Local candidates debate top issues in S.D.&G.

JUDITH O'BRIEN
Leader staff

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — The all candidates debate held in South Mountain Thursday night proved to be a testing ground for the four men hoping to represent the riding of Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville at Queen's Park for the next four years.

Questions from the 400-plus member audience ranged from education to agriculture to bilingualism. Incumbent Tory MPP Noble Villeneuve, Liberal candidate Dr. Gerry Rosenquist, NDP representative Arthur Carkner and independent Gord McGregor managed to agree on some issues. All four candidates pledged to fight for increased funding for work on the south branch of the South Nation River to help prevent flooding during the next growing season. A clean-up of the environment as well as improved technical education and facilities in the province's high schools also drew unanimous support.

Arthur Carkner

But the similarities soon ended. Carkner opposed any free trade deal with the United States saying "any deal is a bad deal." The NDP platform suggests Canada needs an opening up of the world market and tying itself up with one market such as the U.S. would not be the answer.

McGregor vetoed an unconditional free trade deal with the U.S. because he says agriculture will be affected in spite of what the government says.

"The agricultural industry compromises 45 per cent of employment in this province," he said. "I can't see the U.S. entering into a free trade deal agreement with this country and leaving that market untouched."

Gerry Rosenquist

Rosenquist supported Premier Peterson saying he would get the best deal for Ontario and would not bargain away social services such as OHIP.

Villeneuve was the only candidate to wholeheartedly support a free trade deal with the U.S. Since passage of the U.S. farm bill several years ago Villeneuve says Canadian farmers are facing a new situation. Grain prices are at the same level as 20 years ago while production costs have kept pace with the times.

"We are entering free trade negotiations for one reason only; that is 240 million Americans have decided they will protect themselves," he said. "Through free trade talks we are able to work out a special deal recognizing we are their largest trading partner."

He added Canada has a $21 billion trade surplus with the U.S. which creates a lot of jobs in the country. In addition, Villeneuve quoted figures released by the Economic Council of Canada which suggests 200,00 new jobs would be created if a free trade deal is struck.

Villeneuve said supply managed commodities are not on the bargaining table and they will be protected.

State run insurance

The Liberal canidate said his party is not in favor of state run auto insurance. The party, he said, is working for fair insurance premiums for all drivers, no matter what their age groups.

He suggested a cap on insurance prices and roll backs for young drivers would be a better solution to the problem of soaring insurance rates.

McGregor said if the government took over auto insurance they would have to pay higher salaries to their employees than insurance brokers do, which would cost taxpayers more money. He said British Columbia, which uses state run auto insurance, is now asking private companies back to help them out of problems.

"Big brother can't solve all problems," said Villeneuve. "The public is demanding high settlements and they must be paid. I don't believe in no fault insurance because there is always fault and the ones who cause the problems should pay for them."

Carkner, however, had a different view. He said rates available in the three western provinces, which have state run insurance, are 60 per cent of those charged in Ontario. He said the schemes do work, and even when provincial governments switched to PC or Social Democrat, the system wasn't abolished or changed.

"Some of the highest rates in the province are charged in this riding," he said. "That may be because there are bad drivers, the roads are bad, the distances are far or the weather is bad."

Other issues

The candidates touched briefly on other issues, agreeing more nursing home beds were needed in South Dundas, and each expressed reservation on the Meech Lake Accord, pledging to study the document closely.

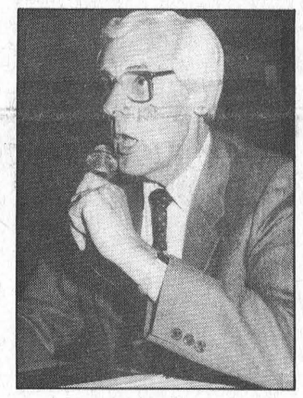
What can you do for me?

Carkner said the main issue in this riding was a lack of jobs which are forcing people to move away from the area. He said there has been a long sleep of incumbency which has caused this area to be ignored. While he credited Villeneuve's efforts on behalf of the constituency, he said Villeneuve has continued in the traditional mold of a party backbencher, and power has never come from this area.

Rosenquist urged audience members to vote for him, which is a vote for David Peterson. Peterson's government is strong and it's working and he said he would be a good man to have on the Peterson team.

Noble Villeneuve

Villeneuve stressed his past performance record at Queen's Park. He said he is never afraid to speak out on issues which concern the riding, and he has tried to be as accessible as humanly possible to each constituent. A vote for him, he said, is a vote for a strong voice at Queen's Park.



Gord McGregor

Independent candidate McGregor was asked what he could do for constituents in S.D.G.&E.G. since he would be a lone voice and wouldn't have a party to back up him up in the Legislature.

"That goes with my platform that maintaining party policy and the party line are harmful. The voice of the people is gone because party members must abide by party policy," he said. "As a member not attached to any party I can side with the issues I feel benefit this riding. This riding has been Tory since before the end of time and has been ignored for the same amount of time. I can assure you if an independent is elected in this riding they'll pour so much money into it to get it back the likes you've never seen!"

Bilingualism is hot topic

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — The four candidates seeking to represent the riding of Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville had varying opinions on the effects and benefits of Bill 8, the provincial government's French language services act at an all-candidates debate here Thursday night.

During the debate the men took turns answering the concerns of the audience. NDP candidate Arthur Carkner said his party supports Bill 8 and he feels it is a good intent to provide services to Franco-Ontarians in their mother tongue.

"I am open to suggestions or improvements," he said. "But I support the principle and I don't think the cost is excessive." His position, he said, has gotten him into trouble in some parts of the riding but he will not change it.

Liberal view

Liberal candidate Dr. Gerry Rosenquist said he would not favor a referendum to repeal Bill 8 because it deals with a minority rights issue which is often emotional.

"A democracy exists for the protection of minorities and we can't do that in a referendum when so many emotions are involved," he said.

Tory support

Incumbent Tory MPP Noble Villeneuve was present in the Legislature the day the bill was passed. He said the elected members were in a dilemma because if the bill wasn't passed it either meant no to any French language services or full bilingualism. He said he isn't happy with all aspects of the bill, such as how services located in a non-designated area, which provide services to designated areas, will be affected.

"I would demand that the implementation of the bill go to an all party standing committee so citizens can have input into Bill 8," said Villeneuve. "Right now we do not have public input into Bill 8."

Opposes Bill 8

Independent Gord McGregor decided to run in the election on a platform of opposition to Bill 8, calling for its repeal and a referendum on official bilingualism in Ontario.

"The ability to communicate in one language — English — is the bond which binds this nation of immigrants," he said. "I have nothing against the French speaking residents of the province but this bill will not help them because of the animosity it will create between English and French."

He said Bill 8 is the most vague piece of legislation he has ever seen and thinks the 70 MPPs who were absent the day the bill was passed were told to stay away if they didn't agree with it, which is not a fair representation of the people of Ontario.

"Bill 8 cannot be implemented fairly to any unilingual person in the province as it is now written," he said. "Kingston Township supported a request for a referendum on bilingualism yesterday and Premier Peterson said official bilingualism will not be enforced during his next term. Obviously they know I'm here and if I can do all that for you before an election, just think what I can do for you after an election."

Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge is seeking volunteer corps

CORNWALL — In an attempt to attract more volunteers, the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge, home for the aged, has hired Carole Brophy-Humes as director of resident services.

The newly created position is designed to infiltrate residents at the lodge more into community life with people who will be able to give them personal attention a few hours every week.

"My purpose is to plan, organize, supervise and evaluate resident social services and to recruit, develop and co-ordinate a volunteer corps," Humes said.

Humes, an Ingleside resident, who began her new job September 1, said at present, the lodge offers group activities during the week where all residents are welcome to participate and get involved.

"Resident services plan on evaluating all our programs and activities," she said, "and with the help of the staff and volunteers introducing a variety of new programs that the residents would like to see on weekdays as well as weekends."

The volunteer corps sought are people who would enjoy spending time visiting the lodge residents.

"What we are specifically looking for are volunteers to help residents participate in recreational activities such as bingo cards, crafts, trips," Humes said. "Also we'd like them to make personal visitations to residents requested, including reading to them, playing the record player, having discussions and making tea."

Another important aspect for the volunteer will be to integrate the resident into the daily activities and programs both in the home and the community.

"The volunteers will be given a complete orientation to the Lodge and the department of resident services will provide in-service training," Humes said.

There are presently 150 residents at the lodge which is capacity and only 20 volunteers.

Humes said she hopes to get around 50-60 volunteers to help out.

If anyone is interested thev can call Humes at 933-3384.

Record year in '87

Seaway Valley big tourism draw

MORRISBURG — Perfect summer weather and an expanded advertising campaign helped attract thousands of visitors to the Seaway Valley this year.

While the final count isn't in, many tourism officials are predicting the summer of 1987 will be a record year.

At Upper Canada Village, the top tourist attraction in Eastern Ontario, attendance is up four per cent over last year. Attendance at daily use parks operated by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission is up by 20 per cent. Upper Canada Village usually attracts huge crowds over the Labor Day and Thanksgiving weekends, and with recorded attendance at the beginning of August numbering 200,000 it is expected the village will draw well over the 265,000 tourists predicted.

Terri Lalonde, Executive Manager of the Seaway Valley Tourist Council said the seven information centres operated between Merrickville and the Quebec border helped draw tourists from that province. Additional promotion in Quebec by SVTC also helped swell the ranks of visitors to Ontario.

The Ontario Travel Information Centre in Lancaster underwent an 11 per cent increase in tourist inquiries from June to August. The centre in Hawkesbury recorded a three per cent increase. Patsy McAllister, supervisor for the centres said the majority of inquiries were from Quebecers.

Seaway negotiations open

OTTAWA — Even though 95.6 per cent of the 800 lock operators and maintenance workers with the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority have voted to take strike action if necessary, both sides feel a settlement can be reached without work disruptions.

Negotiators from the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and Transport Workers, which represents lock operators at the Welland Canal and the eastern section of the Seaway including Iroquois, met in August and have scheduled a new round of talks in Toronto Sept. 15.

"We're still talking and I'm optimistic we will reach an agreement," said Camille Trepanier of the Seaway Authority.

CBRT negotiator Gus Callahan said the main issue is the demand by the Seaway Authority to take away benefits previously negotiated with the union, but says there is no strike deadline and he will continue to negotiate.

A strike at the height of the shipping season in September and October would cost ship owners and the Seaway Authority millions of dollars. Thirty employees at Iroquois and 55 at Cornwall could strike if the union calls one.

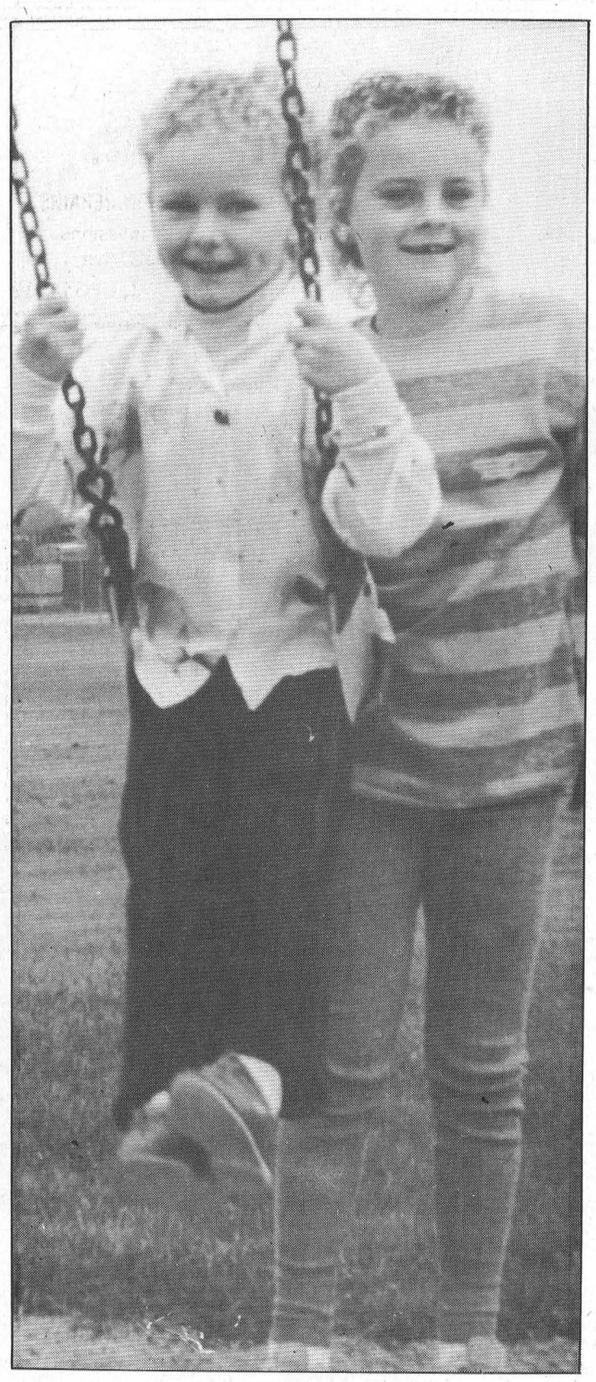
S.D.&G. numbers

IROQUOIS — The newly created riding of Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville will have more than 42,000 registered voters for the upcoming Sept. 10 provincial election.

A spokesman for the riding office said 35,482 voters were registered during the October 1985 campaign.

Through redistribution, the Township of Charlottenburgh was removed from the riding although the addition of East Grenville added 9,000 new voters.

Polls will be open Thursday, September 10 from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Eligible voters are reminded to bring their enumeration slip to their polling station. In rural areas, eligible voters omitted from the list may cast a ballot provided they take an oath and are accompanied by an elector who is on the list in that same polling division and who will vouch for them.



Return to the books

Elementary and secondary students returned to school this week after a long summer holiday. Most pupils at Morrisburg Public School welcomed the chance to meet up with old friends, and show off new clothes. Sisters Sheri (back) and Stacy Shaver sported new clothes and hair styles to school. First day of school welcomed by students

MORRISBURG — The first day of school dawned cloudy and cool, much to the delight of students at Morrisburg Public School who were hoping the sun wouldn't be shining while they were forced to remain in classes.

For Grade 5 student Sheri Shaver and her sister Stacy who is starting Grade 1, the best part of going back to school was the shopping trip they took for new clothes. Sheri missed her friends a lot, her teacher a little and she's anxious to show off her new back-to-school hair style.

Stacy says she's a little worried about starting Grade 1 but her sister has been telling her nice things about school so she does not think it will be too bad.

The boys are also happy to be back at school. Grade 3 students Brandon Belanger and Sebastian Torres "feel good" to be back. Their favorite part of the school day is recess because they can play with all their friends, although they admit they really don't mind the schoolwork part either.

"I was bored in the summer because I had nothing to do," said Brandon. "I wanted to go back to school. You get to do work and the teachers yell at you."

"And that gets the teachers nervous," added Sebastian, with a grin.

Device may limit roadside kills

MIKE GANTER
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — The answer to all those dead roadside animals which leave the young orphaned and the roads dirty may have come in the form of a "hobi" animal alert distributed by the Ontario Humane Society.

The "hobi" animal alert is a device along the lines of a dog whistle. It emits an ultrasonic sound which will scare any animals off the road. The sound is inaudible to the human ear and is small enough to be almost unnoticeable when attached to a car.

The animal alert comes to Canada after showing excellent results in testing in Europe. It is distributed by the Ontario Humane Society and is fairly cheap with a cost of about $21.

The Ontario Humane Society reports a good number of the devices have been sold and no complaints have been received. Although both Ontario Hydro and Bell Canada in the northern regions of Ontario were reported to be using the animal alerts on company vehicles this could not be confirmed.

Mike Eckersley, the district biologist at the Ministry of Natural Resources in Cornwall, feels the devices are a good idea. While he had never heard of the devices before being contacted by The Leader. Eckersley deals with most of the larger animal/vehicle accidents in the five Eastern Counties so he welcomes any device which would decrease the number of road kills.

So far this year, Eckersley reports 18 deer and four moose have been killed in his district alone due to animal-vehicle collisions. These figures translate into about 40-50 deer lost this year and about eight moose. These accidents, not only result in heavy damage to a vehicle, but leave the animals' young orphaned.

Besides saving your car some extensive damage from the larger animal accidents, the alert will also prevent those more common but just as messy road kills involving skunks, racoons and even groundhogs. Family pets can also be saved if animal alerts become popular in the area.

Regardless of the animal involved in the accident, animal alerts provide a solution to the many needless and often costly animal/vehicle collisions on our Ontario roads.

Harvest Story featured at Upper Canada Village

I'd rather be sailing

Labor Day weekend is traditionally a busy time at Upper Canada Village. Many people take advantage of the last long summer weekend to visit the historic sight, and special activities are planned demonstrating the 1860s lifestyle. Above, workers at the village raise part of the main frame of a barn, built according to 1860s style. At that time, the process would begin early in the morning and be finished at the end of the day. —O'Brien photo

MORRISBURG — On the weekend of Sept. 12 and 13, "The Harvest Story" will be in progress at Upper Canada Village, located 11 kilometres east of here.

There is nowhere like Upper Canada Village that so well illustrates the age-old historic process of wheat growing, harvesting, threshing, milling and baking as it was conducted in the 1860s.

During the 1850s and 1860s the economy of Upper Canada was booming and in the fall and spring of 1861 the wheat crop was about 24 million bushels. Wheat production was second to forestry as a principle agricultural crop and export commodity.

As a main focus on the weekend of Sept. 12 and 13, Village activities will be devoted to illustrating "The Harvest Story" as it would have occurred in the 1860s.

Threshing of wheat will take place at Loucks' Farm on Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mr. Loucks grows a "new" strain of spring wheat developed for its hardiness and adaptability to the short Canadian growing season.

Milling will take place at Bellamy's Steam Flour Mills from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on both days. Mr. Loucks and his neighbors bring their wheat to the miller who in turn sells the flour to the local bakery and to export agents.

Baking takes place at the Village bakery from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. daily. Also, baking will take place in the Tailor's House (brick oven), at the Tenant Farm (open hearth) and at Loucks' Farm (iron cookstove) from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

Police Report

MORRISBURG — OPP report a quiet Labor Day weekend with two traffic accidents and only two impaired driving charges laid.

On Sept. 6 Tom Emery of Morrisburg was involved in an accident on Hwy. 2. The car ran off the road and through a bordering fence. There was extensive damage to the vehicle.

Donald Soo of Montreal was involved in a single car accident on Hwy. 401. He was heading eastbound when he lost control of the car and ran through a fence. Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1,500. There were no injuries.

Everyone can help

The C.N.I.B. campaign has been mentioned in this column just a few weeks ago, but the plea is being repeated on the eve of the campaign, because of the urgency of the problem.

For most of us, the mere thought of being blinded is a terrifying one, and the prospect of being deaf can strike the same chord of fear, but how many of us can even imagine the complete isolation of being both blind and deaf?

Yet as difficult and frustrating as it may seem, communication and learning for such people is possible. But it is a very costly undertaking, requiring highly-trained personnel and specialized equipment. And many people are not receiving this gift of communication, because funds are limited.

Right now, an army of volunteers in Morrisburg and district has been organized to call on every resident of the area. They invite you to help in this most worthy cause, no matter how modest your contribution may be. Every contribution will assist some afflicted person to communicate with family and with others. Every bit of help that can be mustered is essential to meet the challenge of helping them reach their fullest potential, of taking advantage of modern methods to make their unique contribution to today's society. Please do whatever you can for those less fortunate than you.

Information regarding the work of the C.N.I.B. can be obtained from: Mrs. Kay Keyes, 543-3253; Mrs. Lorraine Butler, 543-2833; Mrs. Beulah Quart, 543-3872; Mr. Tom Ayerst, 543-3756, Treasurer.

Adolescents and drugs

Not all adolescents using alcohol or other drugs have dependency problems, but parents and peers tend all too often to think in "all or none" terms, says Dick O'Brien, a human relations consultant in Burlington, Ontario.

Parents often think of the child as "being on drugs" and their schoolmates divide students into "users" and "non-users".

Describing five patterns of use, from nil to initial, recreational, daily and chronic, Mr. O'Brien said the initial and recreational users have adolescent problems relating to others and feeling at ease. This is the group open to counselling, information and awareness programs.

The daily user has "one foot in a normal and the other in a drug lifestyle". He or she is still in school and at home, but is self-medicating and filled with self-deception.

"For the daily user it's the most important thing in life; for the chronic user it's the only thing in life".

The chronic doesn't respond to individual counselling, and requires severe intervention, like a residential program, he said. Mr. O'Brien has worked out a four-factor, predictive model that includes the benefits and consequences of drug use and the benefits and consequences of being drug-free.

If the perceived benefits of use and the benefits of being drug-free outweigh the other two, use will continue. But if the young consider the benefits of being drug-free and the consequences of use outweigh the other two, "they will start to move toward being drug-free".

Most young daily and chronic users block out the consequences of use, he said, and the chronic see no benefit of being drug-free. "They couldn't care less about parents, cops, school or money. They are socially and emotionally bankrupt".

But they can see consequences of being drug-free: being friendless because using-friends will be threatened and others know them as "dopers". They don't know how to cope, how to say no, or how to get money (if they've been dealing). Adults who have labelled them will be suspicious.

One aim of a counsellor, says Mr. O'Brien, should be to get users to see specific alternatives: lists of friends and places to avoid, role playing, to learn how to say no, awareness of making choices, and being responsible for those choices.

Visual perception

Ninety percent of driver reaction is dependent on vision, according to Dr. John Wylie, author of the research paper "Vision and Driving".

Good visual perception is the most important factor when driving, determining how clearly motorists or truckers can see, discerning detail, and distinguishing shapes and objects.

Another important aspect is depth perception. This is important to accurately judge stopping distances, between your vehicle and the one in front of you; and the position of other vehicles when passing. It also helps to determine the relative speed of other vehicles.

How Britannia ruled

Not so very long ago, up until World War II, one of the proudest boasts of the British people was that "Britannia rules the waves!" For many, many years, it was just an accepted fact of life that the Royal Navy was the greatest force on earth, and no one questioned why, nor did they ask whose Royal Navy. But a small display at the Royal Ontario Museum could have a possible explanation.

It is based on the book by Charles Darwin (The Origin of Species), wherein he wished to prove "how plants and animals remote in the scale of nature, are bound together by a web of complex relations". In order to prove this hypothesis, Darwin took a close look at the relationships between red clover and bumblebees which pollinate it.

His examination revealed that deep red clover flowers could be effectively pollinated only by long-tongued bumblebees, and so he deduced that the reproduction success of red clover in England could therefore be attributed to large numbers of bumblebees. He subsequently discovered that there were more bumblebee nests near villages and towns than elsewhere. His next deduction was that field mice, the major threat to bumblebee larvae and combs, were scarce around towns and villages because of the prevalence of cats there. It was clear therefore, that the cats were responsible for the abundance of clover in England.

So what did that have to do with the Royal Navy? Just read on! Another scientist expanded this "complex web of relations" even further by noting that red clover was the staple food of British cattle, which in turn became the "bully beef" which formed the major part of the diet of British sailors.

But it was Sir Thomas Huxley who made the strangest connection of all, when he reached the obvious conclusion that there large numbers of cats in England only because of the cat-loving English spinsters who raised them. Obviously, therefore, if you are still with us, the cat-loving spinsters of Britain were responsible for her domination of the seas.

Pictured on the front page of the September 8th, 1967 issue of The Leader were Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hess who were married at Saint James Anglican Church, Morrisburg. The bride was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cassell and the groom's parents were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Hess, all of Morrisburg.

Morrisburg and area hockey fans, who had learned with some dismay a few weeks earlier that their familiar Combines would not be operating, were pleased with the announcement that Bill Dillabough, founder and manager of the Combines, had been successful in his application for membership in the Central Junior A Hockey League. Dillabough was to operate a team to be known as The Morrisburg Rockets, and Arnold "Red" Lawlor had been signed as coach. With the advent of the Rockets, Morrisburg became the only town in Canada with a population of 2,000 to boast a team of Junior A calibre.

The executive of the Morrisburg Lions Club was announced with Bruce MacDonald heading the list as president.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Leroy of St. Eugene, announced the marriage of their daughter, Sandra Elaine to William Robert Magee of Morrisburg, on August 21st.

At the Dominion, Richmello doughnuts were two packages of 12 for 49 cents, and fresh cauliflower were 29 cents each.

On September 10th, commencing at 2:30 p.m., an historical plaque, commemorating the submerged communities of the St. Lawrence Project, was to be unveiled in Lakeside Park, Cornwall Township. The construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway involved the formation, in 1951-58, of a new "Lake St. Lawrence", stretching from the power dams at Barnhart Island, to the control dam at the west boundary of Iroquois. The raising of the water in this great storage basin caused flooding of the Canadian bank of all or part of the fronts of four townships: Cornwall, Osnabruck, Williamsburg and Matilda. The Seaway Project was extremely complicated and required the clearing of a strip of land about 30 miles in length, and one to four miles wide. Forty miles of railway and about 35 miles of highway had to be moved back, a great deal of property had to be acquired, values assessed, and compensation paid to the owners. It was decided to offer those who were to lose their homes three choices. They could take their compensation, and go to live where they pleased, accept an entirely new house on a new site, or have their old house moved to a new location, where it would be placed on a new foundation, and fitted with plumbing and electricity. To provide sites for the new and old homes, two completely new townsites were laid out at Long Sault and Ingleside. Iroquois became practically a new town, with only two houses being left of old Iroquois which lay directly south of the new town, and Riverside Heights was laid out. The western part of the old village of Morrisburg, on higher ground, was left undisturbed, while a new residential, business plaza and civic centre were formed, north and northwest of the old business section. Only the hamlet of Mariatown, standing on high ground was left undisturbed. Though much of the past had been saved, much also was inevitably lost, and all but three of the old names passed out of use.

Headlines in the September 6th, 1957 issue of The Leader read: Mrs. Pitt and family arrive from Scotland. Mrs. Pitt and her two sons rejoined her husband, Constable Ronald Pitt, who was shot by auto thieves two weeks before in Morrisburg. The constable was in a Montreal hospital.

At Williamsburg, Mr. and Mrs. Emmerson Harriman were celebrating the 45th anniversary of their marriage.

Pictured on the front page of The Leader was Joan Christensen who was handling a mobile communications set-up for the St. Lawrence project.

Ontario Hydro notified residents of Morrisburg that they would have a one-hour power interruption on September 7th, made necessary for the relocation of electrical facilities supplying power to Morrisburg.

1947

The September 12, 1947 issue of The Leader reported that the funeral of Eli Merkley, well known resident of the Township of Matilda, and its reeve for 15 years, was held at Knox Church by Rev. Mr. Ross, and interment was at Point Iroquois cemetery.

The marriage was solemnized at Christ Church, Deer Park, Toronto, of Elizabeth Anne Lennox and Parker Alexander Locke the son of Mrs. M. W. Locke, and the late Dr. Locke of Williamsburg.

Construction was proceeding at a steady pace in Morrisburg, with the new store in the East Ward to be operated by A. English, now finished. The new service station at the corner of Lock and Main Streets, to be operated by Shell Oil Company, was nearing completion, as was the new fire hall and police station on the corner of Colin and Victoria Streets. The Morrisburg Hosiery Co. plant, near the C.N. station was almost finished, and work had begun on the new plant to be erected by Challies Dental Products in the East Ward.

At Weegar's Store, chipped nuts were 95 cents for a 2-pound jar, and Everkrisp green dill tomatoes were 25 cents for a 24-ounce jar.

The September 9th, 1927 issue of The Leader reported that, beginning October 1st, all vehicles using the highways at night must carry lights, and all cars equipped with four-wheel brakes must display, in the rear, a small triangular brake sign. It was suspected that solving the problem of lights on horse-drawn vehicles might prove difficult. The danger of carrying a lighted lamp on the back of a load of hay was obvious, but provision was made to exercise discretion

Morrisburg Public School had re-opened for the year with Mr. Gordon Foulds promoted to principal, and Raymond Coligan assuming the duties of assistant principal.

After a stay of more than eight years, Rev. Thomas Iseler was bidding farewell to his congregation at St. Peter's Lutheran Church in Williamsburg.

A QUESTION OF SOILS

We've been busy this past week transplanting slips — Roses, Primulas, Russian Olive and Periwinkle. Like "New lamps for old", from one plant you take three or four slips and presto, you have cloned three or four new plants. We've done it before, from one rose bush to a rose hedge 25 feet long. Simply repeat the process. It sounds so simple. Just dig them up, then pot them up.

We were off to the races. Pots weren't a problem, there's always a plethora of pots, plastic pots, clay pots, and those unlikely square pots. Somehow, we can't quite think of pots as having corners. Boxes have corners, closets have corners, even loaf pans have corners, but pots have that round "O" in the middle. Even their reddish brown color looks round.

Having dealt with the pots, we looked for something to fill them with and found ourselves short of soil. Potting soil is different from garden soil. You can't just dig up some of the good brown earth the plant has been growing in and fill up your pot. Drainage is crucial and garden soil will often soak up water and sit there like a sodden sponge.

We start with a mix of half and half, peat moss and vermiculite. We used to buy vermiculite from the builders' supply at a very reasonable price, but like the Dodo, it seems to have disappeared and been replaced by pink stuff (fibreglass). To the vermiculite/peat mixture we add enough garden soil to make up one-third: 1/3 peat, 1/3 vermiculite, 1/3 soil, with a good layer of coarse gravel on the bottom. We pop the slips in with a dose of transplanting fertilizer and wish them well.

When it comes to soil elsewhere, we've been blessed in the large garden with a heavy clay soil that will grow just about anything. Some folks would moan, as it can be hard to work with, but with a dusting of Claybreak (powdered gypsum) every spring and fall, we find the soil breaks up easily. To combat the high water table, we raised the level of the beds, allowing the soil to dry out for an early start. Don't try to work a wet clay soil, because you'll just make it worse. Use your energy on the compost heap, and then spread liberal amounts of it over the surface of the bed. To test "workability" roll a ball of soil in your hand. If it clings together — wait, if it falls apart — go ahead and dig.

The best thing about a good clay soil is that it holds nutrients. Put a little bone meal in and it's there for the plant to use. Dig in some manure and the nutrient stays in the soil until the roots pick it up. Roses like a clay soil; we've grown tomatoes, currants, rhubard and artichokes all in clay with good results.

Several of the smaller raised beds have a sandy soil, a load that we bought when we were extending the beds. You can dig these beds over while there is still snow on the rest of the garden — yet this is not friable soil. Pick up a handful and it feels sharp and gritty. It dries out soon after watering, and plants started in it look great for the first few weeks, then begin to pale, looking downright hungry. This soil is poor, despite the fact that bales of peat moss and sheep manure have been dug in. A sandy soil may be lovely to dig in but it's poor to grow things in. Everything leaches away, leaving you with hungry, thirsty plants.

We will continue to study this matter of soils as we start on a new garden, but more of that later. In the meantime, we will try to unravel the puzzle of soil testing and the mysterious Ph. See Chapter II next week.

It was back in the good old days

On April 27 a joint committee of employing printers and journeymen met, in 1869, in New York City, and set up the following wage scale:

"All men employed by the week, shall be paid not less than $20 — not more than ten hours to constitute a day's work — not more than nine hours on Saturday; when paid by the hour, the price shall be 35 cents per hour. When compositors work beyond the regular hours, they shall be paid at the rate of 50 cents per hour, such extra time to be between the hours of 6 p.m. and 7 a.m. Sunday work will be paid at the rate of 70 cents per hour for day, and $1 per hour for night work. Composition by the piece double the charges for week days. Holidays by mutual agreement. All piece work done in job offices shall be governed by the book scale."

Newspapers at this time paid $20 per week to compositors for a week of 60 hours, and overtime was at the rate of 45 cents per hour. Machine setting had not been invented; all type was set by hand.

Ministry to introduce social service program

The Ministry of Community and Social Services will introduce programs to make Ontario social service more responsive to multicultural groups, Premier David Peterson announced.

"The Ministry of Community and Social Services has a rich history of providing ethnically and culturally responsive social services," Mr. Peterson said. "However, barriers to access remain."

The initiatives announced today reflect the Government's Race Relations Policy announced in 1986, and the Multiculturalism Strategy released earlier this year.

A highlight of today's announcement is a $3-million program to provide bridging services, designed to link individuals from diverse cultural backgrounds to mainstream social services.

For example, under the program a Chinese-born senior, living in a home for the aged and needing some friendly visiting or counselling, would have the service provided by staff from a Chinese community agency who comes into the home for the aged.

The bridging services program will be developed in close cooperation with key representatives of ethnocultural groups and agencies.

Other Ministry initiatives announced include:

— special training for Ministry staff to help them deal more sensitively with all individuals;

— the implementation of a Multicultural Resource Kit and Training program for child care workers designed to train them to be sensitive to the cultural values and customs of children in their care;

— cunsultation with the United Ways of Ontario on possible joint activities to promote multiculturalism;

— the hiring of a full-time specialist on multicultural and race relations within the Ministry to be responsible for policy and program development;

— a requirement that all Ministry reports and submissions in the program and policy area identify how proposed initiatives support the Government's Race Relations Policy.

"More than money is required to make the Government reflect the diversity of Ontario society," Mr. Peterson said. "We must foster new attitudes in Government so that services can truly serve all residents of the province, no matter what their background."

Glengarry landmark saved

TORONTO — St. Raphael's Church Ruins in Glengarry County will receive a face-lift thanks to a $110,000 grant from the Ministry of Citizenship and Culture.

The well-known historic site is presently in danger of irreversible deterioration according to Minister Lily Munro.

"Considerable moisture has penetrated the top levels of the limestone walls," the Minister said. "As well, some portions of the free-standing walls are cracked and falling apart."

The funds, provided under the Ministry's Community Facilities Improvement Program (CFIP), will provide each wall with copper capping.

"The cap, in effect, is a small roof which will protect the walls on the upper and lower parapets from the rain," Munro explained. "As well, the upper layers of limestone will be reset and mortar will be replaced on the inside and outside walls.

Repairs are planned to begin this summer.

Built in 1821 under the direction of Upper Canada's first Roman Catholic Bishop, Alexander MacDonell, the historic building was once the oldest functioning Roman Catholic church in Ontario. The 1,000-seat building was constructed by skilled Scottish settlers with Glengarry limestone. In spite of its huge dimensions, no interior pillars were used to support the structure.

Fire destroyed the interior and roof in 1970 leaving the church in ruins. With a $37,000 grant from the Ontario Heritage Foundation, the remaining massive stone walls were stablized and deeded to the Township of Charlottenburg.

Today, the visually arresting landmark is a popular tourist attraction which houses a variety of summer concerts.

The ministry's CFIP program provides financial support to community organizations enabling them to purchase, construct, renovate and restore facilities.

Over $3,500 raised

Barkley even par for Cedar Glen win

WILLIAMSBURG — The showdon was on at the Labatts-Cedar Glen Golf Open here Monday when Rick Barkley and Allen McNairn continued their battle for local tournament championships.

In July at the Morrisburg Open, Barkley came home with an outstanding four under par 68 but McNairn was two strokes better with an amazing 66 to take the silverware.

Monday at Cedar Glen it was Barkley's turn when he fired an even par 70 for the win, one stroke better than McNairn.

"It's Al and me, or me and Al," said Barkley who indicated his putting was good and his overall game steady. "Today it was my turn."

Barkley played the first four holes at even par and then slipped to two under with birdies on five and six. Another par on seven followed by bogies on eight and nine allowed him to finish the front nine even at 35.

Pars on 10 and 11 and a birdie three on number 12 dropped him to one under and he remained steady, putting together four consecutive pars as he headed for the home stretch. But a short drive on the par three seventeenth resulted with a bogie bringing him back to even as he headed for the win.

For McNairn "it was a good day but not good enough to win. I wasn't putting as steady as I usually do," he said. I'd sink a long one, then I'd miss a three-footer."

McNairn indicated he knew he needed a birdie as he headed up 18 with Barkley waiting in the clubhouse but his efforts came within an inch of doing it when he just missed chipping in. As a result McNairn settled for a 71 and second place.

In B flight another battle took place when Barry Casselman and Lloyd Guy finished tied at 76 forcing the issue into a playoff. Four holes later when, it looked like darkness might be the victor Guy ended it with a birdie on the number one hole.

Guy claimed the B championship and Casselman dropped back for second place.

In C flight Gary Richardson came up with the championship title with an 84 and Lorne Barkley took second place with his 88 on backholes.

The net winner in A flight was Larry Harper with a 65 and Lloyd Wells of Morrisburg was the net champ in C with a 61.

Fred Harper had the second low net in A flight with a 66, Gary Paquin had second low net in B at 63 and Jim Cook had second low net in C with a 63.

A total of 118 golfers participated in the open which was divided into a morning and afternoon draw. Fifty-four prizes from a prize table valued at more then $3,000 were handed out.

As an extra attraction putting contests were held in the early evening with Jim Whelan, Ted Bridgemen and Gary McMillan all coming up winners.

Other awards went to Dutch DeRooy for closest to the hole on eight and Mike Guy for the longest drive.

Hospital benefits

WILLIAMSBURG — This year's Cedar Glen Golf Open Monday offered extra incentive to area golfers when club owners announced the tournament would become a charity affair with the Winchester and District Memorial Hospital becoming the beneficiary.

Although Dennis Casselman said he had been hoping for a little more he was pleased with the results which had Rex Whitteker turn over $3,750 to hospital representative Herman DeVries.

Along with the proceeds resulting from the $50 entry fee, three putting contests netted another $163 for the hospital which plans to use the money for needed equipment purchases.

On behalf of the hospital DeVries thanked the Cedar Glen management as well as the golfers for their contributions.

Next year Casselman expects the donation to be higher. "We were a little late approaching corporate sponsors but next year we'll get more involved."

The corporate sponsors made either merchandise or cash donations, and included Ault Foods Ltd., Beaver Dental Products, Beavers Dental Canteen, Cedar Glen Golf Course, Labatts Breweries, Mastron Mechanical Contracting, Drewery Pontiac Buick, Odonto Corporation, Sports Unlimited and Touche Ross.

Casselman was particularly pleased with the number of volunteers who provided their services in running the tournament.

Spartans finish in first place

BY MONICA DUVALL

MORRISBURG — The senior Spartan men held off all challengers in both semi-final and final soccer action this week to win the league's second division championship, a win whcih was climaxed by an overtime victory against the Winchester Sonics Sunday.

The sudden death, championship victory got started with a Sonic goal but the Spartans rallied to tied it on a counter by Perry Hart.

The 1-1 regulation time tie pushed the contest into overtime consisting of two 10-minute halves. This portion of the game proved to be even more exciting with Pat Burke scoring for the Spartans early, to point them in the direction of the championship.

But the Sonics were not finished yet and with three minutes to go they again evened it sending the game to penalty shots.

Goalkeep Bill Ault stopped the first Sonic shot and Spartans, Scott Campbell, missed in his attempt to put the locals ahead. The Sonics then got one but the Spartans moved ahead when David Cherry and Jay Merkley met with success.

The Spartans hung on for the win when the final three Sonic shooters missed, as did Perry Hart and Helge Saal.

Spartan coach Holger Andersen was pleased with the team's season which ended with 65 goals for and only 10 against.

"We had a deadly defence as well as a strong offencive line," said Andersen who also lauded the backup goaltending of Jim Thom and Jay Merkley who were able to cover for regular goalkeep Bill Ault when he was not available.

"Bob Fowler was especially solid on the defencive line but due to injuries he was unable to play in the final," he said.

Andersen was impressed with the efforts of Perry Hart who sacrified some strong forward moves to play defence when he was needed and thankful for the last minute additions of David Cherry, John Warren and Lorne Shanahan who helped round out the team.

As a result of their championship, the Spartans are now looking forward to next year when they will play in the first division.

Strong start

The Spartans got off to a strong start in the week-long playoff action when they blanked the Hearts 5-0 last Sunday. Pat Burke produced a hat trick and singles came from Ben Norgaard and Scott Campbell.

Tuesday in Alexandria it was a different story when the Hearts rallied for a 4-4 tie — Pat Burke, Gord Johnston, Perry Hart and Ben Norgaard provided the Spartan goals but no one was able to come up with a winner.

In the third and final outing the Spartans showed their strength, standing behind a devasting 10-1 victory to advance to the division final.

Perry Hart and Pat Burke both produced hat tricks and singles came from Scott Campbell, Ben Norgaard, David Andersen and David Cherry.

While the Spartans were shutting down the Hearts North Dundas was working its way to a win over St. Andrews for their right to advance to the final.

Spartan Ladies finish third

The Spartan Ladies remained in third place after a valiant but successful attempt against the Cornwall City squad. Losing their first match 3-1 they were eliminated in game two by a 4-1 count.

Laura Andersen and Nancy Goupil supplied the Seaway scoring.

Coach Ben Norgaard was extremely pleased with the girls performance this year.

"This season has been the best ever for the girls, said Norgaard. "They've been a good bunch to work with."

Blooperball league ready for playoff championship

MORRISBURG — The mixed blooperball league came to an end here last Tuesday night with the Manglers victorious over Levesque Tire 20-9 and FreshMart downing the Local Heroes 16-9.

The end result of the season sees Music in first place with the Manglers right behind, the two finishing the year on 20 points. Music took the first place standing because of their better record against the Manglers.

Coming in for third spot were the Local Heroes and in fourth was Levesque Tire followed by FreshMart in the league basement.

This Sunday, September 13, the teams will square off in the annual playoff championship tournament.

FreshMart 16 — Heroes 9

The FreshMart bats exploded last Tuesday night for a total of 16 runs while the Heroes came in with only nine. Right from the start FreshMart had the power, opening with three unanswered runs by Ian Foss, Corrine Tupper and Danny Foss in the first.

Both teams had four runners cross home plate in the second but in the third FreshMart let loose for five runs to the Heroes one to take total command.

Robert Jordan scored three FreshMart runs while Danny Foss, Gary Beckstead, Derek Tupper and Shawn Boulerice had two. Singles came from Sherry Boulerice, Ian Foss, Corrine Tupper and Brian Lewis.

Answering for the Heroes were Doug Wells, Wayne Markell, Judy Markell, Ian McGillis, Frank Marriner, Bob Boivin, Devra Wells and Rick Darling.

Manglers 20 — Levesque 9

Levesque Tire was unable to get the bats working against the Manglers who took an early lead on six unanswered first inning runs. The Manglers managed to hold Levesque off the scoreboard in the second while they counted three times, but again in the third the Manglers took over as they headed for the 20-9 win.

Dean Cassell led the Mangler scoring with four runs and Steve Coligan and Kevin Drennan had three each. Allen Casselman, Mike VanAllen and Shawn Holden scored twice and Kent Holder, Ronnie DeGray, Colleen Barry and Vicki Blok had singles.

Gerrry Mabo and Ron Lanthier came home twice for Levesque and Philip Dillabough, Dale Hoppe, Tracy Stewart, Don Veinotte and Donnie Mabo had singles.

Markell, Lalande win Sadie Hawkins two-ball

MORRISBURG — Tom Lalande graciously accepted an invitation from Nora Markell to participate in this year's Sadie Hawkins two-ball at the Morrisburg Golf Club and then the two strolled merrily into the winner's circle with a strong six-over-par 78 for a 61.5 net.

Enroute to the Denis Rose net trophy the two posted seven pars on the front nine and two bogies for their 38 and then came home with one birdie, six pars, a triple bogie and a double for a 40. Their combined 16.5 handicap gave them a 61.5 net for the championship.

With Markell and Lalande taking the grand prize Marj Droppo and Cy Filion moved in to claim low gross with their 91. Ricki Cottrill and Hubert Barkley had second low gross with a 93 and Dot MacDonald and Wilf McAuley were third at 95.

Second low net went to Dorothy Burchmore and Ken Fryer who posted a 95 for a 65 net and Terri Martel and Gord Fairbairn shot a 99 for a 66 net and third place.

A total of 28 couples participated in the annual tournament which allows no husband and wife combinations and forces the ladies to invite a partner.

Geese to be fed daily, duck banding program is now in full swing

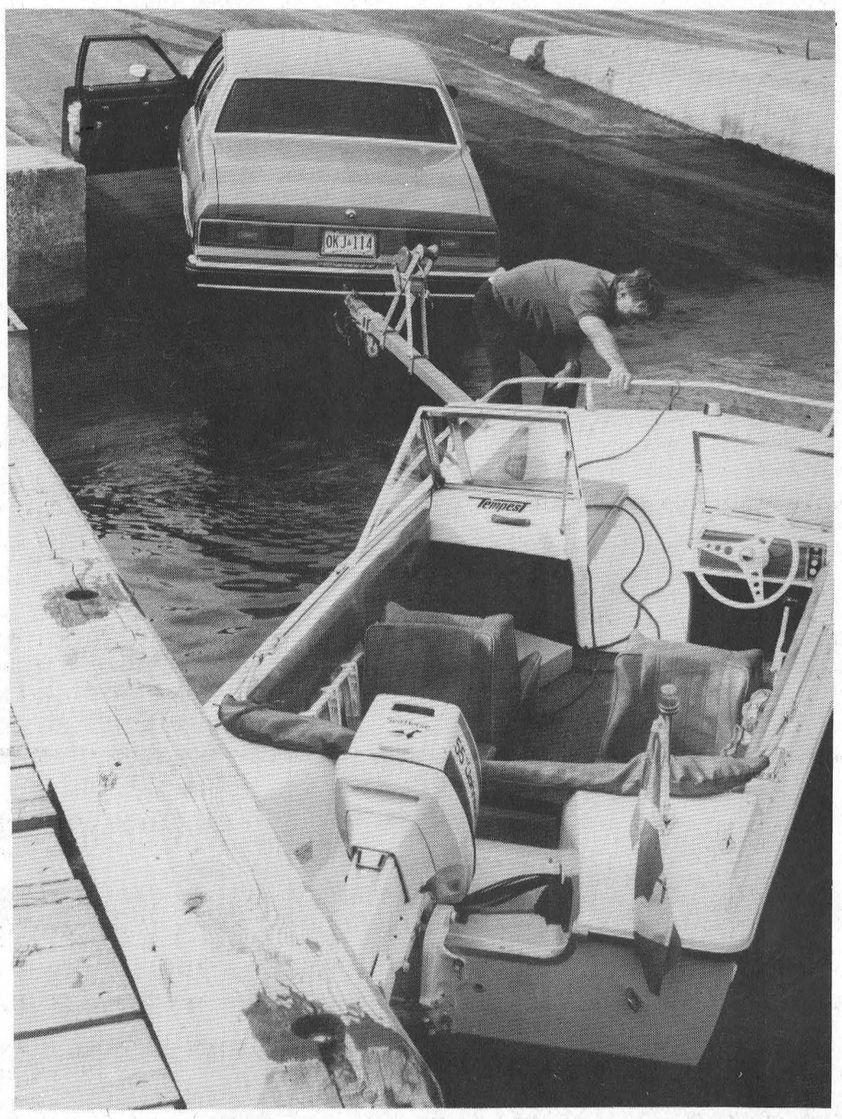
MORRISBURG — Ministry of Natural Resources technician Steve Aubry says his office has been receiving phone calls since he mistakenly reported the geese feeding program at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary would be carried out week days.

With so many preparing for their long trip south and their annual stop at the sanctuary for a bite to eat, it apparently seems a little out of line not to be prepared to serve them on Saturdays and Sundays.

So Steve is now re-issuing his invitation and reports that the feeding of the geese will be carried out seven days a week at 2:30 p.m.

As well he informs us that the duck banding program, now in progress, also runs seven days a week and is done at about 8:30 a.m.

Visitors are urged to make the sanctuary a stop this fall and, although the migrating geese have not yet begun to arrive, the ducks are here with officials banding a couple of dozen each morning.



Season ends

Ted Jarvis took his boat out Monday for what he said will probably be the last time this season. Labour Day weekend saw many people out to enjoy the excellent weather — some taking advantage of the chance for one last swim, a cruise in the boat or a game of golf. Although the weather is supposed to hold for a while longer we all know what is just around the corner. —McNairn photo

The 19th hole

MORRISBURG — Close to 100 men were on hand at the Morrisburg Golf Club Thursday night to wrap up the season at their weekly men's night.

The top winner was Kevin Duvall in A flight with a 35 and Russell Cameron claimed the low net. Doug Barclay led B class with a 38 and Hubert Barclay had the low in C with a 41. Net winners in B and C were Sam Laurin and Gord Fairbairn respectively.

Other winners were Steve Sheridan, Doug McNairn, Jeff Cassell, Wade Roles, Rob Gummeson, Grayden Willard, Rod Bowman, John Gummeson, Harry Castle, Ron Jones, Bo Gale and Tim Smith.

Special thanks goes to Sam Laurin who ran this year's men's night and to the many local businesses who sponsored the events.

On ladies night Tuesday the Morrisburg members played hosts to golfers from Cedar Glen at Williamsburg in a nine-hole two-ball. The top winners were Carrie Brodie and Donna Williams with a 46 and the most honest twosome consisted of Esther Johnston and Lorenda Beckstead.

Prizes for the night were sponsored by Fairbairn Funeral Home, the Morrisburg Golf Club's ladies section and Delage's House of Gifts.

Sunday's annual Sadie Hawkins saw 28 couples participate with Tom Lalande and Nora Markell winning top prize with a 78 gross for a 61.5 net.

Congratulations also go to Russell Cameron who finished tied for first place in the Cornwall Country Club A class tournament Monday. Russell was even par after 18 but lost in a playoff.

This weekend marks the closing day for club activities. The year will wrap up with the annual president-vice president match Sunday with tee offs slated for 1 p.m.

This year, to add a little something extra to the tournament, we will attempt to play the course as it was eight years ago. This of course means the mowing of two old greens, which, while they won't be in the best of shape will hopefully be playable.

Members are reminded that a potluck supper will follow the tournament.

Effective immediately the Morrisburg Clubhouse hours have been shortened from 8:30 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Among the Cedars

WILLIAMSBURG — The highlight of the activities at the Cedar Glen Golf Club this week was Rick Barkley's win at the annual Labatts sponsored Cedar Glen Open.

Rick came in with a strong even-par 70 to edge Allen McNairn by a stroke for this year's championship. Also benefitting from the Open was the Winchester and District Memorial Hospital which received $3,750 from the tournament proceeds.

At men's night last week Sheldon Couglin won A flight with a 37 over Bill Mullin who carded a 39. Net winners were Barry Casselman with a 32 and Brad Mayhew at 33.5.

Curtis Dillabough wrapped up B flight on back holes over Wayne Rodger, both with 40s and net winners were Gerry Belanger with a 30 and Tom Mills with a 32.5.

C flight was won by Allan Thompson with a 42 and Norm Pilon pulled into second with a 44. Walt Barber had the low net with a 30.5 and Hugh Blaine had a 31.

A 45 gave Wendell Froom the win in D flight followed by Jim Cook at 49 and net winners were Tom Holmes with a 31 and Robert Merkley with a 33.5.

Wayne Rogers was closest to the hole on 17 and Carman Carruthers had the longest drive.

At ladies night Carol Droppo led A flight with a 44 and in B flight Shirley Carruthers was up to the challenge, also carding a 44. The best score of the night went to Ann Cook in C class with a 43 and Louise Freeland won D with a 54. The runner up in D was Norma McMillan with a 55.

Corienne Wilson had the longest drive, Christine Must was the closest to the hole on eight and Sharon Smail had the fewest putts with 26.

Winners of the first hat night were Sheila Crowder, Elsie McIntosh and Barbara Phifer.

The final junior night saw Derek Whitteker win gross honors in A class with a 39 and Lea Ann Monroe take the low net with a 30.5 B flight was won by David Barkley with a 49 and Paul Brown topped D with a 57. Net winners in B and D respectively were Todd Laroque 38 and Tim Shrigley 28.

Lea Anne Munroe had the fewest putts for the girls with 17 and Paul Casselman had 12 for the boys. Closest to the hole on eight was Munroe and Derek Whitteker had the longest drive. The hidden hole winner was Drew Shrigley.

Cedar Glen visits Morrisburg

MORRISBURG — A visit from lady golfers of the Cedar Glen Golf Club at Williamsburg here Tuesday produced an attendance record for the weekly ladies night with a total of 75 golfers.

Forty-five Morrisburg women entertained 30 ladies from Cedar Glen in an evening which began with a nine-hole two ball tournament and ended with a delicious roast turkey dinner catered by the Morrisburg staff headed by Charlotte Cougler.

Topping the golf action were Donna Williams C.G. and Morrisburg's Carrie Brodie who worked together for a 46. Finishing second were Pat Reaney and Mary Young with a 54 and just one stroke back were Sheila Crowder and Mary Walker. Lea Anne Munroe and Alice Tinker took the fourth low gross prize with their 56.

At the top of the ladder were most honest golfers Esther Johnston and Lorenda Beckstead followed by Cheryl Hess and Wendy MacGregor and Susan Alexander and Diana Kemp.

Three twosomes tied for the least putts at 16 and all received gifts from a prize table sponsored by Fairbairn Funeral Home and the ladies section of the Morrisburg Golf Club. As well donations came from Delages House of Gifts.

Winning for low putts were: Norma McIntosh and Ricki Cottrill; Louise Freeland and Deanna Cassell; and Ann Cook and Linda Barclay.

The most putts of the night went to Elsie McIntosh and Donna Moore followed by Helen Fraser and Betty Lou Casselman.

The Morrisburg ladies were guests at Cedar Glen in July.

Morrisburg golfers to go eight years back in time

MORRISBURG — The closing day tournament at the Morrisburg Golf Club will see something a little different this year when members take to the course to play the old layout which was changed about eight years ago.

At the time of the building of the present clubhouse changes were made to the course which saw the first tee off moved forward and the first hole changed to par five.

The second hole, with its green at the far northwest corner of the course, became part of the new first hole. The second major change came at the sixth hole which was a par four. A new number six was built and the tee off to the seventh hole was relocated.

For the closing Nostalgia Day tournament the two old greens will be mowed, although officials at the club can't promise they'll be in perfect shape. The tournament is set for September 13 and features the annual President-Vice President match.

The draw for teams, which will be mixed as long as there are enough ladies to go around, will be made at 12:30 and tee offs will begin at 1 p.m.

For those scared off because of the draw, club captain Richard Baker is allowing pre-arranged foursomes as long as they include both men and women.

The event, also listed as a picture and prize day, will result in the winners of the various events throughout the year having their pictures taken for club records.

All members are urged to attend and don't forget it's a pot luck supper.

Flag football season kicks off

MORRISBURG — The Blue Meanies and the Reds kicked off the Morrisburg Flag Football League season here Sunday morning, the Reds coming from behind to down last year's title winning Ferrets 13-6.

The first game saw Tom Dawley's Blue Meanies take a 19-6 victory over Doug Wilson's Green team. Dawley threw three touchdown passes, the first to Tom Peppers and a pair to Chris Jarry, offsetting a brilliant performance by Mike Schwertdfeger who scored a touchdown and had three interceptions for the greens.

In game two the Ferrets were first to score on a Sam Laurin to Doug Brunt pass but Steve Casselman's Reds responded, Casselman throwing touchdown passes to Gary McInnis and John Vaughan.

Gerry Mabo preserved the Red team win with two interceptions while time was running out and Gary Dickinson intercepted one pass for the Ferrets.

Each of the four teams will play a 10 game regular season schedule which will end on November 8th. This Sunday the Blue Meanies tackle the Ferrets at 10 a.m. followed by action between the Reds and Greens.

Fall Fair at Village

MORRISBURG — Here is your opportunity to participate in an 1860s-style fall fair to be held at Upper Canada Village on Sept. 19 and 20.

The country fair was one of the few special events which with Christmas and Queen Victoria's birthday on May 24 enlivened the rural year in Upper Canada.

Agricultural fairs became common during the 1850s and 1860s due to the growing rural population and the farmers interest in improving their knowledge of agricultural methods and the quality of grains and livestock.

Agricultural societies were formed by groups of volunteers to facilitate access to this knowledge. The annual fall fair at Upper Canada Village has been organized by just such a group.

Prizes and ribbons will be awarded to exhibitors in the broad categories of cattle, fat stock, swine, sheep, poultry, agricultural products, domestic manufacturers, ladies' work and fine arts. Exhibitors will receive complimentary admission to the Village.

Hockey, fast food, part of Canadian experience

JUDITH O'BRIEN
Leader staff

LUNENBURG — Scraping ice from windows, and plugging the car in overnight during the winter months are an accepted part of Canadian life but for Lisa Sherman, an 18-year-old exchange student from South Africa it's definitely a new experience.

Lisa left Johannesburg last January for Canada in 35 degree Celcius weather and after almost two days of travelling arrived at Dorval Airport in Montreal in -30 degree weather. She is part of the exchange program organized by the Rotary Club, and in Canada is sponsored by the Rothwell-Osnabruck Rotary Club.

"Before I came I tried to imagine the cold and what it would be like climbing into the refrigerator and turning the freezer down," she said. "But I didn't suffer from the cold because I dressed for it." In fact she enjoyed winter so much she hopes it snows early this year before she returns home in January.

She says she chose to visit Canada because she wanted to come to an English-speaking country and experience snow but she wasn't really interested in travelling to the United States. So far she says the hospitality has been wonderful and she has managed to visit a large portion of Canada.

Travel

At the beginning of the summer Rotary students representing 25 countries travelled west through the United States to Vancouver and back through the Canadian Rockies. She has also visited Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec City.

While she says the basic lifestyle between the two countries is similar, there are glaring differences. Johannesburg, a city approximately the size of Toronto has three skating rinks. Hockey is an almost unknown sport in South Africa, the most popular being rugby, soccer and cricket. Lisa has attended Expos games at the Big O, but says she has come to love the game of hockey and of course, the Montreal Canadiens.

"I knew hockey was played on ice with a puck," she said. "I had seen a hockey movie with Rob Lowe and I saw the fight between Canada and the U.S.S.R. in the world junior championships on the news but I didn't know the rules or how many players there were to a team. I love all the yelling and fighting."

Lisa Sherman

Fast food isn't as popular as in Canada. While there are Pizza Huts and Kentucky Fried Chicken stores, there isn't a McDonald's or Burger King to be found. Restaurants which do serve similar types of food don't used processed meat or cheese, but Lisa says it also takes 20 minutes to get your order.

School is also different in the two countries. Discipline is much stricter in South Africa. Students must wear uniforms and make-up is not allowed. While in Canada, Lisa has been studying at Rothwell-Osnabruck High School. She finds the atmosphere at R-O more intimate than her high school which has 1,200 students.

Nature differences

"I like walking through the fields here and you can do it without watching where you're stepping," she said. "At home when you go hiking you must wear hiking boots and jeans and watch you don't step on a snake. Usually they hear you coming and will go away but you must watch the ones who are too lazy to move. If you step on them they'll bite you."

Responsibilities

While in Canada Lisa has given several presentations about her homeland to various groups, and will speak to her home Rotary Club when she returns. Her slide show features photographs of the geographically diverse country along with the exotic animals associated with Africa. In Toronto she visited the zoo and says she felt a close affinity with the animals from Africa, because they were as far away from home as she was.

Impressions

Lisa says it will be difficult to describe Canada to her friends when she returns to South Africa because she has so many impressions. She is "dying" to return home with a Canadian accent, but what impressed her the most about the country was the change in seasons.

"I couldn't get over the change in seasons," she said. "I was skating on the Rideau Canal in winter and boating in the summer. The change in season really does affect people's lives. The cycles are different."

Right now she is waiting anxiously for fall and Hallowe'en, which isn't celebrated in South Africa. In Johannesburg she says there are only two seasons, summer and a rainy season.

"It's difficult to explain what a whole year of living here is like because I'm not a tourist — I live here," said Lisa. "I have become quite defensive about Canada and I dare anyone to call it part of the United States. I have so many impressions — walking down a country road in the snow, the yelling and shouting in hockey. I would definitely recommend people visit Canada."

Future plans

When she returns home Lisa plans to study sociology at Wrtwatersrard University in Johannesburg. Her appetite for travel has been whetted by her experiences in Canada and she says a Rotary exchange is an excellent idea for any student. Her year in Canada has provided her with memories "no one can ever take away" and has taught her about people, her country and herself.

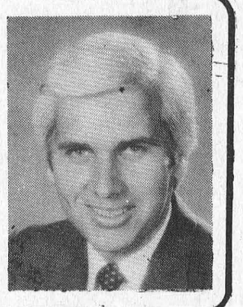
REPORT FROM

PARLIAMENT HILL

BY NORM WARNER, M.P.



With the staging of the annual Stormont County Fair this Labor Day weekend, the summer is all but over. Commencing with the Maxville Fair at the end of June, the season was highly successful for the organizers who completed another energetic round of delightful rural fairs in our riding of Stormont-Dundas.

I was able to visit most of the fairs and met many friends during the course of these summer weekends.

Two special mentions should be made — the 175th banner edition of the Williamstown Fair drew a huge crowd and the 120th version of the Stormont Fair promises to hold a wealth of entertainment in store.

The residents of the area have put together and published a book commemorating the village of Newington and the Fair itself. These books will be on sale during the Labor Day weekend at the fair grounds in Newington.

The federal government was able to contribute a grant to assist with publishing costs. This grant was awarded under the New Horizons program of the federal Department of Health and Welfare.

All the organizers of our fairs should be congratulated: Maxville, Avonmore, South Mountain, Williamstown, the Highland Games, Chesterville and Stormont.

Last Wednesday, I was pleased to officiate at the official opening of a Cornwall Plant expansion. Bendix Avelex, a company manufacturing military equipment, has enlarged the plant area, making a welcome addition to the Industrial Park in Cornwall.

On Saturday the new Fire Station at Moose Creek opened its doors officially for the first time and I was honored to be in attendance for the ceremony.

Also on Sunday I was pleased to attend a 40th wedding anniversary party for Hubert and Fabiola Lalonde of Cornwall.
