

Matilda Youth Is Widely Mourned

The community of Brinston mourns the loss of one of its most highly respected youths, Charles Brian Leach, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Henderson. Born December 7th 1941, he was bereaved of his mother at the age of eleven months, since that time making his home with his sister, Mrs. Lorne (Olive) Henderson.

On Thursday evening Charlie, with his friend Dale Froats, were driving north of Brinston with his brother's late model car when they drove into snow and slush just over a narrow bridge on County Road No. 1. The car went out of control and struck a cement culvert sideways, throwing both passengers into the ditch. Charlie was fatally injured and passed away, on the way to the District Memorial Hospital at Winchester. The car was completely demolished.

He received his public school education at Payne School S. S. No. 13, graduating to Iroquois High School at the age of 12 years. Just two weeks ago he received his graduating diploma from Grade 13, receiving also the Principal's Medal for the highest standing in Trigonometry and Statics for 1958 - 1959.

He was possessed of a very quiet and mannerly disposition and everyone who knew him respected him most highly for his integrity, his sterling qualities and his high ideals for the future.

He was a member of Brinston United Church, the Sunday School, and at an earlier age was President of the Mission Band. He was also a member of the 4-H Clubs and keenly interested in athletic sports.

Surviving are his invalid father, Mr. G. Leach, of Carleton Place, Ontario; his foster parents Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Henderson; Robert, Terris, Francis; six sisters, Mrs. F. Vaughn (Eileen), of Richmond, Ontario; Mrs. G. Hodson (Isobel), Mrs. A. Gauthier (Doris), Mrs. D. Campbell (Florence), Mrs. W. Husbey (Bet), all of Toronto; two brothers, George, of Toronto, and Sandy, of Montreal, and one grand-nephew, Kevin Henderson.

The funeral service was conducted from his home to Brinston United Church on Sunday December 6th, by his Pastor, Rev. C. A. Adey, who spoke most comforting words to the bereaved relatives and friends. The choir was directed by Mrs. Harold Boyd. The requested hymns were: "O Love that will not let me go", "Guide me Oh Thou Great Jehovah", God's way is the best way". The high esteem in which the deceased was held was shown by the large number who attended the funeral service and many floral tributes. The pallbearers were: Alex Scott, Harold Payne, Dale Froats, Charles Waddell, Dennis Coleman, and Allen McQuigge.

The funeral cortege proceeded to Spruce Haven cemetery, Brinston where interment took place.

Here & There

by Kay Kay

We had a suggestion tossed our way by Ralph VanAllen this week and having agreed with him, decided to help him get support.

Our community is lacking in some measures in facilities for keeping our young people occupied. Some adults as well, it seems. Ralph feels that a hockey team or teams, sponsored by local merchants and organizations, might be a start in the right direction for winter sports. We agree.

All we have to do now is find out who else might be interested in sponsoring a team. . . starting with midgets or peewees or what have you. One merchant last year provided sweaters for a ball team. . . perhaps the sweaters could be used for a hockey team this winter.

It seems now that we are going to be assured of an outdoor skating rink. . . with part of the rink to be used for hockey and an outside circle, protected by boards, to be used for skaters. If the weather turns cold enough and lasts long enough we may have a rink for the first time in a long while. Along with sponsors we will also need coaches. . . personally our only contact with hockey has been as a spectator but we have in the village many an old-time hockey player who might really enjoy to coach a group of youngsters. One thing certain. . . we have plenty of potential talent, ranging from 6 to 7 years up. Energy they have aplenty—ability and agility progress together.

The kids can't do it by themselves. . . they have to have adult help and guidance and there is nothing more enthusiastic than competition between youngsters in games of sport such as hockey.

It's asking a lot for any one merchant to sponsor a team but by going together in groups, along with help from local associations, it can be done and should be done. Many an old-time hockey player looks back to his hockey-playing days as some of the best he has experienced. We should give the present generation the same happiness. There are many youngsters in the community who cannot skate, simply because we have not had the facilities here for a few years. Children enjoy playing in groups and competing in groups.

This should be a community effort and will be if anyone interested will call either Ralph VanAllen or Ken Kirkby. Once it is known how many may be interested a meeting can be called to organize a league in the community.

Liberal Women Attend November Meeting

The November meeting of the Liberal Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. D. Beckstead, Riverside Heights, on Wednesday, November 18th, with a very good attendance. The main business at this meeting was the installation of an executive for the coming year, and the following members were chosen:

Honorary President, Mrs. Lester Pearson; Honorary Vice-President, Mrs. Raymond Armstrong; President, Mrs. Harry Allison; 1st. Vice-President, Miss Marion Coligan; 2nd. Vice-President, Mrs. Jack Notman; 3rd. Vice-President, Mrs. Mark Salmon; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Mac Curran; Press Secretary, Miss Helen Hugheson; Directors: Prescott, Mrs. D. L. McLean; Morrisburg, Mrs. George Beavers; Chesterville, Mrs. E. J. Brady; Cardinal, Mrs. Leonard Rooke; Edwardsburg, Mrs. Dale Beckstead; Iroquois, Mrs. Helen Smith; Matilda, Mrs. Carl Empey; Winchester Township, Mrs. Howard Kittle.

Following the main business of the meeting, Mrs. Margaret Newman, Ottawa, addressed the meeting, and in a very interesting and entertaining manner she presented the highlights of the past meeting in Toronto, and mentioned the big problem of immigration, and also capital punishment for juveniles. She spoke of the Liberal party as a party of free enterprise, and the rejection of socialism in Great Britain. Mrs. Jean McLean presented Mrs. Newman with a gift and expressed thanks on behalf of the association.

The president, Mrs. Allison, mentioned the personal letters of Mr. Pearson to new Canadians, and suggested that the members send in the name of those of their acquaintance from this area, to Mr. Pearson.

Following the meeting, the hostess and her assistants served a delicious lunch, and a social hour was enjoyed.

Installation Ceremony At Eastern Star

At the recent regular meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star, Installation Ceremony was held. Visitors from several surrounding Chapters were present. Among them being the newly installed District Grand Matron, Mrs. Julia Bustard of Collins Bay, District no. 13.

Arrests Made In Apartment In Maine After Tip From OPP

$100 Offer

Looking for $100 to do your Christmas shopping? Well that amount is being offered as this week's Bonus Buck jackpot—last week's draw was not won and the ante was raised by $50.00.

The draw will be held at 9 o'clock as usual and officials say they will try to hold it as close to 9 as possible so that customers will not be kept in the cold too long—or in suspense either!

The $100 would look good hanging in a stocking, would it not? It may be yours!

Wanted by Ontario Provincial Police on charges of kidnapping and armed robbery at Belleville and of armed robbery at Niagara-on-the-Lake and Iroquois, Warren Wilbert Durning, 24, of Economy, N.S., and Richard Madison, 17, of Boston, Maine, were arrested Monday in Bangor, Maine.

Mrs. Batchelor President United W.M.S.

The Women's Missionary Society's December meeting was held in the United Church parlors, Tuesday, the 8th, with an unusually large attendance.

The devotions were led by Mrs. L. J. Dean who used the Christmas theme and as well, some thought-provoking notes around the carol "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night".

The President, Mrs. Mac Fetterly, handed the meeting over to Rev. Dean for the installation of the new slate of officers, which follows:

President, Mrs. A. W. Batchelor; 1st. vice-president, Mrs. L. Merkley; 2nd. vice-president, Mrs. C. Carter; 3rd. vice-president, Mrs. C. McQuaig; recording secretary, Mrs. C. Carter; assistant recording secretary, Mrs. J. L. Fetterly; corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. Serviss; treasurer, Mrs. C. McQuaig.

Department secretaries: Mrs. A. Brown, Christian Stewardship; Miss C. Smith, Community Friendship; Mrs. W. McAdam, Supply; Miss Eunice Armstrong (See Page Five)

The two men, who were followed across Ontario by a concentration of upwards of 100 Ontario Provincial Police officers, were placed on the RCMP's most wanted list last week. Acting on a number of tips received in his office, Commissioner W. J. Franks tipped off the Maine police who made the arrests. The men surrendered without a struggle according to police reports.

When the two men appeared in this area, they were first spotted at an apartment house a half mile east of Cardinal. For two days they led police a merry chase, first from the basement of the Cardinal house, then later after holding Mrs. R. McLeod and Mrs. M. J. Skelly captive for several hours in their home on No. 2 Highway, west of Iroquois. As they fled from this home, when Mrs. McLeod escaped to summon help, they swept into Dundela area with Mrs. McLeod's car, leaving Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson Froats with memories of their visit. Police were closing in on the pair when they again headed onto country roads in the direction of Chesterville and once more eluded capture when they abandoned the car with a Provincial Police cruiser in hot pursuit.

The two suspects were reported by their victims to be polite and considerate while they held their victims at gunpoint.

The attorney-general's office had posted a $2,000 reward for information leading to their arrest.

Wilbert Durning at one time resided in Iroquois, in the old community.

Village Joins In Mourning With Family Late G. A. Casselman

Garnet Almon (Bill) Casselman, a well known resident of Iroquois, died suddenly at his home on Lakeview Drive, on Monday, November 30. He was 50 years of age.

Born August 26th, 1909, at Dundela, Ontario, he was a son of the late Elery S. Casselman and his wife, Sarah Elizabeth Casselman. He received his education in the local schools and moved with the family to Iroquois in 1924. He entered Officer's Training School, Toronto, in 1925 and obtained the rank of Lieutenant and remained on the reserve list of the Fourth Hussars in Prescott until 1937 when they affiliated with Princess Louise Dragoon Guards. In February 1941 the unit mobilized. During the years 1941 - 1943 he was an instructor at Cornwall Training Centre and Camp Borden until going overseas in 1944 where he was attached to the Governor General's Footguards and served on active duty until January 1946. Previous to active army duty he was employed with the Bell Telephone Co. and Martin Transport Ltd.

Deceased was an ardent sportsman and greatly interested in any activities pertaining to the youth of the village. He also took a keen interest in any movement for the betterment of the town.

In 1938 he married Margaret Elizabeth MacIntosh of Iroquois, who survives.

Since May, 1939, he has operated the British American Service Station in Iroquois, having received his 20-year plaque in May.

Mr. Casselman was a charter member and a Past President of the Iroquois Lions Club and a member and a Past President of the Canadian Legion, Branch 370, Iroquois. He was instrumental in the formation of the Civil Defence in this area and was Assistant Staff Superintendent to J. W. Bain, Prescott, Staff Superintendent in charge of all Auxiliary Police in the Eastern Counties of Ontario.

Surviving besides his wife are one son, Mac; two daughters, Gayle and Sally Lue, all at home; one sister, Mrs. Howard Saddleire, (Rita), Williamsburg; also several nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by an infant son and a brother, Merton.

Funeral services were held on Wednesday, December 2nd, at the Fitzsimmons' Funeral Home, Iroquois, with Rev. J. Leslie Dean, Pastor of Iroquois United Church, officiating. A guard of honor was formed at the Funeral Home and the cemetery by members of the Ontario Provincial Police, No. 11 District.

Interment was in the family

Car Rams Store

A freak accident Saturday morning caused more than $1,000 damage to the building and contents housing Robert Stephenson's furniture store in Williamsburg.

Lyall Coughler, Williamsburg, was coming into Williamsburg from the direction of Bouck's Hill and was in collision with a car proceeding south on Highway 31. The south-bound car was driven by Clarence Code, Prescott.

Following the impact, the Code car careened off a brick house into the furniture store. Fifteen feet of the wall was demolished and considerable damage done to furniture in the store.

Farm Forum Second Meeting

Social security on Canadian farms was the topic discussed on Monday night when the St. Lawrence Seaway Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Barkley.

During the half hour broadcast views and opinions of men on the various type of farming all across Canada were heard. For example, from Nova Scotia came the view of an apple grower in the Annapolis Valley, then from the far west in B.C. was heard the opinion of a poultry farmer, then across the prairies the grain grower and in Ontario, mixed farming, so there is little wonder that insurance and pensions for farmers is very difficult to deal with when so many types of farming must be considered.

Questions

1. Are you in favor of unemployment insurance for farm workers on: (a) a compulsory basis (b) a voluntary basis?

2. Would you favor a private pension plan for farmers? What is the best means of providing it?

Giving the opinion of our forum, we agreed that unemployment insurance is good in in- (See Page Eight) plot at Dundela United Church Cemetery.

Honorary pallbearers were: Messrs. J. B. L. Malette, A. L. Nickerson, L. E. Tunnicliffe, S. A. McClave, E. Perras, Maurice Blanchard, E. J. MacDonald, R. L. Champagne, all of Cornwall; Stanley Grant, Maitland; Donald Wells, Morrisburg. All were representatives of the British American Oil Co.

Pallbearers were Messrs. Keith Beaupre, Logie Serviss, Clifton Davis, Ray Dow, J. W. Bain and Mac Fetterly.

Soil and Crop Assn. Enjoy Successful Year

The Annual Meeting of the Dundas Soil and Crop Improvement Association held at Winchester Springs on Thursday December 10th drew many favourable comments from the good crowd in attendance.

Under the chairmanship of President Harry Williams, the meeting commenced at 11:00 a.m. and a bounteous noon hour lunch was served by the ladies of the Winchester Springs W. A.

The morning start was a new item this year and allowed time for a complete review of the Association's many projects by Agricultural Representative E. K. Pearson. The projects included trials of new varieties of forages and grasses, fertility trials, seed mixture, silage and grain corn test and pasture demonstrations.

Mr. George McIntosh, Fieldman for the Nestle Company, presented the Nestle Trophy to the winner of the Dundas Pasture Management Competition, Mr. Gerald Adams, Williamsburg. Bernard Brunt accepted the Trophy on behalf of Mr. Adams who is currently ill. Mr. Adams also received the Hogg and Lytle Award of $10.00 and a scroll.

Principle speaker of the day was Dr. Stanley Young, Department of Field Husbandry, Ontario Agriculture College, Guelph. Dr. Young dealt extensively with forage crops and emphasized the benefits of early cutting of hay. He illustrated his point with graphs showing the decrease of feeding value as forage crops become more mature. To obtain maximum feeding value from the hay crop, he stated, that for this area the last field of hay should be cut by June 30th. Thus he asserted the most desirable hay making period for Dundas County would be June 15th to June 30th. Questioned about the weather of this period Dr. Young stated that early cut hay receiving moderate rainfall was preferable to late hay cured without rain. He suggested, however, that cows would eat greater quantities of early cut hay and more of it would be required for winter feeding.

Concluding the programme were five minute reports by several County farmers. Bernard Brunt spoke on his experience with tile drainage. He cautioned persons interested in tile to consider the necessity of outlet ditches and the need for land which is relatively free from stones and hardpan. Providing these factors were not a problem, Mr. Brunt enthusiastically proclaimed tile drainage as a very satisfactory and profitable investment on poorly drained land. Other speakers were Baden Benwick on pasture improvement, Angus Smith on hay conditioners, Art Milne on Nitrogen application to pastures.

George Suffel, District Director to the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association reported on activities of the parent group, the pasture management competition and the Annual Conference of the Association to be held January 27th - 29th.

Mr. J. W. MacRae, Fieldman, Field Crops Branch, spoke briefly on the Eastern Ontario Conference to be held December 28th - 31st. He also requested a large Dundas entry in the United Counties' Seed Fair, which will be held at Chesterville this year.

In the election of officers and directors for the coming year the following were elected: President, Douglas Durant, Chesterville; 1st. Vice-President, Edwin McIntosh, Williamsburg; 2nd. Vice-President, Douglas Irvine; Brinston; 3rd. Vice-President, Malcolm Graham, South Mountain; Secretary-Treasurer, E. K. Pearson Morrisburg.

Letter of Thanks

On November 25th you really responded to my plea for blood donors. A wonderful achievement, we went up the ladder from one to ninety-one and ten more who were too late for the Clinic.

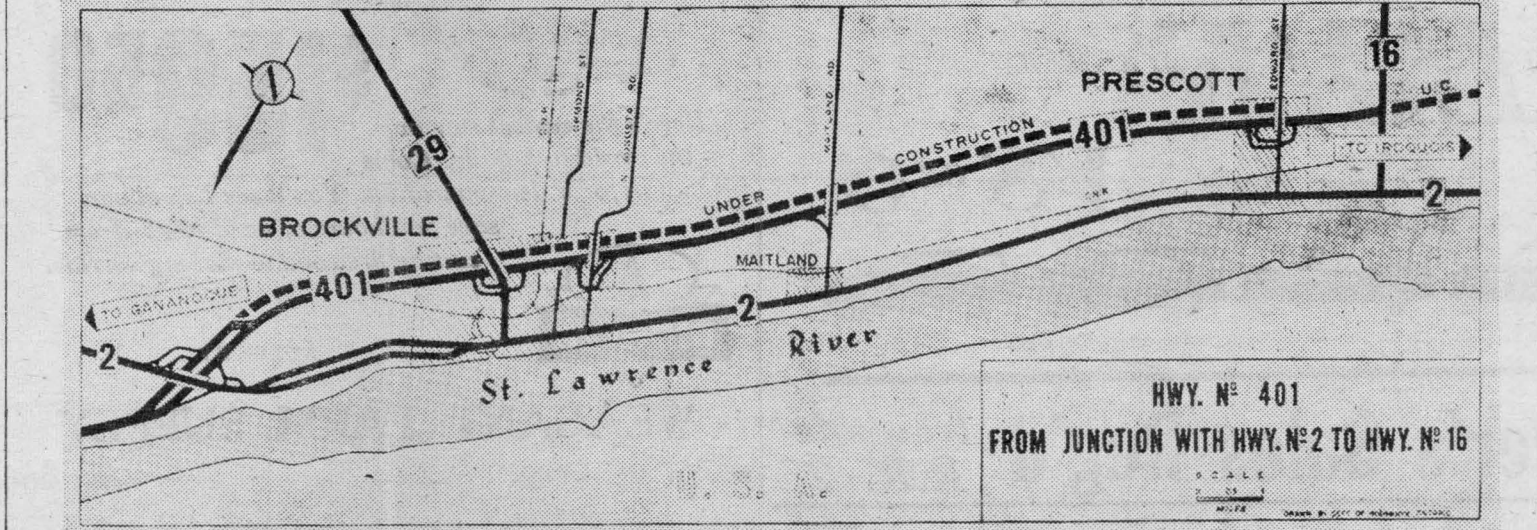

To everyone who volunteered my heartfelt thanks, you certainly did make me feel happy to see you all and I am sure you were happy too. The personnel of the Blood Donor Service the Red Cross and the nurses made everybody feel at home. My personal thanks to the following: Reeve L. C. Davis, Iroquois Branch Canadian Legion and the Red Cross who were very active in the duties assigned them. I know they all went home feeling tired but happy. This was a new duty and they sure did a good job.

Thanks also to the ministers of the different churches in our village; the nurses, Mrs. Allan Fisher and Mrs. W. D. Knox; Mr. Archie Bray; the local merchants and bank managers, and the residents of Matilda who came out in good numbers. Special thanks to Ken Kirkby who really worked hard for me in our local paper.

And thanks also to Mrs. Ronnie Brown and Graham Lindsay for their fine efforts on behalf of the Clinic.

On Christmas day just think you gave a present which Christmas cannot give, the most precious gift in life, "My Blood". James Drennan

An unlighted car, spaced between others showing lights, is a dangerous object at dusk - particularly at cross roads. When daylight begins to fade, put on your headlights immediately you see lights on other cars, recommends the Ontario Safety League.

A touch on your horn ring is the correct signal before commencing to back your car, points out the Ontario Safety League. It is particularly important to signal before backing across the side-walk; it could protect you from a heavy claim for damages in the event of an accident.

A slouching position in a car prevents full extension of the lungs, and leads to early fatigue. Sit immediately behind the wheel, with both shoulder blades touching the seat back, recommends the Ontario Safety League. The hands should not hold the steering wheel right at the top, nor at the bottom. Somewhere between 2 and 4 o'clock is correct for the right hand; between 8 and 10 o'clock for the left hand.

Sometimes a car's sun visors are not long enough to screen the glare from late afternoon sun. But a visor can be extended effectively, points out the Ontario Safety League, by slipping a paper bag or large envelope over the end.

They believe it is quite feasible to get together on a joint translation of the Scriptures.

The idea got a powerful boost from the respected Roman Catholic Journal, America. In an article, "The Bible is a Bond" associate editor, Walter M. Abbott, S. J. said a common translation of the Bible "would be a great achievement in the history of Christianity."

It is hoped that studies now being conducted by both groups of scholars may result in a meeting of minds on a joint translation of the Bible into English.

It would be hard to overestimate the importance of a universally reorganized translation of the Bible as a unifying force among Christians.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

The Editor,
Iroquois Post,
Iroquois, Ont.
On behalf of the Canadian Red Cross Society I should like to express my appreciation for the splendid co-operation extended by the many donors and volunteer workers who helped make the recent Blood Donor Clinic in Iroquois such a success.

The National Blood Transfusion Service benefits all members of the community and assures them that whenever and wherever they may be hospitalized, blood will be available at no charge. In so generously supporting the Clinic, the people of Iroquois and Matilda Township have contributed to the successful maintenance of this Service.

I know your Mail and President of the Iroquois Branch of the Canadian Red Cross, Mr. Lloyd C. Davis, joins me in extending congratulations to Mr. James Drennon of the Caldwell Linn Mills for his excellent organization of the Clinic, and a special word of thanks to the Registered Nurses and other volunteers who assisted at the Clinic.

All Donors who gave their Blood will shortly receive through the mail, a Red Cross Blood Donor Identification Card showing their group and type of blood. It is suggested these cards are carried at all times, and we would again like to thank the many donors for their contributions.

Earl C. Grandmaison,
Area Director,
Blood Donor Service.

Hulbert W.M.S.

The regular monthly meeting of the Hulbert Woman's Missionary Society was held at the home of Mrs. Nelson Scharfe on Wednesday afternoon, December 2nd. The meeting was in charge of the President and opened with Hymn 51.

The program was as follows: Reading, "He Took Them In", by Mrs. Donald Sullivan; Bible reading by Mrs. Annie Graham; Prayer by Mrs. Laura McQuaig; meditation by Mrs. Nelson Scharfe; Hymn 62; reading, "The Old Fashioned Christmas has a message for You", by Mrs. Donald Sullivan; Christmas Stewardship, on Christmas.

As with most inventions, the Christmas card was the child of necessity. In 1843 a harried English businessman, Henry Cole, found himself badly behind in his Christmas correspondence. Postal facilities and letter copying being what they were, he knew by October he would never get all his greetings off to his friends in time. Then he had a brainstorm that earned him a million-dollar industry that, today, reaches practically every corner of the globe.

The current issue of The Star Weekly tells the complete story of how the Christmas card became the popular way of sending greetings and some remarkable illustrations of early cards accompany the article.

mas, by Mrs. Laura McQuaig; Minutes, roll call, business and collection; Community Friendship, "The Prodigal Father" by Mrs. Edith Mellan; prayer by Rev. C. A. Adey; Temperance reading, "The Brothers" by Mrs. Frank Beckstead.

The meeting closed with Hymn 57 and the benediction.

A social hour followed, after which lunch was served.

Miss Margaret Hopkins, of Smiths Falls, spent the weekend at her home here.

Miss Donalds Cain, her mother, Mrs. Irvin Cain, and Mrs. Bernard Cain, of Cornwall, visited Mr. and Mrs. Jim Irving on Friday and in the evening attended the Christmas concert at Garryowen school, where Miss Cain was a former teacher.

Mrs. J. McGregor and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie McGregor, of Ottawa, visited the former's sister, Mrs. H. B. Johnston, and Mr. Johnston, on Sunday.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. J. De Witt, who received word last week of the passing of her mother in Holland.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Millar moved last week to reside in Cardinal.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dienes, of Brockville, visited Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bennett, on Sunday.

Debbie Langstaff, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Langstaff, Mailand, spent the weekend at the home of her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Gilmer.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bennett visited the latter's mother, Mrs. R. Irving, Ventnor, who is a patient in St. Vincent Hospital, Brockville.

On Thursday evening, December 4th, the W.M.S. of Shanly United Church held an open meeting in the Sunday School room with guests from the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church and Presbyterian Church of Ventnor and Pittston.

Mrs. Jean Casselman, M.P., was the special speaker for the evening and showed films of her recent trip to the Orient.

The evening opened with piano music by Mrs. Earl Pitt. A short devotional period was conducted by the president, Mrs. C. Bennett, followed by a solo by Mrs. H. B. Johnston.

Mrs. Bennett introduced Mrs. Casselman, who, at the end of her address, was thanked on behalf of the W.M.S. by Mrs. J. S. Wallace. Following the singing of God Save The Queen, refreshments were served and a social period enjoyed.

HANESVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Bert McQuaig and family, of Newington, spent the weekend with his sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Reynolds and Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Cook and Sharon were Saturday evening visitors of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dewland, of Williamsburg.

Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved families of the late Charles Leach, of Brinston, who died suddenly Thursday evening last.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fader had supper on Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Coughler, of Cardinal.

Mr. Johnson Fader, Brockville, spent Saturday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Fader.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Wyatt and children, of South Mountain, spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Anderson.

PLEASANT VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Lyall Crowder spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gilmer.

The young people of the community are busy practising a play to be put on at the Christmas concert on December 15th.

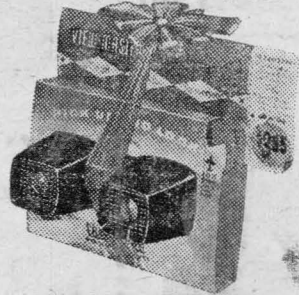

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hamilton, Mrs. Peter Mansfield and baby Mark spent one evening recently with Mr. and Mrs. David Gilmer.

Mr. David Corker, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Sears, spent Wednesday in Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gilmer entertained Mr. and Mrs. Hillard Gilmer and mother; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bolton and Mr. and Mrs. Sammy Cowan and baby to dinner on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Mansel Wallace spent Friday with Mrs. Lloyd Sloan, Ventnor.

In the Friday Night Basketball League last week, the Iroquois Grads 36-34 in a game that saw Chick Barkley score the winning basket in the last few seconds of the game. Barkley was high scorer for the Seniors with 20 points. He was followed in the scoring by Errol Coleman 3, Wayne Shaver 2, Robert Fisher 2, and G. Parmeter 9. Leading scorer for the evening was

The Seniors claimed their second win last week in the FNBL by downing the Juniors 48-31. Chick Barkley was high scorer of the evening with 20 points. Other Senior scorers were Errol Coleman - 10, Wayne Shaver - 4, Dale Roberts - 2, and G. Parmeter - 12. Junior point getters were Arnold Fader - 16, Tony Cummins - 6, Bob Gillard - 6, and Alex Foster - 3. In the second game the Old Pros also got their second victory, this time against the Grads by a score of 28-22. Pro scorers were Mr. Walton - 9, Mr. Jones - 6, Mr. Bray - 5, and Mr. Desormeau - 3. Scoring for the Grads were Sam Dunbar - 11, Coony Disheau - 6, Ronnie Brown - 2. In Saturday Morning Basketball last week, Tony Cummins' team met defeat at the hands of Chick Barkley's squad. The score was 50-36. Arnold Fader's crew also trimmed Cummins' team 35-29 in the second game. The volley ball schedule was wrapped up on Tuesday with Team Four winning over Team Five in the two games. Scores were 15-2 and 15-13.

Add More Books

A shipment of new books arrived at the Iroquois Public Library last week, 11 fiction and 3 non-fiction, fourteen reasons for looking forward to those long Winter Evenings ahead.

In the non-fiction group were "Who Me?", "The Life and Death of Sir Harry Oakes" and "Something Always Turned Up". "Who Me?" is the autobiography of Betty MacDonald. It is the story of her life taken "The Egg and I", "The Plague and I", "Anybody Can Do Anything" and "Onions in the Stew". Without any rewriting, the best material from these books has been integrated into a moving, rollicking autobiography. In "The Life and Death of Sir Harry Oakes", Geoffrey Boccia reveals for the first time facts which may well have resulted in the recent re-opening of the Oakes murder investigation. It is an exciting, meticulously researched biography of the determined Yankee who found a gold mine, bought himself a title and became one of the world's richest and most ruthless men.

"Something Always Turned Up" by Bluebell Steward Phillips is the story of the author's early life with her husband, the Reverend Gordon Phillips, Canada's most notable prison chaplain, covering the three years from their runaway marriage to his ordination.

Now for the fiction ---- Thomas B. Costain admirers will be pleased to know that his latest novel "The Darkness and the Dawn" is in the lot. This is another great historical adventure in the tradition of "The Black Rose".

"Your Sins and Mine" by Taylor Caldwell is a dramatically real story telling of the end of the world as we know it and of the beginning of a new world none of us will ever live to see. Frank G. Slaughter contributes "Lorena" a Civil War story with ball last week, Tony Cummins' team met defeat at the hands of Chick Barkley's squad. The score was 50-36.

Arnold Fader's crew also trimmed Cummins' team 35-29 in the second game. The volley ball schedule was wrapped up on Tuesday with Team Four winning over Team Five in the two games. Scores were 15-2 and 15-13.

Legion Branch Elects Officers

The election of officers took place in the Legion hall on Sunday at 2 p.m. with a disappointingly small number of members present.

The officers for the year 1960 are: President, R. MacDonald; 1st Vice President, H. L. Roberts; 2nd Vice President, K. Thompson; Treasurer, G. Cornell; Secretary, S. Leckie; Sgt. - at - Arms, J. Millard; Executive, G. Mallia; A. W. Marshall, L. Bailey, D. Roberts and K. Duval.

Installation of officers will take place in January the date to be set later.

We are sure that all members will be pleased with the new slate of officers and they have assured us that they will carry out their duties to the best of their ability throughout the coming year.

At the present time membership is the thing uppermost on the Legion agenda for the coming year and we hope to reach our target early in 1960. If every member who knows an ex-serviceman who is not a Legionaire could enroll him we could double membership in a very short time so we urge each member to concentrate this with every opportunity but don't stop with one new member if you can get two or a dozen so much the better. The Canadian Legion is a service club that works for the veteran and his dependents and the fee to join is the most reasonable of any service club we know of.

The returns from the Poppy campaign are now complete and we are pleased to note that once more the public has been very generous and the gross sales were $536.94. The net profit from this will remain in the branch poppy fund to be used for needy ex-servicemen and dependents in the community.

The firemen and the local branch would like to thank Mrs. S. Drennan, Mr. J. Drennan and Mr. A. Claxton for records donated for use at the record hop for the youngsters.

In closing we remind all members that 1960 membership dues are due January 1st. Be sure and pay them promptly so that you may continue to receive your copy of the Legionary without interruption.

THE RECORD WORLD Results Of 1959 Cash Box Poll

by Gary Parmeter
PICK OF THE WEEK

One of my favourite vocal combinations are the Coasters, a group who have been around for a couple of years and still haven't missed on a record. There are two very good reasons why they are the biggest in their field: one is JERRY LEBER, and the other is MIKE STOLLER, the GILBERT and SULLIVAN of rock 'n' roll, who have composed and produced literally every single that the COASTERS have had. Their latest on Atoe is another con ta gious novelty that you'll want to hear again and again. It's called "Run Red Run", and it's a pure delight. The backer-upper is another smile-inducer called "What About Us" that could also shape up. It's another double gasser disk by the COASTERS and MIKE STOLLER.

SURE SHOTS
The fabulous FIREFLIES, late of the top ten with "You Were Mine", have another sound around that is very ear appealing. Then fine group (voted fifth most promising R and B group in the Cash Box Poll) put their solid touch to a good sounding ballad entitled "I Can't Say Goodbye". Lead singer RICHIE ADAMS croons the melody richly and is backed up equally well by the group and orch. Flip is "What Did I Do Wrong?".

JOHNNY TILLOTSON, of recent "True True Happiness" fame, is chart bound again in a big way with his latest Ape outing. It's a pleasant affair called "Why DO I Love You So?" and you'll like it I'm sure.

CHRISTMAS PICKS
A gal named TONI FISHER has a winning sound called "The Big Hurt" that is going up the U. S. charts in leaps and bounds and looks good for big things all over. It has a definite (non rock 'n' roll) hit sound.

"The Chipmunk Song", already a Sure Shot pick a few weeks ago, will be selling big once again, this time with "Alvin's Harmonica" on the flip side. It's surprising just how good it sounds after a year too.

A JOHNNY and THE HURRICANES-type arrangement by LITTLE BOBBY REY and the boys on a disk called "Rockin' 'J' Bells" should sell in the next few weeks. It's a R and R version of the 192 old "Jingle Bells".

A Capitol recording called "The Happy Reindeer" will be a seasonal favourite this year thanks to DANCER, FRANCER, and uh - oh yes, NERVOUS. It's catchy.

Leave it to KOOKIE, the cool one has a Warner Bros. recording of "Yuletide", a hipsters narration of "The Night Before Christmas". On the B side EDD BYRNES (KOOKIE) makes a better effort on "Lonely Christmas". On the latter he tries his hand at singing, and doesn't do too badly. (I mean like in the TAB HUNTER school of singing.)

Another Christmas ditty that looks good for seasonal sales is "Nuttin For Christmas", which has been around before. This it's being done by a couple of CHIPMUNK voices called KENNY and CORKY.

PLATTER CHATTER

The results of the big record poll of each year, the Cash Box Juke Box Operators Poll have been published. The winners of this poll are the recording artists who pulled the most coin in juke boxes across North America for 1959. Since this is only a yearly thing, and always extremely interesting, I have included as many of the categories as possible. These then are the biggest and best money makers of 1959.

Although I won't be on holidays, I won't be writing this column for the next two weeks. Therefore, a couple of friends of mine will be taking over this space for a couple of weeks. BILL "DADDY-O" GALLANT, of CJSS Cornwall, will be here next week, and the following week, "The Record World" will be under supervision of DICK COOK, of WSTS Massena.

And so - since this is my last column until December 31st; it isn't original but it's sincere, MERRY CHRISTMAS.

ANNE HIRST Your Family Counselor

"Dear Anne Hirst: I am almost 7, the boy is a year older, and we've been dating for almost two years. Many times he has asked me to marry him, but I wasn't certain I wanted to get married. I know that is a big step in life and I wanted to make sure before I gave him a final answer. I know I have hurt him, but I felt I had to tell the truth instead of leading him on.

"He has gotten so sick of being turned down that now he has left me! He said I should know by now whether or not I want him.

"That is true. Since this happened, I know how much I love him and need him, I told him so, but he doesn't seem to believe anything I say. He even has his own doubts about me now!

"I realize I've been a fool, and I know what I have lost. Is there anything left for me to do?"

— A SORRY GIRL"

YOU ARE FORTUNATE

Instead of offering sympathy, I congratulate you on the situation, painful as it seems at the moment. You have been going only with this one boy since you were 15, and all along you have realized that marriage is the greatest adventure of your life, a decision not to be made hastily. That is commendable. Only when he grew tired of waiting and left, do you conclude that you love him.

It is human to want the unattainable. It is his leaving you that has suddenly made him doubly desirable. Because you have no other beau your life seems empty now, and living in such a vacuum alarms you. Believe me, you have not been a fool, you have only been honest with yourself.

It is well that the boy has gone. His doubts that you are not the girl for him show how shallow his emotions are; if he were more mature, your putting him off would only have made him more eager to win you, and he would have realized you are a well-balanced young woman who does not give her heart away without knowing the value of her gift. You are both too young to think of marrying or even being engaged. A girl 17 can hardly be sure that what she feels is an enduring emotion that will last the rest of her life. You both need other companions, and to learn something about this thing called love. It comes in several packages, you know, and comparison with other friends will open your eyes to its possibilities. Go out with other boys now (I expect he'll look up other girls) and after some months you will know far better how they compare with him.

Don't despair. By this time next year you may both be, quite certain that you were made for each other — or you will have discovered that other * boys can attract you, too. If * that happens, won't you be re- * lieved that you did not get en- * gaged today?

PROTECTIVE MOTHER

"Dear Anne Hirst: I am a high-school sophomore, and need some advice. Since last March a boy and I have gone together, and then my mother liked him, allowing me to invite him to my birthday party and the school dance. Then suddenly she changed her mind — when his brother got into trouble through no fault of his own!

"Now she won't allow me to see him. He lives on our street, and I'm not allowed out of the house unless she is with me. She even follows me to school!

"I tried not seeing this boy, but it just didn't work, I like him too much. Please help me out."

DISTRESSED TEEN-AGER"

* It is of no use to appeal to * anyone else for the answer you * want. Somehow (and only you * know) you have lost your * mother's faith, and she feels * that out of her sight you will * be seeing this young man. * What have you been doing that * she distrusts you so? Whatever * it is, stop it.

* It is unfair, perhaps, that * one boy's misbehavior reflects * on the whole family, but it is * true. Your mother knows how * unwise it is for you to be see- * ing each other, and she is try- * ing to protect you from any * unfavorable gossip. You are * too young to appreciate this, * but you will have to accept her * ruling and obey it.

* If you will give her your * word that you will not see him * again without her permission, * and in other ways show you * can be trusted, perhaps later * on she will relent. Meanwhile, * it is up to you to prove your * integrity in every way you can.

Don't let any boy rush you into a promise to marry. Marriage is not a game, it is a lifetime contract, and only by careful comparison with others can a girl be sure she is ready to take the step. In time of doubt, write Anne Hirst, and save yourself from a mistake. Address her at Box 1, 123 Eighteenth St., New Toronto, Ont.

There Ought To Be A Law!

Ask any cop in Washington: There ought to be a law.

One day in the 1930's, a motorist arrested for speeding in Maryland identified himself as the minister from Iran. "You don't look like no minister to me," said the officer, clamping handcuffs on his indignant prisoner. Iran promptly severed diplomatic relations with the U.S.

In 1951, Don Vicente Santa-Liestra, second secretary of the Spanish Embassy, drove through a stop light, killing a pedestrian and injuring a policeman. A coroner's jury charged him with driving "with gross negligence" and held him responsible. But under the cloak of his diplomatic immunity he was not punished.

Last month, the problem rose again. A police squad answering an accident call in northeast Washington saw a woman lying dead on the street and a strapping blond youth waiting beside his car. The victim, hurled 41 feet by the impact, was Mrs. Jessie Hamlin, 54, a widowed Negro who worked as a domestic to help support two small nephews and a niece. The driver identified himself as David Hearne, 21, son of the Irish Ambassador to the U.S. Young Hearne claimed diplomatic immunity; and the charges (homicide and driving with improper plates) were dropped and he was released.

Washington newspapers jumped on the story, pointing out that Hearne had been arrested four times in the last 30 months for boisterous conduct and creating public disturbances. On one occasion, he beat a policeman so severely, the officer was on sick leave for several days. Each time, he claimed diplomatic immunity and was released.

The latest escapade posed a thorny problem to the State Department. The youth's father, John Hearne, who has represented Ireland in Washington since 1950, is well liked in diplomatic circles. To designate his son as persona non grata would automatically end Ambassador Hearne's tour in the U.S.

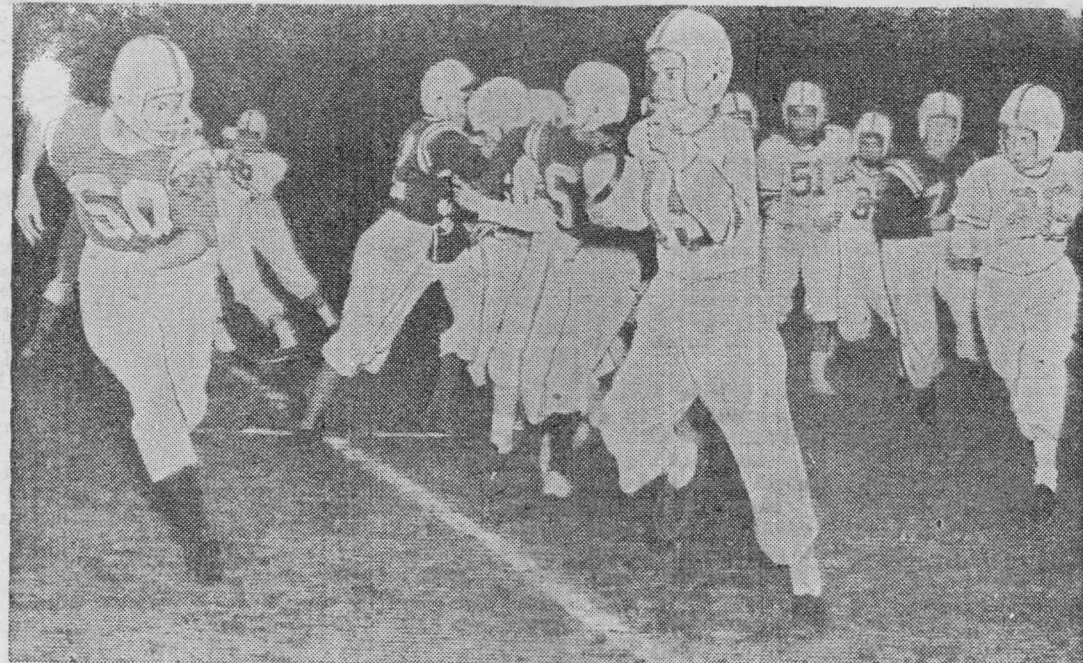

But the U.S. State Department made no secret of the fact that diplomatic immunity could be carried too far.

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM by Gwendoline P. Clarke

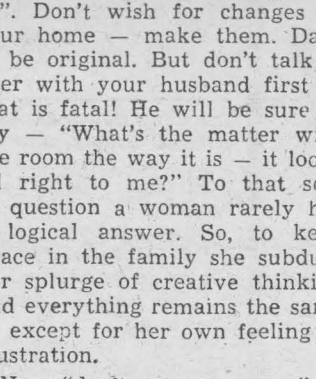

Partner says he is afraid to leave the house for very long because he never knows what changes he'll find when he gets back. That, of course, is a slight exaggeration but still it has some foundation in fact and indicates one difference between a man and a woman. Most men like things left in the home more or less the way they are, year in and year out. Women love to move things around, creating a change of scenery within four walls. And after all, why not? Who wants to see the same thing in the same place, month after month, winter and summer? It gives a lift to the soul to change one's outlook. Except, of course, to the conservative type, and they are beyond hope. Not only that but summer arrangements are often unsuitable for winter months. And another thing, changing things around may dispel a guilt complex if a person has been doing a little wishful thinking . . . "If only I had a chertfield . . . or a rug, or drapes — like my friend Edna, how much nicer my livingroom would look!"

Well, there is a saying — "Don't let your wishbone be where your backbone ought to be." Don't wish for changes in your home — make them. Dare to be original. But don't talk it over with your husband first — that is fatal! He will be sure to say — "What's the matter with the room the way it is — it looks all right to me?" To that sort of question a woman rarely has a logical answer. So, to keep peace in the family she subdues her spurge of creative thinking and everything remains the same — except for her own feeling of frustration.

Now "don't get me wrong" — I think a husband and wife should talk things over — and sometimes very carefully, particularly when a purchase is involved. But I cannot see the point of a major discussion over moving a piece of furniture, a picture, or arranging a different set-up in the kitchen. The home is primarily the woman's concern. It is often up to her to do the best she can with what she has, making her home as comfortable and convenient as she can for the whole family. So, if father likes his livingroom chair in one particular spot, for heaven's sake don't move it, but arrange the rest of the room to suit yourself. Finding the best place for your TV set is a matter for a family conference, as it concerns everyone. And what a problem it can be.

Now you may wonder what led up to all these ideas. Actually nothing too drastic. A little different seating arrangement in our livingroom; an unwanted table taken down to the basement; ferns changed around; a lamp from the den given a small in the livingroom and place tables changed around from guest room to den. The overall result has been more space and I no longer feel it necessary to buy the nest of tables I thought we couldn't possibly do without.

SALLY'S SALIES

"Science keeps my darling unemployed. He knows nothing about it."

Now that should commend itself to the man of the family, don't you think? Not that I am entirely satisfied even yet but the present arrangement will do until I get another brainwave.

You know, I think half the trouble with most of us is that we lack vision. We get so used to seeing things, good and bad, the way they are that in time we actually don't see them at all. For instance, one friend was visiting another for the first time. She was entranced by the beautiful scenery. "Oh, how I envy you this view." And then she added — "But I suppose you are so used to it you never even see it." She was absolutely right.

Unless we keep ourselves alert we are liable to lose our awareness of so many things. Even the Santa Claus parade. Maybe I am slightly infantile but I dropped everything last Saturday — and so did Partner — so we could watch the Parade on television and we thoroughly enjoyed it. But what a shame, it rained. Later two young mothers each said to me — "You know I was so provoked . . . I forgot about the Parade and our youngsters would have loved watching it on TV."

Our daughter goes to the other extreme — she wants her boys to see every parade that comes along and generally takes all three down town. This time two of them missed out. Jerry has measles and David the mumps. So Art stayed home with the afflicted ones and Dee took Eddie to see the parade. Ross didn't even see it even on TV because Joy was another one who forgot.

And now for those who are interested in reading — particularly in history — ay I recommend to you "Life in the Clearings" by Susanna Moodie. A sequel to "Roughing it in the Bush". Although the book was written around 1850 this is its first publication in Canada. It concerns the Belleville district. It seems almost impossible that life could be so different and yet be only a hundred years apart. Obviously each period has its advantages and disadvantages.

Sudden Death In A Snowball

It was all great fun. The first snow of the season had fallen in the remote village of Egnat, high in the Alps, and all the kids were out, huffing and puffing to build a giant snowball to send thundering down the slopes.

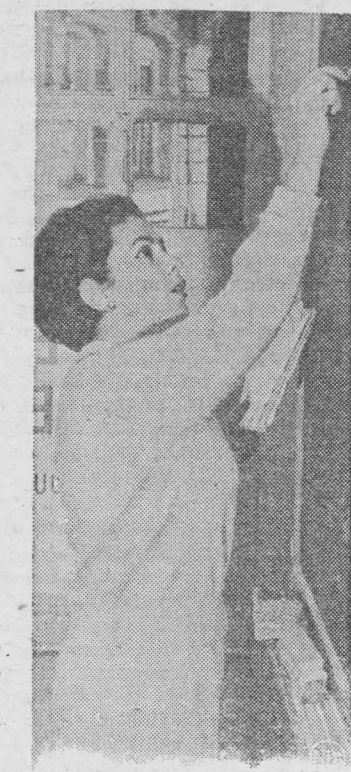

Watching them, 15-year-old Jakob Giezendanner, the oldest of his family's eight children, smiled. Jakob had rolled snowballs in his day, too, but now he was a grownup, helping his father grub out a living from their rock-strewn farm.

"Jakob, help us," the children cried.

"Too busy," he explained. And then, Jakob noticed that the snowball—now 10 feet wide and 4 feet high—was threatening to skid and get out of control.

Throwing aside the ax with which he had been chopping wood, he ran to the children. Straining, he put his shoulder against the snowball. His feet slipped.

One piercing cry was all that Jakob had time to utter before the giant snowball engulfed him and began careening down the slope. It must have weighed a ton by the time it struck an open space and broke apart. The children, rushing after it, found Jakob's body. The life had been crushed out of it.

IT'S A LIVING — Princess Ferial of Egypt works as a shorthand teacher in Lausanne, Switzerland, for $35 a week. Just turned 21, the eldest daughter of ex-King Farouk teaches at the exclusive school from which she was graduated a few months ago.

How The Cave Men Used To Live

The cave men were the human beings who lived before the most important of the early inventions on which a stable civilization can be based: farming, or the regular cultivation of edible plants; the domestication of hoofed animals; pottery — and perhaps with it the invention of wheeled transport; and the revolutionary technique of grinding, polishing, and boring stone tools so as to make them almost as efficient as the later tools of metal.

The cave men did not farm; they were hunters and fishermen, and their women collected wild fruit, vegetables, and grain. They lived lives rather like those of the American Plains Indians before the introduction of the horse. They did not domesticate animals—or at best only one animal, our oldest friend, the dog. They lived largely on animals; they thought about animals constantly; but they were hunters, so they treated even the horse as something to be stamped over a cliff and then eaten. They knew something about clay and how it hardens in the fire; but so far we have found no real clay dishes or containers among their remains.

We find it difficult to imagine life without the peaceful cornfields, the quiet cattle, and the dishes from which we eat and drink; yet for most of man's existence on the earth these things were unknown and undreamed of. Settled farming began somewhere about 7,000 years ago, in the New Stone Age; that seems like a long time ago, but it is only about 200 generations from our own time. Our two-hundredth grandfather was one of the first farmers. But before that there was a long, long period—not ten times as great but something like a hundred times as great — during which our forefathers lived in caves and hunted the wild animals and made tools and molded the human mind into something recognizably like its present effectiveness.

That was what geologists call the Pleistocene period, and historians the Old Stone and Middle Stones ages. Some of it was unbelievably hard and terrible, with much of what is now the habitable world covered with grinding ice and thundering glaciers—the sky no doubt gray and filled with whistling winds and the repeated drift of snowflakes and sheets of chill rain. At other times, the world we know was comparatively genial, with subtropical vegetation and animals, and with many of the waste places habitable and hunt-able. The North Sea was dry land where our ancestors shot long-vanished animals, the Sahara Desert was a vast parkland with water and grass and trees like the big-game-hunting sections of Africa today, and the now barren canyons and sagebrush plains of the American Southwest were wooded and well watered: not our world, but a hunter's paradise.

The experts believe that recognizable men have existed on this earth for half a million years; and from 500,000 B.C. (give or take a few thousand) to the comparatively recent date of 5000 B.C., they were what we know as cave men.

Yet their life was more intelligent and complicated, we may almost say comfortable, than one would expect. From "Talents and Geniuses, The Pleasures of Appreciation," by Gilbert Highet.

He Got A Divorce — For Two Pins

For the third time in less than a week the red-haired, fiery-tempered young wife was waging a battle of words with her equally temperamental husband in their luxury flat on the thirtieth floor of an American city skyscraper.

Her blue eyes blazed with fury as she told him his shortcomings as a husband.

"You're mean although you're rich, you're madly jealous of me for no reason at all, your conversation bores me to distraction and you're certainly not the ideal lover I thought you were when I married you seven years ago," she snapped.

Goaded by her criticism, her husband began enumerating her bad points.

"It beats me why I ever thought you worth marrying," he snarled. "You may be pretty, but you ruin your looks with too much make-up and your hot temper and nagging are becoming unbearable. Also, you never really loved me!"

"For two pins I'd divorce you," he added, impetuously. "It would be easy to find reasons."

Rushing to her dressing table, the infuriated wife picked up two pins and flung them at him. "Go ahead with the divorce," she snapped. "I can hardly wait to be free again!"

And so this wholly incompatible couple were divorced. After witnessing a further display of both parties' bad temper in court, the judge unhesitatingly accepted the husband's plea that her "vixen-like temperament" had made married happiness impossible for both of them.

Amazing are some of the grounds on which divorces are often obtained in certain states of America. Many of them are trivial, too.

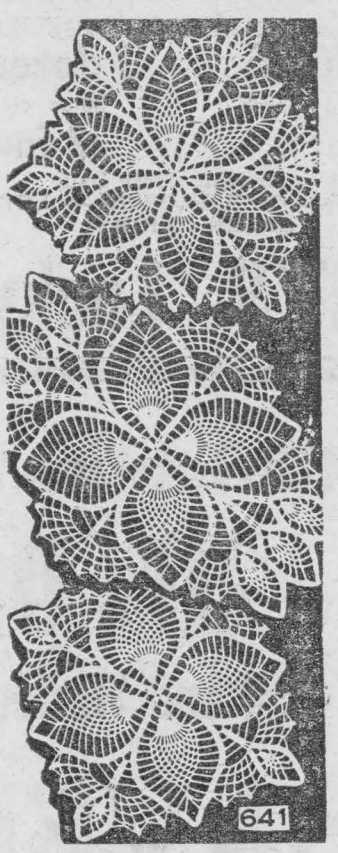

One husband got a divorce because his wife's pet dog snored so loudly that it kept him awake all night. And a nineteen-year-old Chicago wife complained that her husband left her after four months because she was "too skinny."

She told the judge who granted her a divorce: "He told me he liked plumper girls."

A woman divorced her husband in Montclair, New Jersey, because he preferred to sleep on a platform built in a tree in their garden instead of in bed. Then there was the tall Missouri wife who got a divorce because her four-foot-tall husband stood on a chair during a row and punched her in the eye.

As far as money is concerned, most of us have very little to complain about.

Litterbugging In The Ocean

To a Channel swimmer, a liberal coating of grease provides protection from the cold. But to a North Atlantic sea bird, a spot of grease or oil the size of a quarter means almost certain death since it mats feathers and the thick insulating fluff underneath, letting in the ocean's bitter cold.

With the demise of coal-burning ships, more and more oil has been pouring on these troubled banks—oilers clean out their tanks at sea, burnt lubricants are dumped overboard, cargo ships flush their fuel tanks when empty. The Labrador current picks up the slick in northern sea lanes and concentrates it off Newfoundland—a major wintering area for hundreds of thousands of eider ducks, razor-billed auks, and thick-billed murres. In 1957, a thousand dead birds a day were washed up on a 90-mile stretch of the Newfoundland coast, and this year even more came ashore. "The Gulf current transports the lethal waste to the shores of Northern Europe which have been similarly littered. There is no way, of course, to count those that die at sea and sink, but few by comparison ever float ashore.

"Litterbugging at its zenith" is the phrase John A. Livingston, executive director of the Audubon Society of Canada, used last month to describe oil dumping at sea. Livingston, in New York to attend the National Audubon Society's 55th annual convention, warned that commercial fishermen on the Atlantic, as well as bird lovers and beachgoers, have good reason for concern about this wholesale destruction of sea birds. The food chain of the sea from bird guano to plankton to fish to fish market could be severely disrupted, he said, if the oil-slick problem is not solved.

Prohibiting the dumping of oil and grease at sea is the obvious answer, according to Livingston, but he acknowledged that a shipowner "is going to have to think rather high of sea birds to take an extra day" in port when it costs up to $3,000 a day to keep a ship in port while its tanks are flushed.

The practical answer, Livingston added, probably lies in the International Convention for the Prevention of Pollution of the Sea by Oil, a pact that has many words in its title as member nations. Forty-two countries attended the 1954 London conference, but only twelve have actually signed. The agreement prohibits oil dumping in coastal areas, and pact members hope to extend the prohibition to a 300-mile sweep east and south of Newfoundland. Eventually, the signatories plan to outlaw all oil dumping at sea. But the pact binds only its members.

The members include Canada and the United Kingdom, but not the U.S.—though the U.S. does put restrictions on its own shipping that are more stringent than those of the convention. But Livingston wants the active participation of the country he calls "the cradle of public relations for the effect it would have on indifferent countries. To put it quite frankly," he added, "the United States is a good name for our letterhead."

Whether the North Atlantic's water-fowl population will reach a point of no return is anybody's guess, observed Livingston. However, he warned, "I have never heard of any species which could take this sort of thing in its stride."—From NEWSWEEK

Tattoo Clue Exposed Imposter

On an evening in the spring of 1929, Mrs. Dorothy Jackson returned home from a movie with the woman friend who occupied an adjoining bungalow in Limeslade Way, Swansea. As they parted, Mrs. Jackson said she must hurry indoors as her husband would be waiting to have tea with her.

The neighbour had hardly entered her house and taken off her coat when she heard terrible screams. She rushed out and found Mr. Jackson bending over the prostrate body of his wife. Hearing the screams, he too, had run from his house, to find his wife lying in a pool of blood on the doorstep.

They took Mrs. Jackson indoors and phoned for an ambulance and the police. When a doctor arrived Mrs. Jackson was unconscious. She had been battered on the head and was bleeding from several wounds. Taken to hospital, she never regained consciousness and died six days later.

To the detectives holding vigil at his wife's bedside Mr. Jackson, made a strange statement. "I have been married for almost ten years, but I have never discovered who my wife was. She never spoke about her past and she never told me how she made all that money."

Friends and neighbours of the Jacksons had found the wife equally mysterious. She would make odd remarks about her "noble origin" and more than once had hinted that she was the daughter of the second Duke of Abercorn and Lady Mary Anna Curzon, daughter of the Earl Howe. She claimed that her brother, who succeeded to the title in 1913, was the Governor-General of Northern Ireland.

Mrs. Jackson contended that because of a family intrigue and the "delicate secret of her birth," she was prevented from using her rank and title. Her husband had, at times, seen letters bearing a coronet or coat of arms, but he was never allowed to read them.

Mrs. Jackson always appeared to have ample means. Her home, into which she had moved two years before her terrible death, was luxuriously furnished. From time to time she left Swansea for undisclosed places, and her friends received greeting cards from foreign countries. Yet Mr. Jackson earned only a small salary as a salesman for a provisions firm.

Mrs. Jackson declared that she derived her income from magazines for which she wrote short stories.

Her murder baffled the police. Robbery was ruled out. No thief would be reckless enough to attack his victim in front of the lighted windows of her home, only a minute or two after she had parted from her neighbour. Moreover, nothing was missing. Even the handbag which Mrs.

TO PORTRAY CHRIST — Toni Preisinger, above, will portray Christ in the 1960 Oberammergau Passion Play. Preisinger, 47, played the part once before in the religious drama which is staged every 10 years in the Bavarian town.

Jackson had dropped when she was attacked was untouched.

Mr. Jackson was arrested. He was the only person seen near his wife within seconds after she had screamed for help. He was charged with her murder and put on trial at the Swansea Assizes. But the evidence offered by the prosecution was so flimsy that the jury almost hastily returned a verdict of "Not guilty."

Mr. Jackson was told by the judge that he was leaving the courtroom without a stain on his character. Indeed, he could not have had any motive to kill his wife who had provided so well for their livelihood, and with whom he had lived very happily.

After Jackson's acquittal the police made a startling discovery, with the help of an extraordinary clue.

At Mrs. Jackson's autopsy the doctor noticed that she had a tattoo mark — two small swallows — on her left wrist.

The police circled all tattooists in the hope that one might recognize the tattoo and have a record of the dead woman's maiden name.

It was a chance in a million—tattoo artists rarely know the names of their clients—but it came off. George Burchett, the "King of the Tattooists," whose "studio" was in London's Waterloo Road, identified the swallow design as one of his own.

For fifty years Burchett had been tattooing the skins of all classes of people, famous and unknown, but he had an excellent memory. He was able to tell the police that his client had been a young Irish girl, Dorothy Atkinson. By means of this extraordinary clue, the police discovered that Mrs. Jackson was not the daughter of a duke, but of an Irish farm worker in County Down.

Once her real identity was established, it was plain sailing for the police. Dorothy Atkinson had a criminal record. Some years before her marriage to Jackson she had figured in a sensational blackmail trial.

She had blackmailed a wealthy businessman, and was, in fact, known to the police in various parts of Britain as a clever and ruthless blackmailer. Several men, who had fallen for her charms, had been her victims.

Further investigations revealed that she had derived an income from this sordid source for many years.

After serving her prison sentence she left London, married Mr. Jackson two years later and became known as a "respectable" housewife.

But she continued her blackmailing business, though none of her victims came forward during the ten years of her marriage.

Her murder was now seen in a different light. The police were convinced that the woman's killer was one of her victims, whose desperation had driven him to murder.

Investigations led to several men, after the police had traced the senders of some of the letters found at the dead woman's home, and after a meticulous scrutiny of her bank account.

However, in every case the suspects were able to prove an alibi and there was no prosecution. The murderer must have studied Mrs. Jackson's movements carefully over a period of many days.

He must have known the district well. He made his plans very skillfully and struck with deadly precision.

But he was never discovered. The murder of the bogus "daughter of the Duke of Abercorn" must be recorded as an example of the perfect crime.

Buried Himself To Cash Insurance

The get-rich-quick scheme was worth $10,000. That sum represented the life insurance value of a lovely twenty-four-year-old American mother, which two plotters, one the beneficiary under the policy, hoped to collect.

They laid their plans with diabolical cunning. Approaching a bridge near Idaho Falls, with her baby boy, Mrs. Roene Gasser had not the slightest inkling of danger until the ground suddenly exploded violently beneath her.

Dynamite, fired electrically, lifted her car into the air, breaking it into pieces. But, miraculously, she emerged from the wreckage with comparatively light injuries. And her baby boy was unscathed.

The law pounced quickly on the two men, one a youngster of eighteen, whose fiendish plot had miscarried. Convicted of assault with intent to commit murder, he is now serving fourteen years' imprisonment.

Unquestioned is the wisdom of taking out adequate insurance to cover all such risks as burglary, fire, accident, sudden death or disability in old age. But now and then, unscrupulous people attempt to exploit insurance companies with remarkable cleverness.

One international trickster, a Rumanian, conceived the idea of bumping himself off in different countries and collecting the insurance on himself!

At Youngstown, Pa., he staged a roadside fatality, using another corpse as his own. He stuffed some of his own identity papers, including a copy of his marriage certificate and a receipt for payment of his last life policy premium, into the pockets of the victim, whose face was badly disfigured.

The swindler then disappeared. Who the real casualty was remains unknown to this day. Some investigators suspect that he may have been murdered.

But everything subsequently worked out as the trickster planned. His wife, living with relatives in Belgium, was notified of his "death." The American company paid out the insurance claim, $5,000.

But hardly had this windfall descended on his wife than he arrived, representing himself as her long-lost brother and, with great gusto, proceeded to spend his illicit gains.

The highlight of this fraud came when, after insuring himself even more heavily, he returned to his homeland and, taking advantage of local flooding, added his own name to the already long list of casualties.

Then, with the local administration at sixes and sevens, he disguised himself, and reported his own death! Subsequently, with a student accomplice, he proceeded to bury himself in that part of the local cemetery reserved for Seventh Day Adventists!

It was perfectly done. He drove the hearse with his coffin, a crude home-made affair, perched on the floorboards, and calmly conducted his own burial service. But before his wife could collect the 50,000 Swiss francs suspicions were roused. The local police acted on an exhumation order.

Judge their amazement when, having dug up the coffin and pried it open, they pulled out the "corpse" a sackful of earth covered with a shroud of old newspapers. For this cold-blooded fraud, the swindler was put away for eight years.

How Can I? By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I hasten the drying process after washing sweaters or hose?

A. Fold them in a Turkish towel and run through the wringer, changing towels if necessary. They will dry very quickly as a result of this "squeeze play."

Q. Is there any way I can remedy dents in one of my articles of furniture?

A. Sometimes you can raise the dents by placing a damp cloth over the dent, then a bottle cap (flat part down) to localize heat on the dent, then rest a warm iron lightly on the cap. If the dent fails to rise after several applications, you'll have to remove the finish over the dent with some fine sandpaper and try again. Refinish, if necessary, then rub with rottenstone, and wax.

IN MEMORIAM

FADER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Wm. J. Fader, who departed this life on December 9th, 1959. "I am the Resurrection and the Life, saith the Lord. He that believeth in me though he were dead yet shall he live." Prepare ye the way of the Lord! Mrs. Wm. Fader and Family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank my friends and neighbours for the many cards, letters, gifts and telephone inquiries before, while and since I was a patient in Kingston General Hospital.

Clarence R. Wallace

I wish to gratefully thank all who sent me treats, letters and cards during the time I spent in hospital. Special thanks to Rev. J. L. Dean for his visits and neighbors for their kindness.

Robt. E. Keck

We in this way express our heart felt thanks to all those who assisted in any way at the accident of our beloved son, Charles Leach. To the many friends and neighbours for their many acts of kindness and floral tributes. To Rev. C. A. Adey for his comforting words and message of sympathy. Lorne and Olive Henderson and family.

We wish to extend grateful thanks to our neighbours and friends for the many acts of kindness received and expressions of sympathy tendered us at the time of our bereavement of a dear husband and father, Garnet A. Casselman. We also wish to thank those who sent floral tributes and all who assisted us in any way.

Mrs. G. A. Casselman and Family.

Hogs To Terminals

Effective December 14th, all hogs produced in Eastern Ontario will be directed to producers controlled terminals and sold through the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative. The new orders, which extend co-operative marketing to the entire province, have been passed by the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board and the Directors of the OHPC; they are being released to the leaders of all 42 County organizations, 1,128 shippers, 85 processing plants in Ontario and 6 in Quebec. The orders apply to the Counties of Carleton, Dundas, Glengarry, Grenville, Lanark, Leeds, Prescott, Renfrew, Russell, Stormont, Durham, Frontenac, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward and Victoria.

The announcement came in the wake of widespread reports that some processors were paying bonuses to producers and drovers in Eastern Ontario "in a deliberate attempt to discourage the introduction of producer-controlled marketing", according to James Boynton, Secretary of the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board. "Local leaders have been pressing for action to put an end to this campaign and the direction orders will go a long way toward normalizing hog marketing in that section of the province."

Under the regulations of the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Plan, orders issued by the OHPC require all hogs to be transported to and assembled at the producer-controlled terminals, while orders issued by the local board require all hogs to dustury even though it has been abused considerably, and could possibly apply to some types of farming but is of little use on the family farm where only part time labor is employed; thus as far as mixed farming is concerned it should be on a voluntary basis.

2. A pension plan for farmers may be all right in some cases but we think the efficient does not need it. There might be in some case an individual might require some type of pension plan, it could be secured through insurance companies but could be rather expensive. However if any pension plan was started, operated and supervised by the government it should be on a voluntary basis.

Next Monday the Forum will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Barkley. The topic, "Market Expansion—A Practical Possibility". An invitation is extended to any one to come and take part in these discussions.
