

Here AND There

by Kay Kay

In case the person who wrote us (and forgot to sign) a letter a couple of weeks back thinks we have forgotten him, don't fret. We haven't.

It seems The Post called Iroquois Point, "Point Iroquois", a few weeks back and the writer took exception to this as a form of slander against the good old Point.

Now can you imagine anyone not being busy enough to overlook such small details. But then, we must admit, it's nice to know that whoever he is, he reads The Post. That's something in our favour, at least!

We're a complaining bunch of ingrates these days. First we have rain for about three days and everybody became an individual Gloomy Gus. Then it turned hot and we still weren't satisfied.

Some people just can't take cold, wet weather and others can't take hot weather. Tempers flare in either circumstance with some people . . . but not us. No siree, we've got a nice temper. (And no comments about just what level that temper flounders on).

The beach is being used extensively these days and nights and swimming and safety lessons will soon be starting. Most youngsters in the village and many from Matilda Township take advantage of this opportunity. We hope that again this year dozens more youngsters will take lessons. The more they know about water safety and learn the art of swimming, the more the chance that this area will come through the summer without a fatality.

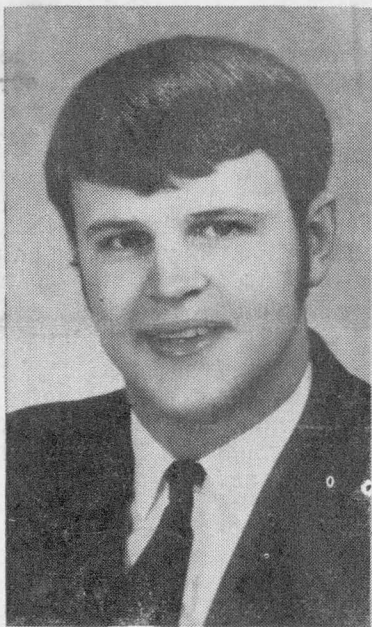

We understand many young people are swimming up at Fetterly's quarry. The quarry has nice cool water and is clean. One word of caution, however, might be passed along. It is not a place to be swimming alone and without someone in attendance qualified in water safety and able to effect a rescue if necessary.

Enjoy the water all you can . . . but play it safe.

Hugh Edgar, 24, Died at Toronto

Funeral services were held on Saturday, June 28th for Hugh Edgar, 24, a resident of Toronto, and former Iroquois resident, who died suddenly at his Toronto residence.

Hugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Edgar, town, had an asthmatic condition and died from an attack of this illness on June 24th. He died enroute to a Toronto hospital.

Born in Montreal in 1944 he had been educated in Valleyfield Quebec, Prescott and Iroquois.

After leaving school he was employed at Caldwell Linen Mills Ltd. here and in Toronto was employed by Consumers Glass.

Visiting in the village quite frequently, Hugh had made many friends in the community who sincerely regret his demise. Interested in sports, his main interests were bowling and hockey.

The remains rested at W. E. Fitzsimmons Funeral Home, Iroquois, until last Saturday when the funeral mass was performed by Father D.W. MacDonald at St. Cecilia's Roman Catholic Church. Burial took place at St. Mary's Cemetery, Morrisburg.

Pallbearers were: Phillip Tec-teau, Charles Stone, Guy Cro-teau, Bert Dishaw, Perry Robertson and Douglas Gallagher.

He is survived by his mother, father, brother Jim, and sisters Sandra, Colleen, Janice, Lorraine Brenda and Kathleen, besides many relatives in Montreal, Cornwall and Toronto.

Do You Know What It Is?

Seaway District Community Service this Spring sent letters out to many Church and Service groups in Dundas County requesting financial support for the summer camps that will operate at Dixon's Corners and Glen Becker this year. Clergy-men visited homes in the immediate vicinity of each of these areas to inform people of the camps and to gather suggestions about the running of the camps.

But one big question came up and again: What is Seaway District Community Service? There have been other articles in this newspaper about the organization and about particular projects it was carrying out. Obviously these have been insufficient. The question is still: What is Seaway District Community Service?

Seaway District Community Service, first of all, an organization whose membership is made up of people concerned about Dundas county—especially concerned about social, economic, health, welfare and education problems within the county. The organization has an executive: Mrs. Eric Steele, of Winchester Springs, is president, and Mrs. Gordon Ennis, of Winchester, is Secretary - treasurer. It meets usually once a month, except during the summer months, at the call of the President. The Morrisburg Ministerial Association has taken an active interest in the group.

What, then, does this organization do? It should be noted that it has been in existence (admittedly an existence unknown to many) since October 1967. Working with ARDA, the group has tried, and is continuing to try, to make available an Adult Education programme in Morrisburg. At present, one must go to either Cornwall or Prescott for such a programme, and this is impractical for many who otherwise might wish to enroll. As well, the organization is sponsoring the summer day camps at Dixon's Corners and Glen Becker. These camps are open to anyone (kindergarten to grade eight age) who is able to provide his or her own transportation to and from the camp site each day. The child need not attend regularly—the facilities and leaders will be there weekdays for three weeks at each location (July 7 to July 25 at Glen Becker, and August 4 to August 22 at Dixon's Corners). This is provided as a free service to the community. Seaway District Community Service also operates "the Dugout", the used-clothing store in the old Children's Aid office in the Morrisburg Plaza. This is a non-profit venture, and is open 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Peter Campbell directs the camp programme; Mrs. Miriam Colligan is in charge of the store. Speakers and films are used at some meetings as sources of information, and to stimulate discussions on the problems that exist within this country.

The organization now has a mailing address: P.O. Box 105, Williamsburg. If you would like further information about Seaway District Community Service, if you would like to be personally informed of its meetings, if you would like to share in the work it is doing, this is the way to contact the group. It can only grow and become involved in the larger community of Dundas county as its membership grows; it can only take on more projects and expand the present ones as it has more committed people working for it. Get involved!

New Theatre At Ingleside

Four area businessmen have undertaken a new venture which will add greatly to the business community, the tourist industry and to the convenience of local people. Colonial Drive-in Theatre at Ingleside opens next Wednesday night, July 9th, to bring outdoor movie entertainment almost on our doorstep.

The four men involved in the business are Gary Strader and Harry Gattward, Morrisburg; Dr. Charles Miller, Cornwall, and Wm. Rutley, Ingleside.

The theatre is located just opposite the entrance to Long Saul Parkway Ingleside, on the north side of No. 2 Highway.

Built to accommodate 300 cars, the theatre has the latest in sound equipment and an 82'x35' screen. Equipment also includes a Philips Super 7 for 36 percent more light projection on the screen.

Bob Hope is featured in the first show, "The Private Navy of Sgt. O'Farrell", along with a second movie, "Billion Dollar Brain". Area businessmen offer their congratulations and best wishes to the owners of this newest business in the district.

The bride was lovely in a floor length gown of brocaded satin made with a fitted bodice and long sleeves. With a floor-length train of matching satin. She wore a veil of chiffon and lace.

She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

The bridesmaid was Miss Sandra Edgar, friend of the bride who wore a street length dress of buttercup yellow. She carried a nosegay bouquet of yellow baby mums and white shasta daisies.

Chris Ono, friend of the groom from Toronto was best man.

Young Patrick Van Hynning, Canton, N.Y., nephew of the bride was ring bearer.

Following the wedding ceremony at the church, the bride and groom also had the service of Holy Communion. An afternoon lunch and reception was held on the lawn of the groom's parents.

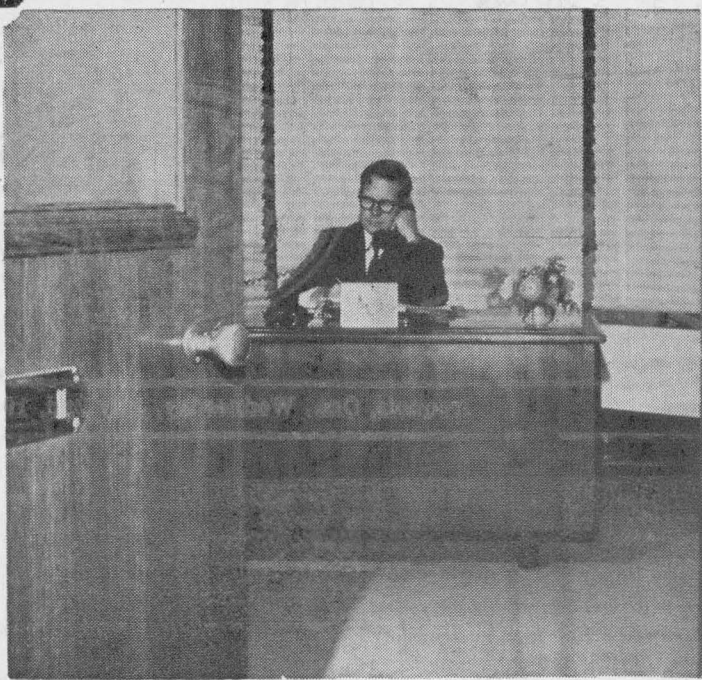

The bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to Toronto and Kitchener. On their return they will take up residence in Brockville.

Guests were present from Prescott, Cardinal, Brockville, Iroquois, Canton, N.Y., Parry Sound, Toronto and Montreal.

GORDON BLAIR, M.P., REPORTS

Room 532c, Centre Block Parliament Buildings,
Ottawa, Ontario, 992-0511

BASIC PROBLEM

"Too little time and too much talk" are the basic problems of Parliament. The scandal of Parliament today is that it has not been able to tackle all the important problems it should. As the session ends, 12 major laws cannot be enacted; almost as many more are ready for presentation but not introduced; in the wings are a large number of other important matters awaiting legislation.

NEED FOR REFORM

Parliament is strangled by ancient rules and traditions; but above all by long boring repetitious and frequently irrelevant speeches. When reforms are proposed, the cry of "Closure" is raised. But the real "Closure" is "Closure by talk" which prevents Parliament from introducing new laws, modernizing old ones and dealing effectively with the myriad problems of modern society.

TIME PLANNING AND MANAGEMENT REQUIRED

Clearly, Parliament must plan its work and manage its time better if it is to do its job and not look ridiculous to the people. Last week I was struck by the incongruity of its proceedings. After all the talk and votes we have had on trivial matters the final estimates of almost $6,000,000,000 were passed in about five minutes without even a recorded vote. Nevertheless, for the first time in living memory, as a result of the procedure changes made last December, all our expenditures have been approved before the money is spent and the estimates themselves have been scrutinized more carefully in committee than ever before in our history.

PERSONAL CONTACT WITH CONSTITUENTS

The last task of this session will be to have another try at enacting sensible rules for planning and scheduling business. My Procedure Committee's final report is under debate now when Members should be back in their ridings seeing their constituents. This is not a "holiday" but a necessity. I have always been critical of the "hot house" atmosphere of Parliament — Members of all parties get tied up in its affairs. Unless they can get out to see their constituents they become remote and out of touch with the voters' real problems.

ALLOCATION — TIME OF DEBATE

Two of our proposals are generally supported. First, if all party leaders agree, a timetable can be established for any bill. This will control "mavericks" who time and again in this session have ignored the voluntary timetable agreed to by all party leaders and grievously prolonged debates. Second, if three out of the four parties agree on a rule, the filibuster by the Creditists on the Criminal Code Bill which took up more than a month of Parliamentary time could have been reduced to a reasonably timed debate.

RECOMMENDED FINAL RESOURCE

It is expected that good sense and party agreement will govern most debates. But, occasions will arise when the parties cannot agree on a timetable. Therefore, our Committee, substantially following the practice of the British House of Commons, has recommended a third procedure for limiting debates on separate stages of separate bills. Minimum times are greater than in the United Kingdom with the result that if the new procedure was applied to all stages of a bill, at least 10 days could be required for its passage. In any important matter, it could and would obviously take much longer. Although Canadians are frustrated frequently by the queer antics of their Parliamentarians they are equally jealous of their rights. Any government that would dare arbitrarily and prematurely to foreclose debate on a vital issue, would risk its life and reputation.

I am always behind like the dog's tail but I would like to say "Knab! Uoy" to Ken and his staff for printing the write ups about Badminton and Lawn Bowling which I have written in the past year.

ATTENDANCE UP AT UPPER CANADA VILLAGE, OLD FORT HENRY AND PARKS

All Commission sites are enjoying a good year. As of June 25th, attendance at Upper Canada Village was 64,251 compared to 52,625 in 1968, and to 64,254 in Centennial Year when total attendance exceeded 350,000 people.

At Old Fort Henry 30,103 visitors have been recorded, up 7,000 from the same date a year ago. Although the weather hasn't been too co-operative, Commission parks are well above last year, 355,348 persons compared to 304,368. Commission camps grounds appear to be headed for a busy season and already 1200 more camper groups have been recorded than for the same period a year ago. With fair weather, it promises to be a busy season along the Front.

Just a reminder — the greens and fairways of the Upper Canada Golf Course are in great shape!

Canada is an Adolescent

Well, give or take a day or two, and Canada is 102 years old. A man of that age is an ancient, either wise or senile, dignified or drooling. A country of that age is just a pup. Question: Is Canada senile and drooling, at the age of a pup? Some think so. I don't.

More than anything, our country is an adolescent. It has all the best and worst features of that peculiar breed.

It is easily fired to jealousy, self-doubting, suspicious, lacking in self-confidence, shy one minute and bold as brass the next, opinionated without knowing much, conformist and rebellious, anxious for approval and deeply wounded when it is not understood, idealistic and materialistic. In short, a typical teenager, all mixed up. Tremendous potential, but no clear idea of where it is going.

Older brother, who used to seem content to work the farm and go to church has gone all weird. He gets sore now when you call him the old nicknames like Peasoup or Froggy. He demands a voice in management of the farm and threatens to leave and set up on his own, if he doesn't get it.

It's probably because he has fallen in with bad company — a gang interested in bombs and folk-singing and poetry and freedom and all that sort of disturbing stuff.

Little brother, who used to be content to sit in his playpen and feed on scraps, and be happy if in a while, has also become belligerent.

Instead of smiling when you give him a morsel, he has taken to blowing on his Kahn-Tineta Horn and rattling the bars of his cage — uh, playpen and scowling and hollering "Discrimination!" if he doesn't get a share of the goodies — right now.

Second cousins out west, up to their ears in wheat and oil and $1.69 steaks, are also deeply and vocally resentful because Gramma told their fathers, "Go West, young punks, go West." They feel that they should still get a cut of the old family farm's income, back East.

Down East, Uncle Hiram is fed up with fishing and rum, and is sending his sons and daughters to visit, permanently, as soon as they are old enough.

Even up North, those ex-Siberian cousins who were here first, are beginning to bellow instead of grin happily. Not content with having ruined the sleigh-dog industry, they want jam on their blubber.

Right in the heart of the country, Uncle Charlie, smooth and debonair as ever, is patting every one on the back with one hand and lifting his wallet with the other.

In Ottawa, Daddy, who has taken to wearing his hair in a peculiar way and being photographed with striking young ladies, is saying things, as he always did, which sound very profound, until you try to remember what he said.

No wonder Canada is an adolescent: up - tight, bewildered, belligerent. He's beginning to feel as though he comes from a broken home. And he feels pretty rotten when he thinks of the good old days when the family was one big happy family.

West, glad for his cousins out fish and poultry. He's leery of his older brother, who's become so hard to get along with. He's sorry for his Uncle Hiram's kids, but wishes there weren't so many of them coming to visit.

He wishes the kid brother in the playpen would stop rattling the bars and climb out and help feed the chickens. And that Uncle Charlie wasn't so slick, and that Daddy, up in Ottawa, would stop giving him an allowance and then borrowing most of it back, without interest.

Perhaps most of all, he wishes Uncle Sam would stop being so avuncular and at the same time belligerent. Sometimes, he wishes he still had a Momma.

Today, it's tough to be an adolescent.

How About A Little Cooperation From Department of Highways?

The unexpected closing of the overpass on Carman Road last week caught a number of people napping and late for work. But this was just the beginning of the problems.

Closed because repairs had to be made to the overpass, the highway has deprived business people in the community from the start of tourist traffic. A fair amount of business comes in off 401 highway, especially to the service stations, garages, and motels and restaurants. Just why this work couldn't have been done prior to the start of the tourist season and school closing is a question which we aren't likely to get an answer to.

But that's the way it goes!

In The Good Old Summer Time

Time to slip home after work, grab the bathing suit and head for the beach. School is out for the summer and the youngsters will be making every effort to get into the swim of things. And we don't blame them.

Thinking back a fair number of years it wasn't hard to recall those hot summer days when we headed for a favorite swimming hole, along a mud stream, or out to the quarry and flourished in all that splendid cool water for an afternoon. It refreshed the body as well as the mind, especially those first few days after school closing. Things haven't changed that much and we're sure present day youngsters will have the same feeling when they take their first dips into the river. The only difference here is that the St. Lawrence is a darned cold river at any time, compared to other streams in the country. But that makes swimming in it all that more pleasant and refreshing.

Today's young people have the advantage of swimming lessons on an organized basis where they can really learn to swim and how to save others. In our day, you felt fortunate in having a place to swim where you weren't bothered by adults and the only organizing it took was to yell "let's go swimming!"

The boys and girls of that day each had their own time to swim, without any planning on anyone's part. With the shortage of bathing suits in the community, it's just as well.

Many a farm boy cleaned off the day's grime with a bar of harsh soap out at the quarry and with unruly hair blowing in the night breeze headed for town for a couple of hours sitting around the hangout. Those were the good old summer days . . . and still are.

and practise water safety every day!"

HURRY UP and RELAX

Highways, superhighways, turnpikes, freeways, expressways—they crisscross America, leading in every imaginable direction. And, they get you there so fast, you are past the right exit before you know it. We live in such a speed-oriented world that, when we are not working, we feel we must "hurry up and relax." At times we even feel guilty when we are not busy about something.

We don't really like our foolish pace. We speak longingly of peace of mind and quietude, and we take tranquilizers by the ton. We search frantically . . . on vacations, on "lost weekends," on "fun activities" . . . but tranquility is hard to find.

Perhaps we are seeking too hard. Perhaps tranquility is not to be sought. Rather, isn't it what happens when you are at peace with yourself, no matter the circumstances?

You can be at peace with yourself only when you are at peace with God. He is the very center of your being, and His peace is freely given when you accept it.

Accept this great gift of God in the very best place of all — His Church.

"Radio drama isn't play acting; it's re-living people." That's been the credo of CBC radio drama supervisor, Esse W. Ljungh since the mid '30s when he began his acting-producing career with the Corporation. Since then, the Swedish-born man for all theatre has produced hundreds of plays for the Stage series, CBC Tuesday Night, television, as well as school broadcasts and opera. He has won many awards and honors for the CBC; his contribution to Canadian radio drama and his encouragement of Canadian talent is immeasurable. This August, when he will be 65, Ljungh retires from the CBC. But his heavy schedule is as crowded as ever... he's off to Europe for special projects on behalf of the CBC, this summer he'll be teaching at the Banff School of Fine Arts, and come fall his itinerary includes visits to many universities where he'll continue to give of his boundless theatrical experience.

Lands & Forests Report

SYMPTOMS OF THE DUTCH ELM DISEASE NOW VISIBLE

The first external symptom of the Dutch elm disease is a rapid wilting and curling of the leaves on one or more of the limbs in the upper crown. This wilting is quickly followed by a discoloration of the leaves on the affected branches to yellow or brown.

These symptoms are now visible on infected trees. Commencing now for a period of approximately one month, these symptoms afford the best opportunity for positive field identification of the disease. Property owners with elm trees should look for these symptoms which are easily spotted this time of year.

All native elm species are susceptible to the disease. The disease is spread by elm bark beetles and through root grafts of elms growing in close proximity.

Other native species of trees are not susceptible. There is no cure for the disease. Diseased trees should be harvested or destroyed.

Elms of all ages may be killed by the disease. The younger trees may die in a single season while older trees may not die for four or five years after initial infection.

Woodlot owners with infected elm stands should offer the timber for sale. Completely dead trees are not saleable. The sapwood becomes punky soon after the death of the tree. The larger forest elm trees are saleable to sawlog and veneer log buyers while smaller trees and limb wood may be sold for pulpwood and boltwood.

Further information regarding the Dutch elm disease may be obtained from your local office of the Department of Lands and Forests.

Farmers!

Having finally received permission for second class mailing privileges from the Post Office Department, Ottawa, "The Dundas County Farmer" is out looking for subscribers.

In co-operation with "The Farmers Union" subscriptions may be purchased through any member of that organization in Dundas County.

The Farmers Union must have money to operate, just as we, the publishers, must have money to keep the farm paper active. This newspaper could become an active voice for the farmer if he but took the advantage of using its columns.

In the past we have tried to give as much space as we could to various areas of the farm community — and will continue to do so. Your subscription NOW will assure a continuance of this paper.

Pictures of activities in the farm community of Dundas are run free of charge. All reports of farming-news are welcome, as are stories of an historic nature about Dundas. A history of your family may become a feature some month if you send it along. We would like to serve you and with your cooperation, we will.

Your subscription will cost $1.50 per year. With each paid up subscription, "The Farmers Union" will receive a commission. The money they raise will be plowed back into helping improve the lot of the farmer in Dundas. In a sense, your subscription is an investment in improving your own status, as well as helping us continue with "The Dundas County Farmer".

We look forward to having you as a subscriber, and of serving you in the years ahead.

As we have said in the past, "As the farm community goes, so too does the rest of the country".

First of 10 CL-215 water bombers, built by Canadair in Montreal for service with the "Protection Civile" of the French Government, is shown landing at Marignane Air Base, Marseille, after the long overwater flight from Canada. It is now in service with the "Protection Civile" where it will combat forest fires in the heavily wooded areas of Southern France.

Machinery Import Program

The farm machinery importation program of The Ontario Federation of Agriculture has proven so successful that a company has been formed to continue the operation. All shares in the Ontario Farm Machinery Agency Limited will be owned by the Federation.

The first meeting of the Board of Directors was held in Toronto Thursday. The company is headed by A. Roy Coulter, a member of the OFA executive. Vice-president is Frank Wall, another OFA executive member. Ray Hergott, OFA Manager, will act as Treasurer while David Crone, Director of Marketing and Research, will be the Secretary.

The first business handled by the board was correspondence from numerous international companies wishing to put their new and used equipment on the Ontario market through the continuing Federation program.

Roy Coulter announced that customers in the future will be encouraged to take standard models in their orders. He explained that this will make delivery quicker.

The new company replaces the former OFA Farm Machinery Importation Committee. To date more than 140 pieces of farm machinery have been imported for Ontario farmers from Britain by the Federation and its affiliates.

The program was initiated to illustrate inflated mark-ups in machinery prices. This was almost one year ago.

Dear Sir:
I'm in the market for a new car. Can you give me some advice before I put a lot of money on this purchase?

Mr. M.W.
Thanks for the letter, Mr. W. I've been looking for an opportunity to talk about buying a new car. Next to your home and education, it's the single most expensive purchase you will make.

Yet, you'd be surprised how many people go about buying a car as if it were not a major item . . . or at least it would seem so. Not from a financial point of view but from a planning point of view. If you fail to select your next car with care, you may end up with something much more than you need . . . and pay a lot more than you can afford, too.

With an almost endless array of types, styles and models on the market today, it's a difficult decision to make. That's why it's important that you do some home work before you visit the dealer's showroom or lot. Like shopping at the supermarket . . . know what you want and need . . . before you get there.

Much of this research can be done by reading. Watch the advertising in the local paper. Read automobile magazines particularly those which compare like models of different manufacturers. Talk to people at work or in the neighborhood who have just purchased the kind of car you think you want. But always keep in mind that the idea is to get the most for your automobile dollar.

There are four major points to consider when you shop for that next car — (1) size, (2) make, (3) model and (4) accessories.

When you consider size, don't forget to consider the size of your family now and in the near future. Perhaps a standard model would be more ideal, unless you really want to economize. Then get a compact or an import. They cost less to buy and less to run but are not quite as comfortable as a standard-sized model.

If your family is young . . . and you don't want to go the station wagon route yet, the best deal by far, for safety's sake, is a two-door sedan. Avoid the hardtops and the very, very sporty jobs. They're fun to drive but aren't very practical for a growing family.

The make is really up to you. You may have a certain loyalty to a particular make, but don't let it sway you into making the wrong decision. If you can't get what you really want from one make, the chances are you can find it in another make. Don't be so loyal that it will cost you unnecessarily.

When it comes to accessories or options, there are two that I would personally recommend. Automatic transmission and eight cylinders. The automatic for stop and go city driving. The eight cylinders for long-distance and freeway driving. If you live in a hot, humid climate, number 3 on my option list would be an air conditioner.

Don't let yourself get carried away, though. You can blow an extra $1,000 on options and extras. Be patient. If the dealer hasn't got the exact car you want, let him order it for you.

(For more information about new car buying and how to make big savings from a used car, write Mr. Martin for a free copy of the smart automobile buyer's guide.)

Presbytery Met At Brockville

On June 11th, the Presbytery of Brockville of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met in the Church of St. Andrew's and St. James at 10:00 a.m. for a regular meeting. Reports were received from the Commissioners to the 95th General Assembly after which the routine business of Presbytery was transacted.

At 8:00 p.m. a special Induction Service was held at which time the Rev. D. Leslie Elder, formerly of Toronto, was inducted as minister of St. Andrews and St. James in Cardinal. The Moderator of Presbytery presided over this service. The Rev. T. H. Boyd, Clerk of Presbytery gave the Narration of the Steps and presented Mr. Elder for Induction. Prayer was offered by the Rev. J.H. Greene. The sermon was preached by the Rev. MacLarnon and the charge to the minister and congregation was given by the Rev. L. R. Renault.

At the conclusion of this very impressive service, refreshments were provided by the ladies of the church during a time of informal fellowship in the Church Hall. Representatives were present from many of the churches of Cardinal and words of greeting were given to Mr. Elder by these people as well as from the Clerk of Session, Chairman of the Board of Managers and a spokesman for the combined ladies and Uniform groups of the church. This pleasant day was brought to a close with the Benediction given by Mr. Elder.

Canadian Costume To The Walled City

Every year in June, in the picturesque walled city of Evora in Portugal, is held a procession of the costumes representing many countries which have been given to their Museum of World Costume and are on display there the rest of the year.

When the Canadian Consul in Lisbon was asked if Canada would contribute a costume, the Cultural Division of the Department of External Affairs evidently decided against the RCMP uniform which has represented Canada so long that most of the world must think all Canadians are Mounties. Instead, they asked Upper Canada Village to provide a costume to represent an early period in our history.

We chose for this purpose to make a woman's costume of the 1830's because this was an exciting period of expansion and political upheavals in which the character of present-day Ontario was taking shape. To quote from Susanna Moodie's "Roughing It in the Bush":

"In 1830 the great tide of emigration flowed westward. Canada became the great landmark of the rich in hope and the poor in purse. Public newspapers and private letters teemed with unheard-of advantages to be derived from a settlement in this highly favoured region—A Canada mania pervaded the middle ranks of British society; thousands, and tens of thousands for the space of three or four years landed upon these shores".

It is from such books as this and "Life in the Clearings" by the same author, from the "Female Emigrant's Guide" by her sister, Mrs. Trill, from "A Gentlewoman in Upper Canada" by Ann Langton, and a very few other writings which give the woman's viewpoint on the life of these immigrants of the 1830's that our rather meagre knowledge of home life in pioneer days is derived.

Their struggles to maintain genteel standards in the face of frontier conditions often seem pathetic or laughable. Yet they were as important as their loyalty to the Crown in forming the solid backbone of British tradition which is characteristic of Ontario.

This standard of gentility is typified by their belief that one must always present a respectable, lady-like appearance in company, even when the difficulty of keeping "household help" forced them to undertake work which would have been unthinkable for anyone but a servant in their former homes.

The universal feminine interest in fashion is hard to quench. Even when the eagerly anticipated word of what they are wearing in a letter or journal from abroad meant that hard-earned leisure hours were spent sewing by the flickering light of a candle to bring a bonnet up-to-date, or to alter a calico gown to conform with silken ones worn in London, their only regret was in not having more occasions to show it off!

The calico gown of the 1830's which will be representing Canada in Portugal might have been worn to one of the infrequent dances held in a ballroom such as that in Michael Cook's Tavern at Upper Canada Village. It was adapted from a Paris model in the "Woman's Journal" of 1833, now in the Village library. The gold coloured print is similar to originals preserved in many a patchwork quilt in the Village collection. The trimming is of dark wine red, which is repeated in the velvet roses which adorn the elaborate lace and ribbon trimmed bonnet. The costume is completed by an embroidered net pelerine, ruffled petticoat, white cotton gloves and stockings, and ankle laced slippers suitable to dancing a reel at a "Bachelor's Ball".

Ontario House Closes Shop Until September 30th

This issue of your local paper brings the last of these reports for the winter and spring sitting of the Second Session of Ontario's 28th Parliament. The House adjourned for its summer recess on Friday last, June 27th, and will resume again on Tuesday, September 30th.

FRED CASS, Q.C., M.P.P.

Party's view that implementation of the operation of this new regional municipality should be deferred a year. So far as The Police Act debate was concerned, it centred around Opposition efforts to prevent senior police officers from forming their own separate bargaining units and to prevent control of use of weapons by police being vested in the Ontario Police Commission rather than in the Attorney-General. An amendment introduced by the Government, however, made actions of the Ontario Police Commission with respect to weapons subject to the Attorney-General and so appeared opponents of the Bill as introduced.

On Friday, Royal Assent was given to 17 more Bills making a grand total for the present Session to date of 139 indicating not only a great deal of work by Members and Officials of the Assembly but also a great many more laws for observance by all of us in this great Province.

And so for the first time, the Ontario Legislative Assembly has recess over the summer months leaving much legislation on the Order Paper and estimates of a dozen Departments of Government yet to be considered when the House resumes in the fall. At such time through the continued co-operation and courtesy of your Editor, I would hope again to bring you weekly reports.

TODAY'S CHILD

This bright-eyed, alert little fellow is Hendrick, seven months old, born to an Anglo-Saxon mother and a part-Negro father. As you see, he is a very good-looking boy with big blue eyes, silky brown hair and a light tan complexion. He is usually quite sober when meeting strangers but on closer acquaintance reveals a delightful grin, accompanied by loud squeals and an infectious chuckle. Hendrick sleeps soundly and has a good appetite, as you'd guess from his well-nourished look. Initially he was a colicky infant, but is now healthy, relaxed and contented, a delightful member of a household. This happy baby needs parents who will appreciate his heritage and will provide a loving, stimulating home. To inquire about adopting Hendrick please write to Today's Child, Department of Social and Family Services, Parliament Buildings, Toronto 182. For general information about adoption ask your local Children's Aid Society.
