Ontario Hydro to sell off property in Iroquois and Matilda Township

During the building of the St. Lawrence Power Project and the St. Lawrence Seaway, Ontario Hydro acquired through purchase about 35,000 acres of land. Twenty to twenty-five thousand acres of that were necessary to the actual projects. The other 10,000 to 15,000 acres were surplus.

In the intervening thrity or so years, Ontario Hydro has attempted to divest itself on the surplus property. To quote a spokesman for Ontario Hydro, "the job of disposing of the surplus lands has been an ongoing process since the late 50's." However, the process has been certainly a slow one. At present, Ontario Hydro still owns 7,000 to 8,000 acres of the surplus. Hydro claims that the process was necessarily slow 'so not to glut the market with large tracts of development land.'

On the other hand, much of the retained land is considered 'wetlands' and is landlocked between Highway 401 and the relocated CNR tracks, making it not too marketable.

Ontario Hydro has amended its policy to allow listing on some of these properties with area real estate brokers; thereby hastening the sale of the surplus lands. Prices have been set at the appraised market value for the locality.

In the Village of Iroquois, 300 acres, mostly north of Highway 2 and some east of Caldwell's will be sold. In Matilda and Williamsburg Townships, there is a total of 800 to 1,000 acres. At present, property listed includes four building lots on old Highway 2 at the foot of Saver Road, one building lot large enough for severing into two lots in Lot 13, Concession 1 and a commercial building lot in Lot 2, RP 50, Village of Iroquois.

Properties slated for future listing are Lot 6, Concession 1 and Lot 11, Concession 1 Matilda Township, as well as Block A RP 61, east of Hustler Crescent in Iroquois. The old CNR right-of-way west of Iroquois is available to abutting owners as well.

Mr. Don Runciman, Property Administrator, Eastern Region, Ontario Hydro, told the Post "Hydro policy requires that the municipalities and the Ministry of Government Services have the first right-of-refusal on all properties that are proposed for sale. In this manner, the plans and aspirations of these public agencies are protected."

The listings of the properties are being handled by John A. Allison and Gordon W. Thom real estate brokers.

Legion extends invitation to community to attend memorial service on Sunday

The Iroquois Branch of the Royal Canadian Legion will hold the Annual Remembrance Day Services on Sunday, November 8, 1981 at the Civic Center in Iroquois.

The parade will form up at the branch on Dundas Street and move off at 2:00 p.m. For the service at 2:30 p.m. After the service the parade will form up and proceed to the cenotaph for the memorial and laying of wreaths. Following this, the parade will return to the Branch.

All the people in Iroquois and Matilda are welcome to attend the service in the Civic Center and at the Cenotaph. If they so wish they can march in the parade.

They gave their lives: can we not give one hour?

Brinston area none too quiet at Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en in the Brinston area starts in the home with the preparation of treats. These are made ready for the children who go door trick or treating, dressed in costume. These little visitors bring enjoyment to people of the community; especially the aged and shut ins.

As the evening goes on the older generation gets out and onto the streets. And then the problems begin.

This past Hallowe'en there were incidents of road signs broken and destroyed, street lights broken, business signs broken and destroyed, personal property dragged into the street and destroyed or burned, and roads blocked to traffic. Passing motorists and pedestrians were harrassed by gangs throwing beer bottles, rocks and eggs.

A large fire was set on the street blocking the roadway and the fire department had to be called to attend the blaze.

Police were in attendance as well to clear the road and asked for assistance from local people to clean up the mess made by the gang. While the officers worked, the gang continued their barrage of beer bottles, rocks and eggs resulting in a few officers being injured in the incident.

Brinston area merchants would like Matilda Township Council to look into the vandalism problem more closely and investigate and publish figures relating the costs to taxpayers for repair and clean up of these acts. These costs would include police protection, fire department service, road clean up crew, road sign replacement, personal property damage and street light repairs.

Hallowe'en should be left to the children who enjoy it and make it a joy to the community, not to those who are unable to conduct themselves in a mature and sober manner.

DuPont complies with Transport of Dangerous Goods Act

by Wende Butcher

In November, 1980, the federal government proclaimed the Transportation of Dangerous Goods Act. Transport Canada instituted its Transport of Dangerous Goods Branch in Ottawa 8 years ago, to review and make recommendations about existing legislation governing the transport of hazardous materials in Canada.

The November 1980 legislation arose from that review and corresponding dialogue with industry members and shippers. The act covers all movement by all modes of transport - air, marine, rail and truck-throughout Canada.

However, the Act itself is only a legal instrument to permit better control over transport of dangerous goods. The defining regulations won't appear in the Canada Gazette until spring of 1982.

The regulations, when published, will be a 'rule-book' for anyone who manufactures, packages or ships dangerous commodities.

After publication of the regulations, a period of grace will give companies concerned the necessary time to prepare for the enforcement.

CANUTEC, the branch's information centre in Ottawa, has a 24 hour emergency toll-free number, 613-966-6666, for calllers to report any emergency situation involving a hazardous material.

In the interim between now and publication of the regulations, the emphasis will be on educating the public as well as companies about what to do in the event of a spill or similar emergency.

Du Pont of Canada has been concerned with safety in transportation of its products for several years. Each division has been required to have emergency plans to coincide with the corporation's transportation emergency plan since 1967.

Duncan Blatchford, Senior Engineering Specialist at Du Pont, is also Du Pont's representative in the Canadian Chemical Producers Association and has been instrumental in organizing Du Pont's Corporate Chemical Response Team.

Du Pont, a manufacturer of chemicals, ships raw materials in and finished products out which are classified hazardous and are regulated. Consequently, they have provided on-going training of employees to ensure proper handling and shipping of dangerous substances. Employees are taught the rules of transporting such materials including providing proper documentation and necessary information on any given substance. An information sheet accompanies shipping papers for hazardous materials and includes their 24 hour emergency telephone number in case of an accident. Employees are also taught how to inspect containers before opening or shipping; to look for damage or leaks; to check gasket and valves. They also learn to spot obvious defects. For example, missing brake shoes on train cars.

In addition to Du Pont's emergency plan, an emergency response team is available to any division of the corporation, which provides training, tools and specialized equipment. An emergency vehicle is available for driving distances and priority jet charter service for longer distances.

Du Pont is the only major plant in this area which handles substances regulated under the Transportation of Dangerous Goods Act.

Principal tells Lions

Changing social situation a challenge

Local Lions Club members and their guests enjoyed a talk by Phil Lloyd, the new principal at Seaway District High School, on Monday evening Oct. 26. Mr. Lloyd told the group how pleased he was to be working in the village, which he noted was halfway between his two past centres of activity - Alexandria and Kingston.

Mr. Lloyd served most recently as principal of Glengarry District High School in Alexandria and before that was teaching in Kingston.

He listed three of the main challenges facing educators today, saying that it is virtually impossible for schools to be able to tell now what the job situation and society in general will be in 30 years. "All we can do is teach integrity, confidence, and instill in the students a desire to learn," he said.

The first challenge he listed was the changing social situation which includes more single parents, more children born out of wedlock and children whose parents both work. This, he said, puts more of the job of discipline and social instruction on the schools.

Declining enrolment was also listed as a serious challenge. Keeping costs in line, while offering a balanced program is going to be more difficult in the future as the numbers of young people entering the school system drops. He noted that Seaway's attendance of 696 is projected to be 490 by 1985.

The final challenge the principal listed was the increasing complexity of education. With computers, information retrieval systems and the other technology of the 21st century, it is becoming necessary for boards of education to hire consultants to keep them on top of the latest trends and equipment.

Also present at the meeting was Lions Zone Chairman, Chick Labelle of Cornwall Township Lions Club. He brought greetings to the Iroquois-Matilda Lions and spoke on membership development.

Business included a discussion about the role the Lions Club will play in the 125th anniversary of Iroquois next summer. It is also the 35th anniversary of the formation of the Iroquois Lions, so the group is planning a couple of special events. These may include a barbecue, pancake breakfast and the annual Charter Anniversary night.

It was also noted that a number of Lions members will be marching in the annual Remembrance Day parade on November 8th in Iroquois.

Iroquois-Matilda Lions Club's annual Hallowe'en party was an unqualified success and upwards of a hundred children and adults turned out for a night of fun and games.

Prizes were given out in various age categories and a wide variety of excellent costumes was displayed.

Here are some unusual and not-so-unusual ways to conserve energy

By Paul Jacot

Canadians across the country are thinking about energy conservation more than ever before. With the increasing cost of oil and natural gas, the need to cut back on consumption has become a necessity.

With this heightened awareness, Canadians are also finding that developing good conservation habits around the home does not lower their standard of living.

For example, installing double-glazed windows, adding insulation, and even turning down the furnace to 10°C (50°F) while away on winter vacation saves money and valuable fuel without affecting our lifestyles.

Many people don't actually realize just how much money and fuel can be saved. Take storm windows for example. They can cut a home heating bill by 20 per cent. That is a $100 saving on a $500 fuel bill. If every user of home heating oil were to cut back by 20 per cent, we would save 18 million barrels of oil a year. Her cost was $383. The Federal Government picked up $350 of the cost, leaving only $33 for her to pay. What was so appealing was that in the first year she saved $400 on her heating bill.

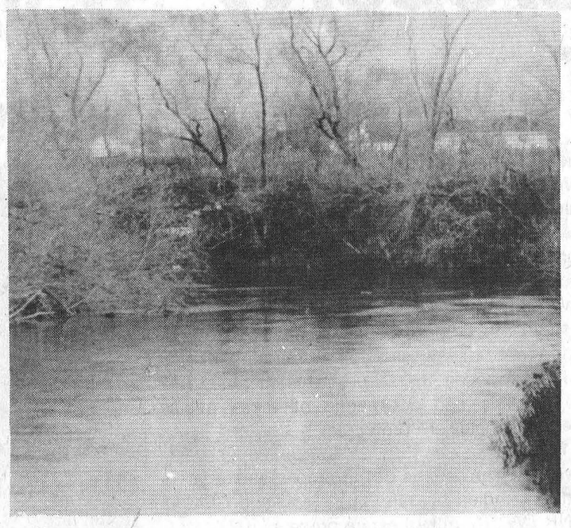

We have all heard of various ways to conserve but here are a few unusual methods.

- Washing clothes in cold water saves 24 cents each wash (or 16 cents for rinsing only in cold water). The average family, with four wash loads a week, would save $30 to $50 a year.
- Showers use as much as five gallons less hot water than baths. If a family of four switched from baths to showers, the hot water bill in a year would be reduced by almost $88.

We are motivated to conserve because it saves us money. But keep in mind that the less oil we consume, the easier it is for Canada to become oil self-sufficient. Canada has the potential to become oil self-sufficient but currently we produce only 75 per cent of our crude oil needs. The other 25 per cent is purchased from foreign countries at a cost of $14 million each day.

By conserving energy, we will be helping to do our part in becoming self-sufficient. That $14 million a day could then stay in Canada to provide more jobs at home.

Paul Jacot is with the Public Affairs Department of Shell Canada Limited.

Nation water levels at all time high

Water levels in the South Nation River and connecting waterways are at an all time high, according to Project Engineer at the South Nation River Conservation Authority, Dell Hallett.

According to Mr. Hallett, there have been 5 separate flooding incidents along the river just this year. "That's never happened, to my knowledge, before" he told the Post.

Flooding has been reported at Brinston and south of Vernon in the Iroquois area.

How the record levels will affect spring run-off is hard to predict, says Mr. Hallett. There are several determining factors such as level of moisture in the soil, snow pack and spring temperatures, all of which make it possible to foretell the situation.

Past District Deputy Lloyd Eyamie made the presentations to Miss Shari E. Rowland attending Kemptville College of Agriculture Technology, Miss Karen MacDougall attending Queen's University, Miss Jennifer Ride attending the University of Western Ontario and Miss Joan C. Dixon's Corners public school activities report

by Debbie Smyth and leo Valiquette

A couple of weeks ago Grade 1 visited the Brinston Library. During their visit they learned how to become a member, what the sections of the books there are and what the Matilda Township Seal is.

On Thursday the twenty-ninth we had a Hallowe'en party in the gym. Each grade parades around and the judges pick out three winners from each class. Then we sing some Hallowe'en songs and Mr. Hallam tells one or two ghost stories. Everybody has fun that afternoon.

On Friday the thirteenth is P.D. day. All of the teachers will be attending a workshop on stress at the Cornwall Civic Complex.

This week Mr. Hallam has been practising with the flag football team. They will be playing an exhibition game against Nationview some time this week.

Also this week grades four, five and six have been making posters for Remembrance Day. Three or four have been picked from each of the three classes. They will be sent to the Iroquois Legion for final judging.

DO WE REALLY REMEMBER?

With each passing generation we seem to get farther and farther away from the true spirit of Remembrance of the men and women who died while fighting for their country. Or do we remember those thousands who spent a lifetime in hospital or walking around minus limbs or with tormented souls?

Mothers, daughters, sons, aunts, uncles, grandparents . . . they still remember well the events that took from them a loved one in the prime of life but they too, are getting fewer in number as the years roll by.

Many veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict are still with us but Legion membership dwindles steadily over the years and fewer are left to remember.

But whether you served your country in the armed forces or not, a debt that can never be repaid is owed by all of us not just to the veterans who we see on our streets or at meetings; but to those passed away. While the world we live in might not suit us from time to time, it is a far better world than we might now have had it not been for the dedication and sacrifice of the men and women who have gone on before us. Whether we knew them personally or not should have no bearing on whether we take time out just once a year to pay respect to their memory.

In each community there will be a remembrance service near the eleventh of November and there is always an open invitation to all who live in this country to attend. In memory of men and women who died for us, it is little enough that is asked.

Legion branches everywhere extend a hand in friendship to the populace to join in an hour in which we can for that moment, try to recall the friendships lost, try to remember faces and events of the past, or in the least to show the respect we have for a generation of Canadian youth who had a love greater than anything else in service to mankind.

As you watch the short parade go by and into the hall in your community this year, take a close look at the faces that are getting older, listen to the speakers as they relate what war meant to them, what it meant to lose neighbours and friends, or perhaps the speaker lived in a land that had been invaded by the enemy and lived through a different kind of Hell.

There are many aspects to war, none of them pleasant. People are affected in myriad ways when war hits anywhere in the world. The invaded suffer many indignities at the least, and civil rights as we know them in this country, cease to exist.

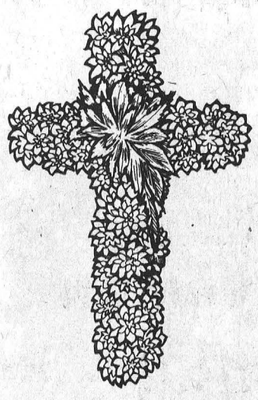

When one thinks about the thousands of privileges and pleasures derived from living in a free country such as Canada, that in itself should make us thankful and draw us together on November 11th. When one recalls that in recent memory there has not been a war touch our shores directly, we should give thanks. The people of Canada, except those who saw action or service or lived in a foreign land, do not know the devastation that befalls a people caught in the middle of war. Of being invaded and your land and building taken from you or destroyed, of watching your people terrorized or worse.

Yes, we may have many things to remember this November 11th; we have many things to be thankful for. Remembrance Day services are more than a testimonial to the love we felt for those who died for us; it is a memorial to man's inhumanity to man throughout the world. It should also be a time to rejuvenate our intentions to help make the world a better place to live, in our home, our towns and villages and in our dealings with those in the world who need our help.

What a way to make remembrance day more meaningful now and in those years that are ahead of us. Take the time at this year's service to dedicate your lives to the betterment of mankind wherever he lives. It will be a fitting tribute to those veterans who can't be with us at this year's service.

Lest We Forget

Storm windows

By Bill Smiley

For years or more, we got along fine with ordinary storm windows.

Oh, I'll admit they caused a certain amount of domestic hassle, chiefly because they were put on too late in the fall, or taken off too early in the spring, according to the old lady.

But she's always in a rush to "get things done." I get them done, eventually. Never once did I fail to find someone who would put them on before Christmas.

And they were kind of ugly. And they did warp. And they did have to be painted. And it was costing more money every year to get someone to do the job.

But, ah, what a good feeling I had every fall when I'd conned some guy with a strong back to do the job. I wouldn't touch them with a six-foot pole.

It's a big house, and there were 14 of the brutes, weighing about 70 pounds each. I don't mind heights, as long as I'm not attached to the ground. I've been up to 32,000 feet, all by myself, in a Spitfire, and higher than that in passenger jets.

But it takes all my nerve to climb a step ladder and change a bulb in the kitchen, with my wife holding the ladder.

There was no way I was going to climb 30 feet up a ladder, carrying a 70 pound storm window, and punch and hammer it into place.

I always had a vision of a wind catching the storm broadside when I was half-way up, and taking me off for a hang-gliding trip.

That actually happened to one chap who was doing the job one fall. A gust caught him and he sailed off the ladder, landed on his feet like a cat, still clutching the window, and nothing was damaged. He just grinned.

That was Jim Fletcher, a young fellow who was completely unafraid of work. Made his living at cleaning floors, windows, etc. and built up a nice little business, scrubbing out banks and stores and such at nights.

You don't see too many merchants or bank managers in there scrubbing their floors after they've closed, do you? Might do them good.

Jim used to charge $14 to put on the storms, which included washing them, and washing the outside of the regular windows, storing the screens. It took him a couple of hours. In the spring, he'd take them off, wash everything again, store them, for $10.

The price went up steadily after he went to greener pastures, and the quality of the workmen went steadily downhill. Some of the young guys I hired took twice as long and charged twice as much. Sometimes the windows would stick and they'd leave it with a one-inch gap around half of it. One bird put his fist through a storm and bled all over the place. Another dropped one and glassed half my front lawn.

Last year, I had a young fellow, newly started in the cleaning-up of properties, raking leaves, that sort of thing. I gave him the job of doing the estate, provided he'd do the storms.

He looked pretty dubious, but agreed. Brought his wife around on her day off to hold the ladder. Well, he got them all, but he was pea-green and his legs were rubber, when he'd finished. He swore he'd never do them again.

By this time it was costing me almost $100 a year to get the brutes on and off. Not to mention a great deal of harassment from the distaff side, and a frantic search for a putteronner. Nobody on unemployment insurance was vaguely interested.

All this, combined with the energy crisis propaganda, made me cave in, and we had aluminum storms put on. I could have paid $100 a year for the next 13 years if I'd stuck with the old wooden ones.

"But look what you'll save on fuel", you say. Probably 50 bucks a year. "It will increase the value of your house," someone else says. Maybe. By a few hundred.

But it's not the money that bothers me. You can't take it with you. Seems to me you can't take a house with you either.

No, it's not the money; it's the stress. My wife thinks godliness is second to cleanliness. Those windows have to be washed spring and fall, and may-be a few times between.

According to the brochure, and the dealer, there's nothing to it. You just tear off the wooden inside frame, hoist your inside window, push this, pull that, and the storm comes in.

You wash it. Then you get out the ledge, hanging on by one hand and one foot, 30 feet off the ground, and clean the outside. After which, if you get back in, you just zip, whip, slide, lower your inside window, and hammer back on your now splintered wooden frame.

My wife and a girl who comes to help her have wrestled with those things, got them stuck, got them in but not on the rails, and generally found the whole process like roping a steer.

I don't blame them. I've always had an aluminum door on my back door, and spring and fall I nearly rupture myself, swear like a sailor, threaten to smash the thing with an axe, and take an hour just to slide the screen up and let the storm down, or vice versa.

One of these days I expect to come home and find two women each clutching an aluminum window, unconscious on my lawn. Or hanging by one foot from an upper window, screaming for help.

CITIZENS' TO CITIZENS

By Colin Brown

Last week we wrote about the technical feasibility of setting up a citizen-initiated referendum system in Canada. The core of it would be a mini-computer the size of a briefcase. The citizen marks a card and drops it in the computer. In seconds the computer records the opinion, prints the cumulative totals on the card, and pops the card up for the citizen to keep. The computer can be carried from place to place, in town and country, and operated wherever there is a computer terminal, which means almost everywhere in Canda.

* * * * * * * * * * *

To prove the system's feasibility, the National Citizens' Coalition conducted an experiment. The computer was set up, at different times, in three Toronto locations. The 2,148 respondents were of all ages and from a variety of occupations. The questions asked, and the answers, were: 1. "If enough voters ask for the opportunity, should a special vote on a national issue be held which is binding on the government (like California's Proposition 13)?" 79% marked yes. 2. "Pensions for MPs and civil servants are protected against inflation. Who should pay for this protection?" 84% thought MPs and civil servants should pay for the indexing. 3. "What do you think about federal government spending?" 33% thought it was the main cause of inflation; 29% that it was out of control; 29% that it was too high; 10% that it was about right or too low. 4. "Should civil servants have the right to strike?" 48% thought none should have the right; 39% thought only those in non-essential services; 13% marked yes.

* * * * * * * * * * *

Under the jury system, twelve men and women, picked at random, discharge the ultimate responsibility of judging a fellow citizen's guilt or innocence. Are they not equally capable of judging issues that affect their own lives?

Bird Notes

by E. G. AVERY

The Grosbeaks are coming, the Bluejays are coming, the Nuthatches are coming, and it looks as though a busy season is in store for the bird watchers.

First reports of Grosbeaks came from a feeding station owner in Prescott, a week ago. To-day we have them in Iroquois. It seems that they are just as hungry and just as noisy as ever.

Not long ago we received a little verse which ties in perfectly with the surprise visit from a lone Robin on Sunday. We haven't had a Robin in the yard in weeks, so it was good to see this one in very good shape, quite perky and well-fed. We felt we should rush out and read the poem to him, but of course Robins are very independent birds, and he would probably have said something like "don't panic, there's lots of time". Just the same, he wouldn't be the first Robin to get caught in winter's first practise run.

Late Robin

Grapes that were blue on the green
Are wine in the barrel
Here, where late berries remain,
Is Champagne for the sparrow
Robin red breast, do you know
Your friends are all going
What's more, do you know, your grey feathers are showing?

Songster of spring, winter will soon
At your youth be prying
It is time, wild geese beckon,
And you should be flying
Lover of spring and April days,
Do you know snow
Will soon be blowing?
Last spring's robin
It's time to be going!

To the editor ...

Dear Sir:

After living in the town of Iroquois for the last five years we thought it was a respectable town.

Looking out the window the morning after Hallowe'en we couldn't believe it! Our blue car was covered with lines of orange paint and scratches. This is not the work of innocent children.

How can anybody be so destructive? It wasn't a joke! Did they stop to think of the cost involved?

Dear Sir:

The official opening of the Christmas Seal Campaign is November 1st, 1981.

Christmas Seals are multi-coloured stamps customarily used to decorate cards, letters packages and presents. The seals support the work of the Lung Association across Canada. The Canadian Lung Association was the first non-profit voluntary health organization in Canada to fight Tuberculosis and was founded in the year 1900. Today Lung Associations are working against all lung diseases including asthma, bronchitis, emphysema, lung cancer and peneumonia.

Almost six million homes across Canada receive Christmas Seals in the mail and thousands of volunteers help in the vital work of the Lung Association.

25 percent of the Canadian population . . . more than 5.8 million-people. . .suffer lung abnormalities due to lung disease. Respiratory disease is responsible for moreloss of time at work and school than any other health hazard.

Canada hopes to raise $6,000.000 in this years campaign Eastern Counties Lung Assoc. hope to raise $35,000 as their part in this years Christmas Seal campaign. "Please Give to Christmas Seals".

Dear Sir:

The Red Cross is a voluntary non-profit organization dedicated to the relief of suffering and distress wherever it occurs. Its ability to serve is dependent on the generosity of people like you, the very people it serves.

Most of the citizens of Dundas County are aware of the Red Cross services most frequently used in the area:

Blood Donor Recruitment, Homemaker Service, Sickroom Equipment Loan Service - (wheelchairs, beds, walkers), Emergency Assistance.

However, many other services such as Health and Safety programmes for schools, Water Safety public education, programme development and leadership training, Disaster relief, Tracing and Reunion provided by the Provincial, National and International Red Cross are financially assisted by your contribution.

Our objective for the 1981 Campaign is $6,000. The continued support of the citizens of Dundas County will help attain this goal and thereby maintain Red Cross Services to our communities.

Thank you,
E. Earl Eaton,

Queen's Park update

by Norm Sterling, MPP Carelton-Grenville

Now that we have turned the clocks back and the days are shorter, it means that we have to increase our energy consumption and it also brings on the cold hard weather of winter.

Winter naturally brings to mind the use of more energy to heat our homes and to operate our cars and trucks. The winter climate in Canada forces us to use more energy.

We must try to conserve our precious energy so that we don't have to depend on other countries to supply us with oil. Achieving energy security is a high priority of the Ontario Government.

Therefore, Ontario is undertaking a comprehensive program to conserve and develop alternate energy sources. Oil will play a dominant role in our energy future. The more control we have over oil, the better we will be able to plan for the future.

The Premier, William Davis, was pleased to announce in the Legislature at the start of the fall session that the Government had purchased 25 percent of Suncor Inc. the Canadian subsidiary of the Sun Company Inc. of Pennsylvania.

Suncor is Canada's fifth largest oil company. It has a chain of over 500 service stations in Ontario. Suncor also manufactures, distributes and markets gasoline, petro-chemicals, home heating oil and heavy fuel oil as well as owning and operating a refinery in Sarnia.

The purchase of Suncor could't have been made possible without the Ontario Energy Resources Limited, a subsidiary of the Ontario Energy Corporation. The Ontario Energy Coropration was established in 1974 to invest in Canadian energy projects.

This purchase will start the process whereby Canadians will own their petroleum plus it will give Ontario a voice in the oil industry's activities.

Previously, Suncor was directed and managed by Canadians but almost 100 percent of its shares were owned by the parent company in the United States.

The purchase of Suncor will mean greater control as the Sun Company has assured Ontario they will now look for other Canadian investors so that eventually at least 51 percent of Suncor shares will be owned by Canadians.

As a major shareholder in a major Canadian oil company, Ontario will now be directly involved in the oil industry. This new responsibility wil give us a stronger voice in determining energy policies in Canada and a greater understanding of the many aspects of this vital and complex industry.

I must point out that the Ontario government can't act alone in energy conservation. There are many ways to conserve and we all must do our part in saving our energy. The Government has a variety of homeowner grant, loan, tax exemption and other assistance programs available for energy conservation and oil substitution in Ontario homes.

RAISED BEDS

After weeks of rain, November brings a break. Warm and sunny, it seemed like one last chance to get out in the garden. Summer bulbs to lift and Spring bulbs to plant; it was getting a little late to do either.

The garden digging left no doubt that the rainfall had been heavy; both spade and shoes came out covered in mud. Will have to find a place to dry the bulbs off before putting them in winter storage.

The planting job was a complete contrast; using a small trowel and hands, the daffodils and scillas went into soil that was warm and loose. The difference - 'raised beds'.

Probably most noticeable at the beginning and end of the season is the ease in working the beds.

Because they're raised, they drain well and without cold wet conditions; plants, that would often be difficult to grow, do very well. The fertilizer that is applied doesn't leach out into surrounding area; compost can be worked in where it's needed, with a trowel instead of a fork, and in mid summer when extra water is needed it can be concentrated in a small area, saving water and time.

What appeals to me most is the ease of maitenance. Beds that are no more than 4 feet wide, can be worked from either side, making it unnecessary to walk on the growing area. This factor alone saves labour; because the soil is not compacted, weeds that might get started are easily pulled by hand. The upkeep of weeding seems less a chore: anything that shouldn't be growing, always seem to wear a sign 'weed me'. If railway ties are used as support walls, there is the added pleasure of being able to sit while you weed.

Neighbours who had decided on raised beds, were late getting their garden in. The 6 beds were planted.

Planting in raised beds has long been practised in Europe, and is often known as the French Intensive method or 'square foot gardening'. It was interesting to watch this put in practise this summer. The six beds (approx. 4 x 8) were planted, each with its own crop; despite a late start, the harvest per sq. ft. was surprising much better than many surrounding gardens, my own included.

Bed construction can be as varied as the materials at hand. Railway ties, start at $5 for beat-up, haul your own, up to $20 each for top grade; a word of caution, although they are attractive they are also very heavy.

Large rocks, broken concrete, treated lumber, cinder blocks and scrap wood may all be used; the most important point to remember is width, no more than 4 feet; length as long as practical.

One of my favorite gardeners has built a solar cold frame, smack on top of one of his raised beds - and is able to supply his neighbours with tomatoes, weeks ahead of their own. The latest word from him, was that 3 kinds of lettuce had been planted and were coming along nicely should be having home grown salad for Christmas.

For those not quite so energetic, a generous top dressing this time of year will replenish the soil for next Spring's head start.

What is "new" oil anyway?

By Paul Jacot

"NEW" OIL — The recently-signed agreement between Alberta and the Federal Government makes mention of "new" and "old" oil. For the purposes of the energy agreement, "new" oil is oil from newly discovered fields and oil sands, and also enhanced recovery from conventional reservoirs and frontier areas.

"OLD" OIL — Under the energy pact, "old" oil is oil recovered from a pool initially discovered prior to January 1, 1981.

OIL SANDS — tar sands or heavy oil deposits. Tar sands are a mixture of sand and heavy crude oil, tar-like in consistency. It cannot be extracted by conventional oil drilling technology because it does not flow like conventional crude oil.

Writer sketches ten year history of library system

BY Alex Mullin

Ten years is time enough to establish a place in the community. Yet it is still comparatively easy to look back to the beginning of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Library.

It is a suitable occasion, therefore, as the Seaway Valley Library System marks its tenth anniversary, to look back, not only for well-merited congratulations on what has been accomplished, but also to examine briefly some of the more fundamental ideas and purposes by and for which it functions.

Libraries are far from new, even locally, and through a considerable amount of self-sacrifice, a number of public spirited people kept a local library service alive in these United Counties right up to the formation of Seaway Valley Library System, which now functions in every municipality except Iroquois, which has opted to keep its own system.

But it was generally recognized prior to the establishment of the system we have now that local libraries needed access to more books and more recently published books if they were to flourish, and the substantial areas of the counties which had no access to libraries (practically speaking) would benefit from such a service, and it would be welcomed and made use of by the people.

What the libraries needed back then was a combination of modern communications with the long-established concept of self-education (not to mention cultural improvement or amusement) through the use of a collection of books.

It seems self-evident now, but it wasn't quite so clear back in April, 1968, that the public wanted and would heartily welcome a better and more comprehensive library service. It was that month that the Eastern Ontario Regional Library System signed a contract with Cornwall Public Library to provide bookmobile service to the United Counties.

The service was to be financed by the EORLS and carried out by Cornwall Public Library.

Herman Nyland, the superintendent of the Seaway Valley Libraries, recalls that it didn't begin well. The first day of bookmobile service, November 18, 1968, had to be cancelled because of icy roads. The service actually began November 19, 1968.

The preliminary work had been done well. Some people will remember the baby bookmobile, a tiny English-made van which was the same color and bore a surprising resemblence to the first bookmobile, with which the routes were scouted. In the first few years the actual bookmobile was in operation an average of 180 books were checked out each hour of service. There was 603 borrowers registered the first time the bookmobile visited Alexandria.

In the meantime, while the bookmobile was becoming solidly established in the fabric of area society and culture, pilot projects were under way for more permanent reading facilities. Between July 1968 and December 1969 reading centres opened in Finch, at Avonmore and Moose Creek.

August 1969 was something of a landmark as the old one-room school at South Mountain was sold to Mountain Township for a nominal one dollar, on condition it be used for a public library. As well, some books and shelves to hold more were donated from the nearby high school, then being phased out. These were moved and set up in the new location by volunteers. From October 1969, the old school was functioned as a public library, manned by volunteers until the county library system was established.

It was at the November 1970 meeting that county council voted overwhelmingly to adopt the new system; all municipalities except Iroquois and Matilda took part, and the change took effect January 1, 1971. It cannot be said there were no hesitations or misgivings. The members from a few municipalities had not been exposed to much public pressure for library service, since the earlier libraries in a few places had lapsed into disuse, or nearly so, while others had not enjoyed library service at all.

But when the service began on Jnauary 2, 1971, the bookmobile, reading stations at Avonmore, Finch, Moose Creek and South Mountain as well as former public libraries in Morrisburg, Winchester, Chesterville, Ingleside, Newington and Lancaster were soon offering a service which justified the claims made for it.

An early milestone along the way was the opening of the renovated Chesterville library. There was a lot of help locally, financially and otherwise from the Rotary Club, the Legion branch 434 and the staff of Nestle' Ltd.

In July of that first year, the first chairman of the board Malcolm F. McRae, deputy-reeve of Roxborough township, died, and was succeeded by Keith Graham, reeve of Chesterville.

The next step forward was the opening of Maxville Library, with an especially suitable ceremony for the occasion and location. On September 18, 1971 Hubert Quart, the village reeve, O.F. Villeneuve, MPP, and Fred MacMillan, chairman of the Eastern Ontario Regional Library System were among the official party.

Only a week later the Alexandria library was opened on the second floor of the old Post Office Building on Main street, again with suitable ceremonies. The reeve of the town (at that time, now mayor) Jean Paul Touchette, Fred MacMillan of EORLS, Authoress Dorothy Dumbrille and Bill Roedde, director of the Provincial Libarary Service, took part.

It seems natural to mention library openings or important changes as highlights. In January 4, 1972, Winchester library was installed in the former Royal Bank building on St. Lawrence Street. On April 25 of that year, Lancaster library, which is one with links with the past, dating from 1902 when a Lancaster native who made good in Chicago, John D. Ross, contributed a major part of the $3,000 the present building cost. The rest was contributed by local subscribers.

Also in 1972, on September 23, the Long Sault Library opened in the basement of Christ Church, with Toronto Globe and Mail colomunist Richard Needham officiating.

The next year, 1973, on September 29, the Crysler branch opened, with the then warden Gerard Massie and reeve of Finch Johnson Ouderkirk taking part.

There was a lull then for a year or two, until May 24, 1975, when the Williamstown branch opened in the old Manor house, where restoration work had been carried out. Under the circumstances, an important part in the ceremony was taken by people from Parks Canada and the Ontario Heritage group, with Osie Villeneuve, MLA and Bill Roedde in the official party.

In August, 1975, the Winchester Branch moved to new quarters in conjunction with the Senior Citizens, a move made possibile by the Winchester Lions Club. In July, 1976, the Brinston branch opened in the old trailer from Ottawa Public Library.

On October 9, 1976, Alexandria branch moved to a new locataion in the Sports Palace, with O.M. Villeneuve and Jean Paul Touchette taking part. On December 3, Moose Creek opened in a new location.

A milestone was noted on July 1, 1977, when Matilda township joined the system, and Brinston soon had a permanent building. Warden Edwin Waldroff, township reeve and present warden George Cooper, Mahlon Zeron, Ed Lumley MP, and Osie Villeneuve, MPP were honored guests.

Morrisburg Library moved to a new location in the arena building, from its quarters in the old high school, on October 1, 1977. Present were Ed Lumley, MP, Max Keeping of CJOH, Gerald Parisien, mayor of Cornwall and Warden Edwin Waldroff. Local libraries were beginning to attract more attention from political figures and the media!

In May 1978, the old bookmobile, which had a slightly uncertain start because of a sleet storm on the first scheduled day in November, 1968, broke down. It was, in fact, worn out and the schedule had to be suspended until May 29 when a new and much more ecomomical diesel vehicle took over.

On September 30, 1978, the St. Andrews West branch opened, and the Finch branch moved to the Orange Lodge building.

On April 7, 1979, the branch at Williamsburg opened, with Warden Hubert Quart officiating.

During the summer of 1980, the library at Lancaster which had served the comminity for 80 years, was extensively repaired. Just this year, the site of a new library at Crysler was approved on May 6, and on May 25, a commemorative plaque detailing the history of the library building at Finch, which began as a church at Goldfield, was unveiled.

It had been apparent through the years that the close co-operation between the county libra-Library Board has contributed Library Board has continued remarkably to the success of the county system. Mrs. Anne Nyland, director of Cornwall Public Library, continues to function as the county library's chief librarian.

From the first the system benefitted from good organization, regular service and access to an ample stock of books. That there is room for further improvement, no one, least of all the present board or staff members doubt. But ten years is not long.

Since last January John Moss, deputy reeve of Cornwall Township, is chairman of the board. Mrs. Carol Baxter, the only founding member remaining on the board, is treasurer. Other members are Warden George Cooper (vice-chairman); Bernard MacDonell, deputy reeve of Lancaster Township; Ribert Illard, deputy reeve of Williamsburg Township, Mike McInnis and Edwin Waldroff.

The county library system is well established and full accepted as a local institution. That was the accomplishment of the first ten year,s brought about by introducing modern methods and communications. We are often said to be entering a new ae of information and communication. The Seaway Valley libraries will continue to play an important part in it.

Improvements planned for South Grenville High

[PRESCOTT] - There are two new improvements scheduled for South Grenville High School in the near future.

"An elevator will be installed at the north students entrance hopefully before the end of this year" said Howard Kaiser.

There are a number of handicapped students in the area and now the school is not able to accommodate these students. The school has been after this for a couple of years and this year the money was granted for it.

The elevator will cost $112,000 and will come under the normal capital grant program through the Minister of Education.

The Dover Corporation from Ottawa will be suppling the elevator and installation. Tenders are out now for the shaft installation.

There will also be individual desk exhaust systems installed in the labs to upgrade the system. This installation will probably disrupt the classes for 3 or 4 days.

"This new system will improve the ventilation in the lab", said Robert Lawn principal of South Grenville.

The new ventilation system will cost $40,000 and will come under the normal capital grant program through the Minister of Education.

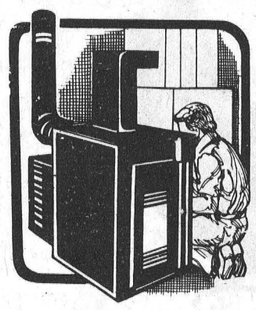

They are hoping to put out tenders for this next week said Howard Kaiser, superintendent of plants.

New refinery for Starch

[CARDINAL] - Mr. Arnold Burwell, plant manager, told the post on Monday Nov. 2, that the Board of Directors of Canada Starch Company Inc. has approved the construction of a new two storey vegetable oil refinery within the confines of the Cardinal Plant. The new facility is estimated to cost over five million dollars and will be located immediately north of the existing Portion Pack Building at the east end of the plant property.

The new refinery will replace an outdated facility and be designed to increase the processing capacity of Mazola corn oil and also allow for the capability of refining other vegetable oils such as soya bean, rape seed, etc.

Council advised to plan for new water plant

[CARDINAL] - The Cardinal council held there regular monthly meeting on Monday November 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers. It was moved by James Borrett and seconded by Mary O'Brien that the minutes of the previous meeting be accepted.

There were four special meetings held since last council. On Oct. 6 council met with Kostuch Engineering over the proposed Water Filtration System. On Oct. 7 council met with John Payne over the Equalized assessment and on Oct. 27 it was moved unanimously to accept Equalized Assessment for Cardinal.

On Oct. 13 council met with Peter Martin, Engineer concerning the causeway at the Legion.

The correspondence was read by Reeve James McLaughlin. A letter was read from Ontario Hydro approving the 1982 rates to municipalities.

There will be a seminar on Nov. 25 at St. Lawrence College on "Municipal Management" and one or more members of council will try to attend.

A letter of approval of the OHRP Grant for 1981-82 was read.

The council received an invitation to the "Awareness Night" put on by the Cardinal Youth Club held at the back of Jimmy's Restaurant on Nov 5 at 8 p.m. Councillor Ken Booth will be the master of ceremonies.

A letter from Peter Martin Engineer concerning the BILD Grant and a copy of the draft proposal was read.

A letter summarizing the implication of the Ministry's letter dated April 1, 1981 and suggests a course of action for the village was read. Koctuch Engineering Ltd. said the latest water quality and treatment guidelines which the Ministry has established will not permit the replacement of the existing filters nor the construction of a new facility using a similar filtration process.

In view of the condition and age of the existing filtration system, it would be wise to plan at this time for the inevitable need to construct a new plant. The design, approval, financing and construction of a filtration plant often can take a number of years and it is best to have the process initiated before an emergency situation arises. We are therefore recommending that the village take the necessary steps to do so at this time, said Kostuch Engineering Ltd.

A letter was received from Don Barkley, President of Local 483 concerning the possibility of the town being interested in buying the Union Hall. Following a discussion the clerk was instructed to send a letter to Mr. Barkley stating that the council felt that it was not in their best interest to put money into this building and they do not have any use for the land.

A letter from the Ministry of Industry thanking them for participating in Siteve America Results was read. The clerk was instructed to contact Mr. John Lang about the Brochures of Cardinal.

Their were two applications received for OHRP Aministrator and the clerk was instructed to arrange interviews.

It was moved by James Borrett and seconded by Ken Booth that the correspondence be placed on file after everything has been dealt with.

The Fire Report for Oct. was submitted by Fire Chief Fred Campbell. The Fire Deptartment responded to one fire call and conducted a regular truck maintenance. Two regular training session were conducted with one involving four area fire department and Prescott's aerial ladder truck. Open house was held at the Fire Station on two evenings of Fire Prevention Week and one fire drill was conducted at Benson Public School which was very successful and all students and teachers were evacuated in 58 seconds.

Firefighter Rick Hare completed a fire course at the Delaware Fire academy through Dupont of Canada and firefighter John Paul Pidgeon completed a course on C.P.R. at Rohm and Haas (Seaway Chemicals). Pumper No. 4 still has got tank problems and following a discussion it was decided that during the winter the works department would sandblast the inside of the tank and paint it.

There were three quotes on a new radio for the fire hall and they are looking into replaceing it.

Deputy Chief James Grant will be attending the Ontario Association of Fire Chief's Executive meeting in Toronto on November 27.

It was moved by James Borrett and seconded by Ken Booth that the fire report be accepted.

The town foreman Bill Richardson said they have completed the East Street Project which involves 30 services and six catch basins. There is a hydrant to be changed and a lot of things to do to get ready for winter.

Mr. Richardson said they are working on the Christmas decorations and there are minor repairs to be done at the Community centre.

Garbage collection will go to one day a week the first week in December.

The Police Report was read by Mary O'Brien. There were five reportable accidents and two people injured. Charges under C.C. - three charges under H.T.A., three Occurrences Investigated, 87 Unoccupied House Checks, eight Investigations for other forces, three Value of Property stolen $140.00, value of property recovered $100.00.

It was moved by Mary O'Brien and seconded by Ken Booth that the police report be accepted.

It was moved by Ken Booth and seconded by Mary O'Brien that the following bills be paid: Accounts - $33,435.47, Ontario Hydro - $17,368.00, Water - $19,574.86 and Recreation $2, ééè.70.

It was moved by Mary O'Brien and seconded by Ken Booth that the meeting be adjourned at 9 p.m.

Cardinal Scouts back on track again

Cardinal has an active Boy Scout Troop for the fist time since 1976. There are only 5 members, 2 of which were invested on Monday, November 2 at St. John's United Church Hall in Cardinal.

However, from small beginnings.....

The Scoutmaster is Bob Stephenson, a relative newcomer to the Cardinal area. He is formerly of Mallorytown and begins this troop with 6 years of scouting experience behind him.

Some monies left in a bank account from the previous Scout troop in town helped to give the new troop its start. Mr. Stephenson said the boys will be taking over the regular paper drives previously run by the Cardinal Majorettes, and this will be its major source of funds for activities.

Other upcoming events include Apple Day on Saturday November 7, 1981, and participating in the Memorial Service at the Pentecostal Church on Sunday.

Mr. Stephenson pointed out that there is plenty of room for more boys if there are any interested in Cardinal and they are always glad to have parent participation.

Cornwall Royals finally post a win

The famine ended for the Cornwall Royals, last years Memorial Cup Champs. The draught ended with a 5-2 win over the Belleville Bulls at the Cornwall Civic Complex Sunday night.

Prior to Sunday's win the Royals had suffered their first home-ice defeat, 3-2, at the hands of the Ottawa 67s. They next travelled to Windsor to suffer a 6-2 loss to the Spitfires and the next night were downed 7-6 by the London Knights. The series of losses had dropped the Royals into fourth place in their division.

Sunday's game was a big one for veteran Jeff Eatough who had a hat trick scoring one in the first and two in the final 20 minutes. Other goals went to Gerard Peltier and Scott Arnielx who assisted on two of Eatough's three goals. Also assisting were Eric Calder, Steve Discoll, Todd Annand and Todd Sepkowski.

The three stars of the game went to Royals' Eatough, Joe Mantione and Calder.

The Royals out-shot the Bulls 46 to 31 but Belleville managed to lead the game in penalties with 19 to 14 for the Royals. There were a total of 138 minutes handed out to both teams.

With the win the Royals ended a four-game losing streak that started with play last weekend. The win put the Royals temporarily into third spot while the Bulls continued their decline with a winless road record.

The Royals' record is now 7-8-1 on the season and were scheduled to meet the Sault Greyhounds Tuesday night at the Cornwall Civic Complex. Optimism was still running high that the defending champs will get their act together on the road and will move back into the lead as they make another bid to defend their title in the 1981-82 Memorial Cup Playdowns.

New game keeps peace in the car

Sponsored by the Automotive Industries Association of Canada

Remember the good old days when you could keep youngsters busy on a motoring trip counting farm animals? We're seeing fewer horses and cows today, but a new pastime has emerged to occupy the little darlings. It's called "Muffler Watch": count the mufflers alongside the road.

Car Care Council takes credit for inventing the game, having observed as many as 19 mufflers on one 20-mile stretch of highway 401 in the Toronto area.

Counting mufflers may be fun for the kiddies, but it can be costly for the folks who lost them, says the Council. Roadside mufflers often are in perfectly good condition when they part company with the rest of the car; it's just the brackets and clamps that let go.

Economics aside, a more serious concern about mufflers falling off vehicles at highway speed is the danger to anyone traveling behind the offending vehicle. It's a very real traffic hazard.

A periodic check of the exhaust system is recommended by Car Care Council, who reminds motorists of the importance of a secure, leak-free exhaust system. The carbon monoxide in exhaust gas that can seep into the car is colorless, odorless and lethal.

Keeping exhaust system parts intact makes sense in many ways, even though such measures might put a dent in "muffler watching."

New Ontario Hunting Publication

The Fall 1981 - Spring 1982 Ontario Hunting Summary is now available in sporting goods stores, from licence issuers, and at local Ministry offices, Natural Resources Minister Alan Pope announced.

"Sportsmen can use the Summary as a ready reference for details of the forthcoming big game, small game, and waterfowl seasons," Mr. Pope said.

Information on the various seasons and regulations was released to the media previously.

It should be noted that the open season on raccoon runs from October 15, 1981 to December 31, 1981, not to February 28, 1982 as stated in the summary.

HEALTH
Protecting Ideas

Excessive exposure to the sun may permanently damage your skin. It may prematurely age it, wrinkling it and giving it a leathery look.

Sun damage may be more than merely cosmetic. Exposure over many years, especially by light-complexioned people, may lead to a condition known as solar keratoses, which in some cases can become malignant.

Solar keratoses, caused by prolonged exposure to the sun, may lead to skin cancer.

How do you know whether you have developed this skin condition? Symptoms are irregular, red, scaly patches which appear on exposed areas of the body—particularly the face and hands. If you have such symptoms you should see a doctor. Fishermen, construction workers and other outdoor people, particularly those who live in the sunbelt, are often subject to this condition.

Only a doctor can properly diagnose and treat solar keratoses. A prescription medicine available in cream and solution, developed by Hoffmann-La Roche Inc., is often prescribed with good results for people who have solar keratoses.

Doctors feel that prevention is the best way to deal with skin damage. That means avoiding overexposure. You can have fun in the sun without getting burned.

MCGAHEY — DWYRE

Miss Catherine Teresa McGahey and Mr. Brian Joseph Dwyre were united in the sacrament of marriage on Saturday September 5th, 1981 at St. Cecilia's Church, Iroquois, Ontario. Officiating at the marriage was the Rev. William Dwyre, uncle of the groom, and assisted by Reverend F.M. O'Connor of Iroquois, and Reverend E. Keyes of Cardinal.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Claire McGahey and the late Dr. C.T. McGahey, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Dwyre of Kingston.

The bride, given in marriage by her cousin Mr. James Ryan of Brockville, wore an elegant gown of white chiffon featuring a full pleated shirt falling into a chapel train. The bodice was graced with scalloped chantilly lace and seed pearls, as was the headpiece. She carried a bouqet of long stemmed red roses.

Miss Joan McGinn of Ottawa, the maid of honour, wore a turquois green pleated floor length gown with a chiffon overlay. The bridesmaids Miss Anne Pigeon of St. Catharines, and Miss Frances Atkinson of Vancouver, were similarily attired. The bride's attendants carried a floral arrangement of ivory roses and baby's breath on a background of green fern.

The mother of the bride wore a graceful full length jade green gown with pearl trim while the mother of the groom wore a full length champaign gown with matching jacket.

The best man was Mr. Jim Weaver of Kingston, with the ushers were the groom's brother John of Kingston, and the groom's cousin Mr. Dan Brady of Marmora, Ontario.

Prior to the wedding the bride was honoured by several luncheons, showers and teas held in Kingston, Cornwall, and Iroquois.

Following a reception held at the Iroquois Civic Centre, the couple left for a trip trhough the New England States.

Guests in attendance were from Montreal, Cornwall, Brockville, Kingston, Toronto, Ottawa, St. Catharines, Iroquois, Morrisburg, Cardinal, Canton, N.Y., Washington, D.C. and Miami, Florida.

RICE-A-BURGERS

1 pound bulk pork sausage
2 eggs, slightly beaten
3 cups cooked rice
2 teaspoons seasoned salt
3/4 cup catsup
1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves
4 slices Cheddar cheese

First make foil "pans. Tear off six 16-inch pieces (a square) of heavy-duty foil (16-inches wide). Fold each into an 8-inch square and crimp edges as you would pie crust to form a circle and give a sturdy edge.

Mix sausage with eggs, rice and seasoned salt. Spread into foil "pans" or 1 large pizza pan. Spread with catsup and sprinkle with oregano. Place on baking sheet. Bake at 425° for 20 minutes. Top with cheese that has been cut in small triangular pieces. Continue baking 5 minutes longer, or until cheese is bubbly. Makes 6 servings.

"They thought I was crazy to buy this 68-year-old house, but I knew it could be renovated.

CMHC believes in encouraging renovation of older homes. And in many cases, financial assistance is provided through CMHC's Residential Rehabilitation Assistance Program and Home Improvement Loans. The reason is very simple. About two million of Canada's eight million homes are over forty years old. But it doesn't make sense to tear them down when they show signs of old age. It's better to invest in renovation and keep them well maintained. For advice and publications about CMHC housing programs and services consult your local CMHC office.

And the good thing about the RRAP program —there was not all that much red tape. It all seemed to happen really quickly."
Erica Mednick, Calgary, Alberta.

"Every time you plugged something in, a fuse would blow. It was a fire hazard. So under CMHC's RRAP program I had a complete new electrical system installed."
Pierre Stevens, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

"We get 100-kilometre an hour winds and snowdrifts halfway up the windows, so we fixed up the house to make it more comfortable."
Fred and Helen Hill, Crowsnest Pass, British Columbia.

"We fixed up the house with a RRAP grant. There's no sense in tearing down older homes; renovating is cheaper."
Mrs. J. Stewart, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island.

Annual meeting of United Empire Loyalists at St. Andrew's West

The Annual Meeting of the St. Lawrence Branch of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Canada was held Sunday, October 25th at the Old Stone Church Hall, St. Andrews West. 81 members, and interested people attended the meeting, including 15 members of the Cornwall Historical Society.

Mrs. Mildred Leitch read an "In Memoriam" to two members who passed away - Mrs. Bessie Bole of Ottawa and Allan John Mallory of Mallorytown, followed by a minutes silence.

Secretary Bery Morrison after reading correspondence announced that the Col. Jessup Branch extends an invitation to their meeting, November 25th, 7:30 p.m. at the Brockville Public Library when Mary Beacock Fryer will be the guest speaker.

President Stanley McNairn announced what the Branch has accomplished in the past year and what is planned for the future, outling the Branches Bicentennial ideas for 1984. He also announced that anyone wishing to go on the proposed bus trip to the Mohawk Valley next September to give their name to Beryl Morrison.

Keith Casselman, Treasurer read the financial report followed by the genealogist's report. Miss Lynne O'Brien reported 160 members and 3 pending in the Branches march towards the 200 members. She stated that people from all over the U.S.A. and Canada had visited seeking information on their roots, many looking for Loyalist ancestors.

Mrs. Anne Webber of Newington introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Murray Barkley, B.A., M.A., the Branches Historian and Archivist, of Avonmore who spoke on "The Loyalist Tradition in Canada: Some Bicentennial Reflections."

Mr. B arkley stated that it was not his intention to instill pride in the Loyalist, something which most members already naturally shared, but merely to present some of the major themes relating to the ways in which the Loyalists had been portrayed and enshrined by subsequent generations of Canadians over the past two centuries.

It was Mr. Barkley's contention that by concentrating exclusively upon the generation Loyalists themselves, that this focus was too narrow to explain the dramatic changes in the way the Loyalists had been perceived.

He answered eight major changes levelled against the Loyalists by their critics including the claim that they and their descendants had played no major role in Canadian history, by listing large numbers of Canadian Loyalist descendants of National or international renown including Dr. Norman Bethune, J.S. Woodsworth, Harold Innis, Northrop Frye, Pierre Berton, Charles Lindbergh, Thomas Alva Edison, and our own Prime Minister, Pierre Elliott Trudeau.

Mr. Barkle concluded by noting that the Loyalists had come from over 30 different ethnic groups and that their multicultural diversity had formed a microcosm of the pluralistic society which Canada today enjoy. Mrs. Mabel MacLean thanked Mr. Barkley for his interesting talk and presented him with a gift.

The nominating committee of Mrs. Helen Lane, Mrs. Anne Webber and Mr. Mel Scott presented the following names for the 1981-82 executive - Honorary President - Mr. E.J. Chard, North Bay, Immediate Past President - Mr. Stanley McNairn, Long Sault.

President - Mrs. Violet Hare, Iroquois; 1st Vice-President - Mrs. Mildred Leitch, Cornwall; 2nd Vice President - Mr. Douglas Warner, Cornwall; 3rd Vice President Brigadier-General Wm. J. Patterson, Cornwall; Secretary - Mrs. Florence English, Iroquois; Treasurer - Mr. Keith M. Casselman, Morrisburg; Branch Genealogist - Miss Lynne O'Brien, Morrisburg; Auditors - Mr. Graham Van Allen, Morrisburg; Mr. Thorold Lane, Ingleside.

Mr. Mel Scott, Past President, held an installation ceremony for the new executive.

Immediate Past President Stan McNairn was presented with the President's Jewel by Mel Scott. Mrs. Hare thanked Stan McNairn for his work in the past 2 years as President and presented him with a gift. Mrs. Leitch presented Mrs. Kay

Immediate Past President Stan McNairn was presented with the President's Jewel by Mel Scott. Mrs. Hare thanked Stan McNairn for his work in the past 2 years as President and presented him with a gift. Mrs. Leitch presented Mrs. Kay McNairn with a gift and thanked her for her help in th epast 2 years assisting her husband. Mr. McNairn thanked the gathering for their co-operation during his term of office and said he would be still on the Branch executive and was Co-Chairman of the Souveniers Committee of Dominion Council at Headquarters.

New President Mrs. Vi Hare announced that Mel Scott would be a director and that each immediate past president on the election of a new President would be named a director. Mrs. Hare also stated that an executive meeting would be held Monday, November 2nd, 7:30 p.m. at her home in Iroquois.

Branch member and local resident of St. Andrew's West, Edwin McDonald told the group about the cemetery across the road from the Church. The burial place of Alex MacDonnell (oldest stone) who was killed by a falling tree in 1799, and of Simon Fraser and his wife Catherine Macdonell, and of John Sandfield MacDonald, First Premier of Ontario. Mr. McDonald conducted a tour of the Church after the meeting.

Mrs. A. Beaudette gave a history of the Church Hall that had been compled by Lorne Wheeler. The hall was built in 1792 which served as a Church until 1860 when a larger and more impressive building was erected. The hall is the oldest remaining stone structure in Ontario, serving as a hospital during the War of 1812, and is used several times a week for meetings, etc.

The meeting concluded with a pot luck supper.

Every-member visit completed

Since last news notes from Iroquois United Church went to press the every-member visitation has been completed with gratifying results. Members, who, for one reason or another, had temporarily lost track, have found their interest in the church life renewed so that we enter the Advent and Christmas seasons with increased fervor.

On Sunday last the congregation welcomed to the pulpit once more lay speaker, Mr. Richard Woodland, who will return next Sunday. Mr. Klaehn had made committments for those two Sundays prior to coming to Iroquois. Richard is received here with warmth and eagerness as the congregation anticipates the vibrant messages he always brings.

Last Sunday, also, saw the revival of Men's Breakfast. The teen-age males cooked and served on this occasion. Men, take note, breakfast at 9 a.m. the first Sunday of each month!

Service next Sunday will give special observance to the Remembrance Day theme. The Legion service, as in previous years, will be held in the Civic Centre at 2 p.m., thence to the Cenotaph for the laying of wreaths. Let each and everyone of us recognize the homage we owe to brave men who fought, at such high cost, the freedoms we all are privileged to enjoy and take so carelessly for granted. Let the fact that we recognize the debt owed be evidenced by our attendance at services.

An open invitation is extended by the Morrisburg United Church Women to attend a gathering in Allen Hall on Thursday evening, November 5, to hear guest speaker, George Jackson, deliver an address on conditions in the Third World countries he has visited.

On the weekend of November 13, 14, 15 the Young People's Group of this church will motor to Hawkesbury to spend some time in retreat at Highlands Lodge. For further information contact Lee Hanes or Herb Klaehn.

Of interest to this congregation, as well as friends throughout the village, is the reception honouring Mrs. Hugh Thompson. This social event is being hosted on November 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the church she attends, Williamsburg United.

Parents! Please remember the Jr. choir practices held at the church each Wednesday immediately after school. Children from Grade Two and up are welcomed.

Plans for the Christmas Bazaar are finalized and interest gains momentum daily now. All families of the congregation will have received a letter covering all aspects of the event. As well as the usual sales' booths an innovative note is the Nearly New Shop sponsored by the Youth Group (guided by Mary McAdam) where good clothing, books, games, sports equipment, etc. will be available at attractive prices. The Sunday School wil have chocolate goodies for sale.

Nursery service will be provided and so . . .Mothers! no need to miss the bazaar. Leave baby in capable care to be entertained w hile you enjoy a cup of tea and a social time with friends. Let us make November 28 successful and pleasurable

New Load Security Regulation

TORONTO – Ontario Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow reminds the trucking industry the new regulation governing load security comes into effect Nov. 1, 1981.

"Our intent is to ensure loads are secure under all foreseeable operating conditions which would include normal driving, evasive manoeuvres and panic stops. It doesn't, however, cover instances such as jackknifing, overturning, or collisions," he said.

The regulation was developed under the auspices of the Canadian Conference of Motor Transport Administrators (CCMTA) as a model regulation, offering a uniform approach applicable across Canada.

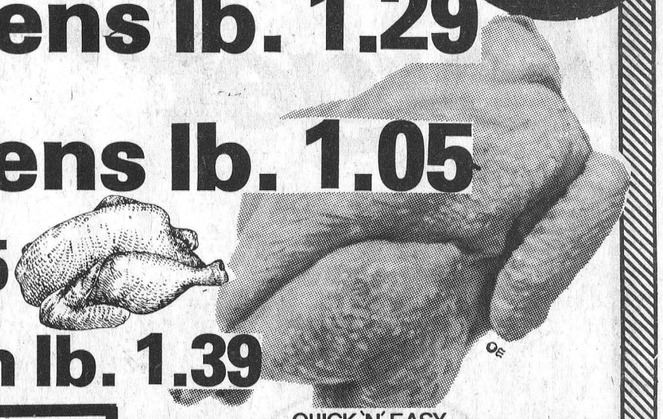

Basically, it requires every commercial motor vehicle or combination of motor vehicles and trailer or trailers to have their loads properly secured.

A technical bulletin outlining the legislation is now available at all MTC offices throughout the province.

"It's our hope this will increase safety on our highways, by reducing debris on all routes and eliminating the possibility of accidents resulting from insecure or shifting loads," Snow concluded.
