Liberals from the past, present and future

Liberal leader John Turner was in Cornwall last Wednesday to support Stormont-Dundas candidate Bob Kilger (left), while former Minister of Trade Ed Lumley (rear) looks on. Turner spent the morning talking to high school students and then visited a senior citizens home in the afternoon.

Confident Turner visits the area to boost candidate's campaign

CORNWALL — Following last Tuesday night's televised meeting between the three Canadian party leaders, many Liberals supporters were probably singing the familar tune — What a difference a day makes.

Or should it be, What a difference a debate makes?

Riding high from what many Liberal supporters considered a great performance by their chief, Turner's all-too-familiar grin seemed to come easier for the 59-year-old leader as he stopped frequently to chat with the crowds.

During his one-day visit Turner spent the morning talking to students at Kilger's alma mater, St. Lawrence High School and the afternoon at a Senior Citizen's home on Augusta Street.

A bright future under Liberal rule

Preaching a bright future filled with plenty of job opportunities under Liberal rule, Turner took time out to bash Prime Minister Brian Mulroney and his Conservatives that morning.

"In today's competitive world it's important that we in government provide you Canadians with more training, more skills and more education so that you are better equipped when you go out into the working world," he told the students.

He then went on to explain how tough the working world may become as a result of Mulroney's Free Trade Agreement with the Americans.

"This issue is of particular importance to you people in Cornwall, who are so close to the United States. For the past 45 years, Canada has enjoyed a healthy trade arrangement with its southern neighbor, in fact, 80 per cent of all our goods and services now go across their border free of duty."

Canadians sold out

"But when Mr. Mulroney entered into his trade agreement, he didn't just talk about getting a similar agreement for the remaining 20 per cent. Instead he sold out our water, our coal, our potash and our ability to govern ourselves."

Turner said Canada would become an unlimited resource resevoir for the Americans.

"And our farmers won't be able to compete with their U.S. friends in Alabama, Georgia and Florida, who have 12-month growing seasons."

He said the Americans would especially frown on the Canadian dairy industry because of the government's quota system.

"Don't think the Americans aren't envious of our dairy systems. However, it's a common known fact that they consider it subsidized and therefore it would have to be disassembled."

Turner said the federal government would have a difficult time enforcing anti-pollution laws once free trade is implemented.

Pollution will be difficult to control

"Pollution of our waters, like your St. Lawrence River will be difficult to control because the Americans will be telling Canadian policy makers what we can and can't do with our natural resources."

He said that Canadians should remember that Mulroney's trade deal only involves American and Canadian-made goods.

"Many people are under the impression that once free trade is here, they'll be able to drive over to Massena or Buffalo and pick up their Panasonic television at a cheaper price. That's simply not true."

"Mr. Mulroney's agreement only applies to American-made items, not Japanese, not Korean, not Taiwanese, only 'American,'" he repeated.

Spending increase under the Liberals

He said Canadians would enjoy an increase in the amount they're allowed to spend abroad if Liberals were in power.

"The Tory arrangement won't increase the $300 limit Canadians can spend. Under a Liberal government Canadians would be able to spend up to $1,000 before having to pay those provincial, federal and other taxes on their items."

Following his campaign speech, complete with promises, the Liberal leader fielded questions from some of the students.

Key issues answered

Asked about important issues like abortion, language and health insurance, Turner spent as much time providing Liberal answers as he did bashing existing Tory policies.

All candidates meetings

MORRISBURG — As is always the case in politics, elections are filled with promises, hand shakes and debates.

Over the next week, many municipalities will be hosting all-candidates meetings throughout the area.

On Thursday evening Williamsburg township residents will have an opportunity to hear their candidates make their pitch as the South Williamsburg Recreation Association is sponsoring a meeting at the recreational centre in Riverside Heights at 8:00 p.m.

Osnabruck township residents will also be able to attend their all-candidates meeting when the Ingleside Senior Citizens host a question-and-answer period at Rothwell-Osnabruck High School Thursday night at 8 p.m.

People interested in federal politics will have their chance to listen to more promises and platforms when the Dundas Federation of Agriculture hosts an all-candidates meeting for Stormont-Dundas at the North Dundas High School Thursday night at 8 p.m.

Finally, for electors in Iroquois, Monday night, November 7 at the civic centre, municipal candidates will be in the spotlight as the Iroquois-Matilda Lions Club sponsors a meeting at 7 p.m.

The four meetings provide the voting public the perfect opportunity to listen to their municipal and federal candidates and are designed to help them decide when it comes time to cast that important ballot.

Results in serious eye injury

Hallowe'en prank not so funny

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — What appeared to be the quietest Hallowe'en in recent years was frightfully changed when a Morrisburg fire fighter, patrolling the village, was struck in the eye with an egg.

David 'Stan' Mabo suffered a serious eye injury when a group of unidentified youths threw eggs at his truck at the corner of Church and Fifth Street.

According to his partner, Brian Spear, the two men were slowly cruising up Church Street when they heard eggs splattering against the truck.

"Stan turned around to see where they were coming from and caught one right in the eye," Spear says.

Apparently Mabo's window was rolled down about four inches when he suffered the injury.

The fire fighter was taken to the clinic and treated by Dr. Henry Prins but was later taken to Cornwall General Hospital to be examined by an eye specialist.

Police are investigating the accident.

Very little vandalism

Other than the injury, Const. Morgan Hill of the local OPP detachment is rather pleased with the lack of vandalism during the notoriously busy night.

"The people of Morrisburg and the police force are fortunate to have the assistance from their local fire fighters who are a real asset to the community, especially during times like this," he says.

According to Const. Hill, 12 police officers were working Monday night.

Some minor disturbance

"Each municipality had their own squad car as well as a roving patrol."

However, the evening was not completely uneventful.

"We had some minor disturbances but not anything we didn't expect or couldn't handle," says Const. Hill.

Police and the Iroquois fire department responded to a small street fire on a road behind the Iroquois shopping centre, which was apparently set by youths.

"And someone tried to set the Matilda dump on fire but we got that under control," says Const. Hill.

In all, Const. Hill says the evening was surprisingly quiet.

Pleasantly surprised

Const. Bernie Gadbois of the Long Sault OPP detachment was also pleasantly surprised.

"We weren't that busy here at all," says a delighted Const. Gadbois.

"Monday night we had four cruisers patrolling the area and we received very few calls.'

Like Morrisburg, Const. Gadbois says there were some minor pranks but nothing too serious.

"We had the usual liquid soap on car windows and some egg throwing but nothing really interesting."

"We're pleased with the outcome and it's nice to see that our younger people are starting to think before they act."

Sponsor clothing drive

Students to prove point

BONNIE McNAIRN
Leader staff

IROQUOIS — Students at Seaway District High School are out to show the community that they do have a voice and that they too can make valuable contributions to society.

Organized by the school's student council, the students will be participating in a clothing drive from November 7 to 15, a drive that will result in clothing being distributed to organizations throughout the district.

These organizations, in turn, will see that the area's needy will be properly clothed for the winter.

"We really want to show that the students can get involved," says Lee Moore, student's council, vice-president. "We want to change the negative image of students."

While the school is giving money to the Honduras this year and the students are sponsoring a foster child through George Jackson, Moore says they want to touch more people.

People throughout the district are asked to donate clean mended clothing to the drive through students of the school.

The students will collect the clothing and take it to the school where it will be weighed.

"They will accummulate points for the clothing they bring in and the top home room will receive a prize," says Kent Smith, student's council social convenor.

"We're taking pretty well anything," says Moore, "from blankets, to snow suits and any seasonal clothing."

Anyone in the community who is unable to contact a student can bring their clothing to the school on the morning of November 15th only. "But we prefer they make their contributions through a student," says Moore.

Once collected the clothing will be distributed to various organizations including the Cardinal Resource Centre, Hope Farm, Brinston United Church, and the George Jackson Jamaican Relief fund which is in need of summer clothes only.

A great idea

Moore says she has been in touch with Rev. Allen Tysick and he thinks the drive is a great idea.

"In fact it sounded as if he didn't know how some of his people were going to get through the winter," says Moore.

If the clothing drive is successful Moore says there is the possibility of a food drive around Christmas. "Certainly we are hoping the clothing drive will become an annual event."

"We've selected our theme as "Why don't you dare to show you care?"

"The point is that we don't have to always be on the receiving end," she said.

School Committee

MORRISBURG — Last Wednesday's Open House saw the election of three teachers and three parents to the Morrisburg Public School committee.

The function of the committee is to develop better communications with the public and participation in some planning.

Last year, they were instrumental in having bus loading zones installed at the school, and having crosswalks updated. They also helped in the decision to close Riverside Heights, and send children to Stampville School.

However, they are not involved in day to day classroom decisions. Teachers elected for this year's school committee are Carol Rumble (Junior Kindergarten), Marilyn Salmon (Senior Kindergarten), and Muriel McIntosh (Learning Disabilities).

Parents elected are Janette Baker, Gail Spencer and Susan Brister.

Village's water tower has to be repaired

MIKE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — Like a beacon in the night, the village's water tower has stood for almost 30 years, making its place in time and the area.

But like others built along the St. Lawrence River during the Seaway construction, it has now grown tired and weak and is in dire need of repair and maybe even replacement.

Rick Eamon, an officer with the Ministry of the Environment says the tower has simply passed its prime.

"Although there may not appear to be anything wrong externally, we are, however, concerned with its interior corrosion," he says.

Surprisingly, Eamon says the old tower is constantly in operation and is still an important link in maintaining water pressure throughout the village — particularly during peak demand flows.

"In the summer time, especially during those hot dry periods, the tower, which is connected directly into the village's distribution system, will act as a supplement to help with the high demand."

In addition, Eamon says the 208,000 gallon tower regularly provides water to Morrisburg residents in the northern part of the village.

"It all depends on where you live," he says.

He adds, the tower is regularly filled with water from the pumping station, located on Augusta Street, while simultaneously being drained back into the river.

He says this is done to maintain sufficient pressure in the lines as well as providing fresh water quality.

Ironically, however, he says the three pumps the village currently uses provides enough water for residents, even during the summer.

He says the prime function of water towers is a safety precaution.

"They are a valuable part of any water distribution system," he says.

"It's not inconcievable that during an exceedingly long dry period, where the water levels are low, that a fire may start and the water tower could then be a very important in dousing the flames."

He says today, most new water retention tanks are placed underground and constructed of concrete.

"I guess the main reason towers were elevated during that time is that it could maintain water pressure rather cheaply — through gravity," he says.

Morrisburg council has discussed what steps should be taken in order to repair the tower.

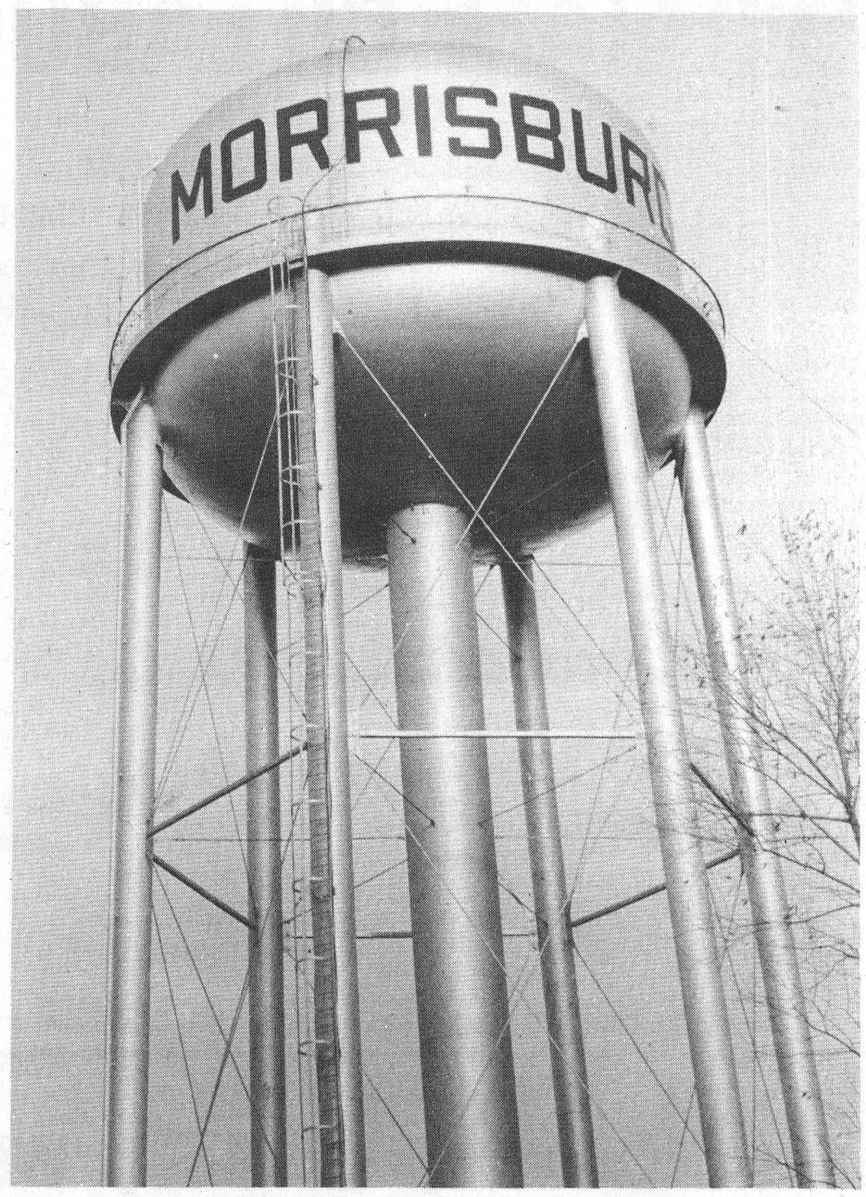
"I know they sent us a request for funding assistance," says Eamon.

He says the ministry's project priority committee prefers that a municipality sends an engineering report along with their funding request.

However, since council was approaching the end of its term a consulting engineer was not hired.

As for now, Eamon says there is no concern the tower will burst over the next couple of years.

"But, then who really knows that, we'll just have to wait for that report."



Still standing, but for how long?

The village's water tower has passed its prime and will soon have to be repaired or replaced. Like the sewer system, it will have to be dealt with once the new council has been elected in Morrisburg.

Education a must

Honduran Training Centre well under way

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

IROQUOIS — What is the greatest contribution those in developed countries can make to assist those in the Third World?

"In a word — education," says George Jackson, founder of Partners for Children at the organization's second annual feast held here on Saturday.

Partners for Children is a non-profit organization dedicated to helping children in developing countries, with supporting members from Brockville to Cornwall.

Guest speaker David Rushton, a representative of Canadian International Development Agency, Special Programs Branch, addressed some of the intricacies of government involvement in international development. Tribute was given organizations and individuals who have supported Partners for Children projects in Central America.

A few named were the Brockville Lions' Club which donated $2600, Dr. Kees Court of Mallorytown who obtained medical supplies and equipment and Irma Jackson, who has constantly supported the work.

A special thank you was given volunteers Brigette Caron, Susan Murdock, Wes and Fred Stevens, Shelley Bentley, and Louise Laframboise who generously donated their time and money on projects in Costa Rica and Honduras.

Executive Director reports

George Jackson, who started volunteering in Third World countries as a business consultant with Canadian Executive Services, a government program, has been helping with projects overseas for 10 years.

The widely travelled businessman observed that there are no poor countries where there is education, and there is a direct relation between income and level of skills and education.

Skill shortage a problem

Poor families direct income first towards food, medicine, and shelter in that order, and often there is little or no money left for books, pencils and school clothing.

Also many schools in Costa Rica and Honduras have little funding to provide supplies — some schools even lack desks and chairs.

Jackson noted that there is no food shortage in these countries but millions starve.

"In Honduras alone, 54 children starve daily," he said. "However, it is not people with money who sleep in the streets."

More often families headed by single mothers with no visible means of support have difficulties and for this reason are the ones Partners has targetted for assistance.

A training centre in Honduras is underway where single mothers (mostly in the 40 year age group) will learn hygiene, life skills such as money management and job skills.

A medical clinic which is also part of the project is already offering care and medicine to about 20 needy people daily, thus improving health care all around.

Future challenges

"Our challenge in 1989 will be to purchase equipment for a baking project to help support the training centre," Jackson said.

"In the sewing school, we have almost all the equipment except for three industrial sewing machines."

A market has been located for powder puffs which will provide meaningful work for the women, not just a handout.

In two years, the project in Honduras is expected to be self-operating and self-financing, with a Board of Directors. A cement block factory in Tela, Honduras, already started by Partners, now operates without their assistance.

The factory provides 20 jobs which support the employees and their families, as well as 40 orphaned children in group homes.

Partners assists students

Partners is also operating a project with children in Costa Rica and has sent a girl to university thus keeping a promise to assist young people as long as they study. The organization is maintaining a group home for young girls in San Pedro, Sula, where all 19 go to school.

Partners is focussing its efforts on helping young girls who have been abandoned by their parents, since survival in the streets can be more difficult for them.

Partners is jointly funded

Partners for Children is funded locally, with government assistance from the Special Programs Branch of the Canadian International Development Agency, (CIDA).

In 1987, $40,000 was raised locally, matched by a government grant of $55,000 obtained through Horizons of Friendship (a Cobourg-based organization affiliated with CIDA).

This year, Partners received $150,000 from Horizons to construct the Honduran clinic and training centre.

"With $40,000 raised locally, this would amount to $200,000 in funds, no small feat for a small town like Iroquois," said Jackson.

However, none of the work can go forward with local funding and support, since government aid is available only when the community also shows an interest.

Cancer Society raises $1,194.

MORRISBURG — The annual Cancer Bazaar sponsored here Saturday by the Morrisburg Branch of the Cancer Society raised $1194.

The funds will be used to defray extra medical or transportation expenses of patients in Morrisburg and Williamsburg Township.

For example, a prosthesis is covered only 75 per cent by OHIP, and some patients need help in paying the remainder.

Monies from the bazaar, the spring daffodil campaign, and in memoriams go to Head Office in Toronto, which are then returned to the area after estimating the needs of patients here.

The Morrisburg Branch is also holding a Curling Bonspiel Saturday, November 19, 9:30 a.m. at the Morrisburg Curling Club. Proceeds will go to the newly opened Maurice Grimes Lodge in Ottawa, which houses many area cancer patients.

The Morrisburg Pathfinders as well as ladies from the area served refreshments at the bazaar which was attended by area residents, and candidates for the upcoming federal and municipal elections.

Two men stabbed

KEMPTVILLE — Two men sustained stab wounds following a fight Hallowe'en night that was provoked by an egg-throwing incident near a local high school.

Police have arrested Robin Landrew Pryce, 18, of 31 Victoria Street in Kemptville after he apparently stabbed 22-year-old Kevin Hill and 21-year-old Timothy Montroy, both of Kemptville.

Police say a buck knife was used during the fight.

Both victims were taken from the Kemptville District Hospital and were transferred to the Ottawa General where their injuries are listed as "not life-threatening".

Pryce has been charged with two counts of attempted murder.

Police say the fight occurred shortly after 9:00 p.m. inside the North Grenville District High School.

A court date has not yet been set.

Candidates vie for village trusteeships

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

WILLIAMSBURG — In this year's municipal election, four candidates have let their names stand for three police trusteeships in the Village of Williamsburg.

Williamsburg is one of few remaining police villages in Ontario, which were mostly disbanded in the mid-70's as a superfluous branch of municipal government.

The police trustees combine functions of tendering snow removal and garbage pick-up, seeing to street repairs and dog control with the duties of hydro commissioners for the village. Those duties include purchasing power from Ontario Hydro, tendering out the installation and repair of street lights and the stringing of new wires.

System provides savings

"The main reason Williamsburg remained a police village is because of the hydro," explained Township Clerk Mike Waddell. "The trustees buy block power from Ontario Hydro and therefore are able to offer it to the village at a cheaper rate."

Waddell estimated there is a 10 to 15 per cent savings on hydro through this method.

The boundaries of the police village are the McMartin drain on the west, County Road 18 at Williamsburg United Church on the east, the Lutheran Church cemetery to the north, and LMS Motors to the south.

Past area manager from Winchester, George Davidson acts as consultant, and resident Donna McIntosh is secretary for the commission, reading village meters and handling billing and bookwork.

Trustees meet once a month to discuss their duties and in December, the commission meets with a Hydro representative from Belleville to discuss rates.

Later a "load forecast" is set for the following couple of years, based on amounts of power used in previous years, as well as present and future residential and commercial growth. In this way, Ontario Hydro can set aside a block of power for the village's needs.

This year's residential rate, effective March 1988 was $9.45 per kilowatt hour, representing a slight increase from 8.14 cents per kilowatt hours in 1987. Williamsburg purchases power more cheaply than the Village of Morrisburg, and its rates are also lower than those in the township.

Trustees not in it for the money

The police trustees receive about $500 a year for their combined duties. Their budget forms a separate part of the township's financial statement, and this year amounted to $23,541 including snow removal and garbage pick-up costs, pay back on storm sewers, streetlight maintenance and salaries.

Trustees may also set by-laws which must be approved by council.

Incumbent Garnet Barkley, an historical interpreter at Upper Canada Village, has held the position for 25 years, and is running again because he enjoys the social contacts the job entails.

Continuity needed

Edwin Thompson, a retired employee of the United Counties Social Services Department and incumbent trustee, has allowed his name to stand again, in order to retain continuity in the trusteeship.

"You can't learn it all in one term, and it takes a good six months to get your toes wet on this job," said Thompson.

Ron Froom, one of the present trustees, is not running in the election because he is occupied with a new business in Metcalfe.

Challenger for a position, convenience store owner Ken Simser would like to try his hand.

"I don't want to push someone out of a job, the candidates are good ones, but I feel I can offer something," says Simser.

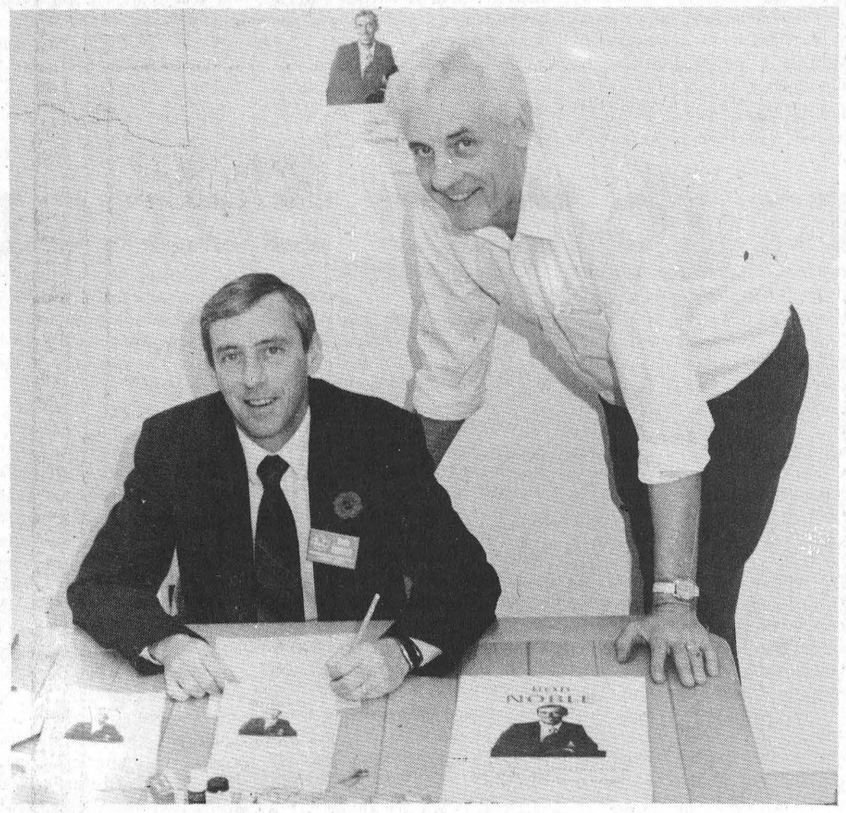
He is a former machinist with Atomic Energy of Canada in Kanata, serving also on the corporation's recreational association.

Ken McNalty, a 19-year resident of the village and former employee with an insulation company in Ottawa, says the functions of the trustees can be improved in various ways.

Room for improvement

McNalty, who must exercise for health reasons, says there is definitely room for improvement in the area of snow removal.

"There's one bad area from the Lunch Counter (Main Street) north to the Post Office," says McNalty. "Senior citizens find it difficult walking here."



COR Party opens Dundas County office

COR Party candidate Bob Noble, seated, was in Morrisburg Monday and talked over campaign strategy with supporter Gord McGregor. Noble's office is located beside Bo's Barber Shop on the east side of the shopping mall and is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Turner visit

"Canadians working for any company that provides health care services will be considered at an unfair advantage and once again, Canadians will be forced to make more sacrifies," he said focusing again on the free trade agreement.

"Under a Liberal government, I promise you that if you have to visit the hospital they won't check your credit card before they check your pulse."

After an hour of questions, Turner thanked the students for asking him to visit.

As he left the school, the national media had their turn to ask Turner a few questions.

Alan Fryer of CBC asked if he thought that following his impressive performance during the televised debate the Liberals were now alone in second place in front of the surging NDP.

"Let me start by saying that I appreciated the opportunity to talk to Canadians in both languages and as for your question, Mr. Fryer, I'll let you and your friends decide on just how successful the Liberal party fared," he said with an air of confidence. "After all I wouldn't want to take your job away from you people," he added.

Crime Prevention Week

This week, from October 30th to November 5th, Crime Prevention Week is being observed across Canada, and the theme of this year's observance is "Families and Communities Working Together to Prevent Crime".

The concept of crime prevention is not a recent discovery; however, it is daily becoming more important to every citizen because of the increasing physical and financial burdens that result from criminal activity. The financial burden alone amounts to many, many billions of dollars annually.

The time has come for all sectors of society, including business, to stop relying solely on the police to prevent crime. Criminal elements originating in the big cities, and even in other countries, have recently been reaching into the smaller communities to attain their objectives. And unfortunately, they very often find relatively easy pickings in these communities.

What, specifically, can families contribute to the fight against crime? First, we should remember that families take many forms. Of course, there are the families composed of parents, brothers, sisters and cousins. But most of us belong to other families through close relationships at school, at work, in the churches and in the community - any place we gather with people about whom we care.

And there are many things that we can do, within the families to which we belong, that can help prevent crime. The most important message of Crime Prevention Week is that individual contributions to the crime prevention partnership can make a difference. Get involved!

- Take an interest in the activities and interests of those around you, especially if they are young people. A little attention and communication can go a long way in helping members of the community become contributing citizens.
- Take the time to join organizations, service clubs and community groups. Find out about the other people in your neighborhood. Form partnerships that will make your community stronger and more resistant to crime.
- Spread the word. If you have concerns or ideas that can help to make your community a better or a safer place, let people know. Work together to find solutions.

Crime prevention is safer, far less costly and preferable in every to crime detection and punishment. But crime prevention can only be accomplished by an aware society with every member of that society accepting civic responsibility.

Don't be one of those who say or who think "I don't want to get involved". By adopting a positive attitude right now, you could avoid being the next victim of some serious crime. An observant attitude, a simple action or a telephone call can often prevent a crime, could even save lives. You are urged to feel free to contact your local O.P.P. office at any time for advice, for help, or for a relevant brochure on crime prevention.

Use heat dollars wisely

This time of year always brings out the pundits who are absolutely certain that they have inside knowledge of a looming long and hard winter - worse than any in history, and certain to be calamitous to the entire country and the entire race.

Most times, their dire predictions turn out to be far from factual, and you can take them with one or more grains of salt, if you wish.

It is nevertheless always prudent to prepare as well as possible for the bitter cold weather that comes sooner or later during most Canadian winters. This is particularly so in view of the relatively high cost of all kinds of heating fuels. It behooves every homeowner to make the most efficient use of every heating dollar.

In the very intense competition which prevails among the purveyors of various fuels, and various heating systems, conflicting claims have been made for the superior efficiency, safety and desireability of one fuel and one heating system over another. Constant improvements in every field of domestic and commercial heating have added to the controversy among the suppliers. Government subsidies and grants have sometimes escalated the movement to change heating systems by many consumers. But whatever system you have decide to use, some simple and inexpensive tips can add to your winter comfort and safety, and conserve your fuel and your dollars as well. Perhaps you could make use of some of these suggestions:

- A humidifier will replace the moisture in the air and will make your home more comfortable at a lower temperature.
- When airing your house, you will lose less heat if you open the windows wide, but only for a short period.
- During the winter months, when the sun is shining, open your drapes to get all possible benefit of any warmth from the sun.
- When away from the house, lower the thermostat setting. The safe minimum is 10 degrees C (50F).
- Always make regular checks to see that the furnace filter is clean, and the humidifier is operating properly.

Shoplifting costly for all

The Christmas season is the peak selling season in Canada, with November and December accounting for more than one-quarter of department and general store sales. It is also the prime time for shoplifting, that great Canadian addiction, and the losses, not only to business, but to consumers as well, continue to escalate each year.

And make no mistake about that. The shopliters cost the merchants only in the first instance. The losses to those light-fingered pilferers must necessarily become a cost of doing business, and are inevitably passed on to you, the ultimate consumer. The Retail Council of Canada estimates that a minimum of $500,000,000 worth of goods will be spirited out of the nation's stores before the end of the year. About the same amount (perhaps even more), will be lost through thefts by employees, and cash register and pricing errors.

None of these figures, of course, include the cost of maintaining in-store security measures, or the ever-increasing cost of insurance, to bond key employees.

The general feeling, we think, among retailers, is that inventory shrinkage through theft, is on the increase, and that stores must take a hard line to combat it. It seems that ripping off a corporation, large or small, is becoming an increasingly accepted practice, that it is just a game, and not really theft. But an aroused public and retail establishment will not buy that.

There is a warning posted for all shoplifters: Your practice is not a game at all. It constitutes a crime, and a serious one. Because it affects society as a whole, it is a crime against society as a whole. It is not in any way funny, and it will in no way be treated lightly. Because of the very substantial amounts of goods and money involved, retail associations, as well as police forces, are taking a very had line against it. And rightly so.

Letters to the Editor

Editor,
Morrisburg Leader,
Morrisburg, Ontario.
Dear Editor:

As you know, the Counties of Stormont and Glengarry are in the process of establishing a Waste Management Master Plan. The Draft Stage 2a Report of the Plan has been issued. This draft report contains a recommendation for a "preferred system" — separate wet/dry collection with maximized material recovery and a new landfill(s). This system responds to the requests of area residents for a strong recycling component in the new waste management system for their areas.

With this in mind, the Public Liaison Committee of the Plan wishes to draw your attention to the fact that the Ministry of the Environment, the Hon. Jim Bradley has declared the week of November 14 to 20, 1988 as Ontario's fourth annual Recycling Week.

Although our area does not, as yet, have highly organized recycling programs, area residents have indicated their desire to pursue such iniatives.

North Americans have become a throw-away society. In Ontario, on average, a ton of solid waste is produced per person every year. The tendency is to throw everything out, without thinking about it.

Until recently, Ontario residents had little reason to be concerned with the garbage problem. Refuse was placed at the curb in tidy green garbage bags or metal containers or taken to local landfills in the expectation that the municipality would deal with it.

But landfill sites across Ontario and Canada are filling up and increasingly heated debates are ensuing in many communities about accepting garbage and locating landfill sites.

In 1987, approximately eight million tons of solid waste was generated in Ontario. Only 100,000 tons of it was recycled, less than two per cent. The rest was either buried in landfill sites or burned.

Both the provincial government and private industry are responding to the need to improve the quality of the environment. The Ontario Ministry of the Environment has put legislation in place which addresses some of the various aspects of environmental improvement. One of its programs, the Municipal Recycling Support Program, provides funding assistance to municipalities to establish recycling programs.

Municipal recycling is a rapidly expanding and evolving waste management alternative in Ontario. As more municipalities and regional governments recognize the need to include recycling as part of their overall waste management strategy, the number and sophistication of recycling programs continues to grow.

Municipal curbside recycling programs in Ontario have increased in number from seven in early 1985 to nearly 100 today, with many more municipalities about to launch programs. A factor in this growth has been the financial support of the soft drink industry through its non-profit corporation, Ontario Multi-Material Recycling Incorporated. OMMRI, as it is better known, is distributing $20 million over four years to help fund municipal recycling programs.

Recycling isn't a new discovery. But only recently has it been learned how important a waste management option it is.

The amount of garbage produced in the province is growing year by year. If people recycle some of this garbage, not only will the expense and uneconomic use of land for waste disposal be reduced, but also natural resources and energy will be conserved.

Glass, newspapers, steel and aluminum cans, plastic, fine paper and cardboard are all derived from natural resources.

It takes more energy to make paper and cardboard from freshly cut trees than from recycling paper materials. The same is true of glass, and aluminum and steel cans.

Separating solid waste at home or in the office takes only a few seconds. But those few seconds can help save Ontario's energy resources and help improve the environment. Recycling should become as natural to us as putting tidy green garbage bags out for collection—only with recycling, there would be far fewer of them.

Recycling Week is an opportunity for all of us to begin participating in finding a community solution to our garbage problems. Information kits are available for public perusal at local municipal offices. Take the time to become involved.

Thank you for your co-operation.

Sincerely,
Anne M. MacGillivray

Dear Editor,

The Mulroney government deserves a failing grade on arms control and disarmament issues. Despite some useful government actions, the government has accumulated at least ten major sins which, if not deadly, certainly have the potential to be so. These include:

1. In 1984, one of the government's first acts at the United Nations was to vote against a resolution calling for a global Freeze on nuclear weapons testing and production. The government's opposition came in spite of widespread public support for the concept. An Operation Dismantle survey of federal candidates in 1984 revealed that 94 per cent of them, including 94 per cent of PC candidates supported the Freeze.

2. Canada continues to test cruise missiles despite heavy public opposition. Cruise missiles represent a dangerous escalation of the arms race, one to which Canada should not be a party.

3. Despite public declarations of unwavering support at the UN for a Comprehensive Nuclear Test Ban, Canada's record on this has been severely blemished. At the UN, Canada has repeatedly abstained on a Mexican resolution calling for an immediate start to negotiations on a Comprehensive Test Ban.

Additionally, the government refused to support the Soviet nuclear testing moratorium of 1986-87.

4. In March 1986, the government renewed the NORAD agreement with the US for another five years. The agreement that was signed, however, dropped a clause from the previous agreement which restricted NORAD participation from activities that would be prohibited by the Anti-Ballistic Missile (AMB) Treaty of 1972. With the "AMB clause" dropped, the way has been cleared for NORAD to become an active part in such anti-ballistic missile systems as the Strategic Defence Initiative — Star Wars.

5. While Brian Mulroney announced that Canada would have no formal connection with Star Wars, at least two Crown Corporations — Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. and the National Research Council have accepted contracts from the Strategic Defence Initiative for research programs.

6. Furthermore, the government, in the 1987 Defence White Paper declared its intention to participate in the Air Defence Initiative (ADI), a weapons systems built to shoot down incoming cruise missiles and bombers over Canadian territory. Often referred to as the "walls" supporting the "roof" of SDI, ADI will precipitate an arms race in space.

7. The most high profile element of the Defence White Paper, the purchase of nuclear submarines, undermines Canadian support for meaningful disarmament measures, heightens the arms race, and represents misplaced government spending priorities.

Nuclear submarines for Canada are dangerously provocative, diplomatically ill-advised, environmentally risky, strategically unnecessary, and wastefully extravagant — they will cost between 10 and 20 billion dollars, money better spend on things Canadians really need.

8. The government has consistently refused to deal with public concern over the growing number of visits to Canadian ports by nuclear weapons-equipped warships. A shipboard fire or explosion on a nuclear-armed destroyer or frigate could

Local school children tested

MIKE THOMPSON

MORRISBURG — During the past couple of weeks area school children were being tested on a subject most Canadians know nothing about.

As part of their annual campaign against diabetes, urinary infection and a host of many other renal ailments, the Ottawa chapter of the Canadian Kidney Foundation were asking students for samples to check against potentially fatal diseases.

Resembling Norman Rockwell paintings, elementary school children throughout the United Counties were first visiting the washroom before making a stop at the nurses's desk with their styrofoam cups.

Project co-ordinator, Sheila Hare, a retired nurse from Ottawa says the program has been in operation for the past 14 years.

"During the school year, we typically test about 25,000 children in the Ottawa-area," she says.

The region Hare is responsible for stretches from Hawkesbury to Deep River and runs all along the St. Lawrence Seaway.

She says of all the children tested about 1.7 per cent are referred to their family doctor for more extensive testing.

"That doesn't necessarily mean that all those children have serious kidney problems," she adds.

She goes on to explain that the testing is only a screening process in which they look for excess protein, nitrite, blood and glucose.

Using a sort of litmus test, the nurse or her assistants, usually local mothers, place a diagnostic strip into the sample and compare the changed colors against a standard guide.

"A child is only referred to his or her doctor following two positive testings," says Hare.

Funded entirely through public and private donations, the Canadian Kidney Foundation has made free testing a priority in their fight against renal disease.

Two veterans vie for deputy-reeve in Osnabruck

Jim Bancroft

Promises to take more action

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — After completing only his first term as councillor, Jim Bancroft, now familiar with municipal bureaucracy, plans to act more and talk less if he's re-elected.

Tired with discussions and waiting for study after study, the 43-year-old branch manager for the Bank of Nova Scotia promises he'll initiate action regarding several local issues.

"We've talked about and discussed too many issues and I think it's time we start doing something to ensure these policies materialize," he says.

Some of the more major issues Bancroft is concerned with is the much-talked about joint recreation facility with the S.D.&G. Board of Education.

"I would sincerely hope that the construction would be completed by the end of my next term in council."

He says there's no reason why the facility couldn't be in operation within the next three years.

Bancroft would also like to diversify the township's tax base through increasing commercial and industrial growth.

He says there's plenty of land and resources to make Osnabruck an attractive site for many types of industry.

"Their tax dollars would alleviate some of the demands we've placed on our residents."

Bancroft says the funds collected from the industries would help the township pay for major capital expenses.

"An issue we've talked about for years and one I plan to ensure will actualize is the paving of our roads," he says.

"We talked about it informally but we've never sat down and tried to discuss how we could make a policy."

Regardless of what the future holds for Council, Bancroft says he's ready, willing and able to handle whatever issues arise.

Joe Osborne

Council has to be responsible

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Having lived in Ingleside for the past nine years, Joe Carboni is tired of council making "too many wrong decisions and too few proper ones."

Seeking the position of councillor, Carboni, a simulation technician with Transport Canada, says over the past three years council has made numerous errors in judgment.

"Case in point is council's plans to pay $150,000 for a new ball diamond with lights," he cites.

According to Carboni, council had an exclusive right to purchase a similar park from Ontario Hydro for $90,000, but turned it down.

In addition to missing out on a golden opportunity, he says council then went out and purchased a parcel of land to build their new ball diamond.

He says the land, which is located in the township's new industrial park, cost taxpayers $85,000.

"That's simply ridiculous," he says.

"Not only did they pay an absurd amount for a ball park we already had but they've also ruined the centre part of town."

Carboni says residents were comfortable with the old diamond, which was located adjacent to the shopping mall.

"The open concept of our downtown has now gone."

Another key issue he feels council mishandled was the referendum on French language services in the municipality.

He says the way the question will appear on the ballot implies that all French-speaking residents want their municipal services in their language.

"I think it reads something like, Do you feel your tax dollars should go to pay for French language services knowing that 3.5 per cent of the population speak French?"

He says the referendum question has only promoted "bad feelings between the two groups."

"I spoke to two French-speaking neighbors and they told me they didn't want to pay for those French services."

If elected, Carboni says his first priority will be providing the village with new sewage and water systems.

"From what I understand, both systems are already over-burdened by some 40 houses per street."

He says the over-worked lines are probably responsible for the village's poor water quality.

"This summer, I remember you would fill your glass with water and see little things floating around in it."

Carboni says he wants to make council more responsible to its voters.

"I just think municipal government should be held accountable for its policies."

Donald McElheran

Wants to maintain continuity

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Donald McElheran would like to see some experience and continuity on council for the next three years — attributes the former councillor says he has.

"There remains quite a bit of unfinished business from previous councils," says the 31-year-old Ross Video employee.

As former chairman of the recreation committee, one issue McElheran is particularly interested in is the construction of the million dollar joint recreation facility.

"I think it's something we on council have worked very hard for and I'd like to be there to see it completed," he says.

For the past year, McElheran has been busy discussing plans with the S.D.&G. Board of Education.

"We're in the home stretch and I think it's important that council have somebody who's already familiar with the project."

Realizing that Osnabruck, like Canada, has an increasingly number of aging populace, McElheran says he's prepared to take steps in providing services to the township's elderly residents.

"I'm interested to see the results of an implementation plan the Counties and the Ministry (of Social Services) are currently working on."

He says there has been some discussion as to providing limited-care facilities throughout the S.D.&G. area with the larger home for the aged to be built in Cornwall.

"From what I understand, the home in Cornwall would be big enough to care for both elderly residents from the city as well as the counties, but I would like to see some satellite homes in our area."

Another issue McElheran says will face the in-coming council is a plan to possibly pave some of the townships busier roads.

"I think we should be allocating at least $30,000 a year towards a paving program."

He says his plan would be phased in over the next three to four years.

"I also think the next council will have to deal with our problems regarding waste management."

He says a number of suggestions have been considered by the past council but adds a final solution will have to come soon.

Ray Smith

Industrial growth is the key

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Ray Smith, a Newington resident seeking the position of councillor in Osnabruck Township, firmly believes the key to a productive municipality is through proper development of its resources.

Smith says previous councils have successfully "laid the ground work" in promoting the township but have stopped short of luring important industry and business to the area.

"I think the key to it all is more promotion. We have to put together some kind of portfolio or economic profile for the township."

Smith says once the profile is completed, council can approach perspective clients and show them how much Osnabruck township has to offer.

"We have to reflect on our selling points. Things like out area's transportation system, our manpower, our education system and our proximity to Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto are what companies look for," says Smith.

He says, through increased industries, the township's tax base will also expand and the additional funds could be spent on major projects such as changes to the existing waterworks, new equipment for fire departments, and roads and streets throughout the township.

However, Smith is cautious when discussing what types of industry he finds acceptable.

"Ideally, we would like to see some sort of assembling plant, instead of a big bellowing smokestack type of industry."

Smith also feels the fact the township is so spread out is another bonus for interested businesses.

"In places like Lunenburg and Newington, we have an awful lot of underdeveloped land and their population base could easily increase if it needed to," says the 35-year-old antique dealer and auctioneer.

Put simply, Smith says "The more we can develop, the more we can have."

Carson Elliott

Running for deputy-reeve

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Carson Elliott is no "doubting Thomas" particularly when it comes to his ability to serve on council.

"I feel I definitely have the qualifications and the capabilities to serve this community," says the 38-year-old Kraft employee.

Elliott says he's seeking the deputy-reeveship because the incumbent, Peter Zeran has shown a lack of leadership.

"I think the people finally want someone who's able to answer their questions and I've always advocated an open council," he says.

If elected he promises to be a strong voice at Counties Council for the residents of Osnabruck Township.

"I've been involved with this community since I got here and I know I'm in touch with the needs of the people."

One of the big issues in this election is the construction of a $1.4 million recreation facility, which is to be shared between the township and the S.D.&G. Board of Education.

"I can't see any real reason why it can't be completed by 1991," says Elliott, who adds he was one of the project's founders.

"I've been involved with the recreation committee for 10 years and this has always been one of long-range goals."

Another concern Elliott has is providing services to the area's elderly.

"I think a number of good suggestions and problems were raised here last week (general meeting into the needs of seniors) and I think it's high time we deal with the situation."

Claiming he's man of action, Elliott also promises he'll improve municipal services throughout the township.

"I think our road program is lacking and our drainage services are not up to par but I think we could easily improve them with a little bit of hard work."

Elliott says he's received nothing but "good vibes" as a result of his decision to run as deputy-reeve.

"I'm really positive going into this election, I've spoken to a lot of people and I think the township is ready for a change."

Gordon Ross

Council will need experience

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Like the prodigal son, Ingleside resident Gordon Ross has returned to municipal politics, once again.

After a three-year abscence, the two-time deputy-reeve and former councillor was one of the first to announce his intentions of seeking a position on council.

"I think one of the reasons I'm running again is that I've served on council here for 10 years. During that time, I sat on numerous committees, including several on the Counties Council level," he says.

Ross says the next council will be faced with many issues he is familiar with, particularly about the $1.4 million recreation facility with the S.D.&G. Board of Education.

"I remember council talking about constructing a similar facility three years ago," he says.

"I completely support it. Anytime we can save money and provide residents with facilities I'll definitely be in favor of it."

One initiative he said he would like to see undertaken, however, is the upgrading and expansion of the township's sewage plant.

"Other things would fall into place as a result," he says.

"We could draw increased industrys if we could tie the sewage line into the industrial park."

Ross says he's quite satisfied with the condition of the township's roads.

"That's another thing we use to talk about in council years ago. But you can only do so much with the money you have.

"No mater what the project is, regardless of how big or how small, you have to make sure that you give the voting public what it wants — answers."

Peter Zeran

Welcomes Elliott's challenge

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Peter Zeran, the incumbent deputy-reeve feels he has just as much experience inside council as he does outside.

Born and raised in the township, the 53-year-old truck driver has lived in both the rural and urban areas of Osnabruck.

Zeran, an Ingleside resident, who has just completed his first term as deputy-reeve and second term on council, owned and operated a dairy farm in Newington for many years.

"I've lived here all my life and there are a few things in the planning I'd like to see done before I go," he says.

Zeran is particularly interested in the possibility of paving roads inside the township.

"We've already established a good gravelling program and I think we've got a good base now to start a paving program," he says.

Like most of the other candidates, Zeran would also like to see the much-discussed joint recreation facility with the S.D.&G. Board of Education materialize.

"I think it's something this area needs desperately," he says.

He says with all the new subdivisions in the township, facilities like the one proposed by the school board will be thoroughly enjoyed by many residents.

Ironically, Zeran respects his sole rival for the deputy-reeveship, former councillor Carson Elliott.

"What can I say? I've served with Carson for many years on council and I think he's a good man. I just hope when it comes time for the election people vote for the better man."

Wayne Summers

Not in it for the glory

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP — Wayne Summers simply considers himself a concerned citizen.

Seeking for the second time the position of councillor, the 40-year-old father of four says he just wants to get involved with municipal government.

"I've already been quite active in sport organizations and I thought I could help on council," he says.

Summers, who's self-employed and tenders grass-cutting and snow removal contracts with the township could stand to lose more than $10,000 in business if he's elected.

As part of the Municipal Act, Summers would have to declare conflict of interest for those particular contracts and could not bid on their tenders.

"I'm definitely not in it for personal or financial gain," he explains.

Summers says his intentions are forthright, unlike a couple of former councillors.

"I won't mention any names but there were two councillors who just wanted to be on council for their self-esteem, the thrill of power."

He says there remain a few issues that have to be resolved from last council.

"The housing settlements at Ault Island will have to be cleared up soon and I've heard a lot of complaints about the money ($150,000) we're spending on a new ball diamond."

Summers says he's spoken to many residents who want a change in their municipal government.

"I don't know if I have all the answers but people can rest assured I'll do my best."

result in the contamination of an entire city. The PCB fire in St. Basil in August 1988 would pale by comparison.

9. The Free Trade Agreement threatens to make the Canadian economy and Canadian society as dependent on military production as is the US. That country, during Ronald Reagan's presidency, has gone from being the world's biggest creditor to becoming the world's biggest debtor nation due to an annual military budget of more than $300 billion.

The trade deal will make Canada more like the US by threatening or eliminating Canadian subsidies for regional development which do not "harmonize" with US economic practices. In the US, one of the few tools of regional economic development is military contracting.

10. The government has allowed and encouraged flight testing and training all across Canada of bombers and fighter-bombers used for nuclear war-fighting. These flights are used to develop nuclear war-fighting strategies, based on the mistaken and dangerous notion that a nuclear war can be fought and won on a limited basis. In addition, they threaten the environment and livelihoods of Canada's native peoples.

Both opposition parties have put forward some sound policy alternatives toward making Canada a real contributor to world peace. They represent options Canadians should consider seriously in this federal election.

Ribbon cutting at municipal building

WILLIAMSBURG — A large crowd was on hand here Saturday for the ribbon-cutting ceremony which marked the opening of the newly renovated municipal buildings in Williamsburg.

The opening of the building which formerly housed the Williamsburg Village School was attended by local municipal officials, S.D.&G. MPP Noble Villeneuve, federal and municipal candidates, and many community members.

Built in 1901 to replace an old village school, the building had its first renovation in 1959, with the addition of a classroom as well as modern plumbing and an oil furnace.

Reeve Johnny Whitteker estimated the final costs of renovations including extras like furniture to be about $200,000, up from an original estimate of $148,000.

The senior citizens meeting room has been enlarged at the north end, and an addition has been created to the south to house the new council chambers. The old chambers were convered into an office for the clerk.

The seniors committee was active in planning changes for the building. Jim Jordan laid out architectural designs, and Hartley Hodgson was the contractor.

Fire Marshall to do new survey

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

BRINSTON — Matilda Council agreed to a fire protection survey last Thursday evening, with the view to possibly establishing a fire department mutally owned by the Village of Iroquois and Matilda Township.

The suggestion to conduct a survey came from Fire Marshal Ed Hiscoe, who noted the large number of fires in Matilda in 1987 (25) compared to low numbers in other townships.

However, the figure is misleading according to Reeve Lorne Mellan — since in buying fire protection, all Matilda's fires are reported, whereas other municipalities report only major fires or where there is a fatality.

A mutally owned fire department would be manned by Iroquois firemen as at present, with the addition of about five to 10 Matilda firemen.

Straight fire protection cost the township $30,000 in 1987, according to Clerk Bill Horner. Matilda Township presently buys fire protection from the Townships of Williamsburg, South Mountain and Edwardsburgh as well as the Village of Iroquois.

Also, joint ownership would enable Matilda to join in a Mutual Fire Aid System, since only municipalities with a fire department may participate.

If the municipality enters into a agreement, it must decide what needs it wishes to provide — complete fire protection, fire fighting services only, first call, or back up fire fighting.

It must state services to be provided, area to be protected, apparatus, equipment and personnel, and whether there would be a standby fee and other charges.

Complete fire protection services would include fire fighting, inspections, fire cause investigations, issuance of Fire Marshall orders, enforcement of the Ontario Fire Code, assisting the building official with building plans, hazardous material incidents, medical assistance and administrative services.

The proper sweep

Curl Canada clinic is the popular way to learn the game

MORRISBURG — The annual Curl Canada Clinic offered by the Morrisburg Curling Club, through instructors Allen Brunt and Sid Morrell proved once again that every little bit helps.

Participants Saturday were led through the game step by step from proper delivery stance, through the actual delivery and into sweeping.

A total of 19 people took the course ranging from Little Rock age curlers right through to senior citizens.

"About one third of the participants are new to the game and most of the rest have taken the course before, said Brunt. Actually some are experienced curlers."

"We are pleased with the turnout," he said. "Anything over 15 is good."

Brunt says that since the club began offering the course four years ago about 90 curlers have benefitted from it.

The course slowly works its way through the game and after watching films on each segment, participants are given the opportunity to work on their technique.

Once on the ice the group was divided and additional instruction was given by Brunt, Morrell and Eddie Morrell.

The course wraps up with a written test.

Senior Spartans approach season end with a win

IROQUOIS — The Seaway District High School senior girls put together a 60-36 victory over the visiting R-O Lancers in S.D.&G. basketball action here Monday but the Junior Spartans did not fare as well against their opponents with a 46-22 loss.

In senior action it was the Spartans all the way, leading 15-9 at the quarter and 25-15 at half time. They increased their advantage to 42-27 in the third quarter and put it away with another 18 points in the final.

Lisa VanHoof led the Seaway attack with 16 points followed by Kim Bucking and Laura Dawley, with 12. Kathryn Houze dropped eight points and Heather Crawley six.

Answering for the Spartans were Stephanie Wells with 15 points, Peggy Antoine provided 10 and Cheryl Servais seven.

Reynen leads Lancers

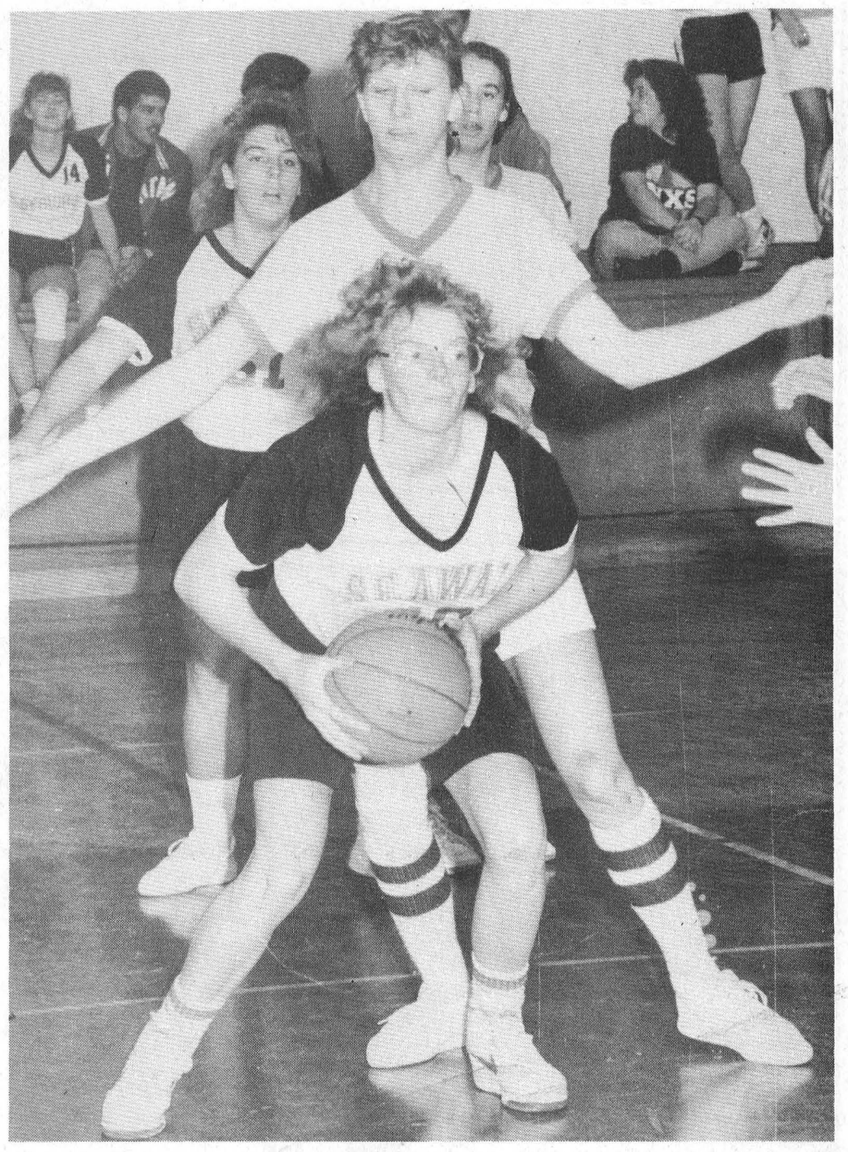
Kristine Reynen spearheaded the Lancer junior attack dropping 19 points while Natasha Veltheim had 15 and Sonia Salmon 10.

The top Seaway shooter was Jennifer Coleman with 10 points and Annette VanBeilen had six.

R-O led 11-0 after the first quarter, Seaway not getting on board until the second eight minutes of play.

The Lancers led 23-8 at the half and 34-14 at three-quarter time.

Next action for Seaway is November 3 at General Vanier.



No where to go

Seaway Spartan Lisa VanHoof finds herself completely surrounded during a Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry senior girls basketball game Monday afternoon at Seaway High. Although she may be stopped in this encounter the R-O Lancers were unable to shut her down as she went on to lead the Spartans to a 60-36 win with 16 points. The Junior Spartans did not fair nearly as well against their opponents who claimed a 46-22 win. Both Spartans teams have two games left in their regular schedule. They travel to General Vanier November 3 and wrap it up on the 8th at Tagwi. —McNairn photo

Sooters drop first game

CORNWALL — The Sooter Photo Royals dropped their first game of the season in Minor AA Bantam action with a humiliating 6-1 loss to the Gloucester Rangers last week.

A first period goal by Danny Adams, assisted by Robbie Domanko, was all the offence the Royals could muster and only a strong effort from Yves Leger in the Sooter goal prevented a complete blowout.

Back in form

In action Tuesday the Royals got back in form, coming from behind for a 3-3 tie with the Gatineau Ambassadors at the Campeau Arena.

Gatineau went ahead in the first on goals by Mario Lamothe and Pascal Patry but the Royals replied with an unassisted tally from Geoff Hare.

Gatineau extended their lead in the second with a goal from Paul Millette but the Royals kept it close with a goal from Patrick Compeau.

Salvage tie

A third period counter from Geoff Hare, his second of the night, assisted by Matt Gordon allowed the Royals to salvage the tie.

The Royals outshot the Ambassadors 26-14 with Trevor McMillan supplying key saves in the Sooter net.

Saturday at the Cornwall Complex, the injury ridden Royals downed the Nepean Raiders 4-3 in a close hard-fought contest.

An outstanding effort by Trevor Thompson with a four point night and Robbie Domanko's three points, propelled the Royals to the victory.

The two played to a 1-1 first period tie, the Royals getting their goal from Domanko, and another three in the second put them ahead 4-2. Nepean fought back in the third with a powerplay goal from Craig Chirrelli but failed to find the equalizer due to Yves Leger's sharp performance in the Royals' net.

Scoring for the Royals in the second were Thompson with two and Domanko with a single.

P.S. Flag football

Morrisburg claims win

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — A game is not over until the final whistle blows and that point was proven by the Morrisburg Public School junior boys flag football team here last Thursday.

Trailing 6-0 with less than a minute left in the final game ofthe Dundas County Championship tournament, the Morrisburg boys came through for a touchdown to force overtime and eventually claim the 1988 title.

Although they lost 12-7 to Chesterville in their opening game, Morrisburg worked their way back around to the tournament championship with wins over St. Cecilia's 24-6 and Inkerman 18-7.

Nationview went the preliminary round undefeated with wins over Inkerman, Dixons Corners and Winchester.

No score in the first half

Mark Shaver quarterbacked the final for Morrisburg but was unable to get any points on the scoreboard in the first half. Although they moved the ball well they were unable to get anything going against the Nationview defence.

Nationview received the second half kick, taking possession at midfield. A long run by Adrien Pencirov put them in scoring position and on the next play he crossed the goal line giving Nationview a 6-0 lead.

It looked as if Nationview had the championship wrapped up as they entered the final minute of play with Morrisburg in possession at centre field.

Spectacular run

No yardage was gained on the first down but on the next play Jason Rice caught a long pass and then made a spectacular run to even the game 6-6 with just 10 seconds to spare.

Unable to get the convert, the game was forced into five minutes of overtime during which neither team was able to count. With this method unsuccessful it was decided to go to converts with each team getting equal opportunity.

Nationview missed in their first two attempts but on Morrisburg's second attempt Shaver hit Jonathan Saunders with a long pass and Morrisburg claimed the championship.

In the first game loss to Chesterville, Morrisburg was quarterbacked by Shawn O'Neill who ran for the lone touchdown.

Game two and three were handled by Mike Adlington and scoring in the 24-6 win over St. Cecilia's were Mark Shaver, Jon Saunders, O'Neill and Adlington. Against Inkerman, Shaver had two TD's and O'Neill one.

Junior B Lions creep into second place, after dismal showing against Platters

MORRISBURG — The Morrisburg Junior B Lions pulled into second place in the St. Lawrence Division of the Ottawa and District Junior B hockey league this weekend with a 7-4 win over the Kemptville 73s.

The win against the 73s was just enough for the Lions to secure second place as they went down to defeat at the hands of the short-handed Gananoque Platters on home ice Friday night.

The Lions now have five wins for 10 points, just one point back of the Char-Lan Rebels who have 11 points on five wins and one tie.

Right on their heels are the Kemptville 73s and Alexandria with nine points each and the Winchester Hawks trail with five.

Lead after the first

Friday night the Lions were first on the scoreboard, building a 2-1 first period lead. The Platters turned it on late in the second pulling ahead 4-2 before the Lions were able to get it going to trail 4-3 heading into the final.

Third period action saw the Platters, who had only nine skaters, explode for five goals to take the 9-4 win.

Four goal performance

Captain Randy Goodsell led the Platters with a four-goal performance and Dion Veley provided three. Singles came from the sticks of Jamie Dennison and James Dorey.

Answering for the Lions were Jason Smith and Yvon Vesner with goals in the first and Johnny Morrow struck in the second with 24 seconds left on the clock.

Randy Jodoin finished the Lions' scoring with a powerplay goal early in the third. Randy Mullin, who is tied for third place in the St. Lawrence Division scoring stats, provided three assists.

Any Cummins was between the Lions' pipes and Paul Tompkins handled the Platters' action. The Platters sat out 13 minor penalties, and the Lions had 10 and a game misconduct to Andy Lee.

Lions all the way

At Kemptville Sunday it was the Lions all the way as they led 2-0 after the first and 5-3 heading into the final.

Johnny Morrow and Sean Baker struck for the Lions in the first period and in the second it was Jason Smith, Andy Lee, and Morrow with his second.

Randy Jodoin and Morrow finished it off late in the third giving the Lions the 7-4 win.

Darren Slodova beat Lion's goaltender Kevin Eamon twice and Arnie Shaw and Jason Quernelle had singles.

The Lions were assessed nine minor penalties while the 73s handled 12.

This weekend

Coming up this weekend, the Lions are on the road Saturday to play Char-Lan and on Sunday, November 6 they host the Alexandria Glens in a 2:30 p.m. match.

To establish bear management areas across the province

TORONTO — The Ministry of Natural Resources will establish a system of bear management areas across Ontario to reduce harvest pressure on provincial black bear populations.

"The introduction of bear management areas will improve my ministry's ability to monitor black bear and will also eliminate competition among tourist operators within the same geographic area," Natural Resources Ministry Vincent Kerrio said recently.

"Interest in bear hunting in Ontario continues to rise and my ministry, in co-operation with tourist operators and hunters, has identified a need for an area allocation system to protect the resource and reduce conflicts."

The ministry will meet with active bear outfitters in each MNR district later this fall to discuss the mapping of bear management areas, taking into account the areas traditionally hunted by each outfitter.

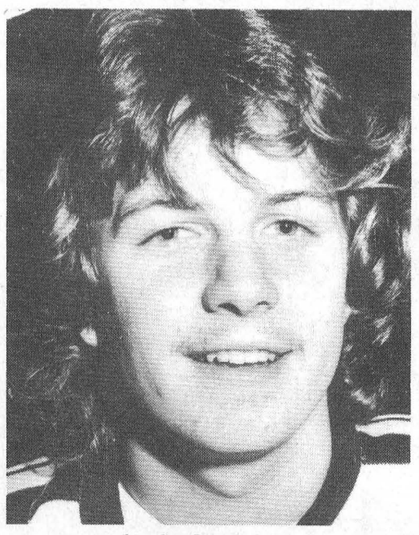
Many provincial operators already have informed agreements that define hunting areas, although extreme competition for bears has caused this system to break down.

Bear outfitters who are assigned areas will receive the exclusive right to provide guiding and baiting services to bear hunters within those areas.

The program does not affect hunting by Ontario residents, unless they use the services of a tourist outfitter.

Since most hunters use the Ontario tourist industry, bear management areas will enable MNR to better monitor the annual bear harvest provincially and by specific areas.

Meet the Jr. B Lions



Andy Cummins

Andy is 19 years old and a native of Mariatown. He played his minor hockey in the Morrisburg system and for the last three years has been tending the Lions' goal. Stingers pull win out of hat to claim first in league play

MORRISBURG — In a spectacular comeback the Red Stingers claimed first place in flag football league action here Sunday morning, moving ahead of the Fossils by one point with an 18-13 win.

Quarterback Steve Casselman started it off for the Reds only to be intercepted by Fossils' Mike Barclay. The Reds, with an extra man, put a double rush on Fossil's QB Tom Dawley and this worked perfectly when a tipped ball was picked off by Kevin Adams and he had a clear route to the end zone for six.

Fossils pull ahead

After an incomplete conversion, the Fossils took over and were ready for the rush. Dawley fired a lofty pass to Phillip Dillabough for the touchdown and a successful conversion put the Fossils ahead 7-6.

The second half opened with the Stingers kicking to the Fossils and quarterback Phillip Dillabough, taking over for Dawley, moved the ball down field with short accurate passes.

Fourth down saw Sam Laurin and Cam Dillabough running a cross cross pattern with Laurin pulling in the pass for another six for a 13-6 Fossil lead.

After a failed conversion Stingers' second half quarterback Leo Lafortune took control moving the ball down field. With fourth down and goal he hit Tim Smith up the middle for the TD tightening the score to 13-12.

The single point attempt was well covered by Fossils' Steve Coligan and again was incomplete.

Interception changes game

The next possession saw the Fossils, with the time winding down, throw a long ball which was picked off by Leo Lafortune.

Although it looked as if the Fossils defence would be able to hold the charging Stingers, it didn't work.

Lafortune went to clutch player Tim Smith who made a juggling catch and went in for the touchdown giving the Stingers an 18-13 win and the league's top spot.

As a result of the finish the Red Stingers will meet the Greens at 10 a.m. this Sunday and the Blue Fossils will take on the Whites in the first round of playoffs. Both are single game knockouts.

Ombudsman's office to visit Morrisburg

MORRISBURG — Help is on the way for area residents tired of dead ends and red tape.

The office of the Ombudsman of Ontario, the Ottawa-based watchdog whose primary role is to investigate and resolve provincially-related complaints, has announced that its district officer, Klaas Bylsma will visit Morrisburg and Cornwall on November 9.

Arriving at the Morrisburg municipal offices at 10:00 a.m., Bylsma will meet complaintants on a first-come, first-served basis until 11:30.

From there, he will travel to the Children's Aid Society at 27 York Street in Cornwall where h he will meet concerned individuals from 1 to 3 p.m.

In addition, Bylsma will visit the Morrisburg Chamber of Commerce building at 11:30 a.m. and talk to staff of area industries in Cornwall at 3 p.m.

Established in 1975 when the Legislature passed the Ombudsman Act, which guarantees that the office is independent from government, the bureau has broad powers to investigate actions, decisions, procedures and practices of Ontario government officials.

The Ombudsman's work covers a wide range of provincial concerns such as human rights issues, health and social services.

This includes Workmen's Compensation, OHIP, expropriation of land for provincial projects, family benefits, retail sales tax, and a host of other concerns.

Despite appearing like the last resort, the Ombudsman is a person who tries to help you after all other approaches have failed. The office has obviously served an important function for a surprising number of Ontarioans.

Since 1975, more than 100,000 complaints and information request have been filed with the office.

Residents interested in more information before Bylsma's visit to the area can contact the office of the Ombudsman at 234-6421.

Bell may cost 911 emergency system

MATILDA TOWNSHIP — Council here has agreed to let Bell Canada give a cost estimate of a 911 emergency system. The decision was reached last Thursday after discussing a letter sent by Justin Maloney, M.D. of the Medical Director Base Hospital Program, Ottawa General Hospital.

On June 22, the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton implemented the 911 emergency telephone number so that anyone in the region could reach their police, fire, or ambulance services through an easy to remember number.

"A community puts a lot of effort and money into its emergency services. Why do that if people can't reach them in a hurry?" wrote Mulroney. Two reasons for a 911 emergency system are the variety of numbers called in a crisis, and the fact that numbers can differ according to location.

Councillor Norm Tinkler remarked that to be feasible the whole area would have to be on a 911 emergency exchange. Clerk Bill Horner commented that it wouldn't cost the township anything to find out how much the system would be.

Ontario Hydro honors old agreement

Thursday, Reeve Lorne Mellan accepted a cheque from Ontario Hydro for $26,425 to honor an old agreement made in 1964 between Hydro and Mahlon Zeron, then reeve of Matilda.

Bob Kuskie, Road Superintendent, estimated that the money would cover most of the costs of a culvert which is to be installed between Flagg Road and No. 2 Highway, which provides drainage to the St. Lawrence River.

Because of raised water levels after the Seaway was put in place, Hydro signed an agreement to assume for 50 years the cost of extraordinary maintenance on old No. 2 Highway in Matilda Township, and also for roads from the highway south to the St. Lawrence River.

Included in the agreement was a promise to maintain riprap along old Highway No. 2 and keep the culvert repaired which is located under the Flagg Road at Flagg Creek.

Three local men remembered

The Counties will erect a site at Hainsville in memory of three local men who attended Hainsville Public School — Harold Irvine, Gerald Warren and Alex Johnston who were killed in action in the Second World War.

Trees had been planted as a memorial to the men, a fact which was known locally. But after ownership of the lands changed to the United Counties, Hydro asked permission to cut trees under the hydro lines, which the Counties granted, not knowing the purpose of the trees.

The township will ask Planner Kay Stone to prepare a zoning amendment from rural to special rural on the east commons, Concession 3 to let Randy Richmire and Lisa Lavallie keep a wrecking yard.

•

Township solicitor Mike McInnis will be asked to draft a transfer of ownership of Dundela United Church from Seaway Valley Presbytery to Matilda Township. Bill Bradley, a director of Hope Farm, who was forced to relocate his food bank and clothing store may be allowed to set up a shop in the lower part of the church, but the township would not be legally bound to him.

•

Matilda Council will hold a general information meeting on the direction of the next three years open to the public after regular council November 17.

Morrisburg will have three new councillors

Sees growth potential for Morrisburg

Linda Bowers

MORRISBURG — One clear difference between Linda Bowers and the other four candidates seeking the position of councillor, other than the fact she's the only woman, is that she has a considerable background in recreation.

Although she has no former experience on council, Bowers is familiar with municipal politics as a member of the Morrisburg Parks Board and has maintained a keen interest in village recreation.

Bowers believes the future could hold a significant increase in business and industry and eventually the population of Morrisburg and says she's prepared to provide the services and needs.

"I will do my best to increase housing and schools for the village and its people," she says.

"Time and determination are vital to any plan of action and I have the time and the determination."

As expected, Bowers also promises to promote recreational programs throughout the area.

"We are in the process of forming a recreational committee and I am prepared to provide any adequate facilities to meet the growing needs of Morrisburg."

A supporter of the BIA and the Chamber of Commerce, Bowers says she applauds their initiative.

She says Morrisburg's location along the St. Lawrence River is "a perfect drawing card for tourism" and adds she's more than willing to assist the parks board to improve the waterfront site.

Bowers also advocates the importance of the village working with neighboring communities, especially in the areas of industry and recreation.

She adds that municipal politicians should be answerable for their actions.

"I'm committed to creating a better communication between council and its residents."

Feels village has progressed too slowly

MORRISBURG — For Willard Steinburg, a candidate in the upcoming municipal election, the numbers just don't add up.

According to the retired businessman, in 1836 Morrisburg's population was 1,900 and today it's only 2,200.

"Now that tells me there's something wrong," he says.

Educated in mathematics, Steinburg says the village has progressed too slowly.

One of his key proposals in changing all that is to construct a four-lane highway directly from the village to the nation's capital.

"There are over a million peole in the Ottawa area and we need some way to get them here," says the two-time councillor.

He says the highway would also attract much-needed industry to the area.

"We have to procure as much industry to the area as possible."

He says, with the assistance of neighboring Williamsburg township, Morrisburg could see a tremendous increase in commercial growth and development.

"We can't do all this on our own," he says.

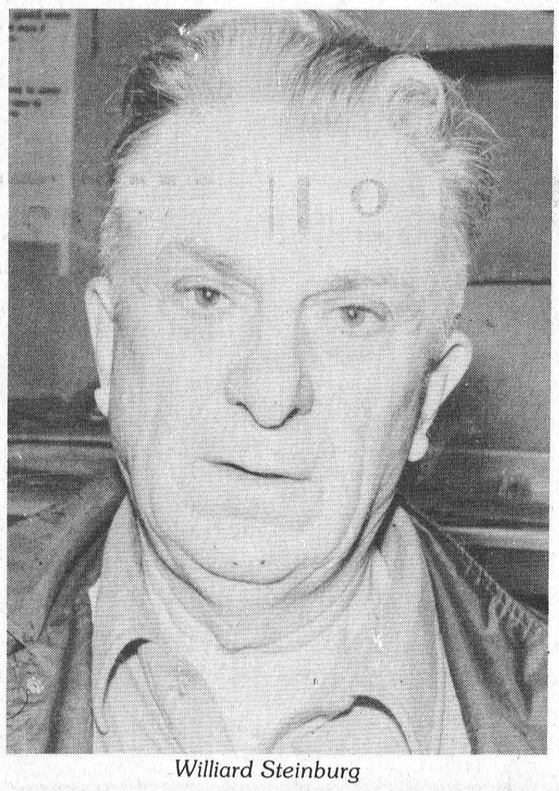
Steinburg also believes the two municipalities should co-operate when constructing any recreational facilties.

"I was on council when we built the hockey rink and I know that if we wanted to build a swimming pool or anything else we would have to get some help from Williamsburg."

In fact, Steinburg has already spoken to the township's politicians and says "they thoroughly support me and my ideas."

He also says he's familiar with the problems the sewer system is causing and adds he's prepared to do whatever it takes to fix it.

A resident of Morrisburg for almost 40 years, Steinburg says he has the experience and the willingness to work for the residents of the village.



Williard Steinburg

Knows village's problems

MORRISBURG — Although Peter Remillard has never served on any municipal council, he already has plenty of experience with the problems they face.

The village's solicitor for the past eight years, Remillard knows all about the problems associated with the sewer project.

"I have hands-on experience dealing with the many problems that face council," he says.

Remillard has also taken more than just an interest in the revitalization of the Morrisburg shopping centre.

For the past three years, he's been selected chairman of the village's Business Improvement Area (BIA) and was former president of the Chamber of Commerce.

"I think we're going to have to concentrate on some big ticket items," he says.

Remillard cites the redevelopment and beautification of the village's waterfront property as a priority.

"I'm not talking about putting high-rises, I'm talking about looking at and sticking to the master plan that's already been established."

He says as a councillor, he will try to implement those ideas in a more expedient manner.

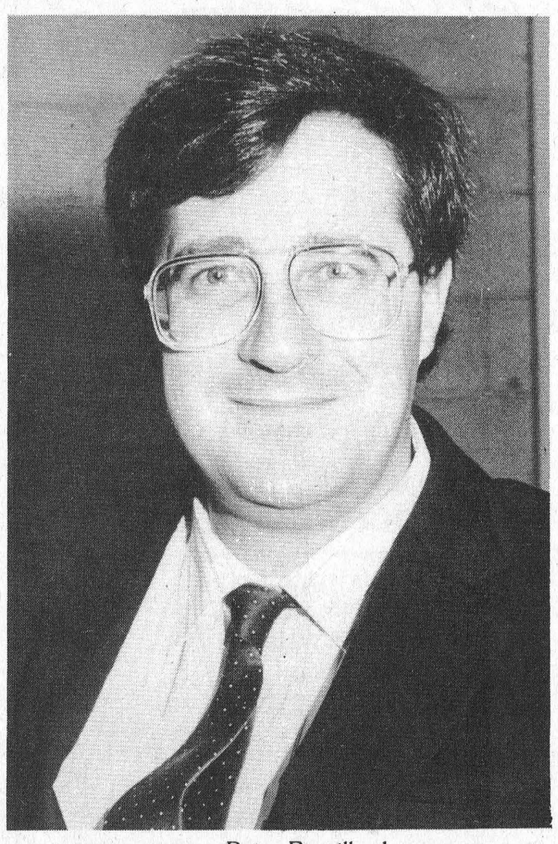
"We're also going to need someone in council who'll keep those PRIDE applications rolling," he says referring to the governmental assistance the village received in conjunction with the mall project.

Another concern Remillard has is with the village's water tower.

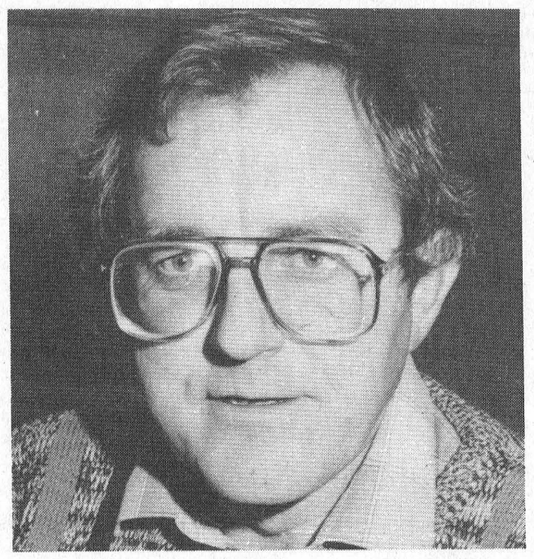
"I know in Iroquois they sent a diver into their tower and he conducted a series of X-rays and stress test and I think we should hire somebody to see what the life-expectancy of our tank is."

Remillard says if the tower has to be replaced council should begin immediately to provide adequate funds for such a large project.

Remillard says he would also like to see an increase in industry in the Morrisburg area as well as working together with surrounding municipalities to provide recreational facilities.



Peter Remillard



Dirk Testerink

Hopes to enforce municipal by-laws

MORRISBURG — Perhaps one of the biggest ironies in Dirk Testerink's campaign to seek a position as councillor is that he's interested in large creative undertakings as well as being concerned with the needs of the average resident.

A difficult task he handles with apparent ease.

Constantly advocating municipal growth through increased industry, the 43-year-old contractor also promises to keep sidewalks clear of snow for the senior citizens.

"We must promote expansion or the local economy becomes stagnant. We must also provide job opportunities for our youth," he says.

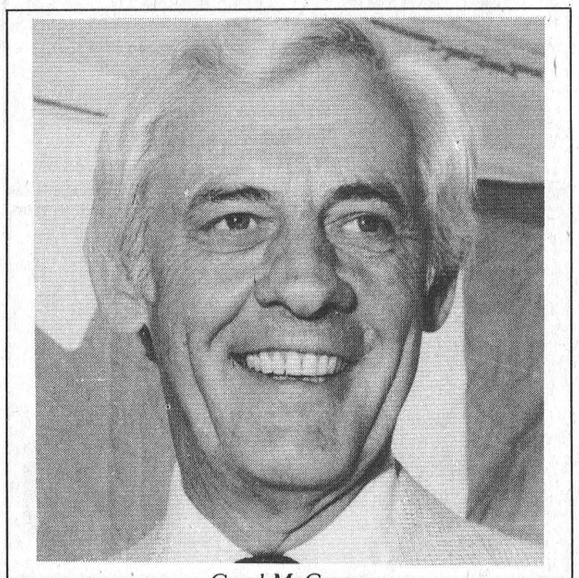
Testerink is also concerned with bringing more tourists to the area.

"We have to work closely with the BIA and implement programs promoting tourism and shopping in Morrisburg. There's a lot of money to be made there," he says.

"There's no reason why tourism can't become our main industry."

He says the village will have to clean up its beach, establish a flower planting program and provide a municipal plan to beautify the area.

Other issues Testerink would like to see is improving recreational areas and programs as well as enforcing municipal by-laws.



Gord McGregor

Previous experience is an asset

MORRISBURG — Over the past 25 years he's lived here, council candidate Gord McGregor has been outspoken and at times even controversial.

But whether you agree or disagree with him, the 53-year-old restaurant owner is obviously a man of action.

Not prepared to just sit idly by, McGregor has stood up on more than one occasion to speak his mind.

As an active member of the much-publicized Alliance for the Preservation of English in Canada, McGregor is not unfamiliar with politics and the media.

"It's highly unlikely you'll hear as many promises here tonight as you have from most federal politicians," he joked at the all-candidates meeting last Monday night.

However, the one-time councillor has some serious goals and ideas for the village.

Claiming he's sincerely interested in the community, McGregor says he's prepared for the challenges facing the next council.

"There are going to be quite a few things happening, like the water tower, which has to be looked at and the sewer project which has to be rectified. I think it wouldn't hurt to have a little bit of experience on council," he says.

McGregor also proposes further co-operation between Morrisburg and its surrounding municipalities.

He says he's also looking forward to the time the village's waterfront park project is completed and promises he will work closely with the board.

A regular at council meetings, McGregor says it's important that municipal politicians maintain a two-way communication with the residents.

"All I can guarantee is that I will serve to the best of my ability for the next three years."

Simplifying, McGregor says "All I really want is to provide some progress for the village and the people."

I seek to serve the community that has made me and my wife welcome over the past fifteen years, with policies that:

- show concern for the ordinary voter
- make your tax dollar go further by wise use of government grants
- protect the environment by opposition to large-scale land-fill garbage dumps
- provide a system of immediate location for all emergency calls from your homes
- enhance the services available to senior citizens, particularly in their own homes
- enable you to know what council is discussing before it makes decisions, not afterwards

New teacher at Morrisburg has relaxed approach

MORRISBURG — Marg Phifer is pleased with the communication level she and students of the Grade 6 and 7 class at Morrisburg Public School have attained.

"They understand my jokes," she said in an interview Friday. Marg is in her fifth year of teaching, and this is her first experience with the 11 and 12 year age group.

She has also found that the children are more able to take responsibility, and can with the required effort get their work in by due dates.

One new activity Phifer is trying this year is the 'centre approach' for reading activities and language arts. Word puzzles and games are incorporated into the learning, and the activities which cover different skills are done on one's own time.

Another activity the children are enjoying is the Guiness Book of Class Records — weekly statistics on who has the most detentions, the messiest handwriting, the longest fingernails, who is the heaviest and the lightest etc.

A native of Cardinal, Marg obtained a Bachelor of Physical Education in 1983 from Brock University in St. Catharine's, and later her teaching degree also at Brock.

In 1984, she took a job teaching Grade 4 in Campbellford, a small town in Northumberland and Newcastle.

Moving back to Eastern Ontario, she taught Grade 2 at Morewood Public for a year starting September 1985.

In the fall of 1986, she took a position teaching primary classes at Elma Public School, and resource withdrawal at Maple Ridge, and spent two years at these two schools.

As well as having the management of the Grades 6 and 7 split class this year at Morrisburg, Marg will also be coaching volleyball.

A helping hand

New teacher at Morrisburg Public, Marg Phifer, is helping Chris Lee with an assignment here last Friday. She is enjoying the independence and communication level of her students.

IN MEMORIAM

BARKLEY—In memory of a loving mother who passed away November 3, 1986.
O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a lonliness
The world can never fill.
Ever remembered by
Charles, Donald and family

HALL — Irwin, Oct. 26, 1975.
Your end came sad and sudden,
No time to say goodbye,
You were gone before we realized
And only God knows why.
A golden heart stopped beating,
Hard working hands at rest,
God broke our hearts to prove to us
That He only takes the best.
God gave us strength to face it,
Courage to stand the blow,
But what it meant to lose you,
Only God will ever know.
You were someone very special,
Someone good and true,
You will never be forgotten,
For we thought the world of you.
Daugter, Pat Hall-Beckstead

VELEY — In memory of a dear sister and aunt, Joan Veley, who passed away November 8, 1980.
No one knows the bitter pain
I have suffered, since I lost you
Life has never been the same.
A silent thought, a secret tear
Keeps your memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief,
But memory turns back every leaf.
Always remembered and sadly missed by sister Judy, brother-in-law Carl, Ottawa and nephews.
