SERVICE, to Us IMPLIES MUCH

Among the things that characterize our service are personal attention to every detail of the funeral arrangement, and little acts of thoughtfulness that serve to lessen the trying strain of the hours before and during the funeral. Quiet efficiency and smoothness are the result. That, we believe, is the kind of service that wins approval.

Calls to hospitals given prompt service.

HENRY'S Shorthand School Ottawa, Ont.

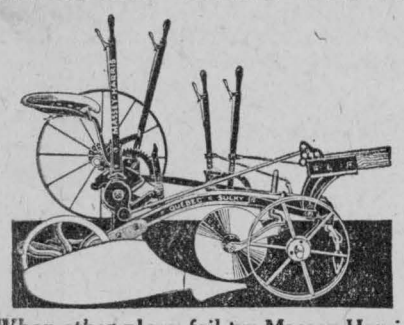

No School in Canada offers a better training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers, should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

JURY ATTACHES NO BLAME FOR DEATH OF ANGUS PRICE

The inquest into the death of Angus Price, which occurred last Thursday morning at Chesterville station when he was struck by the engine of a freight train and died almost instantly, resulted in a verdict Saturday afternoon exonerating the train crew and his fellow section men from any blame in the matter.

Dr. P. McLaughlin, Coroner, of Winchester, and a jury made up of F. McCloskey, foreman; Andrew Wilson, W. Hamilton, G. H. Barkley, Milton Shaver, Miles Marcellus, W. H. Casselman, W. N. Fulton, G. J. Hunt, James McAvoy, Jas. Masterson, and Isaac Garrow, heard the evidence.

Duncan Lamond, section foreman, showed the position in which his men were working as the train came from the east. The foreman and Jake Armstrong were working in the centre between Bob Ouderkirk and Tommy Curran at the east and Angus Price at the west, each group about thirty feet apart. The approaching train had been seen and hear by the four men working two by two, but Price apparently had not heard the warning whistles. As the engine was passing witness he realized that Price was in danger and made an attempt to reach him before the engine could strike Price but owing to danger to himself failed to achieve the rescue. Witness was in plain view of Price, whom he could see plainly going on with his work oblivious to the approaching train. He could give no reason why Price should not have heard the warnings.

Armstrong, Ouderkirk and Curran gave evidence corroborating Lamond's statements in every particular.

Dr. A. B. Clayton testified that the injuries received were sufficient cause for Price's death.

R. L. Young, engineer of the train, testified that after blowing for the usual street crossing, with the bell still ringing, he had given the usual warning by short blasts of the whistle when anyone was on the track apparently in danger. When Price did not respond the emergency brake was applied but the train could not be brought to a stop before hitting Price. The brakes were in perfect order.

W. A. Hardage, fireman, and Eric Barr, front end brakeman, supported the statement of the engineer in all particulars, while O C. Rabb, conductor, who was on the tail end of the train sixty-five car lengths away stated that the train was an Extra freight from Montreal for Smiths Falls running about twenty-five miles an hour at the time of the accident and had not intended to stop at Chesterville. He had heard the warning signals but knew nothing of the particulars until going forward after the train had been stopped.

Arthur Peake testified that while he was on his way from the north platform to the station he had seen the train coming, also had seen Price working between the rails. He heard the warning whistling. Had seen the engine strike Price and knew no reason why the latter should not have stepped aside in plenty of time.

Tom Lapierre attracted by the warning whistling had seen the engine strike Price but at the time did not know who had been struck. As a bystander he thought sufficient warning had been given.

Elgin Froats from the station platform had heard the warnings. Saw Mr. Lamond rush towards man on track but at time did not know it was Price. Lamond could not reach Price in time to save him. He saw Price struck and could not say why the latter had not obeyed the warnings.

There was nothing brought out in the evidence to shed any light as to the mental attitude of Mr. Price on the morning he was killed.

ANGUS PRICE LAID TO REST..

The funeral of the late Angus Price in the United church Friday afternoon was very largely attended when Rev. R. E. Newman took for his text "For me to live in Christ and to die is gain." Ouderkirk, Stanley Fyke, Charles Fulton, Festus Marcellus and Sidney Garrett. Floral tributes were received, a wreath from wife and family, wreath, Section men of No. 20 & 21, a pillow from the Nestle's Food Company employees. Interment was made in Maple Ridge cemetery.

Rombough, Finch, when their daughter, Mabel Christena, was given in marriage to Mr. Cecil William Boadway, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Boadway of Toronto.

The house was artistically decoratted with autumn foliage and mauve and white chryanthemums. She wore silver shoes and stockings. Mr. Ray Boadway, brother of the groom, acted as best man and during the signing of the Register Miss Lillian Thompson sang "Until," Mr. Baden Powell rendering the wedding music.

Receiving with the bride and groom were her mother, and Mr. and Mrs. W. C Boadway. The former was gowned in black flat crepe and wore a corsage of orchids and Lily of the Valley. Mrs. Boadway wore a gown of grey crepe, her corsage bouquet was of pale pink roses.

The bride and groom left on a motor trip, the bride wearing a black and white tailored suit, black silver fox fur with a close fitting hat of black and white feathers and black suede shoes with chiffon hose and matching purse and gloves.

NATION VALLEY PIONEER PASSES AWAY

One of the much esteemed pioneers of this district passed to the Great Beyond on Sunday, November 11th, in the person of the late Mr. Peter Darling, at the advanced age of seventy-five years. He was born at Waddington, N.Y., of Scotch parentage and at the early age of six years came to Canada with his parents to reside in Nation Valley where he has always lived.

At an early age he married Maria Ball of Maple Ridge district and to this union was born seven children, five surviving him, two daughters, Mrs. J. A. Bogart and Mrs. Ward Smith of Chesterville, and Garfield of Winchester, Frank of Grantley, and John of Chesterville. After seventeen years of happy married life his wife passed away and three years later he married Salome Shaver of Morewood. To this union were born eight children, four daughters, Mrs. Jno. Bruce, Winchester; Mrs. Alex. MacLean, Almonte; Mrs. Edwad Panke, Ottawa; Miss Evangeline, Ottawa; four sons, Hewitt and Gerald, Oshawa; Wallace and Donald at home. Besides a widow and thirteen children who survive him are twenty-seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren and nieces and nephews of his late sisters, Mrs. Hutt and Mrs. Marshall.

The widow and children mourn today the loss of a loving husband and kind father, a husband and father who could be an example to other men.

The deceased was active and had great ambition, taking great pride in his home and farm. He had battled the world as an only son of a widowed mother and made good, and lived to see the day he was satisfied with a work well done and we feel assured that on his entrance to the Life Eternal he would hear his Master say, "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joys of thy Lord."

The remains left the house at one pm., Tuesday for Chesterville United church, where the service was conducted by his pastor, Rev. R. E. Newman, taking for his text 2nd Cor., 5th chapter, 1st verse. The deceased was a member of the Session since union. Previous to the union he was a lifelong member and for many years an Elder of the Presbyterian church.

The choir sang, "Nearer My God to Thee," "Asleep in Jesus," and "Rock of Ages."

A large concourse of friends followed the remains to its last resting place in Maple Ridge cemetery, testifying to the esteem held for the departed by a wide circle of relatives and friends.

Th floral tributes were,—Wreaths, Widow and Family; Mrs. W. L. Scott, Winchester; Carruthers Family, Nation Valley; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Hutt and Mrs. Hobart, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. W. Ault, Arthur and Edward Hutt, Detroit; Basket, Staff and Nurses-in-training of Civic Hospital, Ottawa.

The pall bearers were neighbors of the deceased, Messrs. W. T. Rae, Grant Gray, Geo. A. Merkley, Ernest Gray, Norman Moodie and Geo. C. Merkley.

The sympathy of this district goes out to the bereaved widow and children and other near relatives.

BARNS BURNED AT MOREWOOD

Friday last about noon the barns belonging to Mr. Adam Carlyle, half a mile west of Morewood, were completely destroyed by fire of an unknown origin. Mr. Carlyle and his son were a considerable distance from the barn plowing at the rear of his farm when the alarm was given by neighbors who first noticed the blaze. Nothing could be done to save the building and all efforts were confined to saving the dwelling which was successfully done. All the season's crop was lost and fortunately the stock was all out at the time. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

Outbreak Of Rabies

Russell Leader—Several people are more or less indignant over the action of the Township Council in ordering all dogs to be tied up. The Council had no choice in the matter.

A dog belonging to Mr. Lenion, of of the 9th concession of Russell, was killed a short time ago because he acted in a strange manner and nothing more was thought of it. In a few days his cows began to act strangely and sickened. A veterinary was summoned and becoming suspicious of rabies, a cow was killed and the head sent to Ottawa for examination where rabies was found in aggravated form.

The Federal Department of Agriculture immediately got busy, and ordered the Council to take steps to have the dogs of the township kept in bounds so that the plague would not spread. This is why the Council passed the By-Law.

In the meantime, Mr. Rivard of the 7th concession had to have two cows destroyed and rumor has it that there are several more. Be that as it may, the situation is serious enough to warrant drastic action by the authorities and it is up to us as good citizens to do our part to assist them by obeying the law. Tie up your dog and by so doing help to prevent the spread of the worst disease known. It is like lightning, no one knows where it will strike next.

A case of rabies is reported near Greeley.

WANTED TO BE FOOLED

Two Paris reporters recently learned something about nature which they probably didn't know before. It was that the old saying, "people liked to be humbugged," is true.

They gained admittance to a private club in a small town near Paris to witness a seance, where an alleged spirtualistic medium was scheduled to perform. Joining the circle they saw dimly what was said to be the spirit of a deceased young woman. The reporters seized hold of the "spirit," which proved to be the medium herself, clothed in a sheet.

The other witnesses of the seance became very angry, as the reporters expected, but evidenced their anger in an unexpected manner. Instead of denouncing the fake medium, the dupes beat up the reporters and threw them out of the place.

Victory Of Chrysler's Farm Might Have Been Included

While we were rightly remembering in the two minutes' silence Sunday the 50,000 Canadians who died in the Great War, we could also have remembered the British and Canadian sailors and soldiers, who, on November 11, 1813, won the victory of Chrysler's Farm and practically gave the coup de grace to the American invasion of Canada? It is true that for a year later there was considerable fighting on the Niagara frontier, and that in the following July the battle of Lundy's Lane was fought and won; but so far as the eastern invasion was concerned, its doom was sealed at Chrysler's Farm.

General Wilson had left Sackett's Harbor, N.Y., with 8,000 men in batteaux with orders to descend the St. Lawrence, join Hampden and then take Montreal; but before that De Salaberry had put the latter's force to flight. Wilkinson did not, of course, know this, when, on the night of November 10, he and his force stopped at Chrysler's Farm on the British side of the river. From the start the American expedition had been harassed by Capt. Mulcaster, R.N., and his gunboats. Joined by 800 men from Kingston and Prescott, who lined the banks at every narrow pass and fired on the flank of the Americans with musketry and artillery whilst the gunboats menaced its rear, Mulcaster was "a dangerous enemy." Twelve hundred Americans were landed on the American shore with orders to "drive him away. Instead, Mulcaster and his men, aided by Colonel Morrison's soldiers, gave the visitors such a drubbing that "beaten and almost routed," the Americans fled over the river in the dusk of the evening, and, wthout waiting for orders, clambered on board the ships and fled in panic down the Long Sault.

Adams' "History of the United States" says of this great British victory: "The whole American line fell back, beaten and almost routed. The defeat was the least creditable of the disasters suffered by American arms during the war. No excuse or palliation was ever offered for it. The American army consisted wholly of regulars and all the generals belonged to the regular service. The American force was certainly not less than 2,000, with six field pieces. The British force, officially reported by Lieut.-Col. Morrison, of the 89th Regiment, consisted of 800 rank and file and 30 Indians. The rank and file consisted of 342 men of the 49th Regiment, and about as many more of the 89th, and some Canadian troops. They had three six-pound field pieces and were supported on their right flank by gun boats. On the American side the battle was ill fought, both by generals and by the men. The American loss was twice that of the British." Theodore Roosevelt, in his "Naval War of 1812," wrote: "It (the invasion of Canada) was mismanaged in every possible way and was a total loss. It was attended with but one battle, that of Chrysler's Farm, in which 1,000 British, with a loss less than 200 men, beat back double their number of Americans, who lost nearly 500 men and one piece of artillery."

It was the combination of the sailors and soldiers that won Chrysler's Farm, just as it was the joint work of the fleets and the armies that won the war with Germany. Too little attention is paid nowadays to the really remarkable work done by the navy on Lake Ontario, under desperate odds. Admiral Sir James Yeo was at first out-numbered by the enemy on a scale of two, and often three, to one. He and his seamen had crossed the ocean, were unused to inland waters, and had ships which it was a joke to call "vessels of war"; yet he and his tars kept Chauncey at bay, gave them two or three good drubbings, including the capture of Oswego; and if the war had continued another six months would probably have swept Lake Ontario clear of the enemy, for he had then the support of three men-of-war built at Kingston—the "Prince Regent," 58 guns; the "Princess Charlotee," 42 guns; and the "St. Lawrence," 100 guns.

Thus when we pay homage to the men who fell at Chrysler's Farm, every one of them as much of "Our Glorious Dead," as if they died in the mud of Flanders, we must remember that it was a joint victory of the navy and the army which put the invaders to panic and saved Montreal and possibly Quebec.

Telling It Over Again.

An old maid went to confession and told the priest that she had been ardently kissed. "When did it happen?" asked the priest gently.

"Twenty years ago," the old maid told him.

"Have you ever confessed this before?"

"Many times, father," sighed the penitent, "but I just love to talk about it!"

Don't get excited when the modern girl blushes. It's mostly put on.

Charlie—So you married your employer! How long did you work for him?

Myrtle—Till I got him.

"How did Muriel get tanned so?"

"She was out in a spanking breeze."

Every Hour Filled For "Royal" Visitors

If any of the five hundred Ontario farm boys who are to visit the Royal Winter Fair at Toronto this month have any time on their hands on which to be homesick, it will not be the fault of those who have arranged the programme for their visit. Starting off with a bang-up dinner at Hart House, the famous social centre of the University of Toronto, on the night of their arrival, the boys will have three days crowded with interest, entertainment and instruction. Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, will be the Chairman at the banquet, and the boys will hear addresses by Premier Howard Ferguson and Dr. H. J. Cody, the Chairman of the Board of Governors of the University.

On Wednesday, November 21, the boys will be taken for a tour of the Union Stock Yards and the Packing Plants where they will see the whole process of marketing livestock and the ultimate manufacturing of the animals into meat products. In the afternoon of the same day they will be taken through the huge manufacturing plant of the Massey-Harris Company Limited and will see the different factory process in the production of farm implements. They will be guests of Council of Canadian Meat Packers at luncheon and the Massey Harris Company at supper. In the evening they will attend the Royal Winter Fair Horse Show as guests of the Fair.

On Thursday they will visit large Toronto stores, but the greater part of the day will be spent in inspection of exhibits and studying the judging of livestock at the Royal Fair. In the evening they will be guests of the Eaton Company Limited at a banquet.

On Friday, the last day, the boys will be taken through the Ontario Parliament Buildings and will be given a motor trip around the Capital City as guests of the City of Toronto, more time will be spent in inspecting exhibits at the Fair, and in the evening those boys that have survived three days of high living, and are not overcome by the pangs of indigestion, will be treated to another banquet by The Robert Simpson Co., Ltd.

The following boys are from Dundas and West Stormont:

Harry Williams, R.R. 1, Mountain;
Wm. McRoberts, R. R. 1, Mountain.

The Peptimists held their ninth regular meeting on Friday afternoon, November 9th. Their programme was on Armistice Day and Thanksgiving. Several very interesting readings and recitations were given, Betty Bolster winning the merit badge for this week. Our Director gave us a little talk on "What Armistice Day eMans to Us," showing how it was a day of memories, bringing out feelings of grief, joy, pride, with renewed consecration to duty.

Mite box donations were 34c. The meeting was closed by the National Anthem. —Eva Hartwell, Reporter.

C.P.R. President Visits Wheat Champion.

Herman Trelle is one of the men of foreign birth who is doing things for Canada. Born in Germany, he is now the owner of a fine farm in the Peace River country near the town of Spirit River. At the Chicago Live Stock Exhibition of 1926 he won the prize for the world's best wheat, and he is working on the development of a new early-ripening wheat which, he says, will revolutionize farming throughout northern Canada. When E. W. Beatty, and his party of Canadian Pacific directors were in the Peace River country recently they visited Mr. Trelle's farm where the important work of threshing was interrupted long enough to have the above photograph taken. Mr. and Mrs. Trelle are in the center, on the right is Mr. Beatty, and on the left is Sir Herbert Holt.

A Move For Good Will

Another commendable move in the direction of fostering good will between the United States and the countries of Latin America is seen in the establishment of the Pan-American Bureau in New York as a department of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

This new bureau, according to press reports, will extend to travellers from southern republics numerous facilties which will be helpful to them during their stay in the United States, including a dependable information service. Inasmuch as about 100,000 Latin Americans visit the United States every year, the opportunities for serving them and at the same time gaining their good will are very great.

While the Baltimore & Ohio will naturally expect to benefit through increased business as a result of this new departure, the establishment of this bureau will have something more than a merely commercial significance. It is a move toward a better understanding between that country and its neighbors to the south.

PRINTING SCIENCE OF ALL SCIENCES

Without printers, the teachers of the ages would have taught in vain; the dreams of philosophers would have finished with the tapers that burned for their meditations. Printing is the science of all sciences, the art of all arts, for it has opened the land of fair opportunity to the untold missions. since its discovery and application man has experienced more pleasure, greater enlightment, larger happiness, truer liberty, than had come to it with the blind gropings and the voiceless aspirations of the countless centuries preceding.

AUTOS AND WILD BEASTS

The land of India, as we all know, is sadly benighted and uncivilized.

Last year, for instance, 24,000 people there were killed by wild beasts and reptiles. Snakes alone took 19,069 lives; tigers took 1,033 more, wolves 465, leopards 218, and crocodiles 140.

Fortunately, in the United States people do not face those dangers. They are far too civilized for anything like that.

To be sure, there were more than 24,000 people killed in the United States. But, in the words of the immortal Mr. Mack, "what's the idea in bringing that up?"

Tit For Tat.

A husband found some holes in his socks and said, "Wifie, dear, why haven't you mended these?"

"Hubby, darling, did you buy me that coat you promised?"

"N-no."

"Well, if you don't give a wrap, I don't give a darn."

Congratulations.

"By the way," the stuck-up girl remarked, "Jack and Harry proposed to me last night and—"

"You refused them both."

"Ye-es—but how did you know?"

"Easy! I saw them afterwards shaking hands."

Wanted to Know.

Late one night the landlord of some flats was called by a tenant who inquired: "Can a landlord interfere when a woman on the third floor quarrels with her husband and disturbs the neighbors at night?"

"You are one of the neighbors?" the landlord asked.

"No. I'm the husband."

IT'S PANIC THAT KILLS

There is a terrible sameness about all catastrophes such as the fire which burned a Madrid theatre on Sunday night. The flames on the stage threw the audience into a panic and many are trampled to death or seriously injured in the rush. In the case of the Madrid theatre, it cannot, perhaps, be verified that fewer fatalities would have resulted had the audience slowly taken its way out, for a number of deaths from suffocation are reported. But the importance of avoiding panic when fire or other accident occurs in crowded buildings cannot be too often emphasized. It is the panic which kills. There have been similar instances in which excitement has been calmed and orderly exit successfully negotiated. It seems a pity that these exceptions cannot be called to public attention with the positive emphasis which they deserve.

MRS. J. O'KEEFE, ST. ANDREW'S WEST

Cornwall Freeholder — The many friends will learn with deep regret of the death of Mrs. James O'Keefe which occurred at her home,, St. Andrew's, West, on Monday, October 29. The deceased, who has been ailing for some time, was of a kind and loving disposition, endeared by all who knew her. Her maiden name was Mary L. O'Keefe, Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. H. J. McIntosh, Vancouver, B.C.; Mr. C. P. O'Keefe, Keystone, Sask., Mrs. D. J. Macdonald, Detroit, Mich.; and Mr. Ligori O'Keefe at home.

The funeral proceeded from her late residence to St. Andrew's church and cemetery and was attended by sympathizing friends and relatives. Reqieum Mass was celebrated by Reverend A. A. McRae. The pallbearers were: Messrs. Simon Fraser, Walter Wheeler, Frank Quinn, Henry McMahon, John P. Kearns, and D. A. McDonald.

Mass cards were received from Mr. Ligori O'Keefe, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. MacDonald, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. H. J. McIntosh, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. C. P. O'Keefe, Sask.; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. O'Keefe, Seattle, Wash.; Mr. and and Mrs. J. P Kearns, Mr. C. Kearns, of Chesterville; Miss Lizzie Masterman and Mr. and Mrs. Owen O'Keefe.

Friends from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Kearns, Mr. C. Kearns, Mr. C. Barry and Mr. Henry McMahon, all of Chesterville; Miss Annie and Teresa Cavanagh, Mrs. Frank McDonald and Bernard McDonald, and Dr. A. J. Lalonde, of Cornwall; also Miss Agnes Murphy of Montreal.

The bereaved family have the deep sympathy of the community in the loss of their kind and loving mother.

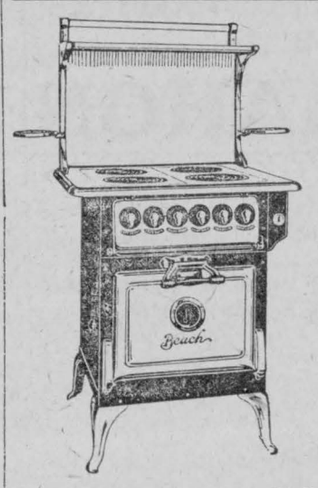

Garvey In Bad Again

Marcus Garvey, internationally-known negro adventurer and swindler of his own race, is in bad again. This time he has been arrested in Montreal as an undesirable alien and awaits deportation.

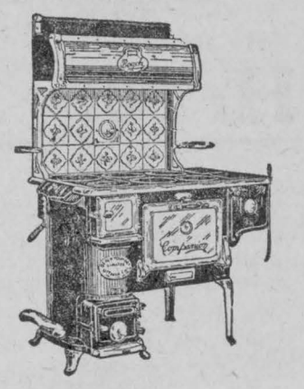

Garvey is a bad egg. He has for years kept the negroes of the United States agitated through one scheme or another, one of his pet projects being that of establishing a negro empire in Africa with himself as emperor.

A few years ago he swindled many negroes through inducing them to buy stock in a proposed "Black Star Line" of ships to ply between America and Africa. For using the mails to defraud in connection with this scheme he was sentenced to five years in the federal prison in Atlanta. Upon his release a year ago he was deported from the United States and has evidently selected Canada as a field for exploiting his imperialistic tendencies.

It would be a good thing if Canada could send him to Africa and find some means of keeping him there.

FINDS HIGHER PREPAREDNESS IN CHRIST'S IDEALS

"Ideals are the vital breath of life. Preparedness means the cultivation of all the graces of Christian Character," Mr. C. Ritchie Bell, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, said in his armistice sermon delivered to a large congregation last Sunday morning.

Mr. Bell advocated an internationally-minded attitude and defended the League of Nations.

"Christian education must be used to instill in the minds of the rising generation the error of that iniquitous belief that war is a biological necessity," the minister stated. "What we want to be fifty years from now as a nation we must prepare for now. Every hour of the present is big with destiny. The time for trifling is past."

Showing how all preparedness must be in relation to human life and its preservation, he said:

"We must follow Christ, treasuring the while the immortal thought that idealism makes a nation, and that ideals are the greatest asset, and reminding ourselves that the cultivation of ideals is the greatest preparation we can make in life."

The church was suitably decorated for the occasion and special music was rendered by the choir under Miss Gertrude Weegar.

In the evening Mr. C. Ritchie Bell preached a special sermon on "Thanksgiving."

McMILLAN—GORDON

Married—On Thursday, Nov. 1st, 1928, Mr. Gilbert A. McMillan of Springwater, Sask., to Miss Dorothy May Gordon of Morewood, Ont., at Knox Presbyterian church, Ottawa, by Rev. Dr. Robert Johnston.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 8th, a reception was tendered them at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Wm. Gordon, Morewood, by their many friends, about one hundred being present. A very enjoyable evening was spent during which time the following address was read:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Gordon:

We, your Morewood friends, have gathered here this evening to extend to you our best wishes for a happy married life.

To you, Mr. McMillan, we extend a hearty welcome to this community. You are yet a stranger to many of us but we wish you to feel as one of us in the new rôle which you have accepted.

And, Dorothy, while we are showering you with good wish we feel a touch of regret when we learn that in the near future we are to lose you from our community, but what is our loss is someone else's gain.

And now, dear friends, as a tangible expression of our good will, we ask you to accept this purse.

We wish you a happy voyage on the matrimonial sea on which you have embarked.

Signed on behalf of your many friends, Alex. Dillabough, John McLeod.

The groom, on behalf of his bride, made a very suitable reply, thanking those present for the many kind wishes for future happiness and prosperity. Music and games were indulged in and after partaking of a dainty lunch all left for their homes, thanking their hostess for the evening spent in her most welcome home.

Derailing Trains

An automobile weighs a ton or two, while a railroad train may weigh a thousand tons, yet in one year automobiles caused twenty-seven derailments. Probably the whole train was never derailed, but it is surprising that even part of it was forced from the tracks. What happened to the occupants of the charging automobiles is easy to reason out.

In the same period over ten thousand railway crossing gates were smashed, while many automobiles were stalled on the tracks, and others were demolished by flying trains which were not derailed.

Each year thousands of persons are killed and injured at railroad crossings—and practically every death could well be labelled "suicide," for we recklessly persist in taking the gambling chance.

The only ways in which one may commit suicide at a crossing are by trying to beat the train, or paying no attention to what is coming along the track. The driver who obeys bells, warning lights and whistles, and approaches a crossing with both eyes and ears at attention, is the driver who always has to notify the hospital of what happened to the other fellow. Even this is a mean job, but not half so tantalizing as being bumped by a one-thousand-ton moving train on its own tracks.

Builders vs. Destroyers

In every community and in the nation at large we have builders and we have destroyers. In between we have a large class which does nothing actively in either direction.

It would seem that the less active element would at least lend its moral support to the builders, but unfortunately this is not always the case, particularly when the destroyers by noisy clamor and misrepresentation seek to discredit the constructive work the builders are trying to do.

The builder is always under fire. No matter how much he may give of time, money and effort to the upbuilding of his community and country, the destroyers are on his trail with a magnifying glass seeking to discover sinister and selfish motives. Being incapable of constructive efforts themselves, they must be content with tearing down.

But the builder does not stop building on that account. The very spirit which makes him a builder also makes him indifferent to the attacks which are as futile as they are unjust. He knows that in the long run he will win, regardless of temporary misunderstanding and abuse, because the knockers will finally hang themselves if given sufficient rope.

An Unseen Danger

With the approach of winter, the usual fatalities from the deadly carbon monoxide may be expected, unless motorists heed warnings against starting their motors in closed garages.

So many deaths have been caused by this poisonous gas that the U. S. Bureau of Mines has produced a motion picture to illustrate its dangers. Besides showing how one may be overcome by carbon monoxide, the picture displays these warnings: "Never run the engine in a closed garage;" "Keep the doors wide open;" "Never get under the car while the engine runs;" "Never sleep in a room with a gas appliance burning".

Carbon monoxide is an odorless and therefore insidious gas, which paralyzes its victim almost before he is aware of its presence, and is fatal unless respiration and a supply of oxygen is immediately supplied.

Where The Virtue Lies

One of the uniquely interesting statements of the Scriptures is found in St. Paul's second letter to the Corinthians, a statement which Dr. Moffatt translates as follow: "For God loves the giver who gives cheerfully." No doubt some of us have wondered why cheerfulness should be set forth as the one chief virtue in relation to giving, but there it stands with all the authority of the Book of God behind it, and so far as we remember it never says anywhere in the Bible that God loves the giver who gives a great deal, or who gives regularly or who gives after any other scheme or fashion, but just the giver who gives cheerfully.

Why cheerfulness should thus be named as the one supreme virtue in relation to giving might, at first flush, be difficult to understand, but a little thought makes it all clear. Giving is one of the finest and most beautiful things we can do, the thing that redeems human life and makes it so infinitely above all other forms of living, that links us on to God and makes us His children in a way that nothing else can possibly do.

But like many of the beautiful things that men may do, giving is not easy to do ideally. And we realize at once that nothing could spoil this wonderful and divine enterprise so completely as that it should be done in a wrong and unworthy spirit. A mother gives of her time and patience and her skilll to her sick child, but what a travesty it would be if she did it all grudgingly and of necessity and without any of that wonderful and yearning love that can only be born in a mother's heart! And what is it that makes the lover's gift of such infinite value and magnifies some insignificant trifle into the most beautiful thing in all the world but that realization of the warmth and ardor of the affection that accompanies it!

Now Paul was a very wise man, and he knew that the Christian's giving of his gifts to the cause of his Master and for the good of men might be a rich and ennobling experience, a kind of sacrament that would bless his whole life, or it might be a very commonplace or even stupid performance, and that the difference would lie altogether in the spirit in which the thing was done. And he knew, too, how easy it was for most men to fail utterly of that higher and richer experience and to do the fine thing poorly and meanly and thus miss all the blessing. And therefore he wrote, with fine insight, that fruitful sentence, "For God loves the giver who gives cheerfully," telling us that if a man will give the warmth and enthusiasm of his soul with his gift the whole will become a blessed sacrament.—The New Outlook.

JOHN JOHNSON

John Johnson, whose appointment to the position of manager of the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, is announced to be effective November 1st. Mr. Johnson joined the staff of the Chateau Frontenac as clerk in 1920, and became assistant manager in 1924. He succeeds B. A. Neale, who is appointed to the Royal York Hotel, Toronto.

Still More Speed

If a recent press dispatch is accurate, ,the airplane speed record of 318 miles an hour set by Major Bernardi of Italy last March, may soon be officially smashed by a wide margin.

From England comes word that Lieutenant Grieg in an unofficial tryout attained a speed estimated at 345 miles an hour. Possibly before this is in print he may have made a new official record.

The average person cannot imagine what it would mean to shoot through space at the rate of between five and six miles a minute, and most of us have little curiosity to find out. Still, we naturally have a certain admiration for those adventurous spirits who do such things.

No matter how dangerous a stunt may be, there are always some to be found who have the courage or foolhardiness to try it. But it is difficult for conservative mortals to understand how they get that way.

Feeding Prejudices

When one stops to think of it, most of us who boast we are broadminded are anything but that. Otherwise, how can we account for the fact that we are seldom interested in reading "the other side" of any question.

We read almost exclusively such books, periodicals and newspapers as we know in advance will generally coincide with our own views. Few Liberals subscribe for a red-hot Conservative newspaper, or vice versa, People take church papers only of their own denomination. Capitalists take few labor papers, and laboring men would hardly look at one that reflects the capitalistic viewpoint.

In other words, we all have our more or less confirmed opinions on nearly every important subject and do not admit that there may be some virtue in the contentions of those who take an opposite view.

As a recent writer has said, "The only facts we can tolerate are those we already know." We read, not to really learn something new, but for the purpose of confirming ourselves in our present beliefs and prejudices.

PLUCKY GIRL FLYER

The fact that she owns and operates an airplane is in itself evidence of the courage of Miss Helen Crandall of Alfred N.Y., but a recent exploit of hers stamps her as being a young woman of intelligence and pluck far beyond the average.

When she and her co-pilot, George Eyer, crashed in the woods far from any habitation, she suffered several broken ribs and Eyer's skull was fractured. Despite her painful injuries she made her way to a farmhouse, nine miles away, tearing bits of her clothing and tying them to limbs of trees to mark the way, so that her companion might be found on her return.. She led five men back through darkness and rain and found Eyer, after which both were taken to a hospital for treatment.

That was a courageous performance worthy of a hero medal.

$50,000 BLAZE AT PRESCOTT

Prescott, Nov. 9.—In a spectacular fire here late last night, the coal derricks at the Canadian Pacific docks were destroyed. The fire broke out in a small engine house 60 feet from the ground. The loss is estimated at $50,000, partly covered by insurance.

TOOK THE LAW IN HIS OWN HANDS

A farmer in the township of Asphodel, took the law in his own hands and shot two pigs that were damaging his crop. He was later apprehended, pleaded guilty, and was let go on suspended sentence, provided he pay the $60 to the owners of the pigs, and the costs of the action. The defendant claimed through his solicitor that the pigs had damaged his crop, and he had asked the owners to keep their pigs at home, but they did not, so one day he took the law in his own hands and shot the animals.

Perhaps Needs a Tonic.

A worried-looking farmer drove into town, and headed for the family doctor. Without preamble he began:

"Doc, the first time you're out our way I wish you'd stop and see my wife."

"Is she ill?" asked the man of pills and potions.

"Not exactly."

"What's the trouble then?"

"Well, this morning she got up at the regular time, about four oclock, milked the cows, got breakfast for the hands, did her housework, churned, and along about ten o'clock she said she felt a little tired. I expect she needs a tonic or something."

Now, Would You?

Mike was an Irish laborer earning good money in Yorkshire, and not wishing to spend his money on beer, he bought a watch and guard, though he could not tell the time. It was amusing, to watch his frequent glances of pride as he was wheeling the barrow. One day his workmates saw him coming on the street, and for a lark told a newcomer to ask Michael the time.

"Can you tell me the time?" he asked with courtesy.

Michael pulled out his watch, looked at it, then turning it round with face to the questioner, he exclaimed, "Would yer believe it?"

Old Days Not So Good

Mrs. Virginia Van De Water writing in the Woman's Journal New York, is not so sure that the good old days were so good. She claims that this age with all its faults, is an era of intellectual honesty. We say what we think and even though we do not always think right, there is some virtue in not being hypocritical. Half a century ago people lived too much in the dark, both actually and metaphorically. "Consider how sunlight was excluded. The small child's face was shaded lest a ray of light touch the tender eyes. As to other kinds of darkness, if one does not remember forty years ago, one has no idea of the so-called 'period of mourning.' In a home where death had entered, every window blind was lowered for weeks. The mourners were swathed in crepe. The widow was secluded for months, often years. In the presence of the great liberator, death, people behaved more like pagans than the Christians they are claimed to be. As for the wail over the lack of spirituality at present, there may be less creed, but I doubt if there was an era when people generally lived religion more than they do now in helping the unfortunate and oppressed. It is no small thing to be written down as one who loves his fellowmen."

He works with MAGIC

THIS MAN is putting up telephone poles. Early in the morning he is out making a way for the wire that is to come. At night when the gang gets back to camp he is tired.

But he likes it. There is zest in the work he is doing, for he is in new country. There have never been telephones here before.

He is blazing the trial. After him will come families and homes and stores and factories to make another city. Over the wires on the poles he plants there will be voices and laughter, business will hum, all the world will draw closer.

He works with magic. The wire transforms time and distance. Today you can lift the telephone at your elbow and within seven minutes hear the voice of your friend in England say: "Are you there?"

THIS MAGIC in the telephone has not come in a day. It has come with year after year of experiment and improvement. The telephone of today is no more like the first telephone than a machine gun is like a bow-and-arrow.

And the telephone of tomorrow will surpass the telephone of today. Tomorrow perhaps, this telephone at your elbow will bring you the face of the person you talk with, will hold new magic we now do not dream of.

THIS IS the urge to improve—to seek and to find something always better—which has been the definite policy of the telephone business since the first crude instrument reproduced the voice of its inventor fifty-odd years ago.

By no other policy could the telephone have kept pace with this country or contributed to its progress as it has done in reducing Canada's wide distances and differences of geography.

And by no other policy can the telephone now meet the responsibility of serving Canada's future.

CANADA'S FUTURE is at least twenty years of unprecedented growth and prosperity. All the signs and barometers of business point to it. All the shrewdest prophets of business predict it.

The signs and the prophets are so sure, and the future is so unmistakable, that within the next five years more money will be needed for extension of the telephone system in Ontario and Quebec than was spent by the business in all its first forty years.

THE MAN pushing poles and wire into new country and the foresight which now is planning over one hundred million dollars of new plant to meet the needs of the next five years come from the same policy and the same purpose—to give Canadians facilities of communication worthy of their country and its future.
