668 at Evening Classes

The evening technical classes opened at the High School, Cornwall, on Nov 10th, with a total enrollment of 668, which perhaps establishes a record for numbers of any town or city in Ontario where such classes have been opened. It was at first intended to hold the classes on Monday and Friday nights. but the number desiring to increase their knowledge has made it necessary to devote four nights each week to the work. The nights selected are Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

The staff of teachers include several High School teachers, with H. B. Fetterly, M.A., principal of the High School, as principal of the technical staff. The subject of dressmaking has an enrollment of 200, arithmetic and English 160, tpyewriting and stenography 100, cookery 75, millinery, electricity and chemistry about 25 each. The establishment of the school was the result of action by the High School Board and citizens of the town following an address by Dr. Merchant of Toronto, director of technical education for Ontario, given there a few weeks ago.

Many buildings are Erected

The continued healthy growth of Smith's Falls is shown to advantage in a report just given by the building inspector. There have been seventy-one new buildings erected in town this summer at an approximate cost of $220,000.

There is probably not another town of this size in the province can show such a record of new business for one season, and there is no boom on, but a steady substantial growth. People are showing their confidence in the town, and the new buildings, mostly residences, are all occupied or will be when completed.

National Council of Women ask for a Charter

An application will be made at the next session of the Dominion Parliament for an act incorporating the National Council of Women of Canada. The wording of this will be "For the purpose of uniting in a Dominion federation all societies and associations of women interested in philanthrophy, religion, education, art, literature and social reform, and for the betterment of conditions pertaining to the family and to the home."

Died In Oregon

In the city of Oregon on Friday, the 24th of Oct., 1913, there passed away to the better land, Bell, the beloved wife of William T. Forward, who was born and brought up in Chesterville, but for over twenty years has resided on the Pacific coast. She had been ailing for some time with heart trouble and passed away very suddenly before help could be of use. She leaves to mourn her great loss her husband and three children, two little boys and one little girl.

The remains were taken from the Congregational church and interred in Mount View cemetery.

This Girl a Heroine.

The action of an 8-year-old girl averted what might have been an accident with fatal consequences to many passengers on the Ottawa to Montreal C. P. R. train Sunday night. Sitting in the window of her father's house close by the station at Caledonia Springs, she noticed a large dark object glide along the tracks. She ran out to her father, a section foreman and found him in the railroad yard. He paid little attention to her story but upon her persistence he started an investigation and found that a freight car had been blown off the siding and was making its way towards Alfred station.

He knew the Ottawa express would soon leave Alfred for the Springs and that a collision would occur. A hand car was procured and the chase began. After twenty minutes the frieght car was overtaken and blocked.

They then commenced the ride to Alfred station fortunately only a few minutes distant. Swinging the red lanterns they were successful in stopping the express which had just left the depot.

The train was 15 minutes late in arriving at Alfred and it is likely that speed would have been put on to Caledonia Springs and a nasty wreck resulted.

Succeesful Social of Ladies of Congregation of Trinity Methodist Church.

The Social and Chicken Pie Supper given by the ladies of the congregation of Trinity Methodist church, Wednesday evening, brought out a large crowd and proved most enjoyable and successful. From 6 to 8.15 o'clock the supper room was crowded with guests from the different parts of the circuit. The lady members of the congregation sent in bountiful supplies and the feast spread was such as to satisfy the taste of the variest epicure.

A most enjoyable program was carried out in the lecture hall after supper, consisting of addresses by Revs. W. T. Keough, Elma, and Elwood James, Morewood. Piano solo by Master Cornelius Fetterly, Japanese song by Mrs. James, formerly Miss Alice Timberlake, reading, Rev. W. H. Stevens and song Miss Amy Beattie. During the evening the autograph quilt was on exhibition. Mrs. Ingram Smith, President of the Ladies Aid, presented Mrs. Jas. Cunningham with the same. Mrs. Cunningham so successfully carried out the canvas that $125 had been realized. This amount went in the treasury of the Ladies Society. Mrs. Cunningham in thanking the society said it had been a great pleasure to do this work. The social closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

Fair May be Discontinued

Evidently the Prescott Agricultural Fair, one of the oldest in the Province of Ontario, has been held for the last time. Public notice has been given calling a meeting of the members to take into consideration the advisability of disposing of the lands of the Society to the corporation for park purposes. The Fair has been going down hill for several years and the recent Fall exhibition, which experienced unfavorable weather every day, proved a knockout-blow.

Wants Damages.

Mr. John Mills of Merrickville is claiming $900 damages to his mill property in the village of Merrickville and Judge Reynolds is to arbitrate on the claim on Wednesday of next week. Some time ago the village Council repaired the street in front of the Mills property and it is alleged raised the grade so that the street now drains into the mill. Mr. Mills says it will cost him $900 to raise the floor.

Temperance Works.

The Field Day work of the Alliance is this year meeting with great success. This work consists in the holding, upon the same day, of Sunday services in most of the churches of a county, at which service pulpits are supplied by special deputations of Alliance workers. Sometimes there are more than a hundred of such services in one day. The field occupied for the remainder of this year, before the work is dropped for the Local Option campaign that will culminate on January 5th, is as follows: Nov. 9th, Toronto; Nov. 16th, Victoria and Haliburton; Nov. 23rd, Bruce; Nov. 30th, Glengarry, Russell and Prescott; Dec. 7th, Middlesex and London. In these services the Alliance is reaching the great many people and doing a great amount of very valuable educating of the public sentiment.

Some change has taken place in the list of Local Option campaigns now under way. Some of the municipalities failed to present in time their petitions for submission of by-laws. The number of by-laws to be voted upon as far as now reported is forty-four. The liquor party have already secured the submission of repeal by-laws in ten Local Option municipalities. There are seven Canada Temperance Act campaigns under way. This makes a total of sixty-one contests that will be fought out at the polls in the near future.

The courts have decided that the licenses issued this year in the village of Aurora are legal. A section of the License Act provides that when a Local Option by-law has been declared carried at the polls, but it is subsequently quashed by the courts, no licenses may be issued in the municipality affected without the special consent of the Provincial Secretary. When Aurora voted the municipal clerk declared the by-law approved. At a subsequent recount it was shown that one vote had been cast illegally, and the court ruled that evidence could be taken as to how the illegal ballot was marked, and that he therefore could not certify the by-law as having the necessary three-fifths vote. The action in question was taken to decide whether or not the commissioners could issue licenses under the circumstances without the consent of the Hon. Mr. Hanna. The courts have now held that the clause mentioned does not apply in as much as there was not really a by law in the case, no third reading of the proposed by-law having been given by the municipal council.

In the town of Orillia some opponents of Local Option presented to the council a petition praying for the submission of a repeal by-law. It was proposed that if repeal should succeed, applications would be made only for wine and beer licenses and it was argued that such a licensing plan would be in the interest of "true temperance." After a strenuous effort, however, the repealers succeeded in securing only thirty-two signatures to their petition and some of those who signed were aliens and not entitled to vote. The movement was so manifestly insignificant and unpopular that the council properly refused to take any action concerning it.

New Superintendent for Methodists.

Toronto, Nov. 7—The World says: "One of the most important changes to be made at the coming quadrennial session of the Methodist General Conference will be the election of a third general superintendent. When the various Methodist sects in Canada united thirty years ago provision was made in the constitution for 'one or more general superintendents from the ministers of the church by ballot without debate.'

"As Dr. Carman is now 81, and for other reasons Eastern Canada Methodism is knocking at the door for a general superintendent, Rev. S. P. Rose, D. D., is regarded as the outstanding man for the position of general superintendent.

"Dr. Rose, now of Montreal, was, until recently, pastor of Sherbourne street Methodist church, of Toronto. He is of a judical turn of mind and is regarded as ahead of Dr. Chown, who is looked upon as broadminded.

Scott Act Voting Likely on the 24th

Ottawa, Nov. 6—The date of voting on the Canada temperance act (commonly known as the Scott act) in Huron, Peel and Welland will probably be fixed by the Secretary of State for November 24th Jas. P. Haverson, K.C , of Toronto, counsel for the Licensed Victuallers' Association, was here today in connection with the matter. The opposing sides could not agree on a date for the voting, and the Secretary of State has been asked to make the decision. In the case of the five or six other municipalities from which applications have been received for a vote on the Scott act, the date will not be fixed until the voters' lists have been revised.

MR. ALEX. McCARTER

WALKERTON ONT., MAY 9th. 1911.

"I have been in Walkerton in business for a good many years and many of my townsmen know that my health, for long periods was precarious. My trouble was extreme Nervousness, brought on by Indigestion and Dyspepsia, from which I suffered in the most severe form. It was so bad that I could not sleep before about four in the morning. I noticed one of your published testimonials of how someone had used "Fruit-a-tives" for similar trouble and asked Mr. Hunter, my druggist, his opinion on the matter and he advised their use. I immediately procured several boxes and I am pleased to say that I now enjoy splendid health and could not possibly feel better. I can eat with every degree of satisfaction and sleep without an effort. I strongly advise anyone suffering from like complaints, to commence using "Fruit-a-tives". ALEX. McCARTER.

Manitoba Indians Pass Resolution to Guard Against Fire.

Probably nowhere else in Canada is there a stronger co-operative spirit in forest fire protection that has been developed by the Chief Fire Ranger of the Dominion Government among the rangers, Indians, trappers and packers of the Northern Manitoba Fire District. The work among the Indians has been especially beneficial, for in the past they were notoriously careless, especially in leaving camp-fires burning. But, largely owing to the energy and initiative of the Chief Ranger, the attitude of the Indians has been changed from one of indifference to one of keen interest, so much so, that that official writes: 'The conversation of the forests has become as red-hot a topic out here as real estate in the West.'

Recently, when treaty-money was being paid to the Indians at Cross Lake, a special conncil meeting of seventy-five to eighty Indians was called, at whfch an animated discussion of forest fire protection took place. The Chief Ranger writes:—'While the meeting was in progress, the Indian Agent and party came, but to the surprise of many the meeting held interest still, by a standing vote, all asserted their willingness to help in the protection of the forests from the fire. The chief and councillors wished me to convey to the Director of Forestry at Ottawa fair, their principal.

Whenever possible such councils are attended by the Chief Ranger, and all Indians promising to co-operate with the Dominion rangers are presented with a metal badge of office. The most intelligent of the Indians are engaged as regular fire-rangers by the Dominion Government and do very conscientious work. Although the patrol is difficult, being done wholly by canoe, and the weather is often inclement, the eighteen fire-rangers in this district average about eighteen miles a day, including Sundays, throughout the summer.

During the whole season, no serious damage was done by fire although many incipient forest fires were extinguished, a fact that speaks well for the efficiency of the patrol and the value of the co-operative spirit inculcated in the Indians.

He will Manage Town by Himself

Morris, Minn., Nov. 8—After the last of January Morris is going to be "run" or managed, by a town expert, by a man whose specialty is town management, who has been trained by education and experience for just such work.

This is to follow as the result of a change in the plan of government adopted at a recent election. Morris is going under a commission form of government, in other words.

The commission is to consist of three men, one of whom will have the title of mayor. These three men will be responsible for the government of the city.

But the real control of the city, the executive management, will be in the hands of a trained expert.

The Weighing of Butter and Cheese

For a considerable time persistent complaints were made to officers of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, by producers and vendors of dairy produce in Eastern Ontario and Quebec regarding the unsatisfactory methods by which butter and cheese were weighed in Montreal. So numerous were the charges and so serious the allegations that it was considerated necessary by the Government to have the matter properly investigated. Consequently in the summer of 1913 a Royal Commission was appointed. The investigation by this Commission covered several months and involved the taking of evidence at many points and from many people who were considered likely to be able to shed light on the subject.

The Commission, consisting of R. A. Pringle, Chairman, A. J. Hodgson and S. J. Macdonell, completed their work some time ago and presented their report to the Honorable the Minister of Agriculture. In this, the advisability of amending the Act respecting the weighing, measuring and gauging of certain articles of general consumption is recommended, as well as the appointment, under the control and direction of the Dairy and Cold Storage Commissioner, of a competent official, with headquarters at Montreal, who shall be charged with the duty of investigating the weights of cheese when shortages arise

The report of the Commission, consisting of a pamphlet of 17 pages, is ready to be sent to those who apply for it to the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa.

A Necessary Food Supply

Some comparisions of records indicate what infinitely better returns some dairymen obtain from their cows than do other owners of herds. One lot of milk, testing 3.4, delivered at a factory last month was 21,580 pounds, the yield of 20 cows in two herds. Two other herds also totalling 20 cows and producing 3.4 milk gave only 12,380 pounds during the same month. These are not extreme comparisions because in many known cases the test was lower and the total pounds of fat delivered would be consequently far lower. Apart, however, from the weight of fat and the monetary value of the milk, think of one group of 20 cows giving in one month four and a half tons of milk more than the other group.

It needs no stretch of the imagination to picture the consternation there would be if Canadian cows in general were as poor as these 20 Ontario cows; people need milk, plenty of it, as a good nutritious and cheap food in these days of high prices. But if poor cows with only low yields are kept, where would be this necessary and universally appreciated food supply?

Fortunately, through systematic cow testing, these comparisions are possible, so that an incentive is furnished to every owner of a herd to keep cows more worthy the name of 'dairy' cows. Simple records, easily kept, give definite information, acting as guide posts to herds bred and fed for large yields.

Trying Hard to Quiet Row in S. Lanark.

Strenuous efforts are being made to settle the difference in South Lanark between Dr. Hanna, the convention nominee, and Colonel Balderson, who has announced his determination to run.

Col. Balderson has been approached several times and has discussed his intrusion with Premier Bordon, Hon. Thos. Crothers, Hon. W. T. White, Hon. G. E. Perley and Hon. A. E. Kemp.

The Prime Minister, with the aid of the whole Ontario cabinet representation has been unable to shake the determination of Col. Balderson to run. The task of taming him has now been given to Hon. Robert Rogers and Col. Balderson has responded to an order to come to Ottawa and discuss the matter.

Col. Balderson claims that the convention which named Dr. Hanna was not representative and was irregularly constituted, having been packed by the Conservative bosses of South Lanark. He told Hon. Mr. Rogers that he was willing to abide by the decision of a properly chosen convention. He declared that if another and a proper convention were not held he would run as independent Conservative and had no doubt as to the verdict which the people would give.

Hon. Mr. Rogers endeavored to extract from Col. Balderson a promise that he would retire if a Liberal were nominated in the riding. Col. Balderson, knowing the reputation of Mr. Rogers, declined to give this undertaking. It is understood he feared that if Mr. Rogers secured such a promise he would see that a third candidate calling himself a Liberal placed himself in nomination.

—The writ for the by-election will not be issued for a while yet and in the meantime efforts to settle the family row will be continued.

Importation and Transit of Horses

The Department of Agriculture of Canada is in receipt of a new Order issued by the Board of Agriculture at London, England, entitled "Horses,(Importation and Transit,) Order of 1913."

In Chapter 1 of this Order it is provided that horses, asses and mules brought to Great Britian from abroad must be accompanied by a veterinary certificate of freedom from symptoms of glanders (including farcy, epizootic lymphangitis, ulcerative lymphangitis, dourine, horse-pox, sarcoptic mange, psoroptic mange, influenza, ringworm, or strangles, instead of, as at present, from symptoms of glanders, (including farcy,) only.

The provisions of Chapter 1 of the Horses (Importation and Transit,) Order of 1912, which in effect required horses, asses or mules, brought from abroad to be either accompanied by a License of the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries or to be examined at a place of detention at the port of landing, are entirely withdrawn.

This Order came into operatiou on 1st October, 1913.

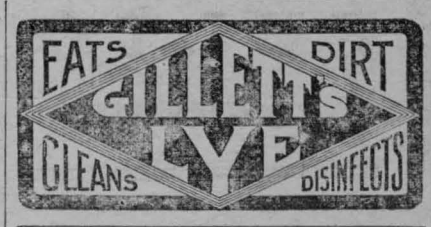
John Lowe's Death

Ottawa, Nov. 7—John Lowe, ex-Deputy Minister of Agriculture, died here tonight in his 90th year. He was born at Warrington, England, in 1824. From 1850 to 1870 he was senior editor and proprietor of The Montreal Gazette, in the latter years entering the Dominion public service as Census Officer, and later as Assistant Deputy and Deputy Minister of Agriculture. He retired in 1895.

Abolition of bars in hotels, collection of revenue on percentage basis instead of by fixed licensed fees, and reduction of licenses in cities and towns, are expected to be recommended by the License Commission, whose report is to be presented to the Quebec Legislature.



Legal Battle Over Estate

Toronto, Nov. 8—The biggest will case that has projected itself into the Ontario courts for many a decade is the battle royal that has commenced around the $558,989.25 estate of the late George Alexander McVicar of Port Arthur, who died at Naples, Italy, on March 2nd, 1913.

The importance of the issues involved so appealed to Chief Justice Falconridge at Osgoode Hall today, that he made an order transferring the action from the Surrogate Court to the Supreme Court.

Under the will made by McVicar on October 17, 1912, he left one-third of his estate to his wife, Helen McVicar, and two-thirds to be held in trust for his children. If he died without children it was provided that three-quarters of his estate should pass to his wife and one-quarter to his niece, Christina Kains.

Application for probate was made by W. F. Langworthy, one of the executors, and caveats were filed against it by a number of claimants who dispute the will.

Two claimants, represented by F. Aylesworth, one of whom is R. L. F. Strathy, allege that the will was secured by undue influence at a time when the testator was mentally incapable and they further declare that Helen Elma McVicar was not at any time his wife. They ask that the will be set aside.

Mrs. Beemer Not Guilty.

Woodstock, Ont. Nov. 7—There was another very large crowd on hand this morning to hear addresses of the counsel and Judge Kelley's charge to the jury in the Beemer murder trial.

Judge Kelly summed up the evidence, and the case went to the jury at 12.10 p. m.

At 1.45 p.m., the jury returned with a verdict of "Not guilty," and the woman was accordidgly discharged.

Mrs. Beemer seated in the prisoner's dock, her head bowed and tears in her eyes, did not change her attitude in the the least. A few in the audience clapped their hands and attempted to start a demonstration, but officers put down the attempt with a firm hand.

Judge Kelly, in discharging the prisoner, said that in view of all the circumstances there was no fault to be found with the verdict. On the evidence it might have been possible to bring in another verdict, but in his opinion the jury had exercised their right satisfactorily to all parties.

Mrs. Beemer was let out of the dock by the deputy sheriff and she walked alone to the sheriff's office, where she immediately picked up her few week's old baby.

George Ham as a Judge.

(Toronto Saturday Night).

George Ham, of the C. P. R., was a good many years ago an alderman of the City of Winnipeg. This gave to him the right at that time to sit as a Justice of Peace. A compositor on one of the papers had been arrested for carrying a little too much liquor inside his personality. George Ham was called upon during the absence or sickness of the ordinary occupant of the bench to act as a J. P. The accused, delighted at the fact of Ham being the judge, cheerfully pleaded "guilty." To his horror he was addressed as follows: "Prisoner, the sentence of the court upon you is that you be taken to the place in which you were last confined and there be hanged by the neck until you be dead, and may the Lord have mercy on your soul." The man gazed in horror. "Or," continued the judge, "you may pay the costs of this court and go home."

This was the only case in which the alderman presided as a judge, "as," he says, "that was the only great criminal case in which I was ever a principal."

Turner Pleaded Guilty to Bigamy

Ottawa, Nov. 7--A. S. L. Turner, who was arrested in Montreal and brought here on a charge of bigamy, today pleaded guilty and was sent to Central Prison for one year. Both his wives were in court and when Turner was brought in they rushed in and tearfully embraced him. The magistrate told the prisoner that the forgiving attitude of the women earned him the light sentence.

The congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Guelph, surprised Rev. H. E. Abraham, their pastor for now two years, with a check for $500.

Married Woman Weds her Grandnephew

Toronto, Nov. 8—Mrs. Hattie Fountain apparently about 40 years of age, made her appearance in the woman's court yesterday on a charge of bigamy. It is alleged that recently she married her own grandnephew, her sister's grandson, while her first husband was yet alive.

W. J. Fountain, formerly of Renfrew, who is the first husband, was present and stated the marriage was celebrated about 28 years ago at a place called Camden. He had an order of separation dated July 1903.

Nelson Godfrey, the young man in the case, is only 27, and speaking of him Mrs. Fountain said: "I met him up in Renfrew, where I had been, then I came back here and we married." Regarding Fountain, the woman stated she was only 13 years old when he came to her stepmother's house in Renfrew. He took her one night to some village and some sort of ceremony was performed, but right after that she was very sick and could not remember anything of it. She asked later to see the certificate, and the stepmother said it had been spoiled, so she did not see it.

The case was sent on to the county court and will be tried by Judge Morgan in two weeks. Mrs. Fountain goes free on $1,000 bail.

Arnprior Man Killed on Track

Arnprior, Nov. 8—While Mr. John Mulcahy was returning home along the C.P.R. track on Tuesday evening, he noticed the body of a man lying beside the track. He afterwards procured a lantern and, returning with a couple of boys, recognized the man as James Craig, who lived near the track about half way between Arnprior and Braeside.

Coroner Armstrong of Arnprior, was notified, who proceeded to the scene of the accident and found the man dead with his head and one leg badly mutilated.

The remains were afterwards removed to Hubbell's morgue, and a jury was formed and met in the council chamber, which, deliberating a short, brought in a verdict of accidental death, due to injuries received by being struck by a C.P.R train, the fault being directly that of deceased, who was about 65 years of age.

Preparing to Erect Church and College.

Kingston, Nov. 6—Archbishop Spratt has purchased a large tract of land intersecting Thomas street and facing Russell street. Here he intends in the near future to erect a modern church and college to relieve the congestion at St. Mary's Cathedral and to cope with the growth of the city in the north end. It has for some time been his Grace's intention to form a new parish such as Portsmouth. At this time, when the present Regopolis College building on King street has become inadequate to meet the demands and has been sold to Jas. Richardson & Sons, the Archbishop plans to replace it on Russell street along with the new church.

Specialist Could Not Remove Stone In The Bladder

GIN PILLS PASSED IT

JOLIETTE, P. Q.

"During August last, I went to Montreal to consult a specialist as I had been suffering terribly with Stone in the Bladder.

He decided to operate but said the stone was too large to remove and too hard to crush. I returned home and was recommended by a friend to try GIN PILLS.

They relieved the pain. I took two boxes and went back to the specialist. He said the stone was smaller but he could not remove it although he tried for two hours and a half. I returned home and continued to take GIN PILLS, and to my great surprise and joy, I passed the stone.

GIN PILLS are the best medicine in the world and because they did me so much good, I will recommend them all the rest of my life". 170

Hunter is Killed near White Lake.

Arnprior, Nov. 8—The first victim of a deer hunt in a long time in these parts was Mr. Thos. Deleury of Douglas, who met instant death near White Lake. He and some friends were hunting in the bush and in the evening about nine o'clock the victim and his brother were walking almost side by side when a bullet from behind struck him in the back and went right through him, the ball coming out in the region of the heart.

The unfortunate man dropped instantly to the ground and almost without a murmur he expired. His brother called loudly for help and soon over twenty hunters were on the scene and the body was carried to White Lake where the coroner was notified.

The late Mr. Deleury is about 55 years of age, and is a widower, but leaves three children to mourn his death.

Secures $5,000 on Fake Estates.

Toronto, Nov. 10—When Cecil Irwin was placed under arrest in the offices of the Trusts and Guarantee Company Saturday afternoon what is believed to be one of the cleverest swindles which has ever been perpetrated in Toronto was brought to light. By the work of Irwin the Trnsts and Guarantee Company within the last few weeks has lost nearly $5,000.

Recently Irwin's mother died and left him a small legacy, which he quickly spent. Shortly after her death he started a small business in the Dineen building, selling stationery supplies to down town offices.

It is alleged that recently he drew up a bogus will in which he and his father were named as executors. Under the terms of this will he was beneficiary to the extent of $15,000 in the shape of real estate throughout the city. Irwin then drew up an affidavit, it is claimed, by which his father withdrew his powers as executor, leaving Irwin with the power to administer the estate. With these documents he went to the trust company and explained to them that owing to the fact that he was not conversant with business methods he would like them to handle the estate for him.

After viewing the documents that Irwin presented to them they accepted the administration of the estate. Shortly after they had done so Irwin asked if he could obtain $3,000, as he was badly in need of funds. The trust company acceded to his request. A few days afterward he again asked for money, obtaining $525. When this had been spent he returned to the office of the company and was able to obtain $1,000.

Irwin's request for money had been too frequent, and the trust company became suspicious. They examined the affidavit and sent employees to the different houses which Irwin claimed his mother had owned. They then learned that they had been swindled. A warrant was asked for Irwin's arrest, and when he answered a call to the company's office Saturday afternoon the police were waiting for him.

Irwin was released on bail of $5,000 furnished by his father. It is said that he admitted to the police when placed under arrest that both will and affidavit had been forged.

They arrived in the city from Regina at 3.10 and were placed under arrest at 3.30 by Chief Detective Springer of the local detective department. Scarth when arrested was about to lift a plant containing, among other things, enough nitro-gylcerine to more than blow every safe in Saskatoon. He was also fully armed, having two 38 calibre and one 32 calibre revolvers. In addition, he carried five pounds of dynamite, partly cooked, fifty feet of fuse, one hundred rounds of ammunition, caps, tape, candle and flashlight.

Presentation at W.M.S. Meeting Chesterville Methodist Church.

The members of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity Methodist church, at the regular meeting last Wednesday afternoon, took occasion to say "Good-bye" to their former president, Mrs. C. L. Casselman, who has just taken up residence at Winchester. The presentation of a "Brooch" was made by Mrs. Jacob Merkley, 1st. Vice-President. The retiring President expressed her deep regret in leaving and warmly thanked the members of the society for the following address:—

To Mrs. C. Lee Casselman:
President Woman's Missionary Society,
Trinity Methodist Church,
Chesterville, Ont.

Dear Mrs. Casselman:—

To me has fallen the pleasant task of voicing the members of our Society in view of our loss in your departure from our midst. It is a pleasure to speak of one who has been so faithful in office as you have been, but this message is also tinged with sadness for we shall surely miss your presence at our meetings.

While in membership we are materically strong, the number of faithful ones is not large. The regular monthly meeting which should be regarded as a standing engagement to be kept, and a rare occasion for mountain top experience in which we get a clear outlook of the scope of the Divine Master's Kingdom has not the attendance that our membership would warrant. Our Society appreciate your untiring fidelity at all times, and not only hope but confidently beleive that your example in earnest endeavor to Woman's Work for women will be a fitting inspiration to others to do likewise. We are assured that you will continue the good work wherever you are.

In asking you to accept this "Brooch" we do so with sincere good wishes, genuine sorrow in your departure from our Church and Town and the certain belief that God's rich blessing will attend you and yours.

On behalf of the Women's Missionary Society

MRS. JACOB MERKLEY,
1st Vice-President.

Send Crlminals to Lumber Camp

Kingston, Ont., Nov. 12—To save young criminals from the associations of Portsmouth Penitentiary, an experiment in parole is now considered by the federal authorities, and is likely to be tried this winter. Fifty young prisoners, now serving terms in the Portsmouth Penitentiary or other federal prisons, will be sent into lumber camps throughout the Dominion next year under the personal charge of men employed by the Canada Reading Camp Association.

The scheme originated with G. M. McDonnell, K.C., a member of the commission investigating conditions at the penitentiary, and is a direct result of that enquiry.

The youths will be given work in the woods as axemen.

Carried Severed Ear to Hospital

He was only slightly dazed by the fall, and taken to the Western Hospital, carrying with him his ear that had been picked off the ground.

At the hospital his ear was immediately sewed on. It is reported that the injured man is doing well, and the doctors expect his ear will be as good as ever.

GREAT LAKES ARE GIVING UP THEIR DEAD

Scores of Lives Were Lost and Property Loss Runs into Millions

Chicago, Nov. 11—The shores of Lake Superior, Lake Huron and Lake Erie were strewn tonight with the wreckage of a three days' gale and snow storm which cost the lives of probably three-score persons, sent a $100,00 freighter to the bottom, turned bottom up in mid-lake a three-hundred foot vessel with its crew, wrecked or grounded numerous craft, and caused a property loss as yet unestimated, but which will run into the miliions.

The details of the storm, which literally swept from the western end of Lake Superior to the eastern shore of Lake Erie, became known only today when survivors began arriving in various ports with tales of hardships and heroic rescues seldom equalled on the Lakes.

On land the storm hit hardest at Cleveland, Ohio, where 21 inches of snow fell, five persons were killed and ten others lost, and where $2,000,000 damage was caused to property, chiefly telegraph and telephone companies, thus keeping that town out of direct communication for two days. The death toll, with many towns unreported, is thus told—

Twenty-five, perhaps forty, men, probably drowned in the overturning Regina found floating in Lake Huron.

Five bodies washed ashore at St. Joseph, off the Canadian side of Lake Huron. (Four had belts marked "Wexford" and one wore a belt marked "London.")

Three bodies washed ashore on the west shore of Lake Huron.

Two bodies washed ashore opposite the position of the overturned boat.

Six members of a lightship drowned, in Lake Erie, near Buffalo, N.Y.

The escapes from death were numerous. After the storm about Friday midnight had blown away the forward part of the ship, Captain J. W. Dussleston, of the steamer L. C. Waldo, navigated by a small, inaccurate compass, and the aid of a lantern held by a sailor. In this way he guided himself and crew to a reef, where the crew on landing suffered intense cold and hunger until their rescue today.

The crew of the Turret Chief, when the ship struck the rocks in Lake Superior, were forced to go ashore scantily clad. They built a hut to protect them from the blizzard

It was impossible even to estimate the loss to vessels wrecked or damaged by grounding. Shippers in Detroit estimated the loss in Lake Huron and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers alone to be several hundred thousand dollars. Three of the wrecked steamers increase the loss by $500,000, while the scores of smaller craft driven ashore in Lake Superior and Lake Erie will send the total much higher.

All Collingwood Mourns.

Collingwood, Ont., November 11.—The news of the loss of the lake freighter Wexford, which was received here this afternoon, has shrouded the town in a sadness such as has not prevailed for many years. So many wives and families have been bereaved that the whole town mourns.

Captain Bruce Cameron, who was master of the ill-fated steamer, belonged to a family of mariners. He was a son of the late Captain A. C. Cameron, and was born in Collingwood and had sailed on the lakes for the past ten years. The captain was an enthusiastic hockey player, and on different occasions has participated in games for the Ontario championship. He leaves a widow, his mother and two brothers.

Archibald Brooks, second officer of the Wexford, was a young man who had sailed for several years. James Scott, chief engineer, had also been on the lake steamers for several seasons. He was married and leaves a family.

Richard Loughheed, assistant engineer, had also had some years' experience on the lakes. Orrin Gordon and Allan Dodson, watchmen, were also natives of this town. Both were unmarried.

George Wilmott, an Englishman who has been in Collingood but a short time, was another of the crew He had charge of the steward's department. His wife was with him on the vessel. He, with Mrs. Wilmott, had contemplated returning to Bristol on the close of the season. On the trip down, while passing through the Soo, he mailed a letter to the local agent containing his deposit for the reservation which he intended taking up early in December.

A meeting was held in the Methodist church on Thursday evening last to decide on an entertainment. They decided to have a tea meeting and lecture to be held some time the last of November.

A business meeting was held in the cheese factory on Wednesday evening last to decide if they would ship the milk or make cheese. The majority of the patrons were in favor of having their milk manufactured into cheese, as they would be put to considerable inconvenience delivering their milk at the station.

The pupils of the local school and their parents regret that the teacher, Miss Beal, is indisposed and had to be removed to her parental home at Smith's Falls. All trust ere long she may be able to return and resume her work. At present there is no teacher and some of the children are attending the neighboring schools.

The following were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Simser last week: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Grandaw, Mr. and Mrs. Hurcey Bush, Mr. and Mrs Barney Hollister, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Otto, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brownell, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Rupert, Mr. H. T. Bowman and Mr. H. Z. Barkley, Newington; and Mrs G. Dunbar.

A very pleasant social party numbering about fifty friends and neighbors gathered as a surprise at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Simser on Monday evening. Games and music were indulged in and the seven Sutherland sisters were present to assist in the merry-making. Light refreshments were served by the ladies. At a late hour the assemblage broke up, all leaving for their respective homes well pleased with their evening's enjoyment.

There was deep sorrow in the community when the sad news was received of the death of Miss Eva Summers, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Summers of Bush Glen, which sad event occurred on Tuesday morning, the 28th ult., after about ten days' illness, from typhoid fever. Eva will be much missed in the home as she was a kind and lovable girl, ever considering the wants of those about her before she gave thought of herself. She was 19 years of age. Her illness was borne with Christian patience. She selected the hymns which were sung at her funeral and left many a word of comfort to the sorrowing ones. Although she rapidly failed, her friends could not think she was so near her end until the night of her death, when God saw fit to take her to a home where there is no pain or suffering. She leaves to mourn the loss of a promising young life a loving father, mother, two brothers and three sisters, viz.: Mrs. Frank W. Rombough of this place; Missss Ruby and Pearl, and Masters Foster and Irwin. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon from her home to the Pleasant Valley Church, where Rev. Mr. Floyde, Rector of Aultsville, officiated, after which the remains were interred in the family plot in the Pleasant Valley cemetery. Several floral tributes were placed on the casket, including a beautiful spray from Miss Irene and Master Russell Summers, cousins, Cornwall. The pall-bearers were Angus and Frank Brownell, Walter Bush, Charlie Brownell, Kenneth Alguire and Arnot Moak. Those present from a distance were Mrs. S. Summers, Cornwall; Mr. and Mrs. R. Holland, Waddington, N. Y. The sympathy of the community, extended to Mr. and Mrs. Summers and family, was shown by the large number present at the funeral.

Two Fingers Were Shot Off

Brockville, Nov. 10—While duck shooting in the vicinity of Snake Island, on the St. Lawrence River, Ivor Stevens residing at Gananoque sustained a severe accident. By the discharge of his weapon the contents of the barrel passed through his right hand leaving the two middle fingers handging by only shreds of flesh. Other portions of the hand were shot away. Just how the accident happened is not known, but it is supposed that Stevens was pulling the gun out of the boat by the muzzle when the hammer caught.

Chief Justice Meredith is appointed by the Minister of Labor in the absence of any joint recommendation from the other two members of the board. The company's nominee on the board is Hon. Make Arrest in Bank Frauds.

Montreal, Nov. 11—Detectives this morning arrested while in his bed at the Y. M. C. A., a young man named W. A. Marshall. He is held by order of the Toronto police.

In the arrest of W. A. Marshall at Montreal, the police think they have the man who has been defrauding banks around Brantford, Berlin, Guelph, Stratford, Hamilton and other places. The man is wanted in Toronto for obtaining money from the Royal Bank. He went to the office a short time ago and represented that he was buying out a billiard parlor.

He deposited a cheque for $5,000 on the Trusts and Fidelity Company, of Buffalo. He then wanted to draw $3,000, but could not get it. He did obtain a little money—about $300—by cheques, and then he got a suit from a tailor by a fake cheque. He was traced to his boarding house on McGill street, where an aluminum form to mark cheques as certified was found and he was traced to Montreal.

A local hotel-keeper of Smith's Falls. was fined $50 and costs last week for selling liquor by the bottle. Inspector Hyndman says he is bound to enforce this new provision of the law.

ARE BIG SHIPS UNLUCKY?

After Reading This Article You Will Say "Yes."

While the passenger prefers the biggest vessel he can get a berth in, the case is quite the reverse with the seafaring man. Any old salt would sooner take a job on a five thousand than on a fifty thousand tonner.

This is rather odd, for, after all, bigness is only a relative quality. Our grandparents would have looked on the five thousand ship with far more awe than we regard the Imperator, the big German liner which caught fire only a few days ago; while our grandchildren will probably look back at the latter as a mere cockshell.

Be that as it may, there is something to be said for the salt-water superstition that the big ships of their time are the unlucky ones. You may go right back to 1782, when the Royal George, the biggest unit of our navy at that date, sank at her moorings at Spithead, with a death roll of nearly a thousand.

Then there was the Great Eastern, as notoriously unlucky a vessel as ever was built. Brunel and Scott Russell planned her in 1812, but she was never finished till 1859. Then there was a terrible job to launch her.

She had hardly left the Thames when a steam pipe exploded killing seven, and injuring many others. She did not sail again till the following year, when she met a fearful gale in the Atlantic. Half her life she spent in dock, and, though she had cost £732,000, she was eventually sold for £26,000.

The Captain was the biggest ironclad of her time. She was launched in 1869, and from the first there was trouble. In September, 1870, she was at last sent to join the Channel Fleet. She carried 490 people, including her designer and the son of the First Lord of the Admiralty. On the night of September 7th she was caught in a squall and turned turtle, drowning all but eighteen of those aboard her.

The Danton, the largest of French Dreadnoughts, had a most extraordinary run of ill-luck. After her launch and before her trials she was moored with steel hawsers. Much difficulty was experienced in getting the engines to start, and when at last they did work they started so suddenly that the hawsers snapped, and she ran hard aground. This was her second mishap, for at the launching she had gone aground, and it took a month to get her off.

Later, when they were getting her big guns aboard, she went aground for a third time, but even then her troubles were not over. When traveling in the roadstead at Brest at fifteen knots her engines suddenly broke down, and she could not be stopped until her bow was within thirty feet of the rocks.

The two White Star giants, Olympic and Titanic, both afforded justification for sailors' dislike of big ships. In September, 1911, the Olympic collided with the Cruiser Hawke, doing £100,000 worth of damage within a few seconds. In the following February she lost a seven and a half ton propeller blade. Next month she went aground at Belfast, and in July, 1912, grounded in New York harbor. Last September she lost another propeller blade.

As for the Titanic, her tragic loss on her maiden voyage is too recent to need recalling to memory. The loss of life was 1,490 souls, the greatest ever known in any similar disaster.

Last but not least, we come to the unhappy record of the great German transatlantic liner the Imperator. The Imperator is a ship of fifty thousand tons, and is the largest vessel at present afloat.

On her trial trip down the Elbe she went hard aground, and as she took the bank at the top of the tide it was at first feared that she would not be got off. But eventually tugs did move her, and she proceeded to Cuxhaven.

On the way there was a terrible explosion of benzine in her boiler rooms, men were injured, five fatally. After this came the news that some defect had developed in her turbines. Finally, there is the fire.

Slipshod Ways on a Ship.

The steamship moved slowly up the narrows, abreast of quarantine. There was a tremendous rattle and clank and splash. Aunt Drusilla called a steward.

"What was that, steward?" she asked.

"Nothin', lady—only dropped the anchor, ma'am."

"I thought they would," answered Aunt Drusilla disapprovingly. "They've been very careless with it. I've seen it hanging over the side all day."

A Real Grievance.

"So your uncle paid your debts; that was very kind of him."

"Humph! I don't think so. He might have given me the cash and let me pay them."

"What difference would that have made?"

"It would have re-established my credit."

As It Struck the Small Boy.

"Father, are generals brave men?" asked Johnny of his parent.

"Yes, my son, as a rule, I think they are," was the answer.

"Then why do artists always make pictures of them standing on a hill miles away, looking at the battle through opera glasses?"—London Tit-Bits.

HOW ANIMALS THINK.

Instances and Records of Reasoning Power of Dumb Creatures.

Most people, despite loads of facts demonstrating that animals think, consistently maintain that they do not. The most remarkable signs of intelligence is admitted, it is looked upon by these persons as a different brand from that displayed by themselves.

A friend of the writer has a dog—a spaniel—that shows remarkable intelligence. When anyone enters the gate leading to Mr. B.'s country home, Pedro—the dog in question—barks a warning of the approach of a stranger. On the writer's first visit of Mr. B's home, he received this attention, but the very next time he went near that house, Pedro approached him silently and walked by his side through the small park surrounding the property. And the remarkable thing about it was that it was pitch dark at the time—so dark that the animal was absolutely invisible to the visitor.

Now, it was certainly his sense of smell that revealed the writer's identity to the dog, but it was memory that told the animal that it was no stranger who was approaching; while it was reason that informed him that it was unnecessary to bark in such circumstances.

That monkeys think there can be little doubt, and how very like humans they can be is illustrated by the case of one of these—a macaque—in captivity.

A large nut had become wedged in one of his cheek pouches, and by the time it was discovered by the keeper it was necessary to remove it by lancing. This was done from the outside and then the wound was stitched.

There and then was born a monkey magician. The animal had soon removed the stitches, and proceeded to amuse himself and mystify his fellow by most mysteriously causing a peanut to pass through his cheek and come out by his mouth. Or he would reverse the process, putting the nut into his mouth and passing it out through his cheek. Not content with this he demonstrated that the same feat was easily performable with a straw in place of a peanut. And be it said, no one watching the calm expression of the performer and the the wonderment of the onlookers could for a moment hesitate as to what any one of them was thinking about.

That animals dream is almost as certain as that they breathe. Watch a sportsman's dog after an exciting day. As he lies curled up on the doormat, he will jerk uneasily in his sleep and yelp with eagerness. If you have ever seen the same dog trying to dig out a rabbit, you will never doubt that he is dreaming of the chase.

In their wild state, animals must show intelligence in procuring food, and in escaping their enemies. The cunning of an old fox is proverbial, and it is only experience that can enable one fox to show greater skill in eluding pursuit than his younger brother. If only instinct were necessary, the younger animal with all his faculties sharper, would have the advantage.

Who dare deny that a dog can smile?—and who has not seen some dog suffering deep melancholy?

That a dog may even possess dignity capable of being grievously offended was clearly demonstrated to the writer by Pedro, the dog already mentioned at the beginning of this article. Pedre was going out shooting with his master but fifty yards away from the house, Mr. B. was called back to the telephone. He left his gun lying on a grassy slope, and the writer sat down to wait, with the dog at his feet.

Presently, by way of a joke, he picked up he gun and invited Pedro to come along, which he joyously prepared to do. Then the gun was returned to the ground and the joker laughed. Highly offended, Pedro turned his back upon the culprit, and slowly walked towards the house.

He had been hoaxed, and he resented it.

Diamond Cutting.

The brilliant is generally considered the finest form of diamond cutting. The top of the brilliant consists of the table—an eight sided facet in the centre—surrounded by thirty-two smaller facets, which reach to the girlle, the thin edge separating the crown from the lower part of the stone, called the pavilion. The pavilion has 24 facets, terminating in a small facet called the culet. The best stones are cut so that less than one-third of the whole is above the girdle.

A Stylish Accident.

"Am I badly hurt, doctor?"

"No, no. It's a pretty severe sprain, that's all. When you turned suddenly and ran into the fire hydrant you seem to have slipped off the curb and twisted your ankle. You'll be all right in a week or so."

"Yes. And, doctor, one request."

"Go ahead."

"Won't you please have the papers say that the accident was due to my French high heels?"

Very Sharp.

Teacher—Now, Johnny, if the earth were empty on the inside what could we compare it to?

Johnny—A razor, ma'am.

Teacher—A razor?

Johnny—Yes, ma'am, because it would be hollow ground.

THE TELEPHONE A MYSTERY.

Any One Can Use It, Yet Nobody Is Able to Understand It.

The telephone business is not like any other business on the face of the earth. It is the most remarkable combination of science and mystery, of human and mechanical, of wire and wits, of highly skilled specialists and the general public.

Any little child can be the engineer of a telephone talk train. Any little baby can send its cooings hundreds of miles along the wire to its father at the other end. And yet, at the mystery end of the telephone, not even John J. Carty, master of telephone science, can explain or even comprehend some of the phenomena of a telephone exchange.

I once asked Alexander Graham Bell if he really understood the workings of a telephone receiver, and he replied: "Why, of course not. Nobody does." I also asked Mr. Emile Berliner if he could explain exactly what happened in a telephone transmitter, and he replied: "No, I can't. It is as great a mystery to-day as it was thirty years ago."

Think of the marvel of it! Here is an intricate network of wires and disks and electric currents and electric lights and keys and jacks and bells and cords and cables. This mechanism is so delicate that it is actually operated by the slightest sound. It is not set in motion by steam or gasoline, but by breath. The slight vibration of the vocal cords is actually the power that puts the vast telephone mechanism in operation.

A telephone system is an immense and widespread mechanism of voice machinery. There is nothing else like it. It stands by itself as a marvelous thing which any one can use and which nobody can understand.

She Disguised Herself!

Extraordinary stories are told of the character and exploits of a girl desperado, the leader of a gang of eight international thieves who are in prison in France. At one time she kept a small bar in London Eng., where she used to tell fortunes by cards. Her real vocation, however, was that of ringleader of a band of thieves, and after having to leave London she was heard of in Paris and many provincial towns where the gang committed jewel robberies. One of the robbers was a butcher by trade, and stolen jewels often reached Paris embedded in butcher's meat consigned to his care. The girl was finally arrested, and while in prison she set to work to batter her face against the cell walls in order to change her appearance. She smashed her teeth, distorted her mouth, and damaged herself so severely that she almost succeeded in her object of rendering herself unrecognizable as the same woman.

How to Test Tea's Purity.

A remarkably simple method of testing the purity of tea for coloring matter is to use an ordinary table knife and a sheet of white paper upon which a small quantity of the tea to be tested is placed. The tea is then rubbed in with the knife. When the leaves have been reduced to powder the paper is dusted clean with a brush made of common bristles and its surface examined with the naked eye or a microscope. If the tea is artificially colored little spots or streaks of vivid Prussian blue will appear in the fiber of the paper. These stains are so distinct in their coloring that they cannot possibly be confused with any other stain that may be in the paper.

Aeroplane Poison.

He was a wag and was a spectator at an aeroplane contest.

"That's a terrible poison that's been discovered," he remarked amiably to no one in particular.

"What's it called?" inquired an elderly gentleman beside him.

"Why, aeroplane poison, of course!" came the curt reply.

"Is it deadly?" asked the E. G.

"I should say so!" jerked out the juvenile wag.

"And how much would kill a person?" went on the questioning one.

"Oh, one drop!" came the retort.

Then that particular group became the less by one.

Turkey's Licorice Root.

Thousands of tons of licorice root an article that by the natives generally is esteemed a pest and worse than worthless, are annually gathered in Turkey for exportation to America for use in the manufacture of chewing and smoking tobacco, as well as for flavoring confectionery and beer. The principal collecting stations are Bagdad, Alexandrett and Smyrna, at which places the exporters maintain offices, hydraulic presses and warehouses.

Deceitful.

"Men are queer animals," said the pessimist. "They are all more or less deceitful."

"Oh, I don't believe that," replied the optimist. "I think there are plenty of people who strive to be honest. I know I do, and I don't give myself credit for being any better than the majority of men."

"Then why do you ask me how my health is every time we meet and stand around and look bored if I tell you?"

THE DEMAND Is increasing enormously Can we tell you the Reason Why?

Made $60 a Day Watering Butter

As a result of an investigation which has been carried on in the city during the past few weeks, officials of the Department of Agriculture have discovered that a number of butter dealers in Montreal have been attempting to deal with the high cost of living problem, and, in the process have been making a special profit for themselves. On instructions received from Ottawa, complaints have been lodged against eight of these dealers and they will be brought up before the courts charged with contravening the pure food laws. These are but preliminaries to other prosecutions which will be entered, as Inspector J. G. Bouchard, under whose directions the investagations have been going on, is in possession of evidence that numerous dealers have been guilty of similar offences.

The charge laid, is that the accused have indulged in the practice of "watering" butter. As is known, according to law butter sold for human consumption, may not contain more than 16 per cent. of water. Inspector Bouchard has proof to show that certain of the accused have succeeded in incorporating water to the extent of over 30 per cent. into the butter sold by them.

The process is by no means a new one. The dealers indulging in it, buy up all the old stale butter they can lay their hands on in the various butter warehouses in the city. This they take and put into a mixing machine, where it is subjected to certain chemical treatment to "kill" the bad taste and to put it into such a condition that it will absorb liquids. Then, water, milk and a little cream are added and the machine is set going churn fashion. The whole is well mixed up and when kept at low temperature, it remains a consistent mass. It is then placed on the market, being sold for the most part by itinerant dealers who keep it on ice in their rigs. It has been found out that in cases, the adulterated product has been sold at a price per pound closely approaching the market price of the best of creamery butter. The "market" for the water butter has been, for the most part amongst the poorer classes, all of the dealers summoned to appear conducting establishments in the slum districts, or in the far east end of the city.

According to information placed in the hands of Arthur Vallee, advocate, who is acting for the Department of Agriculture, a couple of those summoned to appear in answer to the charge, have been making a profit of $60 per day over and above all expenses. They buy the old butter up at almost any price they care to give for it, as the reputable dealers and wholesalers are glad to get the stuff off their hands. And, as out of every sixty or seventy pounds thus secured, they could make 100 pounds of adulterated butter, it may be seen that the operators had quite an easy thing.

The sections of the law in virtue of which proceedings have been instigated are the following:—

299.—No person shall mix with butter any acid, alkali, chemical or any substance whatever, which is introduced or used for the purpose or with the effect of causing the butter to absorb water or any part of milk or cream; or manufacture, import into Canada, or offer, sell, expose or have in his possession for sale any such mixed butter, any renovated butter or process, 3 Ed. VII, c. 6, ss. 4 and 6.

300.—No person shall manufacture or import into Canada, or offer, sell or have in his possession for sale any butter containing over sixteen per centum of water, 8 E VII c 6, s 3.

Brantford, Nov. 6—Mrs. Mary F. Lang widow of the late Wm. F. Lang, who met death through what is believed tohave been suffocation, at the John Mann brick plant on April 1 last, is suing the company for $2,000 damages. W. A. Hollinrake, K.C,, is appearing for the plaintiff, and Harley and Sweet for the defendant.

Sues for Alienation of Wife's Affections

Brantford, Nov. 6—Robert Craig of this city, has brought an action for $5,000 against Charles Wooden of Burford, for the alienation of his wtfe's affections. Mrs. Craig is now living apart from her husband, and the plaintiff sets out that this was brought about by the defendant paying attentions to her. The case will come up on Tuesday next.

The defendant denies the whole charge and claims that he never interfered between Mr. and Mrs. Craig, and that when Mrs. Craig left her husband it was not on his account.

Twenty-Five Miles of Tile Drains.

On the new asylum farm at Whitby the final section will be laid this week of a tile drainage system that has used up 25 miles of tile and will make fertile nearly 200 acres of low, wet land that has hitherto been practically worthless. The installation of the big Whitby system has been under way all summer under the direction of Professor Todd, the Provincial Farm Director, and now large areas of heavy clay land have been made dry and friable and ready for crop. At the Brockville Asylum a similar work is being carried out, worthless land there being converted into use by the laying of 17 miles of tile.

These two tile drainage systems, entailing an expenditure of less than two thousand dollars are giving the province land worth fifteen times that amount, bringing the acreage about the various provincial institutions well up to the total estimated as necessary to produce foodstuffs sufficient to maintain all the public institutions.

Without saying much about it, Hon. Mr. Hanna and Prof. Todd have been working out plans to make the province-owned institutions of Ontario self-supporting, not only with regard to produce and garden truck, but in every direction. Estimates based upon last year's actual consumption of all kinds of foodstuffs have been prepared, and from them has been secured an accurate idea of the acreage required for cattle, hog and sheep raising, dairying, truck raising and grain.

At the present time the institutions are largely self-supporting during the summer time, but have to go outside for provisions during the winter. The department estimates show the amount of all canned stuff required annually, and the plans being made provide for a production at one or two canning centres to keep pace with this demand. The start has already been made at London, where five thousand cans of various fruits, vegetables and pickles are being turned out daily.

Returns from the farmers in charge of the provincial farms are just commencing to come in, indicating yields generally away ahead of last season.

Military Changes Decided Upon.

Ottawa, Nov. 7—It is understood that a nnmber of important military appointments are pending. Major A. Z. Palmer, R. C. A., is to be appointed as assistant adjutant-general, and Capt. G. T. Hamilton, R. F. A., is to be appointed D. A. A. G. in charge of mobilization. Capt. Hamilton, who is a son of the most Rev. Dr. Charles Hamilton, Archbishop of Ottawa, it is believed will be virtually in charge of mobilization work. Col. Gwatkin having vacated the post of eneral staff officer for mobilization on his appointment to chief of the general staff.

Capt. S. H. Osler, R. C. E., will become assistant director-general of engineer services, vice Major J. L. H. Bogart, R. C. E., who vacates the appointment. The period of tenure of appointment of Major J. Cooper Mason, D. S. O., as brigade major of the Sixth Infantry Brigade, Toronto, is further extended for a year.

Col. G. T. Denison, who has been honorary lieutenant-colonel of the Governor-General's Body Guard for some time, henceforward will be honorary colonel of that regiment.

Lieut.-Col. F. H. Schnieder's tenure of command of the Sixth Duke of Connaught's Hussars, Montreal, has been extended to February, 1915. Lieut.-Col. R. E. W. Turner, V. C., D. S. O., becomes honorary lieutenant-colonel of the 13th Scottish Light Dragoons.

Gamble Jury Disagree.

Whitby, Ont., Nov. 7—For 4 hours this afternoon, those interested in the case of Stead B. Gamble, of Toronto, financial secretary of the Structural Ironworkers Union, waited impatiently while the jury wrangled and argued in an attempt to reach an agreement. In the end the forman announced they were unable to agree. Judge Britton thereupon dismissed the jury. It is understood that two jurors held out for conviction and ten for acquittal.

Gamble's counsel, Mr. H. H. Dewart, K. C., Toronto, has arranged for bail until such time as the case shall be again called, which at the earliest will not be until next spring. In the meantime it does not seem likely that any new facts can be brought to bear upon either side. Gamble was charged with damaging a rope that was to have been used in connection with bridge structural work. A strike was in progress at the time.

HORSE WISDOM.

The pedigreed sire has been the power in building up size and draft form in our American stock of horses.

Early and thorough training makes gentle, safe and tractable horses.

If the fetlocks are kept clipped and the horse's legs are kept clean scratches will never bother.

There are too few good colts raised on the farms. This should not be. Don't leave this important industry to the horse breeders alone.

In breaking a colt remember that it is an easy matter to overload and ruin him by causing him to balk.

Sprained tendons and joints are often the effect of long grown hoofs continually tamping on solid floors.

PROFIT IN BIG MULES.

Growing Demand For Animals Produced From Draft Mares.

Raising mules for a definite purpose offers an excellent opportunity to the man who will give the business the attention it deserves, says the National Stockman. Not so many years ago the raising of mules was a slipshod industry, most of them coming from inferior mares that failed to produce good horse colts or that were bred on the not much to lose plan by indifferent owners. Of late years, however, better mares have been sent to jacks, and as a result we have better mules today than ever before. Mules increased faster in value during the decade 1900-1910 than did horses.

To produce good mules it is necessary to get away from the old idea that the meaner and the smaller a mule the tougher. Mules that are topping the market today come from strictly high class mares of good size. The big draft mare produces an excellent heavy mule, and the 1,200 pound standard bred mare produces a mule well liked by many because of his high quality. The mule's reputation is based to a considerable extent on his stamina and long wearing qualities. Therefore high finish, which is generally considered as an indication of quality, is of great importance in a mule. He gets his indications of high quality largely from his dam and from his feed. It takes a big jack to get big mules from any mare. He should be the best obtainable.

There is no reason why the next few years should not see as great an increase in the mule industry as has the past decade. Of course we can never have as many mules as horses nor even half as many because of the way in which mules are produced. But we can and should have many more. For an unskilled and careless teamster they beat a horse every way. They are not naturally mean or stubborn or vicious. The bad ones are made so by careless or no training. They don't get hurt. Every mule is a worker and fit for work all the time. Thus they are popular and growing in popularity all the time.

THE MILKING GOAT.

Toggenburg Breed Noted For Milk Producing Qualities.

The goat as a milk producer has long had a recognized place in Europe. There are some breeds of goats that are very heavy producers of milk. Goat milk is white in color and contains 4½ per cent butter fat on an average and somewhat more casein or albumen than cow's milk. The fat is so minutely divided that it does not rise readily as cream. It is claimed that when milk from these milk goats is properly drawn and cared for there is no offensive odor connected with it.

Pure bred milk goats are very scarce in this country. The department of agriculture several years ago took up the matter of introducing goats of these special milk breeds and a bulletin entitled "Information Concerning the Milk Goat" was published by the department of agriculture in 1905.

Those interested in the importation of milk goats from Europe have found it extremely difficult to secure stock. The Toggenburg breed of milk goats which is raised in the Toggenburg valley of Switzerland has been bred there for centuries. This is a very hardy breed and probably has been introduced into the United States more extensively than any other milk breed. Some individuals of this breed have produced five, six and even seven quarts of milk daily. The period of lactation in the milk goat is about five or six months. They usually produce two kids at the birth. The period of gestation is five months, as with sheep.

Infectious Abortion.

Cows lose their calves (abort) from a variety of causes. However, infectious abortion is very prevalent in the dairy herds of this country. For this reason take no chances. Isolate immediately every cow as soon as she shows signs of impending abortion. When she aborts burn the calf and its membranes. Clean up and disinfect all discharges. Wash her hind parts with a 3 per cent solution of creolin. Keep her out of the herd until all signs of discharges have disappeared. — San Francisco Veterinary College.

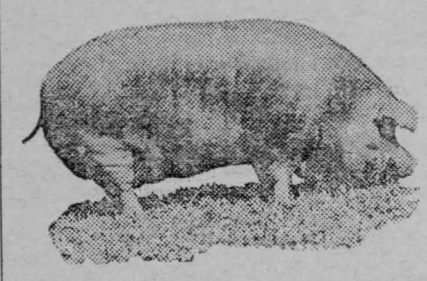
Feed the Cow.

A cow cannot give a full flow of milk unless she is provided with feed from which to make the milk. It is wrong to expect something for nothing.

WINTERING FALL FARROWED PIGS

Whether we make them profitable or not, a lot of fall pigs to raise are with us each year, writes a correspondent of the National Stockman. Some men are successful with these pigs that must be carried over the winter, while many are not. While breeding and feeding have a great deal to do with their profitableness I sincerely believe that the greatest difference may be found in the matter of shelter. It is quite a common custom to allow these pigs to follow the cattle, and this is well. But no one needs to tell me when I see pigs piled up in a manure heap to keep warm, and when I see the steam rise as those pigs leave their damp, filthy nest, that they can be doing their best.

Nature didn't give the pig a great deal of protection from the cold in the way of a coat of hair. A coat of fat if he has it, is about all the protection he enjoys. Now, when a pig or another animal must draw largely upon its food supply for warmth it stands to reason that the best gains cannot be expected. Another thing, why isn't a little firewood cheaper fuel to warm feed than the feed itself? The pig must use feed to warm itself when that feed is given practically ice cold. These things sound reasonable, and more important, we find the hog feeders who know they make a profit on fall pigs giving the slop warmed a little and providing clean, dry, warm, well ventilated shelter for their growing porkers in winter.



Many hog growers like the Duroc-Jersey breed because of its quick growth and ability to lay on flesh. It is claimed for the Durocs that they will put on more pounds for equal amount of feed than other breeds. They attain great size and weight when properly fed and cared for. The sows are prolific and good mothers. While of the lard type, they have large bone and are not liable to disease. The Duroc-Jersey sow shown is a good example of the breed.

Another point for consideration, it is the belief of some that sows are in very much danger of getting too fat before farrowing. They are thought to be too fat when they are hardly in good living condition. A sow may be too fat to do well, but my experience is that if a good supply of surplus flesh is laid up before farrowing to be drawn upon while the sow is suckling the pigs it is better for both the sow and the pigs. I have two sows now with pigs. One of them was in good pork order when the pigs were farrowed; the other, while by no means low in flesh, was not so fat. The sow that was in the better condition when she farrowed is still in very much the better condition, and her pigs are growing faster than the other's under the same treatment. There is a wider difference between the condition of the two sows now than there was when they first farrowed. No, I am pretty sure that there is no loss in feeding the sows enough to allow them to lay up a surplus of flesh to be drawn upon when the pigs need it.

A WORD FOR THE GOAT.

Milk Said to Be More Wholesome Than That From the Cow.

W. Sheldon Bull of Buffalo says: With a couple of hardy and productive goats, housed in a cheap, roughly constructed shed and pastured on a common, the owner may enjoy greater advantages from an economic and hygienic point of view than does the proud possessor of a pampered, pedigreed cow of the most fashionable breed.

First, because milk, the exclusive diet of many infants, children and invalids and a most essential item on the daily bill of fare of every member of the household, is furnished more cheaply by the goat, as the yield of milk, when the size of the goat and the amount of feed and care are considered, is proportionately much greater than that of the cow.

Second, because goat's milk is richer, more nutritious and more easily digested than cow's milk. Aside from its greater degree of richness, there is no appreciable difference in appearance or taste, and also because the milk goat is practically immune to tuberculosis, while the apparently healthful and therefore unsuspected cow may be and often is dangerously tuberculous.

Drying the Cow.

The best way to dry a cow is to place her on dry feed giving only dry timothy hay and corn stover with a very small amount of ground corn if necessary for several days. The cow should be milked only occasionally to relieve the pressure in the udder and on these occasions she should not be milked dry. As a rule, this treatment will cause any except a very persistent cow to go dry. Occasionally, however, cows are found that are so difficult to dry that it is best to permit them to continue milking rather than risk injuring their udders.—Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

The Dairy Show at Ottawa Winter Fair

The dairy show at the Ottawa Winter Fair, gives promise of surpassing that of previous years. The Holstein and Ayrshire Breeders' Associations, are giving large grants in the classes for pure-bred Holsteins and Ayrshires. These classes which have always been well filled, will undoubtedly show an increased number of entries.

In the past some wonderful performance records have been made at this Show. The prizes are awarded on the standing made in the three day test, since the producing qualities of a dairy cow is the only true estimate of her value.

Grade dairy cattle supply the major portion of the milk for the city milk trade, as well as for our cheese and butter factories, and in order to stimulate the improvement of grade dairy cattle, the prizes offered in the grade classes have been increased and extended.

The stabling for dairy cattle at the Ottawa Winter Fair, is the best in the country. The addition, last of a new dairy barn, fitted with the most up-to-date fixtures, gives additional accommodation for seventy-five head of cattle, and conditions are as near ideal as it is possible to make them for dairy cattle in record of performance test.

A prize list will be furnished on application to W. D. Jackson, Secretary, Carp, Ont.

Bee-Keepers' Convention

The annual convention of the Ontario Bee-keepers' Association will be held in Victoria Hall, Queen street east, Toronto Nov. 19th, 20th and 21st. The executive has made an effort to make the program better than any ever prepared before. While the interests of the beginner are looked after to a certain extent, the program is specially calculated to give information to more advanced bee-keepers' in order to enable them to make a success of their chosen profession.

Special attention will be given to the question of co-operation. The association has already made a start in 1913 by purchasing at wholesale rates for its members 2,500 queen bees from the best breeders. This extensive introduction of improved breeding stock is sure to have a marked influence on the quantity of honey produced. Co-operative sale of the crop has also brought dollars to members that would otherwise have gone to middlemen.

Other features of the program will be addresses on "The Swarming Problem," by H. G. Sibbald, Claude, Ont.; "Queen Rearing," by John A. McKinnon, St. Eugene; "The Question of Transportation," by Geo. F. Kingsmill, O.A.C., Guelph; "Comb Honey Production and Marketing," Morley Pettit, Guelph; "Extracted Honey Production," John A. Lunn, Fingal, Ont. Addresses will be given also by the President, Dennis Nolan, Newton Robinson, Ont.; Vice-Pres. J. L. Byer, Mount Joy; 2nd Vice-Pres. Miss Ethel Robson, Denfield, and by the county secretaries—Alex. Dickson, Glengarry; Blake Miller, Elgin; R. C. Fretz, Lambton. Other speakers will be E. R. Root, Medina, Ohio, and Dr. G. C. Creelman, O.A.C., Guelph. The secretary of the association is Morley Pettit, O.A.C., Guelph.

She was a kind neighbor, always ready to assist the sick and needy, a true friend and kind mother.
