Briefly

Senior's luncheon

CHESTERVILLE — The Nelson LaPrade Centre Seniors' Programs will be offering a Seniors Luncheon twice monthly on the first and Third Tuesday of each month at 12:30 p.m. for $4.50. A three course roast beef dinner will be followed by a presentation on new legislation for prescription drug fees by Dale McNaughton. For a reservation please call the Nor-Dun Centre at 774-6109 or contact Hubert Casselman before noon June 3.

Impaired driving charges laid

WINCHESTER — Three persons were charged with criminal code and drinking and driving charges by Winchester OPP between May 13 and May 20. However, a total of five criminal code charges were laid. As well, during that period, five 12-hour suspensions were issued. Police are also notifying the public about a number of items that have been reported found in Iroquois. Two bicycles and a plastic carry all seat were located. If anyone is missing a similar item, please contact the OPP.

Battle of the bands

CHESTERVILLE — Do you and your friends like to rock 'n roll? Chesterville's Youth Committee is organizing a Battle of the Bands for next month, a contest where prizes will be awarded for the best budding teen musicians. The battle takes place Friday, June 14 at the Chesterville Arena, and the deadline for entries is Friday, May 31. Registration forms are available at the high school. Each band will play for about a half hour.

Rabies reminder

CORNWALL — The Eastern Ontario Health Unit is trying to raise pet owners' awareness of rabies, in light of ongoing concern of rabid raccoons on eastern Ontario's doorstep, in northern New York State. The focus of the awareness campaign focuses on cats, and how they can spread rabies to humans. Cats left outside can come in contact with raccoons, foxes and other wild animals, and rabies experts recommend they should be kept indoors or on a leash, especially in the evening. The best protection is for all pet owners, to ensure their pet is vaccinated and that exposure to wild animals is avoided. For more information on rabies, call 1-800-461-2036.

Hearing aid clinic

CHESTERVILLE — A free hearing test and hearing aid clinic will be held at the Nelson LaPrade Centre June 7. Although it will be conducted by the Davidson Hearing Aid Clinic, appointments are by reservation only through the Nor-Dun Centre at 774-6109.

Bible College chancellor to visit Winchester

WINCHESTER — Dr. William McRae, Chancellor of the Ontario Bible College and Ontario Theological Seminary, will visit Winchester June 2 to 4 for a series of family enrichment seminars at Bethany Chapel. The theme of Dr. McRae's mission is "Helping the family flourish," and his presentations will focus on a desire to build stronger family units. McRae, who has served several communities in Ontario, became president of the OBC-OTS in 1983 and now serves as chancellor.

Dundas CHEO effort this weekend

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — This weekend, it's all for the children.

The Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario reaches out June 1 and 2 this year with its annual telethon, as part of the Children's Miracle Network Telethon. And once again, Dundas County is ready for the action, and ready to help.

A variety of fundraising efforts are planned to help boost the local CHEO effort, through the Dundas County chapter of Friends of CHEO, and other events have already taken place.

CHEO is based in Ottawa, but serves all of eastern Ontario with state-of-the-art care for those under 18. Like other government-funded institutions, it is facing government cutbacks while the need for its services, and the special equipment that comes along with it, has not diminished.

The annual telethon and other special events are a major fundraiser for the hospital, last year raising a total of $2.2 million. And because CHEO serves all of eastern Ontario, participation in its fund raising is region-wide, like in Dundas County.

The Chesterville and District Lions Club is asking people to lay it on the line for CHEO Saturday — as they "Loonie Toon" King Street. Passersby are asked to affix a $1 or $2 coin to a length of tape along the street.

A "Teddy Bear Hospital" will be set up in the Scotiabank parking lot Saturday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Youngsters who have "used" teddy bears can have them repaired in exchange for a small donation. Also, a raffle of crafts made by Toronto Dominion Bank staff is taking place Friday at the bank.

Once again Chesterville Public School will be home to the local phone lines. The number is 448-2224, and the lines will be open from 8 p.m. Saturday until about midnight, and again Sunday from 7 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

But pledge tables are another big part of the local CHEO effort. Tables will be set up, starting at 8 a.m. Friday at Mike Dean's in Chesterville, the Royal Bank in Winchester, at Canadian Tire in Williamsburg and the Morrisburg and Iroquois plazas.

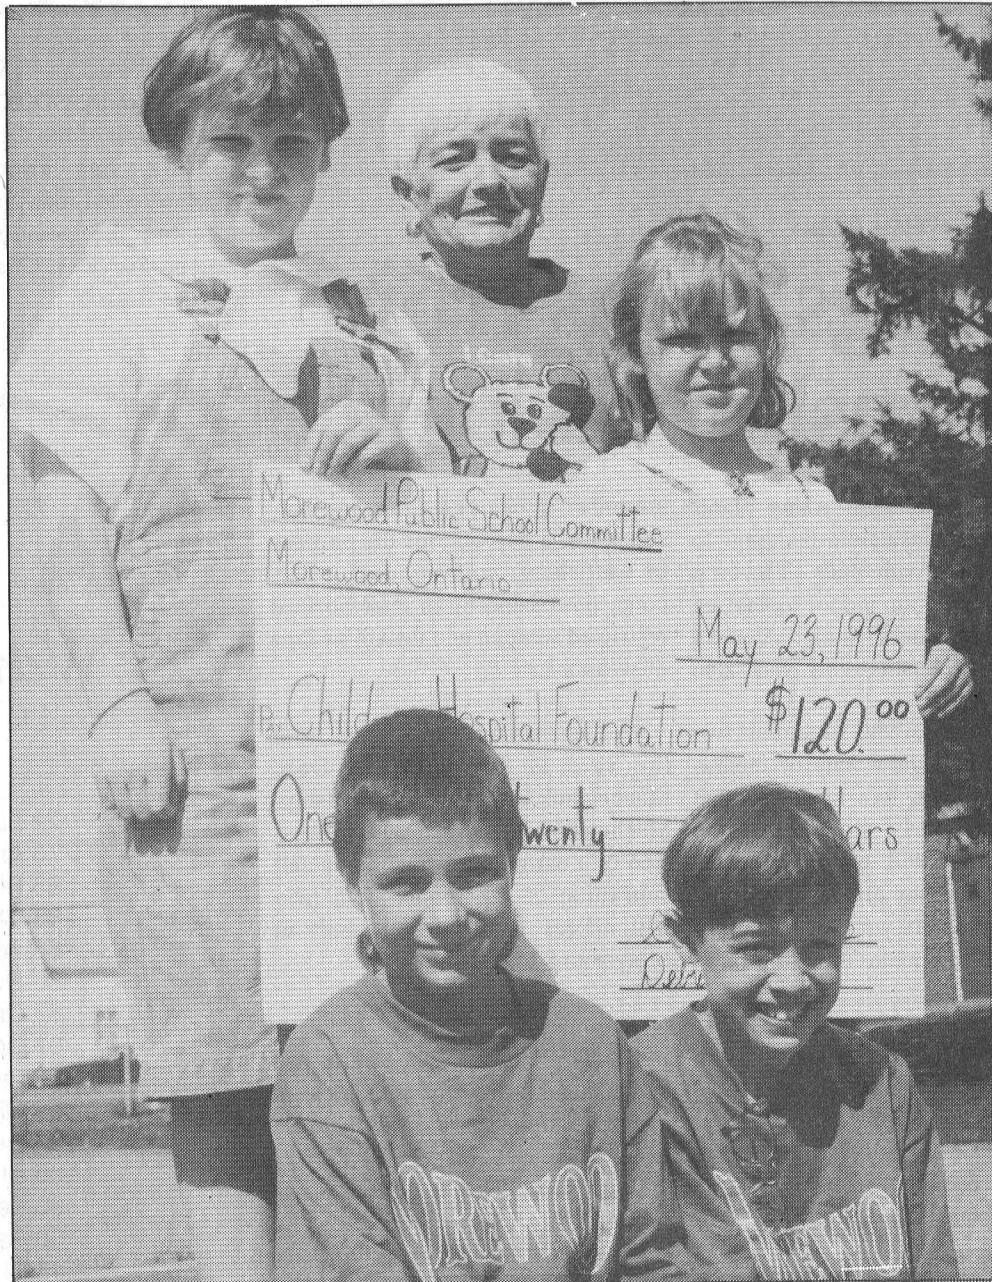

All donations collected locally will be attributed to the Dundas County effort, says Dundas Friends of CHEO president Heather Bourque, as well as those from local residents phoned in to Ottawa.

But the important thing is that it all goes toward the Children's Hospital.

"Right now, with government cutbacks, either we support it, or there will not be a hospital for our children," Bourque says, noting the hospital's need for special equipment and programs.

"We've got the service, and we've got to keep it."

Last year, 541 callers in Dundas County pledged $22,898, sixth among the 22 regions that support CHEO, a list including cities like Ottawa, Cornwall, Kingston and Brockville. The total raised in Dundas County last year, including phone pledges, shirt sales and other events was $38,000. Bourque acknowledges times are still tough, but says she's hoping

Morewood helps CHEO

The Morewood Public School Committee Thursday got the local CHEO effort rolling with a $120 donation. The money was raised through various School Committee events. Presenting the cheque to Dundas Friends of CHEO president Heather Bourque are MPS students Sandra and Shelley McLaughlin and John Irven and Jason Crump.

Dundas can match that amount again this year.

In 1995, children from Chesterville alone visited the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario 457 times.

Sales of CHEO T-shirts, sweatshirts and hats are always a big part of the Dundas effort — in fact, Dundas sells the most of any CHEO region outside Ottawa. So far, $11,800 has been raised locally through the CHEO garb, topping last year's $10,000. The shirts will be available at pledge tables.

The CHEO telethon airs on Ottawa's CJOH-TV beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday, June 1 and ends at 6:30 p.m. Sunday. Sharp-eyed viewers may recognize local people who will be answering the phones at CJOH during the telethon, including Dundas OPP constables Al Lummiss and Peter Valiquet, Morewood hairdresser Vicki Fournier, Chesterville's Bonnie Thompson and Kelly Williams and a certain local newspaper editor.

Bourque counts on about three dozen volunteers to help orchestrate the Dundas County CHEO effort, including Chesterville's Bonnie Thompson, Kelly

Hess, Edna Dubois, Ina Graafland, Lucille Munroe and Grace Savage, Williamsburg's Audrey Barkley, Winchester's Penny Douglas, and Williamsburg's Audrey Barkley.

Dundas County has always been among the best supporters of CHEO for regions outside Ottawa. Last year, callers from Dundas responded generously to the need, as 541 residents phoned in a total of $22,898. And this year, the same generosity is being called on.

"We're lucky that we have everything we do here," Bourque says.

Local fundraising events already held include a May 4 yard sale in Chesterville that raised $500, a Yuk Yuk's comedy special in Chesterville Saturday, as well as donations from the Morewood Public School Committee and CPS nurse Margery Trillo.

Bourque advises callers who wish to see their name scrolled on the TV screen to call early.

And computer buffs interested in the CHEO Foundation can visit its Internet web site at www.cheofoundation.on.ca

Winchester OMAFRA location scales down

Melissa Batchilder
Record Staff

WINCHESTER — The Winchester OMAFRA office has yet again escaped the provincial government's closure axe.

Although the Winchester OMAFRA office has missed a second sweep of closures and will remain open; its services have been scaled down.

With the announcement last week that seven other OMAFRA offices across the province were closing and changes would occur in the ones remaining open, staff at the Winchester office breathed a sigh of relief.

"We're just happy that there weren't any jobs lost," says field services manager Joanne Newman.

Although the numbers of staffed positions at Winchester will shrink, the three affected employees will be able to fill vacant positions in neighboring offices.

Prior to the announcement, the Winchester office housed three advisors including the agriculture representative and two secretaries. Now it will only consist of one agriculture and rural representative and one secretary.

"We're losing three people from this office which will now become a satellite storefront office," explained Newman. No longer will the office provide immediate specialized services. Rather the agriculture and rural representative will provide referrals to those in other ministry locations.

However, as in the past, Newman assures the community will be served well by the agriculture and rural representative. "We've always provided good service to the community and this will continue."

Despite the changes, staff members are relieved.

"We've waited a while for this announcement and the uncertainty was worse than knowing what is going to happen," Newman said.

Because of the numerous OMAFRA office closures announced in November, people were really concerned about the future of this office. "We knew something was coming, but weren't sure what it was."

Newman says now her immediate need is to be with staff and help it cope with the changes.

Bingo will benefit local men recovering from organ transplants

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — A huge bingo will be held June 8 in Chesterville as a benefit for two local men recovering from organ transplants.

The Chesterville Legion Ladies' Auxiliary is sponsoring the benefit bingo, for Daren Nurse and Dean Elliott, at the Chesterville Arena Saturday, June 8 from noon to 4 p.m.

Nurse, 27, had a kidney transplant April 19 in Ottawa after years on dialysis. But the organ, which he received from his brother, caused clotting and later had to be removed.

Elliott, 21, received a new liver April 21 in hospital in London, Ont., a few months after a strange virus attacked his body.

A member of the village's volunteer Fire Department who works at Barry's Meats, Elliott is still in hospital in London.

Auxiliary member Sharon Casselman says she is hoping the community will pull together to support the two men as it has in the past when help was needed.

"I think it's very unusual that there are two transplant patients in such a small village," Casselman says. "And anyone who has any knowledge of transplants, the anti-rejection drugs and trips to the hospital are very expensive," she said, noting Nurse has young children at home.

"It's the sort of thing that to me, the village needs to pull together. They're two very worthwhile people that need some help," Casselman said, adding the two cases will raise awareness about organ donation.

"We've always been a community that when somebody has been in trouble, the community basically has pulled together. And I'm hoping we do for this, too."

Casselman said the auxiliary organized such an event rather than give a donation because a $50 donation, for example, wouldn't go very far for either Nurse or Elliott.

She said seating for 300 is being arranged, and it is hoped at least $2,000 each can be directed to the two patients. She noted that while others in the community are helping Elliott and Nurse, the benefit bingo would hopefully lead other service groups to plan fundraisers as well.

The bingo begins at noon June 8 with early bird specials, and ends around 4 p.m. with a $1,000 jackpot. Bill LeClair will be operating the canteen during the event.

Track owner cites rules

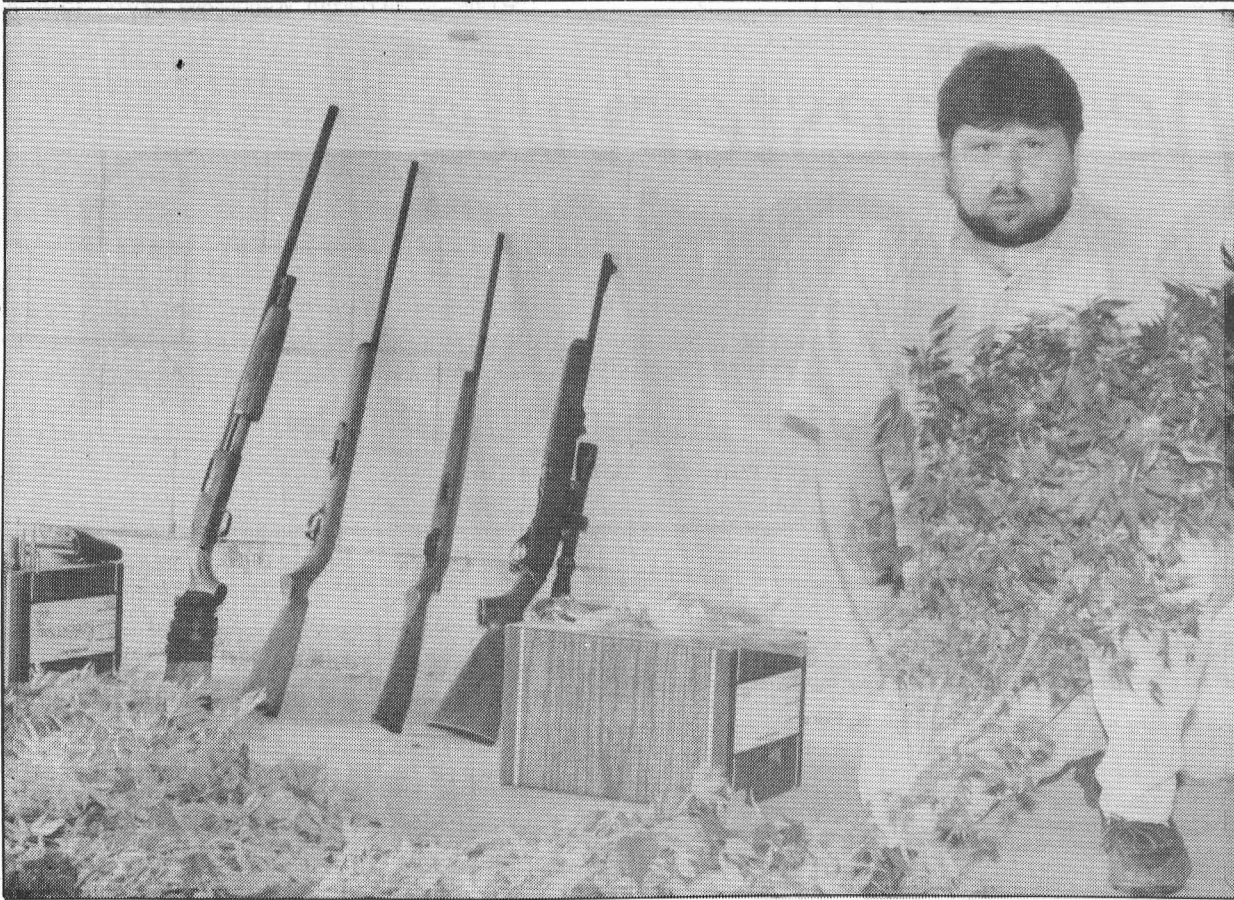

Melissa Batchilder
Record Staff

ELMA — Dave Adams insists he has a right to play and work on his own property.

The owner of a newly commercialized dirt-bike track near Elma says it is the fault of concerned neighboring residents that the by-law to allow his business was passed without being contested.

"We went by the book and they didn't," said Adams referring to residents' concerns that the by-law was passed without the community's knowledge. "Grieving neighbors had the opportunity to contest it and they didn't." In fact, notice of a public meeting concerning the by-law was made in several newspapers. According to the provincial Municipal Act, that is all the publication that is required.

Police seize drugs, guns from Mountain Township residence

Greg Hewitt
Record Staff

WINCHESTER — Provincial police swooped down on a Mountain Township home last Tuesday and seized marijuana plants with an estimated street value of almost $150,000.

Two Mountain Township men face a variety of charges in connection with the bust, which also included the seizure of a number of weapons, including two restricted handguns.

Police seized 500 marijuana plants, ranging in size from young plants packed in an insulative bedding, to mature plants with buds. The crop was grown in an indoor operation with lighting and heating. A small quantity of hashish oil was also found.

The guns seized included two restricted handguns, one of them a small Derringer, four long guns that were improperly stored. All the seized items will be analyzed by police before they are destroyed.

Twenty-eight-year-old Ronald Levere of Mountain Township faces a number of charges, including possession of a narcotic for the purpose of trafficking, cultivation of a narcotic, possession of an unauthorized restricted weapon and unsafe storage of weapons.

Also charged in connection with the raid is 30-year-old Dale Machetchuk of Mountain Township. Machetchuk is charged with possession of a narcotic for trafficking and cultivation of a narcotic. Both men will appear in provincial court in Morrisburg June 11.

Track

However, Adams is willing to compromise. Two weeks ago at a Williamsburg Township meeting, Adams agreed to provide a site plan to residents for their perusal. Since then the site plan has been prepared and he expects to give it to two representatives of the resident's group this week.

Adams notes that no one else has been required to do this when developing property. "But it will calm the waters and I do want to be a good neighbor."

In this case, says Adams, "people really don't understand how a municipality runs." This is the eighth by-law passed in the municipality this year and he doubts that anyone is aware of what the other seven are.

Developing his property into a dirt-bike park was perfectly legal prior to the by-law, he adds. "This is rural zoning and not a residential area. That's where these facilities go." If neighbors want to protect themselves in the future, he says, then they should buy up all of the property.

Although more than 40 people attended that particular Williamsburg Township meeting, Adams doubts that they all opposed his development. "I would say that more than 20 of those people were on my side."

Currently, Adams is the largest employer in the immediate area and he says that should make people happy. "This whole thing is more positive than negative. I'm creating work for people." In this case, the jobs are being filled by members of his family.

"My concerns are with stimulating the economy for my children. We employ ourselves because there is no work anywhere else."

To date, Adams adds, the track has been successful. "I originally set it up for the use of my family and friends, but in order to cover the liability of others to ride here we had to go this route and form a club."

With the by-law in place, Adams says, it not only protects him but members of the community as well. Whereas according to the township's noise by-law he could make any kind of noise he wanted all day and evening. However, with the dirt-bike by-law in place their are certain restrictions regarding the noise every day of the week and on Sunday.

Movement to formalize a by-law began last year, said Adams, after he had a race on his property and the municipality wasn't sure if it was legal. "They decided to put the by-law in place to protect us all."

If there wasn't a by-law in place it could be worse for everyone, he insists. "Then I could drive my vehicles any time I want."

As for the future of the issue, Adams says it is up to concerned residents. "I am providing a site plan and text and I certainly wouldn't want everyone to have to do that because it's expensive."

Zoning didn't have to be changed to allow for the dirt-bike track either, he says. "This facility was perfectly within the rural zoning allowances. People who live in this area fall under rural zoning and there are many things that can be developed in a rural area."

The opposing group didn't play by the rules, says Adams and that's where the problem lays. "We followed the rules and they didn't. Someone slipped and it wasn't me and it wasn't council."

OMAFRA cutbacks

Those staff members who throughout the province who aren't as fortunate in relocating have other options, said Newman. "They can choose from a financial package or if they indicate they would like to stay in the ministry then they can study alternatives throughout the province."

Winchester staff members are more fortunate in terms they are able to move within a 40km radius to other positions. With OMAFRA offices in Avonmore and Kemptville, placements have already been determined.

Child abuse: Workshop to deal with issue

Melissa Batchilder
Record Staff

CORNWALL - Helping to reduce child abuse through prevention is the aim of an upcoming four-day workshop at the Cornwall Civic Complex.

"The goal of this workshop is to train people who could then empower the hard-to-reach clientele to deliver these modules on parenting skills in their own environment," says Suzanne Ross of the Eastern Ontario Health Unit which is organizing the event.

Funding is being provided by the Child and Family Care program for SD&G and the workshops are being made available through the Institutional Services Branch of the Ministry of Health.

Marion Balla, director of the Adlerian Centre for Counseling and Education is the guest speaker.

Topics will include discipline, self-esteem, problem solving and coping with stress along with strategies for recruiting hard-to-reach clientele for parenting groups.

The workshop is scheduled for June 5, 6, 12 and 13 from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. There is no fee involved.

For more information call Diane Bowen at 933-1375.

New chair for ND patient services

CORNWALL — Lionel Mercier, president of the SD&G and Prescott-Russell Unit of the Canadian Cancer Society, has announced that Winchester's Linda Swerdfeger has accepted the position of Branch Patient Services Chair for North Dundas Branch.

As chair, Swerdfeger, a volunteer, will administer patient services programs available to cancer patients in the North Dundas Community.

In addition to that role, Swerdfeger is also a trained presenter of the breast health "Healthy Lifestyle" message.

A major part of patient services is transportation to cancer treatment centres, and volunteers are always needed for this service. If anyone is interested in volunteering, contact Linda Swerdfeger at 774-3845 or the unit office at 1-800-669-4181.

Remembering valiant comrades

It was 1939 and everyone was thinking about the war. There was however, a certain group who saw that there was money to be made. Easy money, money that the government will soon be paying out for services rendered. Those services are the easy way to becoming a millionaire or at the least very wealthy. It worked and when I say worked I mean the scheme worked. The plan was to gather up scrap metals cheap and sell high. However, this was not enough. One had to get a bit more out than just an exorbitant profit, so they paid off the chap at the weighing scales who added tons to their weight vouchers and they of course were becoming rich pretty fast. This little scheme went on for nearly three years and they were really rich. Then a fellow who was discharged from the army was hired by the government to work in this very same field, weighing scrap metal and issuing vouchers. It now became incumbent for the sellers to coax the veteran into their scheme of things. They approached him and he seemed to be ready to participate, but he needed some guarantee that they would play fair with him, so he asked them to put the deal in writing and as soon as that happened he would become a partner. However, if they did not want to give him his guarantee in writing he was not going to play ball. While I trust you, he said, I think it only right I protect myself against you if you get caught. That did it, they gave him his piece of paper and he who had already made some overtures to the Federal Police was now ready to close off the racket. Needless to say they were all caught and prosecuted. But the irony of it is they had to pay the government back all the money they had taken illegally and this amount was estimated by the court. The veteran who had served overseas in the front lines and was home because of battle wounds, was according to him "only doing my duty" but he did end up richer than the thieves. He went on to become a very distinguished member of society, a Legionnaire and a Presbyterian Minister. His body now lies in a graveyard in Nova Scotia.

It's a True Value

Chesterville welcomed the opening of a True Value hardware store in Chesterville Saturday morning. Dozens showed up at Industrial Drive to congratulate Kaileen Cotnam on the official "chain cutting" of her new business. The power of compromise

THE POWER OF COMPROMISE IS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE solution to the Queen St. parking problem in Chesterville and it is what is needed to solve the motorcycle track controversy that has raised the ire of neighbors of Dale and Susan Adams just outside Elma.

The problems differ in several ways: in Chesterville it was a situation of stationery vehicles; in Williamsburg Township it is a problem of moving vehicles - vehicles which can sound to their owners like the sweetest music this side of heaven and to the Adameses' neighbors like chainsaws on amphetamines. But the problems are also share similarities: they are between residents and neighboring businesses.

In Chesterville there was more than ample potential for permanent hard feelings to have been the legacy of the Queen St. dispute until a meeting was called at which both sides, Caro-O-Line Autos owner Colin Abbott and his Queen St. neighbors, outlined their positions in a rational way. Each side then suggested ways in which what had been deemed an impasse could be resolved. The result was that a mutually agreeable solution was worked out at the meeting and taken to village council for the final say in the matter.

To their credit, members of council agreed that perhaps an earlier village decision to widen the travelled portion of the roadway by eliminating much of the parking on the south side of the street may have contributed to the problem. Councillors listened to the position put forward by Abbott and his neighbors and the result is that not much more than a month after the dispute threatened to boil over into animosity, things have returned to normal on Queen St.

The no parking restrictions in front of Abbott's business have been lifted; vehicles are no longer left for long periods of time in front of neighbors' homes and while it may not all be sweetness and light, at least the potential for incivility has been drastically reduced. Some of Abbott's neighbors helped produce the solutions that lessened the impact of the operation of his business on Queen St. residents; neighboring businesses came to his aid, and council played its role in freeing up over 90 feet of parking in a previous no parking zone on the busiest street in the village.

Now it's Williamsburg's turn to see if it can come up with a solution, although to a much trickier problem.

Township council can't simply take the position that the Adameses' neighbors missed the boat when they failed to oppose the bylaw that made the operation of the dirt bike track possible. Yes, neighbors did fail to make their objections known at a public meeting devoted to the proposal, but in their defence it is difficult to oppose the concept of a motorcycle track. It is quite another thing to complain about the impact of its reality.

The track meets all the legal qualifications and restrictions for its operation, but that makes it no less palatable to its neighbors. And now Rev. George Rowaan has been handed the task of mediating the dispute. And he will need the wisdom of another religious leader in reaching a solution that does not require the sawing of a baby in half.

Off The Record

What if the world's been turned upside

By Marsha Lartz
Possibilities Editor

Well, Gentle Reader, here we are. May 29. one of the most important anniversaries in the history of the western world. May 29, you say. Yes, May 29. It was 543 years ago today, May 29, 1453, that Constantinople fell to the Ottoman Turks under their brilliant sultan, Mohammed II, "The Conqueror". (And it was 12 years ago today that my nephew, Wesley Musch, was born. Happy birthday, Wreckly.) Ironically, the last Christian ruler of the city, now known as Istanbul, was Constantine XI, namesake of Constantine the Great, founder of the city in 330.

Which raises a whole slew of questions of "What if?"

What if Constantinople hadn't fallen? The Roman Empire would still be with us, more than 2400 years after its beginning. The intellectual elite of the city wouldn't have fled westward and the Renaissance, fuelled by this explosion of knowledge long lost in the west, would never have taken place. Our paintings would still look as if they were done by six-year-olds suffering from severe dyslexia. We'd still believe the earth is flat; Columbus would not have sailed the Ocean Blue in fourteen hundred and ninety-two and five years later John Cabot wouldn't have stumbled onto the New World.

And Cabot Cove, Maine, would never have been named and Angela Lansbury would not have had to lose her British accent to become Jessica Fletcher, an American ripoff of Miss Marple, and 286 residents of this North American version of St. Mary Mead would not have fallen victim to murder most foul.

If only CBS had held on for one more season, the residents of Cabot Cove - or what was left of them - could have celebrated the 500th anniversary of the arrival by mistake in the New World by the Venetian navigator, Giovanni Caboto, and his son, the fat cigar-smoking British actor Sebastian would never have been host of that earlier CBS series, Checkmate. What if, eh?

What if the Vatican were to decide it had to make itself more relevant to popular culture and forced the pope to adopt a new name? Would he be Pope John Paul George Ringo?

What if the meeting of conservative knuckle draggers in Alberta on the weekend, led by David Frum, whose main claim to fame in this country is that he is the son of the late Frum Mum, Barbara, dragon lady of the CBC, had led to an all-out amalgamation of the Reform and Progressive Conservative Parties? Given Frum's penchant for more prisons, longer terms of incarceration and Reform's unwillingness to bend to any of Quebec's constitutional aspirations, in part leading Benedict Bouchard to declare that Canada is a prison, would the merger of the Reform and Conservative Parties lead to the creation of a new party, to be known as the Reforma-Tory?

What if some common sense prevailed in the halls of Corrections Canada's higher bureaucracy? Would the new women's prison in Edmonton be so escape prone? Would inmates stroll out of their comfortable bungalows, hop over the low chain link fence to start life anew on the mean streets of Cold Lake? Would the Alberta government be allowed to tell prison authorities that they couldn't lock the doors of the supposedly secure bungalows because of fire regulations? Would the new correctional facility, bureaucratese for crowbar hotel, built to replace Kingston's infamous P4W, be known as Club

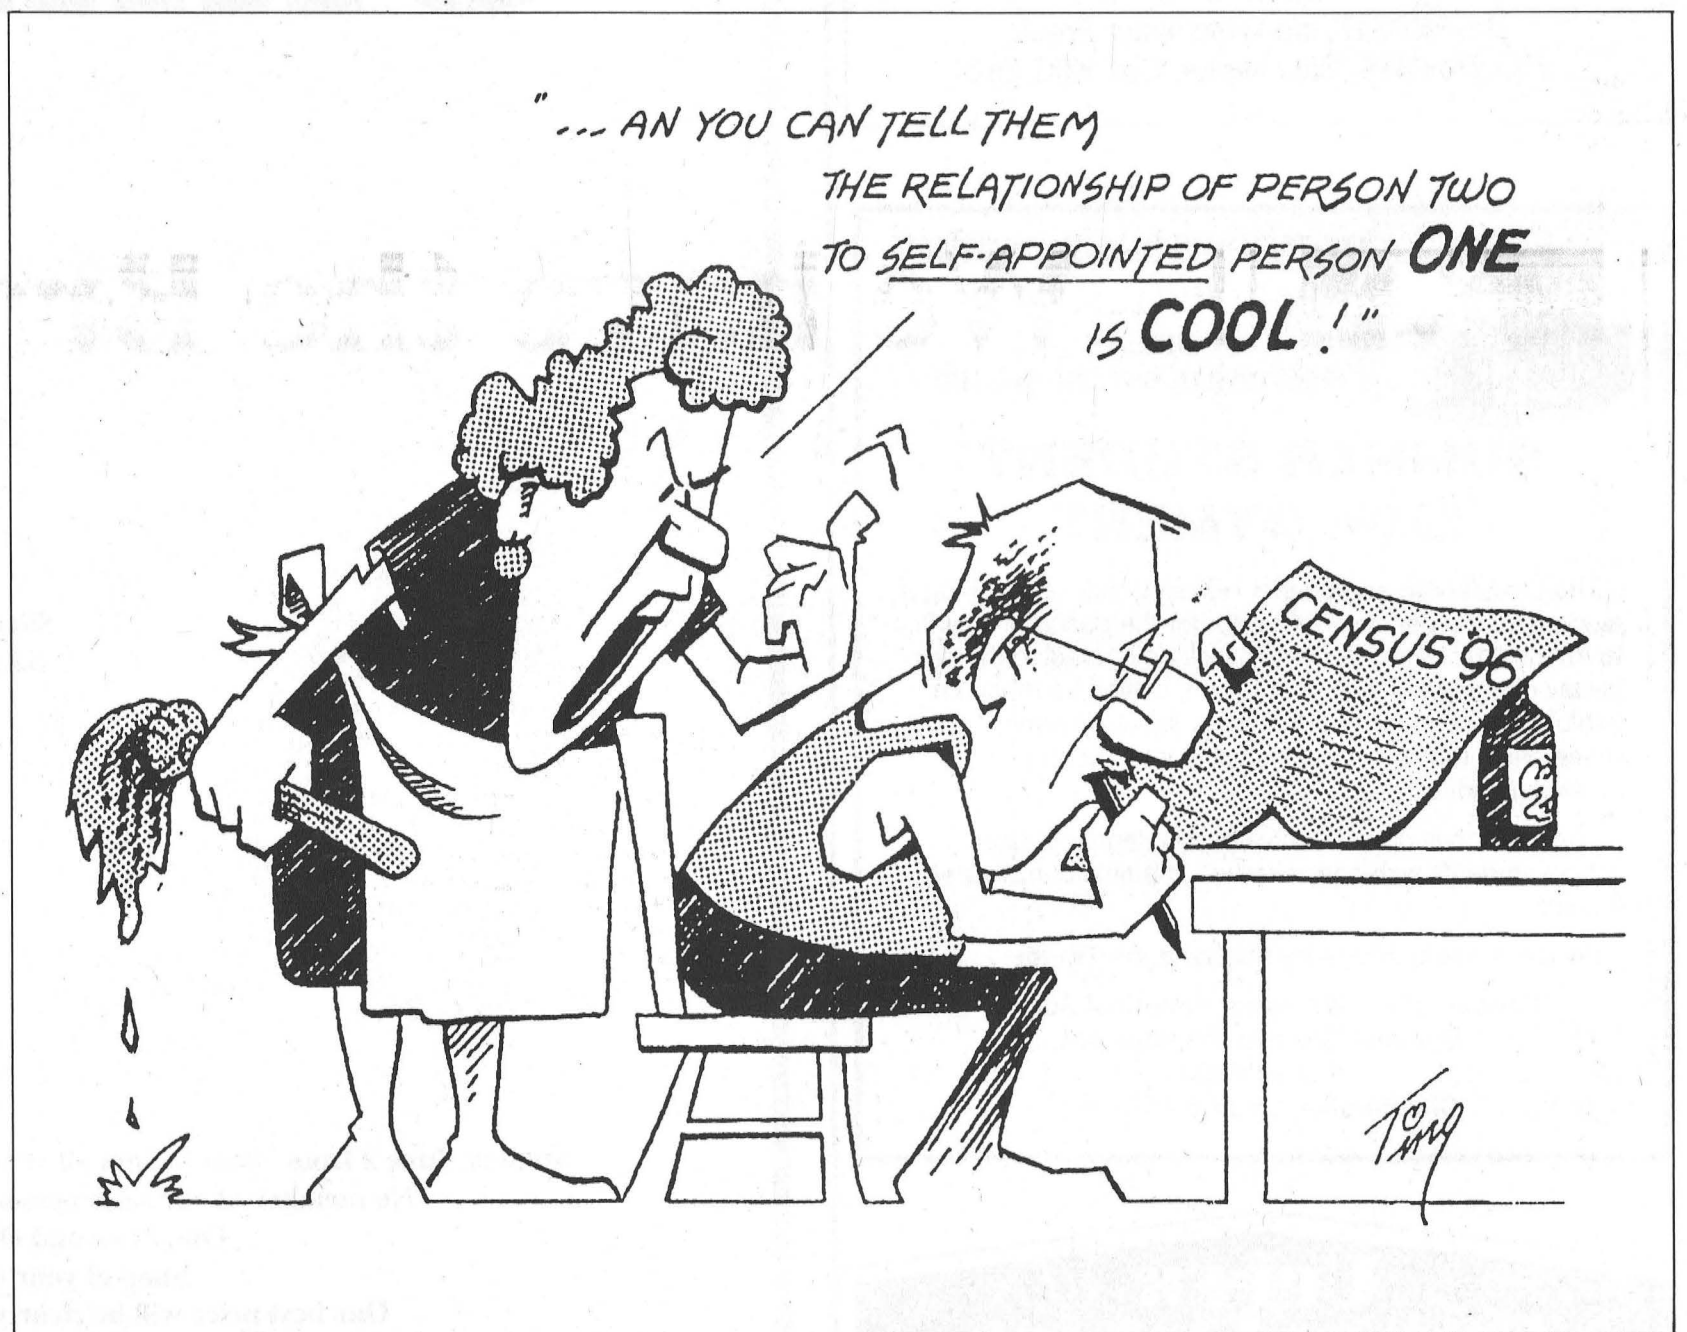

Fed?

What if Aretha Franklin cut a new single, detailing the sorry history of the Ottawa Rough Riders and its latest deluded owner. Would she entitle it Chen of Fools?

What if Canadian NHL owners continue to roll over and have their bellies scratched by U.S. television networks? Would they oppose more moves to take all Canadian aspects out of the game? Would they be against, say, awarding the Stanley Cup to the team that showed the most leadership during the off season by pulling up stakes in this country and heading to the U.S. capital punishment belt? Colorado, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Florida are left in the hunt for the Cup. Would Canadian owners be in favor of having a new trophy for the league championship? One that more accurately reflects the league's new demographics. Say, the American's Cup?

What if the imperatives of Canada's new multicultural reality were visited on the United Counties and ethnocentric and non-inclusive names of European settlements were forcibly changed. What would become of Maxville? The legend herabouts is that there are so many Scots in the area the settlement was originally known as Macsville, gradually shortened to the form we now know. What if the Irish demanded recognition? What if Canada's indigenous peoples demanded to be recognized? Would the village have to change its name to Mics-Macsville?

What if I suddenly started making sense?

Spring, wonderful spring - even with the black flies and mosquitoes, it is the grandest season in Eastern Ontario. Never have I heard so many praises sung in honor of it as this year. And why not? After ten months of winter.

Sheila's predicament brought on by loose lips, and Preston's too, for that matter, fade into oblivion in the halcyon days of spring. Politics forgotten, household chores forgotten, the days stretch out in glorious repetition.

Even the Queen's study "A portrait of Controversy" seems such a small thing, when viewed from the perspective of what should we look like at 70 years of age. A woodland nymph, heavens no...like we've lived and endured, warts and all!

Have you ever stole a planting combination idea from a friend's garden? Or a foe's for that matter?

I have. Neighbor Amanda has. In fact, there is not a gardener about who hasn't, if truth be known.

With good results too, for every garden has a virtue. Look for it...where is it? What is it? What idea can I take away and reuse.

I learned long ago that you can always learn by peering into someone else's life. And into their gardens.

I drove in my son's driveway the other night and there he was - the great showman. Can you guess who? Here are a few hints. He wears a brilliant, flashing coat, is handsome and debonaire, and he has an enviable repertoire of beautiful songs with which to entertain us.

His disposition is good and he is a good family man.

His wife is a great architect and builder. Shouldn't it follow with so many gifts and graces, the Orioles are among Eastern Ontario's most welcome summer visitors.

Legend has it that the Baltimore Oriole was named after Lord Baltimore. It seems that he was so tired and discouraged from his many attempts to establish a settlement in the New World in the 17th century, that when he arrived in Virginia to build the colony of Maryland, he was cheered and encouraged by the song of the Orioles that he found in the trees of this new land.

So cheered, in fact, that he adopted their colors for the Maryland shield and coat-of-arms, and called the bird by his own title. Of course, the Oriole is the state bird of Maryland.

May with all its celebrations is drawing to a close with a gigantic May breakfast served up by community volunteers with the proceeds to be split evenly among them. This follows a community house and garden tour. What a way to celebrate May!

For May has been celebrated merrily for many ages, from the fertility festivals of the ancient Egyptians, and feast of the Romans in honor of their goddess Flora, to the Middle ages when the people of the British Isles streets with gay abandon, greatly encouraged by enthusiastic drinking and feasting.

Of course, the first settlers to arrive in the New World did not believe in such pagan carrying-ons, and there was no thought of celebrating May Day until one boisterous Thomas Morton set foot on the shores of Boston Bay.

He and his crew erected a Maypole on May Day 1627, bless him. They celebrated their arrival with dancing and other raucous revelry. And wouldn't you know, the Maypole is reported to have been a pine tree eighty feet tall wreathed with wild flowers, vines, and ribbons, and adorned with poems especially written for the occasion.

A creative crew, but the merriment shocked Governor Bradford and his Puritan followers. The spoil-sports outlawed further celebrations until the nineteenth century when children played at dancing around the Maypole and renewed the old, old custom of filling May baskets with flowers and candies for their friends.

Now, we serve breakfasts with lots and lots of sweet danced Maypoles.

Trust the English who raided their gardens and decorated their villages with flowers and danced in the treats! And realize that suddenly the days are longer and brighter and warmer; the trees and lawns are greener, and the smell of the dew-laden flowers is sweet.

I went to the bush with a friend to dig ferns the other day, and we almost got stuck, but that is another tale to be told. Every path we took was embroidered in flowers; violets and wild ginger and bloodroot and trillium and jack-in-the-pulpit and ladies' slipper and Mayflowers.

The early birds in all their glorious carolling sang from almost every treetop. Birds looking for nesting materials were pulling frantically at weed stems and other stringy things. Nest building was much on their minds.

We found great treasures on our stroll - an unusual stone glittering with mica to tuck into the rock garden, some acorns, a little bouquet of violets which we carefully clipped. In each different woods environment you find different treasures.

The next day I had occasion to go to Ottawa and enjoy the tulip display. It was a dark, drizzly kind of day and the bright colors were a feast for the eyes.

As I returned homeward, I watched the paths and ditches for spring greens for supper and was rewarded with finding a few fiddleheads.

I was rewarded with enough for one meal only, but that was fine as the Farmer is not a fiddlehead fancier. Such are the pleasures of May to end the month with, it seemed.

Perfect weather draws crowds to Maxville Fair

Bring on the rides, it's the Maxville Fair.

Maxville was the place to be for rides, games, food and fun this past weekend.

"The attendance decreased a little from last year," said Janice Blaney, secretary of the Kenyon Agriculture Society, "but the weather was excellent."

This year events included a soccer tournament, ball tournament, demolition derby, Western Horse show, Holstein show, Western Games show, English Horse & Pony show, Ayrshire show, Jersey show, Hereford & Simmental show and the Commercial Beef Cattle show.

Other events were 4-H exhibits, a homecraft division, colored photographic competition, crafts, a championship quilt competition and several draws.

The winners of Men's Division soccer tournament were "B" Dominionville West, and "A" Glen-garry Old-Timers.

The winners in the ladies division were "B" Dunvegan and "A" Lochiel.

The ball tournament winners were Lenooke Farms and the runners-up were The Dirty Hens.

The exhibitor with the highest number of points in the homecraft division was Margaret MacLeod of Dunvegan.

The winner of the demolition derby was George Bissonnette of Maxville.

Lorraine Black was the winner of a mini-vacation to Mont. Ste. Anne, Quebec, which was sponsored by George Bourdeau of Vacances All Seasons in Ottawa.

Ottawa Valley Hereford Farm in Navan won for premiere breeder for hereford, and premier exhibitor.

Bradley Farms in Casselman won for reserve premier breeder and reserve premier exhibitor.

Grand champion female was won by Putney Gucci Girl and reserve grand champion female was Cassburn Charity Rush.

Grand champion 4-H Beef Showmanship was won by Kerry McNeely and reserve grand champion 4-H Beef Showmanship was Ann McCordick.

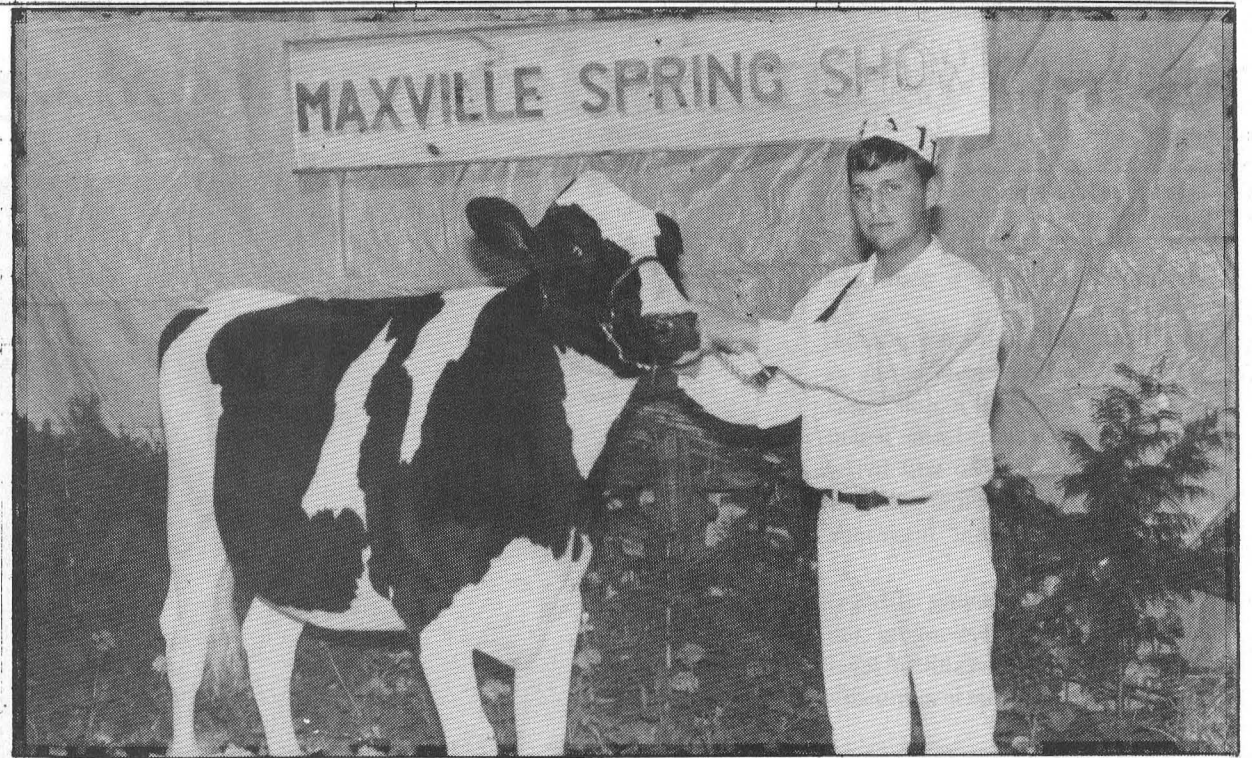

Grand champion 4-H Ayrshire calf winner was Shauna Mode of Vankleek Hill, and reserve was Heidi Mode of Vankleek Hill.

Grand champion 4-H Jersey calf winner was Randi Tolhurst of Vankleek Hill and reserve was Anne Berry of Lachute.

Grand champion 4-H Holstein calf winner was Darrin McDonald and reserve was Kelly Fawcett of Winchester.

Grand champion 4-H Dairy Showperson winner was Francois Daoust of Rigaud and reserve was Korrine Hutt of Inkerman.

Court agents to feature legal services

Melissa Batchelder
Record Staff

NEWINGTON -- It's plain and simple.

Jim Moak and Laurel Arrowsmith are now in the business of acting as court agents for small claims court and residential landlord and tenant matters, highway traffic and bylaw infractions along with other tribunals such as unemployment insurance claims.

With their recent opening of Legal Assistants Ltd. in Newington the couple is offering a wealth of legal experience to a field that is minimally tapped in this area.

"A court agent is a non-lawyer who handles specific areas of the law as allowed by statute," explains Moak.

In this case both Moak and Arrowsmith have performed these duties previously but after a move back to Newington from central Ontario they were plagued by unemployment in more traditional fields. They decided to do what they do best and opened their own company to meet the needs of the SD&G counties.

"We came here for family reasons," explains Moak, but were unable to find permanent employment. Having 15 years experience combined in the legal field, it was only natural to continue with their skills.

Legal assistants and court agents aren't readily available in rural areas explains Arrowsmith, "so there was a definite need for the service."

"We will stand on your behalf in court and represent an individual or a corporation throughout the legal process," he adds.

Although traditionally lawyers were the only ones able to fill this role, under certain statutes, court agents are now accepted in this capacity.

"People need someone to vocalize their position in a manner the court understands," explains Arrowsmith. By removing the emotion and adding the knowledge, a court agent is able to act on behalf of a client whether it is the claimant or defendant.

"We understand what the court is looking for but at the same time realize the needs of a client," Moak says.

Newington court agents Laurel Arrowsmith and Jim Moak recently opened their own legal assisting firm. Both agents are qualified to handle matters in Small Claims Court and residential landlord and tenant matters.

With the limit of small claims court cases being raised from $1,000 to $6,000 recently, legal representation is required more frequently. In some cases lawyers do represent clients, but are not always fond of handling such relatively small matters.

"That's where we come in," says Arrowsmith. "We have the specialized experience in the areas of small claims and residential landlord and tenant matters and the lawyers don't want these cases anyway."

With growing awareness of court agent services also comes the awareness of unprofessional agents and those lacking in ethics. "There are a lot of fly-by-night and untrained people out there," says Moak, so he understands the fear.

However, both Moak and Arrowsmith are formally educated in the field and have successful track records behind them.

"We're not here to compete with lawyers either," says Moak.

"Lawyers tend not to like these cases because they are not black and white rules" as found in criminal court.

By using a court agent, clients are able to deal with the fear of lawyers and courts. "We custom tailor our services to meet the needs of clients and courts."

As Moak was raised in the area, he believes he has an understanding of rural fears and phobias regarding the legal system.

And the price is right for services. "We offer reasonable rates that people can afford and we show results." Because of their dedication to the justice in the field, they have often taken on pro bono work when they feel rights have been infringed upon.

"We're also cheaper than a lawyer because we don't require support staff or a storefront office," says Moak. The couple do all the work themselves from their home in Newington.

Although they primarily work on behalf of regular clients, Arrowsmith and Moak are qualified to aid lawyers as well. "The Landlord and Tenant Act is always changing and we are up to the minute on it. We've probably done hundreds of trials for lawyers, but we know how to work on behalf of the client as well."

Neither Moak nor Arrowsmith are intimidated by the legal process, system or members of it, they agree. "We take our job seriously," she says.

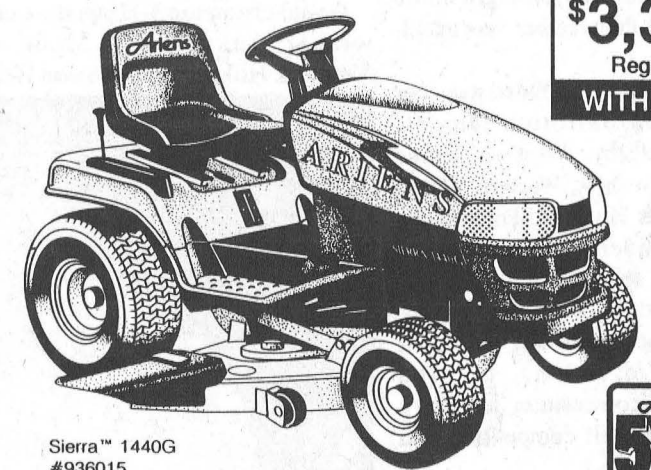

In many cases, people just need a supporting presence in the court room and Legal Assistants Ltd. provides that. "We're affordable, very experienced and provide a quality service in this area. We can eliminate unnecessary costly mistakes," she adds.

With the business in place, says Arrowsmith, it's now a matter of educating the public of what they can do and letting them know the service is here.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Golden Week for Japan

To the editor:

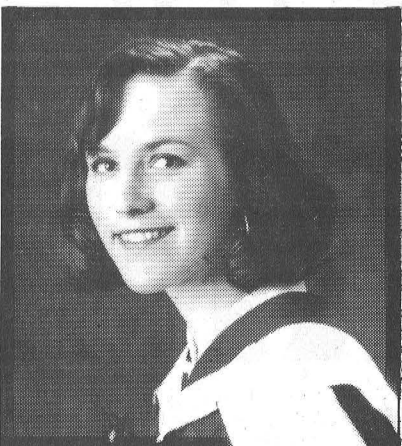

Happy spring everyone! You'll be jealous to know that I'm on yet another holiday. This week is "Golden Week" in Japan. Basically, Golden Week is a second spring vacation for Japanese "workaholics". Three national holidays - Greenery Day on April 29, Constitution Day on May 3, and Children's Day on May 5 - provide time to enjoy the beautiful, warm weather.

Spring vacation is very different in Japan. While we Canadians trek to Florida to laze in the sun, the Japanese insist upon being productive. Their holiday schedule consists mainly of traditional, cultural events and back-breaking physical activities.

The week is centered around rice planting. Today, crops are planted either by machine or by helicopter. In my area, however, there are many people who still plant their fields by hand. This is an extremely time consuming process, let me tell you. I helped some local farmers plant their field on Greenery Day. We planted an acre crop three pieces of rice at a time. When we finished, my back was so sore that I could no longer walk upright.

As if planting rice isn't enough, on Greenery Day people also chop their bamboo fields and climb mountains. Greenery Day is a public holiday marking Emperor Hiro Tito's (the Previous emperor's) birthday. Hiro Tito was very fond of nature. Japanese people are encouraged to celebrate his birthday with outdoor activities. It is said that anyone who climbs a mountain on Greenery Day attains profound wisdom.

Besides agricultural chores, outdoor tea ceremonies and azalea blossom viewing are popular Constitution Day and Children's Day events. On Children's Day (Boy's Day) families with young boy's hang carp streamers outside their houses and eat many sweet rice cookies. "Golden" Week comes to an end and Japanese "workaholics" return to their jobs. I don't know when they relax.

Before I sign off, I want to mention that I visited Keisuke Yamada and his family in Shikoku last week. Keisuke hopes to return to Chesterville soon. He misses everyone very much. Sayonara for now.

Farms too?

To the editor:

Re: Dirt Bike Track

All that noise, dust and excessive traffic is a hazard isn't it? Maybe we should get rid of farmers and the highway too?

The Home Of The Week... YOUR HOME IMPROVEMENT "SPECIALISTS!"

U-945 TOTAL FLOOR AREA 1385 SQ. FT.

Low square footage combined with a simple foundation and roof plan make this design a smart choice for those just starting out.

An extra large living room acts like a great room, eliminating the need for a separate family room, and providing a spacious area for formal and informal get-togethers. The kitchen, open to the dining room, features an efficient "U"-shaped working area complete with an open counter to service guests in the living room.

Upstairs, two secondary bedrooms share a three piece bath. The master features his and hers closets and a three piece ensuite with an oversized shower.

Plans for U-945 may be obtained for $335.00 for a package of five complete sets of working prints and $29.00 for each additional set of the same plan. Allow $15.00 extra to cover the cost of postage and handling (B.C. residents add applicable sales tax to plan total) (All Canadian residents add 7% GST to plan total plus postage and handling).

This is one of our new designs. Many innovative plans are now available in our home plan catalogue for $13.85 including postage and handling and 7% GST.

Gold at national festival

Gold rush continues

The North Dundas District High School Senior Concert Band struck gold at the national high school music festival in Toronto on the weekend. Performing before five adjudicators at the Constellation Hotel Sunday, the band was awarded a gold standing for its performance of three pieces, Festivo, El Capitan and Lost Colony. The adjudicators praised the band, which was competing with more than 400 other bands from across Canada, for its performance and remarked on the young musicians' potential. The day before, the band performed their selections at an open air performance at Nathan Phillips Square in front of Toronto City Hall. Last Wednesday night the junior and senior bands played at a public concert in the school gym. The final performance of the 1995-96 edition of the senior band will be at the school's graduation, June 26. The Jazzmaniacs, the senior jazz band, will be playing at the Chesterville Agricultural Society's Lobster Madness dinner and dance June 22.

Whole lotto luck

Williamsburg's Gordon Spearman had luck on his side when he bought a Lotto 6/49 ticket at Swenson's in Morrisburg recently. Spearman won the second prize in the May 22 draw, and picked up a cheque Friday for $74,631.90. Spearman, 49, is a mechanic for the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, said he was going to pay off his mortgage with the winnings.

VILLAGE OF CHESTERVILLE PUBLIC NOTICE FIRE HYDRANT FLUSHING

The Utility Operations of OCWA will be conducting scheduled maintenance of village fire hydrants. This program is designed to ensure that our hydrants will be ready if needed by the Fire Department.

The hydrants are inspected for proper operation and their flow capacities are checked. This maintenance procedure is routine but may result in some temporary minor inconveniences such as reduced water pressure or "red" water.

IF COLOURED WATER IS DETECTED

- 1) Please open your COLD water taps to clear the system.
- 2) The coloured water is not hazardous to health.
- 3) This situation is temporary and should last no longer than two hours.

The flushing operation will commence on June 10 and will be completed by June 14.

The staff of the Ontario Clean Water Agency thanks you for your cooperation and understanding.

Legendary Wyn Thompson is The Farmer's Wife

Melissa Batchilder
Record Staff

The sun couldn't be shining more brightly through a kitchen window in a house settled into a hill on Hwy. 43 near Kemptville.

A sumptuous waft of fresh-baked bread travels throughout the entire home leaving visitors longing for a taste of it lathered with melting butter, and there sitting barefoot on a chair in a corner of the living room, as a combination of what's gone in our world and what is to come is... The Farmer's Wife.

Clad in a denim embroidered shirt, her age seems infinite. Her silver hair is curled and her lips are a soft pink.

The Chesterville Record's legendary columnist is most humble in accepting any sort of recognition for her efforts in sharing her life with readers during the past 20 years. Wyn Thompson is in many respects a very private person.

Taking time to shed her purported veil of secrecy and share her home and world candidly for the first time publicly is rare. At first she shunned the idea and then supposed "well maybe I will afterall."

It is in this brick home she shares with "the farmer" and "cat" that she has created hundreds of columns for readers to enjoy a relaxed and peaceful moment of her solitude. "That's really why I write them," she explains. "I enjoy solitude and that's my goal in writing. I want a person to be able to relax and centre themselves."

Anyone who has read The Farmer's Wife recognizes this and knows of her affection for her natural surroundings and the people in it. Wyn's unique style allows for her to share it.

However, it's a funny thing about writers. Readers think they know everything there is to know about the writer, but fail to recognize that they only see as much about the writer as the writer has allowed.

Now she is going a bit beyond.

Wyn was raised in Hallville, "I'm a village girl" and has spent a lifetime raising a family just down the road. With two sons and "the farmer" to take care of, she spent years at home on the farm in the traditional role of mother and wife. "That didn't mean I didn't work though," she laughs.

Once her children were raised though, she decided to put her Grade 13 education and previous experience at the Scotiabank into action.

Resuming a career at the Kemptonville Advance, Winchester Press and Prescott Journal, Wyn worked as a typesetter before putting her thoughts to paper. "It was great to be in on the change to web offset printing," she explains, as in the early days of her newspaper career, large machines were used for typesetting and work was often filled with long hours.

At the time she began writing The Farmer's Wife she had been freelancing for The Family Herald out of Montreal and at one time was writing profiles for The Eastern Ontario Farmer and features for The County Roots. Of course, because she and her family often made camping treks to the New England states, she also wrote for Camping World.

The bread is done and Wyn jumps up to go to the kitchen. "I like to take it out before it gets moist." It is at this point that readers can get a glimpse of Wyn's progressive disposition. She uses a bread machine! "Oh, I did that a while ago. It's so much better."

Briefly, Wyn switches the topic of conversation to another avenue in her career when she worked for the Rideau Valley Conservation Authority as its bookkeeper and secretary-treasurer.

"It's sad to think that conservation authorities may be going the way of the dinosaur. Many aspects of them are worth retaining."

Once she began her column, which also began running in The Chesterville Record decades ago, she didn't stop, except for the occasional hiatus.

"I've always enjoyed writing."

Writing profiles was always a favorite form because it gave her the opportunity to write about women. "Although a woman's work was never done, it was seldom ever documented." The opportunity to do so was important to Wyn.

Throughout the years of her column, often featured characters became cherished. Indeed "the farmer" has a real name - Trevor. "I've always called him 'the farmer' though." However "cat" is just simply called cat.

Trevor has been her husband and best friend for 50 years. "He's one of the most scheduled people I have ever met." His ability to complement her is cherished, "but he's not afraid to criticize me either!"

About once a week or "whenever the spirit moves me" Wyn heads to the basement and puts a sheet of newsprint cutting into her old manual typewriter. There she sits and composes her thoughts.

Recently though, progression overtook her and she purchased a computer. "It's an old one, but I bought a book on how to operate it and I'll give it a go." Whether or not her columns will ever be written on computer remains to be seen, she chuckles.

When a column is written, she posts it to Chesterville for publication and her deed is done for that week.

Although Wyn admits she's never been one to be involved in groups, she is a member of the Valley Writer's Guild and acts as its treasurer. "I enjoy that but I'm really not a group person." Again, she enjoys her solitude interspersed with various personalities. "I love people, but not in a structured setting." As well, with her current work at the Kemptonville shop, Arts and Accents, she meets lots of people.

Perhaps, she wonders, it's her fiercely independent streak that navigates her lifestyle. "I'm independent almost to a fault," she assures. It's a trait handed down by the women in her family. "My grandmother was a businesswoman, which was rare in those days, as she worked as a milliner, dressmaker and tailor." And then there was her aunt who ran an ice cream parlor and tea room. Later, while she was in her 60s, that same aunt worked full-time in the kitchen at Kemptonville Hospital.

Although in her columns it may appear that she is a traditional farmer's wife, those who know her realize the difference. Her futuristic ideas are obvious and Wyn's greatest ambition in life is to continue learning until the day she dies.

"I think living on a farm has made me that way along with the presence of my grandchildren. They certainly keep me that way." With two sons and several grandchildren, she notes, "my sons certainly wouldn't allow it to be any other way. They keep me on my toes."

The influence of her "very modern eldest granddaughter" is also a means of keeping current. "It's one of the benefits of having grandchildren; they keep you in touch."

As well, surviving in a male household, "I had to give as good as I took."

If Wyn isn't writing then chances are she's busy with something equally as enjoyable. She works in her garden and in the kitchen. "My days are filled and I go full-tilt all the time." Of course, she loves to read and enjoys mysteries.

That's a taste of the life lead by The Farmer's Wife. But remember, she's a writer. You're only going to know as much as she allows, but for that alone readers are grateful.

Melissa!

by Melissa Batchilder

Wa-hah! I wander down to check the faxes the other day cause it was Thursday and I have no life and the second hand store was closed and much to my delight there was a fax for me. Yippee! I never get faxes, so I covet the slippery paper that tastes funny if you lick the back and run upstairs to read it.

Half-way up the stairs I stop dead bolt and lean on the railing. It of course didn't hold my slender frame and fell off the wall cause it's only being held in place with tape. Kinda like my own place, Lilac Grove. So then I sort of crumble to the floor with a look of devastation. The fax was from Cal West Inspection and Audit Services, Inc.

I'm now havin' a bird cause I think someone's caught up with me and gonna demand payment for something. Gee, usually they just send a registered letter. Then I try and remember all the people I owe 10 bucks to because maybe they don't have a sense of humor when I say they aren't getting it back. But usually those people just get together and take me to small claims court. Then I just have my wages at d'Record garnisheed and that solves that problem.

So what gives? Did Island Tel get my new address some how? I mean like, years ago when the collectors would call d'oisland lookin' for me Fadder would just tell them that he had no idea where I was. Then he'd give them this spiel about how I really wasn't really his child anyway, but a distant cousin who visited once. As a matter of fact, perhaps the collector should check the Canadian soup kitchens directory or the prison system. They'd probably have better luck.

Then I close my eyes. An auditor has found me and he's gonna want money and I don't have any so he'll take the car and then my beast from the east will be driven by a stranger who doesn't regard it as a member of the family. Oh. Oh. Oh. Things aren't good. Don't go there.

I open my eyes and start to read the fax. It's from Hazel Arrellaga. Sounds like an auditor's name doesn't it? I visualize Hazel with cat glasses that have a chain to hang them around her neck. Of course, she has a tight bun in her hair that stretches her eyes apart and a pair of sensible shoes on her feet. Oh, and she's not laughing. In fact, she hasn't laughed since 1972. Oh dear. And she's wearing a sensible suit, navy blue actually. I read on.

At first I thought it said the fax was regarding my world and I get all defensive. Who is this dame to comment on my world? Me and my little world are just fine thank you very much. Okay so maybe it's a little delusional from time to time and I need the odd tranquilizer to keep me in tune, but it's not a bad world.

Oh, it actually reads, "regarding your work." Heavens, has Robin not been paying my income tax thingy on the payroll and I'm gonna get caught for it?

Read on. Well, well, well. It appears that Hazel is pretty cool. In fact, Hazel is really cool cause she likes my work. Hey and she lives in Southern California. Now, she's mega-mega-cool. As a matter of fact I was just this morning thinking about how I'd like to go to southern California. Imagine that. What a coincidence? Actually, my entire family was thinking of going there for oh, say, three weeks. I mean now that Hazel and I are close friends she would probably want us to stay there. A motel? Out of the question, I'm sure.

So it was really nice of Hazel to send the fax. I mean, it was really nice cause it really made my day. But Hazel, did ya hafta scare me like that? I thought I was gonna have to beg my fadder for another loan. That alone is enough for the ole cheese to slip off my cracker. Next time just white out that auditing thingy letterhead. Now I have to go and take another one of those periodic tranquilizers.

By the way, Hazel says she and her husband are expatriates of Chesterville. That's my goal in life someday too! Oh Hazel, we have so much in common. I can't wait until I get there.

Like I mean, I've always thought of myself as somewhat of a movie star y'know, but I never knew anyone I could stay with in California until the movie directors discovered me. And I missed the last talent scout that did auditions here in Chestervegas. I wanted to do my step dancing while blowing bubbles routine for him. Hey, it's a hit with the kids on the street.

Like Hazel, when ya live in California, do you see movie stars all the time? I've always wanted to meet Robert Redford. I'm convinced he would like me. We'd form a bond and I'd tell him all about d'oisland and then I'd take him there and mudder would make biscuits and we'd sit on the deck and talk about how he wants to remake The Way We Were and cast me in the role that Barbra Streisand played. Wow!

As I reread this, I think the current love of my life may be right... my imagination tends to get colorful. Oh well. Hazel if you ever decide to repatriate yourself with this thriving metropolis please drop into Lilac Grove for a cuppa tea or better yet we could go and hang out at d'-Heritage together. You can tell me about what it's like to live in California and I can tell you what it's like to live in Joe Batt's Arm, Newfoundland. My dear it'll be some grand. Oh, we'll have such a splendid time!

It appears the Scotiabank parking lot seems to be a grand spot to hang out on a warm summer evening. This being my first summer living here in the metropolis, I just realized that this is the place to be after 9 p.m.

Now I actually haven't parked my beast there yet to watch the cars go by, but I'm sure by mid-July I'll be hangin' there with the rest of the boys. They have such a cultural lifestyle. That's it. I just want to sit and watch who goes into Becker's after 10 p.m. to buy milk and a paper cause I'm a crazy-livin' kinda girl.

And when I get real adventurous I'm gonna wander over to the park bench by the bridge and see what that attraction is. Oh well, if there's no harm done then there shouldn't be any fuss. I mean no one throws eggs at m'car when I drive by after dark so I don't think there should be any concern.

Plus, I mean, didn't we all used to just hang out? It's kind of a small town cultural icon. Kids hangin' out. I used to love sittin' on the post of fice door step back home until all hours of the night. I was so cool. I used to sit and sit and sit. I swear there was a worn spot in the cement from my butt. I used to say I'm not going home until 10 cars go by. Being the sleepy town it was, I wouldn't get home until three days later!

I was out to Yuk-Yuk's comedy show for a bit Saturday night. Seemed to be a great time. Lots of people there. Sponsored by the Lions.

Anyways I ran into this missus who asks me what exactly the current love of my life looks like. So, I promised I would answer this question in this week's paper.

Of course, he's really tall and built and has an I.Q. of 249 and he's funny and generous and has beautiful eyes and gorgeous hair and he's really, really, really wealthy. What? Doncha believe me? Are you like the rest who think the reason no one's met him is because he's in solitary confinement at the Kingston Pen? Not true. It's just, unlike any other beau I've ever dated, this current love of my life has a job. What a concept!

Okay, so maybe I did fib a bit in his description; but when I look at him, that's what I see. And no, he doesn't resemble a bag of hammers! Oh, and that job is full-time. Mudder is so proud of me.

Congratulations to Kaileen Cotnam for her endeavor in bringing a hardware store to Chesterville. I was up to its opening Saturday morning and it's absolutely wonderful to have a facility like that in our midst. Kudos Mrs. Cotnam for taking the initiative when no one else would and providing Chesterville with what's long overdue.

The dirt bike "issue" in Williamsburg Township is dragging on. This is how I see it. Council should have been a bit more thorough, to say the least, in its notifying residents of its intention to change a zoning by-law. However, on the other hand as residents, it is our civic duty to keep an eye on what takes place in our community.

As well, it is up to each one of us individually to gain awareness of how our governments work. Indeed, it's an unfortunate situation, but one we can learn from and not allow to happen again.

For the Adams family who own the dirt-bike track, one can't be faulted for trying to make a living as best they can.

Y'know, it's tough being an "80s woman." That's what I am, I say, and I'm proud of it. However, the fact that the 1980s brought removable shoulder pads hasn't always been to my benefit.

Case in point. When being introduced to important business people and a shoulder pad works its way out the top of your shirt and bounces to the floor. Try and retrieve that with dignity. Oh, woe is me. Just pray that there's a chair nearby that you can kick it under. Chances are though that you will miss the shoulder pad and just kick some guy in the leg. Been there, done that.

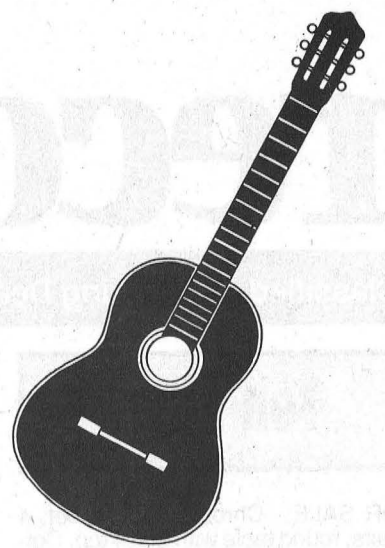

Despite the insistence of those who share my quarters, the garden at Lilac Grove is way ahead of Danna Whitehead's. The race is on. May the best green thumb win!

Is it true?! Is it true?! I heard that Chester B. Goose has been hit by a car. In fact, rumor has it was a gray car. If anyone can confirm this, please call me.

This Week

Dundas elementary track athletes shone last Thursday.
Please see page 17

Photos, clockwise from left: Tagwi's Troy Stelmach bolts out of the starting block on thway to his victory in the 400m; he also won the 800. NDDHS track coach Julie Holmes's EOSSAA record in the junior girls 100m of 11.8, set in 1976, survived its 20th anniversary intact as SGDHS's Trish Powers won the event in 12.85. SDHS's Sharon Spear has her eyes set on the finish line as she moves out in front of the field in the senior girls 100m hurdles. Murray Link and Lauren Clobridge were each triple winners at EOSSAA. Rhonda Sherrer, here in third going into the bell lap, placed second in the midget girls 3000, behind Ernestown Collegiate's Erin McDougall, here out in front.

Area athletes take fast track

Murray Link, Sharon Spear honored by Cornwall Lions, both star at EOSSAA meet

OTTAWA - It was another week packed with achievements and recognition for North Dundas District High School runner Murray Link.

Link was named both Junior Athlete of the Year and High School Track Male Athlete of the Year at the Cornwall Lions Club's 33rd annual sports awards dinner last Wednesday night.

On Thursday he showed why he is the outstanding distance runner in SD&G as he placed first in the 800 and 1500 at the EOSSAA meet at Ottawa's Terry Fox Field and Friday he carried out the triple as he won the EOSSAA 3000, putting him in the Eastern Regional Meet at Terry Fox this Thursday in all three events.

His time in the 800 was 1:57.5; he ran the 1500 in 3:56.48 and finished out the two-day meet Friday evening with a time of 8:56.77 in the 3000.

Seaway District's Sharon Spear was recognized as the Cornwall Lion's Club's Female Track Athlete of the Year and she also came through with a triple at the EOSSAA meet, setting a record in the senior girls 400 and placing first in the 100 meter hurdles and 200.

Spear will lead the four-member SDHS contingent at the Eastern Regional Meet.

Stephanie Devries ran fifth in the 300m hurdles; Derrick Caselman placed third in the junior boys high jump and Kevin MacKillican placed third in the senior boys high jump.

NDDHS's Lauren Clobridge will help anchor the school's regional meet contingent.

On Thursday Clobridge placed first in the senior girls 1500 with a time of 4:47 and she finished her second day of competition at EOSSAA Friday night, besting the 3000m field with a time of 10:37.

Midget Matt Carkner set a meet record in the javelin with a throw of 55.34 meters.

Midget runner Rhonda Sherrer won the 1500 Thursday with a time of 4:47 and placed second in the 800 in 2:34 and second in the 3000 in 11:12.93.

Maggie Graham will go the regionals on the strength of her fourth-place finish in 13.36 in the senior girls 100.

Leah Fawcett will also be travelling to Ottawa Thursday after placing fourth in the midget girls javelin with a throw of 28.94 meters.

Tagwi will be sending four athletes to the regionals.

Troy Stelmach led the Warriors last Friday with first-place finishes in both the junior boys 400 and 800 meter events.

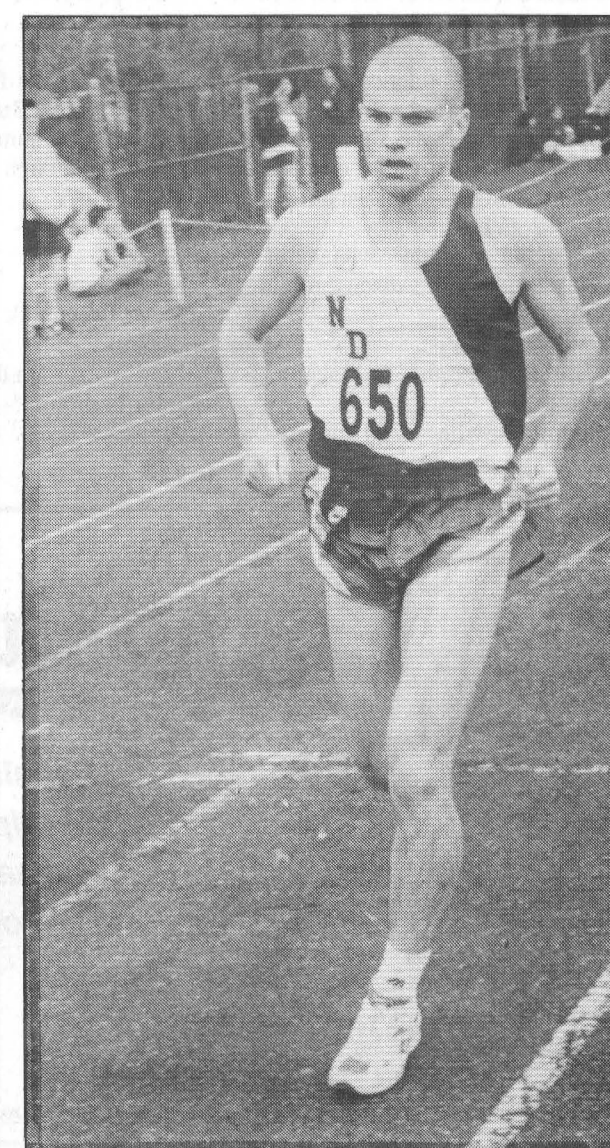

Midget pole vaulter Patrick Mayer placed second, while Joey McGillis placed fifth.

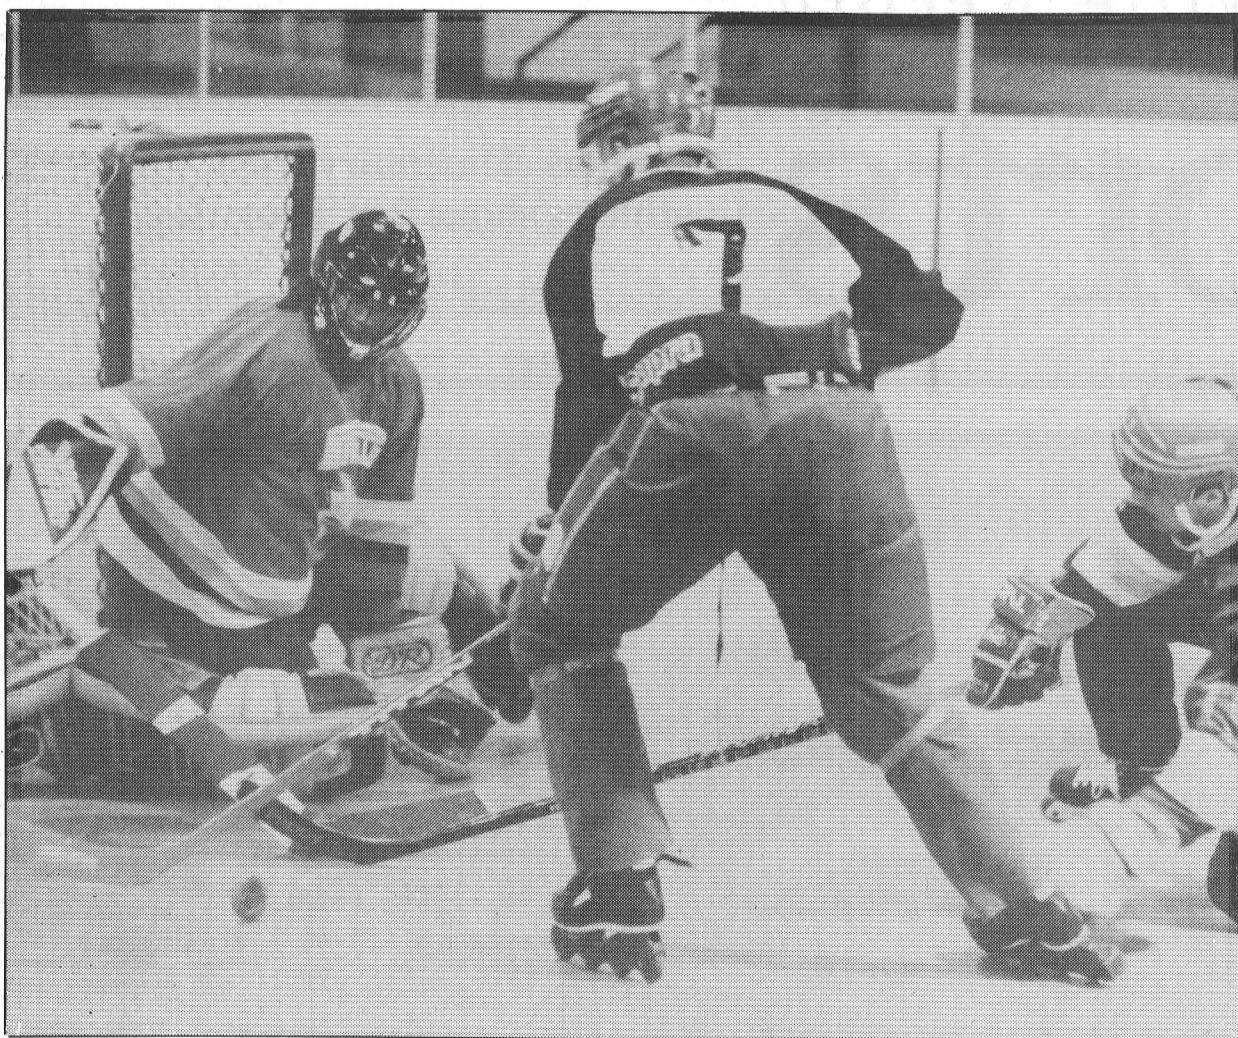

Midget girls triple jumper Leslie Brown placed fourth in her event last Friday.

Rothwell-Osnabruck's Kelly Rombough continued her outstanding 1996 field season, placing first in the senior girls javelin, bettering her SD&G placing of the week before when she placed second.

Tim Bourque placed fifth in the junior boys javelin and fellow Lancer Steve Iwachniuk was fifth in the senior discus and shot put.

It's been 20 years since NDDHS track coach Julie Holmes set the EOSSAA junior girls 100-meter record and the mark of 11.8, set in 1976 while she was a student at NDDHS, will stand for at least another year after South Grenville District High School's Trish Powers won the event in a time of 12.85

White Mist's Andrew Holmes (7) gets ready to lift a shot at Yellow goaltender Dave Brandwood in Winchester Men's Roller Hockey League action last Thursday night.

Marcellus the magician, Yellow mellow with win

The first game was tight and the second no contest as the Winchester and District Men's Roller Hockey League continued their season on Thursday, May 23.

Todd Marcellus and his team Black Magic continue to dominate the league as he earned 12 points, Ron Coughlar earned five, Clinton Holmes picked up 14 points and Warren Holmes earned eight points.

The first game pitted Mellow Yellow against the White Mist and Mellow Yellow notched their first win of the young season with a 7-6 victory.

In a back and forth contest, the game went right down to the wire but four goals in the third by Mellow Yellow clinched the victory.

Scoring for Mellow Yellow were Gary McInnis, Steve Deruchie with the hat trick, Dave Beehler with two and Barry Barkley with the single.

Assists went to Barkely (two), goalie Dave Brandwood and McInnis (three).

Scoring for the White Mist were

Rob Darling and Andrew Holmes with two each and Rob Raistrick and Jason Ross chipping in with singles.

Mellow Yellow's record now stands at 1-1-1 and White Mist holds a 1-2-0 record early in the season.

The next game was no contest as the powerful Black Magic kept their winning streak intact (3-0-0). They defeated the Redmen 17-5 as four players dominated the game for the Black Magic.

Todd Marcellus had five goals and seven assists, Ron Coughlar had five goals, Clinton Holmes picked up 14 points with two goals and 12 assists and Warren Holmes had five goals and three assists. Paul Warren added four assists to the rout.

The Redmen's record moved to (0-2-1) as they just couldn't shut down the Black Magic. Scoring for the Redmen were Jamie McIntosh, Terry Hamilton and Rick Hess with the hat trick.

Assisting on the goals were Hess, Hamilton and McIntosh.

Lu's Tae Kwon Do held another Break-A-Thon event for the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario on April 27.

This is a charitable event which was held this year at Place d'Orleans with all proceeds going to the CHEO Foundation.

In attendance this year were approximately 200 students from various branches of Lu's Tae Kwon Do. The day was spent breaking boards, each board raising $3 for CHEO. There were also numerous Tae Kwon Do demonstrations throughout the day.

Goaltenders hanging tough in women's ball hockey action

The Chesterville/Winchester Women's Ball Hockey League continues to feature low scoring and very close games as the goaltenders continue to do their jobs.

On Thursday, May 23 the first game featured the Swirls taking on the Hot Flashes with the Swirls winning 2-1 on a goal in the dying minutes of the game.

Brenda Koekoek scored both goals for the Swirls with the assists going to Christine Ibbetson, Roseanna Boersma (two) and Colleen Stewart.

The single goal for the Hot Flashes was scored by Jane Sachs with the assist to Sandra Brunner.

The second game matched the Green Go Getters against the Aqua Pumps. The Aqua Pumps were winning 1-0 at the end of the second but a last minute surge by the Green Go Getters gave them the 2-1 win.

Scoring for the Green Go Getters were Dee Dee VanLoon and Catie Clapp with the assists going to Kim Shaver, Leeanne VanDelst and Chantal Houde.

Scoring for the Aqua Pumps was Julie Armstrong with the assist from her linemate Sandra Beggs.

The third contest saw strong goaltending from the Margueritas Elaine Teplate as backstopped her team to a 3-0 win over the Juicers.

Linda Klein-Swormink notched two unassisted goals for the Margueritas and Linda Hamelin chipped in with the single. Assisting on the third goal were Rebecca Kennedy and Bonnie Ralko.

Corbett-White on a roll, leads Red Hots with four

The Red Hot Rollers continued their dominance of the Winchester and District Ladies Roller Hockey League as they defeated the Rippers 11-3 on Wednesday, May 22.

Deanna Corbett-White was the big gun for the Red Hot Rollers as she scored four goals and chipped in with two assists to lead her team to the win.

The other goal scorers were Catie Clapp with two goals, Sandra Brunner with the hat trick and Kim Clost and Tammy Shaver chipped in with the singles. Kathy Byvelds picked up the single assist.

Scoring for the Rippers were Marie Shelp with two and Rhonda Winter with the single. Assisting on the goals were Winter, Shelp and April Pashak.

The second game was a tight contest between Blue Thunder and the Sharp Shooters. All the scoring took place in the first period and the game ended in a 4-4 tie.

Scoring for Blue Thunder were Kelly Durant with two and Jen Adams and Megan Arsenault with the singles.

Assisting on the goals were Tara Berry (three) and Jenn McDonald with one.

The Sharp Shooters goals were scored by Marilyn Collins and Shawna Sullivan with two each.

Assisting on the goals were Karen Dalrymple (two) and Alison Banford.
