Chesterville Rotarians and Lions Club Meet

The Chesterville Rotarians visited the Morrisburg Waddington Lions Club at the St. Lawrence Hall, Monday evening, in full dress. The Chesterville Club came in force, and with their dinner orchestra, and made quite an impression on the Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club.

President Stan Finnie presided, and called on Rotarian Perley Boyd to introduce the dynamic Rotarian, O. L. King, who was the guest speaker. Rotarian King delivered a very interesting, instructive and academic address on Milk Production. In the resume, he covered the history of milk canning, from the Civil War days down to the present time. Rotarian King proved to his audience what it is to know and manage a condensed milk plant of the size which he superintends at Chesterville. Rotarian Perley Boyd's introduction of O. L. King as an industrialist, church worker and social worker was fully proven to the ardent listeners at the joint Service Club function.

Lion President Stan G. Finnie called on Geo. D. Howith to respond for the Lions. Dr. (Bert) S. H. Hutt, and also Vice-President Ross Thompson, of the Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club spoke. Rev. R. C. Tate, president-elect of the Chesterville Rotary Club, in his address, commended the Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club, which embraces two international ports into one community. He also supported Dr. Hutt in the invitation of continued interchange visits between these two service clubs in Dundas County. The Chesterville Rotary Club, who do much the same work as the Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club, which is "to make the community a better place for the underprivileged in which to live", can be very proud, not only for the social welfare work but also for the versatility of its members, who seem to possess the same prowess for work as for their vocal presentations and orations.

The Morrisburg-Waddington Lions Club offered its fullest co-operation to its sister Service Club in Dundas County in every field.

Regular Meeting Board of Education

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education for May was held at the Collegiate, Monday evening, May 13th. Members present were: Chairman Jno. H. Meikle, Fred Meikle, M.A. Campbell, Thos. Coligan, Morley Beckstead, Dr. Currie, Dr. Blancher, H. B. Tindal Arthur Nash and Harvey Froats.

Minutes of the previous meetings were read and approved, and accounts for supplies, salaries, etc., were passed and ordered paid. The requisition of the Counties' Council for the County share of Collegiate maintenance was passed subject to the approval of the financial committee. Teachers' contracts for the coming year were taken up. Miss Doris Tracy requested $100 increase in salary to bring her up to the salary level of the other lady teachers in the public schools, because of equal work and equal qualifications The other public school teachers were re-engaged at the same salary and Miss Tracy was given the requested increase.

Mr. M.A. Epplett was offered and signified his intention of signing a contract as headmaster of the M.C.I. at $2800, which constitutes a reduction of $200. Reduction was based on salaries paid to principals of comparatively small collegiates, Morrisburg having one of the smallest collegiates in the province, and a smaller staff than any other. Some discussion arose between the chairman and the secretary over the powers of the chairman, the secretary stating that the chairman had equal authority with any other trustee, but had the duty of presiding over board proceedings. He claimed that the chairman had no "second" or tie-breaking vote, but was permitted to vote along with the other trustees in the usual way, and that any motion which resulted in a tie would be negative. He read extracts from the department regulations to confirm the point.

Motion was then passed that the remainder of the collegiate staff be offered contracts which would provide for a five per cent reduction in salary. The re-action of the teachers concerned will be learned in a few days.

Mr. Epplett was called on to address the board. He reviewed his work here on a comparative basis, and stated that he would like to see evidence of increased interest in school matters on the part of some trustees.

Tennis Club Holds Annual Meeting

For the re-opening of the Morrisburg Tennis Club, a meeting was held at the home of the past president, Mr. Les. McCormick. The following officers were appointed for the 1940 season:

The fees remain the same and the committee expect playing to begin within a week.

The remains were brought to the residence of her son, Clarence Beckstead of Morrisburg, where the funeral was conducted by Rev. James Payton. Buchan of Williamsburg, Mrs. Sarah Robinson of Dunbar, Mr. and Mrs. Denzil Beckstead of Cornwall, Mrs. Donald Caloren of Iroquois, and Mr. Horace Low of Vars.

Pallbearers were old neighbors, namely Frank Casselman, Preston Barkley, Geo. Hill, Wm. Lane, Jacob Whitteker and Wm. Carr all of Bouck's Hill.

Floral tributes were received as follows: Pillow family; spray, S.B. McPherson and family; spray, grand children; cut flowers, Denzil Beckstead and family; cut flowers, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Gormley.

Public to be Admitted to Canal Park Without Passes

As a result of many complaints from the public in general, and local residents in particular received by the officials of Dept. of National Defence regarding the discourteous attitude of the guards at the canal here, the following information was made public today by a very reliable source. These regulations, of course are subject to change:

1. Effective immediately, the park south of lock 23, will be open to the public without pass from sunrise to 11 p.m., standard time, and will be a restricted area for the remainder of the day.

2. The south bank of the canal from lock 23 to lock 24 and the canal yards west of Morrisburg will be open to the public without pass from sunrise to sunset and will be a restricted area for the remainder of the day.

3. Boathouse owners and tenants may obtain passes which will permit access to their premises at all times.

4. The lawns at lock level, the lock gates, and weir bridges at locks 23 and 24 will be restricted areas at all times and no loitering will be permitted. Persons having business requiring daily attendance at the locks may obtain passes on application. All other persons, casual visitors, and persons seeking employment on the boats will apply in person to the guard for admission to the restricted area and will be admitted without pass after being properly identified.

These new regulations allow practically all the freedom which the Leader has been striving to obtain for residents and visitors of Morrisburg. No doubt the authorities have taken time to think over what an unnecessary friction has been caused between guards and civilians, by their senseless regulations and restrictions. We are very glad, however, that they have at last seen the light, and are allowing our people over here, the privileges which our boys are fighting for over there.

Oddfellows Hold District Service

Harmony District No. 51, I.O.O.F observed the 121st anniversary of the founding of the order in America by attending divine service at Brinston United church on Sunday afternoon, May 12th. A large representation was present from each lodge of the district, which included lodges at Williamsburg, Morrisburg, Iroquois, Cardinal, Prescott, Brinston, as well as several visitors from the Kemptville District.

The guest speaker was Rev. Dr. G. D. Kilpatrict, B.A., B.D., principal of the Theological College of Montreal. His address was most inspiring. He was assisted by Rev. E. C. Lacey, pastor of the Matilda charge. The choir was under the direction of Mrs. C.E. Collison, and rendered a special anthem. Bros. Herman Hamilton, P.D.D.G.M., of Iroquois, and E. A. Coons, P.G., and secretary of Regal Lodge, Cardinal, conducted the march, consisting of more than one hundred members.

Bro. J. Howard Bell, retiring District Deputy Grand Master thanked the district for their loyal support during his term of office.

She had been in failing health for several months and died at her residence Saturday afternoon. In 1905 she married James Nash of Iroquois, who predecased her by three years. She was the organist of Iroquois United Church for 40 years.

Surviving are one sister, Mrs. A. A. Richardson, Gananoque; one daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Colquhoun, Iroquois; one son, Ralph Nash of Verdun, Que., and several grandchildren.

Interment was made at Point Iroquois Cemetery.

Fisher--VanAllen

St. Mark's church, Prescott, on Saturday evening, May 11th, was the scene of a quiet wedding at 7.30 when Miss Mary VanAllen, of Morrisburg, was united in marriage to Howard Fisher, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, of Prescott. Rev. Father Mea performed the ceremony. Immediately after the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Peter Therrien and was attended by eighteen guests. Amid showers of confetti and best wishes the couple left on a motor trip to the States.

GO ELECTRICAL ...For *Thriftier Living!

Electrical cooking is thrifty! Just ½c per person is the low cost of cooking a big meal with the modern Electric Range.

It's nice to have hot water "on tap"—all you want, without waiting. And Electric Hot Water service is economical.

Imagine!—it costs only 1c to operate the average Electric Refrigerator for 12 hours. Electricity is cheap to use.

You can banish dirt and dust in jig time with an Electric Cleaner. 1c pays the cost of a whole day's cleaning!

The modern Electric Washer is fast, work-saving and gentle on clothes. And 2c does a whole week's washing!

You sit down and take your ease with the Electric Ironer. And all it costs is 1c an hour for electric current.

Better light means better sight . . . and it beautifies your home. Just a few cents a week pays for electric lighting.

For quick breakfasts, tasty supper snacks, electric table appliances are just the thing . . . and thrifty to operate!

HYDRO POWER IS YOUR BIGGEST BARGAIN

YES, electric service for the home is the biggest bargain that ever figured in a family budget! Because the cost of Hydro service has come down, down, down. Today, the average cost per unit in Ontario is only 1¼ cents as compared with an average in 1914 of 5 cents.

Think what that means! It means that nearly every Ontario family can afford to use the modern Electric Servants they've always wanted. It means that for just a few cents a day you can enjoy delicious meals cooked electrically—plenty of hot water "on tap"—a modern electric laundry—and so many up-to-date, work-saving electrical appliances. Make yours a modern electric home—for better and thriftier living!

HOW YOU GET MORE POWER FOR YOUR MONEY: Thanks to Hydro low "step-down" rates, you can increase your use of electricity twice, three times, five times—and more—without increasing your Hydro bill in anything like the same proportion. As shown above, you can actually use five or six times the minimum amount of power for little more than twice the cost!

Victoria Troupe

The Victoria Troupe, which is to appear at the ORMSTOWN FAIR, on June 4—5—6—7th, combines, and is accomplished in the presentation of enough features to make it possible for them to present a half dozen different acts. As it is, they present two acts, both of which, contain several different routines.

The troupe was imported from England, where they were first seen by talent scouts from George A. Hamid, Inc., of New York, who, at the time thought they would make a good attraction in this country. They didn't realize just how popular this troupe was going to be. After making several appearances last season, there has been a consistent demand for their return.

Performing on unicycles, both high and low, bicycles, playing musical instruments, and presenting high comedy. The Victoria troupe's popularity has increased wherever they have appeared whether before new or old audiences.

All six perform in both acts. The first one consists of straight and stunt bicycle riding. The top-rank ing comedy rider of the world plays a prominent part throughout the performance. Their balancing powers are superb, as they must be, if they are to remain on the treacherous unicycles for any length of time

In the second act, they make their difficult feats performed in the first act seem very simple. How they not only ride the unicycles, but perform — expertly — on various musical instruments, presenting a brass band on wheels.

Their whole performance is a continuous round of the finest entertainment presented in a most unique manner.

HOUSEWIFE'S DUTY TO USE ESSENTIAL HEALTH FOODS

"Every housewife can do her bit—and help others do theirs—by keeping her family's health at a high level".—Canadian Medical Association.

Thus ends the introduction on the inside cover of a new booklet just now coming off the presses, entitled "Food for Health in Peace and War."

Prepared by the nutrition experts of the Canadian Medical Association, and embodying knowledge gained after years of study and research, including the very latest, the booklet is published by the leading life insurance companies in Canada.

It is written in the simplest language, and instead of rambling on about vitamins and calories—about which the average housewife knows very little of practical use in the kitchen—quickly turns into a set of weekly food budgets for single persons, children, and various size families. So many quarts of milk, pounds of cheese, bread and so forth, for a family of five. Cost, $8.95—on the basis of city prices. For those living on the land, the quantities are given in pounds and fractions of a pound.

It all boils down to this: Eat first the kind and amount of food required to maintain a normal disease-resisting health, then add whatever you wish or can afford after that. But get the essentials—and thwart the germs that may descend on the world as did the 'Flu in 1919.

On page five is a special note: "The Canadian farmer produces all the foods necessary for good health", real boost for Canadian Agriculture.

Recently, in Toronto, Dr. Frederick F. Tisdall, chairman of the Committee on Nutrition, Canadian Medical Association, in a nation-wide radio broadcast stated that if every Canadian would eat the proper foods in the proper quantities (set forth in the booklet) the consumption of all Canadian-grown foods would be increased by 12 per cent.

One million, two hundred thousand copies of this booklet have been printed in English and 300,000 in French.

They are free for the asking, to any Canadian housewife or genuinely interested person, and can be obtained through your local physician, life insurance representative, medical health officer, Red Cross worker, or travelling registered nurse, or many of the volunteer social and welfare workers' organizations.

War Savings Certificates

OTTAWA—Plans for the sale of War Savings Certificates and the widespread acceptance of individual thrift programs as a war effort are now being organized. Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Finance, has announced the appointment of W. H. Somerville, of Waterloo, Ont, and de Gaspe Beaubien, of Montreal, as national chairmen of the National War Savings Committee.

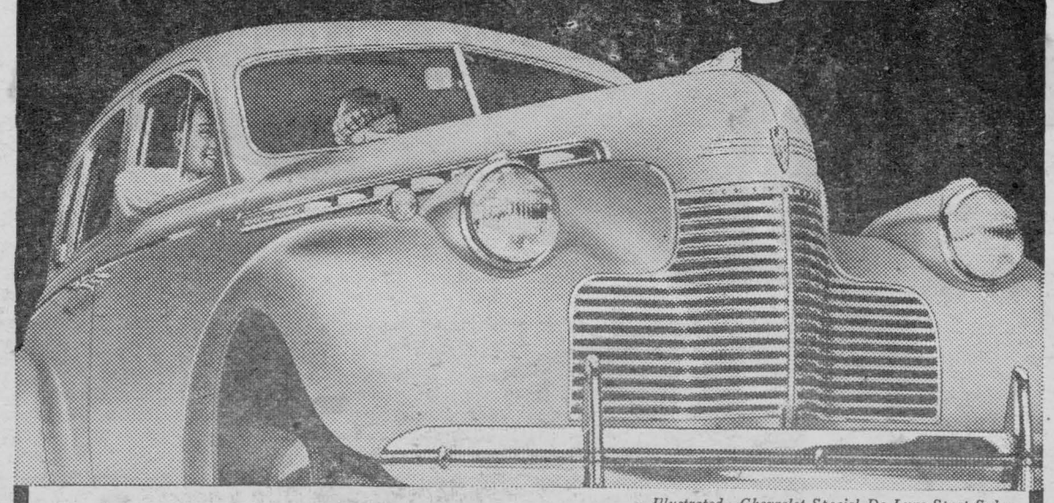

R. V. LeSeur, of Toronto, has been appointed Ontario chairman of the War Savings Committee. Provincial committees, to be announced in the near future, will be representative of agriculture, labour, industry, finance, education and the professions.

War Savings Certificates, to be sold in multiples of $5 are designed to give everyone, including school children, an opportunity to share in the war effort in Canada's fight for freedom. In addition to making a very effective contribution to the mobilization of Canadian resources, War Savings Certificates provide an opportunity by which every Canadian, old and young, may build up a reserve of purchasing power.

It's a Lot Easier than you think!

The model illustrated is the McLaughlin-Buick SPECIAL four-door touring sedan.

YEAR after year we see the same thing happening—people "stepping up" to bigger cars and better cars—people getting for themselves the better things in life.

This year is no exception.

Many buyers of the good-looking Buick SPECIAL you see pictured here traded in a car from the lowest-price group. Some of them were merely fulfilling a long-time ambition to own a full-sized car, a big straight-eight, amply powered, steady-riding, roomy.

Others were simply taking advantage of a bargain too good to pass up.

But all of them found it easier than you'd think to step up to a McLaughlin-Buick.

For this big straight-eight costs less than some sixes. Its price includes many things you'd pay extra for elsewhere. It includes features you can't buy anywhere else, such as recoil-mounted Knee-Action, pressure-sealed cooling, and coil springs that never need lubricating, combined with torque-tube drive.

And above all is the simple fact that this is a Buick, precision-built to Buick quality standards.

Why don't you look into how easy it is to buy? Why not get the net figures, delivered price including equipment?

Work out the per-week cost, count in the lower, long-haul maintenance of a car that's built to take it for years and years.

Others are finding it easy to step up to Buick — and if they can do it, so can you!

"Best buy's Buick!"

FISHERMEN ARE DEMOCRATS TOO

The system of guarding the St. Lawrence Canals, as it is enforced locally especially, is coming in for plenty of bitter criticism.

Fishermen, who, in the past years have been accustomed to fish along the south bank of the canal, in the swift moving St. Lawrence River, have been denied the right to cross the locks, and have been told that to secure passes to fish there was impossible. This is not the case. It is not only possible to secure such passes, but it is hoped that within a very short time the petty officialdom that has been rampant here will be toned down, and that every honest, respectable fisherman will be enabled to enjoy not the privelege, but the right, to pursue his sport, unmolested by the bullying of a guard who feels too big for his hat size.

The good citizens of this district, who have not been treated very courteously in this matter, naturally resent it, and a great deal of hard feelings have been caused.

A few of the alleged abuses of the present system follow: Passes have been handed out to men who never applied for them and who will probably never use them, while passes for those who really want them have been held up for several days. A citizen whose lights had gone out, attempted to approach the power house at the foot of the canal to have the electrician there restore the power. He was refused permission to cross the bridge to the power house. The superintendent of the municipal pumphouse on the canal bank has been forbidden to put a fishook in the water.

That such abuses should exist is not in keeping with the high standards of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Neither is it in keeping with all the talk we have heard about the privelege of living in a democratic country. If this country is to be kept democratic, it is about time that some difference should be made in the treatment accorded to its respectable citizens, from whose ranks our fighting forces are recruited, and that accorded to an enemy spy.

The sooner these petty officials are instructed properly, on how to carry out their duties, the better it will be for themselves, as well as for the common citizens and the Dominion.

H. M. C. S. ASSINIBOINE

The story just released about the part H. M. C. S. "Assiniboine", newest addition to Canada's destroyer flotilla, played in the capture of a German freighter, fills Manitobans especially with pride. The stout ship bears the name of a Manitoba river, and two handsome candelabra, the gift of the people of this province, grace the officers' quarters.

But going from the provincial to the Dominion view, there is pride in the work of the Canadian Navy and its men in this war, of which the action of the Assiniboine is but an example. A British cruiser had pounced upon the German freighter "Hannover", in the Carribean. The job was to save the valuable ship and cargo, which had been set ablaze by the ermans, not only from destruction but from drifting into neutral waters. The "Assiniboine" played the role of fireman in putting out the blaze and watchman, escort and supply store during five days stormy seas, in which it was hustled to Jamaica, all with the initiative and energy expected of Canada. —Winnipeg Tribune.

If the feat of the "Assiniboine" filled Manitobans with pride, it should also receive more than passing notice from the people of Morrisburg and district. For, among the first sailors from the Canadian ship to go aboard the "Hannover" was James L. "Jimmy" McIntyre, a son of Mr. George McIntyre of Morrisburg. The boarding party was armed with cutlasses and pistols, as well as rifles, and besides subduing the German crew, the Canucks took them and their ship safely into port to the rousing cheers of the Jamaican populace.

HINDSIGHT AND FORESIGHT

Hindsight is so easy that it is too often substituted for foresight and actions are criticized unjustly in the light of knowledge which was not available when such actions were taken.

This is such a common fault of mankind and we are all so well aware of it, that the pendulum is sometimes allowed to swing too far the opposite way. Fair minded people are apt to ignore the fact that there really is such a thing as judicious foresight and that a lack of it is a serious fault. When we, as individuals, fail to exercise reasonable foresight in our own affairs, we usually suffer for it.

As citizens of a democratic country, we have a very urgent and constant duty to distinguish between hindsight and foresight in viewing the actions of the men we put into power. Their mistakes are not personal matters, and we all have the right and duty to criticize them. The point we must remember is to distinguish between hindsight and foresight, to avoid using the former as yardstick for judgment and to criticize those we have placed in power, if they fail to exercise the latter.

THE PRICE CUTTER

A man who slashes his prices by sacrificing his profits injures himself, his competitors and his whole trade or industry. He knocks down the price structure. He allows people to pay less for goods than they ought to pay. He strikes a blow at quality, so he and his competitors will have to use poorer and cheaper materials. He does benefit his customers temporarily, but not in the long run, because he pulls down the standards of quality. He is a profit destroyer, and whoever destroys profits is Public Enemy No. 1. Such a man will not hesitate to cheat a customer. Our whole business system is based on profits, and he who kills profits, kills business.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A company is known by the men it keeps.

Some of the folks who went to Florida for the winter sure found it there.

SLEEP YOUR WAY TO HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

It's not how long you sleep, but how well, that starts you off in the morning with vitality and a grand sense of well-being! It is difficult to realize that we spend approximately four whole months of every year in bed, and to busy people the very thought of it seems a frightful waste of time.

But consider it for a moment.... Do you know that sleep is more important to the human body than food? People have been known to go many days, even weeks, without food, yet it is impossible for anyone to do without sleep for more than a week without going insane. Indeed, an ancient form of Chinese torture was to keep prisoners awake. They were rarely able to keep their reason after the fifth or sixth day.

So you see how essential sleep is to life. The loss of only two hours of normal sleep makes work very much more tiring the next day, and it takes several nights' sound sleep to make it up again. Sleep is a medicine, a remedy. It allows the intricate and delicate machinery of the humane body to restore lost energy, rebuild worn-out tissue, rest and relax over-strained muscles and refresh over-taxed minds.

There are few people who can maintain good health on less than eight hours' sleep out of every 24, and few who can retain a cheerful, happy outlook on life without this adequate amount of deep, comfortable sleep.

How necessary it is, then, to have a bed of the utmost comfort..a bed that allows complete relaxation? We today, couldn't stand the strain of sleeping in the contraptions our ancestors used. The pace of modern living demands more than ordinary sleep..it demands a sleep so deep and refreshing that the mental and physical exhaustion of our strenuous over-worked days is completely banished every night. We couldn't sleep in trees as prehistoric man did, to protect himself from beasts of prey. Our bodies must relax. Some people today believe that the sudden, falling sensation we often have just before we go to sleep is a "throw-back" from those days when falling out of a tree must have been quite common.

It's a far cry from those ancient times to the utter comfort of the modern spring mattress. Indeed, it's even a far cry from the mattresses of just a few decades ago, though there are many people who have vivid recollections of the straw and old-fashioned hair mattresses with their bumps and hollows, and the smothering feather beds.

There is such a wide variety of mattresses on the market today, how is the inexperienced buyer to know when she is getting the most for her money? Well, here are a few questions she can clip out and take shopping with her for reference and comparison:—

Points To Ponder When Buying a Mattress

Check:

() Is the border of the mattress pre-built to prevent the edges from rolling or sagging, to give the maximum width to the bed and allow for beautiful bed-dressing?

() Are the springs pocketed separately to keep them under control and on even height with each other; or at least built to give just the proper amount of "yield" to each sleeping movement?

() Are there plenty of ventilators to allow a free flow of air through the mattress?

() Are there handy handles for easy mattress turning?

() Is all the material of new, 1st quality?

() Is the tufting depressed sufficiently to prevent hard lumps forming not so deep as to form mounds and hollows, and firm enough to hold permanently?

() Is the covering cheap, easily-split material or a good-looking, long wearing fabric of pleasing appearance?

() Lie on it. Is it too soft? Too hard? Does it give easily to all positions of the body without forming uncomfortable hollows?

() Does it bear the name of a well-known and reliable manufacturer, such as Simmons?

It has been found that a fine quality mattress, though it may cost more, works out to a cost of only a cent or two a day, over a long period of years, while a less expensive mattress, which will not wear nearly as long, actually costs much more per day.

All these important questions are answered in the new Simmons Beautyrest Mattress. Its new structural features make it more comfortable than ever, for in one 4'6 Beautyrest, there are 837 individually-pocketed coil springs, carefully built to the extreme edge of the mattress to ensure a straight edge that will not round or break down. Over half a mile of wire alone is used in one mattress—over 300 square feet of pocket cloth, over two miles of thread. There are over 3½ million Beautyrest Mattresses now in use, and for long wear, quality and sleeping comfort, it is now more than ever a "best buy".

SERIAL STORY

SKI'S THE LIMIT

COPYRIGHT, 1938 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

CAST OF CHARACTERS

SALLY BLAIR — heroine. She had everything that popularity could win her, except

DAN REYNOLDS — hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skis

COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So . . . But go on with the story.

Last week: Corey comes to see Sally, deals her a hard blow when he reveals that Dan will probably always walk with a limp, may never ski again.

CHAPTER IX

Corey's words, that Dan would walk for the rest of his life with a limp, beat feverishly in Sally's brain, long after Corey had taken his departure. They resounded with a dull, heavy blow almost incomprehensible, they brought such pain.

The reports from Doctor Barnes had not prepared her for that. He had claimed Dan had made a remarkable comeback; that, given a little more time, his leg would be as good as new again. Perhaps he, or the lawyer in conveying the reports, had hoped to spare Sally the truth. Or perhaps her father had thought it best to keep it from her.

But Corey had not taken such pains. Corey did not know how responsible Sally felt, as though she had crippled Dan, ruined his life for him. Corey did not know that Sally loved Dan, though she had not been able to make him eat out of her hand — maybe because she had not!

She had promised Corey, before he left, that she would pay up. She had promised him, long ago — oh, how terribly long ago that seemed now, how young, how foolish! — that she would pay any odds he cared to name.

"You must be my girl all through spring vacation," Corey named them. "Let me squire you around. How about it, Sally? I know you're too good a sport not to accept."

Yes, she must be a good sport under any circumstance. Sally would pay that debt. If only she could repay another as easily!

"SOMETHING I WANT"

"Daddy," she spoke to her father, after dinner that evening, linking an arm through his for their evening tour of the garden that had become sort of a ritual with them. This was the time each day they shared together, a time that was very close now to each of them. "Daddy, there's something I want to remind you of, something you promised to do for me. Or rather for Dan Reynolds."

Her father looked down on her fondly, patted her hand. It seemed to him, lately, that all his little girl wanted was something for others beside herself. This boy she had taken this interest in. The housekeeper who had an old and sick mother. Some unfortunate family in the village.

"I thought we'd done about all we could for the lad," Mr. Blair said. Sally was growing up, that was it. She was growing into a lovely young woman, like her mother before her had been. The thought held all the aching beauty of this spring twilight with fire-flies lighting little torches, frogs plunking deep bass strings.

"We've only started," Sally said. She had thought it out, thinking of nothing else, since Corey had left. Corey, who would be back in an hour to take her dancing, to begin to collect payment on her debt. "I want you to see that Dan gets a job. A good job, Daddy. Here in Boston. I want you to see that he accepts it. That there's no chance for him to refuse. And, of course, he must not know who's behind it, or that you — or I — had anything to do with it."

A BIG ORDER

Her father took a long draw on his big cigar. "That's a big order," he admitted. He glanced down at his daughter again. Could there be anything else, beside gratitude and remorse, in her interest in this young man? But no, he reassured himself, Sally still was too young for that. She could not know what love meant. There had been so very many boys hanging about, like young Corey, a nice enough chap, though a bit wild, he feared . . . if it had to be someone, in time, this Reynolds boy was made of the stuff that measured up in the end.

"Not too big," Sally dimpled up at him. "Nothing's too big for my Dad."

"Cut it out!" her father warned her, giving her another playful little pat. "Don't try your charms on me, my dear! You know I'm your humble slave as it is. We'll see just what can be done, Sally. I believe a lad like Reynolds would be an asset anywhere. I suppose we can make him think the offer comes from his benefactor — the old old gentlemen who was interested in helping him make the Olympics, and who saw him through his illness."

Sally flinched. Never would she be able to hear of the Olympics, or of anything pertaining to the sport Dan had loved so much, without this lash of anguish. It was the cross she had to bear. The only real debt that somehow must be repaid in full. A big order, as her father had said. But oh, surely, she would be able to make up in some small way the things that were lost forever to Dan.

EVENING OUT WITH COREY

She thought of this again later that evening, dancing with Corey. They had motored to a roadhouse on the Post road where the atmosphere was smart, the food excellent, drinks plentiful, and the orchestra noted for its swing. Dan would never be able to dance like this — Dan who walked with a decided limp.

"Let's not dance any more," Sally said. She drew away from Corey's arms. She could not go on dancing, remembering that.

"Check," Corey said briefly. But he was surprised for usually Sally loved to dance with him. They had been getting on famously. "Want to go on some place else?" he asked. "I know another spot, farther on."

"I'd rather go home — if you do not mind," Sally returned. Perhaps tomorrow Daddy would fix it, make some arrangements so that Dan would be offered a position. Perhaps, after all, she would get to see him again. Get another chance to prove to him that she was not the sort of girl that he thought she was, but the girl she was trying so hard to become, for him.

"Just as you like," Corey said briefly. But he was surprised again. Maybe it was not going to be such a cinch to make that goal as he'd thought. Everything had come so easy to Corey, always. Yet he liked a good fight; he would not give up easily, either — not him!

FOR SOMEONE ELSE

He was very tender, tucking Sally into the roadster, very gallant and gay. He made her laugh, once or twice, during the drive home, at his clowning, the stories he recounted, the smart comebacks he always could ring in.

"But I don't want you to think this is a line," he told her, leaving her at her door once more. "I told you once before that I'm crazy about you, my sweet. I told you then I meant it. But now I mean it more than ever. I'm in love with you, Sally. I'm going to marry you one of these days."

That was Corey — he did not ask; he made a statement of fact. Sally might as well accept it, get used to the idea. He leaned over to seek her lips, tried to pull her to him.

But Sally, with both hands, held him firmly away. "No, Corey — please don't," she said. And her voice broke a little, although it was gentle, almost regretful in fact. Corey was a dear, he was such fun, so bright and gay. But that was not what Sally had discovered she wanted, though once she had been so sure it had been.

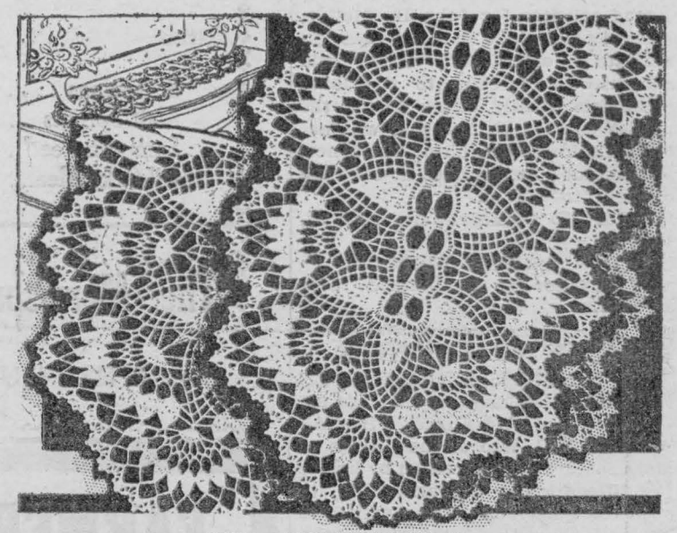

"What's wrong?" Corey asked. There was a wounded expression in his blue eyes now. He was perplexed. "I just wanted to kiss you good night, my sweet. I supposed that was part payment. You said you'd be my girl these next ten days, don't forget that."

Sally said she wouldn't. But that kisses were not included in this bargain. She laughed at him and promised to go somewhere again the next evening, if he came for her.

But she did not tell him that she was saving all her kisses for someone else.

TABLE TALKS

By SADIE B. CHAMBERS

PINEAPPLE CHAT

The season for canning pineapple is now with us again. It is rather a difficult matter to be sure when pineapples will be at their best,—always there seems to be a diversity of opinion. My best advice to you is, "Be a canny buyer and watch for the best pineapple as well as the best price." By all means "shop" and do not telephone.

I have been requested to repeat the canning methods of last year so I shall give you the method for first the cooked, and then the uncooked, which I hope will be meeting all requirements. The uncooked is ever a favorite, and if properly done keeps indefinitely and is the ideal way for fruit cups and cocktails.

The acid content of fruits plays a considerable part in the keeping qualities of fruit when canned. Pineapple has a high acid content and as a result does not require the long cooking given to other fruits. Canned pineapple when reported as having too strong a tang or being hard on the throat is usually fruit overly cooked.

I am giving the oven-cooked method (which so many of you wrote me about last year saying you were delighted with the results.)

Oven-Canned Pineapple

Always test jars for leakage. Place in kettle and sterilize thoroughly. Prepare fruit either in dices or thin half slices, whichever you desire. Omit any soft or over-ripe fruit. Place fruit in hot sterilized jars. Fill with boiling syrup to within ½ inch of the top. Place on rubbers, being sure they are new and sterile, next the glass tops and then screw tops. Screws down tightly to be sure it fits properly, then loosen one turn back to allow for expansion. Place on rack in oven about 1½ inches apart. Process at 275 deg. Fahrenheit for 35 minutes for pints; 60 minutes for quarts. If possible allow jars to cool in oven until easy to handle, then screw tops down tightly; leave inverted for 24 hrs. Store in a dry and cool place. Under no circumstances reopen jars to fill with syrup.

Points to Remember

If using an electric oven do not use top element at all, not even for preheating. If your oven has no heat control use the same slow oven you would for a fruit cake.

The fruit should never boil rapidly in the jars. Use a very slow boil (an odd bubble will be noticed travelling to the top). If the fruit boils over, the oven is too hot; then place a pan of cold water in the oven to cool it down.

Syrup for Canning Pineapple

2 cups sugar
2 cups water.

Combine ingredients and bring to the boil. Boil five minutes; remove any scum, which may form. This amount yields enough for four pints.

Uncooked Pineapple

12 cups diced pineapple
7 cups fine granulated sugar

Combine ingredients and mix well together in a large crock. Cover; stir frequently and leave standing overnight. Place in sterile jars. Seal tightly. Store in cool dry place. Some prefer this sweeter so the sugar can be increased. Some even like it equal quantities of fruit and sugar, which makes a very rich syrup, but the proportions given will be found to be a very good all-round syrup.

Pineapple Short Cake

Pineapple provides us with the inspiration and the material for some very attractive desserts. Here is a shortcake of the sweet variety, which has won high favor. It offers quite a novelty and is used frequently as a party dessert.

A medium sized pineapple well ripened. Shred very fine or put through the food chopper. Add sugar in proportion half as much sugar as fruit. Have this prepared several hours before baking the cake. When ready to bake, drain the juice from the pineapple.

One-third cup butter
½ cup sugar
4 egg yolks
1 cup flour
¾ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup pineapple juice
One-third teaspoon lemon extract.

Method—Cream shortening and mix in sugar very gradually. Beat egg yolks and add, combining and beating well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt, and add to the first mixture alternately with the pineapple juice and lemon extract. Spread in two greased and floured cake pans and cover with meringue.

Meringue

4 egg whites
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup fine moist shredded cocoanut.

Beat the egg whites stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in sugar, beating after each addition until whites stand in peaks. Add salt and lemon extract and fold in ½ cup of the cocoanut. Spread this mixture evenly over the two unbaked cake layers. Sprinkle with the remaining cocoanut and bake in rather slow oven 325 degrees Fahrenheit until meringue is brown and cake done. Cool and put this filling between the layers.

1 cup whipped cream and the cup of drained pineapple previously prepared. Add to this 1½ tablespoons fruit sugar and ¾ teaspoon lemon extract, ten marshmallows cut in quarters.

Place one layer cake meringue-side down on serving plate. Whip cream until stiff. Add sugar, pineapple, lemon extract and marshmallows and fold in lightly. Spread between layers. Place the second layer meringue-side up on top of filling. Cut in squares or wedge shapes for serving.

Children Need More Training

School Superintendent Discusses Modern Methods of Fitting Them for the World — Require Longer Period

With life faster and more complex, children need a more extended period of training to fit them for the world, H. J. C. Darragh, superintendent of Montreal Protestant Schools last week told members of the Montreal-Westmount Rotary Club. The standards of employment were constantly rising, the speaker said, and employers were more exacting in their demands, with the result that greater maturity and better training was required for those starting work.

EDUCATE UP TO 17

Child labor was rapidly disappearing because of this need of more maturity and better training, and school authorities had to so arrange the curriculum as to keep the boys and girls in training until they were suited for employment. Industry had little use for untrained boys and girls, and the community must make up its mind to educate children up to 17.

"If pupils leave the elementary schools at 13 and cannot find work until they are 17 something must be done for them during the intervening four years to prevent them from running around idle if they are not to qualify as inmates of our penal institutions," said Mr. Darragh.

How Can I?

BY ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I make a good cleaning compound for washing painted walls?

A. Dissolve one ounce of soap flakes in 16 ounces (one pint) of water, and add about three ounces of turpentine. Stir the mixture rapidly, and apply with a brush or a sponge.

Q. How can I prepare potatoes for boiling so that the skins will come off easily?

A. When preparing the potatoes for boiling, instead of peeling the whole potato, just peel a narrow strip entirely around the middle of each potato, lengthwise. When it is cooked, the skin will slip off easily.

Q. How can I bleach a faded wash dress entirely white?

A. Dissolve a half cup of cream of tartar in two gallons of water, and boil the dress.

Q. How can I relieve tired feet?

A. Add a tablespoonful of baking soda to a pint of common bran and put into a basin, dampening with sufficient warm water to form a thin paste. Put the feet into this for ten or fifteen minutes. It affords great relief and will not blister.

Q. How can I remove a fresh grease spot from a rug?

A. Cover the spot with blotting paper and press with a hot iron. Then cover the spot with magnesia, let remain for twenty-four hours and brush off.

HEALTH TOPICS

Thousands of Lives Saved by Education

Canada gains thousands of new citizens each year through a public health campaign. Children live now who would have died in their first year of life had they been born a few years ago, vital statistics just published reveal.

Some idea of the strength of the "lost generations" of former years is gained from a study of pensions and national health department statistics. In 1926, out of every 1,000 Canadian children, 101 died in their first year of life. The latest figures available show that in 1938 the rate had been cut to 63 deaths for every 1,000 births.

HEALTH EDUCATION

"Interpreted in round figures," said Dr. Ernest Couture, the department's director of maternal and child hygiene, "the foregoing rates signify that in 1938 we lost 20,916 babies, including those stillborn. As to the reduction from 101 to 63 in the mortality rate, it also shows that each year we have saved 13,000 lives."

Improved public health facilities and public education to the need of proper medical care and sound hygiene are partly responsible for the vast improvement, the department believes. Prenatal care of the mother, proper attention at birth, and protection from disease after birth have played important roles in saving thousands of very young Canadians.

Canadian National Railways Revenues

The gross revenues of the all-inclusive Canadian National Railways System for the 9-day period ending April 30, 1940,

were	$5,620,850
as compared with	4,207,472
for the corresponding period of 1939, an increase of	$1,413,378 or 33.6%

Copper exports from Canada during the first two months of 1940 amounted to 87,925,000 pounds compared with 74,957,800 pounds in the corresponding period of 1939.

Focal Points of Danger in Southeastern Europe

Extension of the war to the Mediterranean last week, appeared more imminent as Allied and Italian naval forces gathered at strategic points prepared for instant action. The above map shows the danger points in Europe's uneasy southeast corner. Turkish troops were reported to be massing on the Greek and Bulgarian frontiers (1) while Nazi forces were reported marching near Yugoslavia and Hungary (2), and shipping tanks into Slovakia. Italian troops were also on the move (3) and had their fleet stationed off the Dodecanese Islands (4), Russian troops were reported near Hungary (5). Allied fleets had taken up stations in the Aegean (6). Hungary was busy rounding up spies (7).

- HAVE - YOU HEARD?

It was with considerable concern that the fishing club noticed that Smith, their champion teller of the best fishing stories, seemed to have forgotten his old habit after his marriage.

At their annual dinner they confidently expected to hear once more the story of his three-foot trout, but never a word came from Smith.

The chairman decided to get to the bottom of the mystery. "Smith, old boy," he said, "tell us about the trout."

Smith shook his head. "I've given up telling fishing stories," he said.

"Whatever for?"

"It's like this," said Smith, with an air of gloom. "Every time I started to tell one at home my wife gave me some wool to hold."

Fair Young Miss — "Officer, these men are trying to flirt with me. Make the little one stop.

The honeymoon was on the wane, and he thought it was time to get down to earth. As they faced each other across the supper-table, he said:

"Darling, this steak tastes just like burnt leather."

"Sweetheart," she murmured in a soft voice, "what strange things you've eaten in your life!"

Friend: "How's business?" Scissors Grinder: "Fine! I've never seen things so dull!"

Although it was Wiggins' first reception his buttling was perfect.

"Stand erect and announce the name of every person who comes to the door during the afternoon," Mrs. Van Ritzer had instructed him.

Wiggins had been doing elegantly. All were present now but the guest of honor. He should arrive almost any time.

All eyes focused on Wiggins as he paused to announce the guest of honor. A hush fell over the big reception room. This was the great moment of Mrs. Can Ritzer's most formal affair.

Wiggins cleared his throat and called in a firm voice:

"Mister Yeagley, the Fuller Brush Man."

Grandfather: "You don't know what it is to be old and bent."

Grandson: "No, but I know what it is to be young and broke."
