MOTOR SHOW WEEK

Commencing Saturday, March 31st and continuing throughout Easter week, inclusive of Monday April 9th, the people of Morrisburg and surrounding country will be privileged to inspect an exhibit of the finest line of quality automobiles ever shown in Eastern Ontario, in fact an exhibition of McLaughlin-Buick and Overland automobiles equal to that shown at the large National Motor Shows. W. H. Fetterly & Co's Show Room and New Garage has been attractively decorated for this occasion and approximately fifteen models will be on display. The exhibit will be open daily from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m. every day and evening throughout the week. Everybody is cordially extended an invitation whether interested or not and should not miss this opportunity of seeing this display which is well worth while, and will be much admired.

THE LATE MRS. KECK

It is with regret that we are called upon to announce the death of an old and highly respected resident of Iroquois and Matilda township in the person of Mrs. Demetrius Keck, who passed peacefully away Saturday afternoon, March 17th, in her 78th year. Deceased, whose maiden name was Caroline Barkley, daughter of the late Matthew and Elizabeth Barkley, was born at Williamsburg on June 14th, 1845. On August 7th, 1872 she was united in marriage to Demetrius Keck of Matilda and they moved to their farm in the broken Second where Mrs. Keck spent all of her life until moving to Iroquois with her son Edward in October 1922. Her husband predeceased her ten years ago. To this union were born two sons and one daughter, all of whom survive, viz: Edward at home; George of Lisbon Centre, N.Y.; and Mrs. Jno. Munro of Thorold. She is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Robert Martin of Morrisburg. The funeral service was conducted at the Iroquois Methodist Church, by the pastor, Rev. T. J. Vickery, on Monday, March 19. Interment was made in the Point Iroquois Methodist cemetery.—Iroquois News.

WILLIAM MACINNES SR.

With startling suddenness the final summons came to an aged and respected resident of Prescott, on Wednesday morning, March 28th, 1923, at seven o'clock, in the person of William MacInnes. Deceased contracted a severe cold and on Friday afternoon last he went home from his office and went to bed, but was up on Sunday for a short time. Pneumonia quickly developed and he passed away. William MacInnes was born at Iroquois, April 11th, 1841. In the year 1881 he went to reside in Prescott and for a number of years he travelled for Edward Smith, produce merchant. Later on he accepted the position as mail contractor which he held for fifteen years, and in the fall of 1909 he entered the coal and wood business which he has successfully conducted until the time of his death. Mr. MacInnes was a hard working, energetic man to the very last, and it may be truthfully said he died in the harness. He married Jane Peterson 56 years ago, she passing away ten years ago last June. Of a family of five, three survive, namely: William George and Colin, of town; also two brothers, John and Colin of Iroquois and one sister, Mrs. John Armstrong of Morrisburg. He was a Penian Raid Veteran, an honorary member of the Commercial Travellers Association, a member of Amity Lodge No. 80, I.O.O.F., and a member of the Masonic Lodge, of Iroquois, in politics, a Liberal, and in religion, a faithful member of the Methodist church where the funeral took place this Friday at 3 o'clock.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSES

Get your automobile licenses. W. H. Fetterly & Co. have arranged during Motor Show Week on Wednesday April 4th, only, to have automobile licenses issued at their Show Rooms. People should avail themselves to this opportunity of getting their automobile license at this time.

Are you lucky? If so the fish pond at the Junior Red Cross Bazaar on March 31st had lots of good luck for you. If not, you better come and try to change your luck, once for all. Notice of the incorporation of five additional co-operative dairy associations in the county of Leeds is contained in the current issue of the Ontario Gazette, the companies being Aberdeen Co-operative Dairy Association, the Delta Dairy Co-operative Company, the Dominion Co-operative Dairy Products Association, the Elgin Model Co-operative Dairy Products Association and the Forfar Co-operative Dairy Association. Each is without share capital.

Sir Robert and Lady Baden Powell have sailed for Canada and will attend the big conference on education and citizenship which is to be held in Toronto during Easter week under the auspices of the National Council of Education. They are among the leaders in education and youth development in England. Sir Robert, in addition to attending the convention, will inspect boy scout organizations in Toronto, Ottawa, Winnipeg and other Canadian centres. He is the 1st Boy Scout of the British Empire.

ASKS PRINCIPAL GRANT

TO WITHDRAW REMARK

"From my seat in the House I again call upon Principal Grant to either repudiate what he is reported to have said on February 21 or to apologize to this House," declared Mr. W. H. Casselman (U.F.O., Dundas), speaking in the Legislature this week before the orders of the day were called, and referring to a reported remark of the Upper Canada College Principal that the opposition to the Adolescent School Attendance Act was due to "light-wad farmers."

Mr. Casselman said he had written a letter to the Globe, in which he had called on Principal Grant to repudiate the remark or to apologize to the farmers. The Dundas member asserted that he believed in advanced education, but that under the provisions of the Adolescent School Attendance Act they had not what they believed in in this Province, that is, democratic government.

SAYS FERGUSON WILL INTRODUCE SATISFACTORY POLICY

At a crowded and enthusiastic Conservative meeting held in Toronto this week, President James Hazack gave the signal for the big guns from Queen's Park to open fire. The battery commanders are Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, T. Herbert Lennox, K.C., J. A. Currie, Hon. T. Crawford, M.P.P., and A. E. Donevan of Brockville.

In leading the attack A. E. Donevan said: "The time has arrived to quit 'pussyfooting.' The public demand that the cards be laid upon the table. In regard to the O.T.A. I am sure Hon. Howard Ferguson will introduce a policy more suitable to the interests of the province than the present administration."

BARNS BURN AT FINCH

On Thursday of last week about three o'clock p.m. the barns belonging to W. J. Lynch on the Finch boundary were completely destroyed by fire together with a large quantity of grain and hay. Previous to the fire Mr. Lynch assisted by some neighbors were engaged in threshing grain with the power being supplied by a gas engine. Suddenly the engine became enveloped in flames which soon caught in the hay and straw and spread very rapidly. Quick action resulted in all the stock being liberated with the exception of three small calves. Mr. Lynch had a narrow escape in squeezing out when the flames cut off his way to the door.

TWO BOYS DROWNED AT CORNWALL

Lionel, aged thirteen, and Archie, aged nine, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Page, Montreal road, were drowned Thursday morning in the sluiceway near the Canada Mill. These two boys, with Arnold Lallonde, a cousin, and Leo Burrell and Arger Moreau, went down to the sluiceway and the younger Page boy proceeded to the water's edge to see if there was any possibility of going fishing within the next day or two. He stepped out on the ice near the shore and it gave way, the boy being carried out into the water. His brother, who was standing nearby, then made an effort to save him, but he, too, was carried away.

The other three boys were on the top of the bank some 15 feet away, and had no chance to help their companions. The bodies were carried down the stream to deep water some feet below. The water in the sluiceway is quite deep at this time of year, and the current is very swift. Lionel was a pupil of the Centre Ward Separate School, and Archie attended the East Ward School. Both were bright, clever boys. Their parents, four brothers and two sisters survive. The bodies may not be found before the ice breaks up.

AULTSVILLE

Mrs. Harvey Rupert spent a few days in Brockville.

Miss Lillian Conliffe left last week for Ogdensburg.

Mrs. Beach entertained a number of ladies at a quilting bee.

The new wharf is progressing slowly owing to the cold weather.

Mrs. Clifford Gove is spending a few days with her mother Mrs. Jno. Smith, who is quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. Rupert attended the funeral of Mr. M. Otto, at Newington.

Miss Addie Cramer has returned home after several months spent in New York and Boston, Mass.

Mrs. (Rev.) Stewart was called to Kingston where her mother, Mrs. Ferguson was dangerously ill. Her many friends here hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Hazel Dufee intends having her millinery opening on Thursday March 29th with correct and exclusive millinery, moderately priced. Everybody welcome.

The Questioners

By Martha Haskell Clark

April winds are questioning close beside my sill:
"Know you not wild cherry bloom is white upon the hill?
Plumes of willow, golden-flecked, bloodroot stars of snow,
Lift from bare brown southern banks where frail-stemmed windflowers blow.
All the hills are blue with haze and green with leaf mist sweet;
All the trails of all the world lie open to your feet!"

April birds are wondering: "Has he not been told?
All the brooks are singing free in rippled brown and gold;
Swamp azaleas budding pink in the sedgy vale,
Dogwood blossoms dim and white by the upland trail;
Never did our seeking wings cleave a sky more blue!
All the world's turned gypsy heart, faring—where are you?"

April days are marveling: "Underneath his pane
Hears he not our dancing feet and castanets of rain,
Sees he not against the hills our cloud-gray mantles pass,
And our star-gold bangles glint through his window glass?
Knows he not that Wealth and Age would barter all for this,
Just one wild madcap April day to snare him with a kiss?"

AN EASTER CAROL

By Christina Rossetti

Spring bursts to-day,
For Christ is risen and all the earth's at play.

Flash forth, thou sun;
The rain is over and gone; its work is done.

Winter is past;
Sweet spring is come at last, is come at last.

Bud, fig and vine,
Bud, olive, fat with fruit and oil and wine.

Break forth this morn
In roses, thou but yesterday a thorn.

Uplift thy head,
O pure white lily through the winter dead.

Beside your dams
Leap and rejoice, you merry-making lambs.

All herds and flocks
Rejoice, all beasts of thickets and of rocks.

Sing, creatures, sing,
Angels and men, and birds, and everything.

All notes of doves
Fill all our world; this is the time of loves.

Pussy-Willows.

From their pretty woodland nook,
Baby Pussy-Willows look,
They are longing for the Spring,
That will dress of grey silk bring.
Now these babes wear silver fur,
In the heart of each wee spur.

Springtime is their chief delight,
So they watch from morn till night.
And from night right through to morn,
Till the first Spring day shall dawn.
List! the merry song-birds sing.
Nature whispers—"Here comes Spring."

Peeping from their cosy beds,
Pussy-Willows raise their heads,
And the perfumed morning air
Tells them sweet Springtime is here—
So green petticoats they don,
And their grey silk dress put on.
—Mrs. F. E. Kortright.

April, Frail and Fair.

At last young April, ever frail and fair,
Wooded by her playmate with the golden hair,
Chased to the margin of receding
floods
O'er the soft meadows starred with opening buds.
In tears and blushes sighs herself
away,
And hides her cheek beneath the flowers of May.
—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

All for the Child.

Those interested in the welfare of our country during these trying years of industrial and social unrest regard the welfare of our children as the greatest problem of the day. Throughout the country, thoughtful men and women are gathering in Home and School Associations to plan better ways of meeting the educational needs of a changing world. This co-operation of parents and teachers, those most deeply concerned in the future of the boys and girls, has become a powerful factor in the solution of the problem.

During Easter week the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations will meet in Toronto with other great educational bodies of the Dominion and the province. This section will meet in Knox College, Monday afternoon. The evening session in conjunction with the O. E. A. in Convocation Hall will be addressed by Lady Baden-Powell, London, England, Chief Girl Guide of the British Empire, on "The Girl Guide at Work and at Play," and Dr. A. S. Lamb, Director of Physical Education, McGill University, Montreal, on "Education and the Playground." Tuesday afternoon's session will discuss Health Education of Children. Addresses will be given by Miss G. M. Cartwright, Director of Physical Education, McGill College, Montreal; Miss Edith M. Walker, Director of Public School Health Education, Rochester, N.Y.; Miss A. M. Connor, District Superintendent of the Department of Public Health, Toronto.

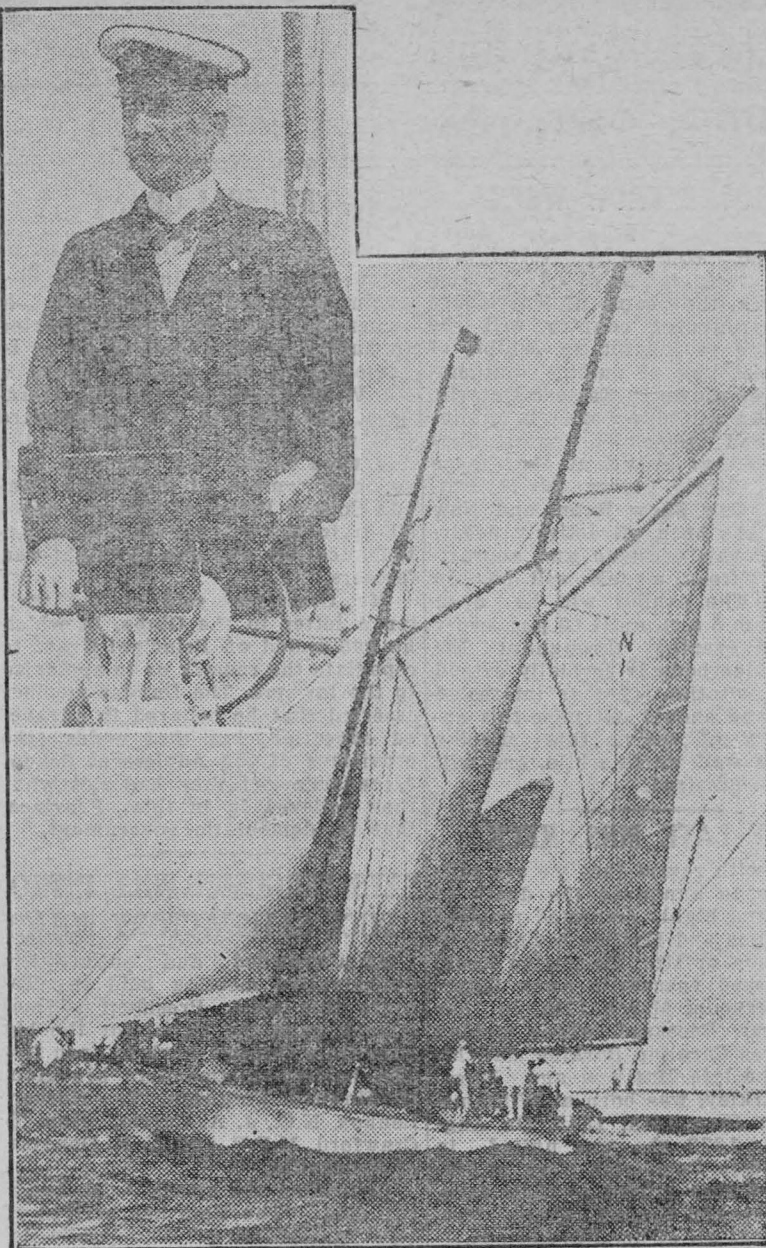

The Tuesday evening session in Convocation Hall will be addressed by Dr. G. W. Kerby, Mt. Royal College, Calgary, on "The Educational Challenge," and by Lieut.-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout Movement, on "Boy Scouting as an Integral Part of Education." Religious education will be taken up in conjunction with the trustees' section.

On Thursday forenoon, a conference on "Home Making for Girls" will be addressed by Miss Helen Goodspeed of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia. Luncheon will be addressed by specialists in elementary training for children and by school inspectors.

A conference of representatives from the various provinces will discuss the formation of a national federation of Home and School Associations. Any one interested may attend any of these sessions. For further information address Prof. J. A. Dale, Social Service Department, Toronto University, or Mrs. A. C. Courtice, 109 Beech Avenue, Toronto.

Resurrection.

Again the ancient miracle,
As new as though it had not been!
Blossom by blossom, bell by bell,
The south winds usher Easter in.
On every hill beneath the skies,
Where winter storms have worked
their strife,
April, that shining angel, cries
The resurrection and the life.
—Nancy Byrd Turner.

TORONTO SCHOONER TO COMPETE IN BERMUDA CRUISE

Commodore Jarvis, of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, has entered the schooner-yacht "Haswell" in the New-York-to-Bermuda race in June next. The race is held under the auspices of the magazine "Yachting" for schooners, yawls and auxiliaries between 40 and 70 feet. It is expected there will be twenty contestants.

To Those in Town.

The fairy piper's calling
"Come out and greet the spring."
Come leave your toil and hurrying,
Give over fret and worrying,
The elfin piper's calling
"Oh, come and welcome spring."

Lool on the hill in mist of green
Stand vestal birches, clustered, shy,
And maples flaunt their flaming buds
Against the soft blue of the sky.

Down in the glen the grim rocks hem
Waters that singing, sunward flow,
And shadowed snows still melt and drop

To quicken violets below.

Come out upon the meadows, there
Winds dance, so tiptoe on the grass,
Only the bending flowers show
Where they press lightly as they pass.

The fairy piper's calling,
"Come out and greet the spring."
This is no time for pondering,
Now set your feet a-wandering,
Follow the piper's calling,
"Away to welcome spring."
—Anna Campbell.

Already Attended to.

Uncle Jack asked little Cella if she didn't want him to play with her. "Oh, no," she said, "we're playing Indian and you're no use, 'cause you're scalped already."

Spiral Blades.

Easter Day

Thou Vanquisher of Death! Thou Risen Lord!
Greet Conqueror of man's most dreaded foe!
Come with Thy calm, deep peace and living breath,
This Easter-tide, and bring us comfort so.

Lead Thou us on, with Thy most perfect love;
Show us Thy hands, so marred by cruel men;
Teach us to see in Thee, the Lord above,
The Man who tasted death and rose again.

And if our hearts should fail, our wills should break.
If, weeping, we but see Thy bruised head;
Make us to hear the words the angels spake:
"Jesus, your Lord, is risen from the dead!"

Thou Vanquisher of Death! Thou Risen Lord!
Remember us, who are but dust, we pray;
Crown us with mellow joy; fulfil Thy word,
Be with us, Lord of Life, on Easter Day!

—Anna Durie.

The First Easter.

Lonely in the house of John,
While the others slept—
Sensing nor cooling winds
Nor stars
His mother wept—
Seeing alone
The wreathen thorns
About his head,
Hearing his words
Upon the cross,
Mourning him dead.
Lonely in the house of John,
His mother lay,
Though song was in the olive trees,
And all the east was gray.
Then—Light ***
Light in the little room ***
Wide arms *** an answering cry ***
Light *** and His voice ***
"Be not afraid, O mother,
It is I!"

The first picture to reach Canada of Princess Mary, Viscountess Lascelles, with her son, who was christened on Palm Sunday at St. Mary's chapel, Goldborough. He received the names of George Henry Hubert.

Surnames and Their Origin

GARNET

Variation—Garnett.
Racial Origin—Welsh.
Source—A local name.

Here is a family name which, instinctively, you probably associate with the name of a semi-precious stone.

But the association of ideas here is misleading. That the family name could have come from the name of the stone is a possibility. All of the available records go to show, however, that it seldom, if ever, actually was a development of it.

For if you trace the name back a bit you come across the spelling "Garnedd" instead of Garnet. If you trace it still further back you are likely to run across the spelling "Garnedd," which (if you know that it is Welsh) more readily associates itself with the ancient Celtic word "carn," indicating a pile of stones, or more specifically a structure of stone which was a Druid temple.

This would naturally be a local name found in almost any spot in England, or particularly of Wales, in which such ruins remained. It was exactly the sort of place name likely to become the surname of anybody living near it.

HUNGERFORD

Racial Origin—English.
Source—A locality.

Here is a family name which traces back to a given name through a local name. In other words, there was first a given name, from which was formed a local name. Then, at a later period when the given name had become obsolete, the local name was developed into a family name, being first a surname indicating place of residence.

The place name is the same as the modern family name, being one of those old English place names so simple of pronunciation that it has not changed through the course of centuries. The place is a market town in Berkshire, up the River Kennet.

From the ending in "ford" you might have guessed that it was a community on the bank of some river or stream.

Hungerford was originally "Hunger's Ford," and to get at the reason for the place being so named you have to delve back to that period in English history when the Danish hosts invaded Britain. One of the most famous of the Danish chieftains was named Hunger. But few who bear this name realize that, indirectly, they are named after a famous Danish leader who lived more than a thousand years ago.

MARCH WEATHER DANGEROUS TO BABY

Our Canadian March weather—one day bright, but sloppy, the next blustery and cold—is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mothers to keep the little ones indoors. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack their whole system. To guard against these colds and to keep the baby well till the better, brighter days come along, a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels working regularly. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels and thus they relieve colds and simple fevers and keep the baby fit. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Vegetation and Floods.

Attention has been invited to what is regarded as an important illustration of the sure results of deforestation in the Appalachians. Near a town in Tennessee the roasting and smelting of copper ores have entirely destroyed the vegetation over a considerable area and left the ground perfectly bare. Consequent surface erosion is rapidly removing the soil, the slopes are scarred with gullies, the waste from the steep slopes has buried the former surface along the streamlets, so that neither slope nor narrow flood plain is of any value for agriculture or grazing. Floods on these streams rise higher and more rapidly than in former times, while in dry seasons springs once perennial go dry and others almost cease flowing.

In the Wrong Room.

He entered the crowded room, took out a bundle of notes, and began to address the meeting.

The chairman made repeated efforts to interrupt the speaker, but he refused to be called to order. His oration lasted half an hour.

"Have you quite finished, sir?" the chairman asked.

"Yes—quite; but I defy you to deny the truth of my statements," he retorted.

"I have no wish to," said the chairman. "The gas company, of the management of which you complain, is holding its meeting in the next room. This is the Vegetarian Society."

"Cascarets" 10c

Best Bowel Laxative
When Bilious,
Constipated

To clean out your bowels without cramping or overacting, take Cascarets. Sick headache, biliousness, gases, indigestion, sour, upset stomach, and all such distress gone by morning. Nicest physics on earth for grown-ups and children. 10c a box. Taste like candy.

As You Were.

The question had just been popped, and the young colored belle was blushing a most delicate violet shade.

"Jeff," she murmured, "does yo' really love me or does yo' jes' think yo' does?"

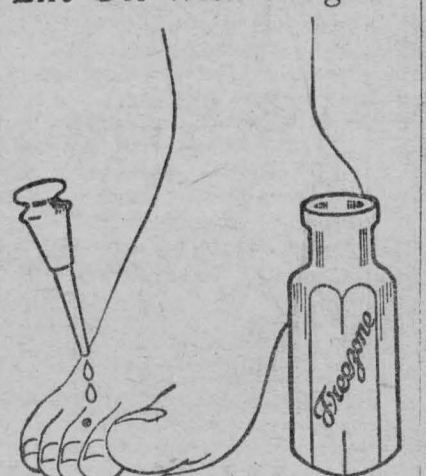

"Yes, indeed, Mandy," he replied. "Ah really loves yo'. Ah ain't done no thinkin' yet."

A Hint to Hens.

An Ottawa hen laid an egg daily for 107 days. There's a saying in every henhouse that an egg a day keeps the hatch away.

CORNS

Lift Off with Fingers

Doesn't hurt a bit! Drop a Little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers. Truly! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the calluses, without soreness or irritation.

MOTHER! MOVE CHILD'S BOWELS

"California Fig Syrup" is Child's Best Laxative

Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup." If the little stomach is upset, tongue coated, or if your child is cross, feverish, full of cold, or has colic, a teaspoonful will never fail to open the bowels. In a few hours you can see for yourself how thoroughly it works all the constipation poison, sour bile and waste from the tender, little bowels and gives you a well, playful child again. Millions of mothers keep "California Fig Syrup" handy. They know a teaspoonful to-day saves a sick child tomorrow. Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Railway Seismographs.

An indication of the swift progress of the Japanese mind in practical science is afforded by Dr. Omori's report on the measurement of the vibrations of railway cars by means of seismographs. The primary purpose of the seismograph is to measure the oscillations of earthquakes. Japanese engineers use it for determining the proper balance of locomotives and the state of the permanent way on railways. Many practical advantages in the saving of fuel and the detection of faults in construction have thus resulted.

PUT STOMACH IN ORDER AT ONCE

"Pape's Diapepsin" for Gas, Indigestion or
Sour Stomach

Instantly! Stomach corrected! You never feel the slightest distress from indigestion or a sour, acid, gassy stomach, after you eat a tablet of "Pape's Diapepsin." The moment it reaches the stomach all sourness, flatulence, heartburn, gases, palpitation and pain disappear. Druggists guarantee each package to correct digestion at once. End your stomach trouble for a few cents.

Hindus Have Many Castes.

The Hindus, who enormously outnumber all the rest of the population of India, are divided up into a multitude of castes, religiously separated from one another. In whatever caste a man is born, in that caste he remains until he dies.

MRS. LEWIN SAYS IT'S WORTH $1,000

Toronto Lady Values Tanlac Highly, Declaring It Ended Stomach Trouble—Gains Nine Lbs.

"I wouldn't take a thousand dollars for the good Tanlac has done me, for I would have given that much before I took this wonderful treatment to feel the way I do now," was the positive statement made the other day by Mrs. Matilda Lewin, 12 Strange St., Toronto, Ont.

"I suffered with stomach trouble, general run-down condition, and my nerves were so excited they nearly drove me wild. I ate scarcely enough to keep going, was dreadfully thin and weak, and often had to give up my housework to avoid a breakdown. Gas on my stomach bloated me till I could hardly breathe, I had to rush to the window for air, and seldom got a good night's sleep.

"If I live to be a hundred years old I will always bless the day I started the Tanlac treatment. I have gained nine pounds, am free of indigestion, nervousness and sleeplessness, and my housework is like play. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.

"Capable Fruit."

A young Irishman, shortly after coming to this country, was stopping with a friend of his boyhood now living in New York. One day the friend took him down to have a look at Washington market. Passing a fruitstand, they saw some grapefruit, which the new arrival's friend said were oranges.

"My, my," said the other, "but they're big fellows! I'll venture to say, now, it wouldn't take many of them to make a dozen."

How to Prevent Biliousness

Doctors warn against remedies containing powerful drugs and alcohol. "The Extract of Roots, long known as Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, has no dope or strong ingredients; it chases away indigestion, biliousness and constipation. Can be had at any drug store." Get the genuine. 50c. and $1.00 Bottles.

BEFORE MY BABY CAME

I Was Greatly Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sydenham, Ont.—"I took your medicine before my baby was born, and it was a great help to me as I was very poorly until I had started to take it. I just felt as though I was tired out all the time and would have weak, faint spells. My nerves would bother me until I could get little rest, night or day. I was told by a friend to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I only took a few bottles and it helped me wonderfully. I would recommend it to any woman. I am doing what I can to recommend this good medicine. I will lend that little book you sent me to any one I can help. You can with the greatest of pleasure use my name in regard to the Vegetable Compound if it will help others take it."—Mrs. HARVEY MILLIGAN, Sydenham, Ont.

It is remarkable how many cases have been reported similar to this one. Many women are poorly at such times and get into a weakened, run-down condition, when it is essential to the mother, as well as the child, that her strength be kept up.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for the mother at this time. It is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, and does not contain any harmful drugs. It may be taken in safety by the nursing mother.

WHY MANY WOMEN SUFFER IN SILENCE

Do Not Realize That Their Trouble is Due to Impure Blood.

A woman needs a blood building medicine regularly just because she is a woman. From maturity to middle life the health of every woman depends upon her blood. If her blood is poor she is weak, languid, pale and nervous. If the blood supply is irregular she suffers from headaches and backaches, and some women have grown to expect this suffering and to bear it in silence. They do not realize that if the blood supply is kept rich and pure, their troubles will disappear, but such is the case. In every woman's life a tonic blood-enriching medicine is needed and for this purpose nothing can help them so much as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which act directly on the blood, furnishing the elements necessary to make it rich and pure. Mrs. S. J. Watts, Kingston, Ont., gives her experience with this medicine as follows:—"My first experience with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills was while attending the Collegiate Institute at about the age of seventeen. I became very much run down, and could not go up stairs without resting half way. Finally I had to quit school and notwithstanding all that was done for me there were no signs of improvement until after I had begun using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, under the use of this medicine I became well and strong. My next experience with this medicine was some years after I was married. After my baby boy was born I did not gain up as I should, so I at once started taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills again. I took them all the time I was nursing baby, and you should have seen what a lovely, fat, healthy boy he was, and I was strong once more. Whenever I feel a bit run down Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are my tonic and I strongly recommend them to growing girls and all women."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Book-Tasting.

Every publishing firm employs a staff of "readers," whose duty it is to deal with the constant stream of manuscripts that flow into a publisher's office. Just as a tea expert tastes tea, so does a publisher's "reader" taste books.

Upon the judgment of the "readers" depends the success or failure of a publishing house. The reader is ever on the alert for the manuscript which may prove to be a "best seller."

A novel may be clever and possess originality of plot and of style, and yet prove a dismal failure. On the other hand, a novel, lacking in originality and written in slovenly style, may catch the wayward fancy of the reading public, and in a flash the author may become famous throughout the English-speaking world, and both the author and the publisher will find their banking accounts swelling.

Although the publisher's reader tries to feel the pulse of the reading public, and sense what sort of a novel will prove a success and which will prove failures, the reader's judgment may play him false, and a novel rejected by fifteen publishers may be accepted by the sixteenth and have a big success.

Reject Now Famous Novels.

Many novels now famous have been turned down and rejected again and again by various publishers' readers, and then after a period of years, often when the author has abandoned hope, an enterprising publisher, greatly daring, accepts the oft-rejected manuscript, and finds, much to his surprise perhaps, that he has discovered a popular success.

One can mention Charles Dickens, George Meredith, George Eliot, Frank Danby, H. G. Wells, Joseph Conrad and a host of novelists whose most popular books have been rejected by publishers' readers with monotonous regularity, until some farsighted book-taster has persuaded a publisher to print a book, which has leapt into the front rank of popular successes.

The lot of the publisher's readers is not a happy one, and it is difficult to decide which novel will successfully appeal to the reading public and which will fail. The reader, poor soul, wades through the poor, bad, and indifferent manuscripts, and he considers himself lucky if he discovers a "best seller" once in twelve months.

So, when you send your manuscript to the publishers, don't think too bad of the "reader" if it is turned down.

Jumping to Conclusions.

If you travel on a liner it is wise not to jump to the conclusion that everyone who wears a yachting cap is a steward. A passenger on the Baltic asked a passer-by to get him a chair, and rewarded the man with a shilling for doing so. Half an hour later he heard that he had tipped Sir Thomas Lipton! Sir Thomas has been telling the story himself, which is a sign of greatness on his part. Tennyson and the late Duke of Norfolk were also tipped in their time—and bragged about it.

PART I.

Day after day in the weeks through which he fought fate, Blair remembered the picture of the city which Dr. Karol's window framed as the surgeon told him the truth which changed the face of his life.

From the boulevard below, that highway which he could not see from this upper room of St. Mark's, the thrum of myriad motors lifted the quicker rhythm of the gayer, easier way of life Blair had known, but he could see none of that long, crowding procession of wealth as Dr. Karol's voice, a little sad in its finality, drove in the words he had feared. It was the sight of the city's power, which stayed in his mind after the surgeon's first words, as if the verdict had been pressed upon a high-powered camera of thought which registered the unfamiliar scene with unforgettable clarity while a hammer in his brain kept thudding repetition of Dr. Karol's pronouncement. "Less than a year to live—unless you change everything, your way of living, your attitude toward life."

"You mean," he asked him, measuring his words as he struggled through the shadows which seemed to have come suddenly into the high room of the great hospital, "that I'll have to go away? Out West?"

"Not necessarily," The doctor, gray, a little stooped, aged by the cares of humanity rather than by his own years, frowned in the tension of his thought. "Your trouble is more involved than one which may be cured by sunlight. You need more than that. How old are you?"

"Thirty."

"Orphaned?" He consulted his records.

"My father died eight years ago. I don't remember my mother."

"You've had no one but yourself to consider?"

"No one."

"Unmarried, I see."

"Fortunately."

"Mr. Blair, you have come to me in trust. It is my duty to fulfill that trust. Besides—back of his grim spectacles his owlish eyes softened a little—'I like you, and I'm going to do all I can to save you from your own folly in decision. Will you stay here in the hospital a month?'"

"No," Blair thundered.

"Then," said Dr. Karol, touching a button on his desk, "you must take the nurse with you."

"I won't have a nurse."

"In that contingency I must discharge myself from your case."

"How can I keep a nurse in my apartment?" Blair demanded, knowing that this was compromise of the issue.

"Conventions are for the well."

"But I'm not ill enough to—"

"You will be unless—"

"All right. You win."

Dr. Karol's secretary opened the door. "Send in Miss Wells," he told her. "If she's not on duty."

"Well, I hope she's pretty," Blair said.

"She is beautiful," said Dr. Karol, voice throbbing with an exaltation which did not escape his patient, who felt strangely disappointed when Agnes Wells came into the room.

"You are to stay with Mr. Blair," Dr. Karol told her, "until I release you."

"Here?" she asked, and Blair noticed with a gladness which amazed him at his own pleasure in it that she had a wonderful voice. The one word gleamed with cadence which belied her aspect.

"He should stay here," Dr. Karol said, "but he refuses. He is a headstrong young man, Miss Wells. He will try to bulldoze you. You will not let him. You will see that, as far as you can make him, he will carry out my orders. You will stay with him as if he were your patient here in the hospital."

She ran a practical glance over the record card the doctor gave her. "Should he be kept in bed?" she asked.

"I won't stay," Blair declared, resenting their professional exclusion of his own wishes.

"If he will not do that," Dr. Karol said, "you will undertake to keep him from excitement." He held out his hand to Blair, and Agnes Wells crossed to the door. "She will help you if you will let her," the doctor said.

In the hall outside the girl turned to Blair, and he saw that, for all her seriousness of manner, her eyes were friendly bright. "Do you want to take me with you," she asked him, "or shall I follow you?"

"I think you shouldn't come," he told her. "I live alone. I haven't even a maid to send for."

"Oh, you're not to think about me," she told him, and again he felt a shock of surprise at professional disregard of the social rules which most of the women of his acquaintance acknowledged and transgressed. Here were men and women who thrust the rules aside not for pleasure but for the business of saving life. What sort of a code did they have in its place, he wondered.

"My car's outside," he told her. "Shall I wait for you?"

"I'll be down in ten minutes," she promised.

As he passed Tracey's at the turn of the boulevard he saw Vale and Penfield, and had a swift thought of joining them; but the knowledge that he might have to explain Agnes Wells to them deterred him. "Where do you want to eat?" he asked her. "You see, I live alone, and I have to go out for my meals."

"I'll get dinner," she told him. "You're on a diet, anyhow, and it's my job to fix your food for you."

"Oh, I say," he protested, "there won't be anything in it."

"Have you a stove?"

"Oh, yes."

"Then we'll stop at a delicatessen and get the things I need."

He obeyed her with misgivings, angered again because her reminder of her professional service had brought back to him the knowledge of his condition. What would Penfield and Vale and the rest of the crowd think of him if they knew that he had permitted a doctor, even a surgeon as great as Karol, to frighten him into being led around by a nurse? It was childish, ridiculous. "Will you make a bargain with me?" he asked her. "Will you go around with me as if you weren't my nurse?"

She turned to him, her eyes blazing with indignation. "No, I won't," she said. "That's the only reason why I'm with you at all. If you don't want me you can go back to Dr. Karol."

"But I do want you," he said. "It's only because it seems so absurd for a chap like myself to be led around this way."

"It isn't absurd, Mr. Blair," she told him earnestly. "We're both of us under orders. When you were in the army you didn't think about how things looked to other people, did you? You were too busy getting the work done to consider anything else. Well, you have to do just that now. I'm not a jailer. If you want to go out you can go, but I'll have to go with you, and the only protection I have for myself is making it perfectly clear why I'm along."

"I see," he said. Suddenly he chuckled out of his penitence. "You'll be a riot at Tracey's," he told her.

"Where's that?" she queried.

"A restaurant," he said, "where even in these days of Volstead, their drink is better than their food."

"I see," it was her turn to say.

The thought of her set into the crowd at Tracey's amused him, and he embroidered it with possible situations. Vale would try to flirt with her, as he did with every new girl. Penfield would want to tell her the story of his life. And Amie—Blair whistled in anticipation of Amie Lane's annoyance over the nurse's intrusion. Amie wouldn't believe that he was really sick.

They began their comradeship with their purchases of food at a neighborhood shop. Blair watched her efficiency of method with amusement which deepened into admiration when she took charge of his bachelor abode. With deft skill she prepared his dinner, bringing it to him on a tray.

"I've been hitting the high spots," he told her, "mostly because nothing I do matters to any one."

"But it does," she said. "Everything we ever do, right or wrong, hits some one else sooner or later."

"I've never done anything to hurt any one else," he sought to justify himself.

"No," she said. "I believe that," and he glowed at her first approbation.

"I wonder, though," she went on, "if we aren't responsible for the things we don't do, as well as the things we do. Sometimes I think that I shouldn't be doing private nursing at all. I ought to be giving what I can to the poor children of the city."

Blair shoved away his plate. "Let's go riding," he said.

"That's allowed," she told him. "And only three cigarettes," she warned him as she cleared off the dishes.

To his surprise he forgot himself in striving to please Agnes Wells that evening. He rediscovered an almost forgotten pleasure in being able to give her something she enjoyed as much as she did their ride to the southward. "Oh, but this is good," she said, lifting her face to the sky. "I've been for five weeks on a hopeless case, and I'd almost forgotten the look of the sky at night."

"Well, I'm glad it's part of my treatment to stay outdoors," he said without realization that this was his first definite acceptance of the prescribed course.

She refused his invitation to go into a gay country club, however, declaring that he had endured enough excitement for one day and taking the reins of authority in her hands. He grimaced acceptance of her order and turned homeward with a regret which sharpened to acute annoyance as they entered his apartment and heard the insistent jangling of the telephone bell.

He knew it was a call from Amie, but he took it grudgingly. Her voice sounded harsh to him after the exquisite modulation of the other girl's.

"Where on earth have you been?" she demanded. "I've been calling you since 8 o'clock. Frank Penfield's having a party and he wants us to come."

"Too late to go now," he declared. "Too late? It's only 10 o'clock."

"That's too late for a sick man."

"Don't be silly, Van. You're only playing sick. Come on out. I'm all ready and we'll overtake them."

"Not to-night."

"Oh, very well."

She banged up the receiver angrily and he paused with sudden regret at his refusal of the invitation. He was considering calling her back, for Amie was a good scout, he told himself, when he caught sight of Agnes Wells bending over his desk at work on her report. After all, he thought, it was silly to go to a doctor and then fail to carry out his orders. "Well, this is your domain," he told her, indicating the living room, and left her to her work.

He found her preparing breakfast the next morning and protested against her doing the work. This is the part I like the best," she insisted. "Wait till you find the dinner I'll have for you to-night."

He caught himself twice during the day looking forward to the meal with keen joy, but he told himself that it was the novelty of the situation as well as the pleasure of having home-cooked food which he anticipated. Vale called him at four, inviting him to a dinner at a shore resort. He refused with the same alacrity he had shown to Amie. "What's the big idea?" Vale wanted to know.

"New girl? What'll Amie say?"

He wondered a little what Amie would say when she discovered Agnes. He was to find out earlier than he expected. He was dining with the nurse in blithe forgetfulness of every one else when Amie Lane opened the door. Poised like a brilliant tropical bird, she surveyed him and Agnes with an amazement that flared into sullen resentment but which she sought to conceal before she spoke.

"I didn't know you had a sister," she said, trying to make her tone light.

"I haven't," he said. "This is Miss Wells, my nurse."

(To be concluded.)

Minard's Liniment for Coughs & Colds

Prevent Whooping Cough.

"If I thought," said the young mother, "that by keeping my child away from the disease at this time, he would get along all through life without ever having whooping cough, I would go to any amount of trouble to see that it was done. But this is so contagious that he is sure to get it some time. Why not now, before the big disadvantage of having him lose time from school has to be considered? While he is a baby I can keep him under my care and look after him much better than when he is bigger and harder to manage."

This sounds so much like a real argument, at first hearing, that I am anxious to expose its fallacy. Whooping cough is a dangerous disease, no matter when it comes, yet most of us have had it at some time in our lives; and because we are all living, and make no count of those who did not survive, we fail to credit the deadliness of this very common disease. Remember, therefore, that twice as many children die of whooping cough as die of scarlet fever. This will help you to classify it more accurately.

The most significant thing about whooping cough is that its chief virulence is among the younger children. Of all deaths from whooping cough, fifty-five per cent. occur in children less than one year old, and ninety per cent. in those under three. Therefore if your baby is unprotected until school age the chances of his getting through in good shape, if he does not take the disease, are very good indeed; far better than if he takes it before he is three years old.

Even a young child has a good chance of getting well, under good care, but it must be of the very best. My little girl of five gave the disease to her baby sister when the latter was only three months old. My wife and I had an interesting time for several weeks. There were many restless nights in which each took care of a coughing child the whole night long, to the exclusion of sleep. But both children recovered without ill effects and have grown to college age.

Let no one count whooping cough a light matter. Do your best to save your children from exposure. If they do take the disease see that they get the very best treatment available; and be very careful that you, for your part, do not take them around in public conveyances or to public places where they may give the disease to others.—Dr. C. Quartette of Life-Savers.

When our laundry bill steadily mounted higher till we were paying two dollars every week for clothes not always well washed, we decided something had to be done. We had a gasoline engine but no wash room, just a back porch too small for engine and washing machine.

A washing machine with engine directly beneath the tub settled that problem as it occupied no more space than an ordinary tub. Less than a year's laundry bill bought it. It not only took the drudgery out of washing but gave us clean clothes and saved money.

An old piano stool and a gasoline iron made the combination I thought out that saves so much time and energy and money on ironing days. I found that I could iron as well sitting as standing; the iron was always the right temperature; and no time was lost going to the stove for hot irons. One pint of gasoline is sufficient for a big ironing, making the fuel cost almost nothing.

The Women's Institutes of this county have formed testing circles for trying out a number of labor-saving devices. I am using the wheeled table or kitchen jitney and have found it such an efficient maid that my boy is going to make me one at school.

The dishes and silver and all the food can be wheeled in at one trip and at the close of the meal one load of used dishes goes back to the kitchen instead of four or five as usual. Counting ten steps from kitchen to dining-room (both are small) and at least five trips from one to the other, there is a saving of three hundred steps in one day in the preparation and clearing away of meals.

On ironing day this jitney is close at hand and as the clothes are ironed they are piled on it then wheeled to their proper places.

My kitchen is so small that there is not room for a drain board at the sink, but why should I worry? I have a large dish dryer with galvanized dripping pan underneath so I can use it on my kitchen cabinet. I wipe glasses and silver but dishes and cooking utensils are scalded and dried by evaporation. Counting just one-half hour saved in a day, in one week's time I am three and one-half hours to the good.

These four articles constitute my much-prized quartette of labor savers. Since a large percentage of the women who die are the unnecessary victims of the strain of housework, I think I may call them life-savers, for they eliminate so much of the waste energy that is expended in house-keeping.—Mrs. J. E. T.

Instrumental Music in Schools.

Anyone who has had experience in training a volunteer choir in a small town or rural community knows the difficulty in securing a balance of parts, due largely to the fact that the majority of such singers are but indifferent readers, lacking in comprehension of the simple chord combinations, and can sing only the air. The voices which are alto in quality are often unable to carry an independent part, the tenors sing soprano, the basses alto, except that they transpose it to the lowest possible octave in their range. It is certainly a difficult problem to meet. The most satisfactory, if not the only, solution lies in having music taught as a school subject, so that a child receives training therein from the morning of his first entrance to the evening of his graduation. He will then have no difficulty in singing the part for which he is fitted. As a rule, the most satisfactory choir singers are those who have gained experience through part singing in connection with school work, perhaps as members of a special chorus or glee club.

The school music of to-day, however, only partly fulfills its mission if it fails to take account of the desires and ambitions of the pupils to become instrumental performers. Even in small schools this branch of music is being carried on in connection with school work with a considerable degree of success. The piano seems to attract the greatest number. It is probably the most suitable means by which a child may gain early musical experience, and furnishes excellent preparation for the study of almost any instrument in which he may wish to specialize later. The violin is increasingly popular, and the brass instruments are gaining in favor. Advice as to the choice of an instrument and encouragement to continue in study and practice will make it possible to arrive at that most desirable goal of school enterprise, an orchestra. In itself it is a benefit to both school and community, and many of its members after leaving school will be efficient factors in the musical organizations of their own or other communities whither their interests may lead them.

Why Bake At Home

when you can buy bread like it, ready baked?

COUNT the raisins—at least eight big, plump, tender fruit-meats to the slice.

Taste it—see how the raisin flavor permeates the bread.

No need to bake at home when we've arranged with bakers in almost every town and city to bake this full-fruited raisin bread.

Just 'phone and they'll deliver it—all ready to surprise the family tonight.

It comes from master bakers' modern ovens in your city. And it's made with Sun-Maid Raisins.

That's another reason for its superiority. A rare combination of nutritious cereal and fruit—both good and good for you, so you should serve it at least twice a week.

Use Sun-Maid Raisins also in puddings, cakes and cookies. You may be offered other brands that you know less well than Sun-Maid's, but the kind you want is the kind you know is good. Insist, therefore, on Sun-Maid brand. They cost no more than ordinary raisins.

Question:—The opinion prevails in some parts of Canada that hogs of the bacon type are more expensive to grow than those of thick type. What do official experiments show in this regard? How do the different breeds compare in the production of exportable bacon sides?

Answer:—An experiment was carried on at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa in 1921, and recorded in the Report of the Animal Husbandry Division of the Experimental Farm for the year ending March 31, 1922, to compare pure-bred Yorkshires, Berkshires, and cross-breeds from these two breeds as economical producers of bacon. Four lots of hogs were used. The number of the hogs in the experiment consisted of two pens of cross-breeds, eight hogs in each, six hogs of Berkshires and seven Yorkshires. The experiment was carried on for 119 days with the exception of the Yorkshires which were fed for 133 days. Individual weights of pens were taken at the commencement of the experiment, at the end of each thirty-day period, and at the end of the experiment.

The food consisted of mixed grains chopped, tankage and skim milk. The average daily gain was 1.29 pounds and 1.28 pounds respectively for the cross-bred pens, 1.11 pounds for the Berkshires and .98 pound for the Yorkshires. The average quantities of meat eaten per pound of gain was 2.52 and 2.50 for the cross-breeds, 2.51 for the Berkshires, and 2.42 for the Yorkshires. The amount of milk used per pound of gain was 5.66 and 5.68 respectively for the cross-breeds, 6.08 for the Berkshires, and 5.5 for the Yorkshires. The total feed per pound of gain was 5.14 and 4.88 cents for the cross-breeds, 4.95 cents for the Berkshires, and 4.69 cents for the Yorkshires. This shows that cross-bred swine are capable of making the maximum daily gains with the minimum of food consumed as compared with the Berkshire lot. It will be observed that the Yorkshires made the most economical gain of the four lots being fed, followed by one lot of the cross-breeds, the Berkshire lot, and the other lot of cross-breeds in the order named.

At the conclusion of the experiment the hogs were slaughtered and their sides compared from the standpoint of the Wiltshire side type. The Berkshires were found to yield sides of the required weight, averaging 50 to 55 pounds a side, but they did not possess sufficient length or uniformity of fleshing to answer the bacon requirements. The cross-bred lot yielded sides averaging between 60 and 65 pounds. The sides were longer and otherwise superior to the Berkshires for manufacturing into Wiltshire sides. The Yorkshire lot showed a marked superiority both in quality of fleshing and the uniformity with which the fat was distributed along the back and sides. Both from the standpoint of economy of feeding and quality of the sides, the Yorkshires surpassed either of the other lots.

Question:—Is it more profitable to allow fattening hogs to run at pasture or to supply grain feed in their pens?

Answer:—Much depends on the quality of the pasture. If it consists of luxuriant clover, it is, as a rule, more profitable to allow the hogs their liberty, more especially during the early part of the fattening period. When this is done considerable labor is saved. As a rule, however, slightly better gains are secured when the hogs are housed. In an experiment conducted at the Central Farm at Ottawa in 1921 hogs fed at pasture made greater gains than those fed inside. The outside hogs were slightly older than the others. Twelve hogs were fed outside and ten in the piggery for sixty days. Both received a mixture of chop and skim milk. The average daily gain made by the hogs on the pasture was 1.38 pounds and for those in the piggery 1.10 pounds. The quantity of meat eaten per pound of gain was 1.83 for those pastured and 1.85 for those fed inside. The quantity of milk consumed by the different lots per pound of gain was 5.33 for those on pasture and 4.75 for those enclosed. The cost of the feed per day per head was 6.36 cents for those on pasture and 5.05 for those in the piggery. The total feed cost per pound for the two lots was almost identical being 4.6 per pound of gain for those on pasture and 4.57 cents for those to whom the grain feed was carried. During the sixty days the enclosed hogs were given 950 pounds of clover.

Question:—Have there been any official experiments conducted to determine the value of the Bang system of tuberculosis control in cattle?

Answer:—The Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa carried on a segregated herd of reacting cattle for about five years. An account of the experience is contained in the Interim Report of the Dominion Animal Husbandman for the year ending March 31, 1922. In December, 1916, a number of the best cows of the main dairy herd that reacted to the tuberculin test were removed to a barn on an adjoining farm. During the following four years other reactors of high type were added to the herd. The cattle were housed and cared for in practically the same manner as the main herd at the farm. As the calves in the segregated herd were born they were removed to the main barn and many of them saved for future use. Out of 80 calves born 44 healthy specimens have been saved. Twenty-six of this number have been retained in the breeding herd and 18 sold. From time to time the cows in the Bang herd were slaughtered and examined. There was a decided lack of uniformity in the conditions found. Animals long in the herd continued profitable milk producers and, when killed, showed in some cases only slight traces of the disease. With others the disease progressed at a rapid rate. The conclusions reached by the Farm officials are that the practicability of adopting the Bang system depends upon whether the value of the progeny from the segregated cows would justify the extra expense of maintaining the second herd. If at any time the Bang herd would be justified it would be with the entry of the herd in the Accredited Herd System. The expenses of a segregated herd are unavoidably high. Charging the expenses of feed, bedding, rent, and labor against the value of the milk, calves, and manure, in the Central Farm experiment, left a profit slightly exceeding $6,000 for the five-year period.

POULTRY

It is a good plan when running an incubator, to set one or two hens at the same time so as to make sure, should there be chicks dead in the shell, where the fault lies.

If the eggs under the hen hatch all right, then there is something wrong with the machine or its management. It may seem that there are more dead chicks when an incubator is used; but when the number of chicks hatched is taken into consideration, the proportionate loss is not much greater than with the hen.

It would seem, however, that a chick which is not in the best condition always stood a better chance of leaving the shell when under a hen than when in an incubator. One reason for this may be insufficient moisture in the incubator. This causes the membrane in the egg to become tough and the chick can not break through.

Another reason may be improper ventilation in the incubator. This will cause the chick to die from suffocation, owing to lack of air, or a current of air may dry out and toughen the membrane surrounding the chick. It is well in this case to study the machine used, so as to remedy any defect, or try out another make of incubator.

Where chicks are found dead in the shell, both under the hen and in the incubator, it is best to look at once into the condition of the breeding stock. It is important that the fowls are not so closely related as to make inbreeding a cause, and at the same time it must be seen that they are getting sufficient exercise and the proper amount of the right kind of food.

DAIRY

Dairy experts have found that unless milking machines are given care, they are likely to become sources of bacterial contamination.

There are two methods of keeping milking machines clean and sterile. The most prevalent one is to thoroughly clean the machine in the ordinary way and then immerse the teat cup and milker tubes into some chemical solution, usually strong brine made by adding two pounds of salt to a gallon of water. The brine is kept sterile by adding hydrochloric solutions or chloride of lime.

Another accepted method of keeping machines clean is to immerse the milking tubes and teat cups in hot water at a temperature of 160 to 180 degrees F. There is no doubt but what this keeps the machine clean, but certain makes have rubber parts that cannot withstand the high temperatures.

SHEEP

If you have an orphan lamb, by all means try to find a foster-mother in the flock. Perhaps some ewe lost her lamb about the time the orphan was born. To get her to claim the orphan, rub sassafras oil or kerosene on the lamb and on the ewe's face and nose. If there is no ewe for the orphan, raise it on a bottle.

For the first week, the lamb should have ewe's milk. Feed little and often at the start—a tablespoonful or so every two hours. When two or three weeks' old feed three times a day, but let the lamb have more at each feed. When ewe's milk can not be had, use cow's milk. Some folks dilute cow's milk with an equal amount of water, but since ewe's milk is richer than cow's milk, this dilution isn't necessary. Heat the milk to 100 degs F. and feed from a bottle.

Olive oil is good in many cases of bowel troubles in poultry, and should follow the dose of castor-oil. Olive oil is also useful in egg binding and in cases of enlarged crops, and for dressing the combs of fowls to prevent frost bites.

The Selection of An Incubator.

Professor W. R. Graham of the Ontario Agricultural College, in a recent public address, declared that hatching by hens at the present day is economically unsound. Professor Graham was referring more particularly to the larger operator, that is to say those who raise hundreds of chickens in the year. It may be stated also that machine hatching is unsafe unless one has a good machine and operates it with intelligence. Mr. F. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman, advises against buying a cheap incubator simply because it is cheap. The best, he states, is none too good, and cheap machines are usually dear at any price. In Experimental Farm Circular No. 2 entitled "Artificial Incubation," Mr. Elford gives advice on how to tell a good machine. He says, "Nothing but results are an absolute guarantee that a machine is good, but still there are certain marks that indicate the probable value of a machine for hatching. The first of these is the general appearance. It should be well made, good workmanship and good material entering into its construction. The doors should hang true and fit without friction, the glass large enough and neatly puttied or battened, the paint or stain applied evenly, and the machine should present the appearance of a finished piece of furniture. Good insulation also is absolutely necessary. See that the walls are double and likely to maintain a comparatively even temperature."

"There are, besides the above, many other points of more or less importance. The lamp should have a large enough bowl to last at least thirty hours, convenient to fill, easy to take out and replace, good workable burner and chimney, the mica opening so placed that the whole of the flame is readily seen when the observer is standing, the heater well insulated and made so that it can be cleaned. A reliable thermometer and thermostat, egg-trays that slide in and out without catching, and the height of the machine should be convenient for working."

This circular, which is obtainable through the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, also tells how to operate the incubator.

The Advance of Agricultural Teaching in Ontario Schools.

Every province has from time to time testified to the impetus given to agricultural education by the funds obtained from grants made under the Agricultural Instruction Act of the Dominion passed in 1913. Ontario being the most populous of the nine provinces naturally received the largest amount. In the January-February number of the Agricultural Gazette of Canada, Dr. Dandeno, chief superintendent of agricultural education in this province, gives an account of what he terms the "tremendous development in the schools of Ontario" during nine years of the ten that the grants under the Act have been forthcoming. During that time the allotment made by the Dominion to agricultural education in this one province has been $268,000. That good work has been accomplished is exemplified by the fact that the attendance at the Ontario Agricultural College short courses of instruction for teachers increased from 146 in 1913 to 428 in 1921, and that the number of schools qualifying for grants in this connection increased from 159 to 1,804. A notable feature of the development that has taken place is the increase in the number of school and home gardens. In 1914 the numbers of these were, respectively, 208 and 56, whereas in 1921 they were 690 and 1,114.

It should be mentioned that the $268,000 referred to is only a comparatively small proportion of the sum received by the province under the Act for the encouragement and promotion of agricultural knowledge in all its branches and the improvement of rural life, the amount so received in the nine years having reached a total of $2,675,290.

The early bird gets the worm, but in poultry parlance, the early bird brings the profits. Moral: hatch early.

Farm Implements and Tools

With the advance of agriculture the increase in farm tools, implements, and machines has been great. A century ago, an ax, a scythe, a spade and a saw formed a large part of the equipment of many farms. These few simple tools were probably the most useful in working the small areas of land under process of clearing. The development of the farms brought improvement in tools and a gradual development toward the modern type of farm machines.

Tools were valued in the early days because such were hard to get. There was no waste of farm equipment then; the spade and the scythe were valued as much as the shotgun. Conditions have changed during the past century. The progress is now marked by an abundance of tools, implements and machines for every purpose in agricultural production and harvesting. An abundance of machines so great that we see waste on every hand—plows, tillage machines and harvesters neglected and exposed to the weather, rust and wear out before giving half service.

The waste of tools, implements, machines and articles of farm equip-

Weed Seed Collections in Schools.

It is not difficult to agree with a remark in a bulletin on "Weeds and Weed Seeds," for which the Dominion Seed Branch is responsible, that no subject in agriculture is better adapted for presentation to school children than the study of seeds. The collection, identification, and study of seeds gives scope for the training of a wide range of faculties, and the intrinsic value of the information so derived is of use in after life. The seeds of weeds constitute one division, and in this connection a collection of weed seeds for illustration purposes is most important. Unfortunately, as the pamphlet refers to further points out, it is not difficult to make a fairly large and representative collection of weed seeds in almost any district in Canada. There are a number of weeds that occur practically everywhere. On the other hand, a great many are associated with certain crops, or with certain types of soil, or are limited to particular sections of the country. One of the weed seeds with which every child should be made acquainted is Lamb's Quarters. This weed occurs throughout Canada in gardens as well as in cultivated fields. Another common kind is Wild Buckwheat, a weed that is general in cereal crops. A third is Wild Oats, a noxious weed that is similar in shape to the cultivated oat but can be easily distinguished from it. A fourth is Wild Mustard, which is the commonest and one of the most injurious weeds belonging to the mustard family, of which the well known varieties are Hare's Ear mustard, and Tumbling mustard, and two less known, Indian mustard and Black mustard. All these and more than a hundred other weeds are described and illustrated, and methods of eradication in the bulletin referred to.

Cattle Export Arrangements.

The Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture and the Department generally have been busy for some time past making arrangements for the export of beef cattle from this side under the changed conditions brought about by the removal of the British embargo. An export cattle section at each stock yard, separate from the accommodation of the general supply, is being provided, and a suitable method of tagging and veterinary inspection arranged for. An effort is also being made to arrange with the steamship companies for adequate carrying space on a regular schedule at rates consistent with the business that may be expected. Necessary publicity to the regulations under which matters will be conducted is being given along with advice as to the kind of cattle required. It is emphasized that unless shipping is undertaken with some sort of uniformity as to quality and supply, the trade will not develop to the extent necessary to make it of general benefit to the country's live stock industry.

The Live Stock Market.

According to the Dominion Live Stock Branch weekly market reports, young calves are not being liquidated to quite the same extent as they were in 1922. The report on March 8, from Toronto, was that the demand for veal had lessened, and from Montreal, that the quantity of light unfinished calves on hand had lowered the prices of all grades.

The total sales of live stock this year up to date, compared with the same period last year at the principal markets, were reported as: 115,494 cattle against 98,533; 20,903 calves against 22,554; 209,164 hogs against 159,459; and 48,336 sheep against 45,835. It will be noticed that only calves show a decrease. Toronto, on March 8, reported the sale of ten loads of the best feeding steers in anticipation of the new store cattle export trade at from $6.75 to $7 per hundred in the yards. Winnipeg reports a liberal enquiry for stockers and feeders at values listing up well in line with the preceding week. Edmonton reports a much keener demand for stockers and feeders.

"The Child's First School is the Family"—Froebel.

Training for Unselfishness—By May E. Wilson

Not long ago I heard a very lovable woman say, "If my parents had realized when I was a child, they would have spared me many tears. I was allowed my own way in everything and grew up a disagreeable and selfish girl. Later, when I had to leave home and go among people I found I had to reform myself to be even tolerated. It was a long heart-breaking task, which I had to struggle through alone, overcoming habits which might easily have been kept from becoming habits if I had been guided wisely in my childhood."

Many parents seem to overlook or underestimate the importance of the first appearance of undesirable tendencies in their children which can be overcome, if properly treated while children are still young.

Ill-temper, selfishness, teasing, and fault-finding can be kept from becoming unlovely characteristics if a wise guide gives help at the right time.

At the root of wrong-doing one can always find selfishness. It besets the only child in a home where adults seem to exist to please and spoil him, as well as the little waif on the street where to "have," he has to "snatch." For either of these children, the kindergarten is a blessing. Here in happy surroundings he learns to share in work and play—to give as well as take.

Forcing Rhubarb.

It is quite an easy matter to secure a succession of fine rhubarb from December to May, by which time garden rhubarb becomes obtainable. The following is the method adopted at the Invermere, B.C., Experimental Station: Old stools of rhubarb are broken up into sets in May and planted in well manured grounds during the summer. By autumn the crowns are in good shape, and are lifted and stored in a shed or cellar which is not frost proof. As needed, the crowns are taken and packed tightly in boxes, in moss, well watered, and placed in the furnace room of the basement where the shoots soon develop.

Another method of forcing rhubarb has been tried successfully at Kentville, N.S., Experimental Station. Clumps of rhubarb which had been two years planted from seedlings were forced under a bench in the greenhouse. These clumps are dug in the fall and allowed thoroughly to freeze before forcing. They were taken inside on January 16 and placed under the bench January 18. Some sand was scattered around the roots to hold moisture. Canvases were placed around the bench to exclude light. The first rhubarb was ready February 3rd and it was finished by March 30th. The area occupied was 22 square feet; the yield was $9.75 pounds, the yield per square foot being 4.07 pounds.

The Live Stock Market.

According to the Dominion Live Stock Branch weekly market reports, young calves are not being liquidated to quite the same extent as they were in 1922. The report on March 8, from Toronto, was that the demand for veal had lessened, and from Montreal, that the quantity of light unfinished calves on hand had lowered the prices of all grades.

The total sales of live stock this year up to date, compared with the same period last year at the principal markets, were reported as: 115,494 cattle against 98,533; 20,903 calves against 22,554; 209,164 hogs against 159,459; and 48,336 sheep against 45,835. It will be noticed that only calves show a decrease. Toronto, on March 8, reported the sale of ten loads of the best feeding steers in anticipation of the new store cattle export trade at from $6.75 to $7 per hundred in the yards. Winnipeg reports a liberal enquiry for stockers and feeders at values listing up well in line with the preceding week. Edmonton reports a much keener demand for stockers and feeders.

Here a child learns to hang up his wraps; to care for his rubbers; to sit erect, overcoming a desire to slide in his chair; to obey the directions of the teacher, given sometimes by voice, sometimes by the piano; to yield his individual desire and do the thing that is right for him to do at that moment.

The child who at home makes no effort to help himself in putting on his wraps, who sticks out his feet for someone to put on his rubbers, is encouraged to try and do these things for himself, not only by the teacher, but most of all by the sight of the more independent children delightedly accomplishing the task of slipping on rubbers, putting on coats and struggling successfully with slippery buttons.

But perhaps the games help most to develop unselfishness. Early in life one needs to learn to share—to be a good loser—to relinquish smilingly to someone else, and for five days a week kindergarten offers a splendid opportunity.

In a large group of children, where each has equal rights, the selfish child comes to see the need of respecting those rights, which he does by waiting his turn and sharing with others.

And so the pictures, songs, stories, games and handwork open up to him the world about him and lead him from selfishness, out of himself, to unselfishness.

Drinking fountains whose interior parts can not be reached, may be cleaned with scalding water and a big handful of shot. Fill the fountain about a quarter full of hot water and then pour in the shot. Shake the vessel briskly so that the shot will scrape along the bottom and sides of the fountain. This will remove the scum and make the vessel clean and sweet.

Dry feet will make a stranger of the doctor.

KEEP THEM WORKING

Kendall's Spavin Treatment is the old reliable, safe remedy for all cases of spavin, splint, curb, ringbone, bony growth and lameness from other causes, known for more than forty years as Kendall's Spavin Cure. It keeps the horses working—not limping. What it has done for others, it will do for you. Keep a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Treatment handy so you can use it quickly when the need arises. A bottle may save a horse for you. It's worth while to be ready. Ask your dealer the next time you are in town. Your advertisement out to remind you. Sold everywhere. Get a free copy of "A Treatise on the Horse" at your druggist's, or write us. "Regalia" for Horse treatment also "Refined" for Human use.

Cheer up. Spring is on the way.

Mrs. J. H. Meikle spent the week-end in Brockville.

Mr. D. Meikle, Oakville, spent a few days in town this week.

Mrs. E. Myers is spending the Easter holidays in Toronto.

Miss Mary Dillen, Ottawa, is home for the Easter vacation.

Mr. Archie Wright, Montreal, is visiting at his home here.

Mr. George Shennette returned home on Friday last from Oshawa.

Miss Clara Harrison, Ottawa is home for the week-end holiday.

Mr. J. Casselman, Montreal, spent a few days at the home of Mr. Chas. Stata.

Mr. J. W. Weston of Toronto is spending the Easter holidays with his family.

Miss Rita Pariseau is spending the week-end with her mother, Mrs. M. Pariseau.

Mrs. Ed. Myers left for Toronto and Hamilton Friday to visit her daughters during Easter.

Miss Sarah Stata has returned home after spending the past few weeks in Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Meikle and Miss Helena spent a couple of days in Montreal this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Bennett, Montreal, are spending the Easter holiday at the home of Mr. John Sutfell.

Misses Boyd, Smith and Cameron of the M. C. I. staff, left for their respective homes on Thursday to spend their Easter holidays.

Died—Cryderman—At Calgary, Alta., on March 20th, 1923, Baillie F. Cryderman, B.A., formerly of Osnaburgh Centre, and at one time a student at M.C.I., in his 37th year.

Mr. W. H. Workman was taken very ill at Rosedale on Saturday night, with ulceration of the stomach, a trouble which kept him in a New York Hospital for several months in 1920.

Everybody today is interested in automobiles. It is a delight to the eye to see the fifteen new 1923 models of Canada's Standard Cars during Motor Show Week announced in this issue.

W. Marsh & Son have just received a complete new stock of all the latest Victor records that have been put on the market since the first of the year. Call and get your music for Easter and hear the latest hits of the season.

Real bargains—10-inch double-sided Victor Records at 40 cents each. Also Victor Red Seal Records at greatly reduced prices. We must clear out this stock. Come up stairs and save money.—J. Miles Whitteker.

Everybody should turn out and visit Motor Show Week at W. H. Fetterly & Co's Show Rooms and New Garage showing their appreciation of the beautiful exhibit of cars privileged to see on this occasion.

No mess and muss, no stain or blister, or too tender skin, when you use Williams' Camphorated Mustard Cream. Just rub it in and it takes away soreness, stiffness, congestion and pain—35c a jar at druggists.

W. H. Fetterly & Co's Show Rooms and New Garage will open every evening until 10 P.M. during Motor Show Week, March 31st to April 9th inclusive. If you cannot attend during the day come some evening.

Greater bargains than ever at the big Liquidation Sale of Furniture and Rugs at W. Marsh & Son for the next 4 days, Saturday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. A chance of a lifetime to refurbish your home at unheard of prices.

Thirty-two freighters, most of them built in Great Britain, will be placed in service on the Great Lakes this year. H. B. Clarke, secretary-treasurer of the Matthews Steamship company, testified his week at the Royal Commission inquiry into an alleged lake grain rate combination. The steamers, he said, were assigned for the lake and river travel.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Shannon of Read, Ont., spent the week-end the guests of Rev. Father Meagher.

Yes, it's true. The Junior Red Cross is holding its Bazaar on Saturday, March 31st in W. & J. Meikle's Carpet Rooms.

Miss Helen Weston of Ottawa is spending the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Weston.

Look for the silver lining. One of the nicest things about the month of March is that the very next month is April.

An 18000 Rolls-Royce car is not a bigger improvement over the one-horse shay than is Williams' Camphorated Mustard Cream over the old-fashioned messy, blistering mustard plaster—35c a jar at druggists.

Skinned alive, is the way you feel after using ordinary mustard plasters. Williams' Camphorated Mustard Cream has all the good qualities of mustard without the burn and blister. At druggists—35c a jar. It is wonderful too for the children.

If you feel "faint and hungry" when doing your shopping, just have afternoon tea at the Junior Red Cross Bazaar in Meikle's Carpet Rooms, Saturday afternoon, March 31st.

Open and closed models of Canada's Standard Cars, McLaughlin-Buick and the Overland Four will be on exhibition Motor Show Week, March 31st to April 9th inclusive. Don't miss the opportunity. Help make it a success by visiting W. H. Fetterly & Co's Show Rooms and New Garage particularly at this time.

The reading at the St. Lawrence water gauge at present is 22 8-10 ft. This means the river is still above normal 4 1/2 ft., making a shortage of head at Light and Power plant of 4 1/2 ft. Until the water goes down, the light and power cannot be brought up to proper voltage, but some help can be gained by shutting off all lights not needed, which we ask the citizens to do once again. Keep off heaters, and by doing so, you will notice an improvement. If the above request is not carried into effect, what will happen? Lights will continue to be dim, power bad, and no one will be able to use electric irons, etc. Now, please help out, and don't waste any power.—By request of Light & Power Commission.

At Cornwall on Wednesday, before Mr. Justice Lennox in the spring assizes, an action was heard. Lannin vs. London Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and E. V. Dodge, to recover $4,000 from the company on a renewed policy and against the agent, Dodge, alternatively, for $4,000 for breach of trust, in that he agreed to place new insurance and failed to do so. The judge struck out the jury in this case. The defence by the company was "no contract," and the agent denied that he had made any binding agreement to place new insurance. At the conclusion of the trial the judge dismissed the case against Dodge also company and reserved judgment as against the defendant, Dodge. On Friday last at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, he dismissed the case against Dodge also and ordered the plaintiff Lannin, to pay costs of the action.

Is a Board of Education responsible for the mistakes or alleged mistakes of school nurses? This is the question that confronts the St. Thomas Board of Education and will be decided in the near future. A request has been received from A. B. Ellis, a resident of St. Thomas, for $3 for medical attention to his son, William Ellis, a student at the Myrtle Street school. Mr. Ellis claims that the boy was examined by the school nurse some time ago, and reported to be suffering from defective hearing. The nurse advised the parents to take the lad to a doctor for treatment, which they did, and the doctor examined the boy and found his hearing normal. Mr. Ellis enclosed the doctor's certificate, and added that it was time something was done to curb such action, as, he claimed, he had had his boy's tonsils and adenoids removed last year at a cost of $50, by order of educational authorities when the boy did not need it.

Ever hear a REAL radio? Your chance will be at the Junior Red Cross Bazaar Curiosity Shop—chuck full of old and new curiosities. Saturday, March 31st.

Cornwall has now joined with other towns in dispensing with holding its municipal elections during the New Year holidays. At the regular meeting of the town council on Friday night Councilor Larin introduced a by-law, fixing the date for the election on the first Monday in December and nominations on the last Monday in November in each year and the by-law was given the necessary reading and passed. The election for members of the public school board will also be held on the same day as the municipal elections and the vote will be by closed ballot.

Home-made Bread, Cakes, Cookies Candy, Pop-Corn and all the Easter "goodies" at the Junior Red Cross Bazaar in Meikle's Carpet Rooms, Saturday afternoon, March 31st.
