A HOUSEHOLD NEED

which most women buy with little thought, "A Broom". People in business, as well as people who buy, are becoming conscious of the real significance of the phrase, "The Fallacy of Cheap Merchandise". This article appeared in "Chatelaine" a while ago, illustrating the cost of cheap merchandise as shown in the lowly Broom.

"Nine brooms were placed in a testing machine ranging in price from 29c to $1.00. Placed side by side with the same resistance or tensions against them, the brooms were put in motion, and given 9,000 sweeps an hour. One good broom showed almost no signs of wear, although it had been given an equivalent of over one year's steady household use. The other brooms, ranging in price from 29c to 49c, were literally knocked to pieces. Yet back and forth the quality broom sweeps, as though serene in the knowledge that this was the work it was meant to do, and do it well, proud of the opportunity to show up the 'Cheap Skate' that has been stealing into Canadian homes in its place".

Less than twice the price, but outlasting eight cheaper brooms: such is the fallacy of cheap goods in every home

We have two Brooms—the "Colonial" and "Empire", we recommend to give satisfaction and long wear. They cost 79c and 95c, and are well worth the price.

NOV. MEETING, MORRISBURG WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The November meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Agricultural Office, on Tuesday evening, November 6th. The meeting was opened by the singing of the Institute "Ode", and roll call. The members answered the roll by displaying very interesting and beautiful pieces of handiwork. Following a vocal solo by Miss Jean Meikle, a short talk on "Tuberculosis" was given by Dr. Shorey, of the T.B. clinic, then in progress. After the minutes had been read and approved, the report of the convener of the Relief Committee was received. This showed a meeting of the committee having been held, at which it had been suggested that a room be secured where articles of clothing, etc., might be receivd and sold at a very small cost, or given where necessary. The Reeve had been approached, and had expressed approval of the plan, as well as promising assistance in the securing and heating of such a room. If such a place could be secured, it would be under the supervision of the Relief Committee, and Institute members, who would endeavour to co-operate with the town council, and assist in cases reported to them, only through the town clerk. This matter was discussed at length, and the securing of a suitable room left in the hands of the Relief Committee.

The guest speaker, Miss Aura Graham, of the M.C.I. staff, was introduced by Mrs. Clark. Miss Graham, in an interesting and delightful manner, described an educational tour through Europe, which she had taken, under the direction of Major Ney, during the summer. "Snaps" of beauty spots and points of note were circulated among the audience. The President, at the close of the talk, expressed the Institute's appreciation of the time and trouble which Miss Graham had taken for the benefit of the society.

Further business matters were discussed and settled, after which the meeting was closed by singing the National Anthem.

MR. JOSEPH LOUDEN

After a lingering illness, as the result of a stroke which he suffered some years ago, Mr. Jospeh Louden, at one time a leading figure in the Township of Matilda, died at the home of his son, Dr. C.A. Louden, on Saturday, November 3rd.

The late Mr. Louden, after spending his early days in his native county, Grenville, moved to Dixons Corners, where he continued to till the soil, with continued success, retiring about ten years ago. For the past three years, Mr. and Mrs. Louden have resided in Morrisburg with Dr. Louden.

Notwithstanding that his strenuous activities about the home occupied the greater part of his time, as a public-spirited citizen he was able to devote a considerable amount of attention to community affairs in the Township of Matilda. For several yars he was a member of the township council, a steward and superintendent of Sunday school in the United Church at Brinston, an active member of I.O.O.F., Connaught Lodge No. 440, Brinston, and for one year was D.D.G.M. of Harmony District.

In 1891 he was married to Annie Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Hamilton of Dundela, who survives, with one daughter, Mrs. A.K. McGill, of London, Ont., and two sons, Arthur H. Louden of Humberside Collegiate staff, Toronto and Coroner Dr. C.A. Louden, of town. Also surviving are three sisters: Mrs. D.M. Crawford and Mrs. Rachel McEwen, of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., and Mrs. Joseph Payne of Syracuse, N.Y.

The funeral service was held on Monday, November 5th, in the United Church. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Lacey, of Brinston, assisted by Dr. MacRae. The choirs of Brinston and Morrisburg United Churches contributed the music, with a special duet by Mrs. Ed. Collison and Mr. Douglas Hanson, of Brinston.

Members of several lodges of I.O.O.F. in the district attended the funeral in a body, and the graveside service, at Fairview cemetery, was conducted by the members of Connaught Lodge.

The beautiful floral tributes from members of the congregation of the United Church at Brinston, to which he formerly belonged; the I.O.O.F.; the staff and students of Humberside Collegiate, and his many other personal friends, signified the esteem in which the late Mr. Louden was held.

FARLINGER—MARCELLUS

A quiet wedding was solemnized at high noon, Thursday Nov. 1st, at the United Church, Williamsburg, when Rev. C.A. Adey united in marriage Maud, daughter of Mrs. Charles Marcellus and the late Mr. Marcellus, to Allan Augustus Farlinger, youngest son of Mr. F.E. Farlinger and Mrs. Farlinger, of Morrisburg. Mrs. Adey furnished the music, and the altar was beautifully decorated with ferns and flowering plants.

The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. Arthur Casselman, as maid of honour, and wore a gown of midnight blue velvet, with hat to match. The groom was supported by Mr. Arthur Casselman.

Shortly after the ceremony, the bride and groom left by motor for Toronto, Niagara Falls and other points west, and on their return will reside at "Earnscliffe," River Road west.

MANAGER OF FERRY RETURNS AFTER EXTENDED MOTOR TRIP

Mr. George D. Howith has returned from a short business itinerary, having covered Lake Placid and Wilmington, N.Y., as guest of the mayor, Mr. O. Young, of Great Neck, L.I. Through the courtesy of Supt. of Highways, Mr. Ryan, they inspected the beautiful new drive to the top of White Face Mountain, which will be opened to the public next spring. At an elevation of 4,820 feet, the Adirondack range, with the surrounding lakes, and Mount Marcy towering 400 feet higher, is a scene worth remembering. Mr. Howith also called on surrounding Adirondack resorts, and wound up at the Seignory Club, Seignory, Que.

The intimation from Chambers of Commerce, civic authorities, hotel and transportation executives is that an improvement in business can be noted, and that investors are well advised to show confidence by the extension of investments and purchases. The future for Morrisburg is very bright, as it is becoming known as hte main motor entrance known as the main motor entrance

Acting upon the above impression, Mr. Howith is extending his publicity program in the United States, having appointed Mr. E.A. Jones, president of the Waddington Chamber of Commerce, of Waddington, N.Y., as his American representative of publicity in the United States. Mr. Jones' headquarters will be at Hempstead, L.I., for the winter.

The Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce and Tourist Bureau will be pleased to forward advertising literature of Morrisburg or Canadian enterprises for distribution, through its connection with the Morrisburg-Waddington Ferry and its agencies.

MAN KILLED IN SERIOUS AUTO CRASH

Harold Swain, provincial highway officer, of Cornwall, has laid a charge of criminal negligence against L.C. Langley, Norfolk, Va., in connection with a motor accident at Santa Cruz, 10 miles west of Cornwall, on Tuesday afternoon. Langley, who was not seriously injured, was positively identified as the owner of the automobile in which James Overton, also of Norfolk, was killed, and three others seriously injured, one fatally.

Loss of blood and shock combined to cause the death at Cornwall General Hospital yesterday afternoon of Frank Lawless, 17, of Norfolk, Va. The body is resting at a Cornwall morgue, where undertakers have waited since Tuesday for instructions regarding the disposition of the body of Overton, who figured in the accident.

Physicians hold out little hope for the recovery of Elwin Mark Burns, of Norfolk, another victim of the accident, who is lying in hospital at Cornwall, with injuries to his head and chest. Leslie C. Langley, Norfolk, owner of the wrecked car, and James Cushing, Kitchener, less seriously injured, will be discharged from hospital within a week or so. Langley, who is under guard, will be arrested as he leaves the hospital.

Late Tuesday afternoon, the party of five was proceeding east along the Toronto-Montreal highway, in a light coach bearing Virginia license. The car rounded a bend in the road at Santa Cruz, ran onto the north shoulder, and then careened to the opposite side of the pavement, and sideswiped a large elm tree. The impact telescoped one side of the automobile and tore off the rear axle. The car plunged about 20 feet farther, to run head-on into another tree, and turn turtle. It was damaged beyond repair.

During the mad plunge of the car, one man was thrown clear and the others remained inside. Passing motorists extricated the men, and administered first aid, until doctors and ambulances arrived from Cornwall. One man was dead when the doctors arrived, but the others were rushed to the hospital, and emergency operations performed.

Sgt. R.P. Labelle, head of the Cornwall detachment of the Ontario provincial police, wired authorities at Norfolk, Va., for identification.

MRS. ELIZA McMILLAN

Following an illness of over two years' duration, caused by heart trouble, there passed away at Prescott, on Saturday November 3rd, Eliza Wemp, wife of the late James A. McMillan.

The late Mrs. McMillan was born at Amherst Island, Ontario, 58 years ago, but for the last sixteen years had resided in Prescott,. She also had spent several years of her life in Eganville. She was admired and respected for many sterling qualities by a large circle of friends, who will sincerely mourn her loss.

Surviving are two sons, Harry, of Toronto, and Fred, of Prescott; and four daughters: Mrs. E.F. MacIntosh, Morrisburg; Mrs. W. Whitney, Prescott, Mrs. Helena Whyte, Prescott and Miss Agatha McMillan, of Prescott. Four sisters and three brothers also survive.

Mrs. McMillan was identified with the United Church, and in the absence of her pastor, Rev. Howitt conducted the funeral services at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Helena Whyte, on Tuesday.

The body was laid to rest in Sandy Hill cemetery, Prescott.

Way to Ease Headaches, Pain Almost Instantly

METHOD OFTEN RELIEVES NEURALGIA AND RHEUMATIC PAINS IN MINUTES!

Remember the pictures below when you want fast relief from pain. Demand and get the method doctors prescribe—Aspirin.

Millions have found that Aspirin eases even a bad headache, neuritis or rheumatic pain often in a few minutes!

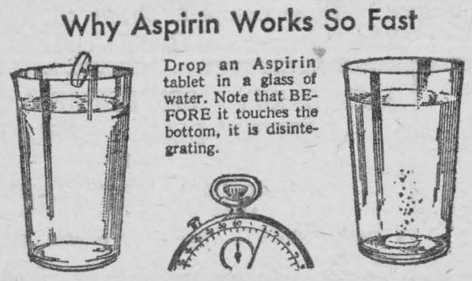

In the stomach as in the glass here, an Aspirin tablet starts to dissolve, or disintegrate, almost the instant it touches moisture. It begins "taking hold" of your pain practically as soon as you swallow it.

Equally important, Aspirin is safe. For scientific tests show this: Aspirin does not harm the heart.

Remember these two points: Aspirin Speed and Aspirin Safety. And, see that you get ASPIRIN. It is made in Canada, and all druggists have it. Look for the name Bayer in the form of a cross on every Aspirin tablet.

Get tin of 12 tablets or economical bottle of 24 or 100 at any druggist's.

Why Aspirin Works So Fast

Drop an Aspirin tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches the bottom, it is disintegrating.

IN 2 SECONDS BY STOP WATCH
An Aspirin tablet starts to disintegrate and go to work.

What happens in these glasses happens in your stomach—ASPIRIN tablets start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The TUDOR HOUSE

By MRS. STANLEY WRENCH

(Author of "Sing for the Moon" "Strange Lovers," etc).

SYNOPSIS

Michael Borde, 40, unmarried, born and bred in a Birmingham slum, is now a wealthy motor manufacturer. One day he visits the countryside around his old home and rescues Daphne Eden from a menacing tramp. He falls in love and proposes. Daphne accepts and introduces him to her father, who greets him with the words "Get out of here you cur — you ruined my home — stole my wife — curse you!"

Daphne's father dies and she disappears. Michael explains to her friend, Mrs. Gregory, that he was misrepresented. He buys the old Tudor House owned by the Hamill-Hardy's. Mrs. Gregory promises to mail a letter from him to Daphne arranging a meeting Daphne does not appear. On the way home Michael collides with a car driven by Diana Hamill-Hardy.

Mrs. Gregory dies. Daphne hears from her solicitors.

"It is impossible as yet to ascertain the full value of the estate, but putting it roughly, indeed I should say very roughly, I imagine the amount will be a little over thirty thousand pounds," he said slowly. "Certain securities, if realized, certainly would bring it to more, but at the moment, estimating the state of the market, and their probable rise in value, I would advise them to be held."

He went on talking, but his voice reached Daphne's ears like the drone of a bumble bee; her thoughts were far away, and it is doubtful if the import of what he was talking about reached her intelligence. That she was rich was a certainty. Never again would she have to worry over money matters, and her first thought was of her father.

What a pity he had not lived. How much more she might have done for him. He always had had a moderate degree of comfort, she had spent all she earned to him, but ..... there she paused, if this had happened a year ago ..... another thought darted quickly on top of this.

Then she would never have met Michael Borde.

Would that have mattered?

She wrenched her thoughts back, and tried to follow what the lawyer was saying.

"So, you see, my dear youg lady, if it is a matter of ready money, I can let you have anything up to one hundred pounds in cash this morning," reached her ears.

"WHY, IT'S DAPHNE!"

Daphne flushed. She understood at last that there was so much money belonging to her that the lawyer sitting opposite, was willing to pay over to her a hundred pounds.

"Thank you very much", she heard her own voice saying. "I don't think I shall want as much as a hundred pounds, Mr. Downing. If I may take fifty pounds till .... till we clear things up. ....." then all at once she laughed. "I don't suppose you'll believe me, but I have never had as much as fifty pounds all at once in my life," she told him with a sudden burst of confidence.

He seemed to become more human then, and leaning forward, talked more easily and naturally to her.

"Are you staying in town?" he said.

But Daphne shook her head.

"I feel as thought I want to get back to the farm," she told him. "My work lay there. It was my sole interest. It was only the sudden death of my father unsettled me. Now ..... I think I shall go back and carry on just the same."

He smiled.

"Surely you won't want to bury yourself in the country the same way as Mrs. Gregory did," he pursued. "You are young ....." he eyed her keenly. "You have everything she lacked ..... youth, health ..... capacities for enjoying life. That farm of hers, started for sheer amusement merely to relieve boredom when she was so wretched, was only a hobby, and nobody was able to understand why she stayed on there, buried in the heart of the country, living so simple a life, and entirely cut off from those who used to be her friends."

"I think ..... in a way ..... I understand," said Daphne in a low voice. "She adored hunting ..... before that accident of hers, and although it made her horribly bitter and she never did anything to show that she was interested, I knew that from where she sat in her invalid chair she would follow the hounds across country. The house overlooks the Vale of the Red Horse, you know, and you can follow for miles on a clear day."

They went on talking, discussing the dead woman, and at last when Daphne rose to go, with the hundred pounds, which he insisted upon her taking, stowed carefully away in her bag, she had the feeling that from now onwards she was a person of importance. Mr. Downing accompanied her to the door, the two grey-haired clerks sprang up from their desks as they opened the door of the room across the passage, Mr. Downing shook hands, cordially bowed her towards one of the grey-haired men, who, in turn, bowed her out of this room to the next.

Here the cadaverous faced man who had struck her with such a chill at first was talking to a visitor, a woman.

"You must make an appointment, madam," he was saying as Daphne came out. "Mr. Downing never sees anybody without an appointment. I tell you it is hopeless."

His voice sounded frosty, the hunch of his shoulders was even more depressing, but hearing Daphne, he turned, and it seemed as though for a second his chilly eyes lightened. The woman turned, too, a middle-aged rather showily dressed woman, with a badly made-up face, the rouge on her cheek bones shining. Long crystal earrings swung beneath her black hair, and something familiar in their swinging brought back a rush of memories to Daphne. But it was the other who recognized her.

"Good God, why it's Daphne," she exclaimed. "Lord! what luck. Now then," and her cocksure triumph overwhelmed Daphne, who shrank back as though she would escape from her.

She knew her now. This was her father's second wife, her step-mother! the woman who had "run away" with Michael Borde.

"I knew I was in for luck this morning," she cried in a highly-pitched voice. "I black cat on the stairs, and a new moon seen through the tree-tops," she laughed complacently. "Well then, I won't trouble you any more, no, nor your Mister Downing neither," she smiled sarcastically at the wizened clerk. "I'm in luck. Here's my daughter herself. Ha, ha, you didn't tell me she was in there. Now, Daphne," her voice was wheedling, "what's the news, my dear? I suppose it means your dad has popped it and left you his money, eh?"

Daphne found her heart harden.

"My father died without a penny," she said coldly. "He had no money to leave."

The woman's eyes opened, then she laughed.

"You don't get me to believe that gammon," she cried. "I knew him of old. As secret as the grave he could be when he liked, especially over money. No, you don't get me to believe that, my dear. Besides, what does this firm of solicitors want you for if it isn't over your dad's money? Here, you tell me," and she rounded on the astonished clerk. "I know you're nobody of any truck, but you know what your old firm want with my daughter. I've seen that advertisement in the papers, and I've put two and two together, and if there's money about I'm on it like a bird. He's my husband same as he is your dad, for all his silly rot and carryings on."

Her eyes cunningly watched Daphne.

"I do not suppose this gentleman knows why I am here," she said quietly, and watched a faint color creep up the cheeks of the clerk, who dusted his coat sleeves. "But I assure you my business here has nothing in connection with father. Besides, why should you care? You left him."

Those cunning eyes narrowed.

"Left him!" she cried. "You mean he turned me out, Daphne. Ah, I don't suppose you know. You have not heard the rights of that story," she fidgetted, and looked away, resting on one foot after another.

Into Daphne Eden's mind then there leapt a thought, and she flushed uneasily.

What Does Your Handwriting Reveal?

GEO. ST. CLAIR
(Grapho-Analyst)
All Rights Reserved.

(Editor's Note: An analysis from your handwriting will often provide an insight into latent characteristics that will change your entire life. The author makes an interesting offer following this week's article.)

This week's mail brought a rather poignant letter from a girl who lives in Toronto. I am reproducing it because you can read it and decide what you would do if you were in a similar position.

"Dear Mr. St. Clair: I am bringing my problem to you because you have helped so many others, and it may be that you can shed a ray of hope in my own case. I have been going with a young man for some years, and there has for some time been a tacit arrangement that we should be married.

"Latterly, however, my friend has been going out with another girl, and I am wondering whether he has got tired of me. He tells me that she can be of great help to him in his business, and that, while he likes her as a friend, that is the only feeling he has for her, and that he still loves me.

"Now, Mr. St. Clair, I love my friend very much, and he seems to be an ideal companion, and I do trust him, but this affair has me worried, because he has not been out with anyone other than myself for a long time. Do you think it means that he is losing his love for me, and that I may lose him? I do wish you could help me, and I am sending his writing with my letter."

The writing of this girl shows that she is normallly affectionate, maybe a trifle impulsive, and she is generous. She has simple, modest tastes and is, on the whole, an unassuming girl.

But there is one outstanding trait that is not so good. She is inclined to resent slights, and, being somewhat sensitive, perhaps imagines slights where none is meant. And she shows her resentment. It may be that she has got into a habit of 'getting her back up' with her boy friend, and he has become a little tired of it, and turns to another girl for a change. He may have no intention of giving up my correspondent, but there is a real danger that he may develop a real interest in the other girl, and that will ripen into love.

His own writing is normal enough. He is not one of the amorous or too flirtatious type, and he has no outstanding vices, such as being deceptive or dishonest.

My advice to my correspondent is that she discourage the trait I have already mentioned. She should avoid anything in the nature of 'carrying a chip' on her shoulders. And she should strive to keep things on the old footing. It certainly will not help her to talk a lot about the other girl, and show her boy friend that she thinks she may lose him.

She should do everything she can to show him that he means a great deal to her. Do not take anything for granted.

No man likes to be nagged and the tendency shown in this girl's writing is rather like nagging. She may not know it, because so many people who have this unfortunate habit are really unaware of it. But it has broken more romances and spoiled more marriages than probably any other single cause.

(Have YOU any problems in which you need advice? Do you wish to know what YOUR friends are really like, and what are your own real characteristics? A personal analysis would help you a great deal. Send specimens of the writing you want analysed, and state birthdate in each case. Enclose 10c coin for each specimen, and enclose with 3c stamped addressed envelope, to: Geoffrey St. Clair, Room 421, 73 Adelaide St. West, Toronto, Ont. All letters are confidential.)

Safety Of Children

Cold weather source of discomfort and danger

Children's skins are very tender. Fall and winter winds and dampness quickly make them tender, raw and sore. They need the protection of Hinds Honey and Almond Cream. This smooth creamy lotion gives protection and relief to little hands, necks and faces.

Worse than the soreness, is the danger which lurks when sore skin becomes cracked and bleeding from constant exposure. Those open, smarting cracks in little hands can easily become infected.

Apply Hinds Honey and Almond Cream generously to tender skins—its smooth, cool texture will soothe hands and faces after washing, and form an adequate protection against wind and dampness. An instant relief for chapped hands—a constant protection against them—Hinds Honey and Almond Cream has been the reliable remedy for old and young since 1875.

HOT BREADS

Hot breads are always greeted with delight when they appear on the family table, despite the fact that stern dietitians warn us they are not easy to digest. The average, normally healthy person, however, may indulge in delectable rolls and muffins without anxiety.

Hot rolls and muffins find a place in any meal from breakfast to supper. Toasted muffins are perfect with afternoon tea. Parker-house rolls are used for quite formal luncheons and informal dinners permitting a breadstuff. Tiny, hot buttered rolls combined with muffins made with various flours or meals, such as graham muffins and cornmeal muffis make up a tray which is most satisfactory to serve at a luncheon or supper. And don't forget that the simplest home meal gains interest if hot rolls are served with preserves.

Rolls made with yeast are not hard for even the most inexperienced baker to accomplish. By increasing the amount of yeast the process is shortened and we may serve fresh, hot rolls within three hours after starting them. Or the dough may be kept in the ice-box for several days, ready to shape into rolls.

Parker-House Rolls

Two cups scalded milk, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 teaspoons salt, 1 yeast cake, ¼ cup lukewarm water, 6 cups flour.

Put scalded milk into large mixing bowl. Add butter, salt and sugar and cool to lukewarm temperature. Break yeast into tiny pieces and add lukewarm water. Let the yeast dissolve while the milk is cooling. Add dissolved yeast to lukewarm milk mixture. Add three cups sifted flour, beat thoroughly, cover and let rise in a warm place for one hour. The mixture will become light and porous. Add remaining flour and turn out on molding board to knead until the dough is elastic and smooth. Put this dough into an oiled mixing bowl, cover and let rise in a warm place a second time, until doubled in bulk. It will take about one and one-half hours. Turn out on a lightly floured board and knead again. Then roll with a rolling pin into a sheet about one-half inch thick. Shape with a biscuit cutter dipped in flour. Dip the dull edge of a case knife in flour and crease through the centre of each round. Brush over one-half of each piece with softened butter and fold other half over. Press edges firmly together. Place in an oiled pan, about an inch apart, cover and let rise in a warm place for forty-five minutes. The rolls should double in bulk. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for twenty minutes. Tiny rolls will bake in fifteen minutes and of course larger onces will need as much as thirty minutes.

Soft Graham Bread

Three cups graham flour, 1 cup white flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup molasses, or ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, ¾ yeast cake, 1½ cups warm water.

Dissolve yeast with a little of the lukewarm water, mix the other ingredients in order given and add sufficient lukewarm water to make a soft dough. Cover bowl and set in warm place. When dough is light beat it and pour into bread pans, filling them half full. When light, bake in a moderate oven.

Raisin Bread

One pint hot milk or water, 1-3 cup butter or other shortening, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg beaten, ¼ cup raisins, 8 cups flour, ½ oz. cake of yeast.

Crumble yeast and dissolve in a cup with a teaspoon of sugar and ½ cup of milk made lukewarm. Set aside in warm place. Pour rest of the milk over butter, sugar and salt in a mixing bowl and when lukewarm add yeast and egg. Mix and knead well on bread board with the rest of the ingredients, using more flour if necessary until smooth and elastic. Return to bowl, cover closely and set in warm place till double its bulk. Form into plain loaves or divide dought into 3 or 4 parts, roll into long strands and with 3 of the strands make a braid. Place in large twist like a rope and lay lengthwise down centre of bread. Brush with yolks of egg beaten, sprinkle with poppy seed over all. Let rise until double its bulk. Bake in moderate oven ¾ hour until well done and brown.

Brown Nut Bread

1½ cups graham flour, ¾ cup wheat flour, 1½ cups sour milk, 1-3 cup molasses, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoon soda, ½ cup broken walnuts.

Mix dry ingredients, add milk to molasses and stir well to a smooth batter, but meats last. Place in greased bread pan and bake in moderately slow oven 1 hour.

Corn Bread

1 cup flour, 1 cup cornmeal, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 egg, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 cup sweet milk, 2 tablespoons butter melted, 1 teaspoon salt.

Mix dry ingredients by sifting them together. Add milk, the well beaten eggs and the butter. Beat well and bake in a shallow pan in a hot oven 20 minutes.

Cinnamon Rolls

2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 2-3 cup milk, 2 tablespoons sugar, ½ cup stoned raisins chopped fine or currants, 2 tablespoons citron, chopped, fine, ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Mix five first ingredients same as you would for baking powder biscuits. Roll to ¼ inch thickness, brush over with melted butter and sprinkle with raisins, citron, sugar and cinnamon. Roll like a jelly roll. Cut in pieces ¾ inch thick. Place in buttered tins and bake ten or 15 minutes in a hot oven.

TO DEFEAT INSOMMIA

A sure cure for insommia is to stop thinking.

And to stop thinking, according to Lilias MacKinnon, a well-known British educationist, it only needs a little practice.

"With practice, one can learn to stop thinking altogether," Lilas MacKinnon said. "The way to do is to relax the muscles of the face, including the muscles of the eyes, and gradually all thought will drift away.

"You will have a feeling of delightful drowsiness and you will be able to fall asleep at will and at any time. This is a certain cure for insommia.

FOOD SAFE IN OPEN CANS

A delusion held by many housewives for years was exploded last week, as the United States Bureau of Home Economics decided it is perfectly safe to leave food in tin cans after opening. Food is perfectly safe, spoils no faster and no slower in the open can than in other containers. Some acid foods like fruit and tomatoes tend to dissolve iron, when stored in an open can. This may given the food a slightly metallic taste that is not harmful. If the label on the can advises removing the contents as soon as the can is opened, it is because the canners think that an open can, partly filled with food, is not attractive in appearance.

HINTS FOR QUILTING

Quilting is no more nor less than running stitches, joining two layers of material together usually with an interlining of outting-flannel or cotton wading. Though a number of old quilts were put together in very elaborate designs the idea of quilting is to hold the various layers of material together, and not allow the interlining, particularly of cotton wading, to slip and form in bunches. Even the very simplest form of quilting, such as diagonal lines, is very decorative, and many simple and effective designs may be worked out with a compass and ruler. When cotton wading is used as an interlining, the rows of stitches should not be more than an inch apart in order to carry out the original purpose. When quilting a cushion or anything of which both sides do not show the finished article, the design may be stamped on the wrong side and worked from that side. The oldtime quilting patterns were drawn on in lead pencil, and by the time the work was finished very little trace of this marking remained. Stale bread rubbed over the surface easily removes any pencil lines that are still visible. If you do not wish to pencil-line your material the paper pattern may be basted to it and the quilting done right through the paper and all. The paper is easily torn away when the work is finished.

HINTS FOR THE MOME

Wash the corduroys carefully then rinse until the water is clear. Do not squeeze out the water at last rinsing, but throw the garment over the line in a shady place while dripping wet. This keeps the material soft and fluffy.

* *

When baking green peppers, apples, or tomatoes, put them in ffin pans. They are easy to remove and will keep their shape better than if cooked close together in a baking tin.

TRY IT

After pans have been used for strong smelling vegetables, such as onions and cabbage, place a little salt on the hot range and turn the pans upside down over the burning salt. The odor will disappear.

THE REAL BOY

Show me the boy who never threw
A stone at someone's cat;
Oh never hurled a snowball swift
At someone's high silk hat.

Who never ran away from school,
To seek the swimming hole;
Or slyly from a neighbour's yard
Green apples never stole.

Show me the boy who never broke
A pane of window glass;
Who never disobeyed the sign
That says "Keep off the grass."
Who never did a thousand things,
That grieve us sore to tell;
And I'll show you a little boy
Who must be far from well.

Father: I'm surprised that you broke your engagement to Tom. You used to say he was one in a thousand.

Daughter: I still think so; but I have discovered that he's not the only one in a thousand.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Christian Citizen (Armistice Day)
Golden Text—All they that take the ....sword shall perish with the sword. Matt. 26:52.

TIME—Paul wrote Galatians in A. D. 57. The armistice which ended the World War was signed at Senlis, Nov 11, 1918.

PLACE—The Epistle was written in Corinth where Paul spent three months at the close of his third missionary journey.

"For ye, brethren, were called for freedom." Christ said to the Jews that believed on him, ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. "Only use not your freedom for an occasion to the flesh." Do not understand that liberty involves license. "But through love be servants one to another." All living to the flesh is selfish living and the way out of it is unselfish living.

"For the whole law (the law of Moses) is fulfilled in one word." That is in one precept one commandment. "Even in this; Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself' ' This love of one's neighbor summarizes the second table of the Commandments, setting forth our duty toward men; but how about the first table, setting forth our duty toward God? Paul of course does not intend to omit that or slight it, but he has in mind the immediate circumstances.

"But if ye bite and devour one another." The words are of course used figuratively to denote attacks made under the influence of evil passions, and especially through the rancor of party spirit. "Take heed that ye be not consumed one of another.' Paul warns his readers that, if they so far forget the law of love as to act like wild beasts, they will thereby destroy their spiritual life and themselves.

"But I say, walk by the Spirit." What does that mean. Walk by the Spirit? It means live as if you were God's children and God were looking upon you as a father. "And ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh." The temptations to sin, and especially to the foul sins which beset the Galatians recent converts from the most degrading heathenism are only to be met and conquered by the Holy Spirit in one's heart.

"For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh Weymouth's translation is good. "For the cravings of the lower nature are opposed to those of the Spirit, and the cravings of the Spirit are opposed to those of the lower nature. "For these are contrary the one to the other" Christ expressed the thought strongly in his sentence. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

"That ye may do the things that ye would." Paul did not say, as the Authorized Version reads 'Ye cannot do these things that ye would.' Either defeat or victory is possible.

"But if ye are led by the Spirit, ye are not uder the law." What the apostle affirms here is this: If in the course of your lives you are habitually swayed by the inward motions of the Spirit of God then you are not subject to the law of the old covenant.

"Now the works of the flesh are manifest." By the flesh Paul meant man's carnal appetites. The apostle casts no discredit upon the human body, that marvellous exhibition of the Creator's skill, or that body may become the very temple of God, but alas! how many men refile God's temple of the body.

"Which are these, fornication, uncleaness, lasciviousness." These sins of licentiousness were common accompaniments of idolatry and the very worship in heathen temples openly incited men and women to them.

"Idolatry." This sums up the three preceding sins being so intimately associated with them. "Sorcery." The use of charms and magic. "Enmities, divisions, parties. This heaping up of ugly words describes the ugly condition of the Galatian Church, quarrels of all sorts being formented by the Judazires.

"Envyings." Another sin allied to the sins of strife just mentioned. "Drunkeness, revellings, and such like Drunkenness refers to brutal intoxication; revellings to riotous conduct under the influence of liquor especially at night. "Of which I forewarn you (margin 'tell you plainly) even as I did forewarn you." No particular admonition is here specified; warnings against these sins of course formed the staple of many former discourses. "That they who practise such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God."

God's kingdom is the reign of righteousness, purity and peace.

"But the fruit of the Spirit.' Note that Paul writes of the works of the flesh in the plural but the fruit of the Spirit in the singular. Evil is divisive, producing many varying results, each differently horrible; but good is unified, springing from the central Source of all blessedness, and its results are of one nature. "Is love We know now what God's gift at Pentecost was—the love that makes men holy, the power to be Christ-like. 'Joy, peace, long-suffering, kindness, goodness, faithfulness." Peace is the impassioned guest for God's goodness and spiritual greatness Peace is not the dull stupid experience that hides its head in the sand and sees no danger and is never agitated because too ignorant to sense danger.

"Meekness, self control." The last quality is translated 'temperance in the King James version but the Greek word means literally self control or self mastery.

"Against such there is no law." It is impossible to think of a law against love, joy, peace, or any other of the Christian graces. Possess them, and you are free from the law.

"And they that are of Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with the passions and the lusts thereof." If the Christian is risen with Christ above, the death of sin, it is because he has been nailed to Christ's cross beforehand, has shared the sufferings of the Saviour, partaken of his death, received his sacrificial atonement. We are here at the very heart of our religion.

"If we live by the spirit, by the Spirit let us walk." The Holy Spirit, dwelling in us, is our life, the very existence of our soul.

"Let us not become vainglorious." Why should we be proud? What have we of which to be vain? Is it not all of the Holy Spirit? "Provoking one another." By our quarrelling and by our conceit. "Envying one another". Not only challenging others to contend for the palm of superiority (provoking them) but hating them for what superiority they may now have. But where vanity breeds withering envy, love can have wholesome emulations.

Virtue for Two

Lucio, in the Manchester Guardian.

("In our private correspondence we ought to renounce the vilest of our present spellings. Let us write "beleev,' not 'believe,' and 'cheef' and 'feeld' and 'frend' without the hideous 'ie' of modern usage. The cause is great: it is worth a little courage". Clarion call to he-men and heroes from Cambridge professor in correspondence columns of the Times.)

Deer cheef of frends,
I rite to you, beleeving
That you, at any rate, will understand
The heroism shown in here acheeving
Some spellings that are freshly formed and planned.
Do not assume 'tis ignorance's fetter
That leads me to transgress the normal laws;
It ain't because I don't know any better—
It is the caws, deer frend, it is the caws!
And see how large the feeld of my endevor,
And what wide scope for noble moods it makes!
This script of mine or more than brave and clever;
It blesseth him that gives and him that takes.
To put the point precisely and with clarity,
We both have got our virtuous bit to do;
This caws requires, as well as courage, charity—
Courage from me but charity from you.

Land Hunger

I always liked to climb a hill
Possessing with far-seeing eye
The fields and farms and woods until
The earth went up to meet the sky.
Scorning each stupid boundary line
Of earth men measured, sold and bought,
The riches of the field grew mine
And I reaped harvests passing though—
I gained what plodders never had,
I garnered where I had not sown;
And yet—it wouldn't be so bad
If half an acre were my own!

News And Information For The Busy Farmer

Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Cost of Producing Corn Silage

In a year like the present, when hay is scarce and dear,' corn silage is of more value than ever in supplying rough hay. At the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, this year the yield of corn overaged 19.3 tons per acre. The cost of growing and ensiling this crop amounted to $41.47 per acre, or $2.20 per ton. On the basis of 375 pounds of corn silage being equivalent in feeding value to 100 pounds of hay, at present prices of hay, silage has avalue of over $3 per ton. Therefore, this crop produced a large volume of feed at a substantial profit per acre.

Potato Marketing Scheme

A proposed scheme for the regulation of the marketing of potatoes produced in the five eastern provinces of Canada, and marketed through the channels of the commercial potato trade, has been submitted to the Dominion Marketing Board.

Copies of the scheme are available for distribution, adn representations, with respect to it by those concerned, should be forwarded to the Secretary, Dominion Marketing Board, Ottawa. As the potato market situation is an urgent one, it is desired that any representations which are made should be forwarded promptly.

Ontario Crops Win

Seed of excellent quality has been harvested from the field crops in Ontario this year, and growers have a wonderful opportunity to surpass the fine records which they have made in the past at ntario exhibitions and the International Grain and Hay Show held annualy in Chicago. During the last five years, ntario farmers have entered a total of 641 exhibits of grain and small seeds at Chicago, for which they have been awarded 382 prizes, including 7 championships, 4 reserve championships and 18 first prizes. Peas, beans, soybeans, red clover, alsike, alfalfa, timothy seed and flint corn are classes in which Ontario has usually made a fine showing.

This year's International will be held from December 1st to 8th, and in addition to the regular prizes, the Ontario Department of Agriculture is offering special prizes to Ontario exhibitors. All exhibits which are delivered to the Department of Field Husbandry, O.A.C., Guelph, before November 21st will be forwarded to Chicago in one shipment, and returned when the show is over. Entries should be made before November 20th direct to the International Grain and Hay Show, Union Stock Yards, Chicago.

Fall Wheat and Rye and Hay

The total yield of fall wheat in Canada in 1934 is now estimated at 7,022,000 bushels from 425,600 acres, a yield of 16.5 bushels per acre, as cmpared with 14,031,000 bushels from 559,000 acres, a yield per acre of 25.1 bushels in 1933.

The 1934 production of fall wheat is the lowest in the Dominion Bureau of Statistics records dating from 1908, due chiefly to winter-killing and severe drought conditions in the counties of Ontario where most of the fall wheat is grown.

The production of fall rye in Canada in 1934 is estimated at 5,239,000 bushels, an increase of 1,785,000 bushels as compared with 1933. The increase is largely due to increased acreages in the Prairie Provinces.

Winter-killing of hay and clover meadows in Ontario, and severe drought which has seriously affected all provinces except Quebec and British Columbia, have resulted in the lowest hay crop on record, namely 9,884,000 tons, as compared with 11,443,000 tons in 1933. The first cutting of alfalfa yielded only 778,300 tons, as compared with a first cutting of 1,194,000 tons in 1933, this large decreese baing also due to the severe winter and lack of moisture.

Entries for the Royal Indicate Confidence

Entries for the forthcoming Royal Winter Fair, which close on Thursday, ovember 1st, are reaching the Bay Street offices a most gratifying way, and average, so far, not merely larger in number, but somewhat earlier in date than in previous years, according to a statement by the management. This is looked upon as an indication of confidence among all classes of exhibitors from the owners of blood-horses to the poultryman with a back yard flock.

"It is especially satisfactory to know that the possibility of a feed shortage following last summer's drought has not materialized so far as entries are concerned," says A. P. Westervelt, the manager, "as beef and dairy cattle breeders, as well as those of sheep and swine, promise to be represented as fully as in former years, both from eastern and western provinces".

Boys' Inter Club Competitions

Teams representing sixty-two Boys' Agricultural Clubs gathered at the Ontario Agricultural College on October19th to vie for the honour of representing the Province of Ontario in an inter-provincial boys' and girls club competition, to be conducted at the Royal Winter Fair. Each club competing was represented by two members between the ages of 16 and 20 years, inclusive.

In Ontario in 1934, there were 2482 boys enrolled in 133 cattle, swine, grain and potato clubs, supervised by the Ontario Agricultural Representative Branch, under the direction of the director, R.S. Duncan.

The Cattle Club Competition was closely contested by 24 teams, and the honour of winning first place was captured by Ronald Bagg, Unionville, and Lorne Petch, Milliken, members of Markham Dairy Calf Club in York County. J.E. Alexander and Arthur uff of Prince Edward County finished a close second.

In the Grain Club Competition, Harry Kennedy Cavan and John Holmes, Newcastle, of the Durham County Grain Club, were successful in winning the highest score in the competition, with 16 other teams, while Billy Johnson, Renfrew, and Harry Wilson, Pembroke, finished second.

Firs and second places in the Swine Club Competition were taken by representatives of Durham County—Garnet Rickard, Bowmanville, and Wm. Rowland, Newcastle, being members of the winning team and John Rickard, Newcastle, and George Werry, Hampton, of second place team.

The boys interested in Potato Club Work also featured keen competition, and Ralph Rowan, Bethany and Gordon Fallis, Millbrook, Durham County, were successful in winning first place from Duncan Fletcher, Ilderton and Winslow Skinner, Strathroy, of Middlesex County, who finished in second place.

Following the keenly contested competitions, the competitors, coaches and officials were guests at a dinner in the O.A.C. cafeteria. Following the announcement of the resuls, Dr. G.I. Christie, President of he College, delivered an inspiring address, which climaxed an interesting and enjoyable day for the club members, who had gathered from as far as Renfrew in the east and Lambton in he west. Anoher pleasing feature at this function was the presentation of "The Farmer" trophies, by Editor C.H. Hodge, to the teams from York and Durham Counties, winners in the Cattle and Swine Competitions respectively.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES AT SOUTH MOUNTAIN

The anniversary services which were held in South Mountain United Church on Sunday morning and evening were attended by large congregations. The church was filled to capacity at both services.

The congregation had the privilege of having wth them for their guest speaker, Rev. Hinton of Montreal, who was pastor of their church some nine years ago. Mr. iHnton received a warm welcome by Rev. W.R Johnston and the entire congregation.

At the morning services, special music was rendered by the men's choir. Mr. J. Wood was the soloist, singing "Open the Gates of the Temple", Mrs. Lorne Armstrong presiding at the organ. At the evening service, the mixed choir sang two appropriate anthems, and a quartet was heard in one number. Mrs. L. Armstrong was at the organ, with Mr. W. Gilroy choir director. Rev. Hinton was in charge at both services.

On Monday evening, the anniversary chicken supper was held in the church hall, attended by over 400. A delightful supper was served by the ladies of the parish. Following the supper, a splendid program was presented by a number.from the parish, assisted by the young people of Spencerville. Rev. Johnston was chairman for the evening.

The program opened with the theme song, "My Old Kentucky Home," followed by an interesting and humorous descriptive address by Rev. Hinton on "A Two-thousand Mile Drive to Kentucky on Bicycle".

The double male quartet from Spencerville entertained the audience with a number of well executed selections, with Mrs. Armstrong as accompanist. A much appreciated play entitled, "Uncle George Pops In" was presented by several young people of South Mountain United Church.

Greetings from Heckston were brought by Rev. Somerville, pastor of Heckston United Church, and Inkerman's greetings were extended by Rev. R.C. McConnell, pastor of the United Church of that place. Rev. E. Lacey brought greetings from Brinston United church.

Rev. Johnston tendered a hearty vote of thanks to all who had so willingly asisted in making this anniversary occasion such a decided success.

KEMPTVILLE LAD ACCIDENTALLY KILLED

Harold Spellman, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Spellman of Kemptville, was killed Saturday, when accidentaly struck by a bullet from a rifle in the hands of 14-year-old Eric Sutherland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sutherland, Kemptville.

According to information received, three separate parties of hunters left Kemptville to enjoya an afternoon's sport in the nearby grove. As the afternoon passed and the parties were returning home, they came upon a can, which they decided to blast as a target. After firing several rounds into it, the firing ceased, as one of the party asked what kind of a shell was in the bore of the repeating rifle which Eric Sutherland was holding. Eric, in an attempt to see the shell, evidently turned the gun in the direction of Harold Spellman, and pressed the trigger. The bullet struck Harold just above the heart as he knelt about 35 feet from the rifle. Death was instantaneous.

It is said that Eric was accustomed to a bolt action type of rifle, and as he fired, attempted to catch the bolt to keep the rifle from firing, but being of a hammerless type, there was no way to hold the fire after the trigger spring was released.

Seeing what had happened to their chum, the boys became hysterical, and went to town to call a doctor. Dr. Gordon, of Kemptville, left immediately for the scene of the accident, but it was too late.

Following the arrival of Coroner Dr. C.F. McPherson of Prescott, the body was taken to Kemptville. No inquest will be held.

Harold Spellman was born in Brockville on October 3, 1918, and moved with his parents to Kemptville in 1920. He was a student in the second form of the high school, a member of the signallers company of the 56th Grenville Rifles, a member of the Trail Rangers Group, and of St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

The funeral service was held on Tuesday, from his father's residence to St. Paul's Church, and was conducted by Rev. W.J. Hurlow, assisted by Rev. H.L. Morrison. Hundreds of sympathetic friends paid their last tribute to his memory. Floral and pecuniary gifts showed in mute testimony the inestimable esteem in which Harold had been held throughout the village.

Assembling at the house at 1.30, members of the Signalling Corps of the Grenville Regiment, the school board, cadet corps and the students of the high school lined the roadway leading to the street, and marched in procession before the casket. which was borne by six school friends, preceded by six flower bearers.

Following the service, the body was taken to Brockville for interment.

SEAWAY TREATY'S RATIFICATION SEEN

Washington, Nov. 8—Senate Democratic leaders, taking stock of their amazing ne wstrength, see good reason to believe that the St. Lawrence seaway treaty with Canada will be approved at the next session.

President Roosevelt strongly advocates the St. Lawrence navigation and power project, designed to open up vast areas of the interior to ocean-going shipping through a deep waterway from the North Atlantic to the Great Lakes. The treaty was rejected last March 14.

With 88 Senators present and voting, only 46 voted "aye" as against 42 in the negative. Fifty-nine 'ayes' were necessary for approval. Party lines split, with 31 Democrates, 14 Republicans and the Farmer-Laborite Shipstead voting for the treaty, and 22 Democrats and 20 Republicans opposing.

Seven of the opponents on that roll call were defeated either in primaries or Tuesday's elections. How their successors will vote is a question, but President Roosevelt expects to re-submit the treaty with modifications which he believes will weaken much of the opposition.

Negotiations have been under way with Canada looking to revisions of sections attacked in the Senate last March, but Mr. Roosevelt has announced that no fundamental changes would be made.

How Canada feels about overhauling the pact, even slightly, has not been disclosed, although there is some opposition there to building the $500,000,000 project.

Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn of ntario, recently announced that as long as he was Premier of the province, he would not ratify the agreement reached between Ontario and the Dominion Government in 1932.

Ottawa, Nov. 8—Although the smashing victory for the Democrats and their two-thirds control of the Senate at Washington in Tuesday's elections increase the probability of ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty, the coast on either side of the line is hardly clear.

At Washington, it is noted that Senator Royal Copeland, arch-Democratic opponent of the treaty, is returned with the backing of over a million votes, along with other Democrats and most of the Republicans who were adverse to the treaty.

If, however, the treaty is ratified by the Democratic Senate, difficulty looms on this side. In Parliament, the Government has a sufficient majority in both oHuses to insure ratification, although neither the support of or opposition to the treaty may be strictly on party lines. The new element in the situation arises from the change of Government in Ontario. Premier Hepburn has come out in strong opposition to the project at this time. While Ontario Legislature does not have to sanction the treaty, it is required to ratify the separate agreement between the Dominion and Ontario Governments, executed antecedent to the signing of the treaty. By this agreement, the province acquires from the Dominion certain portions of proposed dams which in reality are to be sub-structures for power development by the Hydro Electric Commission of Ontario, as well as serving the purpose of dams.

About $60,000,000 is involved. While this agreement is not a part of the treaty, it is considered to be an important collateral, considerably influencing the terms and conditions of the treaty which subsequently was concluded between the two Federal Governments.

Assuming the treaty is sanctioned in turn at Washington and Ottawa, the required ratification by the Ontario Legislature of the collateral greement would seem to be prejudiced by the hostility openly displayed by the new Premier of Ontario, whose party controls the Legislature.

PRESENTATIONS BY Y. P. L., WILLIAMSBURG

The members of the Young People's League of the United Church, Williamsburg, chose the occasion of a Hallowe'en social evening held in the school-room of the church on Tuesday last, to honour their president, Miss Maud Marcellus, on the eve of her approaching marriage. Miss Marcellus had been a very active and faithful worker in the Poung People's League, and had been organist in the church for some years. As a mark of esteem and appreciation, and their good wishes, Rev. C.A. Adey, on behalf of the members of the choir, presented the bride-elect with a beautiful Kenwood blanket. Miss Marcellus, in a few well-chosen words, expressed her thanks and appreciation in a sincere and capable manner.

Also honoured on the occasion were two other former members of the League, Misses Nellie Cameron and Doris Tracy, who had been active workers, and have recently moved to Morrisburg. The gathering was a complete surprise to the young ladies. Rev. C.A. Adey expressed regret at their departure, and on behalf of he members of the league, presented to each a small remembrance, which was gratefully acknowledged.

About fifty members and friends were present at the gathering, and some amusing costumes were worn by the young people. The schoolroom was decorated in keeping with Hallowe'en.

Folowing an enojyable evening spent in games and contests, refreshments were served, under the direction of the refreshment committee, assistd by members of the Y.P.L.

IN MEMORIAM

CUNNINGHAM—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Anne Jane Cunningham, who passed away Nov. 13th, 1933.

And now that she has gone to rest,
Her memory still is sweet,
We miss her every single hour,
To guide our erring feet.
And, though she's vanished from our sight,
Her spirit still is near
The one to greet us when we go
Will be our mother dear.

TO APPEAL MAN'S ACQUITTAL IN GASPE CASE

Premier L.A. Taschereau of Quebec, has announced that in his capacity as attorney-general, he has issued instructions to officers of the department to institute proceedings against the acquital of Nelson Phillips, 19, on a charge of murdering Maud Ascah, 15, at Peninsula, Gaspe, Que., a year ago.

The appeal will be taken by virtue of an amendment to the Criminal Code, which enables the crown to carry criminal cases to the higher courts on questions of law.

Phillips has already been tried twice on the charge. At the first trial, he was convicted, but the Appeal Court ordered a new trial, finding certain defects in the prosecution evidence, and ruling an alleged statement by Phillips should not have been admitted.

Phillips was acquitted at the conclusion of the second trial a week ago.

Premier Taschereau stated the appeal argument for the crown would be based on the contention that the evidence at the second trial cured the defects in the first; also that the alleged statement should have been admitted at the second trial. Following the finding of the Appeal Court, the document had been excluded in the second trial.

On Aug. 31, 1933, Maud Ascah, and her cousin, Marguerite Ascah, 17, disappeared. After a long search, the body of Maud was found floating in Gaspe Bay, but no trace was ever found of the other girl.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CONTEST

Marion E. Helmer of Maple Ridge, winner of the primary contest in public speaking held at Winchester under the auspices of the Women's Institute, was placed first in the final event, which was staged in Gilson's Hall at Brinston on Friday night. Winners of similar contests, sponsored by the Matilda and Iroquois branches, competed.

Miss Helmer is the 10-year-old pupil of Miss Gertrude Weegar. Her subject was "My Ambition for a Life Career," and she received a beautiful silver bracelet.

W.J. Stewart, B.A., B.Paed., inspector of public schools for Dundas county, was the chairman. Miss Josie Cooper, of Rowena, a pupil of Miss Florence Waddell, represented the Iroquois branch, speaking on "Aviation of To-Day," while Evelyn Fawcett, of Hainsville, taught by Miss Helen Smith, spoke on "A Book I Have Read". The judges were Rev. Father A.L. O'Donnell of South Mountain, and T.J. Hawkins, of Winchester.

Piano solos were played by the Misses Helen Davidson and Winnie Vey, and vocal solos were sung by Mrs. Charles Strader, Iroquois, and Mrs. Percy Durant, Winchester. Mrs. Chas. Harkness, Brinston, accompanied.

Mrs. J.E. Singleton, president of Winchester Women's Intstitute, expressed thanks to the teachers, while the teachers of the contestants voiced the gratitude to the societies, and a vote of appreciation from the audience was extended to the judges by the chairman. Mrs. Harkness, president of the Matilda branch, presented the prize to the winner, and boxes of handkerchiefs to the other contestants.

HEMLOCK BOUGHS WIND UP SEASON ON TOP

In a fast and furious junior lacrosse game last Tuesday, the Hemlock Boughs fought their way to a well-earned 7-6 victory. Although the Boughs took an early lead in the first period, they had lost it at half-time, and did not regain their lead until one minute before the final bell. In the course of the game, referee Danny Locke handed out several minor penalties and three majors. Danny did a good job on a hard game, and stuck by his guns, under fire from the spectators.

This game wound up the season for the Hemlock Boughs, and was also the final appearance of the team under this name.

MR. M. CONNELL

There passed away Tuesday morning one of the very few remaining early settlers of Spencerville, in the person of Martin Connell.

Born in the parish of Schull, Cork County, Ireland, in 1844, the youngest of seven sons, he came to Canada with his family when two years of age, and settled in Augusta township. He bought the farm which is the present homestead in 1866, and had lived there ever since. He was a very successful farmer and dairyman, and early became interested in the manufacture of cheese.

He was married in 1870 to Sarah Bennett, daughter of John Bennett of Spencerville, who predeceased him in 1912. All of his family of five sons and a daughter are living with the exception of the eldest son, John Connell, who was police magistrate of Grenville county at the time of his death a year ago. The surviving sons are Dr. Walter Connell, professor of medicine at Queen's University; Dr. James Connell, Regina, Sask., surgeon; Harold V. and Fred Connell, Toronto, mining engineers. The daughter is Miss Lillian Connell, living at home.

The funeral was held from his late residence, Spencerville, on Thursday afternoon, for service in the United Church there. Interment was made in the family plot in Spencerville cemetery.

NATION VALLEY RESIDENT INJURED

Grant Gray, 60-year-old resident of Nation Valley, suffered painful injuries Monday afternoon, when the horse-drawn vehicle in which he was riding was struck by a motor car, driven by Albert Holmes, of Winchester Springs. The accident occurred when Mr. Gray attempted to turn off highway No. 31 to a side road, just north of Cass Bridge. The driver of the car, which was travelling in the same direction, was unable to bring his car to a stop in time to avoid a crash. As a result, the buggy was badly wrecked, the horse ran away, and Mr. Gray was thrown several feet, landing on the paved highway. He was carried to the home of a nearby resident, and medical assistance was summoned. Upon examination, it was found that the injured man was suffering from two fractured ribs, a badly bruised chest, and several minor bruises about his body.

Constable Helmer of Winchester, and Traffic Officer Eugene Rose investigated the accident, but no charges have been laid.

FOR COMMERCIAL GIRLS

The third birthday tea party of the Commercial Girls' Club of Winnipeg marked another anniversary of one of the most remarkable and inspiring public service enterprises which have been launched in this city.

Three years ago ..... with the greatest possible efficiency and discretion the club was formed, and formulated its constitution and by-laws, the object of which was to take care of the girls employed in commercial pursuits who might fall on hard times through the depression—which three years ago was looming over the whole community as an immediate menace.

Under highly capable and conscientious management, given voluntarily by the successive executive boards of the club, composed of commercial girls themselves, the club has now an excellent record of most valuable work. Its members have given it loyal support, and initiative and originality have characterized the management.—Winnipeg Free Press.

THE MODERN GIRL.

The old-fashioned woman who used to boast about the number of glasses of jelly she could get out of a gallon of fruit has a daughter who brags about the number of miles she gets out of a gallon of gas.—Tweed News.

TEACHING PEOPLE TO LIVE.

How to teach people to live so that they may enjoy health and avoid sickness is a problem that has not been solved. Whether it can be done by education is a question.

Most people prefer to live their own lives according to their own ideas and are inclined to look with contempt on matters of diet, sleep, fresh air, the avoidance of excesses of every kind and restrictions that would interfere in any way with their personal liberty.

Nevertheless it is perfectly true to say that thousands of people have benefited greatly by the information that has been disseminated, with the result that they have been almost totally free from sickness of any serious kind for many years.—Brantford Expositor.

OUR LUMBER EXPORTS

The lumber export situation is not without its difficulties; the solution appears to be in the appointment of one representative for Canada, charged with the duty of promoting impartially Canadian forest products, regardless of the place of origin.

By this plan Canada will not divide her propagandist force; on the contrary, it will give solidarity and uniformity to every effort to extend the market. There are, of course, ardent advocates of separate Eastern Canada representation, who believe that only by such a method can the East obtain an adequate presentation of the qualities and uses of Eastern woods, a larger umber of orders, and new markets.

It is suggested, however, that on balance, a Dominion-wide representative is the most logical plan, and that its advantages outweigh those claimed for sectional representation.—Canada Lumberman.

BACK TO THE LAND

Anything that can be done to add to the convenience, comfort, enjoyment and profit of the farmer should not be overlooked, because, as we have said, it is desirable to get more people back to the land, thus easing the pressure on towns and cities that were congested before the great unemployment problem cam upon us and that are fairly overflowing with workless people today—Border Cities Star.

NO DAMAGES FOR NEGLIGENCE.

In an action tried before a Middlesex jury the other day, in which damages for injuries were asked, a verdict was given that will have a very widespread effect on all cases of compensation for injuries suffered. Suit was entered against the Melbourne Agricultural Society by a father on behalf of his son, ten years old, who was injured on the racetrack at the fair. In spite of warnings given to keep off the track through a loudspeaker he persisted in getting into the zone of danger, with the result that he was knocked down by a racehorse, receiving injuries to his knee.

The jury deliberated on the case and found that the boy had suffered on account of his own carelessness and hence was not entitled to damages .....

The significance of the verdict is that it throws the responsibility on people themselves for exercising reasonable caution. If they are careless and negligent they cannot expect to collect damages from others on the ground that the latter are responsible for their safety. It is possible that if this principle were pressed more energetically there would be fewer accidents.—Brantford Expositor.

A "DATE" BUREAU.

Women students at the University of Toronto are reported to be bitterly complaining that, despite their charms, they are experiencing great difficulty in "finding a man." So now they propose to establish a date bureau on the campus, where boys and girls can leave their names when they desire a partner to attend a show, dance or some other form of social amusement.

Such a move would leave the impression that the co-eds have come to the conclusion that the young men are a little backward about getting acquainted. We suggest that the students of the 1934 crop are just as bold and gallant as in days gone by, but they are handicapped by an embarrassing shortage of funds. Perhaps there would be no necessity for this clearing house if the daring co-eds would simply advertise the fact that they are prepared to pay their own way.

Some one has said that the co-eds are not as sophisticated as they were in more prosperous years, and to some degree have lost their popularity. Maybe there is nothing to it.—Border Cities Star.

LIFE GROWS DIFFICULT

Things grow complicated and people are always thinking of more regulations. Getting milk from the brindle cow to the back porch used to be such an easy and a simple process.

The cow was milked and the man started out in his own cart carrying milk in a big can. He had with him a pint and a quart measure and he poured it out into such containers as his customers offered and generally was ready to put some in a tin cup for the little folk who watched for his daily coming. His tickets were made at home, cut out of pasteboard. His old wagon rattled along over the road, but he never hollered at his horse. The animal knew the route as well as the driver.

But that is all changed, particularly in exclusive places where folk want to stay up until all hours of the night and then sleep in in the morning — Stratford Beacon-Herald.

QUEER WORLD.

THE EMPIRE

ROYAL CHRISTMAS CARDS

The greeting cards which the King and Queen have chosen to send to personal friends at Christmas are now in process of being engraved. Their Majesties always choose subjects for their cards early in the year in order that they may be ready in good time for dispatch to overseas.

The King has selected a reproduction of a fine painting, Bernard Gribbe's "Windsor Castle from the River," and this looks remarkably well on its engraved background. The Queen and the Princess Royal have chosen, as they always do, garden pictures—both are by Edith Andrews —and the Prince of Wales has commissioned cards on which is reproduced A. D. McCormick's painting of "Queen Elizabeth Giving Audience to Shakespeare."—London Daily Telegraph.

SAFETY IN THE AIR.

The fundamental difficulty in securing air safety at present is the speed at which an airplane has to travel to keep in the air at all. No other form of transport would care to be compelled to batter through mist, fog, or darkness at a minimum speed of anything from sixty miles an hour upwards.

When he is uncertain of his position or suspects dangers on the route the pilot ought to be able to slow down, if necessary to as low a speed as twenty miles an hour. No commercial airplane in the world today can do anything of the kind. But in the interests of safety and of public confidence in air transport such an end must be worked for.

It is far more desirable than any increase in flying speeds; until aviation has fledged its wings a little further our present maximum of round about two hundred miles an hour is quite high enough.—Manchester Guardian.

A ROYAL SPORTSMAN.

I have just come across the record of a "bag" made by the Duke of Sussex, sixth so of George III. The Duke was with a party whose total number of birds in six days was 1,307. His personal slaughter is tabulated as follows:

"Killed game, none; wounded in leg, one footmarker; wounded in face, one groom (severely); shot on head of friend, one hat; wounded in left rump, one horse".

It's a good job they didn't have machine-guns in those days.—J. Butterfield, in the Vancouver Province.

Lloyd George Potato Expert

Lloyd George, war-time Premier of Great Britain, threw open his farm, Bron-y-de, at Churt, England, for a demonstration of the manuring and spacing of potatoes organized by the Surrey Agricultural Committee. Lloyd George also acted as host at tea to those attending the demonstration. This picture shows Lloyd George (right) airing his views on potatoes during the demonstration.

Wear Your Heart On Your Toes For Style This Winter

Chicago.—Feminine feet are going on the gold standard this winter.

Gold kid and gold fabric slippers were described today by heads of shoe departments as the very newest and smartest footwear for formal wear, with all silver and gold and silver combinations in second place.

It was also observed that women will dance with hearts on their toes this winter. One of the very newest models was a sandal with the narrow straps of satin radiating from a satin heart at the base of the instep.

Twins Born 48 Hours Apart—Boy and Girl

Juneau, Alaska.—Mrs. Alfred Carlson, wife of a miner, and her twins are "doing well" after an unusual birth case, in which the infants were born 48 hours apart. A boy was born on the morning of September 22, and a girl the morning of the 24th. Each weighed 6 3-4 pounds.

What's 121 Years To This Gay Young Thing

Sata Ana, Calif.—Senora Leandra Chairez celebrated her 121st birthday recently by rising at 4 a.m., dancing an intricate, old time Mexican waltz to modern music, and dining on fried chicken.

She topped off her special repast at the Orange County Farm with a hand-rolled cigarette fashioned from cigar tobacco rolled into a cigarette paper.

"I have been wanting fried chicken for some time," she said, "and the officers of the Orange County Farm promised I should have it."

Senora Chairez has been a county ward for several months.

Oldest Clock in Canada Bears Date 1444

Belmont, Ont. — "Sick bedroom clock" believed to be the oldest in Canada, bearing the trade mark Le Roy, Paris, and dated 1444, is owned by Mildred Barrons here. The clock, brought from England by her grandfather, answers the descriptions of the earliest clocks made by a German Henry De Wyck, in 1379, and erected in Paris for Charles V.

Autumn Days Play Havoc With Complexions

These brisk autumn days, beautiful though they are and certainly excellent for the spirits, may play havoc with a complexion that has a tendency toward dryness. If your skin comes in this category, tell yourself again that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, get a jar of tissue cream and plan to do a nightly beauty routine that will eliminate the dry conditions and prevent football weather from making your skin leathery and unattractive.

Choose a tissue or nourishing cream that is rich and of a rather heavy consistency.

It is to be used after you've cleaned your face and throat, of course. Wash with soap and water and clean with cleansing cream before applying the richer cream.

Smooth the tissue cream from the base of the throat uward to the hairline. Then, using a patter or your fingertips, pat it into your skin. Don't pat too hard, but don't stop until the cream has melted. Remember to pat upward and outward on the throat, chin, checks and forehead—only outward from the nose to the ears.

When you have finished, wipe off the excess, leaving a little around your eyes and go to bed. If you can't bear to sleep with cream on your skin, wipe off every trace and pat with cotton pads that have been soaked in skin tonic.

Women No Longer Let Men Do All Their Investing

Milwaukee, Wis.—Miss Sophia Bliven, Philadelphia, manager of the Women's Agency of an Insurance company, told the National Association of Life Insurance Underwriters that women have lost their awe of "finance."

Experience of the past five years have taught women, she said, that men are fallible in financial matters with the result that feminine investors have begun to solve investment mysteries for themselves.

"Now that many investments have proved disappointing," she said, "women no longer will let men do all the investing for them."

Mustaches

Declared Useful Guard Against Serious Infection

Boston—An upperlip health risk that may justify the "eyebrow" mustache as a real protector was explained to the American College of Surgeons here recently.

Any infection of the upper lip, such as might arise from even a trivial razor scratch or whatever risk there may be in kissing, is much more potentially dangerous than similar infection on the lower lip.

The facial mechanisms involved in this situation and the not infrequently fatal results were explained to a symposium on infections by Frederick A. Coller, M.D., of Ann Arbor, Mich. A person with anything larger than an ordinary pimple on the upper lip, he said, really ought to be in bed in a hospital because of what might happen.

Broadly speaking this "upper lip" area includes not only the site of mustaches but much of the face and nose. Infections in these areas if they get beyond mild stages are apt to spread until they reach the facial veins.

These veins pass down close to each side of the nose and then flare out across the cheeks somewhat above the mustache lip areas. Ordinarily the blood in them flows downward. But upper lip infections may block these veins, forcing the blood in them upward.

It then flows up toward the eye, passes the region of the inner angle of the eye and empties into the "cavernous sinus" located on the floor of the skull.

Once there the infection can kill quickly. It may produce clots that may carry infection through the blood stream all over the body or result in meningitis, or both.

Dr. Coller warned that in treating an upper lip infection a pimple there should never be squeezed. Once the infection becomes serious, he said, talking should be prohibited in order to rest the lip. X-rays should be used.

The germs most likely to cause the serious infections are streptococci and staphylococci. Surgeons discussing the Coller report said the practice of plucking superfluous hair from the nose offers some risk of upper lip infections.

FINANCIAL FLASHES

London Predicts Higher Silver Prices

A report from London, England, states that China's decisive action to check exports of silver has thrown the Far Eastern exchange position into a state of confusion. It comes, of course, as the climax to a series of unsuccessful representations to the United States Government to modify its silver buying policy and may well have far reaching results.

What those results may be cannot yet be gauged with any degree of accuracy, but some immediate effects can be stated. The sterling value of the Shanghai dollar has dropped since last Monday by more than 14 per cent. while the official rate at which sterling is now quoted is equivalent, with equalization charges for export duty, to approximately 22 per cent. This of course, is quite prohibitive, and the Chinese Government has achieved its objective, stopping silver exports in one bound.

The check imposed upon China's export trade by the rise of silver and consequent appreciation of the Shanghai dollar was an important aspect of the situation in the East ignored by silver enthusiasts in the United States, although the Washington administration must have had ample warning of what might happen long before it finally decided upon its own silver policy.

China in effect is now off the silver standard and is one of the countries with a managed currency. China is fighting resolutely to avoid a currency crisis and maybe she has taken the correct action, but for the time being something like chaos exists, and how the situation will finally develop cannot be now estimated. It has been suggested that China might be driven to adopt the gold standard, but such a step appears extremely unlikely now. It seems to be established, however, that the argument that prosperity would be restored to the East by a rise in silver is fallacious.

As there is now no direct tie between silver and Shanghai exchange silver is moving independently. Within one month it has advanced 3d, or about 14 per cent. In that period speculation has become world-wide and has been based on the belief now confirmed that China would be forced to place an embargo on silver exports, thus removing one of the largest sources of supply.

The wide fluctuations now occurring clearly indicate extensive speculative position, which is more likely to be maintained or even increased rather than checked by China's action and the evident determination of the United States to continue its purchases. Still higher prices are regarded as likely, although the heavy bull position will from time to time cause sharp reactions.

Aggregate gross earnings for the first nine months of the current year amount to $22,510,047 as compared with $21,362,167 in 1933.

Latest reports from the Bear Exploration & Radium Company, operating in the Great Bear Lake district, state that the raise being driven to the surface is up 27 feet with about 60 feet to go. The raise is going up in rock adjacent to the vein and when completed a headframe will be erected and the opening used as a shaft. Sinking to the 300-foot level will then be resumed. On the tunnel and first levels several hundred feet of drifting has been done on the vein which shows high values over good widths.

The company has supplies on hand for the next season, all paid for and has sufficient cash in the treasury to take care of the development campaign planned for the next year.

Ontario Gold Production Up

Production from Ontario Gold Mines in the first nine months shows a gain of approximately 41 per cent as compared with the same period in 1933. Figured in terms of Canadian funds, output for the period amounted to $52,298,353 as against $37,047,850 last year.

The Kirkland Lake camp still leads the way in point of value with total for the nine months of $25,771,430 as compared with Porcupine's $24,440,889. North western Ontario figures went over the two million dollar mark an increase of around 80 per cent over the 1933 figures and from now on it would seem likely that a steady increase in production may be anticipated from this section.

Wright Hargreaves Mines

In its report for the fiscal year eding August 31st, Wright Hargreaves Mines Ltd. shows net surplus for the year of $3,836,I31 which is equal to nearly seventy cents per share. Total production for the year amounted to $6,797,579 and 330,741 tons of ore were milled with an average value of $13.68 and recovery of $13.07 per ton.

After providing for dividends for the year, including the one paid on October 1st, surplus carried forward amounted to $3,420,375.

Western Canada Flour Report

Net earnings of Western Canada Flour Mills Ltd., and its subsiduaries for the year ending August 31st amounted to $275,302 as compared with $236,165 in the previous fiscal period. Increased deductions for depreciation and bad debts, however reduced the earnings per preferred share to $4.06 as against $4.73 last year.

Working capital showed a small increase at $965,468 while inventories were up at $1,966,602 an increase of some $342,000. Accounts receivable were reduced to $627,029 as compared with $669,220. Bank loans and accounts payable both showed increases at $779,000 and $931,872 respectively.

Noranda Rumors Spiked

Rumors which were said to originate in New York regarding Canadian copper mines, were promptly given official denial, insofar as Noranda was concerned. Mr. J. Y. Murdoch, the President stated that the company has its copper sold in advance and that it is far ahead in its sales.

At the mine monthly production is running at the rate of about 6,000,000 pounds of copper and gold output is around 19,000 ounces or better per month. It is estimated that gold production is worth approximately $700,000 per month at the present price of gold.

It seems likely that another dividend declaration can be expected when the directors meet early in November. To date this year $1.00 a share has been paid while last year total disbursments for the year were $1.50 per share. With profits said to be running well over $2.50 per share during the current year it would seem likely that at least as much as last year may be anticipated before the year closes.

Moderation Best

Honey is delightful, but too much breeds cholera and disease. Fragrant flowers are sweet to smell, and, moderately used, refresh the brain, but excess causes headache. Light is pleasant to the eyes, but too much staring into sunbeams dazzles or blinds them. Moderate joys and delights are ever best, least hurtful, most contentful, and comfortable to our spirits, whereas intemperance, immoderateness and excess mar all pleasure and delight, though themselves never so pleasant and delightful.—Spencer.

New Zealand Seeks Market

BIG BUTTER SURPLUS — DROP IN SALES FOUND PERIL TO NATION'S FINANCING

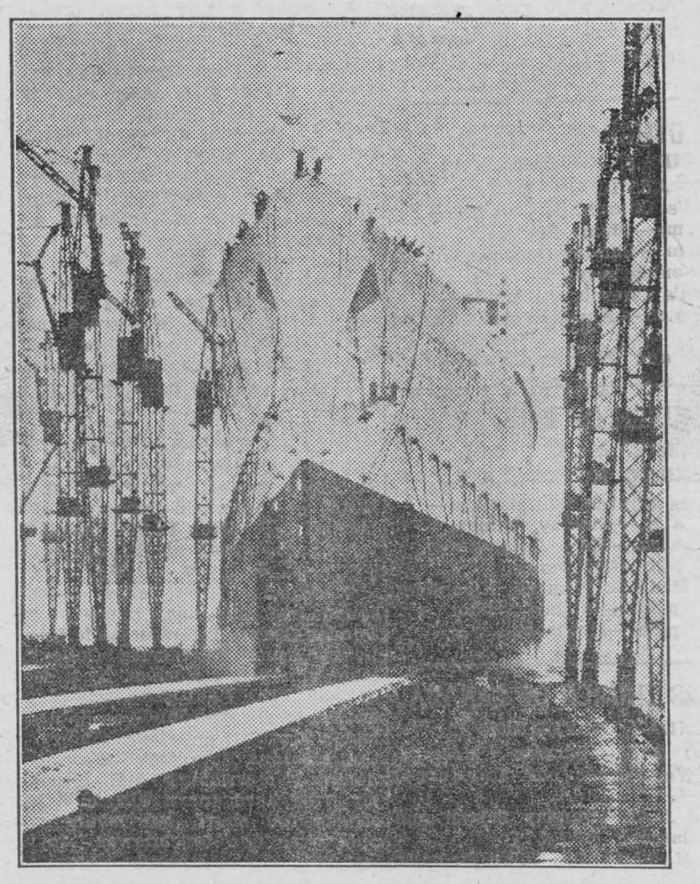

Wellington, N.Z.—Unless early and effective measures are taken to rescue New Zealand's dairy industry from its present state, there will be a general breakdown in financial relations between mortgagors and mortgagees making it impossible for New Zealand to meet overseas debt interest charges, it was declared in the report of the Royal Commission which made an exhaustive enquiry into the dairy industry.

Conditions confronting the dairy industry have assumed the proportions of a national crisis, the report declared. It mentioned that the British market was being flooded by the subsidized dairy produce from countries of the northern hemisphere, and Australia was also increasing her dairy output.

Among other things the commission suggested that alternative markets be found outside Britain for New Zealand's produce. It urged early approach to the government of the United Kingdom in order to arrive at a preliminary understanding and provide the basis for future negotiations. The government should also make available at low rates of interest to farmers and dairy producers sufficient funds to enable the modernization of farm and factory equipment and appliances, the report urged.

The "Queen Mary"

The "Queen Mary" has been successfully launched. But activity still surrounds her. Seven Turbo-generator sets, developing 10,000 kilowatts and forming the greatest power station afloat, will be put in position. Three gigantic funnels, measuring 30 feet in diameter and 100 feet in circumference, fifteen months later will be placed. Simultaneous with this, work is under way on the deck coverings, the ventilating system, erection of cabins and public rooms, laying of teak decks, building of companionways and ladders, erection of deck machinery, etc. So it would seem that the launching, while of great interest to the public, is only one of the many details when a great ship is in the making.

It is reported that the number of sheep killed by dogs in the townships of Mountain and Osgoode during the past season runs into hundreds. Most of the farmers have had to house their animals from four to six weeks earlier than would otherwise be the case, owing to the ravages caused by stray dogs. In some cases, whole flocks have been destroyed. Warnings were issued by the township councils to all owners of dogs that the canines must be kept tied, but this order has apparently been ignored by many.

Returning to his home at Winchester Springs, after selling a number of pigs at Winchester, for which he received $60, Delbert Casselman placed the money in what he considered a safe place at his home, while he attended a meeting at Winchester Springs on Monday night. When he went to get the money the next morning, it was missing, and as yet no trace of it has been found. Evidently the home was entered during the absence of its occupants, by someone who had knowledge that the money was there. Provincial Officer Frank Rose was notified, and is conducting an investigation.

At least half a million dollars will be asked from the federal government at the next session of parliament to carry on the work of publicising Canada as a tourist center. It is contended that the tourist traffic is one of the very largest industries of the country, and although the work for the next year in making a concentrated drive to attract tourists to the Dominion will still be in the experimental stage, returns from the expenditure should be more than repaid.

An extra gang's boarding cars, while lying on the Canadian Pacific siding at Finch, were raided on Sunday night by thieves, who broke the lock on the doors and stole clothing, razors and shoes to he value of $30. Transients are believed responsible, and two provincial officers from Cornwall working on the case, learned that a man and a youth had gone to the reeve of Finch to obtain food and lodging, and later in the evening one had been seen boarding a train going to Montreal, wearing a leather jacket resembling one of those stolen. The boarding cars were empty at the time of the robbery, as the workmen had gone home for the week-end. As yet the goods hav not been recovered.

SPORT FLASHES

Last year's Hemlock Boughs junior hockey team will appear this year under a new name, probably "The Black Hawks".

* * *

With the Black Hawks, the Maple Leafs, the M.C.I. team and Williamsburg junior hockey teams in the district, there is plenty of material available for a junior hockey league. The games could be played early in the evening, possibly at 7 o'clock, and thus would not interfere with skating.

Toronto Maple Leafs won their opening game last night 5-3, but the manager, Connie Smythe, must have looked pretty pale when he saw the Boston Bruins leading his pets into the last 4 minutes with a 4-3 score.

* * *

In the other game last night, the one-time Ottawa Senators, now the St. Louis Eagles, met defeat at the hands of the world-champion Black Hawks, 3-1. Over 12,000 people attended the game at St. Louis.

Winchester High School football squad lost the final game of the Dundas County Interscholastic Rugby League, and Morrisburg Collegiate team emerged victorious by a score of 14-7. The final game was played on the local fairgrounds on Saturday last. Fresh from their victory of the previous Saturday, when they defeated Morrisburg 8-2, Winchester tried hard for a win, but their efforts fell short, Morrisburg running over two touchdowns in the last half of the struggle. After the game, refreshments were served to the teams, in the school. Morrisburg team are now district champions for 1934.
