Teen-agers to Organize Meeting Last Friday

Last Friday 28 interested teen-agers met in the Scout hall to talk over plans to organize a teen-agers' group. They were led in the discussion by Mrs Gordon Lannin and Keith Graham.

It was decided the matter was well worth a try and the young people entered enthusiastically into plans. Programs were discussed at length with considerable emphasis being placed on group participation. Dancing, round and square, will probably be the first project with other activities to include ping pong, music, picnics in season and other allied recreation programs.

Considerable stress was placed on the need for initiative to be shown by the young people themselves. It was felt that any recreation program would have to be sustained by the participants; the less reliance placed on the supervisors the better after the organizing was finished.

The teen-agers felt they could sell their parents on the need for adult supervisors, probably two persons, once each week. They had explained the need for group assistance from the parent body. Both Mrs Lannin and Mr Graham pointed out the vital necessity of developing the wish to assist those who were helping themselves. The parents and older members of the community would have to be the source to look for adult help and if enough volunteers could be found, the project would be a success.

Plowing Match Secretary Here Tells Of Fall Plans For Crysler

Kenneth E. Best, secretary of the local committee of the International Plowing Match, spoke at Rotary on Monday night. He described some of the things to expect in the fall here and said: "Over 100,000 people will visit the Crysler area on October 7, 8, 9, 10. They will need a lot of service and Chesterville is well within the service district."

Mr Best was the main speaker at the regular weekly meeting of the service club. He was introduced by F. M. Cass, M.L.A., who expressed the regrets of the Match chairman, Peter Manley, M.L.A., who had planned to be present but had to send his regrets at the last moment. The speaker was thanked by T. D. Ross.

A short report was given by president-elect Mel Baker of the Assembly held recently at Smiths Falls.

Huge Affair

The International Plowing Match is such a huge affair, the speaker said, that it is almost impossible to describe it. "At least 50 groups of persons will be needed for catering alone," he noted and said the usual source for these groups came from churches, service clubs and the like. Even now the many programs are taking shape. Mr Best called attention to the Farmstead Improvement Program that is underway, and said there were already over 300 farms taking part in the three counties.

Continuing the idea of a big affair, the speaker outlined some of the needs that will be met by a budget of over $50,000. Some 2,000 acres will be in use on the site near Crysler for the four days of the Match and over 200 tractors will be needed to supply the demands of the contestants. These will be borrowed, at a small fee, from local farmers and implement dealers. The same pattern is followed with horses, although the number is not so great as formerly.

Two Miles of Exhibits

The tented city will have over two miles of exhibit frontage which will present the committees with a real challenge. Water, sewage, hydro, telephones, garbage, roads, etc., must service the overnight city.

Among the many demonstrations will be a drainage setup, firefighting by the Fire Marshal's office and special interest projects of all kinds.

A most important committee will be that of the billeting group. This committee will alert the whole district shortly to the need for accomodation through the various civic organizations. By means of return cards, they hope to be able to have a close estimate by mid-summer on the amount of private accomodation available.

A feature of the Match has always been the final banquet as a windup on the last day. This year it will be held in Cornwall at the Armouries, the only place large enough. There will be 1,000 to 1,200 guests. The city has promised to pick up the tab for the affair.

Mr Best concluded his talk by urging his listeners to plan to attend the Match. "Then would be a good time to have those friends visit you from Western Ontario," he thought, "there would be no problem of entertainment."

Gladys Marcellus Bank Accountant

Miss Gladys Marcellus, popular figure in the Bank of Nova Scotia here, has been promoted to accountant, according to manager Harry Bawden. Miss Marcellus has been employed with the branch for the past 15 years. She will take the place of accountant Boyd Latourell who has been moved to the Kemptville branch after 2½ years here.

Miss Gladys Marcellus

Miss Marcellus is a daughter of Mr and Mrs Miles Marcellus, of Dunbar. Her former position as assistant accountant is filled by G. J. Cardinal, Ottawa.

Bush Tragedy Causes Death Of Worker

Tragedy struck early Wednesday morning in a district bush lot and one man is dead. He is Rene Braisbois, of Dalkeith, unmarried and about 30 years old. He was killed almost instantly by a falling limb.

An Alexandria contractor has been cutting over some of the wood lots on the W. W. Steven farm, about a mile and one half north of Morewood. The gang of four men were felling trees Wednesday morning when at about 8.30 the accident happened. It is thought Braisbois was caught by a falling limb and his head was crushed by the accident. It was his first day on the job.

Dr Duane Justus was called but he found the unfortunate man dead upon arrival. Coroner Dr Wm. Byers and provincial police from Morrisburg were called. An inquest will not be held.

ELDERLY MAN DEAD FROM HEART ATTACK

Richard Hughes, 72, father of Mrs Kenneth Stringer of Morewood, was found last night in a field where he had succumbed to a heart attack. The elderly man had gone out after dark to look for a flock of ducks to pen them for the night, and when he did not return, a search party found him.

The body is resting at the Russell Funeral Home. Besides his daughter, Mrs Stringer, he is survived by one son who lives in Huntsville.

ST. MARY'S P.T.A. ELECTS OFFICERS FOR NEW TERM

At the annual meeting of St. Mary's P.T.A., held April 16, the following executive members were elected for the new term:

Spiritual director, Rev Father Collins; honorary president, Rev Sister Mary Jane Frances; past President, Eric McMillan; president, Leonard Moriarty; vice-president, Henry Sauve; secretary, Mrs John Maxwell; treasurer, Ed Brady.

Committee chairmen: Membership, Mrs Peter De Rooy; sports, Richard Casselman; social, Mrs Fred McMahon; school health and welfare, Mrs Francis Moriarty.

Parent-teacher councillors are Rev Sister Mary Carmel, John Coyne, Mrs Francis Lynch and Mr Baker.

Arrangements were discussed for a dance to be held the latter part of May. The sports committee was asked to purchase the necessary baseball equipment for the pupils.

Following adjournment of the meeting, an enjoyable Easter party was staged by the students of St. Mary's School in the parish hall. Lunch was served by the social committee.

DAYLIGHT SAVING TIME

This coming weekend time will speed up and come Sunday clocks should be on Fast Time for the summer. At bedtime Saturday night, it would be well to set the timepieces ahead one hour if it is intended to be at church on time.

Each year at this time, clergymen expect a number of their parishioners to arrive at the church doors in time to get in on the last of the service. It will probably happen again this year. Train times and post office sorting schedules will also change but the times are not in this office as we go to press.

Sportsmen Hold Annual Banquet

Last Wednesday night Chesterville Fish and Game Association held its annual banquet in Legion Hall. It was the fourth banquet to be held by the association in the past four years and has become a high mark in the year's work. Speaker of the evening was J. P. Cuerrier, limnologist for the Dominion Wildlife Service, Ottawa.

Contest prizewinners this year all bowed to the prowess of a young lady who copped the P. J. Gilroy Trophy. She is Miss Marion Munro, of Nation Valley, and it was her fishing skill that won her the big prize.

Past president Harry Hummel officiated as chairman for the affair with the help of president Harold Windsor. The toast to the Queen was proposed by secretary Gordon Cumming and capably answered by Mrs Henry Heuff.

Outlines Problems

Mr Cuerrier gave an illustrated talk on control of coarse fish in trout waters of Canada. He outlined some of the problems encountered by the fish management people in attempting to provide adequate sport for the fishermen who throng Canadian waters.

An interesting feature of the address was Mr Currier's description of the uses of rotenone, an insecticide, to rid lakes of undesirable species. Graphic coloured slides were used by the speaker to illustrate his remarks. He was introduced by the chairman and thanked by Dr S. H. Hutt.

Forester Rae Grinnell, of the Department of Lands and Forests, Kemptville, showed an excellent movie. It was taken in the Upper Michigan peninsula and dealt with management of the deer population. That state allows only buck deer to be hunted and without the use of dogs. In spite of heavy hunting pressure, it was evident from the pictures something would have to be done to prevent a heavy winter loss through starvation due to overbrowsing the forest areas.

Mr Grinnell entered a plea to the sportsmen present to co-operate with Department men in protecting fish and game. He described some of the duties of the Lands and Forest personnel, especially in the spring, and asked that their work be lessened by proper respect to the game laws of the province.

Prizes for largest fish and deer were presented by Ken

Thieves Busy in Town Co-Op, Marcellus Meats Victims

Thieves plied their light-fingered trade again this week and last week in the village. Their total haul was little, and to date no arrests have been made.

Last Wednesday night or early Thursday morning Chesterville District Co-Op was forcibly entered. Manager John Coyne discovered the break-in when he arrived at the store on Thursday morning. Entry had been made through the north side door of the store; a pinch bar had removed the lock and part of the door jamb with one wrench.

The thieves had tried to open one of the safes but had been foiled there. They settled for a handful of axes and other tools and left.

Leon Marcellus found the till rifled Tuesday morning upon opening the meat shop. This makes the fifth time his store has been burgled. The thieves made off with about $25 in silver out of the cash drawer.

Entry had been made through the front cellar windows by someone quite familiar with the store layout. They went directly to a dumping chute in the ceiling of the basement that leads into the locker rooms. Lifting the plug door into the chute, it was easy to clamber up into the room above and walk through connecting doors into the store proper. After rifling the till, the thieves went out the front door, carefully locking it behind them.

Both breakins are being investigated by Police Chief Leonard Shane and OPP Constable Earle McDougall of the Morrisburg Detachment.

Annual Banquet Staged Last Wednesday

More Liquor Outlets?

The township of Williamsburg will hold a vote on May 12 to determine whether the electorate wants further liquor outlets in the form of cocktail lounges and bars where hard liquor is made available. The township already has a hotel that serves beer and a liquor store and brewery warehouse.

It is difficult to assess the value of such a licence in a township already so well-endowed with permits. The limited population of the area, one would think, is adequately served by the present facilities. If a bottle of red-eye is needed in case of snake bite, or a dozen beer wanted to offer the wife's relatives on a visit, the only thing to hold us back is the lack of energy to go to the liquor store or brewery warehouse.

Plenty of time is spent, as it is, in the hotels of the district. We can't see that another set-up to dispense even more potent products publically will add much economically to the township. There is apt to be an increase in certain traffic violations or the like which will increase policing costs.

The days of having a few and then giving Dobbin his head and slumbering peacefully home in the buggy are long since past. In the country there is the temptation to be a little careless and we hear the fallacy that an occasional skinful is not too sinful if one sticks to the back roads.

Licenced premises have their place in the scheme of things, but enough is enough, we think. Why add to the already numerous demands on our pocketbooks and appetites, when it would seem the district is already well-served?

Self Help Shows Up

It is interesting to find young people of the town reaching down for their own bootstraps and giving a few tentative heaves. They seem to feel a recreation program for themselves might just come into being if they do something about it.

Last Friday night, as reported elsewhere in the Record this week, a fine large number of high school students got together and decided tc organize. The object will be to generate a weekly get-together of club members for supervised activities which will include square and round dancing, ping pong and other allied games as the program develops.

A few years ago a very successful Teen Town program was carried in here. In the end it petered out through lack of enough adult interest; that is, enough people who would volunteer to carry on the supervisory duties over the long haul. This present program can head for the same fate if family interest is too little too late. The infant organization will need all the support it can get to stay rolling.

The new program is planned to be as close to being self sufficient as possible. The members will look after their own programs, decide on what regulations will be necessary and generally look to supervision as a backstop to their own ideas. Adult direction, it is hoped, will be secondary once the pattern of the weekly meeting is established. It is hoped that council will allow the teenagers use of Community Hall, and there is little doubt they will. Its purpose of existence is for community use.

We wish the youngsters well; recreation programs are hard to start and too easy to stop. With support, this one should prosper.

Return of Papyrus

The human race may go back to writing on papyrus, the paper of ancient Egypt.

With whole forests disappearing into paper mills, scientists are hunting possible substitutes for wood pulp.

Paper can be made from a variety of plants. In the southeastern United States, paper is made from sugar cane whose juice has been extracted. Abroad, it is marsh plants such as the closely related papyrus and bulrush that are being tested.

Israel has envisaged a paper mill while reclaiming the Hule swamps north of the Sea of Galilee. If the plan is realized, papyrus will again prove a boon to the Jewish people. Scholars believe that Moses's mother used papyrus for the 'basket of bulrushes" in which she placed her child.

West German scientists have reported a new process for making paper from bulrushes. The Max Planck Society's Hydro-Biological Institute at Plon, Germany, has had large quantities of bulrushes planted along the North Sea and Baltic Coasts. Requests for plants have come from Korea, Finland, Sweden and Holland.

Large plantations of bulrushes are planned on the coast of South West Africa. Belgium is developing fields in the Congo.

Papyrus paper was invented about 4,000 years ago and gradually replaced the clumsy clay tablets then in use. The paper was made by pressing and pounding together thin slices of papyrus pith. The paper was good enough to last 2,000 years in a desert climate. To make books papyrus sheets were glued end to end, forming a scroll many feet long.

Papyrus later gave way to paper made from animal skins—parchment from sheep and goats, and vellum from kids, lambs and calves. But papyrus left an indelible mark on civilization—the word "paper" is an obvious corruption of papyrus.

Marsh plants have long been used in weaving baskets, mats, and chair seats. The plants make a good animal feed.

Ancients also made boats, sails, and awnings with papyrus. They ate papyrus, raw or boiled, and dried out the roots for fuel.

Lower Egypt's vast papyrus beds where a Pharaoh's daughter found the infant Moses have disappeared due to drainage. But the plant persists in the reaches of the Upper Nile. Israel's Lake Hule has almost impenetrable fields of papyrus growing higher than a man's head.

Two centuries ago a craftsman in Sicily rediscovered the method of making papyrus paper, and it is still being produced there on a small scale.

Curiously, the modern method of making paper from wood pulp is really older than the papyrus method. Hornets knew the wood pulp process long before men. A female hornet shaves off tiny particles of wood and chews them into pulp. She spreads the pulp out in thin layers, and it dries into a tough, springy paper.

VERY FEW WOMEN WANT HER JOB

Plenty of women who are willing to work hard to help their families get along would balk at Mrs Walter Porter's job.

Four days a week she piles her two daughters into the cab of a truck and helps her husband collect garbage in Hespeler, near Galt. Her husband and his helpers pick up the garbage and toss it onto the truck.

"It's nice to get outside in the fresh air," Mrs Porter says. "I get tired of housework."

The two girls, Jane, 5, and Donna, 4, love riding in the truck. "We find lots of toys and books in the stuff we pick up," she said. "They play with them."

At the dump, Mrs Porter and her husband sort and burn the garbage after saving the waste paper which brings about $150 a month.

"We make a good living at this," Mr Porter said. "We only work 15 or 16 hours a week and I have three houses now."

For the past two years Mrs Porter has been driving the truck. Son Gerald, 14, works on the truck when school is out.

TOO HONEST

When a little girl scattered $30 from her aunt's purse near a school playground in Rhinelander, Wis., authorities had quite a collection problem. So they asked the available youngsters to help.

Now they have another problem. The kids picked up and returned $30.25.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison

Last summer the government set up a commission to look into the price spread between the producer and consumer. The group consists of representatives from the producers, the manufacturers, the wholesalers, retailers and even women from the Canadian Association of Consumers. Not long ago the commission met to hear complaints from the consumers regarding merchandising and so on. I wish I had been there to offer a few of mine.

I wish they'd put the products we buy in cans and boxes that hold an even number of pounds or ounces. I could never get more than 10% on a mental arithmetic test when I went to school and I haven't improved at all since then. So it is easy to understand how difficult it is when I attempt to figure whether a box of detergent contains 1 lb. 13 oz. is more expensive than one that has 4 lb. 5 oz. Dear knows I have trouble enough comparing the prices of 20-oz. cans of juice with 48-oz. cans. And it is hard to find out whether a 6-oz. can of concentrated juice is more expensive than a 20-oz. can of the ready-to-serve kind. I don't figure well leaning on a rubber-tired store buggy.

But like most thoughtful shoppers my big beef concerns the articles in the boxes of the products I buy. The manufacturers can call them gifts, prizes, premiums or whatever they like but I know perfectly well who is paying for them. I am.

These gifts fall into two classes. There are the ones in the cereal that are aimed at children. They annoy me. We've donated dozens of plastic bears, hockey players, toy fire engines, etc., to our friends' children and I doubt if they really appreciated them. Nevertheless I had to pay for them. And it galls me that in a free country I should have to pay for something I don't want.

In the other class is the dish towel, the bath towel, the china, etc. Did you ever notice how annoying these gifts can be? It seems the manufacturers delight in surprising us. The first box of soap contains a blue bath towel. so next time we buy a box with a face cloth. It is green. Perhaps we buy five more face cloths before we get a blue one to match the towel.

It is the same with china. Eventually we end up with two cups and seven saucers. And if we start collecting teaspoons they change the premium when we lack only one of having the half dozen.

Now, of course, the manufacturers argue that women really like these prizes because they buy the products that contain them. Certainly we buy them. If we like to eat Snapples for breakfast and we can't get a package without a toy elephant in it we have to buy the toy elephant. (And I wouldn't mind quite so much if it were a chocolate elephant.)

If they feel they really want to give me something for buying their product I wish they'd give me a coupon worth 5c or 8c on the price of another of their products. Or I'd not complain if they'd enclose a coupon I could send away for a toy train or set of sterling or something like that. That way I could choose whether or not I wanted the gift. It wouldn't be forced upon me.

This practice of printing 8c off or 15c off on the outside of the package seems to be growing in popularity. Now that is a gimmick I usually fall for. I think I'm getting a bargain. But I wish they'd stamp the package with the original price and let me do the subtracting myself. (I am capable of that kind of mental arithmetic). If the price on the box was 69c and I could take off the 7c I'd be much happier than if it said, "You pay 62c." Then I have to wonder all the way home if the original price was really 7c more.

Modern merchandising is quite a business. Big companies hire psychologists to analyse us when and figure out what makes us buy. Then they set up traps for us in the big supermarkets that get us when our defences are down. Unfortunately, for the consumer, these clever sales promotion ideas usually work and we buy much more than we intended.

There are many, many wise shoppers however who are penny-

The Rocky Mountains were probably first sighted by Francois and Louis Joseph de La Verendrye in 1743.

FOR APPEARANCES

A Sioux who plans to practise medicine Indian style bid high at a post office auction for four human skulls held at St. Louis.

Chief Pushmorhortor said he plans to become a medicine man in "all those places you ordinarily find Indians—Oklahoma, Detroit and Chicago."

Pushmorhortor acknowledged that the skulls won't contribute to curative powers. But he said they would provide the professional appearance which is so important.

He paid $37 for the skulls, outbidding four others.

An appropriate worship service on the theme, "Jesus, the Friend of All People," was conducted by Lorraine Brownlee, with Brenda Merkley and Brian Docksteader assisting.

We want to walk with you beyond
The clouds that gather rain,
Into the land where dreams come true
And nothing is in vain.

Robert C. Bogart, 83

The death occurred last Friday of a well-known citizen of Chesterville and district when Robert C. Bogart passed away. He was in his 83rd year and would have celebrated his birthday on the 20th of next month.

Mr Bogart was the son of the late John Bogart and his wife, May Empey. He was born in Finch Township and spent most of his long life in the Berwick district. He married Amanda Wells, of Hoasic, in 1896. Born to the marriage were four children, two girls and two boys. A son, Gordon, was killed in an auto accident in 1953; surviving are Mrs Fay Droppo (Ella May), of Chesterville; Mrs Bernard Shaver (Velma Spray), Ottawa, and Ernest, Toronto. Mrs Bogart died in July, 1955.

Interested always in church life, Mr Bogart was an elder of Berwick United Church for many years and just lately had transferred his membership to Trinity United Church here. He was a long-time reeve of Finch Township and had been warden of the Three United Counties. He was a member of L.O.L. and Finch A.F. & A.M.

Mr Bogart took over management of Bogart Motor Sales here upon the death of his son, Gordon, on June 5, 1953. Of late, increasing years and uncertain health has curtailed his activities and his grandson, Garnet Droppo, has taken much of the mangerial duties.

Service was held in Trinity United Church on Monday, with the Rev E. B. Bugden and the Rev C. A. Dukelow officiating. Interment was made in Maple Ridge Cemetery.

Get-out-the-vote Appeal Being Made In Williamsburg Township

The "Get Out Your Vote Association" was organized in Williamsburg United Church on Thursday night, April 17, with Frank Merkley being elected president.

The Association (GOYVA) is opposed to the licensing of cocktail lounges and dining rooms for the sale of hard liquors with or without meals. The subject is to be voted on in Williamsburg Township on May 12 as a result of a by-law passed by the township council early in February.

H. B. McConnell, field secretary of the Ontario Temperance Federation, was present at the organizational meeting which sat under the chairmanship of Milton Shaver, manager for the dry vote. Mr McConnell answered several questions during the meeting and showed samples of the ballots that will be used. He advised the meeting that it takes effort and sacrifice of time and money to win a vote against a well-financed "Wet" campaign.

The speaker also quoted statements of the Toronto City Police who said that arrests for drunkenness had increased 50% since cocktail lounges were introduced into that city 10 years ago, and of Dr E. M. Jellinek, of the World Health Organization, who said that the countries with the most restrictive laws have the least acute problem with alcohol. Mr McConnell also advised the meeting to make sure that they encourage electors to mark their ballots with X opposite the word "No" in the forthcoming voting.

Other officers of the organization were Wilbert Garlough who was elected secretary; Geo. Hill, chairman of the organization, and Mrs G. L. Barclay, elected treasurer.

Rev A. Blackwell, of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, was present to open the meeting with prayer and close with benediction.

We regret to report that Mrs Fred Forward is in Civic Hospital suffering from a broken hip.
