EDUCATION WEEK AT ST. MARY'S

Three children from St. Mary's School, Morrisburg: Laurie St. Denis, grade 2, Riverside Heights, Lisa Laury, grade 2, Iroquois, and Michael Harrington, grade 3, Williamsburg have their hair cut and styled by Mr. and Mrs. "Beaver" Laurin during Education Week at the school. The children enjoyed receiving tips on hair styling and care.

Education is key to the future

Across Ontario, this past week, educators have endeavoured to more fully develop and stress the concept of human values.

At St. Mary's School, the children had a varied program involving people from the community and their life's work. The objectives set for this program were to develop a greater appreciation of people through their work; involvement of community and school; the fact that education extends far beyond the textbook cover.

Some of the people visiting the school were Mrs. Gail van Noy, who displayed her nursing equipment; care of the hair and cut and style for a boy and girl done by Mr. & Mrs. "Beaver" Laurin proved extremely interesting; Mr. Ted Van Moorsel explained his work as an oil representative, and the children had a detailed look at the oil truck; Mrs. Rita Bray took the children on an imaginary trip to Disneyland and the Cypress Gardens through a series of slides; bricks, mortar and cement were shown by Mr. Jack Van Hoof at a construction site; Mrs. Winnifred Allison baked bread with the children, and all enjoyed its taste before going home.

A variety of activities followed such as creative drama, construction of model buildings, the history of oil and its cost, and different aspects of health.

It proved to be a truly 'educational' week - interesting and informative with many values being developed.

New Fedora Gift

Principal of Seaway District High School, A.J. Bray, is sporting a brand new fedora these days, compliments of the students from Seaway who enjoyed a two week's European trip. The hat was purchased in Austria. Accompanying the 40 students were Mr. Murray Shane and Miss Marlene Hamilton of Seaway staff and Mrs. Wayne Johnston, wife of a staff member.

OUR ERROR

In last week's Post we noted that Miss Ann Summers had been fourth runnerup in the Miss Eastern Ontario Beauty contest held recently at Perth. Miss Rene Barnhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Barnhardt Sr., who won the Miss Iroquois Contest earlier represented Iroquois at the Miss Eastern Ontario event. Miss Summers was runner-up at the Iroquois contest.

The Post regrets any misconception formed from the story in last week's paper.

Craft House Open House A "Whopper"

Approximately 1200 people attended the Open House at Craft House, Iroquois Shopping Plaza the past weekend. Demonstrations of glassblowing, rughooking, spinning, weaving, macrame, woodcarving, chair caning, flower arranging and last but not least, painting captured the attention of both local visitors and guests from Ottawa, Brockville and northern New York State. Miss Audrey Spencer of Port Dover, who started Craft House in what is now the Carman House Museum, was present and demonstrating craftsmen and artists present were John McDiarmid,

E. Kristof, E. Barr, W. Heuvel, Mr. & Mrs. L. Quick, Mrs. M. Casselman, Tom Hannah, Jean Boyle, Mrs. Bush, Thelma Cameron. In addition, Charles Roberts and Bob Parks displayed a fascinating array of bottles.

Special displays arranged by R. Martin, proprietor of Craft House, included photo displays by George Smith and Keith Fisher, Eskimo art and paintings of the old Iroquois on loan from Iroquois Civic Centre. All of these will still be on display until April 16th. It is hoped to have another group of craftsmen at Craft House the first week in July.

Bob Simpson talks to Lions and sons

With a record attendance of seventy-two, a father and son banquet took place Monday evening at the Civic Centre, sponsored by the Lions Club of Iroquois. The hostess group were the ladies of St. John's Anglican Church.

Ex-Rough Rider Bob Simpson was the speaker and in his first few words layed it on the young people that it is hard work and perseverance that equips the man, whether it is for a career in sports, business at school or in a service club. "They are professional, because they work at their job." Natural ability is basic to any good sportsman, and it is the consistent hard work that brings him distinction as a professional.

Interesting statistics about the Ottawa Rough Riders include these facts: only two out of the thirty have not gone to college; twenty-three of the thirty do not smoke; there are 17 Americans and 18 Canadians on the Rough Rider roster. One of the best reasons that Canadians lag behind the Americans in football is the lack of coaches. A number of American teams have as many as ten coaches for one team. In Canada, Queen's has only one coach, McMaster has two coaches, Toronto has two coaches. Special training produces specialist skills.

In answer to a question about salary, Bob Simpson pointed out that it partly depends on the man's position in the game, and partly on his skill. A line-man's job and pay differs from that of an end, or a backfielder. But it is also important to pay the team within some closely knit ratio of salaries in order to maintain team spirit and

Hard To Get Enthused

Right from the start of Canadian participation as a peacekeeper in Vietnam it was hard to get enthused and now that we realize just how futile our efforts are, we are again taking a hard look at the situation.

All Canadians are bothered by our entry into a seemingly useless exercise and even when we feel we have a duty to perform in the world we must temper our enthusiasm with common sense.

Just what sense there is in being in that country is difficult to pinpoint, other than being able to say "well, someone has to do it".

Mitchell Sharp and P. E. Trudeau may yet be hard pressed in their decision as to what should or must be done in regards our troops. But for the life of me it just isn't in me to say "leave them there".

After watching the Americans floundering around for years before they withdrew in frustration and a bit of humiliation (no matter what catch phrases we've heard used) why we Canadians should feel compelled to offer our men as sacrifices must be something down deep in us that stirs men into martyrs.

This writer feels our Canadian people are better off at home...both for their own personal safety and because we can't see loss of life as a worthwhile sacrifice in such a situation as Vietnam now finds itself.

Peace with honour...what price peace?

Where Did Spring Go?

With shovels carefully put away and grass turning green, a few flowers peeping through, who in the world wanted this snowfall on Tuesday. Not that we can't expect these things to happen periodically...but somehow it wasn't appropriate this year after those fine days that heralded Spring.

So out came a few shovels (others waited for the thaw) and it was a repetition of by-gone Winter days.

Here's for Spring tomorrow!

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Sir:

Our hospital has again been asked by the Canadian Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service to organize an area Blood Donor Clinic, and this will be held in the Main Conference Room of the hospital on Monday, April 16th from 2:30 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

The Women's Hospital Auxiliary will be assisting us by canvassing for donors and helping in the hospital on the day of the clinic, under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Lancaster.

The Blood Transfusion Service was established to ensure that blood would be available free of charge to hospital patients who needed it. Before the free service was established, patients had to pay for the blood they needed or had to replace it on a two for one basis. During the past 12 months, 281 bottles of blood were used in the treatment of the sick at this hospital.

A successful clinic will help us to continue to provide the best possible patient care to the residents of our area and your support will be greatly appreciated.

With kind regards,

H. P. Stel,

Chairman, Blood Donor Committee.

THEY THINK BILL'S A RICH TOURIST

by Bill Smiley

Any day now it will be cheaper to fly to Europe and back than it is to spend a couple of days in the city.

Air fares are coming down as rapidly as city prices are taking off. This was borne home to me, as they say, during a recent brief visit to the Big Smoke. And I don't mean New York. Just an ordinary Canadian city in the true north, strong but far from free.

Our relatives always kindly invite us to stay with them, but we visit the bright lights so seldom that we throw caution to the wind, let ourselves go deliberately decadent, and plunge for the hotel room and all the extras.

It used to be grand feeling: checking in at the hotel just like the rich people; tossing the bell hop half a dollar as though you did it every day; walking into the luxurious room and turning up the heat and to hell with the fuel bill; picking up the phone to call room service; and loftily asking the Old Lady, "Wonder what the poor people are doing today?"

But that semi-annual plunge is no longer into a warm bath of unaccustomed luxury and service. It's more like a dive off the town dock just after the ice has gone out of the bay. Not refreshing; just numbing.

Things have changed. Now there's a car jockey to park your car. He can open the door with one hand and hold out the other like a professional beggar in Calcutta.

Next is the doorman. If you have one small bag, he's right there, taking it from you with one hand, and holding out the other. If you have four heavy bags, he's busy whistling up a cab for a blonde.

You totter across the

capacious lobby, and the bellhop relieves you of your bags just before you collapse in front of the desk.

There's one thing that hasn't changed: the room clerk. He's as snotty as he was 20 years ago in every city and every country. You'd think he owned the place as he looks down his nose at your overcoat with the frayed cuffs and your big rubber boots which you wore from the country.

And beware the poor innocent who doesn't have a reservation. He is the dessert for the meal of this particular type of hyena.

Some day, when I am old enough and crotchety enough, and I haven't had any kicks for a long time, and I've driven a hundred miles, and a room clerk smirks at me, "Sorry, we haven't a thing," I'm going to pull a gun and shoot him right between his cold, mean little eyes. And I think a good lawyer, with an understanding jury, would get me off scot free.

Next in the gauntlet is the bellboy. He doesn't lug your bags and sweat any more. He slings them onto a cart. Don't hand him, with a flourish, the old-time half-dollar. He's liable to hand it back, with a bigger flourish, and snarl, "Here, Mac, I think you need it more than I do."

And he's probably right. He's no "boy." He's 38 years old and he owns three duplexes.

Well, anyway, you've made it to the room. But before you flop on the bed, don't check the room rates on the back of the door or you won't flop, you'll swoon.

Holy Old Nelly! You must be in the wrong room, or they've given you the Trudeau suite. Shake your head, look around the room, make sure that lady isn't Margaret. Same old room you swear you paid $18.00 for last time. Same woman, and the price tag is $30.00.

This is not the time to say, "Oh, well. In for a penny, in for a pound." You know what happened to the pound. Your dollar is suffering the same shrinking sensations.

Dazedly, you call room service, order some ice, and if you're smart, you'll tell them you don't want it transported by air from the Winter Palace in St. Petersburg, (U.S.S.R.) even though it will take as long and cost as much.

Don't order any glasses. They'll cost you more than a new pair at your favourite optometrist's. Drink out of your hands, as you did when you were a boy.

If your wife has a yen for something sweet when you get back from the theatre or whatever, don't call room service and order French pastry and coffee. Two sad little pieces of stale Christmas cake or something and a jug of coffee will set you back four bucks, plus tip. Take a chocolate bar with you instead.

Don't go to the theatre in the first place. We took our daughter and her husband to

IN THE DOGHOUSE

I'M IN THE DOGHOUSE NOW
(Taken from Editorial of the Brockville Recorder and Times)
Dear Sir:
I know your paper doesn't encourage contributions of "poetry" but you have commented from time to time editorially about the subject and hence this offering about a topic that is becoming an increasing problem.
The other day my neighbour's dog
Stood, squatting on my lawn.
Before I could cut short his job
The little beast had gone.
Now this was not the first offence,
Ten thousand - if I'm right?
Ten thousand brownish pyramids,
This four-legged sewer pipe.
With cunning, he will nose about,
A super judge - you bet,
He'll do his job like all get out,
He knows it's where I'll step.
I've thought a million ways to stop
This Sausage-making creep.
No matter what I do or try
I've got it on my feet.
Now here and there and all about
I've hidden sticks and stones;
To catch this monster in the act,

And hear his anguished groans.
Too clever is this little sieve,
He'll do it on the run
And leave me standing like a fool
His stomach's like a gun.
But on this day I had him cold.
His master was away.
I'd waited days and weeks and months,
Just for - this very day.
I grabbed my hidden sticks and stones,
And crept across the grass.
The scurvy little beast turned around
And bit me on the - ass.
I threw the stones and tossed the sticks
Then had a devilish thought.
I shovelled up his latest gob,
And threw it on his lot.
It landed square where I had aimed.
Right on my neighbour's drive.
But lo, behold I'd failed to note
My neighbour's car arrive.
I knew my neighbour'd seen the show.
Red-faced I did retreat;
My tongue got twisted in a knot,
My neighbour didn't speak.
I told my wife what I had done.
She raved like all get out
And flew into a torrid rage
She threatened to move out.
The moral of this nightmare is act,

Mission '73 Final

Tonight at 8:00 p.m. at Seaway District High School, Mission '73 presents the concluding evening of a four part series entitled "The Church beyond the Walls". The theme tonight is economics.
Our guests are Mrs. Claire Gwynn of Algonquin College and Mr. Allen of Carleton College, Economics Department. Councillor Jim Styles will be on hand to welcome our speakers, and since the topic of economics has high priority these days, there should be a good number interested to hear our resource people.
Attendance at Mission '73 has been 36, 35 and 25 people, respectively on each of the three Wednesdays. The speakers to date, Dr. Allen of Cardinal, Mr. Carleton McInnis of Morrisburg and Dr. Fisher of Kemptville have made remarkably good presentations and we promise that this evening's theme will be of the same high calibre. The place is Seaway High and the time is 8 p.m.

You surely can derive I've died a thousand deaths to date
I doubt if I'll survive.
So, if your neighbour has a dog Just let him do his bit.
But keep a spade or shovel near,
To clean his gobs of s--t.

The Knack of Sewing With Knits

Two carloads of Iroquois sewing women and guests represented the local Women's Institute in Chesterville recently at Summery day. A display of garments ranging from lingerie to caps (and everything in between) was set out on tables. Shown also was a rug made from scraps.

Modelling their garments were Arlene Eckford, Audrey Moke, Vi Hare, Nelda Brown, Mary Falshaw and Lena Elliot, with Gwen Parmeter doing the commentary. Street length one and 2 piece dresses, floor length gowns and skirts, pant suits, children's clothing, including a lamb trimmed girl's coat, toddlers' things and swim wear were among the many items made and shown by representatives from 11 groups in Dundas County.

Miss L. Holding, County Home Economist, introduced Chairman for the evening, Mrs. H. Allison of Chesterville, who introduced each of the groups, whose commentator reported on the activities and accomplishments of her group, introducing each model and outfit.

Mrs. M. Mulligan, clothing specialist from Toronto, spoke well of the results and mentioned a tailoring course now available.

Many new sewers were developed in this past winter's sewing classes and have become dedicated seamstresses, having discovered how much more one can acquire both in quantity and individuality for today's well stretched dollar.

The Iroquois class had a great winter, meeting Thurs. mornings at the "Drop-in Centre" staying for "Open House Lunch" served by Iroquois W. I. and sewing on into the afternoon.

The class is indebted to the time, effort and patience of Arlene Eckford, Audrey Moke and Jane Graham.

Tender Call

TENDER CALL FOR INSTALLING CENTRALIZED DISHWASHING OPERATION

The Hon. James W. Snow, Minister of Government Services, said today that tenders are now being called for the installation of a new centralized dishwashing system at Brockville Psychiatric Hospital, for the Ministry of Health. Estimated cost of the project is $99,000.

Mr. Snow said that considerable dollar savings as well as maximum efficiency will result, as the new system takes over some 13 existing dishwashing areas to serve the entire hospital complex.

Natural deterioration has rendered obsolete most of the present equipment, for which maintenance costs are high and parts increasingly unobtainable.

In addition to the new dishwashing system and equipment, specifications cover related mechanical work such as heating and ventilating, and minor alterations to the building structure necessary to accommodate it.

Design and contract documents are by Ministry of Government Services staff, who estimate the project will be complete within eight weeks of a contract award.

Real opportunity for youth

On March 30th, 1973, in the House of Commons, the Progressive Conservative Party put forward a five-point program which we believe is the way for Canadians to become the masters of their own house and which is the alternative to the chicken-hearted approach of the Trudeau government. This bold new approach can be summarized as follows:

1. A vigorous policy of full employment for Canada which will be achieved by the expansionary budget measured proposed by James Gillies, M.P. A temporary wage and price freeze followed by guidelines to control inflation while permitting a rapid expansion of the Canadian economy. High productivity and maximum growth are the objectives of Point One. 2. Introduction of tax and other laws designed to encourage Canadian investment in their own country. New proposals on allowable deductions from taxable income for investment in New Canadian Companies, a small business investment plan. Capital gains tax on real capital gains and not inflationary values. Farms are free of capital gains tax in family transfers during one's lifetime and not just at death, the same advantage to be given to small and medium sized family businesses. Changes in the tax laws to give Canadians an equal or better opportunity to participate in Canadian businesses.

3. A massive increase in the extent of research and development undertaken in Canada. Canadians must realize that the development of modern technology requires large public investment. Only 18 per cent of research-development spending by Canadian firms is financed out of public funds. Compared to 53 per cent in the U. S. A., 35 per cent in Great Britain and 42 per cent in France. Northern Electric in Nepean and Electrohome of Kitchener are good examples of just how capable we can be in the research and development field. We must produce more Northern Electric's and Electrohome's.

4. A policy of flexibility in our financial institutions. Canada has sufficient funds to finance current investment requirements now. The time has come for the creation of new institutions and the expansion of existing ones to supply more venture capital; to assemble financing to establish domestic enterprises; to acquire control of existing foreign-owned business. We must stop the Canadian banking system from financing the takeover of Canadian enterprises by foreigners and to make financing more readily available to Canadians. 5. The combination of our imagination and all of the other factors into a massive effort in increase Canadian exports and to thereby establish funding for the purchase of ownership and control of major companies with substantial activities in Canada in such industries as electronics, rubber, chemicals, transport equipment, etc.

The objective of these five points in a gradual but significant shift in ownership - a 20 per cent reduction in foreign ownership over a period of 20 years is a realistic goal - this is the Progressive Conservative approach to a real Canadian problem - Can We Do It? Of course we can. It is just the challenge young Canadians need. But it seems to be beyond the abilities of the Trudeau Government.

The United Church considers these products as essentially the production of forced labour and hopes to discourage their general use. ## Glassblowing Popular cooperation. In answer to the question about the chances of the physically small player, the answer was that it depended on his position, his ability and his determination. There is both room and opportunity for the smaller man, but obviously height and weight, added to ability and competence, make for a priority on the team.

One of the most popular demonstrations at the Craft House during the weekend was that of glassblowing by E. Kristof of Hull, Quebec. Mr. Kristof captured the attention of hundreds of adults and children during his demonstrations Saturday and Sunday.

In the days that Bob Simpson played for the Rough Riders, it was a short term training and playing season, whereas the game now requires ten months out of the year of constant and supervised training. Today, the players are bigger, faster and stronger, they are on the job longer, and professional sports is their full time job.

If you are going to let your kid out on the field to play football, see that he is properly equipped. If he is going to play hockey, see especially that he is wearing adequate headgear.

It was Jacques Plante who endured the first cat calls about wearing headgear in Canadian hockey, but he paved the way to a much safer game for many participants.

The speaker estimated that it cost 1 million two hundred thousand dollars to establish a football team here in the East and the proceeds for the first year are only about $65,000. So a new team has to be sponsored by someone who can afford it. The speaker would like to see an even five teams in each of Eastern and Western Canada for balance.

Lion Danny Robertson paid specific recognition to our Club secretary, Alex Banford, for his excellent report at the District Rally held in Smiths Falls lately, and more information about the meeting will be contained in Lion Tales.

SPORTS SLANTS

News & Views

by Leo DeBellefeuille

This is Lacrosse. No sport in Canada has a finer tradition than Lacrosse. It deserves to be called "The Canadian Game" because its roots are deep in our history. Elements in the game reflect characteristics of that elusive "Canadian Identity".

There are two popular versions of the game: Box Lacrosse and Field Lacrosse. It was Field Lacrosse that was so popular in the old days and it is still played at the International level. Ladie's Lacrosse is of the Field variety. Lacrosse has much in its favour. It has been called "The fastest game on two feet".

As a game, it is unparalleled in development, skill, speed, intelligence, fitness, endurance and dexterity in athletes. It is a fast and exciting spectator sport that can be played both indoors or outdoors, from early spring until late autumn. Lacrosse has an infectious quality that captivates player and fan alike.

Lacrosse is also the fastest growing team sport in North America. It is the only contact sport played in the summer and it is also included in the curriculum of many high schools and universities. It is one of the few team sports that is played by both men and women, boy and girl.

Lacrosse is also played both professionally and Olympic competition is in the offing.

Yes, Lacrosse is truly Canadian with thrilling appeal and a very bright future.

In Canada Box Lacrosse is the more popular and the Canadian Lacrosse Association strongly recommend this version of the game to communities considering a Lacrosse program.

It has several advantages, as follows: 1. It takes less space. 2. It can be played indoors or outdoors. 3. Fewer players are required, yet more can participate. 4. Spectators are more readily accommodated. 5. Most communities already have the basic facilities.

There is a strong resemblance between a Lacrosse floor and the ice surface of a hockey rink. The basic measurements will also reveal they are similar for both sports. It therefore becomes obvious that the same facilities that serve as outdoor rinks for hockey in the winter season can be used for Lacrosse in the Spring, Summer and Autumn. The outdoor rink can represent a substantial investment for smaller communities. It is surprising, therefore, that they allow these facilities to lay dormant in the off-hockey season. With minor adjustments and modifications these facilities can be put to use on a year round basis thereby providing twice the value per tax dollar. The introduction of a Minor Lacrosse program generally leads to the formation of Junior and Senior teams that participate in intercommunity leagues and draw sizeable fan followings. This is a feature that should not be overlooked as it can result in a welcome source of revenue.

With the current boom in the game, sticks are becoming increasingly difficult to obtain. Lacrosse sticks are not broken as often as hockey sticks are. A Lacrosse stick with proper care should last at least 4 or 5 years.

The Mann Cup was presented by the late Sir Donald Mann, builder of the Canadian Northern Railway for the senior amateur championship of Canada and was originally a challenge cup. It is a solid gold cup valued at $2,500. and one of the most valuable trophies in sport.

In Sept. 1925, when the Canadian Lacrosse Association was organized and uniform rules adapted for all competing teams, the Mann Cup was turned over to the C.L.A. by the New Westminster Club, who held the trophy at that time. It was then placed into annual competition with the series alternating from east to west and vice versa. The first team to win the Mann Cup was in 1910 when the Young Torontos, from Toronto Ont. won the coveted award and in 1971 Brentford Ont. captured the prized trophy.

The Minto Cup is a beautiful silver cup donated by Lord Minto on May 31st, 1901, for competition among the lacrosse teams in the Dominion. Lord Minto was Governor-General of Canada at the time.

The amateur status of the competition continued until 1904. The cup was placed under control of trustees and in possession of C.A. Welch, of New Westminster, B.C. the last surviving trustee. When he died the present Lord Minto of England, whose father donated the cup, was informed of the circumstances. He officially transferred the Minto Cup to the care and management of the C.L.A. who placed it into competition for the Junior Championship of Canada. It may be interesting to know that the Duke and Duchess of York (later King George V and Queen Mary) were present at the first game played for the Minto Cup between Capitals of Ottawa and Cornwall at Ottawa in 1901. Ottawa defeated Cornwall and lost to the Shamrocks of Montreal.

In 1913 New Westminster defeated Cornwall for the cup as they also did in 1914, this was in senior class.

When the Minto Cup was placed into Junior competition in 1937 All-Star teams were built around the provincial winners.

Other important awards that are up for annual competition in lacrosse are the Mike Kelly Memorials, Jim McCanaghy Memorial Medal, The Presidents Trophy and the Castrol Cup.

Let us all hope that perhaps some day - a boy or boys from Iroquois will have the honour of winning one of these personal awards or become a member of one of the teams that will win one of the famous national team awards. If anyone is interested to obtain a copy of Rules of Box Lacrosse they may contact Cooper Canada Ltd. 260 Laughton Ave., Toronto 9, Ontario.

a show. Four tickets, $48. New York wouldn't have the nerve.

Don't eat out. Dinner for four, at a "moderate" restaurant, with one cocktail, can run from $25 to $50. Plus the inevitable you-know-what. The only result is a nagging feeling which may be either gastritis, or your pioneer ancestors' ghosts haunting you in the stomach.

Final disillusion. I always spring for a shoe-shine. It seems a reasonable luxury, as it's one of the two or three times a year my brogues get a brush. Went for it this time. Halfway through, I realized the poor devil shining my shoes was retarded.

I decided to help, in my small way. I had my quarter ready, but changed it for a fifty-cent piece. Gave it to him, feeling sort of warm inside. He pointed to a sign behind my head.

It read, "Shoeshines, 50c." It was then I realized which of us was retarded, as I fished for another two bits.
