Swerdfeger-Kennedy.

A happy event was solmenized at the Parsonage, Finch, on Sept. 25th, 1918, when Nellie Florence Kennedy of Colquhoun and Willis H. Swerdfeger of Williamsburg were united in holy bonds of matrimony, Rev. James Leach tying the nuptial knot. The bride was becomingly dressed in a suit of navy blue with white silk blouse with hat to match. The bride and groom are both well and favorably known and the many friends unite in extending their hearty congratulations and wish them a long, happy and prosperous career.

Pte Clifford Merkey ITaken Prisoner When Tank was Put Out of Action

The following letter from Corp. Sheldon Ouderkirk to his mother, tells of Pte Clifford Merkley's capture after all the crew of the tank he was with, with the exception of one other, had been killed or wounded.

France
Aug. 14th.

Dear Mother:—

As you doubtless know by now we are on a new sector of the front, and also that the Can. Corps at least have been fighting since Aug. 8th whe nthis last British attack started. What I wish particularly to tell you is that we have just received information regarding Clifford Merkley who has been missing since the 8th inst. I would have written before only I wished to obtain some official information before imparting the particulars for the information of Mrs. Merkley.

On Aug. 8th all our Company's guns and crews were taken over in tanks. These tanks which went over in advance of the infantry had it comparatively easy for the first six or eight miles but from that distance on they had some very heavy fighting to do and consequently some of the tanks were put out of action. Unfortunately Merkley's tank went out of action some where about twelve miles from their starting point. Clifford and Lieut. Gardiner were taken prisoners, the remaining number in the tank were casualties, being either killed or wounded.

The above is taken from a letter received this morning from a chap who was in the same tank As he was severely wounded the Germans could not take him along as a prisoner.

Now Mother, I have covered nearly all the facts I know of. Mrs. Merkley will no doubt be glad to get these particulars so kindly convey same to her. I am sure she has already been notified by the Canadian Record Office but as they do not forward any particulars I thought it best to write what I knew of the matter.

Cliff was well liked throughout the battalions and will be greatly missed by all of thebo ys here. We were all happy to learn of him being taken prisoner because every one expected he was killed while defending their tank. I must close now, with love to all.

Your sincere son.
S. Ouderkirk.

Harvest Thanksgiving Service will be held in Holy Trinity Church Thursday evening, Oct. 3rd., at 8 o'clock. In the unavoidable absence of Rev. Col. Stacey the Rev. B. A. Arnold of Russell will be the preacher.

CLEAN TINWARE

(FARMERS CUT THIS OUT)

All pails and cans used for milk should be of metal with all corners and joints completely filled with solder. Every crevice makes a place for milk to lodge and contaminate the next milk that goes into the vessel. To wash tinware, it should first be rinsed with lukewarm water, then thoroughly scrubbed with a brush and finally either steamed or rinsed with boiling water. Cloths should never be used for either the washing or drying of tinware.

MELVIN.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Annable are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter.

Mr. Nelson Charlebois put up a new silo last week and also put in a milking machine.

Mrs. R. Bruce attended Russell Fair last Wednesday and captured two prizes for driving, a first and a second.

Mr. G. F. Beckstead has kept on filling silos although the weather has been quite wet. During the past week he has filled for Arthur Christie, Geo. Earle and Adam Gainer.

The many friends of Mrs. Merton Colquhoun (nee Miss Luella Kendrick) were very sorry to hear of the death of her husband last week. Mrs. Colquhoun taught our school for a short time five years ago.

Miss Annie Christie spent the week-end with her grandmother, Mrs. I. Hughes of Winchester.

Our Red Cross report for September is as follows:—1 pair socks knit by Mrs. J. R. Scott, 5 stretcher caps, 5 suits pyjamas, 18 personal property bags. Collection $5.00. Owing to the threshing and corn-cutting we heldonly 3 meetings in this month, hence not so much work was done. We meet this week at the home of Mrs. Geo. Greer.

Miss Martha Dickson of Winchester, spent Sunday with her sister Mrs. J. A. Errat.

Miss Fisher of Winchester Springs, was the week-end guest of Miss Bessie Greer.

Mr. Sherman Christie has not room for his great crop of corn in one silo, so is erecting a new one.

Mrs. J. R. Scott has spent part of the past week with her daughter Mrs. Poole, in Winchester, helping her to move into the house they recently purchased from Mr. S. Barcley.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Bruce were summoned to Casselman on Sunday to see the former's sister who is very ill there.

Mr. Robert Andrews one of our Sunday School boys, is to take charge of the prayer service this week.

Misses Ida Scott and Bessie Greer collected money from the ladies here, who wished to assist in filling the Xmas boxes for the overseas soldiers from the Morewood district.

At our Rally Day Service last Sunday, Mrs. Wilson's class of boys came the nearest to being a 100 % class, their being only one boy absent and he was sick. Two or three other members of the school were sick also. The day was cool and showery so we were honored by having only one Cradle Roll member present, viz. Evelyn Errat. Mrs. Steinburg reported an increase in Cradle Roll membership since June, and Mrs. Lanone gave a good report of the Home Dept. of which several members were present. A quartette of boys sang "There is a green hill far away," and seven of the little boys and girls recited selected verses of Scripture.

Messrs J. E. Lanone, W. T. Holmes. H. Black and R. Prunner are also filling their silos between showers.

Mr. A. Baxter picked a quart of the second crop of raspberries and Mr. G. Earle found several bushes loaded which he used to help decorate the school-house for the Harvest Home.

GRANTLEY.

Mr. Alex Hesson and Miss Maud spent Sunday at Mr. J. H. Shaver's, Finch.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Myers and Master Bert were guests at Mr. T. Myers' on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carr and Master Clifford spent one day at Mr. Alex Shaver's, Finch.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Carr and children spent Sunday at Mr. Wm. Servage's. Berwick.

Mr. and Mrs. M. O Robinson and family visited friends at Newington this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beckstead and Master Cecil spent Sunday at Mr. Jas. Wallace's.

Miss Bella Carr spent a few days this week with Miss Maud Hesson.

On Sept. 28, Mr. Waiter Carr found along the road near his home some ripe raspberries. On three small branches there were twenty seven ripe berries and a number of green berries and blossoms.

All Creamery Butter Taken by Government.

Ottawa, September 30.—All creamery butter made in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec, between the 30th day of September and the 9th day of November, 1918, both days inclusive, will be commandeered under the authority of an order-in-council passed Monday, September 30th.

The reason for this action is that Great Britain and her allies need Canadian creamery butter. The British Ministry of Food urgently asks Canada to increase her shipments of creamery butter.

One-half pound of butter or oleomargerine per month per person is the allowance in Great Britian to-day. The order-in-council puts Canadian consumers on a creamery butter allowance of two pounds of butter per person per month, as compared with the half pound allowance in Great Britain.

For months Great Britain and her allies have been short of butter, and this condition bids fair to continue, as Atlantic tonnage is needed for transporting troops and supplies. Foodstuffs in Canada for export must be assembled at ocean ports to take advantage of space when ever offered.

The principal of the common table for all forces fighting the Huns is the basis of the order-in-council limiting the consumption of creamery butter. Canadians will not have to go without butter, but they are now asked to eat less of it.

Another Battle Won for Dairymen

FOR months we have been experimenting—investigating—testing—fighting, to find a way to make the Empire Milking Machine, already the unquestioned leader, still more efficient for the dairy farmer.

THE BATTLE IS WON.

We have given the milking machine a new heart—the pulsator is the heart of the milking machine—and the result of our experiment, the new Empire Super-Simple Pulsator, is the most wonderful development since the invention of the Empire—the competent milking machine.

To be successful a milking machine must have a perfectly acting pulsator to cause the alternating action of suction and massage on the teats (to imitate the calf's "suck and squeeze") to occur with absolute regularity; and to make the change from suction to massage and back again instantaneous.

The Empire Super-Simple Pulsator, the pulsator without a piston, does that and more. It really is Super-Simple—so simple that it can be taken apart and put together again in less than two minutes. It has but five moving parts; nothing to wear out or "get out of gear." It cannot lose vacuum, so its action is perfect.

It places the Empire Milking Machine immeasurably in advance of all competition. Your cows should be milked by an Empire Milking Machine with the new Super-Simple Pulsator. It will milk them more rapidly than ever—it will solve your labor problem—it will increase milk production at a decreased cost; it will transform milking from drudgery into a pleasant chore.

Our factory is overtaxed by the increased demand for Empire Milking Machines, so go to your dealer at once, see the new Super-Simple Pulsator and tell him to order your Empire outfit without delay; or write for Catalog.

TERMS OF BULGARIAN SURRENDER.

London, Sept. 30.—The armistice concluded with Bulgaria by the Entente Allies is a purely military convention and contains no provisions of a political character.

Bulgaria agrees to evacuate all the territory she now occupies in Greece and Serbia, to demobilize her army immediately and surrender all means of transport to the Allies.

Bulgaria also will surrender her boats and control of navigation on the Danube and concede to the Allies free passage through Bulgaria for the development of military operations.

All Bulgarian arms and ammunition are to be stored under the control of the Allies, to whom is conceded the right to occupy all important strategic points.

The Associated Press learns that the military occupation of Bulgaria will be entrusted to British, French and Italian forces, and the evacuted portions of Greece and Serbia respectively to Greek and Serbian troops.

The armistice means a complete military surrender and Bulgaria ceases to be a belligerent.

All question of territorial rearrangement in the Balkans was purposely omitted from the convention.

The Allies made no stipulation concerning King Ferdinand, his position being considered an internal matter—one for the Bulgarians themselves to deal with. The armistice will remain in operation until a final general peace is concluded.

Family of Five Saves $50 a Week.

All over the country high wages are being earned. Some of the workers are putting by against the "rainy day". Many are not. In Toronto, where the workers in the munition industry are believed to number nearly 30,000, some exceedingly high wages are being paid.

For example, in some munition factories, tool-makers are getting as much as $1 an hour, with pay at the rate of time and a half for night work and double time on Sundays. Lathe hands get, as a rule, from 50c. an hour up, with extra for overtime and Sundays.

Thus some men in munition factories are receiving as high as $60, or $70, or $80 a week with overtime. These are comparatively few. But plenty of them are earning $45, $50, and $55 a week.

Women, too, earn good money in these factories. Most of the inspectors in munition plants are women, and many will earn 35c. an hour for an eight and a half hour day, with time and a half for overtime. Women, too, do plenty of other work in munition shops. Plenty of them earn between $20 and $30 a week, though comparatively few get the latter figure.

It is quite common for two, and three, and even four, members of one household to be working on munitions, and to be earning a total pay-roll of an amount that would have been deemed fabulous in the days before the war. Here is a typical example. It is of a family living in the east end of the city.

Two years ago the weekly income earned by this household was $26. Today it is over $80. The father and his two daughters are working at munitions, earning respectively $30, $25, and $18 a week, while the boy, aged seventeen, earns $8 a week at another job downtown. The mother looks after the house and repairs the family clothing, making many of the new garments, as she is handy with her needle.

They are exceedingly thrifty people and for the last two years they have saved an average of $50 a week. Their living does not cost them appreciably more than it did in the days when the total family income was $26. They have fought the increased cost of food by economy and, to a great extent, by the use of substitutes for meat. They have not launched out on any personal pleasnres or extravagant fixings on their home.

In the two years that they have been making big money, they have paid off a mortgage of $2,000 on their house, have invested another $1,000, and will be ready to take a big slice in the new issue of war bonds when it comes along.

To have raised themselves to comparative affluence in so short a time is a great achievement. It is one in which the mother takes great pride.

"For the first time in our lives," she said, "We are protected against the future. That is such a relief. You don't know how things will be after the war—some folks think they will be very bad—and it is a great mercy to feel that you have a bit of money back of you. Another thing that spurred us on to save is the high prices on all sides. You can't get anything like proper value for your money in anything. But these times won't last. Later on, when we can't get a dollar's worth for a dollar once more, we shall be able to buy more for our money than we would pay today."

Held Prisoner by Corn Binder

While Norman Merriman, of Crosby, was making some minor repairs to a corn binder on his farm, the horses attached to the machine, set it in operation, with the result that the needle was run through the palm of his hand. Merriman was alone at the time in the field which is some two miles from the house, and was held prisoner for over an hour before his son accidentally arrived on the scene and successsully rescued him.—Rideau Record

"We utilize everything in our business", said the pork packer. "When we kill a hog nothing is lost but the squael".

"We beat that," said the lumber manufacturer, "when we cut up dogwood we do not even waste the bark".

The Great Chautauqua Festival.

The big Chautauqa Festival billed for Chesterville under the auspices of the Women's Institute in aid of Soldiers' Comforts Fund promises to be a treat which will not be equalled for many a day. After last week's issue The Record had a letter from a correspondent in Western Ontario complimenting Chesterville on having secured the Chautauqua Festival, telling of a neighbor who had taken his family fifteen miels six times to hear the whole series after being so impressed with the opening entertainment. The opening here will be by a Japanese company presenting an old Japanese play entitled "The Mirror" and a scene from modern Japanese Life known as "On the road to Tokio", both enriched by Japanese scenery, Japanese costumes, Japanese objects of art and Japanese musical entertainments and songs. There is nothing more fascinating than these wonderful entertainments by our allies in the east.

Pitt Parker a famous cartoonist will also appear both afternoon and evening, with entertainments that sparkle with wisdom's gems in settings of wit and imbellished with beautiful creations of art in clay.

The second day, Thanksgiving Day, the Imperial Entertainers—Alexander M Skibinsky, a famous Russian Violinist; Hartwell De-Mille, the popular Canadian Barritone; Miss Bertha Wells, reader, trombonist and entertainer; Miss Mildred Wells accompanist, pianist, and reader will present a popular, high-class programme which will have as an added attraction an address by Shoreland F. Fannon an expert on community problems.

On Tuesday, Oct. 15th, The Pilgrim Girls, a sterling band of brilliant entertainers will give a varied programme producing a cornetist, a clarinitist, a soprano solist, a cellist, a violinist, a drummer, a xylophone player, a pianist and a reader. One of the strongest musical organizations on the circuit. Albert Edward Wiggam will give first hand information of what Uncle Sam is doing in France. It is a rare treat.

Tickets are being sold at six-for-two-dollars, for the full series, or single tickets, afternoons 50c; evenings 75c.

Thrift Hallmarks a Nation

Saving the almighty dollar in order to gratify one's desires in the matter of personal purchases has been a working force in society for all time. To save for the sake of hoarding the golden ducats is a form of insanity that has afflicted the misers of all time. To save in order to make another stronger is the highest form of thrift known. And in exercising this virtue of laying aside extra dollars from our present surpluses, for the better living of society when times may not be so generous, we carry in us the marks of the true Canadian patriot.

He who loves his country is no waster. He knows his savings form the capital that makes business go. The dollar soon doubles itself and total savings of a thrifty people mark out the nation as a really great one. Love of our Canadian home land demands of every resident from the Yukon to Cape Breton, that he save his surplus dollars against a possible rainy day. The thrifty man is one of Canada's big patriots.

LADIES' STYLE INFORMATION

FALL 1918

Owing to the large amount of wool which is being used for army purposes, there will necessarily be a great shortage in the supply available for civilian use. As a result, substitutes are being used in the way of Silks and Silk and Cotton Materials for skirts and dresses, and Silk Plushes for coats.

COATS of Plush and other pile fabrics will be much in evidence, but Wool Velour is still the popular material. The large shawl and square collars are much favored with various styles in convertible ideas. The leading colors are taupe, brown, green, navy, black anb burgundy.

SUITS will be worn along simple tailored lines, and fashioned to outline the figure somewhat, above the waist line, but there are no startlingly new innovations. The skirts are remarkably plain. Taupe and brown are prominent shades, but navy and black are the staple colors.

DRESSES—The general outline is slender, and the shirts retain their long, straight lines. Panel effects are quite prominent, and sashes are an important feature. The long tight sleeve still predominates. Fringe is much used for trimming, also various types of embroidery, beads, braid and buttons. The neck line is either V shaped or round with large flat collars hanging deep down the back. Some styles are shown with high collars.

SKIRTS—Silks predominate in plain as well as in fancy materials and are mostly shown in tunics, panel and draped effects. Tucks of all sizes are used for trimming, also buckles. Pockets continue to be a feature. Two piece serge skirts are considered staple and are made more conservatively.

Come in and inspect our stock.

This community was cast into deepest gloom when it was made public that Merton Alexander Colquhoun had slept away, after a nine days illness of pneumonia and other diseases, on Monday at seven thirty p. m. Sept. twenty-third. The deceased was born at Gallingertown, Nov. 1st. 1894.

About seventeen years ago he came to Bethune Bush where he remained until five years ago when he married Miss Luella Kendrick daughter of S. O. Kendrick, Bethune Bush. They resided a year in Manitoba and the last four years have resided in the Valley. The late Mr. Colquhoun was a favorite with old and young, he had friends everywhere he went. He was a hard working young man there by progressing favourably in this world's goods. Mert was a big hearted, jolly, good fellow and will be greatly missed by the young people of this district.

A young widow is left to mourn the loss of a kind husband and two little children, a three year old son and one year old daughter, a loving father. Our deepest and sincerest sympathy goes out to them in their lonliness and sorrow. An aged mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Colquhoun of Gallingertown four sisters—Mrs. Wm. Froats, Dixons Landing, Mrs. Stilson, Mrs, Reed and Mrs. Crookshanks all of Massena, N. Y.; four brothers—Allan and George of Bouck's Hill, Frank of Wales, and Sanford of Gallingertown, are also left to mourn the loss of a loved son and brother. The funeral which was largely attended was held at his late home on Wed. of last week. The Service being conducted by the Rev. Mr. Hicks, Chesterville. He chose for his text "It is appointed once for man to die and after death the Judgment." A quartette was rendered by Mrs. Jno. A. Munroe, Miss Jean Beach, Mrs. P. Darling and Mr. Hector Beach entitled "Some day He will make it plain."

The bearers were friends of the deceased.—Messrs. Ernest Grey, Jno. A. Munroe, Robbie Johnston, Enos Munroe. Kenneth Woods and Calvin Munroe Jr.

Interment was made in Maple Ridge Cemetery.

The high esteem and respect which the late Mr. Colquhoun enjoyed and the sincere regret which his death caused was amply demonstrated by the number of floral designs sent by sympathizing relatives and friends. A wreath, wife and family; an anchor, Mr. and Mrs. Stilson and Mrs. Froats; pillow, Mr. Sanford Colquhoun; a wreath, Mr. and Mrs. George Colquhoun; pillow, Miss Ida Bouck; cross, friends at Bouck's Hill; wreaths that were ordered by Mr. and Mrs. Miles Marcellus and his Valley friends didn't arrive in time for Service.

The Value of Thrift

Over the kitchen fireplace at Abbotsford Sir Walter Scott had the motto, "Waste not, want not". Like most Scotchmen, he appreciated fully, the value of thrift as an insurance against poverty. Under the new conditions arising out of the war every Canadian owes a duty to himself or herself to adopt such a maxim in his or her personal life. The key to safety and comfort in the years ahead is thrift now—thrift day by day, week by week and month by month. Everyone should make it a first principle. To spend less than is earned, and to accumulate a surplus for permanent investment is the height of wisdom.

Few Canadians will deny the truth and pointedness of the thrift doctrine. But many of them will exclaim; "But the expenses are so high "I cannot save". Is that literally true? If a young man earns $20 a week and thinks his expenses must eat it up, let him imagine his income $15 a week. Putting the $5 in the bank, let him resolve to live on the $15. It can be done by use of a little will power. Too many young people regard as essentials things that are merely a matter of style, or habitual indulgence. Putting on an impressive front on a limited income has come to be a maxim of present-day business, and as a result, thousands of young men and women are constantly scraping to find money for current needs when by sensible thrift they could have had considerable sums for investment. The best possible help to saving is to take each week from the pay envelope $2 or $3, or as much more as possible, immediately to put it in the bank, and then set to work to manage on the balance. To expect to put away a surplus from what is left at the end of a peroid is to say good-bye to savings. Too many calls and temptations to spend money on fancied needs crop up. Regular, systematic saving will in a few years give any person sufficient surplus to warrant making some good investment.

Why is it that the "foreigners" whom the Canadian young men and women affect to look down upon, seem to accumulate big sums of money? Their home conditions having been hard, thrift and inexpensive living are natural to them, and they find the wastefulness and extravagance of Canadian ways pouring money into their pockets. "But I couldn't live like the foreigners," you exclaim. It is not entirely necessary. One leaf out of their book would be a big gain to many Canadians. For instance, married people who pay high rent and complain because they never get ahead, should buy a home on the "pay as "rent" system. In time, they will own that home. The great trouble with so many middle-class families is that, while they want to save, they deem it below their "dignity" to refuse to pay fancy prices, or to hunt out the best values. One of the great sins of extravagance is willingness by so many buyers to pay any price asked, with-out regard either to intrinsic value or other merchants' prices. This is one of the evils of the "flush" season through which we are passing.

Ten dollars saved now will, two or three years after the war, be worth nearly twenty dollars. That is, it will then purchase about twice as much as now. At present money is so plentiful, compared with commodities, that it can be saved in handsome amounts by careful restraint upon buying of commodities. If a man will stop to think that by hanging on to $1,000 he is tempted to spend now, he can get $1,800 or $2,000 of value three or four years hence, in addition to high interest in the meantime, he will get the point of the present peculiar economic situation. Now is pre-eminently a time to Save by every means in one's power.—Mail and Empire

The Allies Coming Into Their Own.

Bulgaria is definitely out of the war, and Turkey, virtually cut off from communication, with her allies and almost annihilated in Palestine, likely soon will be forced to sue for a cessation of hostilities against her.

Seeing eventual defeat staring her in the face through the swift progress of the Serbian, Italian, British Greek and French troops in the reclaiming of Serbia and the invasion of Bulgarian territory, the Bulgars begged for an armistice; reserving themselves no conditions. All the territory now held by King Ferdinand's men is to be evacuted ;the Bulgarian army is to be immediately demobilized, and all means of transport inside the kingdom, even along the Danube, is to be given over into Allied hands.

Thus, in addition to the isolation of Turkey, the backdoor to a direct invasion of Austria-Hungary is flung wide open to the Allies, and doubtless the time is not far distant when advantage to the full will be taken of the new avenue through which the enemy can be reached. With the debacle in Serbia and Bulgaria, complete, the Austria-Hungarians in Albania soon will be put to the test, and when their evacuation to their own borders is accomplished, the Allies will have welded an iron semicircle about the Central Powers from the Black Sea to the North Sea.

Viewing the situation in all its aspects—the success of the great offensive in Belgium and France; the blotting out of the war zone in the Balkans; the cutting off of the Turks from intercourse with Germany and Austria-Hungary, except by the long route through the Caucasus and Southern Russia, and the steady gains that are being made by the Allies in making Russia once more a factor in the struggle—the darkest days of the war are seemingly faced by the Austro-Germans.

Although it had been officially announced that hostilities against the Bulgarians ceased at noon on Monday, the French official communication on Monday night said French cavalry had entered Uskub, one of the most important communication centres in Serbia. It is not improbable that the French reached the town before the armistice became effective.

Doing it Right

There is danger of missing much of the zest of the brilliant achievements that characterize this war through not understanding the marvellous skill upon which the success of those undertakings depend. In the Zeebrugge glory, for instance, most people think only of the valour needed by those who manned the ships—a valour requiring them to face a vigorous and fairly disastrous bombardment. The sailors, according to the usual idea of the victory, did the same thing which our soldiers do every time they go "over the top" and clean out dug-outs.

The fault is not to be laid at the door of the public, however, for they would cheer all the more lustily if they knew more of the cost of the victories in the way of preparation, the skilful laying of plans beforehand, and, above everything else, the years of technical training which was necessary before Zeebrugge or the bottling up of the Koningsberg or any other great victory was possible.

The "placing of the ship the way he wished it to lie" was considered epitaph enough by his commander when speaking of the gallant captain of the Vindictive. It was indeed the placing of the ship that was the real achievement. Landsmen have no way of knowing that unless a ship sinks on an even keel one end will be carried down stream and the other will stick up in the air. The ship will finally settle in the line of the channel—and will not obstruct navigation. German submarines and other vessels would still be going in and out of Zeebrugge had the captain of the Vindictive not known how to do this masterly thing of sinking his ship to lie across the channel instead of lying parallel. Two other captains knew the same thing, and there the three vessels lie to-day with mathematical precision, as is now known from a photograph taken by a German officer in a low-flying aeroplane. How the photograph came into British hands is another story.

This is not the first time that German vessels have been bottled up during this war by British ships that blocked the harbour completely because their captain knew how to sink a ship the way it should lie. An old collier, the Newbridge, was given that honourable work to do when the German cruiser Koninsberg was penned up in 1914 in the Rufigi river. The Newbridge had to be anchored head and stern, and there was a heavy fire from the shore. The rest of the story reads like the account of a crew's picnic ashore. After she was anchored into position the crew pulled the inlet valve, and while the ship was settling the crew stepped into the boat that was waiting, fired the fuse that would blow out some of the bottom plates, and then left her to do what she was meant to do.

It gives one a pleased feeling to know that in this war both the Germans and the Turks have attempted to block the harbour in which British ships were lying and that both have failed completely and clumsily.

Motorist—Well, what damages do yon want for your ditched waggon?

Farmer—Wa-al, $200 is my upset price

An Advertisement by Charles Dickens

CHARLES DICKENS is one of the world's great teachers. Here is what he has to say in one of his books:

"My other piece of advice, Copperfield," said Mr. Micawber, "you know. Annual income £20, annual expenditure £19. 19. 6—result, happiness. Annual income £20, annual expenditure £20. 0. 6—result, misery. The blossom is blighted, the leaf is withered, the God of Day goes down upon the dreary scene, and—and in short you are forever floored. As I am."

The saving of a part of one's income was always a good policy.

Prudent men and women have always maintained a margin of saving.

But to-day we must go farther in our efforts to save than ever before.

To-day it is a matter of the gravest importance that each Canadian seek ways and means to economize by cutting down expenditures for unnecessary things, saving the money he spends on things he could do without, so that when the Nation needs to borrow money he will be in a position to do his full duty.

There is war-shortening work waiting for every dollar that can be saved.

IF Charles Dickens were writing to Canadians to-day he would probably give us advice to this effect:

"My other piece of advice, Canadians, you know. No matter what percentage of your annual income you have previously saved, your efforts to-day should be to save more. The advantage of so doing is threefold: By the practice of economy you conserve the material and labor which must be devoted to the grim task before us; you cultivate the priceless habit of thrift; you gather more and more money to lend to the Nation for the prosecution of the war to a quick and certain Victory."

Britannia, to Her Children

To the ends of the earth we have sent out our armies and fleets. They fight amid the ice and snow and in the torrid sun. They fling their bridges across the rivers and march across the sands. They rise above the clouds and descend into the sea. They fight in marsh and jungle and on Alpine heights. Their energy sweeps through every continent; their dauntless spirit leads the world.

We have done—what have we not done in these four years? Can all our thousand years of history compare with them? Can the minds of our people grasp and understand the burden we have borne? Pitiful creatures there are who trouble and pester Britannia, gadflies and wasps who sting and buzz about the horse with its heavy load; but do they not know, have they not heard, of the burden this land has borne?

Lift up your heart, hold your head high, for have we not borne it well?

We have raised in these islands and their far-flung empire eight million men and a thousand pounds for every man.

We have let loose the flood-gates of energy and sent forth a stream of human power that Europe has not known since her cities were laid down.

We have reconstructed the industrial map of the United Kingdom, have built new towns, and revolutionised the lives of millions of people. We have three million men and women at work on munitions of war in twenty thousand workshops. We have built and equipped with every modern power one hundred and fifty national factories.

We have given women a new place in the nation's life. A million women who never earned a wage before are earning wages now. By giving up old luxuries and finding new labour we have carried on at home with our best men at war. We have run our coal-mines with a shortage of three hundred thousand men, our railways with fifty thousand men short, our Civil Service with ninety thousand and our local government with a hundred thousand men away. We have fitted fifty thousand women to work on railways.

We are learning to do without; two of every three motor-cars in the United Kingdom are idle now. We are walking to save petrol, as we are wearing old clothes to save wool. And we are riding on old railways; for every three miles of railways renewed before the war we are now renewing one. We used to import eleven million tons of timber; we are now importing three.

We have maintained in food and fighting power the greatest armies ever raised, separated by thousands of miles of land and sea. We have handled fifty million separate things a week in our munition shops, and sent off ten thousand consignments on every working day.

We have transportedby sea a mighty multitude of thirteen million men. watched over and guarded with such care that only one life in four thousand has been lost.

We have sent across the sea two million horses and mules to help the Allies on the fields of war. We have sent seven hundred thousand vehicles, thirty-five million tons of snpplies and explosives, and twenty million tons of coal and oil.

We have six hundred steamers always carrying troops and stores to the theatres of war; we send each week to France two hundred thousand tons of materials and fifty thousand men. Six hundred other ships are taking coal to France and Italy.

We are making new roads and new railways every day; week after week our ships carry fifty thousand tons of materials for roads and rails. We have laid down seventeen hundred miles of light railways in France, with two thousand miles in other fields of war. Our war lines run where trains have never run before; you can ride on them from Cairo to Jerusalem.

We have set up wharves and river-heads and warehouses and shipyards in ancient Babylon. We have thirteen hundred vessels travelling up the Tigris every day, and seven hundred vessels at work on the canals and rivers of France.

We have built millions of tons of new ships and repaired forty thousand vessels of war. In a single week we took over two hundred damaged warships and set them afloat again.

We have kept the sea-gates open against a pitiless foe who sinks what-ever he sees. We have nearly four thousand vessels for every patrolling and sweeping the seas for mines. We have defended a coast-line of nearly eight thousand miles.

The Grand Fleet has kept its ceaseless watch; by day and by night it has been for ever moving. Our battleships within a single month steamed for a million miles. and the auxiliary forces of the Fleet, in one month in home waters, steamed for six million miles.

From Scotland to Iceland and Greenland our ships have patrolled through incessant gales; they have kept such close watch that in one month not long ago, out of over a thousand ships which passed our lines, not one escaped our viligance.

We have built up an army of flying men who ride above the clouds as safely as our sailors on the seas. Our Aeroplanes have flown round our coasts in a single week a distance equal to a journey round the world.

We have brought under cultivation a million new acres of our soil. We are growing six hundred thousand tons more corn a year, and more potatoes by millions of tons.

We have organised the distibution of supplies and brought under control the separate interests of a hundred thousand shops.

We have brought humanity into closer touch with industry. We have guarded the health of the workers in our factories; we have started eight hundred industrial canteens to serve a million people.

We have economised and organised in every field of work. By economy in local institutions we have made available fifty thousand extra beds for the Army; by organising the means of distribution of coal we ahve saved a stupendous waste of transport equal to the carrying of a million tons from Dover to Aberdeen.

We have opened and kept an Army pension book with a million cases in it; we pay out in pensions about a million pounds a week.

We have done these things and have raised the money to pay for them. We have raised more money on the good name of Britannia than all the gold in the world could pay. We have lent twenty million pounds to help our manufactures; we have lent hundreds of millions to our Empire; we have lent over a thousand millions to our Allies; and we pay our way as no other country has been able to do.

We have sixteen million people who have lent their money to the nation. We may almost say there is not a home in the United Kingdom which has not lent some money to the State. Our National War Bonds, and the War Savings Certificates of the people, are the marvel of the world; they grow by twenty million pounds a week; they are the safest and soundest investment the business world has ever known.

We have found the ships, we have found the men, we have found the money; and we have kept alive the spirit that is more than all. We have kept the fire on the hearth at home. We have given a new birth to the Empire and drawn together the free nations of the whole world.

We have held the seas in spite of all; we have faced and fought and conquered the weapon that was meant to starve and defeat; we have kept open a highway on the seas for the greatest army that has ever left America. We have poured on to our tables and into our trenches the produce of the greatest harvest-fields on earth.

We have faced and fought an enemy that knows no mercy, a coward, a bully. and a brute, a pirate without honour, an assasin with a heart of stone, a thief in the night, a trafficker in slavery, with Herod in his Zeppelins, Cain in his armies, and Nero on his throne.

We nave faced him and fought him, and have brought him to the certainty of doom. All the plottings and secret devilries of forty years we have brought to nought in four; we have held back the mighty masses of brute force that poured across the Rhine to conquer Europe and engulf mankind; we have held them back and we shall drive them to their lair.

A little while; lift up your heart and hold your head high, for Britannia's day will come. The thing has never yet been known upon the earth that can defeat her. She rides with the sun in the chariots of the living God. A. M.

It Was Coming to Him.

A lieutenant at an Eastern army camp who carried himself rather cockily was joshing an Italian rookie.

"What did you do with your peanut stand when you came into the army?" he asked.

"Sold it", replied the rookie.

"And your street organ—what did you do with that?"

"Sold it".

"Well how about da monk? Did you sell him, too?"

"No", said the rookie, "they drafted him into the army and made a lieutenant out of him".

"So you want my daughter, eh?"

"I do, sir."

"Have you any money?"

"A little. How high did you quote her?"

"Did Ethel reject Sam when he proposed?"

"Not excactly, but she put him in Class E. only to be used as a last resort".

It is Not Economy to Pay Less! Is it Wise to Pay More?

Usefulness, in ratio to cost, establishes the value of this car far and away ahead of others.

It is essentially a utility car!

Every part of its chassis is built of the quality of materials that provides for extraordinary service.

It is a work-car; a car you can depend upon for faithful, continuous service at all times, under all conditions.

Look at the spacious interior—the inviting, deeply upholstered seats—the ample leg-room—the nicety of every detail.

The motor is 32 horsepower; the wheelbase 106 inches. There are rear cantilever springs and large tires; non-skid rear.

There is the Auto-Lite system, the highest quality electric starting and lighting—the same kind as used on highest priced cars.

There is the vacuum system fuel feed of finest type.

Consider the complete equipment of this Model 90. Nothing is omitted.

Let us demonstrate—ride in this car and you will understand why there is such a demand for it from people who realize that—

It is not necessary to pay more—and it is uneconomical to pay less.
