Don't complain because you are growing old. Many are denied the privilege.

CRUMBS

Graham's Loaf

Now is the time for all good men to ladle into the vitamins and become virile, strong and germ-free. According to the ads, a handful a day will keep disease away, by suggestion make hair grow and increase the baby bonus cheques. Vitamin pills offer a cure-all from colds to colic and anyone not taking them is in danger of immediate disintegration.

The big spreads about the dangers that befall pill-less people give us a pain instead of curing. It would seem the human animal all these years has only gotten along by divine sufferance until the vitamin pill deal lifted him from his bed of misery and early death. Now with pills, all one has to do is top off the day with a dozen fast laps around the block before going to bed to sleep like a tired kitten.

The vitamin pill business is done to death. In this day when vegetables arrive fresh the year round to our tables, when meats and fruits are kept in controlled atmosphere and lose none of their normal complements of Nature's vitamin's, the idea of supplementing an already adequate supply of most of the body's special needs is a little nauseating. And especially as in most cases extra vitamins are automatically shucked off by the taker without being used.

There is constant need for attention to the human carcass as it wears and tears in the process of growing old. Then it is that the doctor prescribes the necessary pills in the right amount for remedy. His judgment is to be trusted in the matter, and the teasing ads should be treated like a sideshow barker's spiel.

Eric Casselman, president of Chesterville branch of Red Cross, and the sponsoring branch, expressed his thanks to the many volunteers who worked all day to make the clinic a success. It was felt the district had done remarkably well and the clinic people returned to the city well satisfied.

OPINIONS . . . OURS AND OTHERS

We have a birthday

This week our dateline on the front page carries a new set of volume figures. They now read 66th year, number 1, and so we have another birthday of the "Record" to celebrate.

Times have changed considerably in those 65 years. Vol. 1, No. 1, started out as a small four-page sheet, selling for 50 cents a year, offering a column of space for $12 a year and noting that news of the district was its main source for being.

Over the years the format of the paper has changed, it has become larger, smaller in the depression, then of late years steadily increased its page numbers, until today, 10- and 12-page papers are normal. And the news of the district has still proved to be our reason for existence.

Beginning its 66th year the "Record" is reaching the greatest paid number of subscribers in its history. We now have nearly 5,600 readers a week, and the list grows.

For 44 years of the "Record's" life, the paper has been owned and operated by members of one family here in Chesterville, and that on occasion is a humbling thought. As editors and publishers we have only one reason for being, and that is public acceptance of our weekly effort. When we get a little uppity, the surest way to bring us down to earth with a crash is to suggest that a subscriber is going elsewhere to get his local news.

We won't last for another forty years, let alone 66. In the meantime we celebrate the paper's birthday with our readers who have made it possible.

School patrols effective

Chesterville Public and Separate School patrols this year appear to be particularly effective. And this year, traffic seems to be conditioned at last to obey the paddle signals of the youthful guards.

Chesterville Public School pattern of letting the pupils out a quarter hour before noon looks to be quite efficient. The resulting lessening of confusion at the crosswalks is most noticeable; there seems to be greater control by the guards over their own age group. When the pupils are mixed with older groups, some chances are taken against the traffic that otherwise would not happen.

The travelling public is still warned to be particularly careful. The noon periods and after four are dangerous ones. Galloping, heedless children must be protected against themselves, and it is up to the motorist to remember that fact.

Mr K has come and gone

The honourable boss-man of Russia has come and gone from our North American shores. While he did not touch this part of America, our neighbours to the south had a ball with the gentleman.

It would seem to us, settled as we are in a bucolic hideaway here in Chesterville, that Mr K really was not too impressed with what went on about him in the great Hew Hess Hay. The ball-shaped gent arrived with some pre-conceived notions and he left with those notions, just as firmly planted.

A communist has no give, no bend and no soul to share. He has a built-in horror of deviating from the party dogma, and he knows that ultimate power is only reached by blind unreasoning resolution to follow the Marxist line. And he rarely argues with logic as an argumentive tool. Mr K's arguments, as such, were only expositions of his thudding boasts of Soviet might, and if that line could not solve the question, he would turn off the questioner with party dialectics.

We think Mr K's visit was good for one thing. The North American public saw at close hand a stainless steel example of the product of a total communist state. Our democratic economy made as much impression on him as water against a cement wall.

Jet streams

Thousands of feet above the earth, racing winds zigzag across the sky. Unnoticed from below, they lurk in ambush for planes and rockets.

These treacherous rivers of air, known as jet streams, whip across the sky at speeds up to 450 miles an hour. They travel at altitudes ranging from six to 10 miles.

Rocket tests have been postponed for days when meteorologists reported jet streams were passing overhead. Airplane pilots take pains to avoid a stream going in the wrong direction. When a stream is going the right way, a pilot can almost coast to his destination.

For centuries men knew nothing of these high winds. Then in 1883 a virtually unknown volcanic island called Krakatau, lying between Java and Sumatra, exploded with such fury it was heard nearly 3,000 miles away. The earth-shaking volcanic blast carried ash an estimated 17 miles above the earth.

The speed with which the clouds of dust spread around the world suggested the existence of fast-moving winds far above the earth. But decades passed before the clue was followed up. As aviation got under way, pilots began reporting that winds at high altitudes would enable them to break speed records—or bring their planes almost to a standstill despite engines running at full tilt.

British meteorologists during World War II secretly plotted the jet streams so planes could float down the river of air to Germany in record time, get off, and fly back in ordinary air. Japanese placed balloon-borne incendiary bombs in a jet stream moving across the Pacific. A number of the bombs reached the Pacific coast areas of the United States.

Meteorologists believe the streams have an enormous effect on the weather below. Undulating from west to east around the world, they move northward in summer and southward in winter, like birds and tourists. They may pull a storm or even a hurricane far out of its destined course. It was perhaps a jet stream that took a Japanese typhoon far off course to drown about 1,000 persons on an unwarned ferryboat off the island of Hokkaido in September, 1954.

The streams, tracked by radar bounced of high-flying balloons, are usually no more than about 300 miles wide. Broad strips of calmer air separate them. Big jet streams occur from Tokyo to Honolulu, over the southeastern United States, and from North Africa to the Indian Ocean.

Meteorologists do not fully agree on the cause of the streams. Possibly the most popular theory at present is that the streams result from the confluence of broad masses of cold polar air moving south and warm equatorial air pushing north. This confluence may start the big winds. The turning of the earth doubtless influences the streams, since the earth does not drag its surrounding air along with complete evenness.

Some weather men believe that the jet streams are the chief means by which air is exchanged between the tropics and the poles. If it were not for this exchange, the equatorial regions might become impossibly hot.

"MECHANICAL GIRAFFE" DOES THE JOB

An invention by a University of British Columbia engineering graduate to simplify cherry-picking in the Okanagan Valley now is being used in all parts of the world for all sorts of jobs.

Ted Trump invented a "mechanical giraffe" eight years ago. It looked like a giant crane, but the boom instead of being straight and stiff, bent in the middle like a human arm.

First it caused a revolution in fruit-picking and now is being used for de-icing planes, painting boats and bridges, mining and electrical maintenance work and in forestry operations.

Headquarters are at Oliver, a community of 3,000 about 300 miles east of Vancouver. The United States Air Force recently placed a $4,500,000 order for the machines. They use them for de-icing and de-contamination of planes.

Recently the "giraffe" was demonstrated to the B.C. Fire Chiefs' Association. The chiefs rode up and down in the giraffe basket and saw how it could be used in fire-fighting operations.

In addition to the Oliver headquarters, Mr Trump has licensed companies in the United States and England to manufacture his equipment.

The BIBLE TODAY . . .

The most translated verse in the Bible is John 3:16. "God so loved the World that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believed in Him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Here is the same verse in the Maori language of New Zealand: "Koia ano te aroka o te Atus ki te ao, homai ana e ia tanu Tama kotahi, kia kahore ai e ngaro te tangata e unakaypono ana ki a ia engari kia whiwhi ai ki te ora tonu."

The Canadian Eskimo of the Western Arctic read the version like this:

"Taima Godim silakpamik koviagiya Ergmktoani nunamoyka, kia okpegikpogo olapilaitook, inosimik isolisoitomik piniaga."

These are but two of the 1,136 languages into which at least one book of the Bible has been translated and circulated.

Suggested Bible Readings:

Sunday, October 4: Act 1: 1-14.
Monday, October 5: Romans 1-23.
Tuesday, October 6: Romans 1-13.
Wednesday, October 7: 1 Corinthians 1-16.
Thursday, October 8: Psalms 1-22.
Friday, October 9: Psalms 1-22.
Saturday, October 10: Acts 1-21.

BACK TO NORMAL

Things are so much more relaxed at the Klappert home in Norwalk, Conn., now that they have found the boa constrictor they were looking for.

Max, a four-foot boa belonging to 16-year-old Peter Klappert, disappeared three weeks ago. When Peter's mother was cleaning under the bed in the guest room the other day she found Max looking shyly out at her.

Peter said his snake was a little thinner, but otherwise had come through in good health.

There was no report on what effect the chance meeting had on Mrs Klappert.

"They told me to wash everything in the line," he explained.

The sympathetic telephone repairman gave him a dollar. The water was on the county.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

by Lillian Allison

"Why don't we just leave the car at the Billings Bridge Plaza?" I suggested as we drove to Ottawa Saturday morning. "We could take a bus downtown and back and save a lot of bother." Then for the next two or three miles I explained all the bother we'd save. We haven't been to Ottawa very often in the last few years and in that time the downtown area has become very difficult.

The place bristles now with "No Parking" signs, "No Left Turn" signs and "Do Not Enter" signs. There are one way streets too that throw you completely off course. Then there is the unanswerable question of where to park. We would arrive at eleven and have to stay until five. Just where would we park for so long?

I made a very good case so when we saw all the wide, open spaces at Billings Bridge we were sold on the idea. We would take a bus downtown for the first time in history.

We were walking towards the bus stop when we met two Ottawa friends in their car. They recognized us and stopped. We explained our plans. "A good idea," the driver said. "It is really hectic driving here when you have to read signs. Climb in and we'll take you to Bank and Grove so you won't have to transfer." They left us at the little bus depot waiting for a St. Pat's bus which came in a very few minutes.

It was a real comfort to sit back and let the bus driver read the signs. And instead of watching red lights I looked in store windows. "That's the way to go down town," I observed, quite pleased with myself, when we stepped off the bus on Queen St.

It was 5.15 when the meeting was over and we left the Chateau. "Now I saw a Bank and Grove bus stopping there," Harry said as he pointed east on Rideau.

"There's a bus stop up here which is nearer," I said pointing west. We walked about a block and found the bus stops there were all intended for Hull, Gatineau and other foreign buses. We turned back, passed the Chateau and went east. The stops there were for non-Bank buses too. We walked to Freiman's. It was getting late and Ottawa buses were dropping rapidly in our esteem. Besides there wasn't a policeman in sight to ask for advice.

"I'll call the Ottawa Transportation Company," I said. "Surely they can tell us how to get out of here." And I breezed through the revolving door at Freiman's.

"You take a Bank and Grove bus," the man said. When I asked him where it would stop he directed me across the street to a stop in front of the Metropolitan store. That didn't sound right so I asked him to repeat it.

Following the O.T.C. man's direction we crossed the street. It didn't make sense to take an east-bound bus in order to go west and south but bus companies do queer things sometimes. Yet I couldn't think the man on the phone was right. I asked a lady who was waiting too. She said we should be over in front of the Kresge store.

Once more we waited for the lights, crossed busy Rideau and joined the mob at the white post. Our love for the O.T.C. was decreasing by the minute. We'd wasted goodness knows how much time and the cows were at home waiting to be milked. Eventually a Bank and Grove bus arrived and everyone plunged at it as if their cows weren't milked yet either.

As we passed the Chateau we saw the store where we should have waited. And to make matters worse we also saw a sign which, I think, said we could have parked all day for $1. And it had already cost us 50c to ride that elusive bus.

We stopped at every white post up Sparks and out Bank St. Finally those who were left piled out at the little depot. "You take a Metcalfe bus from here," the driver informed us.

We tramped back and forth like caged lions while we waited. A bus pulled in and stopped but it wasn't ours. Finally Harry asked the driver when our bus

Donald MacIntyre, Finch pasture competition winner

Donald MacIntyre, Finch, has been declared winner of the pasture competition of Stormont Crop Improvement Association. Other top competitors were: D. D. Cameron, Avonmore; Marland Murray, Martintown; Arnold Scott, Strathmore, and William Campbell, Avonmore.

Stormont dairymen have participated enthusiastically in this relatively new pasture project. The entire pasture program of the farm was judged in June and again in August by Dan E. McDonell, Martintown, winner of last year's competition.

Scores were allotted in June for fertilizer and manure applications, rotational grazing and provision for early pasture. Harrowing, location and arrangements of fields, carrying capacity and legume-grass balance were also scored.

In August score efficiency in the use of forage crops and feed was considered, as well as provision for shade and water, rotation, clipping and harrowing. Carrying capacity, vigor and thickness of stand along with freedom from weeds were also scored.

Zone winners will be rated to declare a winner of the pasture competition for the Province of Ontario.

Barry Armstrong weds Lorna McCorriston

The wedding vows of Miss Lorna Carol McCorriston, daughter of Mr and Mrs Hilliard McCorriston, Berwick, and Mr Barry Brydges Armstrong, son of Mr and Mrs Thomas Armstrong, Crysler, were solemnized in the Wesleyan Methodist Church, Newington.

Rev W. A. Smith officiated at the recent ceremony. Miss Marlene McLean was the organist.

Mr McCorriston gave his daughter in marriage and she was attended by Mrs Cecil Adams, sister of the bridegroom, as matron of honour. The bridesmaids were Miss Gail McCorriston, sister of the bride, and Miss Marilyn MacIntosh.

Mr Cecil Adams, Toronto, was best man and the ushers were Mr Bert McCorriston, brother of the bride, and Mr Ray McLeod.

The bride's floor-length gown of Chantilly lace was designed with a Sabrina neckline embroidered with seed pearls and rhinestones and the bouffant skirt was in tiers edged with Chantilly lace.

Her fingertip veil was caught to a crown headdress of seed pearls and rhinestones and she carried a cascade bouquet of Sweetheart roses.

Her attendants wore similar dresses. The matron of honour wore champagne beige and the bridesmaids wore mauve and yellow. They carried cascade bouquets of chrysanthemums.

Following a reception in Berwick Community Hall, the couple left for Niagara Falls. They will reside in Crysler.

A suit of heaven-blue wool crepe in dressmaker style with pink and black accessories and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations was worn by the bride.

Mrs Roy Hoople and the late Mr Hoople. The groom is the son of Mr and Mrs William Barnett, of Morewood.

The wedding music was played by the church organist, Mrs E. A. MacKillican. The soloist was Mrs Wm. Valley Jr.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Harry Valley, the bride chose a gown of white lace over taffeta, styled with a fitted bodice with long sleeves tapered to points over the hands. Her matching finger-tip veil was held in place by a coronet of sequins and pearls and she wore a pearl necklace, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of white stephanotis, centred with red roses.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Violet Valley, as maid of honour, and Miss Florence Perry and Miss Pauline Barnett as bridesmaids. All attendants were dressed in similar pastel gowns of coral, green and blue nylon over taffeta, with matching gloves and feathered bands. They carried nosegays of yellow and pink 'mums.

Miss Gail Valley, flower girl, wore a dress of yellow nylon over taffeta with matching headdress.

Diane Hoople acted as the ring bearer.

Max Barnett, brother of the groom, was best man and the ushers were the bride's brother, William Hoople, and the groom's brother-in-law, Arnold McCadden.

The bride's mother chose a brown lace dress with white accessories and a corsage of white 'mums. The mother of the groom wore a light blue lace gown with sand accessories and a corsage of pink 'mums.

Following a reception at the bride's home, the happy couple left on a wedding trip to points in the United States.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs Elmer McDermid.

Mr and Mrs Barnett will reside at Morewood.

Barnett–Hoople

Rev D. C. Munro officiated at the marriage of Miss Ruth Hoople to Jack Barnett in Knox United Church, Moose Creek.

NEW, IMPROVED DAIRY FEEDS

NEW WAY TO FEED COWS

MEAL OR CRUMBLES

NEW LOW PRICES

Good news for dairy farmers! The Pioneer-Cafeteria people have been doing a big job, both in research and manufacturing, since they joined forces last February.

Now, for 1959-60, they have brought out a line of dairy feeds with improved formulas and a distinctive new look. And they are recommending a new cow-proved plan of feeding to improve feed efficiency.

All the new Pioneer-Cafeteria feeds for cows and heifers (not calves) are being made in crumble form as well as meal. The company recommends crumbles, and they look good to us. The meal too has good granulation, even distribution of molasses, and is highly palatable.

And here's more good news. We are able to offer these improved dairy feeds at NEW LOW PRICES... instead of at higher prices as you might think. So come in and take a look. Or give us a phone call and we'll be right out to see you. This is something you can't afford to miss.

JUST CLAMS

Seagulls long ago learned to drop clams from on high to crack their shells and thus make the meat accessible. But as far as Jerry Martin's family is concerned, their ingenuity is being carried to extremes.

The Martins recently moved into a new house at Island Park, N.Y., which apparently is in the flight path of the gulls. From 5 a.m. to 9 p.m., the birds rain clams on the roof.

"It sounds like someone on the roof dropping a hammer," Mrs Martin complained.

Does soil acidity reduce your farm's productivity?

ALCAN AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE IS THE ANSWER

Money spent on good seed, fertilizer and labour can be wasted on strongly acid soil. Its value is proved. Soils treated with this high grade limestone yield larger and better quality crops.

ALCAN AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE has an exceptionally high neutralizing value, making it a grand soil conditioner. It also has an important residual effect: because of the variation in particle size, it aerates the soil and improves microbial growth and drainage. So you continue to get its benefits through many years.

MAGNESIA, too! Alcan Agricultural Limestone also has magnesia. It gives you a bonus, because magnesia is recognized as essential food for potatoes, tobacco, alfalfa and many other crops.

FREE SOIL ANALYSIS—ALCAN is ready to test your soil FREE of charge, so you can apply the right amount of limestone it requires and avoid overliming. (If your soil does NOT need limestone, our soil analysis report will tell you.) Use the handy coupon below to get full information and the forms to fill out to arrange for this FREE analysis.

Mrs John M. Loucks

A resident of Ingleside for the past two years, Mrs John M. Loucks, died on Saturday, September 19, after several years' illness. Mrs Loucks, whose maiden name was Jessie Frances Jarvis, was born in Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, on November 13, 1882. She was a daughter of the late James D. Jarvis and his wife, the late Frances Mary Parsons. Mrs Loucks went to Aultsville in 1887 and in 1915 was married to John M. Loucks. As their home was in the flooded Seaway area, they moved to Ingleside in 1957.

Mrs Loucks became a member of the Emmanuel Presbyterian Church, Aultsville, in 1904 and was an active worker in her church, especially in the W.M.S., of which she was a past president and life member. On moving to Ingleside, she became a member of St. Matthew's Presbyterian congregation in that village.

Besides her husband, her nearest surviving relatives are a sister, Mrs Margaret Balkwill, St. Lambert, Que., and a brother, Douglas W. Jarvis, of Ingleside, also four nephews and six nieces. In her parents' family she was predeceased by three brothers and one sister.

The funeral was held on Monday from her residence to St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church, Ingleside, where the service was conducted by Rev Dr McLellan, of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Cornwall, who delivered a comforting message. The hymns which had been selected by the deceased were "The Sands of Time are Sinking" and "Abide With Me."

Pall bearers were Wesley Bedingfield, Ivan Eamon, Clare Markell, Fred Ostler, Wesley Robertson and Frank Shaver.

Many beautiful floral tributes were placed around the casket.

Interment was in St. Lawrence Valley Union Cemetery.

CAR IN BED

Walter Siner found a car in his bed at a motel at North Bergen, N.J. It was his car, and it arrived unexpectedly.

Police said Mrs Siner had gone out to the car to get something while her husband bedded down in their room. He had left the motor running.

Mrs Siner reached into the car and accidently hit the gear shift lever. The car started moving.

She fumbled for the brake but hit the accelerator instead. The car lunged forward and crashed through the wall, right into the bed where Siner was lying.

He required treatment for a hand injury. Mrs Siner was treated for shock.

The Landrace breed of swine is popular in Canada.

HARD WORKERS

A pickup truck parked at a meter in Greenfield, Ind., had this note under the windshield wiper:

"Working for the bank."

A policeman wrote out a ticket for overtime parking and added his own comment:

"Working for the city."

WET OR DRY—Whatever the weather, outside broadcast crews of the CBC still have to provide television viewers with good coverage of sports and news events. Protected from the rain by plastic sheeting covering himself and his camera, this CBC crewman records the running of the Queen's Plate from the top of the stands of the new Woodbine race track near Toronto.

Mrs Harry Morgan

The funeral of Mrs Harry Morgan was held Friday at 2 p.m. from the chapel of St. Peter's Anglican Church, Ingleside. The service was conducted by the rector, Canon J. F. MacMorine. Burial was at St. Lawrence Valley Union Cemetery.

Pall bearers were William Johnson, Charles Barkley, Robert Trimble, Donald Stuart, Delbert Flintoff and Stuart Markell.

Mrs Morgan passed away unexpectedly in Cornwall General Hospital at the age of 70.

Born Nellie Jane Cheley, she was the daughter of the late Amos Cheley and his wife, Mary Bush, of Williamsburg Township.

Besides her husband, she is survived by one brother, Walter Cheley, Morrisburg, and two sisters, Mrs C. Shaffer, Brockville, and Mrs Jas. O'Shaughnessy, of Ingleside. She also leaves a niece, Mrs Guy Strader, Williamsburg.

Mrs Morgan lived most of her life in Wales, moving to Ingleside three years ago. She had been very active in church work previous to going to Ingleside when her lack of sufficient strength prevented her continuing this activity.

She had many friends who will mourn her passing.

FOUR BRITISH WRITERS combine sparkling wit with their knowledge of the English language to produce a hilarious half-hour of literary fun and games in "My Word," a BBC transcription program carried each Sunday on CBC radio's Trans-Canada network. They are Frank Muir (with moustache) and Dennis Norden, the two script writers of "Take It From Here," and Nancy Spain (top left) and E. Arnot Robertson. "My Word" starts off to be a quiz show but ends up as a free-for-all of spontaneous wit and comment.

CRIME SOLVED

A white and yellow budgerigar is probably the only bird in Australia to have solved a crime single-handed.

Police told the Redfern court that the stolen bird, Tweetie Pie, identified itself when it said: "Lend us a quid, lend us a quid."

Thomas Weeks, a labourer, was charged with having stolen the bird and sold it to a shop.

A friend of Tweetie's owner identified the bird after hearing its request.

Tweetie Pie can also say: "I'm a good boy" and "eat your dinner."

Forest fires can be avoided.

HIDDEN STAIRS

Repair work stopped suddenly one day recently at the church of St. Mary-le-Bow, whence London's famous Bow Bells ring, when a workman's drill broke through to the medieval stairway. It proved to be a spiral [illegible] of stone and led from the [illegible] of the original tower to the crypt. Experts were at once called in to examine it.

The tower of the church was resited by Sir Christopher Wren when he rebuilt St. Mary's after the Great Fire of 1666.

BY THE EARS

A couple of Louisville, Ky., policemen took the bull by the ears.

The bull was a Jersey—relatively young and docile, who escaped from the stockyards.

He was threading his way through heavy traffic, startling pedestrians in the downtown section, when Patrolman Wiley Nelson spotted him.

Nelson finally caught up and leaned out the cruiser window, grabbing the bull by the ear. His partner leaped out and grabbed the other ear.

They felled the bull with a neat manoeuvre and returned it to the auction block.

HOLDING THE BAG

Four would-be bandits yelled "hand us the sack" at their intended victim and were left holding the bag.

The four, two armed with pistols, surrounded the car of St. Louis market operator Chester Cook and Cook obediently handed over the only sack he had.

It contained: Four sandwiches, a bottle of hair oil and some underwear.

EVERYBODY EATS- TRY THESE!

By Helen Graham

LEMON—A YEAR-ROUND FAVOURITE

WE WOULD MISS LEMONS if we didn't have them. That is sure. A few drops of lemon juice adds that little extra touch to so many foods whether it is a cup of tea with a slice of lemon added or a few drops of lemon juice in a hollandaise sauce. Or maybe you like lemon flavoured desserts or cakes. And don't forget to serve a wedge of lemon with fish the next time you serve it.

Hollandaise Sauce

Pour over baked fish, fish sticks or over vegetables such as asparagus or broccoli to change the ordinary into the glamorous.

¼ cup butter
2 egg yolks
¼ tsp. salt
Dash of cayenne
¼ cup boiling water
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Cream the butter; add beaten yolks of eggs. Add seasonings and water. Cook over hot water until thick; stir constantly. Do not cook quickly or the mixture may curdle. Remove from heat; add lemon juice. Serve at once with fish or vegetables.

Lemon Layers with Butter Icing

2/3 cup condensed milk
Juice and rind of 1 lemon
Graham wafers
Butter icing

Mix lemon juice, rind and condensed milk in a bowl. Let stand until thick. Line a cake pan with graham wafters. Spread lemon mixture on wafers. Top with a second layer of wafers. Ice with vanilla butter icing. Store in refrigerator several hours before cutting.

Butter Icing

2 tbsps. milk
2 tbsps. butter
Icing sugar to thicken
1 tsp. vanilla

Cream butter with 2 tbsps. icing sugar; add milk gradually. Blend in icing sugar until consistency to spread. Add flavouring.

Snow Pudding

This is an old favourite. Serve it with custard sauce.

1 tbsp. gelatine
¼ cup cold water
2/3 cup boiling water
2/3 cup sugar
Rind and juice of 1 lemon
2 egg whites

Soften gelatine in cold water. Make a syrup of boiling water, sugar and lemon rind. Boil 3 minutes. Add syrup to softened gelatine, stir until dissolved; add lemon juice. Chill until partially set. Beat until foamy. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into gelatine mixture. Pour into moistened mould or pile in individual serving dishes. Serve cold with custard sauce.

Custard Sauce

1 cup milk
2 egg yolks
3 tbsps. sugar
Few grains salt
1 tsp. vanilla

Heat milk over hot water. Beat egg yolks; add sugar and salt. Add a little hot milk to egg mixture; add to milk in double boiler. Cook slowly, stirring frequently, until mixture coats a silver spoon. Cool quickly. Pour over snow pudding just before serving or pass in a pitcher.

would be in. He didn't know but he said he'd be going shortly. He could take us over the bridge and we could walk the rest of the way. We did that. And we also found that if we'd walked in a straight line during the time we'd tramped at the depot we'd have been at the car. It wasn't more than four blocks from Grove.

It was 6.30 when we left the Plaza with 40 miles and a dozen cows between us and bedtime. And if you think we'll leave the car at Billings Bridge next time you're wrong.
