Beloved School Teacher for More Than Half a Century, Mrs. C. Hazel Is Dead at Her Home Here

Hundreds of hearts, not only in the immediate district but scattered over Canada and the United States were saddened this week to learn of the death of Mrs. Caroline L. Hazel, which occurred at her home here on Wednesday. For to many of us she recalled thoughts of our early years, and the building of the foundation on which our life's work might stand.

For 53 years, Mrs. Hazel taught faithfully in the local school, until her superannuation a few years ago, and during all those years she gave of her best. Not a pupil went through her classroom who did not love and respect her. Although she retired from active service at the school a couple of years ago, Mrs. Hazel's heart and soul were still centered in school life, and the pupils' interests were her interests. She played a big part in the history of primary education in Morrisburg, and her task, and the way in which she accomplished it, can never be forgotten.

The late Caroline Louise Herbick was born in Morrisburg, 82 years ago, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Herbick. She received her education at the local schools, and in the year 1882, she united in marriage to Mr. Samuel Hazel, of Morrisburg, the Rev. H. M. Fishburn officiating. One year later, her husband died, almost at the same time as their infant son. The funerals were held on the same day.

Following this tragic chapter in her life, Mrs. Hazel attended the Ottawa Normal School, and graduated from that institution in December, 1884. She began teaching in the public school in her home town, and continued at that profession for 53 years, until her superannuation.

Mrs. Hazel enjoyed fairly good health until only a few days before her death. She was always bright and cheerful and enjoyed the use of all her faculties. Her mind was bright and keen as ever, until her death.

Surviving are one brother, Frank Herbick, of Morrisburg, with whom Mrs. Hazel had made her home, and several neices and nephews.

The funeral was held this afternoon (Friday) at her late residence and was in charge of Rev. Arthur Buehlow, P.A., pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Interment was made in the Anglican Cemetery.

A very large number of floral pieces bore mute testimony to the high esteem in which Mrs. Hazel was held.

reported a cash donation of $500 from Mr. George Smith of New York, a former resident of this section.

OMMISSION

The Leader regrets that in last Friday's issue in the obituary notice of Mrs. W. H. Allison, that the name of her son, Wm. L. Allison was inadvertently ommitted from the list of survivors.

Miss L. Canning Honoured Prior to Her Marriage

A pleasant evening was spent on Tuesday of this week at the home of Miss Viola Robinson, when a group of her friends gathered to honor Miss Lillian Canning whose marriage will take place to-morrow.

Those present were Misses Jean Beckstead, Agnes Tuttle, Viola Robinson, Irene Tuttle, Lera Warner, and Doris Tuttle.

During the course of the evening, Miss Canning was presented with a beautiful lace tablecloth, while an appropriate address was read. In replying, she thanked those present for the gift and the good wishes accompanying it.

Serving of a dainty lunch by the hostess brought the evening to a close.

Robert L. Pruner

There passed peacefully away on Wednesday, November 6th, at his home here, Mr. Robert Lawrence Pruner, in his sixty-second year. Although Mr. Pruner had been in poor health for the past six years, his passing was unexpected and came as a shock to his family and many friends.

Born in East Williamsburg Township on February 18, 1878, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Pruner, he spent the greater part of his life in this vicinity. On April 24th, 1911, he was united in marriage to Miss Josephine Montroy, of Lancaster.

Mr. Pruner was associated with the construction department of the Montreal Tramways Co. for twenty-three years. Although his ill health had forced him to lead a very retired life since his return to Morrisburg, Mr. Pruner is well and favorably known throughout this district, and his death has caused sincere regret to all who knew him.

He was a member of long standing with the Canadian Order of Foresters. Many and beautiful floral tributes were placed around the casket, also many spiritual offerings from friends of the family.

Left to mourn are his widow, one daughter, Sheila Roberta, of Ottawa, two sons, John Joseph and Robert James Percival, one sister, Mrs. Mabel C. Oliver.

The funeral service was held today (Friday), at 9 a.m., at St. Mary's Church. Burial was made in the family plot in St. Mary's Cemetery.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON VI

THE GOLDEN RULE (Armistice Sunday).—Luke 6

PRINTED TEXT, Luke 6: 27-38.

GOLDEN TEXT—"As ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise." Luke 6: 31.

THE LESSON IN ITS SETTING

Time.—All the events of this chapter occurred in the early summer of A.D. 28.

Place.—The plucking of grain occurred near the city of Capernaum; the healing of the man with the withered hand occurred in Galilee, though we do not know exactly where. The choice of the Twelve and the Sermon on the Mount both occurred near Capernaum.

This lesson speaks primarily of personal enemies. We are living in a time when the hearts of men are being made sour and corrupt by brooding over what they think are crimes of other peoples until the whole life is filled with bitterness. Such a stream of pollution can be washed out only the life of which Christ here speaks.

At the very beginning of this lesson we have clearly revealed the mysterious and yet continually emphasized fact that men in Palestine, for the most part, and especially those high in religious circles among the Hebrew people, not only did not sympathize with the work and teachings of Christ, but did everything they could to find fault with the ministry of the Master, to oppose him, and to bring the disapproval of others upon him.

Emphasis On Love

In this sixth chapter of Luke we have Christ teaching the true meaning of the Sabbath in relation to man; choosing the twelve disciples; revealing the characteristics of a life which God can fully approve. After Jesus had chosen the twelve apostles on the summit of the mountain where he had spent the night, he descended to a level place on the mountain-side, and there met the multitude and delivered the sermon which holds first place among all the discourses in the world. If this address is the same as the Sermon on the Mount, (found in Matthew), it is to be noted that each account begins with the main body of the discourse, differs only in the aspect of truth emphasized by the two writers. In Matthew the essence of the Christian life is described as true righteousness in distinction from the formalism of the Pharisee. In Luke the essence of righteousness is found in love. Matthew was writing with Jewish Christians in mind. Luke was writing for the world.

Five-Fold Way of Love

Luke 6: 27. But I say unto you that hear, Love your enemies, do good to them that hate you,

28. Bless them that curse you, pray for them that despitefully use you.

29. To him that smiteth thee on the one cheek offer also the other; and from him that taketh away thy cloak withhold not thy coat also.

30. Give to every one that asketh thee; and of him that taketh away thy goods ask them not again.

31. And as yet would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

32. And if ye love them that love you, what thank have ye? for even sinners love those that love them.

33. And if ye do good to them that do good to you, what thank have ye? for even sinners do the same.

34. And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? even sinners lend to sinners, to receive again as much.

35. But love your enemies, and do them good, and lend, never despairing; and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be sons of the Most High: for he is kind toward the unthankful and evil.

This law or principle of Christian love is enforced in a fivefold way: first, Jesus gives various striking modes in which this love manifests itself (vs. 27-30); he then shows what common definition can be gathered from these instances (v. 31), and how this love is distinct from other kinds (vs. 32-35); he explains that it is a love akin to God's way of loving (vs. 32-35); to God's way of loving (vs. 35, 36); and lastly, he shows that this principle of love should influence all our judgments. "Love" here denotes the love full of intelligence, comprehension, an corresponding purpose; it sees all the malevolence and wickedness of the enemy, feels his stabs and blows, but this only fills the loving heart with the one desire and aim to free its enemy from his hate, to rescue him from his sin, and to save his soul.

The Measure of Men

36. Be ye merciful, even as your Father is merciful. 37. And judge not, and ye shall not be judged: and condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: release, and ye shall not be released; 38, give, and it shall be given unto to you; good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over, shall they give unto your bosom. For with what measure ye meet it shall be measured to you again. Here we have a further development of the principle of Christian love. It is only those who can see the boundless possibilities in their fellow men who can be moral leaders or teachers. He who does not look with love cannot see. Our own faults blind our consciences until we do not see them at all. Jesus' admonition to us is to proceed to conquer our own faults first.

In all his teachings Christ is seeking to get at the character of men. Of course he continually talks about conduct, but he never fails to emphasize the truth, one way or another, that conduct is only the natural, inevitable outcome of character.

Farm Notes . . .

Balance Manure With Phosphate

(By B. Leslie Emslie)

Superphosphate forms the base of nearly all commercial fertilizer mixtures and supplies the much needed phosphorus in which most soils are naturally deficient. Turnips and corn are heavy phosphate feeders and when given a fairly liberal application of manure may require only superphosphate as a supplement. Farmyard manure contains notable amounts of nitrogen and potash but very little phosphorus, for the reason that animals retain and utilize this subsance in the building of their bony structure, and phosphorus is also an important constituent of milk and muscle.

Superphosphate in Stable

Inspecting a series of turnip plots on the Dominion Experimental Farm, Nappan, N.S., during a field day in September, visitors were told by Mr. Smith Hilton that 100 lbs. of 20% superphosphate is worth one ton of turnips, meaning that with the addition of 500 lbs. of superphosphate per acre the yield was increased by five tons over manure alone. On this occasion a shrewd farmer from Pictou County stepped forward and stated his conviction that the proper place to start the use of superphosphate is in the stable.

Now, this farmer was not talking through his hat but knew whereof he spoke, having like many others proved the merits of granular superphosphate in the stable. The practice has been preached for years but may be new to some. It consists of spreading the phosphate in and on both sides of the gutter, at the rate of one or one and a half pounds per animal per day, after cleaning out the stable.

The superphosphate, when used in this way, performs several functions. Not only does it add the phosphorus which ordinary manure lacks but absorbs and holds valuable nitrogen that would otherwise be lost, thus enriching the manure in both these plant food substances. Further, phosphate in the stable, shed, pen or poultry house reduces flies, absorbs malodorous gases and disinfects the premises.

More Pork, Veal Less Beef Eaten

In Canada During 1939 — Increase In Total Meat Consumption Here Last Year Was Two Per Cent

Consumption of meats in Canada in 1939 per head of population is officailly estimated at 118.9 lb., an increase of more than two lb. per head over the 1938 consumption. With reference to individual commodities, more pork, veal and lard and less beef were consumed in 1939 than in 1938. The consumption of mutton and lamb remained unchanged. The consumption of pork per head of population in 1939 is placed at 52 lb., an increase of 4.2 lb. on the previous year; veal consumption rose from 11.8 lb. in 1938 to 12.1 lb. per head in 1939, and lard at 5.8 lb. per head showed an increase of nearly 1½ lb. over 1938.

Beef consumption declined from 51.6 lb. per head of population in 1938 to 49 lb. per head in 1939. Although the total output of cattle in Canada in 1939 showed an increase over that of 1938, exports of cattle during 1939 were almost double those of 1938. The consumption of mutton and lamb at 5.8 lb. per head of population was the same as in 1938, which in turn was one lb. less than in 1937. It is expected, says the official report, that during the next three or four years consumption of beef will continue to decline. While the numbers of cattle are continuing to increase on Canadian farms, the present tendency is to withhold stock from market for the purpose of building up herds. Pork consumption during 1940 will probably be even greater than in 1939.

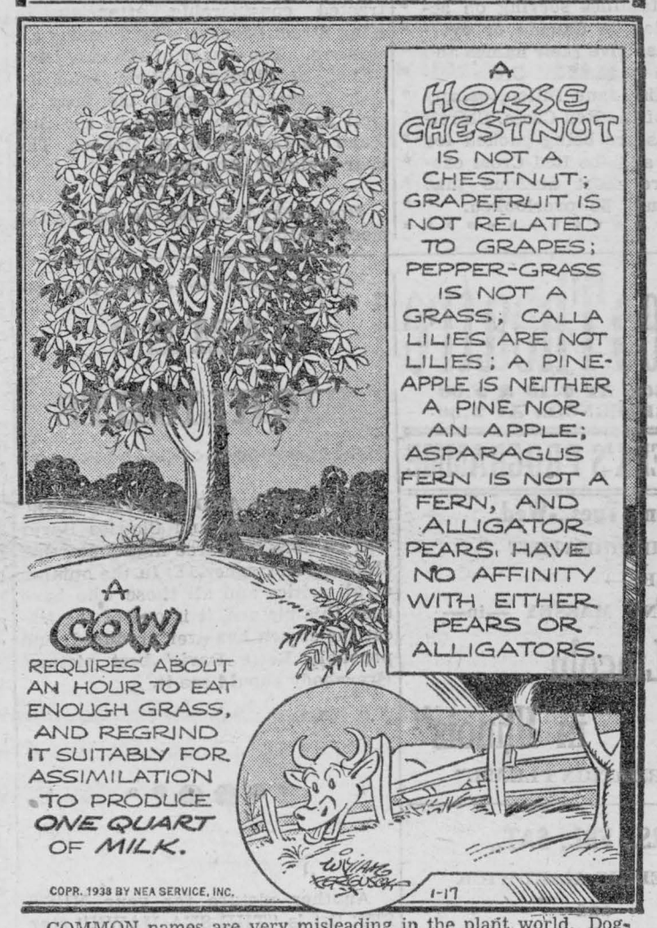

Australia Boasts Population Increase

"Ladies and gentlemen", said June 30 was 7,031,000, an increase of 33,833 since the beginning of the year, according to statistics released the middle of October.

It is fifteen years since the population reached the 6,000,000 mark, and at the present rate of increase it is estimated it will take thirteen years to reach the 8,000,000 mark.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

COMMON names are very misleading in the plant world. Dogwood is one thing in North America, but in England it is an entirely different plant, and still another in the tropics. Although some of the Latin names are difficult to pronounce, they are exact. They classify a plant as well as name it.

What Science Is Doing

REBUILDS ARTERIES

A major discovery in surgery, a method of rebuilding arteries by using sections of veins as spare parts, was reported last month by Dr. Gordon Murray, of the University of Toronto.

This kind of new internal piping, long sought by surgeons, is made possible by a new drug, heparin, which triples the length of time that human blood takes to clot.

Heparin, an extract of liver, was developed by a group of Canadian physicians headed by Dr. C. H. Best of Toronto, co-discoverer of insulin.

ALCOHOL AND ANGINA

An injection of pure ethyl alcohol into the neck to cure the pain of angina pectoris, one of the serious forms of heart disease, was described by Dr. Samuel Perlow of Chicago.

It gave complete relief in 40 per cent of the cases tried, and partial relief in another 35 per cent. Angina is a painful heart trouble.

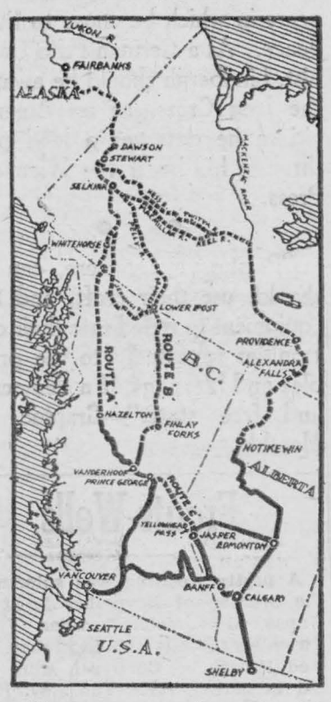

INFLUENZA CONTROL

A discovery by three Australian researchers that the human nose secretes a substance which will make certain disease viruses harmless may open the way to effective medical control of influenza. The three scientists found that a chemically purified secretion of the normal human nose inactivated every kind of influenza obtainable there for testing.

Moving Mountains

That the Alps are moving rapidly to the north along a 300-mile front, causing the plains in front to sink into the earth under their irrestible weight, is the opinion of an eminent scientist. The same thing is happening to the Himalayas, which are creeping south. But although in geological time they are moving swiftly, the actual rate is only a few feet each year. All the time, the world is undergoing change. The Thames was an underground river 10,000 years ago, for a former bed has been discovered sixty feet below the present one. So a million years hence inhabitants of this planet will not be able to recognize their territory by looking at maps of to-day. Everything will be different, for a river like the Mississippi shifts enough sediment into the Gulf of Mexico each year to cover the cities of Manchester and Liverpool in a three-foot layer.

The above map shows the four proposed routes for the Alaska highway. Solid lines represent roads already constructed. Broken lines show proposed highways.

Feathers On Hats Menace Bird Life

Pinions From More Than 40 Species of Wild Birds Are Being Offered Illegally For Sale—Used In Women's Millinery

North American bird life faces its worst threat in the last three decades because of renewed extensive use of bird feathers on women's hats, according to Richard H. Pough of the National Audubon Society, New York.

Feathers of more than 40 species of wild birds are being illegally offered for sale, Mr. Pough charges, following a survey of millinery shops in New York.

THERE ARE "LEGAL" FEATHERS!

"The remedy is fairly simple for those who do not care to participate in or give encouragement to the illegal traffic," Mr. Pough said. "There are legal feathers, and any purchaser of bird plummage has a right to demand that she be given positive assurance that the feathers on her hat are within the law."

HEALTH TOPICS

Prevention of Throat Infection

Thymol, a substance allied to phenol (carbolic), but with 25 times the antiseptic strength of the latter, is strongly advocated as a gargle and mouth wash in the prevention of raw sore throats and of tartar of the tooth in persons subject to these ailments.

In every mouth left undisturbed for some hours—for example during sleep — a varying amount of white substance grows on the tongue and other mouth surfaces and accumulates around the teeth. This consists of a thread-like plant called leptothrix, in the meshes of which may be numerous germs and cells. This plant, if not removed, will grow rapidly and form a hard tartar on the teeth which can be removed only by a dentist's sharp instrument. Such removal is necessary, otherwise the teeth and gums will suffer.

HELPS KEEP TARTAR AWAY

People otherwise meticulously clean in their habits habitually neglect their teeth; the brush, used in a perfunctory rub, is allowed to become filthy and possibly does more harm than good.

Many persons are continually troubled with a raw sore throat, aggravated in some cases by smoking particularly if cigarettes are used; in these individuals a systematic use of a saturated solution of thymol in water as a mouthwash and gargle, is a most effectual preventive.

HOW TO PREPARE IT

The solution is prepared as follows: the crystals of thymol, placed in a muslin bag, are put into a wide-mouthed bottle and cold water added. Soon there will be a saturated solution of the drug. From time to time more cold water is added until all the crystals have disappeared. Then more crystals are added. Thymol is inexpensive. An ounce, costing no more than a few cents, will make nine gallons of solution.

If the solution appears to be too strong, that is if it "bites" the tongue or throat, water may be added. When ready, the solution is used as a gargle and mouthwash several times a day.

HAVE YOU HEARD?

When Sir George Reid, a man prominent in Australian politics, was made knight commander of St. Michael and St. George, he was rather embarrassed by his new dignity, for he liked to be referred to as plain George Reid. At one of his meetings someone called out: "Say, George, what does K. C. M. G. mean?"

Without a moment's hesitation the new knight answered, "Keep calling me George."

Here is another Lewis Carroll parody — this time of "The Walrus and the Carpenter":

"I feel for you," the Fuehrer said,
"I deeply sympathize."
With sobs and tears he sorted out
States of convenient size,
Holding his pocket handkerchief
Before his longing eyes.

"May we now live in unity?"
But answer came there none,
And this was hardly strange, because
He'd eaten everyone.

Turnip Farm Is Successful

Quebec Department of Agriculture Sponsored It As Source of Revenue to Farmers in L'Islet County

A new branch of the farming industry, the cultivation of turnips, has been started in L'Islet county by the Quebec Department of Agriculture, says a story in the Montreal Star. It has already proved to be an important source of revenue Minister of Agriculture and of Col-Joli and St. Eugene.

Premier Godbout, who is also Minister of Agriculture and of Colonization, is credited with having personally introduced the cultivation of turnips in the county on a large scale, as part of his policy of encouraging general gardening as a means of improving the position of Quebec farmers.

CULTIVATED ON LARGE SCALE

Agricultural experts were sent to the county from Quebec and 25 farmers in Port-Joli and St. Eugene alone are assured of big crops of turnips this fall.

"The importance of vegetables in the diet of human beings is emphasized by health specialists, and therefore, besides the economic factor from the viewpoint of the farmer, it is to be encouraged by all possible means," Premier Godbout said.

THE FIRST THIRD-TERM PRESIDENT

There is no Canadian who will not be genuinely glad of the return of Franklin Delano Roosevelt to the Presidency of the United States. It is the first time in the history of the great republic that any president has been returned for a third term.

From the beginning of the campaign, Wendell Willkie did not have the same appeal as the man who has guided the destines of the world's most powerful neutral nation for the past several years. His speeches did not have the same friendly, intimate touch as those of the President, who has done so much to further the international good-will between his country and ours.

Those of us who heard Roosevelt make his historic pronouncement at the opening of the 1000 Islands bridge, can never forget the earnestness of his words:

"---and I give to you assurance, that the United States will not stand idly by, if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire."

Never has a presidential election battle been as tense, as dramatic, nor has so much, perhaps, depended upon its outcome. Both presidential candidates had pledged more and more material aid to the British Empire in her struggle for democracy against dictatorship.

Nevertheless, an American newscaster, on the night of the election, read a report, purported to be from a high German official, that Germany should be able to influence at least six million Americans, as to how they vote. And Hitler, with his ill-concealed hate for the President, would influence them to vote only one way. It is exactly this feeling that the European dictators were opposed to President Roosevelt's regime, that has made the Canadians and the British 100 per cent. pro-Roosevelt.

May his third-term prove as beneficial to his own country, and to ours, as have his two previous. And to quote again from the Presidents speech in 1938:

may "there be no challenge at the border, and may the only password be 'pass, friend'."

DICTATORS NOT POPULAR

A dangerous man to the freedom and rights appertaining to municipal rights is the Attorney General of Ontario, Hon. Mr. Conant. Several months ago he sought through the Legislature jurisdiction over municipal police. His authority would have been supeme had his proposed plans worked out, but concerted opposition developed and he let the matter drop. In a recent public address he has returned to his original proposal which would give him absoute authority over all police officers while the municipalities continued to pay the salaries. There is already too much authority centered in Queen's Park which should by right and reason belong to the Municipality. We don't want an Ontario dictator in our attorney-general and the sooner he realizes it the better.---Carleton Place Canadian.

NEUTRAL EIRE A HANDICAP TO BRITAIN.

As Winston Churchill told the British Empire on Tuesday, the policy of neutrality in the war against Germany and Italy is an undeserved burden on Britain.

The fact that Britain is deprived of the use of bases on the Irish coast, means that their convoying ships, and anti-submarine patrols must make the long return trip to England to re-fuel, and this in urn means that Germany's sea warfare gains great advantage.

It is difficult to conceive just what must be going on in the mind of Eamon de Valera, the Irish proponent of neutrality, to pursue such a course as he is. Surely he knows that unless Britain can win this war, the freedom of his own country is nothing more than a myth. Surely he realizes that the very existence, not only of England, but also of his own country, is at stake.

There is a growing suspicion that Eire, in spite of her studied policy of neutrality, may have an iron in the fire in this war. Does de Valera think that his neutral tactics will give him a bargaining point with the German Feuhrer? His actions would certainly indicate it.

NEEDS SIX HOURS MASTERY.

When in1803 and 1804, Napoeon gathered a flotilla of boats in preparation for an invasion of England, he said: "It is necessary for us to be masters of the sea for six hours only and England will have ceased to exist."

Commenting on this, The New York Herald Tribune said, a few days ago: "Today there are bombers to slaughter London's women and children; but Adolf Hitler still needs those six hours mastery of the sea, and bombers cannot give it to him while the Royal Navy floats and the British people do not waver."

THE FIRE SPREADS

The underground war-fires which have been smouldering so long have at last eaten their way across Europe to the Balkans and burst nto fierce flame. Mussolini has attacked harmless little Greece hoping for another of those "glorous" triumphs he achieved over unarmed Abyssinia and prostrate France. It is almost impossible hat the flames should not spread urther, whatever the outcome of he new struggle.

Proudly --- and knowing the heavy odds she faces, Greece has taken up her arms, and the prayers of the civilized world will go up that she may be successful.

Greece is a long way from Canada but her entrance into the war has a poignant lesson for all Canadians. It is one more cruel proof that this war IS a "total war." It is one more reason for us to search our own consciences and question our own rulers as to whether Canada is doing EVERYTHING that she can do to stem the black flood which threatens everything we hold dear.

It is a worse and more dangerous flood than were any of the waves of barbarism which have beaten on the shores of civilization since small groups of mankind emerged from their primal state of savagery.

For this is not mere Barbarism hat we face. Barbarism was a negative force which had nothing effective to offer in place of the civilizations it overwhelmed. In consequence it always succumbed n the end to the vital, growing trength of such seeds of civilization as remained.

We deceive ourselves if we hink that Naziism and Fascism are 'negative" forces which merely destroy. They are positive and dynamic. Our civilization is hreatened not with the dead weight of a sand-filled dummy which may choke out the good plants immediately underneath it,---only to be smothered in turn by the healthy plants around. That is what happened to the invading hordes of barbarians in the past But Naziism is no inert dummy. It is a Frankenstein monster, an intelligent scientific Robot. It has --- and it will use, all the material knowledge and power of this modern age to root out every vestige of our civilization, and sow its own new crop.

What is that crop? We should not allow ourselves to be deceived as to its nature. We must not let our own patriotism, or the fervent words of other true patriot's, to pursuade us that it is such a noisome crop that it simply CANNOT live.

We only have to look around us at any deserted farm or abandoned field to see whether noxious weeds in the end give way to healthy crops,---merely because they are evil.

Every farmer knows too well what happens,---knows that only unceasing effort, work, cultivation and the sowing of good seed can make and keep a healthy farm.

Naziism will not die,---it must be killed. We Canadians have an important part to play in the struggle, and to play it well and truly we must face the truth.

We are fighting to save the world, not from a mere passing flood of barbarism, but from a new type of human organization which has all the material and scientific resources of our own civilization, but none of its saving graces of compassion, love and kindness. It is in fact civilization deprived of all those virtues which make it "civilized."

It is not an obviously revolting dragon that we are fighting, it is something as much like a man as was Frankenstein's creation,--- so like that some people can still believe in it. It is what men would be if Satan had breathed his spirit into the original clay,-- instead of God.

It is this evil but dynamic force that we are fighting. If we meet it with equal vigor, efficiency and courage, we shall destroy it, for we have one weapon it can never have --the Power of the Spirit. What we Canadians have to ask ourselves s not whether our cause is right,--- we know that; not whether we are courageous in battle,---we have proved that; but whether we are putting into the struggle EVERY atom of efficiency and vigor we can command.

A DISGRACE TO HIS COUNTRY.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, in a recent speech, sharply criticized American "leaders" for "a consistent record of promise followed by failure," and asserted that the future of the United States hangs not 'upon the outcome of the war in Europe" but upon the results of next month's election." Probably Lindbergh would rather have Hitler or Goering running for President of the U.S.A. At least, he appears to be more in sympathy with their actions than he is with hose countries who are opposing the German program of war and destruction against the democratic nations of the world. Lindbergh lacks what it takes to make a man. He forgets that it was a German who kidnapped and murdered his child, and that it was England who provided him with a home and the necessary protection, during those years in which he chose to live in peace. As a German Fifth Columnist, Lindbergh should be awarded the Iron Cross---as an American citizen he deserves a lead pellet through his heart .--- Winchester Press.

Froats-Wells

A pretty wedding was solemnized the evening of November 2, at the Manse, Williamsburg, when Vivian Gwendolyn Wells and Lawrence Wilfred Froats, of Cornwall, were united in matrimony. The Rev. E. C. Lacey officiated.

The bride was becomingly attired in Plum wool crepe dress with accessories and Persian Lamb ensemble with a corsage of deep red roses. Miss Olive Wells, Rochester, N.Y., who attended the bride was dressed in black oriental crepe with grey accessories and corsage of talisman roses. Mr. Allan Campbell, Cornwall, attended as best man. The father of the bride, Mr. Frank Wells, gave away his daughter. During the ceremony, which was attended only by the immediate friends of the couple, the wedding march was played by Miss Mae Loucks, Rochester, N.Y., and Pastor A. E. Millner, Saskatoon, Sask., sang "I Love You Truly," while the register was being signed.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Froats and friends were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wells, "Cozy Corner," where a tasty buffet lunch was served. The happy couple left for points east on their honeymoon, and will take up residence in Cornwall.

WHAT money? Why—the money in the banks! The money carefully put away by you and your neighbours in savings accounts. The money you could have spent today but wanted to keep safely against some future need. The businessman's money for use in his normal operations. There are more than 4,846,000 bank deposit accounts, savings and current. Within these two classes the great majority of deposits are small or of moderate amount. ¶ But you'd be wrong if you assumed from this, that the rest of the deposits are owned by the few! Quite the contrary! The railways, for instance, have deposits in the chartered banks—and that indirectly includes the whole population of the Dominion. The trade unions have deposits. Millions of policy-holders share in the ownership of insurance companies' deposits. ¶ And don't overlook the deposits of wheat pools; farm co-operatives; churches; municipalities and municipal hydro commissions, school districts; school children's penny bank savings deposited with the chartered banks; and commercial and mining corporations with very wide lists of shareholders, large and small, all over Canada. Truly, money on deposit in Canada's chartered banks is owned, in fact, by you and your fellow-Canadians.

In war, as in peace, Canada's Chartered Banks maintain, uninterrupted, their useful services — safeguarding depositors' funds; facilitating the nation's business — looking forward to peace with freedom as the only sure basis of enduring prosperity.

Saving Ontario's Natural Resources

(NO. 15)

KEEP OUR LAKE TROUT

Fish, like other creatures, must be adjusted to their habitat or their race will not survive. A warm water kind cannot long exist in cold water and one that is used to plenty of oxygen will die if placed in a stagnant pool. Our lake trout is a good example of this. It must have cold water, well aerated, for normal life but as it lives in our lakes, which warm considerably at the surface in summer, it has had to go down into the depths for part of the year. Often the deep waters lack oxygen so we find that the trout live at a medium depth where the water is cool and yet above the stagnant bottom.

Protect Spawning Fish

Lake trout are allied to the speckled trout. They grow large and 25 to 30 pounders are not uncommon. Their main food is herring and whitefish, though perch will be taken where these first two are lacking. These food forms can live in the depths and in cold water so the trout finds food throughout their habitat. The angler, to catch these fish, must use a heavy spoon and a copper line, sending the lure down to where the fish live. Lake trout are found throughout Ontario in all suitable waters and are the mainstay of a considerable commercial fishery in the Great Lakes.

The conservation of the lake trout depends on the protection of the spawning fish and on the stopping of over-fishing. They spawn on gravel or stony bars late in the fall and the poachers use gill nets to catch them over the shoals. Such nets are destructive and can take almost every adult fish in a lake if set throughout the fall. So, protection against poachers should be the first step, then, we must see that only a lmiited number of trout are taken from each lake. Long continued angling is as destructive as poaching, shorter season and lower bag limits are necessary if we wish to preserve our lake trout.

SCOUTING . . .

To Boy Scouts fell the honour of providing a guard of honour for His Excellency the Governor-General, the Earl of Athlone, upon his first official visit to Montreal, October 7th. The sturdy, smartly uniformed party of 150 First Class and King's Scouts made a fine impression as they lined up in the Windsor station concourse to receive the Chief Scout for Canada. His Excellency formally inspected them, and complimented District Commissioner Robley Mackay upon their appearance.

A practice of reciprocal visits between Canadian and American Boy Scout troops having the same troop number this year brought 30 members of Troop 3 of Detroit, Mich., to Chatham, Ont., as guests of the 3rd Chatham Sea Scouts. The visitors were met early on a September Saturday at the city limits and paraded to a camp site at Victoria Park near the Chatham troop's headquarters, where meals were served them. A civic welcome was extended by Mayor Hubbell. They were entertained with games and competitions, and on Sunday attended a church parade of Chatham Scouts and Girl Guides.

The Bronze Cross, the Boy Scouts Association's highest recognition for gallantry, was awarded Scoutmaster G. Keene, for saving most of an ammunition train struck by a bomb during an air raid over southern England. Scouts representing Fort William and Port Arthur Troops were hosts to a party of American Boy Scouts from Duluth and Superior at the annual Lakehead International Labour Day week end get-together. The camp of 13 tents was erected in the Department of Highways Park at Little Falls. The programme comprised a Sunday Scouts' Own service, hikes to points of interest, boating and fishing, and finally a big campfire. The Canadian Scouts were under District Commissioner H. W. Ellard and the American lads under Scout Executive Sig Kilender of Duluth.

THE WAR-WEEK—Commentary on Current Events

MAIN BATTLE DEVELOPS IN THE MEDITERRANEAN

The "Battle of the Mediterranean" was rudely elbowing the "Battle of Britain" off the front pages of the world's newspapers last week, as the scene of war shifted southward and it became evident that for the moment the main Axis drive was for control of the eastern Mediterranean and the Near East. The great showdown test between the seapower of Britain and the air power of the Axis was about to be witnessed.

After Greece, What?

The Italian invasion of Greece was seen as but one item of a comprehensive program, the first parts of which had already been executed — the occupation of Rumania and Italy's preparation for a trans-Egypt drive on Suez. Other steps, involving the remaining Balkan nations, were expected immediately the outcome of the Greek campaign was decided. General Goering's newspaper, The Essener National Zeitung, predicted the next Axis step would be an attempt to sever British connections with Europe, Asia and Africa so that no port in those continents would be open to British warships (ambitious undertaking!) Other sources said that France and Spain would also have a role in this plan.

The Axis' new grand strategy undoubtedly was agreed upon by Hitler and Mussolini at their meeting in Florence which followed a lightning trip by Hitler down into France to confer at different points and times with Franco, Laval and Petain.

Hitler's Greatest Gamble

Was Hitler embarking on the greatest gamble of his career? If he could break Britain's control of the Mediterranean he would be able to pile upon her a disaster second in magnitude only to the smashing of England itself — so great that it likely would determine the outcome of the war. Failure to achieve this goal, however, after his inability to crush England by bloody bombing and invasion, could just about write his finish.

To By-Pass Turkey?

The only other power (aside from Britain) conceivably in a position to aid Greece was Turkey, a large part of whose army was last week massed against the Bulgarian frontier. But several factors militated against Turkish fulfillment of her mutual defense treaty with Greece. For one thing such action could bring Nazi troops storming into Turkey from Bulgaria, and precipitate a general Balkan war; for another thing, Soviet Russia's policy of non-involvement in war might operate against Turkish participation. But supposing the Axis powers didn't attempt to take the Dardanelles, by-passing Turkey instead by way of the Dodecanese Islands and Syria . . . would Turkey allow herself without protest to be surrounded, and her dominance of the entire Moslem world challenged? If Turkey moved, the entire picture would change overnight.

Moscow Meditates

For the time being, Moscow was silent on the Balkan situation. But pre-occupied, as diplomatic rumors which trickled through suggested, with consolidating the Russian position on all fronts. A new agreement with the Axis powers was seen as not unexpected; but more likely to come would be the signing of a non-aggression pact with Japan. (Moscow obviously was not forgetting for a moment that Japanese troops still lined the Soviet Manchurian border; that between 80 and 90 German divisions faced the Red Army along the eastern European front).

U.S. - Britain - China - U.S.S.R.?

That Stalin might be induced to join an anti-totalitarian bloc consisting of Great Britain, the U. S. and China was the considered belief expressed last week by Chinese circles in Singapore. These same sources declared that Stalin would be interested in seeing the German and Japanese positions rendered desperate by such a coalition against them. Positive knowledge was claimed, said New York Times correspondent Hallett Abend, that China's Minister of Finance was in Washington for the principal purpose of convincing the United States of the advisability of joining such a coalition.

U. S. Aid To Britain

Although the United States had by no means yet declared war on Germany, Secretary of Commerce Jesse H. Jones reported last week that the U. S. had shipped $780,000,000 of goods to Britain during the first year of the war; and from New York it was learned that the U. S. was sending warplanes to Britain at the rate of nearly 500 a month, and that the number was increasing . . . With the election over, anything could happen.

Before Parliament reconvened at Ottawa this week, it was learned from Washington that arrangements had been made for an immediate survey and other preliminary engineering work in the St. Lawrence Seaway project . . .

Sad Losses At Sea

'Twas a sad day for Canada when news came through that the Canadian destroyer Margaree, which replaced the ill-fated Fraser, had been sunk in the North Atlantic with the loss of 140 officers and men; and that the Canadian luxury liner Empress of Britain had gone down as the result of enemy action, with 45 missing.

The Week In Canada

Official and semi-official announcements on miscellaneous matters of varying interest to the Canadian public featured the week: that young farmers whose military training was postponed in October would respond to the call November 22 . . . that Canada was sending 400 motor vehicles a day to the United Kingdom . . . that Ottawa was keeping a wary eye on the French Islands in the gulf of St. Lawrence, St. Pierre and Miquelon . . . that internees and members of illegal organizations were ineligible for public office in Canada . . . that Canadian soldiers were holding an important sector of the English coast, right in the front line . . . that Canadian troops might be sent to the Near East at a later stage in the Battle of the Mediterranean . . . that Canada had enough grain "to meet all Britain's needs for three years" . . that private buying must be curtailed in Canada if the war program was not to suffer . . .

Election Soon In Ontario?

The Ontario political pot, quiet for some time past, was last week seen to be simmering again. There was a good deal of talk in Ottawa that Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn intended going to the people sometime within the next year (re-elected to power in 1937, the Ontario Liberal administration does not have to call a vote before the summer of 1942). Within the past month three Dominion Cabinet ministers have visited Mr. Hepburn . . . Ontario Conservatives, too, were getting busy last week . . .

Yukon's Many Wild Flowers

There are orchids in the Yukon — the Siberian, a large purplish pink bloom with white spots and a rare White Orchid—all to be found in great variety beneath the "slide" near Dawson. Our authority, writes the Ottawa Journal, is Martha Louise Black, former Member of Parliament, whose second book, "Yukon Wild Flowers," has just been published. Co-starring with her in its preparation is her husband, Hon. George Black, K.C., M.P., who personally took the hundred photographs which illustrate the volume.

"Within 20 minutes' walk of the heart of Dawson," writes Mrs. Black, "even a fairly careless observer of Nature's handiwork may gather at least a hundred varieties of flowers, ferns and mosses.

"From the beginning of March, 'when the days begin to lengthen,' we Yukoners are alert to discover the first sign of the Pasque flower or Northern Crocus thrusting its furry nose through the thawing ground, often still covered with snow or ice. These brave flowers vary in shade from deepest purple to mauves and pinks, with an occasional 'spot' of purest white. Of the anemones or 'wind-flowers' ther are numerous varieties, ranging from this Pasque flower to the tiny yellow Water Crowfoot common in our sluggish streams.

"The brilliant cerise shooting stars, the saucy Dutchman's breeches, the wild Bleeding Heart —a tiny prototype of the cultivated variety we all knew in our grandmothers' gardens — all the[re] and many more are upon us in bewildering array as soon as summer sets in with its 24 hours of continuous sunlight. The floral colors of the north are largely pink, blue and magenta, with generous splashes of yellow.

Andy HARDY MEETS DEBUTANTE

Adapted from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Picture

By

Beatrice Faber

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER FOUR

There were tears of horror in Andy's eyes. Why, think of all those things he'd said about Daphne Fowler, abut being invited to her debut and her wanting to marry him and all. If he went to New York and didn't make good on that stuff, he'd be ruined here in Carvel forever.

KEEPING IT QUIET

"What's New York got that Carvel hasn't? Just some high buildings, that's all." His voice tightened. "And what do people do when they get in high buildings? They jump out of windows, that's what they do. I tell you, New York's a den of evil."

Aunt Milly was hiding a smile behind her hand, Marian and Mrs. Hardy just looked amazed. Judge Hardy scratched his chin. "Well son, New York is evil in some of its aspects. But then so is every village and city in the world. The fact remains, we're leaving for New York day after tomorrow." He looked around at all of them. "And by the way, this thing's a secret until Mr. Benedict makes it public. Remember that, Andrew."

Andy spoke hollowly. "It's okay with me to keep it quiet for the next ten thousand years."

By morning though the "secret" was emblazoned right on the front page of the Carvel Daily Star:

"HARDY FAMILY TO NEW YORK

Local Jurist to Fight Trust for Carvel County Orphanage"

And sure enough Polly called that day. There was malice aforethought in her voice when she got Andy on the telephone. "You'll be glad to know we're printing the story of your flaming romance with Daphne Fowler in the high school magazine. And remember, you'd better bring back a picture of darling Daphne and you to illustrate the story or else. Not a fake one either."

Up to the very minute of train time the next day, Andy tried every trick he knew to stay behind. There was a little hope when Aldrich Brown, Jr., came in. Maybe he and Dad would have a fight and then they'd miss the train.

But no, Aldrich, the big lug, had to apologize for last night and tell Dad he was getting a job on the newspaper and would Dad and Marian believe in him.

ARRIVAL IN NEW YORK

Even Andy's manufactured stomachache and fever didn't do the trick. His father just looked at him hardheartedly and said nothing short of heart trouble would keep them from taking him along.

Their first glimpse of New York as they crossed on the New Jersey ferry, did something to Andy though. Maybe he didn't approve of this big city but he could still retain his artistic appreciation of those skyscrapers. In fact, he was beginning to perk up a little as they walked into the maisonette apartment up in the "fifties" that had been engaged for them.

But as they opened the door, everyone gasped, "Why it's Betsy Booth," the Judge exclaimed. "What are you doing here?"

Andy stared in amazement. He hadn't seen Betsy Booth since last year when she was visiting in Carvel. She looked a little more grown-up now and prettier — though still a mere child.

There was a lot of excitement as Betsy explained everything. Her folks had been away when Mrs. Hardy's telegram had come. So she herself had gotten an apartment for them. It had really been easy, no trouble at all. She had just called the real estate man and there it was.

'My," Marian said "and you even hired a servant all by yourself?"

"Of course I did," Betsy returned proudly. Her adoring eyes were fixed on Andy.

CASE OF HERO WORSHIP

Mrs. Hardy turned to him. "You see Andrew even in New York nice girls think more about growing up to be a good housewife than dancing the — the rumble."

"Aw Mom." He was in the throes of acute embarrassment before Betsy, "It's the rumba."

Betsy sighed happily. "I brought over my own radio for you Andy." She suddenly realized that the lovelight in her eyes was too apparent. "It's — it's just common gratitude because back in Carvel Andy took me to my first grown-up party."

Andy went into the bedroom with his father and the Judge smiled teasingly. "Son, how do you do it."

"Aw gee Dad, she don't mean anything. It's only—" his chest expanded. "—only hero worship."

"Well, my hero," the Judge said briskly, "let's get unpacked."

British Film Star Enjoys Ride in Train Engine Cab

Fireman Andy Fitzpatrick reads the all-important train orders to Madeleine Carroll to impress her with the safety rules of modern railroads. The lovely British star rode the cab of the Canadian Pacific's biggest engine over 50 miles of the mountain route while on her way from Vancouver to Regina for the world premiere of her latest Paramount picture, "Northwest Mounted Police". "One of the most thrilling experiences of my life" she said.

Fashion Flashes

Navy blue, dark as midnight sometimes, or with a shade of light that suggests sapphire, is the "dark horse" revelation this fall — for both day and evening. For many years this effort to put over navy for fall and winter has been incidental, but this year, it comes with the force of accelerated momentum. For evening, in satin and velvet dark, it's a correct companion for the dark blue worn by most men in evening clothes. In woollens, particularly suits, smooth velour-like woolens or rough-soft ones. And satin for daytime frocks, too.

Yellows have strengthened their position for 1940-1941 season and are style news not only as a family, but an influence upon the cast of other colors. The deeper tones are being most widely sampled including the corn tone, the golden shade and the mustard yellow that is new this year in cottons. Among the colors feeling the influence of yellow are the reds, coral tones, the greens and the browns.

Formal hats are flatter and smaller, as the heart-shaped felt with ribbon bow and streamers at back, or the little black felt sailor with four feather pompons posed above and below the brim at either side.

Japan Chastens Women's Attire

Eliminates Movies and Also Dancing; Curtails Food and Liquor

Japan's new "national structure" is visibly affecting the lighter side of life today.

It is chastening women's dress, eliminating movies and dancing, streamlining weddings, curtailing the consumption of food, liquor and cigarettes, depriving the golfer of his caddy, and taking the American lingo out of baseball.

And what does all this mean?

CAN'T WEAR VIVID KIMONOS

Not even the Japanese are quite sure. A new form of government has come into being, strongly centralized. It is intended to make the nation strong, in order to end the war in China and cash in on the "golden opportunity" in Indo-China and the Dutch East Indies.

Today, Japanese women are not supposed to wear vivid kimonos. The eye-shattering sash, for which their costumes are famous, is disappearing. Censors admonish them publicly if they persist in displaying the bright colors.

Some sashes have even been forcibly removed on the streets.

The dance halls are closed. A police permit, not always granted, is necessary for a private dancing party. Popular music, if it excites amorous imaginings, gets the police axe.

TABLE TALKS

By SADIE B. CHAMBERS

"RAREBITS"

Rarebits are always tasty bits and are always popular with the men-folk. Cheese too is a traditional fare with the majority of people.

Rarebits are served on crackers or toast.

Sardine Rarebit

2 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup rich milk
Sardines
1½ teaspoons mustard
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 cup grated cheese.
Toast.

Make a cream sauce with butter, flour, salt and milk. Add other ingredients. Place sardines on toast and heat either in oven or under broiler. Place on plate and pour on sauce. Garnish with parsley or mint.

Tomato Rarebit

¾ cup grated cheese
1 can tomato soup
¼ tsp. mustard

Combine all ingredients in the top of double boiler and cook together until the cheese is melted. Serve on toasted crackers and toast.

Welsh Rarebit

1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon cornstarch
½ cup thin cream
½ lb. soft mild cheese
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. mustard
Few grains cayenne
Toast

Melt butter, add cornstarch and stir until well mixed; then add cream gradually, while stirring constantly and cook two minutes. Add cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Season, then serve on toast.

Much of the success of rarebit depends upon the quality of the cheese. A rarebit should always be smooth and of a creamy consistency.

Oyster Rarebit

1 cup oysters
2 tablespoons butter
½ lb. soft mild cheese
Cut in small pieces
½ teasp. salt
Few grains cayenne
2 eggs

Clean, parboil and drain oysters, reserving liquor. Remove oysters and discard any tough portions. Melt butter, add cheese and seasonings; as cheese melts, add gradually oyster liquor and eggs slightly beaten. As soon as mixture is smooth add soft part of oysters. Serve on toast (bread toasted on one side only). Serve on untoasted side of bread.

And now for a request:

Graham Cracker Cake

½ cup butter
¾ cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon cinnamon
2¾ cups Graham Cracker Crumbs
(30 Graham crackers)
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Cream the butter, add sugar gradually and cream together well. Add the beaten egg-yolks. Mix the baking powder and cinnamon with the cracker crumbs rolled finely and add this alternately with the milk. Lastly fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and add vanilla. Bake in a buttered loaf-pan in a moderate oven for 35 to 40 min.

Weeping Statue

In the ruins of Arbroath Abbey, in Scotland, is the headless statue of a Scottish king, and at his feet lies a lion similarly defaced.

This is William the First, called William the Lion. He founded the abbey in memory of his friend, Thomas Becket. Here the king was buried, and during the Reformation his statue and that of the lion were beheaded.

It is a strange fact that, if the weather is going to be wet, the stone over the region of the king's heart always becomes shiny and moist, and sometimes water actually trickles down.

That is why it is called "The Weeping Statue."

Household Hints

Cocoa stains should be soaked in cold water and then dipped in boiling water containing borax, on no account use soap for them. Coffee stains, on the other hand, should be covered with a little egg yolk mixed with glycerine and then washed in warm water. Tar stains on washable things can be smeared with lard, scraped off and then washed, use ether for any non-washable material except artificial silk.

Try using a spoonful of vinegar in the water you soak your greens in instead of salt, it not only kills the inhabitants, but makes them drop to the bottom of the bowl instead of just dying inside the leaves. Apply a little ammonia to your chromium-plated articles if they get discolored in bad weather, then polish with a duster.

Save any accidents by tacking strips of emery paper to the steps of your household step-ladder, it gives you a firm, good grip for the feet.

Put your new pair of stockings on, and draw a line with colorless nail varnish just under the suspender top and over the toe joint —the two most vulnerable places. But if you have to darn a toe or heel, darn on the cross so that the bias threads take the strain and the stockings won't pull away from the darn. Tiny pinhole leaks in pots and pans can be mended with snap fasteners—clip through the hole and there you are!

Nuns Come Out First Time in 47 Years

Nuns of the Good Shepherd left their cloister in St. John, N.B. one day in October, for the first time in 47 years to assist at the opening of a triduum for St. Mary Euphrasia, foundress of the order.

The triduum — three days of prayer — was started in the Cathedral of the Immaculate Conception in connection with the recent canonization of the saint.

Soldiers Writing Plenty Letters

Never let it be said the soldiers don't write home. Figures compiled by the auxiliary services branch of the defence department show 140,168 envelopes, 276,226 sheets of stationery and 842 postcards are distributed weekly among soldiers in camps and barracks in Canada and Newfoundland.

Queen Suffers Cold Hands

Apparently feeling the nip of autumn cold during a visit to a community feeding centre in South London, Queen Elizabeth warms her hands over a cook stove. Approach of winter presents London with the problem of keeping warm the thousands who have lost their homes in bombings.

How To Address Mail To R.C.A.F.

Letters to Canadian Base If Mailing Overseas, Send Post Office at Ottawa

The air ministry, correcting a previous announcement regarding addressing of mail to Canadians serving in the Air Force overseas, said in a recent statement that mail for men of the Royal Canadian Air Force overseas should be addressed to the Canadian base post office at Ottawa. From there it will be promptly forwarded.

In a previous announcement the ministry said erroneously that mail for R.C.A.F. overseas should be handled the same as for Canadians serving in the Royal Air Force.

FOR CANADIANS IN R.A.F.

Mail for Canadians serving with the R.A.F. should be addressed to R.A.F. Records Office, Ruislip, Middlesex, England. In the case of officers the number and name should be given and the letter sent in care of S. Seven D., Air Ministry, Adastral House, Kingsway, London, W.C. 2.

Arrested on a charge of burglarly in Los Angeles, a young man said he was doing it in order to pay his way through college.

Mrs. S. W. Allison

Following an illness extending over several months, Mrs. Mary E. Allison, widow of the late Samuel W. Allison, passed away at the family residence, at Dunbar, on Saturday morning, October 26th. Mr. Allison died almost three years ago.

Mrs. Allison was in her 82nd year, and was born at Dunbar, where she resided all her life. She was a quiet and unassuming nature with a beautiful christian character.

Surviving are three sons: A. W. Allison of Wawota, Saska; Aaron Allison, of Aylesburg, Sask; and Andrew, at home. One daughter, Edith died 10 years ago.

The funeral was conducted Monday afternoon from her late residence to Dunbar Lutheran Church, of which she was a member. Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, pastor of the church, conducted the service, taking as his text part of verse six, Isaiah, 64. By request Mrs. Jason Froats sang: "In the Upper Garden."

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Miles Marcellus, Chas. H. Marselis, Athaden Barkley, Robert Marcellus, George K. Casselman and John Carlyle.

Interment was made in the family plot at Williamsburg cemetery.

Mr. Fred Broder, Reeve of Morrisburg, was the speaker at this week's luncheon meeting of the Prescott Rotary Club when he gave an interesting talk on events leading to the settlement of Canada by the United Empire Loyalists.

A newly appointed colonel gave a dinner to his regiment. Addressing the men he said jovially: "Now fall upon the food without mercy. Treat it as though it were the enewy."

At the end of the dinner he noticed a sergeant sneaking away with two bottles of wine and asked him what he was doing.

"Obeying orders, Sir," was the reply. "When you don't kill the enemy you take them prisoners."

Morrisburg Y. P. Addressed

Last Monday evening Rev. Lacey, of Williamsburg, gave the Y. P. a very inspirational and educational address about religion. He dealt with its development and meaning from the dark ages to the present—fear—awe—reverence—love as found in Anomism, Fetishism, Totemism and modern christianity.

His last thought to us was that we follow the way of Christ to develop a good christian character and there'll be smoothness, harmony and unity instead of discord, interruption and sorrows, for Christ is the final revelation of God. Mrs. T. Allison sponsored this part.

The latter portion of the meeting was social, conducted by Mrs. Donald Casselman.

Our officers for ensuing year are. President, Ross MacLaren re-elected; Secretary, Alice Cameron; Treasurer, Mrs. Art Edgerton; Vice Presidents, 1st, Mrs. T. Allison; 2nd, Mrs. Don Casselman; 3rd, Mrs. MacKeen; 4th, Mrs. Payton; Pianist, Dallas Adams.
