Met With Sad Fate

John McGillivray, son of the late Murdock McGillivray, of Finch township, was accidentally killed while working with a construction company in Superior, Wis., a short time ago.

The remains were brought home by his cousin, Mrs. John Mackenzie, and the funeral took place to the Presbyterian church, Moose Creek, and the 6th concession cemetery. Rev. Mr. Mackenzie officiated.

Obituary.

After an illness of less than a week, Herbert Ernest Beach Carter, beloved son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Beach Carter, 143 O'Connor street, died on Thursday evening last, about 8.30, of bronchial pneumonia, at the age of 15 months and five days. A short service was held at the above residence on Friday evening at 8 by Rev. T. B. Conley, at which a great number of the parents' relatives and friends were present. The floral tributes were many and beautiful, being from the staff of The Dipper, where Mr. Carter is employed, with a card attached bearing the words "from his daddy's friends at The Dipper"; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Searle, Miss B. Annand, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Beach, Mrs. J. W. Gamble and Mrs. H. Beaumont. The remains were conveyed at 7.15 Saturday morning to Central depot, whence they were taken to Chesterville, Ont. for interment at Maple Ridge cemetery. The body was accompanied by the father, and an uncle, Mr. H. M. Beach. Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents.—Ottawa Citizen.

Holmes—Baldwin.

At eight o'clock Thursday morning, June 8, the marriage of Miss Dorothy Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Graham of Lonsdale Ave. to Rev. Sydney Baker Holmes of Cryslar, Ont. was quietly solemnized in Christ Church, Deer Park, Toronto. Rev. T. W. Patterson performed the ceremony, and Mr. Arlidge, the organist, played the wedding march. The bride, who was brought in and given away by her father looked very handsome in her wedding gown of white liberty satin, with tulle veil and coronet of orange blossoms, and carrying a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lily of the valley. There were no attendants, and after the wedding breakfast the bride and groom left for a short trip before going to their home in Cryslar, the bride travelling in a smart navy blue serge tailor-made with hat to match trimmed with pink roses.

SAVED ONLY BY "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

CLANBRASSIE, ONT.

"Two years ago, the doctor made forty-four calls on me, and then said he had done all he could for me. I was suffering with intense Kidney Trouble and Inflammation had set in. Two other doctors were consulted and agreed that nothing could be done to help me.

On the recommendation of a neighbor, I took "Fruit-a-tives" and they cured me. To-day, I take "Fruit-a-tives" as my only medicine. I am in excellent health, and "Fruit-a-tives" is the medicine that cured me after I had been at Death's Door for months.

I am glad to be able to give you this testimonial. It may benefit some other woman suffering as I suffered, as I believe that I would not be alive to-day had I not used "Fruit-a-tives".

Arraigned on Charge of Murder

Ottawa, June 19—Dr. J. Alexander Ouimet, the Hull physician, charged with the murder of Mary Edith Spain by means of a criminal operation, was arraigned in the Ottawa Police Court this morning, and pleaded not guilty. The case is likely to last all day. The evidence taken this morning was very similar to that at the inquest, it being substantiated that Mrs. Spain had gone to Dr. Ouimet's office. The doctor who made the autopsy reported evidence of criminal operation. At the conclusion of the evidence, a strong fight is likely to be made to have the case transferred to the Hull Courts. Dr. Ouimet is defended by R. V. Sinclair K. C., W. J. Code, K. C. and J. M. McDougal, K. C. Crown Attorney Ritchie conducted the prosecution and C. J. Brooke, K. C. for the Attorney-General of Quebec, watched the proceedings. There were many classes of counsel as to the admissibility of evidence.

The second by-law provides a free site and fixed assessment to the Trenton Shirt and Collar Company, who propose erecting a large factory here at once. The third by-law grants a site and fixed assessment to Wier Stathl and Company, of Chicago, manufacturers of buttons. Almost every available vote was got out and polled.

Canadian Boy Scouts Arrive in London.

London, June 18—One hundred Canadian Boy Scouts arrived to-day, and attracted much attention. Frequent sharp showers through the day did considerable damage to the street decorations. A heavy rain before Thursday would be regarded as a calamity, as it would work havoc among the flimsy cloth hangings and paper flowers strung profusely everywhere.

BEFORE TREATMENT

AFTER TREATMENT

Peter E. Summers relates his experience: "I was troubled with Nervous Debility for many years. I lay it to indigestion and excesses in youth. I became very despondent and didn't care whether I worked or not. I imagined everybody who looked at me guessed my secret. Imaginative dreams at night weakened me—my back ached, had pains in the back of my head, hands and feet were cold, tired in the morning, poor appetite, fingers were shaky, eyes blurred, hair loose, memory poor, etc. Numbness in the fingers set in and the doctor told me he feared paralysis. I took all kinds of medicines and tried many first-class physicians, wore an electric belt for three months, but received little benefit. I was induced to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, though I had lost all faith in doctors. Like a drowning man I commenced the New Method Treatment and it saved my life. The improvement was like magic—I could feel the vigor going through the nerves. I was cured mentally and physically. I have sent them many patients and continue to do so.

of death was executed upon Edward Jardine at the county jail this morning just before eight o'clock.

Early this morning Rev. George E.
Ross, pastor of Knox Church, who has been the condemned man's spiritual adviser throughout his confinement, was with him, and the young man showed deep concern for his future welfare. For half an hour he broke down, but he recovered and walked to the scaffold apparently without a tremor.

Less than sixty seconds elapsed from the time the procession started from the cell until the trap dropped. Death resulted in 8½ minutes.

Before the black cap was adjusted Jardine bade good-bye to those about him, but made no further statement.

Jardine was never baptized until last evening, when at his earnest solicitation the rite was performed by Rev. Mr. Ross in a room beside the condemned man's cell, in the presence of the jail officials and guards.

Last evening Jardine dictated a statement which was written out by Rev.
Mr. Ross, and which, after reciting some details of his early life, concluded as follows:—

"As I now look back I wish I had kept on going to Sunday school and church regularly, and I advise every boy to do so, and keep in good company, I have asked God to forgive me anything I have done wrong, and I believe He has,
I believe the Lord Jesus Christ has died for me, and that whosoever believeth in Him has everlasting life.

"I hope all my chums will live long and live a good life, and trust in the Saviour I have learned to know. I wish to be buried in Colborne cemetery beside my father."

The main facts of the crime for which Jardine died are as follows.

Elizabeth Anderson, a girl of 16 years was missed from her home at Saltford, across the river from Goderich, on the night of September 20th last. A few days later the nude body was found with the throat cut in the cellar of a vacant house near the Fall fair grounds, where she and Jardine had been seen together on the 20th.

Two Killed, Five Injured.

Toronto June 18—Two persons killed and five injured was the result of an automobile accident at Hawkeston, near Orillia, on Saturday evening.

The dead are:

D. Wilson Briardwood, of 12 McGill street, superintendent of the gargage of the Toronto Electric Light Company.

Miss Florence Crawford, of 124 Howard Park avenue, Toronto, clerk for the Toronto Electric Light Company.

Injured:—Mrs George C. Thompson,
469 Euclid avenue, Toronto, Miss Bessie
Thompson, clerk for the Toronto Electric Light Company; Miss Maria Thompson,
Charles Bowden, of 103 Major street;
Henry G. Martin of Swansea.

Martin and Bowden are also employed by the Toronto Electric Light Company.

The injured have all returned to Toronto and will be around soon, with the exception of Charles Bowden, who sustained internal injuries.

The party were taking one of their accustomed week-end motor outings.
Their destination was Atherly, where they intended to remain over night.

The accident occurred on a steep hill near Hawkeston. Briardwood was driving and Miss Crawford was sitting with him in front. The road was heavy with sand and the car almost came to a stop.
Briardwood put on extra speed, and the clutch, which was working stiffly, jerked the car forward with such momentum that it skidded around and broke off the left front wheel. The car turned a half somersault into the ditch, Briardwood and Miss Crawford being fatally crushed under the engine, and throwing the other occupants some distance.

Neighboring farmers came to their assistance and summoned a physician, who found that Briardwood and Miss Crawford had been instantly killed. The others went on to Orillia by train and returned to Toronto this morning.

Miss Florence Crawford was a native of Milford, Michigan, and was living in Toronto with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs John Armstrong. She was about 21 years of age and had lived in Toronto for 10 years.

The inquest on the death of James Madill, killed in the International Limited train wreck, opened at Newcastle. Rev. A. M.
Irwin is foreman of the jury.

While travelling at the rate of 60 miles an hour, the westbound Grand Trunk limited was wrecked at 3.40 this afternoon at Newcastle, through the breaking of an axle on the first truck of the first passenger car, throwing the whole train off the track, killing one man and injuring more or less seriously twenty-five other passengers. The whole train was thrown off the track, seats were smashed into kindling wood and the cars tilted on their sides.

The train was about eighteen minutes late, and the driver was trying to make up time when the crash came. Engineer Blaylock applied the emergency brakes, and the train stopped in the space of about a hundred yards. The panic-stricken passengers hastily emerged through the broken vestibules, to find the train scattered in serpentine fashion along the track for a distance of two hundred yards. The body of James Madill was found crushed beneath the forward vestibule of the third passenger coach. In the first confusion it was thought that several others were pinned beneath the wreckage, but a hurried inspection by the train hands and the passengers showed that all others had escaped death.

First aid to the injured was rendered by Dr. McKay, of Oshawa; Dr. W. Connell, of Kingston, and another physician who were on the train. Half an hour afterwards Dr. Ford of Oshawa, came down on a special train summoned immediately after the wreck. The most seriously injured was Hector Leuphinias of St. Hyacinthe, a delegate to the International Convention of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union at St. Paul, Minn. He was picked up unconscious, but was revived shortly afterwards and taken to St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto on a special train.

The engine remained on the track although the tender was derailed. The first car, a combination baggage and passenger car, lost the forward truck. Both trucks of the next passenger car were jammed together under the floor at the middle, and nearly every seat inside was smashed into kindling wood.

The third car, fifteen yards behind was in a similar condition, with the body of Madill lying crushed in plain view of the horrified passengers. Behind this again, ten feet away, was the diner, with both trucks gone and tilted on its side across the eastbound track. The fifth car, a parlor buffet, had all its seats overturned. Behind this was the Pullman car Capitola, containing some thirty delegates from Massachusetts on their way to St. Paul to attend the convention of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union. Beyond a severe shaking up they escaped unhurt. The last car, also a Pullman, suffered least of all.

A wrecking train was hastened to the scene from York immediately on receipt of the news at headquarters. Both east-bound and westbound traffic was delayed until well on in the night.

An inquest has been ordered by Crown Attorney Kerr, of Cobourg.

Whirled Around Pulley.

Peterboro' June 16.—Hugh Darke, after being whirled around once between a 22-inch belt and a wooden test pulley at the Canadian Engine Works last night, died while the ambulance was taking him to the hospital. With another man he was working in his stooping position at the motor, and the man at the switch-board interpreted the action of his companion who stood up as a sign to turn on the power.

Fire in Cornwall Hotel.

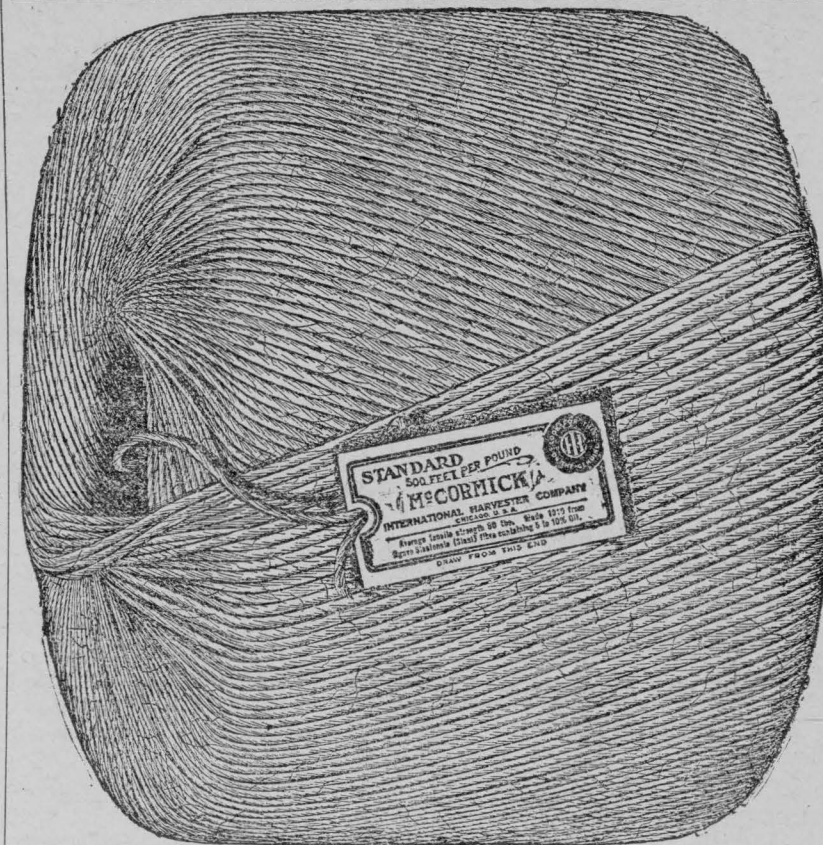

A fire started about 8.30 o'clock Tuesday evening in the north wing of the King George Hotel, where the servants' quarters are located, over the kitchen. The fire was caused by a defective chimney in a corridor, and was first noticed by the chef. An alarm was given and the fire brigade turned out promptly. George A. Stiles and Sim Riviere who were nearby ran in with several fire extinguishers from A. E. Evans store, next door, and checked the blaze till the firemen arrived and put it out. The corridor and the eight rooms adjoining were badly charred, and the servants lost most of their effects through fire and water.

Three sons of Mr. Thomas Fawcett, the eldest sixteen years old, were drowned while bathing at Shawanaga Station.

Another rumor has come from London regarding Lord Strathcona's resignation of the High Commissionership. It is discredited at Ottawa.

Mrs. Boad, wife of a prominent farmer near Oakwood, had her neck broken in a runaway.

THE SILENCE

It Deadened Two Lives For Many Dreary Years.

By JOHN BARTON OXFORD.

It hung conspicuously on the south wall—the only picture in the little bedroom. In the foreground, between two walls of water which reared themselves on either side in defiance of all natural laws, fat, bearded, complacent, stalked a herculean Moses. Behind him trailed the children of Israel, looking very like a mob of German peasants, while on the horizon the Egyptian hosts—sadly out of perspective—were threatened on every side by curling waves of gigantic proportions.

It had hung there in the same place for years, but it was only since the day he had been brought in from the barn, his right side useless from a stroke of paralysis, that Daniel Crosby had given the ancient, smoke-streaked woodcut more than a passing thought. He had been aware of its existence in a vaguely familiar way. If it had been taken down he would have missed it. He knew from the title underneath it was supposed to represent the passage of Israel, but heretofore he had never taken the trouble to notice further detail, save that it was yellowed by age and badly smirched in places by smoke from the adjacent kitchen.

But now it was different. As he lay there on the bed practically helpless and the June days went by in monotonous succession he found himself examining the picture minutely during the long, wakeful daylight hours when the breeze fluttered the chintz curtains at the windows and the bees droned among the blossoms of the syringa bushes just outside.

It came in time to have an unwholesome fascination for him. He began to wonder just how many children of Israel were represented in that cut, and to satisfy himself on this point he tried time and again to count them, beginning with the two patriarchal gentlemen just behind Moses, but always at the thirty-fourth the heads resolved themselves into a blurred mass that defied further enumeration. Day after day, hour after hour, he counted patiently, and steadily his anger at his own helplessness in the matter and his resentment of the blurred heads grew stronger. Try as he would to divert his mind to other things, it always returned pertinaciously to the picture and the all absorbing question of how many children of Israel there would be if he could once succeed in counting them all. He grew by slow degrees to hate that picture, yet with this hate the fascination was no whit lessened. Indeed, the stronger grew his hate the more frequent became his countings until at last he realized he could know no peace of mind until the picture was taken from the room.

It seemed the simplest of matters to have a picture removed from the walls of a bedroom, but in Daniel Crosby's case there were complications, and these complications lay in the fact that the only person to whom he could suggest that the picture be taken down was his wife, and between Crosby and his wife there had existed fourteen years of stubborn, unyielding silence.

It had come as the climax of numerous petty differences. They had wrangled long and fiercely. At the end of it Abby Crosby had burst into a flood of bitter, rebellious tears.

"You can rest assured of one thing, Dan'l Crosby," she had sobbed wretchedly. "I won't never, never open my mouth to you again 's long 's I live." He had smiled in superior fashion. "So be it," he had acquiesced. "It'll suit me perfectly. An' I'll see to it you ain't troubled with any remarks from me."

And from that bitter day, fourteen years before, they had lived together in silence with never so much as a word passing between them. Not even this paralysis which had stricken him in his advancing years could shake the stubborn pride of either of them. He had wondered vaguely that day the neighbors had borne him into the house and laid him on the bed if perchance in the excitement of the moment she would forget herself and speak to him, and he was rather proud of her self-restraint when she had not.

Silently she prepared his meals and brought them in to him; silently she massaged him and used the battery as the doctor had directed. He watched her narrowly day by day, all his longing for companionship in these hours of his helplessness carefully concealed beneath a cold exterior.

"If any one speaks first it'll be her," he told himself over and over.

So day after day as his wife came silently into the room and went silently out Daniel lay feebly fingering the sheets with his left hand, striving to conjure up some scheme which might rid him of the troublesome Israelites who refused to be counted above the thirty-fourth. At last in desperation—he had been counting, counting all day long—he decided to take the matter into his own hands. In the early dusk when he heard Abby go out the back door to shut up the barn and the hen-houses for the night he managed, by the use of his sound left arm, to slide himself out of the bed on to the floor.

Slowly, painfully, he contrived to reach the corner where an old cane with a crook handle leaned in the angle of the walls. Then with indomitable patience he wormed his way along the floor until he was beneath the picture. After several unsuccessful attempts he managed to hook the handle of the cane securely on to the frame, and, throwing his whole weight upon it, he dragged the picture crashing to the floor.

He listened for a moment, half expecting to hear his wife's footsteps on the back steps, but no one came. He dragged himself into the kitchen, pushing the picture before him. The cellar door was ajar. Thither he made his painful way and pulled it wide open. The mingled smell of damp earth and last season's vegetables greeted his nostrils. Without a pause he thrust the picture through the doorway and listened with many delightful chuckles as the children of Israel went bumping downward. Halfway down the frame stuck fast. That would never do. He pulled himself back to the bedroom to get the cane. With the aid of the cane he was sure he could reach down and complete the descent.

He had scarcely regained the bedroom when he heard his wife come in. He lay on the floor, spent and breathing hard. Perhaps she was going out again. He would lay low and wait. He heard her moving briskly about the kitchen for a time; then a door squeaked raucously on its hinges. There was only one door in the house that creaked in that fashion. It was the cellar door.

He heard her descending the cellar stairs cautiously, step by step, as if she were going down in the dark. Good Lord! She was going down, and that picture was lying there on the stairs. In the darkness she would never see it. It would send her headlong down more than half the flight.

Well, whatever happened he wouldn't speak before she spoke to him. He thumped the floor lustily with his fist. Undoubtedly she would come back, thinking he wanted something. He listened breathlessly. Creak, creak! She was still going down. She must be close upon that cursed picture. His fist was clinched; he bit his lips. But he wouldn't speak first, not if she went down a thousand flights of stairs. In an agony of suspense he thumped the floor again, and in his excitement he did not notice that this time he used his right hand.

"Abby, Abby! Come here, quick!" The words broke from his lips almost involuntarily. He heard her coming, floundering up the stairs in her haste, and he sank into a huddled heap, relief and shame struggling for the mastery of him.

Abby came running into the little bedroom. Her eyes fell first on the empty bed, then on the huddled figure on the floor.

"Father, father," she cried, sinking to her knees beside him, "what has happened?"

"Abby," he said severely, "do you know you're a talkin' to me?"

"I don't care. I'm glad of it," she confessed recklessly. "You spoke to me, father. You called me."

She sat down and lifted his head to her lap, stroking it tenderly as if he had been a child. "How came you to be out here?" she asked.

He smiled up at her sheepishly. "I took a notion to git that picture of the children of Isra'l out of the room," he explained. "It's bothered me a good deal of late, so I yanked it down with the cane an' slid it down the cellar stairs. Then you come in an' started to go down them stairs, an' I hollered to you. I was afraid you'd break your neck over it."

"Ten minutes ago I shouldn't 'a' cared much if I had broke my neck," she said, "but now—"

She drew him to her hungrily. Something warm and wet splashed on his forehead. Daniel coughed huskily.

"I guess you'd better git the children of Isra'l off the cellar stairs an' hang 'em on the south wall again," he said. "Somehow I feel 's if I could stan' 'em now."

The excavation work on the big naval drydock at Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands, is completed. The dock is to be 814 feet in length, 113 feet 4 inches in width at the entrance, and at mean high water it will have thirty-two and one-half feet of water over the keel blocks. Pearl Harbor itself, which is being improved, will be open to navigation probably late in 1912.—Scientific American.

Borden Had Big Winnipeg Meeting

Winnipeg, June 19.—The citizens of Winnipeg tendered Mr. R. L. Borden a magnificent reception to-night at the opening meeting of his western tour. The spacious Walker Theatre was crowded to the doors, and thousands, unable to get admittance, lined the adjacent streets to cheer the Conservative leader on his arrival and departure from the building.

It was an inspiring scene when Mr. Borden mounted the platform, accompanied by Hon. Robert Rogers and Messrs. Perley, Crothers, Bergeron and Broder. The whole audience rose en masse and cheered wildly for several minutes, and the ovation was renewed both at the commencement and close of Mr. Borden's address. In all it was a triumph not only for the leader but for western Conservatives, and gave the lie to those who declared that no voice would be raised against the reciprocity pact west of the Great Lakes.

The feature of the meeting was the underlying sentiment frequently expressed that a change was at hand. This found voice not only in the speeches but in the vociferous applause which greeted every remark that the reins of government would soon be in the hands of the Conservative party. And Mr. Borden made one of those vigorous speeches, logical to a degree, and possessing an amount of fire which held the attention of the throng on the hottest night of the year.

No portion of Mr. Borden's speech aroused greater enthusiasm than that in which he dealt with the question of reciprocity, and when, after drawing a graphic picture of the progress of Canada building up her trade and markets under the wise guidance of the statesmen of bygone years, he dramatically shouted "And we will not allow this splendid record to be sullied and tarnished by any schemes of the Tafts, Fieldings and Lauriers." There was a perfect pandemonium of enthusiasm.

How to Live Long

With healthy kidneys one has a good chance to live long but weak kidneys afflict old age with great discomforts. The back becomes bent and lame, rheumatism is chronic, eyesight fails and too frequent or involuntary passages of the urine cause embarrassment by day and loss of sleep by night.

Booth's Kidney Pills bring new strength to old backs and quick relief to weakened kidneys. They banish backache and rheumatism pain regulate the bladder and urine.

W. T. R. Preston Files His Statement of Claim.

Ottawa June 16.—The statement of claim in the action of W. T. R. Preston against the Ottawa Journal and its editor P. D. Ross, for alleged libel, has been filed. It details that as commissioner in the Netherlands, Mr. Preston got Dutch capitalists interested in Canadian securities to incorporate a company to deal in western farm mortgages. Then news was received by one of the proposed directors discouraging to the operations of the company, and which caused certain men interested to withdraw. Mr. Preston wrote an official letter to the department of trade and commerce regarding it, and on being authorized to investigate wrote a letter to the effect that these discouraging statements had come from Chas. Fitzpatrick. Sir Charles wrote an official letter denying it, and Mr. Preston wrote a letter claiming that he believed his information—that it was Sir Charles—was conclusive.

The claims take exception to the term "Ananias Club" as inferring that he, Mr. Preston, is untruthful and not worthy of confidence. Further, it is alleged that "minor branches" seeks to hold him up to ridicule in that he has acted dishonestly in the various countries in which he has been in public service, and that the editorial suggests that the government dismiss him from his position. The action is for $5000 damages.

Collector Put Money in Farmers Bank

Brockville, June 16.—Suit was entered here to-day by the township of Bastard and Burgess against Ormond Chant, a tax collector, and his bondsmen, Noah Chant and John M. Davis, to recover $4,483. The case is an echo of the failure of the Farmers Bank. The collector deposited the above amount the week previous to the failure in the Phillipsville branch, and received a draft, which he handed over to the treasurer. The latter filed it in the Union Bank on Friday, but before it reached Toronto for payment the Farmers Bank collapsed on the following Monday.

South Leeds Conservative.

Brockville, June 17.—A splendid convention of the Conservative Association of South Leeds was held yesterday in Delta, when the political issues were freely and fully discussed by Dr. Edwards M. P. Frontenac, and the representatives of the riding at Ottawa and Toronto, Geo. Taylor and John R. Dargavel. The presidency of the association, left vacant by the recent appointment of Dr. McCammon to the position of sheriff of Leeds and Grenville, was filled by the unanimous election of Capt. T. M. Cornell of Gananoque, who occupied the chair. The various speakers were accorded an enthusiastic hearing.

Mr. Dargavel confined himself to provincial affairs and an eulogy of the Whitney Administration.

Dr. Edwards and Mr. Taylor dealt exhaustively with the reciprocity pact, which was roundly secured, both showing the injurious effect on the commercial and national life of Canada by its adoption.

Arthur Vallee Placed on Trial for Murder

Valleyfield, Que., June 19.—The criminal term for the district was opened this morning under the presidency of Hon. Justice Mercier. The only case was that of Arthur Vallee, accused of murder at St. Martine in the latter part of December, 1910. The Grand Jury elected Theodore Bourdoin as their president. Judge Mercier made his charge in both French and English, explaining the nature of the case and the duty of the Grand Jury, after which they proceeded to form the petty jury.

Cutting Live Wire got Fatal Shock.

Robert D. Byers, chief electrician on the dredges used in cleaning out the canal by the St. Lawrence River Power Company, was instantly killed in the carbon building of the Aluminum Company at Cornwall by coming in contact with a live electric wire carrying 2,200 volts. Mr. Byers had gone to the carbon building to remove a starting box to the dredge. He was not familiar with the wiring of the apparatus and cut three wires, but left three more, it being double wired. He cut one of these wires and when the piers came into contact with the second, he received the full voltage and toppled over gasping. He died in a few hours.

Mr. Byers was in his thirty-sixth year. He was born at Ponteford, and was a son of William Byers, who now lives at Orono, Ont. He was married.

Dewar—Sheills,

At Windsor Ont. on Monday evening June 12, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Sheills, formerly of Williamstown, Glengarry county, when their daughter, Caroline, was united in marriage to Frank Stewart Dewar, Rev. J. C. Tolmie, officiating. The bride looked charming in a gown of white embroidery and carried bridal roses. Miss Agnes Sheill, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Leon L. Dewar of Chicago was best man. After the ceremony, luncheon was served and the young couple left on a month's trip to Winnipeg and other western cities.
