Chesterville, brings with it the question which we are all considering, "can it be done?"

We've all heard the old song before and probably didn't consider it too much. But at last Wednesday's Chamber meeting there were several 'doers' who picked up the fumbled ball and started moving downfield towards the goal post. We're not suggesting these men are going to drop the ball, but we wonder which side the public is going to cheer for . . . the defensive or the offensive.

The community spirit in Chesterville has almost reached a stalemate. The little corporation has been building gradually over the years, you might say, in spite of the people. It seems that too many have sat down on their laurels and said 'I've done enough'.

No-one in Chesterville or Dundas County or Ontario or even Canada, in their right mind, can say today 'this country owes him . . .

This country doesn't owe anybody anything. If you don't like it there's an Air Canada jet leaving Toronto and Montreal several times a day which will take you any place you think better.

It's time we stop thinking of ourselves and start thinking about what we can do for a community. Time to lift our eyes up from the sidewalk and look ahead. Time to look beyond the realms of Chesterville as it is today and think of it as it will be for you and your children tomorrow,and start working towards that future.

It's time for Chesterville to get behind the doers and support them in a community project no matter what the realistic cost is.

Maybe an arena isn't the best project for Chesterville right now . . . we're sure the Chamber is open for any alternative suggestions, we're sure they will seriously consider any other project which may better serve the community.

But the C. of C. hasn't heard of one yet and the arena idea sounds pretty good.

We're sure before any definite action is taken the arena project will be thoroughly thought out and planned. But when the final decision is made, it is then final for village and area residents to get moving.

Sure its going to involve time, money and work. But as one area resident has always maintained, "You can't take it with you, and if you leave it behind your survivors are going to fight over it anyway, so you might as well spend it yourself."

Chesterville needs a community project. It needs something everyone can get involved in. It needs something which will provide a challenge, to prove to the rest of the world that we are alive and to prove to ourselves that we can do it.

The Abortion Issue

Who is right and who is wrong on the abortion issue?

We've had two letters come into our office in recent days, one from a female doctor and another from a Catholic Priest, both who disagree strongly with abortion, but for two reasons.

The doctor says that abortion is "qualified murder". She said its like a mother swallow who invites a squirrel for a "snack" made of eggs she just laid, because she didn't want the trouble of hatching them.

The priest says that abortion is only tackling the consequences of a problem. The real solution is fighting poverty, lodging, sexual and family education and a permissive moral code.

We find that the doctor has the more realistic attitude about the issue. But he's fighting a very big problem which deals with society's way of thinking.

You might say that laws have spoiled the people, just as a parent might spoil a child. At one time motorists were demanding better highways so they could drive faster.

Today the governments have constructed massive expressways which thread across the country.

The main reasons for this is not so much that the government wants the people to drive faster, but if they are going to do it the government might as well make it easier and safer.

Abortion laws have reached a very similar situation. Its not that the governments want women to become pregnant with unwanted children, but if its going to happen they might as well provide a safe and legal escape route.

Society is a very stubborn and complex entity which sometimes doesn't realize what it's doing is not the best way. And we all know how hard it is to sway the public to a better idea.

You have to congratulate the doctor and the priest in their fight. You may class them as old-fashioned with antiquated ideas. And you may consider their endeavours fruitless.

You might compare them to David who set out to destroy Golliath. We all know how that story ended. But we wonder if the doctor and the priest can find the right stone to throw and if they do, will they hit the vital spot.

"I DON'T KNOW, I THINK IT'S THE AVON LADY"

Ann Landers . . .

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing this letter from a mental hospital. Please do your best to fix it up for this column. I have something to say to all kids who think they can mess around with drugs and come out o.k. Some can, but some can't. I'm a 15-year-old girl who is strung out from one trip. Maybe I'm washed up for keeps. The doctors don't know yet. It seems like something has happened to my eyes.

I started blowing grass two years ago and it didn't do much for me. We called it the "Don't Give-A-Damn-Weed" and that's about the best description I know of. Last week a 17-year-old boy talked me into trying LSD. He said he'd been on a couple dozen trips and it was a wild groove. The greatest. My first trip will be my last. It was a bummer and I'm fighting like crazy to make it back. I felt as if I was riding on the back of a rocket and suddenly the rocket exploded and me with it.

My folks have been wonderful. I only hope I can get it all together and make up for the hell I'm putting them through. Funny how I never gave them a thought. In fact, I'm thinking about a lot of things I never thought about before. I am typing this on a portable typewriter the nurse has put on the food tray. Please correct the mistakes and print it. Thanks, Ann. — Boston

Dear Reader: Here's your letter. I appreciate the trouble you went through to write it. If just a few kids listen it will be worth the effort. I'm pulling for you, honey.

Dear Ann Landers: I could have kissed you when I read your comments to the young girl who was considering marrying the fellow who slaughtered the King's English. Believe me, it can get to you pretty fast.

Our son-in-law says "me and Sue" and "gooms" for gums, and "pitcher" for picture. The other night he called up and mumbled "Jeet yet?" I asked, "What did you say?" He repeated — "Jeet? Whuttsamatter, you deef?" Honestly, Ann, it made me sick to think that our college-educated daughter will have to listen to that kind of talk the rest of her life. Strangely enough she adores the clod and chose him over a fellow who graduated from Oxford and sounded like Sir Winston Churchill. A few words of sympathy from you would help. — Ear Muffed

Dear Ear: Love is not only blind, it's also deef — I mean deaf. Obviously your daughter is as happy as a clam so what are you complaining about? She and her husband communicate and that's where it's at — if you'll forgive me ending a sentence with a preposition.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband has been unfaithful three times that I know of. His first playmate confessed by telephone. I had no idea who she was; I'd never heard of her and was shocked. The second blow came when my husband sobbed out the details of a torrid affair after we had seen a very touching movie together. (The guilt got to him.) This woman was also a stranger to me. I was stunned to put it mildly.

He said he felt greatly relieved after having unburdened himself. I nearly had a nervous breakdown. The third woman showed up at my home and said she wanted me to know what kind of man I was married to. I nearly collapsed.

I would never have guessed about any of these affairs had I not been told. Dumb? Yes — but true. Knowing didn't help. Why did these people tell me? — Ignorant Wife

Dear Wife: Because they needed to unload and they didn't care who was hurt. Such people are immature, inconsiderate, and often punitive.

Do you feel ill at ease — out of it? Is everybody having a good time but you? Write for Ann Landers' booklet "The Key To Popularity," enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Editor's note: We would like to know how many of our subscribers read the Ann Landers column. We have been asked recently to run another series of articles in the paper and we don't have room for both. We would like you to write and tell us whether we should continue it or not. Your letters do not have to be signed and will not be published.

Hidden Hunger or Questionable Returns

Do your crops suffer from hidden hunger? This question is suually the basis of concern for farmers to apply extra amounts of fertilizer or use a premium fertilizer with added secondary or micro nutrients. However, in most cases, hidden hunger is not a sound fact to base a decision upon.

Hidden hunger usually describes a crop which needs or uses nutrients but does not show physical evidence of defiency symptoms in the field. There is ample evidence that the hidden hunger zone is also an area of questionable returns to a farmers pocket book.

For instance, in the past [illegible] years, an extra 250 pounds of 5-20-20 applied in addition to the soil test requirements has failed to produce enough extra corn to pay for the cost of the additional fertilizer. This information was gathered form eight county soil and crop improvement trials in Eastern Ontario.

Evidence from the University of Guelph shows that the returns per acre from fertilizer are lower on high fertility soils. It is the workings of the law of diminishing returns. When the last dollar spent on fertilizer just returns one dollar in crop it is time to stop fertilization regardless of the hidden hunger zone.

Hidden hunger may not be the limiting factor. Weed control, moisture, drainage, or insects and diseases may be the limiting factors. Check out these factors in your fertilizer program before you make a decision.

You may not be in the hidden hunger zone but rather the zone of questionable returns.

Teachers ... VIEW

When we realize that we cannot be a simple individual without any relations with others, we reach a point of possible communication.

Students must learn how to work with others, and achieve assignments by bringing their collaboration within a certain group. School can be the most boring thing if you do not feel needed by others and if you don't consider it a great possibility of meeting people.

Within our system, a student can go from one subject or from one teacher, or from one class to the next without any relationship, any social commitment with the other students. The school wants to help the youth in building up his individuality but within the limits of different rules. In fact, the ones who are really individuals do not need the rules and anyway, they are going to overstep them.

By going here and there, it is hard to create the necessary relaxing atmosphere which you need to understand people and things. There is a problem of time. Within the limits of a period of forty minutes, some work can be done, of course, but nothing can really be finished. You have started something, and then you are going to start something else and at the end of the day, you realize you have been starting things but nothing has been really finished. How can you relax then — and at home, students don't always have the necessary material or possibilities to finish what they have started.

The humanization of our system is the most important thing to do. Do teachers have the time to know their students and do students have the chance to know their teachers? Did we reach this point of being so out of this world that we don't need to be known anymore? that we don't need to be called by our name, but only called "teacher"?

Our society is one of mechanization. If I still have respect for human values, my work will be to make people understand that they must not be a simple machine, or a robot. It's easy to be a human being with humans but it's hard with a machine.

Can we possibly think about a new approach of teaching where we will save the value of giving a human education, or do we have to change the whole system because this one does not give anymore what society needs, what people need. Can the new aims of education be put into a system which did not always care about them? Are the needs of today fulfilled by a system built on the needs of yesterday? Can our system be reoriented to save the good sides and minimize the bad ones? Can teachers and students go home and forget all about it? Is doing his best always a good answer?

Rev. W. S. Sutherland guest speaker at Avonmore Thankoffering

Guest speaker at the annual fall thankoffering service for the Women's Missionary Soceity of St. Andrew's Church, Avonmore, last Sunday evening was Rev. W. S. Sutherland, B.A., Finch

Rev. W. E. Sayers, M.A., minister of St. Andrew's Church conducted the service and welomed Rev Sutherland on behalf of the Session and the loal auxiliary of the W.M.S.

Mr Sutherland stressed the need of supporting far-flung missions of the church in the same way the armies must of necessity be supported by action on the home front. While stressing the need of overseas missions, Mr Sutherland spoke of the increasing needs on the home front.

He spoke of the laxity of the great numbers within the church. Realizing the many pressures within and without, the speaker called for a renewed commitment on the part of those who appreciate the urgency in declaring love of God in Jesus Christ

Mrs Fraser MacRae thanked the speaker on behalf of the ladies.

The choir of St. Andrew's Church rendered the anthem "The Love of God". Mrs Neil M. Bush presided at the console. The thankoffering was received by Mrs M. F. McRae and Mrs Ford Warrier.

KITCHEN CORNER

SHORTBREAD

Homemade cookies are never more popular than at Christmas time and the most popular cookie of all is shortbread. This rich, buttery cookie has a basically simple recipe, but requires care in handling and choice of ingredients to achieve perfection.

Sugar should be finely granulated, and use of cake or pastry flour or even rice flour will make a tender cookie. To prevent dry cookies, start with less flour than is suggested and add the remainder gradually. Too little flour results in a greasy taste. To test for greasiness, squeeze the dough in your hand; if it is oily, gradually add more flour.

Use care in mixing. Overmixing results in a very fragile cookie with a furry top.

Shortbread

1 cup butter (do not substitute
1/3 cup fruit sugar
2 cups flour

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and cream together thoroughly. Add flour to form stiff dough. Turn dough onto a lightly floured board and knead in remaining flour until the dough begins to crack. Roll about ¼" thick and cut in Christmas shapes. Bake in 325 degree oven until lightly browned.

Walnut Crisps

½ cup all purpose flour
¼ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt
¼ cup butter
½ cup white sugar
1 egg
1 tsp. vanilla extract
1½ sq. unsweetened chocolate, melted
2 cups walnut pieces

Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Sift dry ingredients together. Mix butter, sugar, egg, and vanilla until very fluffy. Mix in chocolate and then flour mixture. Fold in walnuts. Drop by teaspoons, 1 inch apart, onto a greased cookie sheet. Bake for 10 minutes only. Yield, 1½ dozen.

Macaroons

3 egg whites
1½ cups sugar
2 cups coconut
½ tsp. vanilla
¼ tsp. salt

Beat egg whites until very stiff and add sugar gradually. Place in double boiler and cook until crust forms on dish. Add coconut, flavouring, and salt.

Drop by teaspoonsful on greased pan and bake in 325 degree oven 15-20 minutes or until golden brown.

Osnabruck Twp. Council propose new fire hall to be built at Ingleside

INGLESIDE — Osnabruck Township Council spent most of the meeting Monday night discussing the new fire hall for Ingleside.

The proposed building will be similar to the one built in Alexandria recently. The Township officials and interested members of the Fire Department took a tour of the $22,000 structure in Glengarry County to see if it would be suitable for Ingleside.

The 40' x 65' concrete-block Alexandria fire hall has a meeting room, kitchen, bathrooms, showers and other additional facilities.

Work is expected to start on the Ingleside Hall as soon as approval has been received from the Federal Government's Winter Works program. Money is available to municipalities for this type of public building to the extent of $100 a week for each workman's wages, plus 17 percent additional grant towards materials and fringe benefits.

Costing has not been completed yet, but a piece of land east of St. Peter's Anglican Church has been chosen as the site for the new hall.

A recent Fire Marshal's Report recommended the new hall, along with improving fire fighting efficiency wth a new truck, re-allocaton of equipment and a more comprehensive training and promotional program.

Rev. Harry Funge said grace and David MacIntyre, first vice-president of the club, introduced the head table guests.

Director George Hehir also extended his welcome to the crowd. Gordon McRae of Avonmore, on behalf of the Stormont Holstein Breeders Club, Donald Rose for the Grenville Dundas Ayrshire Club, Harold Dingwall speaking for the St. Lawrence Jersey Club and John Fourney, president of the Glengarry Ayrshire Club, extended their thanks for being invited to the dinner.
