Why me?

The newspaper business can often be lonely and cruel and this became glaringly apparent to me on Monday, of all days.

The day started out badly and just when I thought it couldn't get any worse for a nice girl like me — wham!

The phrase ''Sock It To Me'' wouldn't begin to describe my troubles so I will.

I knew something was wrong when I looked at my electric alarm clock and realized the power had gone out sometime during Sunday evening's thunderstorm. My internal alarm saved me from sleeping in until 10 o'clock but I was in such a hurry I had to leave without my morning cup of tea and that's a tragedy in itself.

I had to take a photograph Monday morning and as I was gently putting film into the $500 camera I proceeded to drop the same $500 camera on the floor. Lucky for me, I thought, it landed on a protective carpet and the lens cap was on.

So I drove along Hwy. 43 searching in vain for a maple syrup sign that would signal to me it was time to turn off. Unfortunately I didn't have my glasses and without them I drove past the maple syrup sign, past the turnoff and all the way into Finch.

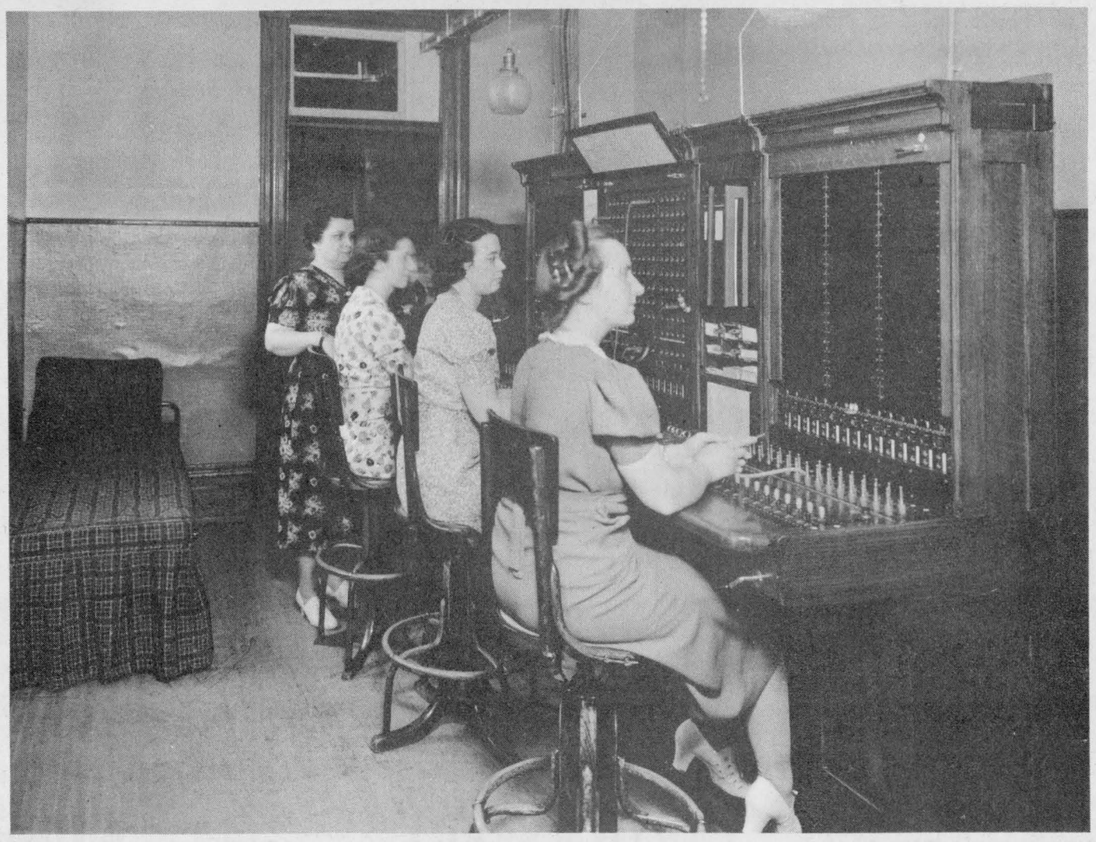

But a nice man at the grocery store in Finch knew where I was going and pointed me in the right direction. Happily I got back into my car and managed to find the maple syrup sign and the turnoff on the second try.

Unfortunately it didn't get better. When the time finally arrived to take the long-awaited photograph I realized my previous clumsiness had not gone unnoticed. The camera lens was bent and wouldn't focus on my subject.

Refusing to let these trivial matters get the best of me I improvised as best I could and left with an acceptable photo. But when it came time to turn the old car around, the car and I had differing opinions. I went forward but the car didn't — not forward, not backward — nowhere.

By the time I limped back to the office it was 11 o'clock. Monday wasn't even half over.

Begin each day with prayer

by Gordon C. Smyth

When it is suggested to the average modern that he (she) begin every day with a prayer, he may well spurn the idea as quickly as brushing aside the rest of this article.

Nonetheless, prayer is of inestimable value. For instance, toward the close of his career, Dr. Robert A. Millikan (1868-1954), American physicist, Nobel prize winner and head of the California Institute of Technology, told a gathering of physicists that a lifetime of scientific research had convinced him that there is a Divinity shaping human destiny.

Dr. Millikan said, ''Just how we fit into the plans of the Great Architect and how much he has assigned us to do, we do not know; if we fail in our assignment, it is pretty certain that part of the job will be left undone. But fit in we certainly do somehow. A purely materialistic philosophy is to me the height of unintelligence.''

Moreover, in ''The Divine Flame'' Alister Hardy wrote, ''Is it not reasonable to suppose that some action is set in motion by prayer which draws the particular solution for each of us from our own subconscious? In saying this I must make it clear that I am not implying that I believe this destroys our conception of the Divine.''

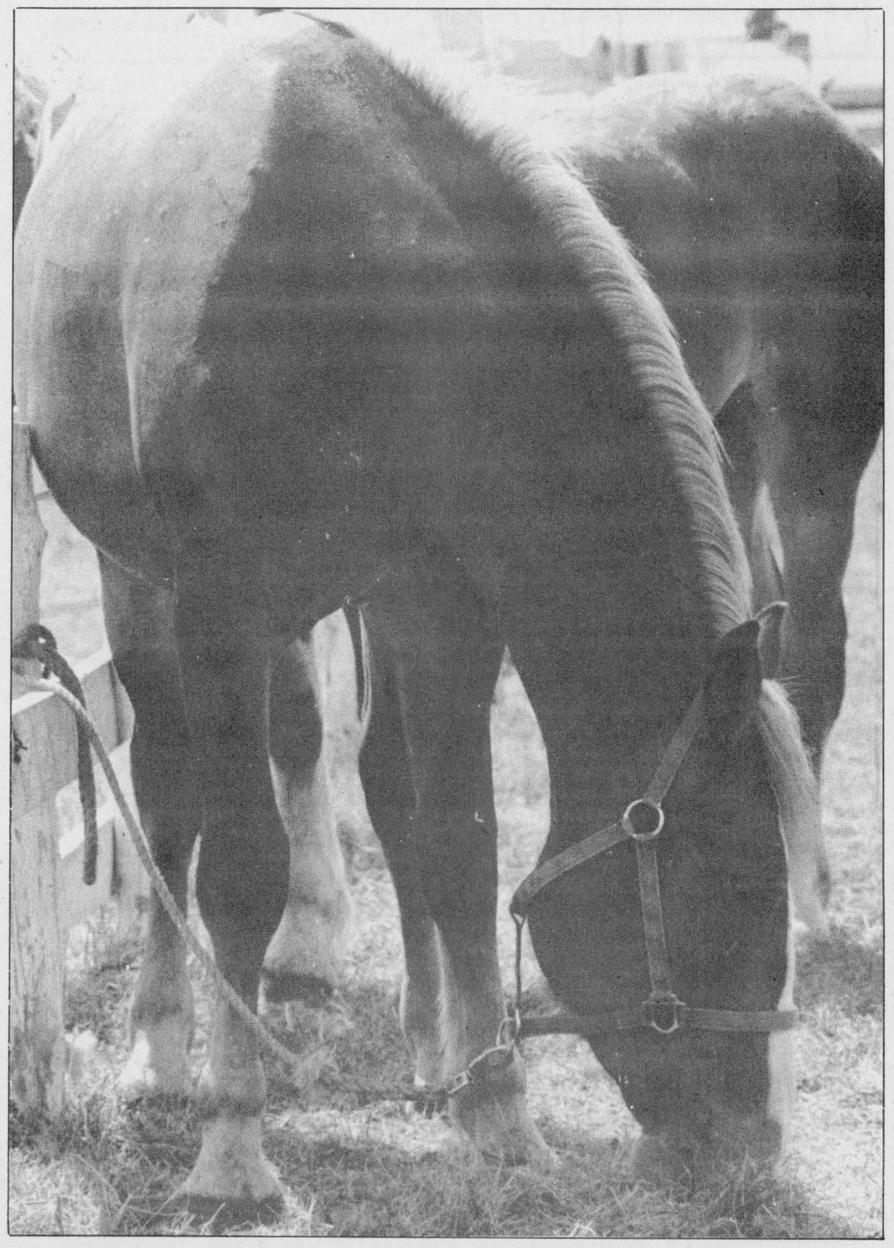

Hardy presses on, ''All the evidence of religious experience, I believe, shows that man makes contact with this Power. I think it likely that it may well be this uplifting Power which does in fact activate the subconscious solution-providing mechanism in a way which would not otherwise be possible.''

Is not this the picture we have of Jesus as he knelt in the Garden of Gethsemane? That was the supreme crisis of his earthly life. His eyes were not lifted toward the sky. He was not talking to himself. He received the guidance and strength that turned the Cross into a badge of victory (Mark 14:32-42).

You and I tend to see this distortedly, incompletely, too pessimistically or too optimistically. Through prayer we may come to see them steadily, and whole. Holiness is wholeness. Life is holy as we see things whole.

Thus a really devout individual commences each day with the figure and some aspect of the teaching of Jesus on the screen of his or her mind. He pauses for a time where the whole of experience may be viewed.

Then that individual leaves his private sanctuary to confront the immediate future. The ''world'' is his because he is gaining a ''life''. His life is secure because it ''owns'' the world!

Rome — The Fascist government, in concordance with the Holy See, has issued an order listing certain ''offences against modesty,'' henceforth forbidden on the beaches of Lido, the Riviera and Italy's summer resorts generally.

No more will the off-shores of Venice be the scene of international pajama parties, no more will public dancing in bathing suits be tolerated, or even in dressing gowns. The Fascist government has decreed it, and the Vatican, which through its organ, the ''Observatore Romano,'' first started the drive ''for the morality of the beaches,'' is complacently regarding that which it has created, but it is not yet resting from its labors.

In completing the program of attractions to be presented at Chesterville during Old Home Week, which starts this Saturday and concludes on Wednesday, the committee has been busy adding new features so that those who attend the big celebration will have a variety of entertainment.

The latest addition to the program is a Circus Side Show featuring Canada's own Rin Tin Tin, the dog with a human brain. This intelligent canine will perform on each day of the celebration and will take part in the big parade on Monday afternoon.

Playing at the Winchester Community Centre for one night only, tomorrow Friday, is the Wilf Carter Show. One of the most popular of western shows, it features Wilf Carter and his two talented daughters, Carol and Sheila, shown above. Also featured in the show are Diana Lee and Pattie Stevens, Ward Allen of Spartan Records, Joe Brown, and Bob King as Master of Ceremonies. Community centre officials expect an all-time record attendance at this biggest of all Wilf Carter Shows.

The mail strike, now in its third week, is having a damaging effect on the economy which is definitely suffering, and the most noticeable result seems to be a general slowdown in all segments of business.

A telephone survey, conducted by the Press, found no sympathy for postal workers with the general feeling that their demands were ridiculous. The majority of those interviewed felt the government should take definite steps immediately to restore service.

Seventh Column

by Joe Rowan

Sure we know! The nine days, beginning July 30th and ending Aug. 7, will be the most exciting, exotic, dramatic, romantic and memorable in Winchester's glowing 100-year history. We know because Shirley (Fawcett) and Harry (Keyes) told us so... and they know because they 'programmed' the state-of-the-art itinerary and fed their efforts into the 'Centennial' computer. As ''C-Day'' (beginning of Centennial Week) comes rapidly into focus we salute not only the two who co-chaired planning for the fantastic event but, as well, all (and reckon that means every Winchesterite between the ages of 4 and 104) who willingly, eagerly and enthusiastically put their shoulders to that proverbial wheel. Historians of the future will point with pride to this amazing chapter in the history of ''Bates' Corners''.

One might be tempted to suggest (at the risk of having his nose flattened) that, perhaps, the timing of Vernon's annual Pioneer Days extravaganza wasn't given enough consideration. Perhaps you hadn't noticed, but that colorful attraction coincides with Winchester's closing ''Centennial '88'' activities. But then, on the other hand, one might even look on the timing as a genuine stroke of genius. Vernon, after all, is almost within 'shouting distance' of Winchester. Matter of fact, we've been advised the panoramic view from the top of Winchester's water tower includes Vernon Presbyterian Church spire etched against the northern skyline. (Yes... we'll take the viewer's work. No... we definitely don't plan to look for ourselves). Suppose, since the two Valley towns are so closely related, Pioneer Days might almost be considered a Celebration '88 'subsidiary'. Heritage and history are what Pioneer Days are all about and a highlight on this summer's program has to be the reunion of members of Carleton County's first Calf Club, and unveiling of a commemorative plaque. That 'Calf Club', formed at Metcalfe Town Hall in 1932, paved the way for later formation of 4-H organizations. How did the organization of 4-H clubs improve on the original Calf Club image? We asked founding member Ormond Craig. He showed us a list of 31 calf club members. ''Take note'', he smiled knowingly, ''31 boys — and not a girl in sight''. Many of those 'boys' will be participating in the plaque unveiling at 2:00 Saturday afternoon. They didn't all choose careers in agriculture. Don't be too surprised if you see a clergyman (Rev. Jimmy Stuart) reminding those greying old 'cowboys' it's still not too late to 'mend their ways'. Perhaps we'll see you there. Afraid you might not recognize us? Look for a 'youngish' chap with a camera!

A few weeks ago (June 20th to be exact) we took the liberty to comment on proposals being aired regarding water supply for our village (Metcalfe). 'Feedback' indicates there are many not happy with the current planning trend but, unfortunately, reluctant to air their views and take a firm stand. We think, like our neighbor Tim Parsons, that more input by residents (much, much more in fact) should be carefully considered before radical (and mighty costly) developments are, as Tim so rightly suggests — ''implemented almost without our knowledge of what exactly is being done''. Tim makes reference to the June ratepayers meeting when notification 'flyers' arrived in many mail boxes the following day. There are 1,700 residents (as our neighbor so clearly stated in his conversation with an area reporter) in the community. Twenty-five attended that meeting. Hardly, we suggest an acceptable measure of public opinion. Let's go back to ''square one''. There may, indeed, be a much less costly, and equally effective solution. If you agree, make your views known — not in the 'corner store', but with elected decision-makers (municipal council). Keep in mind this is election year... a time when politicians listen a little more attentively.

So, you thought newspaper editors were all endowed with a unique combination of wisdom and knowledge enabling them to meticulously research perplexing situations and pen matching philosophic reviews? They're not... and they don't! John Turner captured headlines last week when he applied the brakes to free trade. Southam's Ottawa editor (Citizen) termed the Opposition Leader's action as ''a scheme of sickening cynicism''. Southam's Montreal editor (Gazette) rated the manoeuvre ''Turner's bravest step in his political career''. You don't suppose those editors belonged to different political parties do you? Guess those wise, knowlegable editors you were referring to are all associated with 'weeklies'. (Judy made us say that!)

And it says here if you get up early, work long hours, and pay your taxes you'll be assured success — if you inherit a small fortune.

Lack of interest creates farm labor crew shortages

WINCHESTER — When the labor market booms the wealth of farm labor dwindles to a trickle and many local farmers are finding it difficult to match their labor needs with the amount of help available.

"When I'm out on the farms I find that is a concern to farmers," said Howard Giles from the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food office in Winchester.

Floyd Bradford of the Agricultural Employment Services office in Chesterville agrees.

"There are not as many people available for work this year as last year," he said. "If farmers don't call early enough they will be short. We don't have enough people to send out on all the orders during peak times."

Bradford said salaries and conditions are top considerations when anyone is looking for a job and many people feel they can earn more money at non-agricultural jobs. He said people also want weekends and evenings off which is not always possible on the farm.

"Workers go where they can find the most acceptable situation," he said.

But there are still some who want to work on the farm and wouldn't consider any other lifestyle.

Trevor Baker of Inkerman says he tried the money aspect of life but wasn't happy. He grew up on a farm and wouldn't want to live elsewhere.

"It depends on what you're looking for, money or satisfaction," he said. "I tried the money bit but I wasn't satisfied. I like farming."

Baker said many students complain about the lack of work but never even bother to submit an application to agricultural employment services. His philosophy, if anyone shall not work neither shall he eat, sums up his attitude to work.

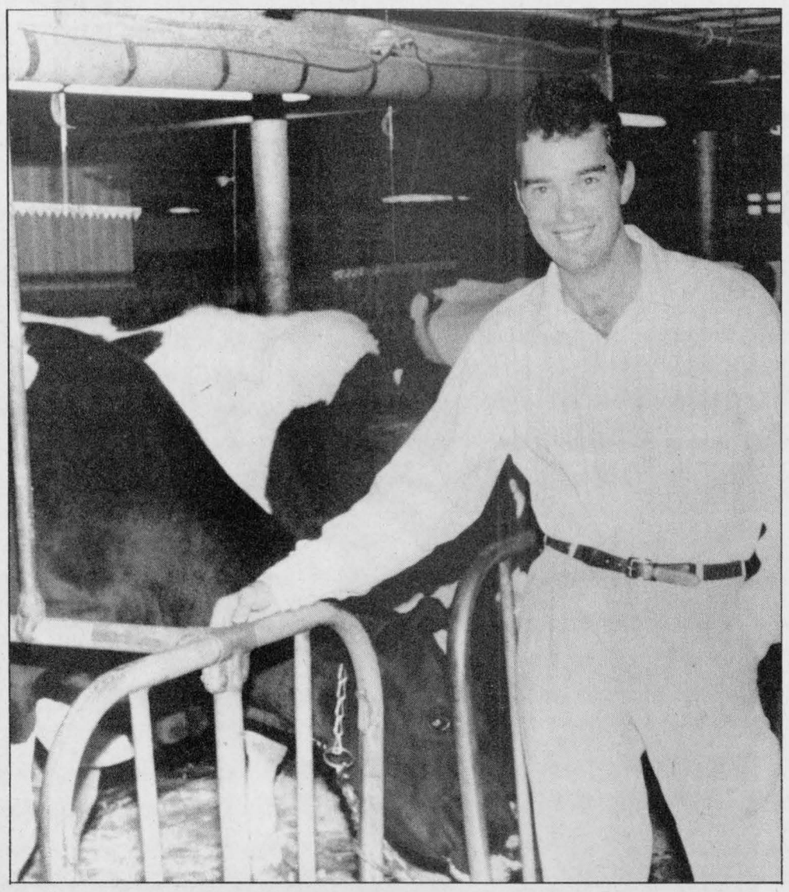

Bradford said it is difficult to estimate the number of people available to work but there are several younger students, aged 13-14 who are interested in farm work but have problems handling the workload.

"They are not strong enough," said Bradford. "A bale of hay weighs 60 to 70 pounds. Farmers try to make it easier and lighter but then time becomes expensive and the wear and tear on machines is a factor."

Wages offered by farmers are quite good this year said Bradford but they still must be satisfied with a smaller crew than is needed to complete the work.

"Farmers are calling for four, five or six people and they have to be satisfied with two or three," he said. "We have to spread the labor around a little bit."

The Agricultural Employment Services office handles inquiries from Stomont and Dundas Counties.

Trevor Baker is very happy working for Agricultural Employment Services and desires no other lifestyle. At present he is looking after a farm near Chesterville while the owner enjoys a short vacation.

Food prices up

OTTAWA — Retail food prices, measured by the Consumer Price Index, rose .9 per cent in June according to Agriculture Canada economists.

The largest price increase was in fresh fruit, up 9.3 per cent due to seasonal increases. Consumers also paid 5.8 per cent more for pork and four per cent more for non-alcoholic drinks.

The price of sugar dropped 3.2 per cent, while fresh vegetable prices fell by 1.9 per cent. Economists also predict retail pork and beef prices should cost less in forthcoming weeks, reflecting lower prices paid to livestock producers.

Library developed

GUELPH — Documents, books, magazines, articles, new stories, tapes and videos about family farming and stewardship collected by the Christian Farmers Federation of Ontario during the past two decades are being turned into a reference library.

The Jubilee Foundation for Agricultural Research, the research and education arm of CFFO, is cataloguing the material to be used as a public resource.

The library welcomes the donation of books, documents, tapes or videos that will add to the collection. Library staff can be contacted at the Family Farm Stewardship Library in Guelph.

Kerr addresses Penny Pinchers

by Linda Vanderlaan

WINCHESTER — The Dundas County Penny Pinchers of this summer's Personal Finance club have completed meetings three and four.

Our youth leader Helen McRobbie had Bruce Kerr, a local landlord, come in and talk to the group. Mr. Kerr conducted a very interesting discussion on renting an apartment, which everyone enjoyed very much.

Preparations for achievement night on August 9 have commenced, and the final results look to be very good.

Wise assures no decision on fair funding changes

OTTAWA — Federal agriculture minister John Wise has assured United Counties councillors no decision has been made on changes to the fairs and exhibitions program.

In a letter to council Wise stated no changes will be made until a consensus is reached on the issue.

Wise was responding to concerns by councillors about the possibility of the federal department of agriculture reducing the amount of funding available to local agricultural societies.

He said the proposal developed by the committee for fairs and exhibitions is designed to allow more flexibility for fairs in developing programs to serve needs of the industry and other communities.

The review involves consultations with all sectors of the industry as well as the provincial governments.

Farm Update

Princess candidates eager to promote dairy industry

WINCHESTER — Tracy Henderson wants to be a farm preacher of sorts — spreading the word about the work involved in "getting milk to the shelf."

And if the 17-year-old Brinston student wins the Dundas Dairy Princess Competition on Aug. 6 at the Lions Hall in Winchester she will be supplied with one year of engagements financed by the Dundas County Milk Committee, to educate Dundas residents about dairy life.

Because she "grew up in agriculture" and has a background in public speaking, Henderson says she would like the chance to "communicate with the public. They (those with city lifestyles) don't realize the hard work" involved in farming.

Doing everything from spreading manure to milking morning and night, Henderson describes farm life as "very rewarding."

Henderson, who plans to attend the University of Guelph to obtain a Bachelor of Science in agriculture, will compete with three other students for the title to be passed over by the present princess, Colleen Acres, 19, of Osgoode.

The eventual winner, says Mary Fisher, the contest co-ordinator, will be the "young lady who will best be able to express herself about dairy products to people of all ages."

Says Fisher about this year's entries: "We have excellent candidates."

Competing for the role, which will begin on Sept. 1, is 17-year-old Martine Thurler of South Mountain.

Thurler is heading into Grade 12 this year with plans to enroll in the University of Ottawa later.

With several public speaking awards under her belt, the fluently bilingual member of the over 80 per cent club in high school would "like to help promote the dairy industry.

"I was raised on a farm," says Thurler. "I know all the ups and downs."

Thurler, who hopes to teach French after completing university, says the role of dairy princess would help her gain experience in working with people.

Brinston resident Debbie Cooper, 17, wants to capture the title also to acquire experience "to get in front of people."

President of a church youth group for three years, a Sunday school teacher, recipient of a Celebration '88 award for her participation in community affairs, a member of a junior choir and an east regional qualifier in track are part of the impressive background of Cooper, a bilinqual student aspiring to be a veterinarian.

Cooper is working for Dr. Larry Gray this summer at his veterinary clinc in Winchester.

Isabella Farlinger, an 18-year-old student from Morrisburg, likes the idea of promoting dairy products having lived on a dairy farm all her life.

Farlinger says she would like to clear up the misconception that farming is an easy life. "It's a 24 hour job. You have to be there all the time."

She describes her own farming experience as "interesting. It teaches you responsibility."

Farlinger is attracted to the public speaking involved with being dairy princess. She says she is able to "get up in front of a group of people and speak without being nervous."

Completing nine 4-H projects while holding most executive positions in the club, Farlinger also shows cattle. In a competition last year, she had the top junior calf in its class.

Farlinger fills a busy year by being a member of a young politicians club, teaching Sunday school, singing in a church choir, public speaking and as a member of Canadian Girls in Training.

Villeneuve urges use of E-M gas

MOOSE CREEK — In the wake of reports that automobile use may have to be restricted to cut down on pollution, Noble Villeneuve, MPP Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville and PC agriculture critic, has once again urged the Ontario government to institute the use of ethanol-methanol gasoline.

E-M gas uses a blend of 92 per cent gasoline, five per cent methanol and three per cent ethanol, which is a derivative of corn.

A resolution introduced by Villeneuve calling for the use of E-M gasoline was approved by the Legislature on June 2 but follow-up has been practically nil.

Existing gasolines pollute more than E-M gas. Unleaded gas currently used in Canada uses a compound called MMT to boost octane, but MMT is banned in the United States because it increases the emission of hydrocarbons.

Because alcohols have oxygen in their chemical make-up, they reduce carbon monoxide emissions by up to 30 per cent, an important factor in urban areas.

"I find it difficult to understand the minister of the environment when he talks about restricting the use of cars," said Villeneuve. "We live in Canada. To get around a city the size of Toronto is very difficult."

Villeneuve said he was amazed the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food did not know more about his private member's bill and the idea of using ethanol in gasoline.

"Whenever the minister of the environment says he's going to take measures to reduce car traffic, obviously the cart and the horse are a long way apart," said Villeneuve. "It was an alarming statement in my opinion especially since we have the technology and it is economically viable."

With respect to ozone formation, E-M gas is considered neutral compared to normal gasolines.

"Every summer trapped pollution over Toronto provides a good reason to switch to less polluting fuels," said Villeneuve. "While oil companies are understandably reluctant to allow alcohol blending, the environmental considerations are becoming more and more important."

A report by the Canadian Renewable Fuels Association indicates Canada lags far behind the United States in restricting gasoline lead levels. Canada is not scheduled to achieve the current, low maximum U.S. gasoline lead tolerance until 1993.

Demand for milk rises

OTTAWA — Canadians are buying more milk and dairy products and are passing up old favorities, like cheddar, in favor of special varieties of cheese, report Agriculture Canada economists.

Economists predict milk consumption will increase by almost two-and-a-half per cent with the largest gains made in low fat milk and creams.

To meet the increased demand for milk and milk products, Canadian milk production will increase by at least three per cent during 1987-88 and remain at the same level in 1988-89.

The domestic requirements for industrial milk are up, partly because of a growing market for specialty cheeses. Stable prices and more familiarity with these cheese varieties will boost specialty cheese sales by 12 per cent this year.

Close to 60 per cent of specialty cheese production is pizza and mozzarella cheese, much of it used in fast and frozen foods.

Butter consumption will level off after a slight increase this year. World inventories of butter are still higher than can be absorbed so world trading prices of milk fat are not expected to increase in the short term.

The world market for concentrated milk continues to decline. Whole milk powder is popular, although demand also remains strong for skim milk powder. Higher world prices for whole milk products and skim milk powder have allowed the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee to lower levies, resulting in higher revenues to producers.

Sunnylodge dominates Avonmore Fair, retains Premier Breeder title

Sunnylodge retained the premier breeder title it won at last year's show in Avonmore and added the premier exhibitor banner. The Chesterville breeder also showed the junior and reserve junior champion and the reserve senior champ.

Sunnylodge Elev. J, the first place junior yearling, was the junior champ. Sunnylodge Starbuck Kim, which took first in the senior yearling class, was reserve.

Sunnylodge Hawlea Ultimate Mae, a mature cow, placed second to grand champion Braydale Marlin Tara, a four-year-old owned by John Bray of Moose Creek.

Piet Kerkhof of Mountain was second to Sunnylodge for both the premier exhibitor and breeder awards.

Participation was low at Saturday's show at the Avonmore fair, attracting fewer than 70 entries. About 130 of the area's best cattle were shown at the 1987 show.

Winners in the calf class were: Stronghaven Elev. Polly, Stronghaven Holsteins, Crysler; Sunnylodge Anthony Butter, Sunnylodge Farms, Chesterville; Murrayholm Peanut Lynn, Murrayholm Farms, Martintown.

Five-year-old class: Crossland Warden ET Laura (third, best udder), McQuat Bros., Lachute; Murrayholm S Lady Bug ET, Murrayholm Farms; Clayview Lancer Tracy, Piet Kerkhof.

INFORMATION

The research projects of Dr. Henry Windsor, MD, and Dr. Lee Hadley, MD, confirm the preventative role of chiropractic care against the progressive nature of:

Vertebral Subluxation Degeneration

NORMAL SPINE
- no subluxations
- no damage
- normal curve

PHASE I
- obvious subluxation
- misaligned vertebrae
- abnormal curve
- nerve and soft tissue damage
- most frequent incidence 0-20 years

PHASE II
- serious subluxation
- serious damage to nerves and soft tissue
- joints and vertebrae margins rough and irregular
- disc narrows
- more frequent incidence 20-40 years

PHASE III
- beginning of bone fusion
- Advanced spur and arthritic formation
- loss of disc function
- nerve transmission seriously impaired
- most frequent incidence age 40-65 years

PHASE IV
- vertebrae have lost their form
- fusion is complete
- nerve transmission is lost
- tends to be most frequent after age 65 but not always

Vertebral Subluxation Complex refers to any malfunction of spinal biomechanics, any vertebral fixation or misalignment which may/may not result in nerve irritation.

The Subluxation is a tragedy which can be avoided with chiropractic care - the vertebral subluxation complex can be stopped, reversed, and even prevented before it starts its destructive action.

The Vertebral Subluxation may be silent, but because it affects nerve function, it can cause many pains and afflictions. Example: back pain, headache, sciatica, internal problems.

In Memoriam

JONES — In memory of a dear daughter, step-daughter, step-sister and aunt, Alice Eileen, who passed away Aug. 1, 1986.
Deep in our heart lies a picture
Of a loved one laid to rest
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because she was one of the best.
—Always remembered, Mom, Gib, Dave and Cheryl Jones, Barb and Stan Saddlemire and family 16

COWAN — In loving memory of our dear son, Alvin, taken from us on July 25, 1966.
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near,
His smiling face and charming ways,
Were loved by all.
—Ever remembered,
Dad and Mum Cowan 16

HUTT — In loving memory of Denzil G. Hutt, who passed away July 31, 1983.
Remembering you is easy,
We do it every day,
Missing you is the heartache,
That never goes away.
We have learned with silent effort
To hide the tears that start,
But we cannot hide the longing
That lies within our hearts.
We often sit and wonder
What you would say or do
If you only knew the changes
Since God parted us from you.
—Loved and remembered by
Brenda, Tracey and Darren 16

Township hall undergoes facelift

The Williamsburg Township hall is receiving a face-lift and will be ready to show off its new look by Oct. 15.

WILLIAMSBURG — Although their decisions might still upset some people, Williamsburg Township councillors will be able to make them in pleasant surroundings.

The seniors' room at the hall will also be upgraded at a cost of $40,000. The seniors will receive half the cost through the Ontario Ministry of Tourism and Recreation and federal New Horizons grant.

The total cost of the renovations is approximately $148,500. The outside of the hall will be upgraded with new insulation, vinyl siding, shingle roof and energy efficient windows.

The old council chamber will be turned into a hallway leading to the new chambers. Clerk Mike Waddell will finally get an office and the old shed behind the building used for storage, will give way to new storage facilities inside the township hall.

The new council chambers will be approximately the same size as the old. The seniors' room will be extended by 20 feet. The entrance to the hall will also have a new look. Double doors will be added creating an energy saving airlock. The library will remain in the hall.

The brick wall on the north side of the building will be extended, sheltering new interlocking brick underneath which will be decorated with planters. The hall will also become wheelchair accessible.

"The building was old and council had to make the decision to fix this one up or build new," said Waddell. "They couldn't justify the cost of a new building but now this one will be energy efficient and it gives us the space we will need for the foreseeable future."

Work began on the hall last Monday. The contract was awarded to Hartley Hodgson Construction Ltd. of Morrisburg. The estimated completion date is Oct. 15.

AIDS policy to protect employees

METCALFE — Representatives from Osgoode Township will meet with the Ottawa-Carleton Regional Health Unit shortly to develop an AIDS policy for municipal employees.

"It would be good for us to be briefed on the subject," said mayor Albert Bouwers at Tuesday's council meeting. "We have to find out what our options are."

According to Mike Grace of the health unit, the region is interested in developing a policy "to protect employees against discrimination." He added, "we want a policy in place so that workers won't get fired, or lose benefits."

Regarding AIDS testing, Grace called it a contravention of human rights. The region wants to avoid problems with unreasonable reaction to the disease.

Council indicated they would ask members of the volunteer firefighters and the roads department to sit in on the meeting with the health unit. The firefighters, in particular, would be briefed on safety precautions to avoid coming into contact with the AIDS virus through exposure to car accident victims. But Osgoode Township Fire Chief Peter Griffin said Thursday he does not feel the firefighters need any special briefing on AIDS.

"We've had our own special training," he said. "Since 1983-84 we've worked closely with the ambulance service, practicing the most up-to-date, sterile techniques."

All firefighters wear surgical masks and gloves when dealing with accident victims who are bleeding, added Griffin.

According to Grace, the region wants to develop a "generic AIDS policy" which can be implemented in municipalities throughout the region.

Osgoode Township currently has no official AIDS policy.
